Skewered Southwest Steak

1 Beef Flank Steak
Marinade:
1/3 cup light soy sauce
3 tablespoons olive oil
6 large garlic cloves
1 cup packed cilantro leaves & stems plus extra for garnish
1 tablespoon jalapeno hot sauce (Tabasco)
2 1/2 teaspoons ground cumin
1/4 cup fresh lime juice (1 lime) plus 1 for garnish

Soak 12-12 inch wooden skewers in water while preparing ingredients. Preheat broiler.

Trim any excess fat from the steak and slice it thinly at a 45 degree angle across the grain.

Peel the garlic cloves and pulse in the blender, then add the rest of the marinade ingredients and pulse until well combined. The garlic and cilantro should be very fine.

Pour the marinade over the steak in a large bowl turning to coat. Refrigerate for 10 minutes. Thread the meat on the skewers and broil 2-4 inches from heat source for 3-4 minutes per side (turning once). If you're really in a hurry skip skewers and just broil the meat. Serve garnished with lime and cilantro sprays, as desired. Rice or tortillas make a nice accompaniment to this dish. Serves 6.

Chill out with cookies and ice cream

CARAMEL APPLE COOKIE SUNDAES

COOKIE:

1-1/4 Cups (2-1/2 sticks) margarine or butter, softened
3/4 cup firmly packed brown sugar
1/2 cup granulated sugar
1 egg

3 cups Quaker oats (quick or old fashioned, uncooked)
1-1/2 cups all purpose flour
1 tsp. baking soda
1 tsp ground cinnamon
1/2 tsp. salt (optional)
1 cup chopped apple (about 1 medium)
1/2 cup chopped peanuts, walnuts or pecans

ICE CREAM TOPPING:

Vanilla ice cream
Caramel ice cream topping

Heat over to 375 degrees. Beat together margarine and sugars until creamy. Add egg and vanilla; beat well. Add combined oats, flour, baking soda, cinnamon and salt; mix well. Stir in apple and nuts; mix well.

Drop by rounded tablespoonfuls onto ungreased cookie sheet. Bake 10 to 12 minutes. Cool 1 minute on cookie sheet; remove to wire rack. Cool completely.

ABOUT 2-1/2 DOZEN COOKIES, 15 SUNDAES

To prepare sundaes, crumble one cookie onto bottom of dessert dish. Top with a scoop of ice cream and about 1 tbsp. ice cream topping; sprinkle with one additional cookie, crumbled.

TACO SOUP

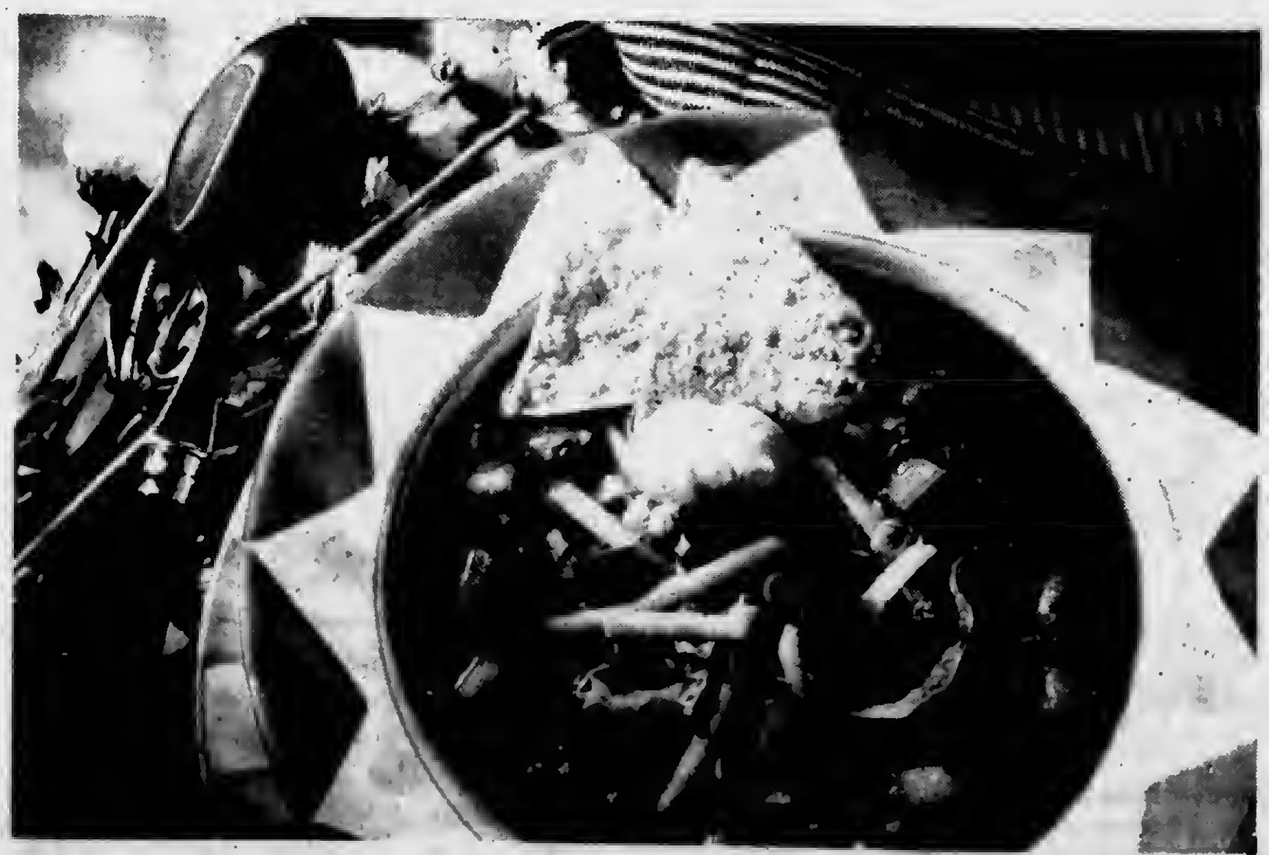
SOUP

1 Pound extra lean ground beef
1 medium (1/2 cup) onion, chopped
1 medium green pepper, chopped
1 (1 1/4-oz) package taco seasoning mix
1 (1 qt.) bottle (4 cups) veg. tomato juice
1 cup thick and chunky salsa or picante sauce

TOPPINGS
Land O Lakes light sour cream or No Fat Sour Cream
Shredded lettuce
Sliced green onion
Chopped tomato
Shredded cheddar cheese
Baked tortilla chips

In 4 qt. saucepan cook ground beef, onion and green pepper over medium high heat, stirring occasionally, until beef is no longer pink (6 to 10 minutes); drain off fat. Stir in seasoning mix; continue cooking for 1 minute.

Stir in vegetable tomato juice and salsa. Continue cooking, stirring occasionally, until heated through (3 to 5 minutes). To serve, spoon soup into serving bowls; garnish with desired toppings. Yield: 6 servings.



Chef says we are riding on 'Fusion cooking' wave

by Anita Anderson

Chef John D'Amelio, executive chef of The Whitehall Hotel, 105 East Delaware Place in Chicago, realizes maintaining a tradition of fine dining can be a tall order. The Whitehall stands with the rest of Chicago's prestigious dining places and is a haven for celebrities like The Rolling Stones who preferred to stay in the 221 room hotel instead of a larger facility.

D'Amelio feels restaurants are incorporating food from all of its ethnic backgrounds thus, fusion cooking comes of age.

"It's a combination of foods from the past which present nothing but good results. We won't walk in the shadow of the culinary elite. We want to make our own mark on the magnificent mile and give people not only wonderful food but presentation that go hand in hand with fine dining," he continued.

"We are a boutique-type hotel and thus I feel our dishes come under that category, different, special and memorable. Take for instance the Grilled Salmon over Choyote squash and blue corn polenta on the side. This is a great example of fusion cooking. We also offer a toasted corn with a soy, mustard glaze as a side dish with the salmon," the chef added.

"When I eat out I prefer a simplified menu.

"My great-grandmother was a great influence in my culinary career. We lived in New Jersey and it was the type of home where you could walk in anytime and find a bit of polenta on the counter to sample. She allowed me to be a helper as she cooked and it was flattering", the chef said.

On a typical evening, Whitehall Place offers about 11 entrees on its menu ranging in price from $13.50 to $26.50 for the oven roasted rack of lamb with mustard herb crist, Rosemary reduction, fresh asparagus and Mango Salsa, to the Farfalle with Duck Sausage, fresh peas, shaved parmesan in natural juice from $13.50.

Other unusual entrees include the Penne Pasta with Roast Pepper Puree, Teardrop Tomato, Spinach Leaves, Crispy Pancetta and Roasted Tomato for $13.95 or the Herb Crusted Tuna with Oriental Greens, Gin Flavored Sauce and Julienne Fried Leeks for $19.95.

Desserts are another matter. They must be seen, eaten and enjoyed to be believed. Each night a few spectacular creations are offered.

D'Amelio offers recipes for soup, dessert and a wonderful chicken breast. They follow:

Whitehall Place

GRILLED BREAST OF CHICKEN WITH TRUFFLE WHIPPED POTATO AND BORNOISE VEGETABLE

- 4 8 oz. chicken breast split boneless and skinless
- 1 red bell pepper -large dice
- 1 yellow bell pepper-large dice
- 1 green zucchini-large dice
- 6 shitake mushrooms-large dice
- 4 cups of chicken stock
- 2 tbsp. whole butter
- 2 sprigs fresh thyme picked and chopped
- 5 Idaho potatoes peeled and largely diced
- 2 Tbsp. truffle oil
- 1 Tsp. fresh garlic chopped fine
- salt and pepper to taste
- 2 tsp. olive oil

To begin, first prepare the truffle whipped potatoes. Place the peeled potatoes in 3 cups of chicken stock along with 1 tsp. of garlic in a heavy sauce pan. Boil potatoes until soft enough to be mashed. Once mashed, add 1 tbsp. of buttter, 2 tbsp. of truffle oil and salt and pepper to taste. Set aside in warm place.

The next step is to lightly brush chicken with olive oil and place on the grill. Cook for approximately 8 to 10 minutes or until done. Should be tender and moist. Saute all vegetables together in a tsp. of olive oil and remaining tsp. of garlic. One cup of chicken stock and reduce by half.

Add fresh thyme and whole butter to finish the sauce. Place potatoes in a pastry bag with large star tip and pipe them onto the center of plate forming a small cone shape. If you don't have a pastry bag, an ice cream scoop may be substituted. Press 2 pieces of grilled chicken against the whipped potatoes so they are side ways and standing upright.

Spoon vegetables evenly around the chicken and potatoes and sauce to cover the bottom of the plate.

CORN AND CRAB CHOWDER

- 1 Cup Cleaned Lump Crabmeat
- 3 Cups of Corn
- 2 1/2 Cups of Diced Potato
- 1 Cup of Chopped Shallot
- 1/2 Cup of Chopped Garlic
- 3 Pieces of Fresh Thyme
- 4 Oz. White Wine
- 3 Oz. Port Wine
- 1 Qt. of Heavy Cream
- 1 Qt. of Half & Half
- Salt and Pepper
- 1 Qt. of Chicken Stock
- 2 Tbsp. Olive Oil

Peel three whole potatoes and dice. Slice corn off the cob. Saute corn, shallot, garlic, fresh thyme in 2 tbsp. of olice oil, about five minutes. Add chicken stock and bring to a boil. Add white wine and port wine and reduce on high heat for 15 minutes. Add half and half and heavy cream to the soup.

Blend all ingredients in food processor. At the end, add your potatoes and let cook over low heat until potatoes are soft. Season with salt and pepper.

MASCARPONE CREME BRULEE

3 CUPS HEAVY CREAM
12 OZ MASCARPONE CHEESE
1 1/2 CUPS HALF AND HALF
1 TSP. VANILLA
18 EGG YOLKS
1 CUP SUGAR

Combine all ingredients and strain through a fine sieve. Pour about 6 oz. of mixture in shallow soup bowls. Place on sheet pan and pour water into the pan to create water bath. Bake at 325 degrees for 30-40 min. (until firm) Let cool completely. Sprinkle with sugar and brown under broiler. Makes 6-8 servings.

Anniversary Survey Reveals America's Favorite Cheese

(NAPS)—What do the NFL, Chanel No. 5, the Baby Ruth candy bar and County Line Cheese have in common? They're all celebrating their 75th anniversary.

Since its accidental discovery more than 4,000 years ago, cheese has become a staple of the American diet. Historical records note the Pilgrims packed cheese as part of their provisions when they crossed the Atlantic Ocean.

Just imagine life without cheese—no Cheeseburgers, no Macaroni and Cheese, no Ham and Cheese Sandwiches, no Pizza, no Cheese Fondue. And what would wine tastings be without Cheese and Crackers? In fact, cheese is so loved and comes in so many varieties, more than 2,000 to be exact., that the average American consumes nearly 24 pounds a year. County Line Cheese offers a complete assortment of natural chunk, shredded and specialty cheeses.

But what's the most popular cheese? In conjunction with its 75th anniversary, County Line Cheese conducted a national survey of adults and discovered that more than a quarter of the population, 28 percent, consider Cheddar their favorite.

CHEDDAR CRUST APPLE PIE

INGREDIENTS

- 4 Granny Smith apples (peeled, cored and sliced)
- 4 Jonathan apples (peeled, cored and sliced)
- 2 Tbl. Butter (softened)
- 1/2 C. Brown sugar
- 1/2 C. Sugar
- 1/2 tsp. Ground cinnamon
- 1/2 C. Flour
- 1 C. County Line Mild Cheddar Cheese (grated)
- 2 Tbl. Melted butter (for top of pie)
- 3 Tbl. Sugar (for top of pie)
- 2 Frozen pie crusts or favorite pie dough recipe

SERVES 8

In a large bowl, add apples, butter, brown sugar, sugar, cinnamon and flour. Fold ingredients together with a rubber spatula until well mixed. Place half of the grated County Line Mild Cheddar Cheese in the bottom of the pie shell and fill with apple mixture. On a floured surface sprinkle the remaining grated County Line Cheddar and roll out the other pie crust over the cheese. Once rolled out to 1/8 inch thick, roll crust back onto rolling pin. Unroll on top of apples, cheese-side down. Press sides to seal, and score top with a paring knife. Brush top with melted butter and dust with sugar. Place in preheated 350° oven and bake until golden brown, about 20 minutes. Remove and allow to cool before cutting.

Oak Lawn Park District will plant trees

Oak Lawn Park District board of commissioners met Monday at a special meeting. Commissioners voted 4-1 with Paul Karr voting against purchasing 30 young trees until the Wolfe Wildlife Refuge has a chance to develop naturally. It was voted that Oak Lawn Park District spend $10,000 to buy 30 young trees. Therese Carberry made a proposal to cut the tree budget to $5,000 but lost to a 3-2 vote.

Audiovisual statistic have grown at Oak Lawn

Summary of Library Board Meeting, April 18, 1995

Oak Lawn Library audiovisual circulation statistics have grown by more than 35 percent since the beginning of 1995 according to an annual report given to the Oak Lawn Library board by Susan Baird, head of the Patron Service department, at the board's regular meeting of April 18. She also noted that three additional categories have been added to the video collection: musical, comedies and westerns. Opening the book and video drops on a 24-hour a day basis was listed as part of the accomplishments of the department. A massive inventory and weeding of the fiction area was undertaken and completed during the year.

On the down side was an anticipated increase of 13 percent for subscriptions for the periodicals area in 1996. Magazines and journals in that area are in high demand for in house use by library patrons.

During the meeting the board did an annual policy review of Transition of New Trustees to the Board, Orientation of New Board Members, Bereavement Observance and Adult Community Programs. Also approved was the Illinois Public Library Annual Report which is required by the Illinois State Library.

Lois Gasteyer, board president, presented plaques of appreciation to retiring board members NANCY CZERWIEC and Robert Thompson, neither had run for re-election in April. Newly elected board members Patricia Roberts and Lee Stein will be sworn in and seated at the May 13 regular meeting. A board reorganization will take place on that date.

The board approved payment of $62,614 for library materials; $22,748 for operating funds; and $176,118 for personnel.

The Western Golf awards scholarships

The Western Golf Association has recently awarded Charles "Chick" Evans college scholarships to outstanding caddies in the Chicago area. The awards, announced by the WGA President, are part of the national program administered by the WGA's Evans Scholarship foundation.

Scholarships are awarded on a competitive basis considering caddy record, the need for financial aid and the high school academic record. They are one year grants which may be renewed for up to four years with an estimated excess in value of $10,000. Evans scholarships include full tuition and housing, usually at one of the 14 major universities where the foundation owns and maintains Evans Scholars Chapter Houses.

This year from Marist High School, Patrick Cunningham has been awarded an Evans Scholarship, along with Kevin Kavanaugh (Hickory Hills), Jake Orbon (Beverly), and Kevin Grens (Alsip), who were awarded scholarships earlier this year. Cunningham, son of Loretta and Martin Cunninham of Oak Lawn, is a caddie from Ridge Country Club and will be attending Northern Illinois University.

Susan M. Kramer
Independent Skin Care Consultant

Hello and Welcome to the lst issue of Village View's Bridal Column. It gives me great pleasure to represent Mary Kay cosmetics and this paper in bringing you bridal tips from myself and local bridal industry pros. In my bakeground as a skin care teacher and consultant, I have learned that this is one of the happiest times on your life and yet, the most hectic. You have many questions and deserve fast easy answers. This column is meant to service your needs and questions; please feel free to write in and ask your questions and they will be answered. In this first issue, I'll do two things: tell you about my background and give you some tips from my field:

I am an Oak Lawn resident and have been teaching skin care for Mary Kay Cosmetics for 2 and 1/2 years. Mary Kay is my career and since I am my clients' educational tool in the skin care and color cosmetic market place: I attend many trainings. I offer my clients tips from the pros, personal-shopping service, and no charge for all services (bridal makeovers being one of those services). I am active in the Oak Lawn community (you should always give back): Oak Lawn Chamber of Commerce, Business and Professional Women's Associaton, Leads Club International, Women in Management, Ambassador's Club, and Christ Hospital Auxiliary.

Enough about me, here's some tips for you. Since most of you will get your nails, hair and makeup done for your wedding day, here's a few ideas. Look for a salon or consultant that takes the time to listen to what you want (this is not the time to try a new look) and that, if at all possible will come to your house on your wedding day. I advise, especially with hair and makeovers, have your consultation months or weeks before your wedding. In the case of makeovers, if you aren't using a skin care program-START. Your face is going through many changes and great skin care products will help get it back to normal before the wedding.

- DO USE PROPER SKIN CARE

Starting a program months or weeks before puts your best face forward. Even expensive makeup doesn't look good over poor skin.

-DO USE WATERPROOF MASCARA

Self explanatory, also-you don't want runny eyes on your or photos or videos.

-DO USE LIPLINER AND LIPSTICK

Use matte not frosted lipstick, line lips with pencil (stops bleeding and gives definition).

DO USE TRANSLUCENT FACE POWDER

Sets makeup and provides a matte finish. Helps control oil break through and shine. Choose shade closest to natural skin tone.

DO WEAR THE CORRECT FOUNDATION SHADE

Gives skin smooth, even finish and guards against environmental elements. NOTE: Select a non-comediogenic foundation (won't clog your pores); if you aren't used to wearing foundation, it won't feel like a mask. Always blend well, especially around the jawline and hairline. Your throat and face should match and be natural looking (foundation is not supposed to add color).

DO USE COLOR HARMONY

If your dress is white, you can use warms, cools,or neutrals-but not all. If the dress is ivory, use warms or or neutrals. Always make sure lip color, cheek color and nail color are in same family (warm, cool, or neutral).

DO USE CORRECT BLUSHER APPLICATION

Blush should always provide a soft glow, never streaked or blotchy. Remember, wherever you first lay your brush gets the most color, You don't want the red streak so start at your temple (by hairline) and brush down.

DO WEAR MAKEUP

Even if you don't usually wear it-do it on this day. You'll need some color and done right, makeup is made to natur ally compliment what you already have-not covered up.

I LOOK FORWARD TO SERVING YOU AS YOUR BRIDAL COLUMNIST; REMEMBER, THIS IS YOUR COLUMN. SEND IN ANY QUESTIONS OR INFORMATION THAT YOU THINK MAY HELP YOUR FELLOW BRIDES. SEND INFORMATION TO SUE KRAMER C/O 9720 S. PARKSIDE AVE., OAK LAWN, IL. 60453.

Your financial future

A WEAK FOUNDATION-

A home should not be the cornerstone of your retirement portfolio.

The ancient Greeks believed that man and his property had to be studied and understood for "the management of household affairs" (the translation for the Greek work we know as economics) to be successful.

The poet Hesiod put household economics into an interesting perspective: "First house," he said, "then wife then oxen for the plough."

And so it has been that housing, through the ages, has been the cornerstone of most people's investment strategy.

Obviously, things have changed from Hesiod's time in terms of gender equality, but the perceived importance of a house, ahead of all other expenditures, remaines in place for most people.

That could be a mistake. A study released recently by Oppenhiemer Funds and Money Magazine shows that a vast majority of Americans-70 percent of pre-retires and almost 85 percent of retired people-believe that buying a house is one of the best ways for a young person to save for retirement. Survey participants rated a house behind only stocks and equity mutual funds as the investment that would provide the highest return over the next 20 years.

It's not that a home is a bad investment experts say, but rather that it should not be the central focus of an investment /retirement portfolio.

"If anybody thinks the house will "take care of my retirement, the have probably not thought through what they really need for retirement." The idea that your house will provide for your retirement, in general, is not a healthy notion to have.

It's an emotionally changed issue, because the thought of a house not providing for retirement goes against what generations of Americans have preached and lived.

The current generation of retirees and near-retirees lived through what just people consider the greatest period of residential housing appreciation in history. But the current generation of homeowners and home buyers isn't likely to see the same kind of return, meaning they will need a more diverse retirement nest egg.

According to data compiled by Morgan Stanley Capital International, residential housing provided an annualized, average return of. 7..2 percent between 1945 and 1993; the Standard & Poors 500, considered a good indicator of domestic stock market performance, returned 11.7 percent during the same period.

But over the past 10 years, residential real estate returned just 4.4 percent, and that drops to less than 4 percent-or just enought to beat inflation-during the last five years.

By comparison, the Standard & Poors 500 has an annualized average rate of return of better than 14.5 percent over the most recent 5 and 10 year periods.

Real estate has done a little better than inflation and not much better than cash, but anyone who bought at a market high or into a market that is having tough times is probably under water right now."

"People who don't look at what is happening in real estate could be making a dangerous assumption, it has a place in someone's portfolio, but it is not one of the best places to save for retirement.

A house isn't a good retirement vehicle for more reasons than its average appreciation. All too often, it doesn't build a sufficient nest egg because homeowners are unrealistic in their expectations for both returns and future lifestyle.

For example, a family home that costs $50,000 in 1965 and sells for $300,000 today would appear to provide a significant profit for retirement. But the family still has to live somewhere, and that may be a condo or a smaller house, but chances are good, it won't be a shack and that it will cost far more than the $50,000 original investment.

If it costs $150,000, the family still has $150,000 to put toward retirement, but that won't go far in this era of longer life spans, higher costs, and smaller pensions. In fact, one reason so many retirees feel comfortable about having the house as a retirement savings vehicle is that they worked during an era when company pensions were common. The proceeds from their house supplemented pension income.

Most of the current generaton of workers have to largely provide for their own pensions. Residential real estate as a principal investment is not sufficiently liquid or diversified to provide the kind of safe retirement so many people still seem to expect.

"A house is a use asset; which makes it more difficult to make the best, most logical financial decision."

"Some people pour everything they have into a house, and expect it to appreciate and so support them later on, but I doubt it will provide the kind of return

"Some people pour everything they have into a house, and expect it to appreciate and support them later on, but I doubt it will provide the kind of return they will need to live comfortably for 20 or 30 or more years of retirement.

What's ironic about the real estate warning manifesting from the Oppenheimer Study is that it comes at a time when many financial advisors are advising their clients to pay off mortgages early.

With the return on savings being relatively low, paying off a mortgage early means a guaranteed return of whatever the current mortgage rate is, since the extra amount paid down doesn't accrue that interest any longer. If the mortgage rate exceeds the return from say, money market accounts, many experts advise paying down the mortgage, a strategy that would seem to be at odds with the need to diversify away from real estate.

Again, experts say, it's a matter of moderation; paying down the mortgage is fine for someone with a diversified, portfolio and satisfied with the holdings beyond their income.

"For some one with a broad plan, paying down the mortgage makes sense." "its the all-eggs-in-one-basket people that I worry about. A house is a place to park your car, not your retirement assets.

SEPARATING? DIVORCING?

Your Divorce Lawyer Doesn't Want You To Read This Report

The average person is rarely placed in greater jeopardy-emotionally, financially, and legally than when going through a divorce. The reality of divorce courts is that most litigants leave the courtroom feeling as if they have just been hit by a truck! Even the apparent winner rarely feels good with the outcome.

Divorce Law attempts to fit one of the most painful of adult choices into a legal framework. Some people expect their lawyers to be confessors or even to provide psychological counseling. Others never give their lawyers a chance, regarding them as the enemy when they attempt to compromise with the other side. There are clients who are in such a hurry to conclude their divorce that they waive anything and everything to which they might have a claim.

If you want to avoid the horror stories; if your goal in divorce is a level of self-control, decorum, and reasonableness; if you appreciate your marriage is ending but your parenting will continue; if you don't want to go broke paying legal fees, then call 1-800-294-7311 for the free report.

You do have choices! You can avoid the costly trap of litigation and the problems associated with it! You can take control of your divorce!

Local board invites teens to view village government

by Frank Soczek

Mayor Kolb and the Oak Lawn Village trustees awarded certificates of recognition to participants in the Teens In Local Government program sponsored by Oak Lawn Community High School.

The following students were honored at the Village Board meeting May 9: Tony Filippi, Randy Somersett, Kim Dinwiddie, Amanda Carlson, Ron Bohm, Becky Logsdon, Jeff Rossow, Joanna Forliano, Brian Kotowski, Adam Osmanski, Patrick Preusser, Diane Strumpf, Sonja Ziad and Jennifer Kosik.

A bid opening for a 1995 Walk-In Van (Min. G.W. 14,000lbs) was sent out for re-advertisement for additional bids when only one of the two bids received (from La Beau Bros. of Kankakee, Il.) contained an offer for $42,502.77. Mike Haggerty Pontiac of Oak Lawn submitted a bid with no specific dollar amount enumerated.

Petition #95-7, an appeal of the Planning and Development Commission's denial of James Kahriman's request for re-zoning of 9439 S. Central Ave. was tentatively approved by a 4-2 vote after a lengthy debate. The petitioner has requested permission to utilize the property (currently zoned R-1, residential) for "employee" parking for the nearby, now vacant Firestone building.

Trustee Ron Stancik urged the reconsideration, citing what he felt was a lack of parking availability contributing to the stagnation of business development in the area. Neighbors adjacent the proposed parking lot expressed concerns about the additional traffic and aesthetics that would ultimately effect residential property values, as well as the safety of local school children. With trustees Joy and Streit dissenting, the petition was remanded to the Village Attorneys for revision to assure the adjacent residential property (owned by the petitioner) would remain intact as a "buffer" for the proposed project.

The board voted 6-0 to deny a petition for re-zoning of 5737 W. 87th St. Representing the property owner, attorney Lawrence Leibforth urged the board to reconsider the previous denial of the Planning and Development Commission for rezoning the existing property from C-2 (General Service Business) to R-3 (Multi-Family.) Leibforth cited the vacant, former service station as an eyesore subject to frequent "fly dumping," noting 13 of 16 neighbors "polled" favoring re-development. Leibforth further added the owner has attempted to market the property for four years, with no offers tendered.

While Trustee Holesha recommended a meeting with adjacent property owners to review the petition, Trustee Streit decried the trend of "spot zoning" that he felt was "decimating" the commercial base of the village. Mayor Kolb added that he felt the area in question has never been a viable commercial "center" compared to other areas in the village. It was further noted that much of 87th Street is currently utilized for multi-family housing similar to that proposed by the petitioner.

Trustee Streit sparked a vituperative debate over the request for approval of the consultant selected by the Comprehensive Plan Advisory committee. Urging the one hundred thousand dollar contract be sent out for public bid, Streit reminded board members of the previously failed Heart of Oak Lawn project that was included on the consultant's list of "qualifications." The recommendation was approved with a 4 to 1 vote, with Trustee Joy abstaining.

Ordinance #95-9-27, the re-financing of Village Municipal bonds was approved by a 5-1 vote, with Trustee Streit dissenting. Again, the latter criticized the board for not seeking out additional bids, despite an attempted explanation by Village Manager Joseph Faber that the principals involved in the refinancing procedure were acknowledged experts in their field and the fees were competitive.

The semi-monthly financial disbursements were approved by a 5 to 1 vote, with R. Streit dissenting. Streit questioned a $984.58 expenditure to Nelson Marketing that ultimately proved to be a T-shirt purchase order for Village employees, paid for at their own expense. Streit also inquired about a sixteen thousand dollar fee paid to Mantanky Co. of the ill-fated Brandt Project. It was explained that the fee was for work done before the infamous referendum.

A request by Cub Scout Pack #4671 to close Mayfield Ave from 96th to 98th St. to hold a Cubmobile Derby on Saturday, July 22 was approved 6-0.

A request for a waiver of liquor license and fees for the annual Fathers Day Festival at St. Nicholas Greek Orthodox Church at 103rd and Kolmar on June 17th and 18th was approved 6-0.

A request for a Class I liquor license (Restaurant, Liquor, Bar with Entertainment) at 9904-06 Southwest Hwy. (formerly Inn Zone Lounge) was approved 6-0.

Of the new business discussed, Trustee Stancik expressed concern over the lack of timely progress on the Central Ave. street improvements, noting many a lost hubcap or damaged shock absorber as a result. Robt. Streit noted the ticketing by Oak Lawn police of irate Minnick Ave. homeowners who utilized lawn placards to protest the multi-family construction on their block. Despite a passionate plea by Streit for "historic" preservation of this section of the Village, it was revealed that out of eight residents responding to a recent poll, five favored retaining the current R-3 multi-family zoning, two opposed, and one "did not care."

Trustee Joy addressed pending school funding legislation that would possibly result in a loss of over a million dollars to District 123.. Trustee Holesha extended his best wishes to the Muslim community of Oak Lawn in celebration of their Holy Days. Trustee Keane proposed a waiver of the Village vehicle sticker fee for those purchasing a car at the upcoming Village-sponsored car sale.

William Bracken of the Mayor's office of Special Events said a long term answer to fighting crime in Chicago' neighborhoods has been found this year with the implementation of the CAPS program. He said, "getting people together, working together forming a bond" to fight crime remains the key to a successful program.

"There will be," Bracken said, "a CAPS assembly on May 20. It will be at Currie High School (4959 S. Archer) at 12:30. It's going to be a general asscmbly," he said and it will include sector meetings, awards, videos and block club information. He also said about 850 people from the 8th district have volunteered for CAPS thus far. Call (312)767-3621.

Meanwhile, newly elected 23rd Ward Alderman Michael Zalewski, sworn into office May 1 by Mayor Daley, said his top priority this year as alderman is to see to the successful long-term implementation of CAPS in the 23rd Ward.

Despite thc internal controversy that has taken place in the Garficld-Ridge Civic Leaguc,a vote of confidence by its mcmbers to continue to stay i n business received support at the last meeting.

An clection of officers is slated for Monday, May 15 at 7:30 p.m. at Heritage Hall , 5540 S. Narragansette.

The Garfield-Ridge Civic Leaguc a long time conduit of community input, received a letter from Congressman Lipinski last month stating the railroad repairs and strect widening at Archer and Central should be completcd by June.

An unrelated letter from the Illinois Department of Transportation said curb repair on Central from 47th Street to 63rd street should be completed by October 31 with no cost to the community.

Former 23rd Ward Alderman and new City Clerk Jim Laski will be collecting $60 per automobilc for the city window dccals. All automobile owners living in Chicago are required to purchase by July 1.

This fee can be paid directly to the City Clerk's office downtown or at your neighborhood currency exchange or bank with a small charge. Rcmember, drivers whose license plate decals expire this summer pay only $48 to the Secretary of State of Illinois. This is a state tax that is renewable throughout the year for different auto mobiles owners. It is unrelated to city window decals.

Senator Robert Raica (R-24) recently introduced a new get tough bill in thc Illinois legislature in Springfield on railroad tieups locally. If passed, the new law will imposc tough fines on railroads that block crossings here.

Alderman Mike Zalcwski said piggybacking with Raica on this measure in city council and in lobbying the railroads to honor their committment for cooperation is included in his top three goals as a freshman.

Zalewski also said many former politicians, this includes former S tatc Representative Phil Bianco (R-25) in 1980, have tried this unsuccessfully but with help from Congressman Congressman Lipinski (D-3), the voters and taxpayer have better luck. Cook County is the most heavily railroad trafficed county in the nation!

Zalewski also said he will speak with a commissioner from Chicago's Department of Aging to get the senior center slated.

Meanwhile, Holy Cross Hospital's (2701 W. 68th St.) "Serving our Seniors" program will be hosting a lecture and buffet on the last Thursday of each month in the hospital cafeteria. Membership is free. New members are always welcome and the lecture fce is $5 to attend. For more information call (312) 471-7319.

Holy Cross Hospital will also be hosting a community blood drive Friday, May 26 from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. Healthy individuals between the ages of 17 and 70 are invited to arrange an appointment to give by callling (312) 471-5555. Holy Cross Hospital is sponsored by the Sisters of St. Casimir of Chicago, a not for profit institution serving the southwest side of Chicago.

During the month of May, St. Bede's Church at 83rd and Kostner will be offering 24 hour adoration of the Lord Jesus and Blessed Virgin Mary at the Chapel. This is an excellent opportunity for personal reflection in the springtime, post Easter season.

Meanwhile, the Catholic Alumni Club of Chicago will host a singles dance Friday, May 19 at the Marriott Oak Brook at 10:00 p.m. Cost is $8.00 per person. A buffet will precede the dance at 8:00 p.m. for an extra $20.00 charge. Call (312- 726-0735.

The Southwest Archdiocesan Singles will hold a dinner at J.C.'s Pub Saturday, May 20, at 13101 S. Cicero at 5:00 p.m. For reservations call: (312) 585-1812 by May 17.

Stone Church, 6330 W. 127th St., Palos Heights, conducts a "New Beginnings" program every Tuesday night at 7:30 p.m. for rccent divorcees. This is a Christian support group service on the southwest side. Call (708)-385-2770.

Elim Baptist Church conducts a singles meeting every Monday night at 7:00 p.m. in the church basement, 10735 S. Pulaski. Enter through the north doors.

The Alliance for the Mentally Ill of Illinois held their annual meeting on May 12-13, 1995 at the Hilton in Lisle. The theme was recovery from men tal illness. Former First Lady Rosalyn Carter, a longtime advocate of the mcntally ill was invited to speak. Call (217)-522-1403 for more information.

MS "mother of the year"

by Annctte Dixon

Linda Stearns was selected Mother of the Year from scvcral outstanding individuals whose names were forwarded to thc chapter by family members and friends. Linda's story is not only about a woman who is an excmplary mother despite having MS, but a story of strength, love and giving.

Whcn Linda was only 19, she volunteered at Misericordia Home and that is where she mct and fell in love with Charlie.

Charlie was abandoned at birth and has spent his entire first four years in a hospital but Charlic had a dear fricnd Linda who loved him so much that she fought to get him out of the institution and into her home.

Now Charlie is Hydrocephaliac and has a shunt implanted in his head to drain out the fluid. The Doctors didn't expect him to live. Today he is 30 years old and Linda, Charlie, and Gail along with Linda's mother who is 88 years young all share family life together. Family means everyone and everything according to Linda.

There are too many volunteer activities that Linda Is involved with and too numerous to mention in this column.

Linda puts her children first and is an active participant in their lives. She is co-leader of Gail's Girl Scout troop. She is a dedicated mother to both Gail and Charlie and a member of the South Cook MS Support Group and serves as the group's greeter.

She is an advocate on behalf of people with disabilities in Oak Lawn and a well respected member of the community.

Through her volunteer and charitable activities, Linda truly leads a life full of strength, love and giving.

Gail says: "Her favorite line is, if you see yourself as a winner, you'll be one.' And I believe that."

FOOD FOR 'SECONDS'

Georgian wins $25,000 for top chicken recipe

A Georgia homemaker whose hobby is creative cooking is the 1995 national chicken cooking champion.

Mary Louise Lever of Rome, Georgia won $25,000 for her recipe "Baked Spicy Pineapple Balinese Chicken" at the 41st National Chicken Cooking Contest held Friday at Atlanta's Merchandise Mart. Cooks from each of the 50 states plus the District of Columbia competed by cooking their special chicken dish for a panel of food editor judges from leading magazines and newspapers.

Lever is a former school teacher who had previously cooked in the finals of the contest in Hershey, Pennsylvania in 1990.

The winning dish was developed specifically to compete in the contest. The recipe features skinless, boneless chicken breast halves brushed with mustard and coated with gingersnap crumbs. After baking, the chicken is covered with a spicy pineapple sauce.

All five winning dishes followed recent trends toward spicy ethnic recipes. The 1993 winning recipe was Caribbean Chicken Drums developed by Rosemarie Berger of North Carolina. The four top winners all used boneless chicken breast halves. All recipes are available in a 128-page Chicken Cookbook available from The National Broiler Council, Washington, D.C.

The National Chicken Cooking Contest is sponsored by the National Broiler Council and Southeastern Poultry and Egg Association. The contest began in 1949 and is held every other year in major broiler producing states.

SPICY PINEAPPLE BALINESE CHICKEN

4 boneless, skinless chicken breast halves
3 tbs. Dijon mustard
1/2 cup gingersnap crumbs
Spicy Pineapple Sauce: recipe follows
Red bell pepper strips basil sprigs

Between two sheets plastic wrap, place chicken and gently pound to uniform thickness; brush with mustard. In shallow dish, place gingersnap crumbs Add chicken, 1 piece at a time dredging to coat. In non-stick sprayed shallow baking dish, place chicken and refrigerate 20 minutes

Place chicken in 350 degrees F. oven and bake about 20 minutes or until juices run clear and a fork can be inserted in chicken with ease. On 4 individual plates, spoon 1/4 of Pineapple Sauce, and top each with a chicken breast half. Garnish with pepper strips and basil sprigs. Makes 4 servings.

Spicy Pineapple Sauce: in frypan, place 1 tbs. peanut oil and heat to medium temperature. Add 1 minced garlic clove and 1 red onion, chopped. Saute about 2 minutes. Stir in 1/4 cup seasoned rice vinegar and 1 can (8 oz.) crushed pineapple, juice included. Add 1/4 tsp. all spice, 1/4 tsp. red pepper flakes and 2-1/2 tsp. Dijon mustard. Heat, stirring, about 4 minutes or until bubbly and slightly thickened. In blended container, place pineapple mixture and puree until smooth; keep warm. Just before serving, stir in 2 tbs. finely chopped basil and 1/4 cup diced red bell pepper.

Recipes from an appetite for love

AN APPETITE FOR PASSION, a gift book of over 60 seductive recipes available this spring, sheds new light on opportunities to create passion--in the kitchen.

AN APPETITE FOR PASSION shares intimate secrets by way of the stove from such celebrities as Marla Trump along with well-known restauranteurs. The forward is by Laura Esquivel, author of the block-buster book cum movie, Like Water for Chocolate.

With the skilled editing of cookbook author John Willoughby, their recipes reveal a passionate world where cooking, far from being a chore, is a pleasurable adventure in the realm of the senses, where each dish creates an intimate connection between the cook and those who eat it."

The recipes link passion and food in a variety of ways--Lusty oysters with ginger and lime by Marla Trump wife of "The Donald" for starters.

Some recipes make imaginative use of spices; others use such aphrodisiacs as figs and oysters. (Was Marla's secret weapon really Lusty Oysters with ginger and lime?) Others take their cue from the gutsy, earthy but complex Mexican flavors of the dishes.

Regional and even global cuisine is explored through recipes from Rick Bayless' Frontera Grill in Chicago, Rosa Mexicana in New York, The Inn at Anasazi in Santa Fe, and the Eastern and Oriental Express.

Organized into chapters from Starters to Desserts, the book offers such easy dishes as Latin-Style Roast Chicken and Creamy Fresh Coconut to the more complex Lobster Enchildadas and Warm Ripe Figs on a Bed of Roses with Wild Honey. In line with today's health concerns, each chapter offers healthful, low-fat, flavorful recipes such as Red Snapper with Lime-Cilantro Vinaigrette or Cold Herbed Peach Soup.

With information and lore about each recipe, and a light-hearted history of aphrodisiacs, this is a book that will entertain as well as satisfy. AN APPETITE FOR PASSION, a Miramax Book published by Hyperion, is prices at $20 and is available in bookstores now.

Midwestern Country Cooking

By Frank Boblak

Something new is being added to the Village View Newspaper. It is Midwestern Country Cooking. This column will contain recipes and cooking hints on real "old fashioned" cooking.

Yes, in this busy world, it seems we have less time to do more and more. So we go to a fast-food drive-in for a lot of our meals. But, we owe it to ourselves to spend at least one day a week cooking a delicious, "old fashioned" meal.

Before we begin, however, let me introduce myself to you. I am a semi-retired Realtor, having been in the business for most of my adult life. Many of you know my name, but some of you don't. I had offices in Oak Lawn and Burbank. After I sold my business, I have been working on special projects and real estate counseling.

I always enjoyed cooking and baking. Over the years, it would relieve the tensions that are normal in the business world. I forgot my problems as I cooked and baked.

How did it all begin? When I was just four years old, I sat on our kitchen table and watched my mother prepare a meal. I can still picture her cutting up the meats and vegetables for soups and stews. We seldom ate fried foods.

Mom was also a great baker. She prepared an egg bread called "Babka". Some loafs were plain while other had poppy seeds, plums, apples or other fillings.

Mom baked on Saturdays. When she finished, a whole table top was covered with delicacies.

Mom gave me a start. When I was twelve years old, I joined the Boy Scouts. Our overnight hikes were the most fun. Each scout brought his own food and cooking utensils. We cooked outdoors over an open wood fire.

My brothers and sisters and I became quite adept at cooking. We grew up during the depression of the thirties. Although mother prepared the evening meal, we made our own breakfast and lunch. We lost our father, and mother had to work because she was the sole support of our family.

Later I continued my cooking when I was a soldier in the U.S. Army. No, I was not a cook as such. There were times overseas when a group of us were separated from our company. We had to do the best we could with the "C" rations the army gave us. We always doctored these rations with onions and garlic.

Here's a recipe for mushroom soup you will enjoy.

MUSHROOM SOUP WITH HOME MADE NOODLE

THIS RECIPE CALLS FOR A MOST DELICIOUS EUROPEAN-STYPE MUSHROOM SOUP. IT BEATS ANYTHING YOU MADE FORM A CANNED SOUP. IT IS A REAL GOURMET DELICACY. YOU AND YOUR FRIENDS WILL ENJOY ITS RICH TASTE. YES, THERE IS A LITTLE WORK INVOLVED TO PREPARE IT BUT ITS WORTH THE EFFORT.

2 -4 OZ . Cans mushrooms
4 dried imported mushrooms (Boletus preferred)
1 small onion, minced
1/8 lb. butter (1/2 stick)
2 celery stalks, minced
noodle bits from recipe
2 chicken bouillon cubes, or
1 16 oz. can chicken broth
1/2 tsp black pepper
1/4 tsp dried basil., or
1/2 tsp fresh basil, minced
1 tspn dried parsley, or
1 TBsp fresh parsley minced

Make noodle bits first. While dough is firming up on cutting board, wash dried mushrooms in 3 different waters to remove all sand. Put mushrooms and 2 cups of water in small pot and bring to a boil slowly for 1 hours.

Mince imported and canned mushrooms. Reserve the mushroom liquid. Melt butter in large frying pan. Add onion, celery and mushrooms and saute.

Dissolve bouillon cubes in 1 cup of boiling water. Stir till dissolved. Add contents of frying pan, bouillon or broth and mushroom liquid to noodle bits.

Season with parsley, basil and pepper. Cook all for an addional 20 minutes. Serve with rye bread and butter.

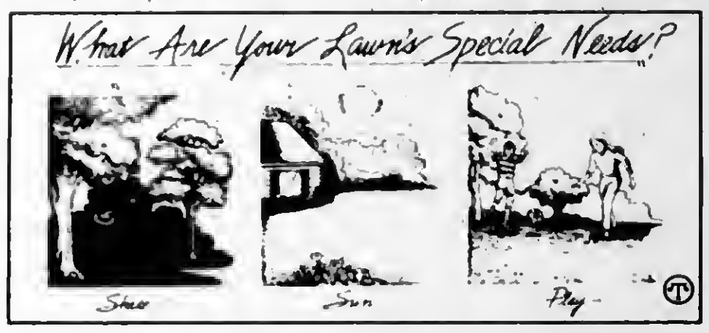
LAWN & GARDEN TIPS

When Buying Grass Seed, It Pays To Spend A Little Time Reading The Label

(NAPS)—If you're planting grass this year, buying the right kind of seed is important. What you're really buying is a lawn, but at the time of purchase there's nothing to look at, touch, or compare...except the seed and the box or bag it comes in. It's well worth spending a few minutes to buy the right seed, because however the lawn turns out...good or bad...depends a great deal upon the grass seed you buy.



How do you know which grass seed to buy?

First of all, remember there's no such thing as bargain grass seed. Time and again homeowners have purchased cheap seed to save a few dollars, and later found they ruined their lawn. You should buy only grass seed that comes from a company known for quality. Stay away from unknown names and private label seed. You may have to pay a little extra, but it could well be the best money you've ever spent on your lawn.

Second, look for a seed mixture that fits your yard conditions (sunny, shady, or a combination) and how the lawn area will be used. Will it be a pristine picture of beauty or your children's play area? Read the package to find the mix that fits your needs.

And finally, be sure to read not just the front of the package, but also the analysis label that every grass seed package is required by law to carry.

The label may look confusing at first, but all you need to know are a few simple guidelines. For example, the label will show, by weight, the amount of each grass type in the mixture. Some seed mixtures contain improved varieties, including specifically named proprietary varieties that are top performers. Look for names like Abbey, Accolade, Banner, and Coventry.

A separate listing of "crop" seeds will be on the analysis panel. Stay away from these. Look for as close to 0.00 percent as possible.

Weed seeds are listed. Since you obviously don't want to plant weeds, this number should be as low as you can find. Because many weed seeds are tiny, a small percentage by weight could still sow a lot of weeds into your lawn.

Noxious weeds are listed separately by seed count. These are weeds that defy removal by conventional weed controls, and you surely don't want to plant these problems. Only a few noxious weed seeds can create a big problem in any lawn, so insist on no noxious weeds.

A percentage of germination is also included in the analysis panel. This tells you how much seed from the same batch as is in the package sprouted in laboratory tests. If a package shows 75 percent germination, this means that 25 percent of the seed in the package will not grow at all. Therefore, the higher this number, the better.

Inert matter is listed by percentage of the total weight. This includes chaff, stems, and in some cases inert filler material that some companies add to give the package greater bulk. It is all material that will not grow, so look for as small a number here as possible.

By spending just a small amount of time studying the seed package analysis panel, you can save yourself a lot of headaches and make sure you end up with a lawn to be proud of.

To get answers to your questions on selecting or planting grass seed, or for answers to other lawn care questions, you can call 1-800-543-TURF toll-free. This is a free service of The Scotts Company, which has been in the seed business for 125 years.

Keeping Debris Out Of The Gutter

(NAPS)—Keeping your gutters clean could save a lot of headaches. Imagine—no more:

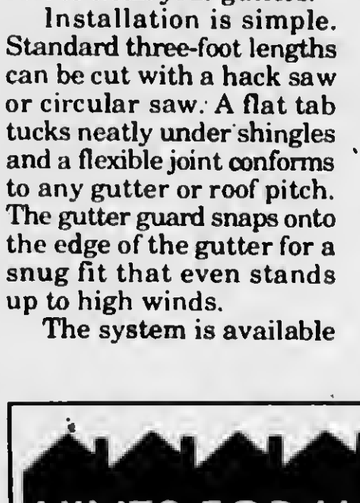
- sagging gutters;
- roof-line water damage;
- water from your roof collecting around the foundation of your home.

But how? Cleaning your gutters spring and fall is a chore, and conventional wire mesh and plastic dome gutter covers are only partially effective because they still become clogged by leaves and debris. Fortunately, a new gutter guard system can channel rainwater into gutters and downspouts, while preventing leaves, needles, twigs and other types of debris from entering or clogging the system.

How It Works

The scientific principle is called liquid adhesion. As rainwater flows off the roof and over the downward steps of the gutter guard, the natural surface tension of the water causes it to follow the surface contour into water-carrying channels through drainholes and into the gutter. At the same time, the leaf and twig debris falls over the downward steps and onto the ground below.

Made of the same tough, weatherable material used in premium house siding, the product, aptly called the PermaFlow® Gutter Guard



System, withstands extreme temperatures and weathering. Tests on typical homes showed that it was effective in eliminating clogging while maintaining waterflow in all kinds of conditions from light sprinkles to heavy downpours. This means you'll never have to get up there on the roof to clean your gutters.

Installation is simple. Standard three-foot lengths can be cut with a hack saw or circular saw. A flat tab tucks neatly under shingles and a flexible joint conforms to any gutter or roof pitch. The gutter guard snaps onto the edge of the gutter for a snug fit that even stands up to high winds.

The system is available from many do-it-yourself retailers. For more information, or the name of your nearest supplier, contact Crane Plastics, Inc. at (800) 420-7246.

Repairing Concrete Is Easy

Extreme temperatures and age can cause concrete to crack and flake. With a little know-how and the right tools, do-it-yourselfers can repair damaged areas easily. To get started, you will need the following tools: cold chisel, hammer, trowel, broom and brush, goggles and gloves, sand mix, concrete bonding adhesive or vinyl concrete patcher. Follow these easy steps from the experts at The QUIKRETE Companies for some of the most common concrete repair projects.

Resurfacing thin, cracked and flaked concrete

Chip away all cracked and crumbled areas to a solid base. Apply a thin layer of vinyl concrete patcher. Finish or smooth the surface with a trowel.

Resurfacing depths up to two inches

Clean the damaged area and apply concrete bonding adhesive to old concrete. When adhesive is dry, pour the sand mix, level and smooth with a trowel.

Repairing broken steps

Clean and remove all dirt and loose concrete. Build up the surface with vinyl concrete patcher. With a trowel, finish and smooth the corners flush with the adjoining surfaces.

Repairing wide cracks

Chip away all cracked concrete to a depth of at least one inch below the surface. Square all of the edges. For cracks up to 1/4 inch deep, use vinyl concrete patcher. For deeper cracks use sand mix and concrete bonding adhesive.

A Guilt-Free Home Improvement

(NAPS)—If you've done any backyard construction lately, or plan to, you may be entitled to a U-turn on the guilt-trip highway.

So often, it seems, we hear that something we've been doing or eating for years has just been found to damage the environment or harm our health. Here's a switch: you may have used a product that is beneficial to the environment and not even realized it.

Pressure-treated lumber—the wood commonly used for decks, fences, docks, playsets, and residential landscaping—has typically been purchased because it lasts outdoors and it's economical. But now this long-used building product is getting praise for its newfound environmental qualities.

"If you could magically create the environmentally ideal building material," asks Huck DeVenzio of Hickson Corporation, "what characteristics would you include?

"You would want it to be renewable and, if possible, rapidly replenished; to use recycled materials and be itself recyclable; to require little energy to produce; to last a long time; to cause no pollution problems; to be installed with light weight, low-impact construction equipment; and, after all this, to be comparatively inexpensive.

"Well," DeVenzio says, "this ideal environmental product is not some futuristic miracle material; it already exists, and it has for 60 years. It's pressure-treated wood."

DeVenzio's company licenses the producers of Wolmanized® wood, North America's topselling brand of pressure-treated lumber.

Treated lumber begins with wood, the only major building material that is renewable. The trees, mostly pines, used for treated wood are plentiful, fast-growing, and grown almost entirely on managed timberlands, not in old growth forests or unregulated tropical rainforests.

Treated lumber, such as the Wolmanized wood in this deck, saves millions of trees by its long-term resistance to termites and rot.

Wood requires less energy to produce than alternative building products and the preservative treatment incorporates recycled elements that would otherwise be disposed of as waste.

The treating process enables a deck to resist termite and rot damage, which extends the life of wood and reduces demands on forests and other resources. According to the Southern Forest Products Association, the use of treated wood saves 226,000,000 trees every year.

"Many of the applications for treated wood are also good for nature," DeVenzio adds. "Wolmanized wood has been used for boardwalks and viewing platforms that allow people to gain a greater appreciation of the natural world, for tent platforms that minimize impacts at popular camping sites, for dune crossovers that enable sunbathers to get to a beach without trampling dune vegetation, for seawalls and retaining walls that limit soil erosion, for highway sound walls that reduce traffic noise, for greenhouses and raised bed gardens that produce vegetables and flowers, for osprey platforms that are attracting these birds back to areas they had abandoned, and for other beneficial applications.

"Treated wood is used in national parks, botanical gardens, and wildlife sanctuaries around the world."

So, when you finish building a deck with treated wood, you can sit back, raise a glass of lemonade, and proudly toast yourself for your responsible choice.

Reducing Asthma And Allergy Suffering

(NAPS)—If you are one of the more than 35 million Americans who suffer from allergies or asthma, there are many actions you can take so that your lifestyle is not disrupted.

High filtration vacuums help clear the air for asthma and allergy sufferers.

- First, if you haven't seen a doctor, see one now. There are many new treatments available which can alleviate your symptoms.
- Secondly, allergy-proof your home. According to Nancy Sander, president and founder of The Allergy and Asthma Network—Mothers of Asthmatics, Inc., this is easier than you think. Start by prioritizing the list of avoidance measures you need. For example, reduce clutter in rooms, use decorative wallpapers rather than pictures and easy-to-clean furniture rather than the overstuffed variety. Sander recommends using HEPA (High Efficiency Particulate Air) vacuums, like those manufactured by Nilfisk.
- Finally, get up-to-date. A free tip sheet, "15 Steps for Reducing Allergy and Asthma Suffering," is available by calling Nilfisk of America, Inc. at 1-800-241-9420, ext. 2 for Customer Service.

Are You A Wall Knocker?

When buying a new home, inspect every detail even down to the appliances that come with the home.

(NAPS)—Some home buyers, similar to the tire kickers in the car showroom, are known as "wall knockers" in the real estate trade. These people want to seem sophisticated when it comes to picking their new place, but don't always know just what to look for.

While you should always have a professional inspect a house before you buy it, there are somethings you can check for yourself.

When you get down to it, the basement is a good place to start. Does it smell musty or feel clammy and damp? That could mean a leak in the foundation.

Next, give the floors the old pencil test. Put a pencil or other round object down in the middle of the room. If it rolls, the house could be settling more on one side than the other.

Because homeowners are spending more time in the kitchen, this room is being used more as a family room or gathering spot. As a result, homebuyers expect the kitchen to look better than ever. The trend is toward smooth surface cooktops and ranges with Ceran® glass-ceramic panels to achieve an upscale look and offer easy cleaning.

Ceran glass-ceramic panels, supplied by Schott Corporation, are used by virtually every manufacturer of smooth surface cooktops in North America. The material is not only easy to clean and attractive, it is remarkably resistant to impact. It is translucent to show the glowing heating element below, and non-porous so spills never stain.

YOUR HOME OFFICE

(NAPS)—You're far from alone if you work from home—or would like to. Millions of Americans report doing salaried work from home during normal working hours. And, a recent survey uncovered some interesting facts about their work-at-home habits and equipment.

The survey found that home office workers strive for organization. In fact, 60 percent of all those with a home office equip it with at least one computer. Fifty-seven percent use a daily organizer as part of their daily business routine. "The myth of the home office worker sitting at home, somewhat disorganized and in a bathrobe no longer rings true," said Jeff Ash, Director of Marketing, Computer Products Division, Fuji Photo Film U.S.A., Inc., which commissioned the survey. "As more and more individuals leave the corporate office to work at home, they are definitely bringing 'traditional business' practices with them."

Overwhelmingly, 67 percent report that the personal computer is the most important piece of equipment in their home office. The survey also found that nearly three-quarters of the respondents plan to purchase a variety of office products in the next 12 months, including computers, fax machines, printers, mo-dems, filing cabinets, copiers and tapes drives.

With the emerging reliance on computers and electronic data, home office workers are taking a new look at data loss prevention. The survey found that nearly 60 percent of respondents back up their vital data at least once a week. Not to do so, warns Ash, could put them at risk of losing valuable documents, even their businesses.

More than half of the respondents use, or plan to use, the Internet or a commercial on-line service as part of their work routine.

Fifty-two percent of respondents spent between $2,000 and $5,000 to set up their home offices.

Additionally, 63 percent of women apply make-up and 75 percent of the men shave each working day.

Helpful Hints On Carpet Care

Act quickly when the inevitable spills occur. The longer a spill remains on a carpet, the more difficult it will be to get out.

(NAPS)—The right carpet can enhance a design scheme, but, the daily treatment your carpet receives can break your heart. What other home furnishing is walked all over?

Regular care on your part helps counter the abuse your carpet suffers and helps it retain its luster and beauty.

Carpet care consists of four kinds of cleaning: daily to weekly maintenance, spill control, emergency spill removal and deep cleaning.

For regular maintenance, it's essential to vacuum often, using a well functioning vacuum cleaner, with an enclosed, efficient, dust catching bag, to prolong the life of your carpet.

Most carpet available today has been treated for stain resistance and soil retardance, but stain resistant does not necessarily mean "stain proof." The longer a spot is allowed to remain on any carpet, the more difficult it will be to remove.

Take preventative measures to keep your carpet from coming in contact with makeup, pesticides, disinfectants, iodine, mustard, oven cleaner and plant food products, because these stains generally cannot be removed.

In other cases, follow these basic procedures for emergency spot removal.

• Act quickly and remove spot before it dries.

• Blot liquids with a white, absorbent cloth or paper towel. Scoop up semi-solids with a spoon. For solids, break up and vacuum as much as possible.

• Pretest spot removal solutions in an inconspicuous area.

• When using a cleaning solution, apply a small amount, work it in gently from the edges of the spot to the center. Blot thoroughly. Don't rub.

• Repeat procedure with clean water and blot, absorbing moisture with paper towels weighted down by a non-staining glass or ceramic object. When dry, vacuum or brush pile to restore texture.

• If the spot is not removed, call a professional carpet cleaner.

At least once every 12 to 18 months, consider deep cleaning your carpet or asking an expert to do it.

Furniture FACTS & FANCIES

(NAPS)—Here are some surprising facts about furniture that may sit well with many Americans.

It was the ancient Egyptians who are credited with creating the first fine furniture. Until the 1800s, furniture fashions in the United States were set largely by the wealthy. But beginning in the early part of that century, the tastes of the middle class set the standard for furniture fashions.

Today, one of the most consumer-driven retail furniture companies in the United States is Atlanta-based Rhodes, Inc., which has set new standards for excellence. With 80 stores in 11 states, Rhodes, Inc. is the fourth largest retail furniture chain in the U.S. Rhodes recently introduced a new advertising campaign, expanded brand name merchandise and is backing its merchandise with the 30-day promise: if you don't like it, we'll take it back. The company is building new stores and remodeling or refurbishing all existing stores under its familiar store names of Rhodes, Crossroads, Marks Fitzgerald and Fowler's Furniture.

Rhodes' advertising campaign, "Every Time You Look, We Look Better," reflects the style and function of its furniture as seen through the consumer's eyes. From kids jumping on a bed to a man relaxing in his recliner, the campaign shows how real people actually use their furniture at home.

To make its stores more consumer friendly, Rhodes is including two new features in many of its newly opened, remodeled or refurbished stores—the "Kids' Korner" and "Customer Cafe." The Kids' Korner is a play area designed to entertain children while parents are shopping for furniture. The Customer Cafe offers individuals a quiet place to relax and to discuss their purchase while enjoying a soft drink—courtesy of Rhodes.

Windows of Opportunity

Pittsburgh Corning's DECORA® LX pattern was used to create the bay window as well as the side light next to the door.

If you're one of the many homeowners looking for just the right solution to your window needs, look no further than durable, decorative glass block. While double-pane windows have been the "traditional" choice, many restrictions limit their usefulness.

Glass block's versatile design options, and varying degrees of privacy, mean that no additional window treatments are needed. Besides offering privacy, glass block windows resist breakage, making them virtually vandal-proof. This makes them an excellent choice for window locations that could potentially offer a burglar easy access to a home. If one block should break, it can simply be replaced. You don't need to replace the entire window. Essentially, glass block panels act like masonry walls with light-transmitting capability.

The appeal of glass block windows is enhanced by the variety of shapes and sizes available, allowing homeowners to create curved, functional windows with ease. These windows have an R-value more than twice the R-value for flat single-pane glazing, and they are easily maintained—just hose them down or wipe them clean with a damp cloth.

Windows made from Pittsburgh Corning's PC GlassBlock® products can be configured to fit any size opening, thus making them appropriate for new home construction and remodeling projects. They can be constructed with or without ventilation. Glass block panels provide brilliant luminescence for any room in the house, including kitchens, bathrooms, living or dining areas and even basements. Or, use glass block as side lights in halls and entryways. Close proximity areas are perfect for glass block applications because the amount of natural light can be maximized without sacrificing privacy.

On-site panel assembly is easier than ever before using Pittsburgh Corning's VeriTru® spacers and traditional mortar bonding or the KWIK'N EZ® Silicone System. Alternatively, pre-assembled panels made off-site can be purchased and are perfect for replacement or new windows and small partition applications. Check with a local PC GlassBlock® distributor listed in the Yellow Pages for availability in your area.

Whether you are a do-it-yourselfer or plan to have the glass block professionally installed, Pittsburgh Corning has an installation video which can be purchased from a local distributor or home center or ordered by phone by calling 1-800-624-2120.

For Pittsburgh Corning's "Touch of Glass" idea book featuring over 40 photographs and application ideas for decorating with glass block, send a check or money order for $2.95 to PC GlassBlock® Products, P.O. Box 3900, Peoria, IL 61612 or call 1-800-624-2120, Ext. 1600 to use your Visa or MasterCard.

Home Remodeling May Be Your Best Investment

(NAPS)—With stock market fluctuations, the uncertainty of the bond market, and savings and CD rates that remain low even as lending rates rise, it's hard to find a good investment option today. But according to the results of a recent report by a major professional remodeling publication, your best investment may be the one you live in...your home!

New solid oak, low profile Natural Reflections™ from Bruce Hardwood Floors is completely stained and finished at the factory, so depending upon room size, many installations can be completed in just one day.

In Remodeling magazine's 1994-1995 "Cost vs. Value Report", the average costs of twelve various home remodeling projects were calculated in 60 cities across the nation. The magazine then asked real estate agents in each city for an estimate of how much value each project would add to a mid-priced house in an established neighborhood if the house was sold within a year of the project's completion.

Of the 12 projects identified, the most profitable by far was a minor kitchen remodel including refinished cabinets, a new stove and oven, new countertops, cabinet hardware, wall covering, paint and flooring. The average national cost of such a project was $5,835, but the average resale value was $6,042...a remarkable 104 percent return on investment. In some cities, like Seattle, WA, the return was as high as 136 percent. Other projects with investment returns over 100 percent included a master suite addition, a major kitchen remodel, a family-room addition and a bathroom addition.

In another recent survey of realtors conducted by the National Wood Flooring Association, 90 percent of real estate agents believe that wood floors, in good condition, influence how a house sells. Fifty-eight percent believe that homes with hardwood floors bring higher prices, and 46 percent said that hardwood helps homes sell faster. More than 80 percent of those surveyed said that wood floors were attractive to buyers for their beauty as well as their image of quality.

Builders agree, according to a recent study by The Hardwood Council. More than 95 percent of the builders questioned said they, or their customers, specify hardwood for their homes. The builders claimed that hardwood flooring adds as much as 30 percent to a home's resale value.

Bruce Hardwood Floors is one manufacturer of hardwood flooring that has been actively watching remodeling trends and has responded by developing flooring products that not only help maximize the value of a remodeling project, but make the project neater, quicker and easier.

"Our new Natural Reflections™ low profile solid oak strip flooring is a response to the growing demand for attractive flooring products for remodeling," says Gaylynn Garrett, Bruce's director of marketing. "Study after study has shown that while consumers love the look of hardwood flooring, they worry about the traditionally messy, lengthy sand-and-finish process. New Natural Reflections is completely stained and finished at the factory, so depending upon room size, many installations can be completed in just one day.

"Natural Reflections' low profile design has special significance for remodeling applications," Garrett continues. "It makes it easy to install in kitchens where cabinetry and appliances are already in place, it makes transitions to other rooms and floor coverings barely noticeable, and it alleviates the need for structural changes such as sawing off doors to accommodate the new flooring. All-in-all, it is one of the most beautiful, versatile, easy-care flooring choices on the market today."

Available in eleven fabulous colors, all with an easy-care, no-wax urethane finish, Natural Reflections offers a stain to blend with virtually every decorating scheme. And because it can be installed over a wide range of subfloor materials, Natural Reflections is a great choice for every room in the home.

Bruce offers a 32-page "Design Ideas Catalog" to help plan remodeling projects using hardwood floors. To receive your FREE copy, write: Bruce Hardwood Floors, Marketing Department #DIC-NAPS3, 16803 Dallas Parkway, Dallas, TX 75248. Or to locate the Bruce retailer nearest you, call 1-800-722-4647.

HINTS FOR HOMEOWNERS

Flooding Problems Dry Up With WD-40

(NAPS)—During the rain and flood season, automobiles, homes and belongings all need protection from water damage. Damage repair is also top-of-mind after the rain has stopped. To protect personal effects from damage, or to restore items after a flood, there are many steps you can take to preserve and refurbish your goods.

While there are many tips to staying dry for rainy-state residents, the use of WD-40 may surprise some people. Originally developed for the aerospace industry to prevent rust and corrosion on the Atlas missile, the name stems from the 40th try at creating an effective water displacement formula. Although the familiar product resides in over eighty percent of American households, few consumers are aware of how many uses there are for the product.

Does your car door squeak as it is opened? Water leaking into your vehicle during a storm can cause rust damage, which leads to squeaky door hinges. Left alone, the moisture which remains can cause irreversible damage. By flushing the hinges with a liberal amount of this "secret sauce," the annoying squeak will disappear.

Not only does wet weather affect automobiles, but rain and floods can cause leaks, breaks, and cracks in the home—turning occasional maintenance and repair into a never-ending project.

When flooding occurs, WD-40 consumers reach for the familiar yellow and blue can. Many users have written letters to the company to share their creative stormy weather tips. For example, a man from Ontario, Canada, sprays WD-40 on the walls and doors around his home to locate fine cracks that can become worse if not fixed before a flood.

"WD-40 helps me locate fine, tight cracks in walls and doors which can't be seen with the human eye. I spray WD-40 into a crack, and then use baby powder as a contrasting background. This enables me to see exactly where cracks are, so I can fill them before water causes irreparable damage."

The following helpful hints include tips for before and after flooding:

- Flooding often leads to moisture damage on plywood and other water-soluble surfaces. Spraying WD-40 onto these surfaces will protect them from rain and weather exposure.
- A WD-40 consumer from St. Paul, Minn., sprays his leather shoes with WD-40 to make them water resistant.
- If flooding occurs inside the home, open doors and windows after the storm passes to prevent mildew from setting in on carpets and furniture.
- A couple from Oakwood, Ill., found that WD-40 completely removed flood level marks on cedar paneling boards throughout their home after it was flooded.
- Sandbags should be placed along door jams, windows and sliding glass doors to prevent water from leaking into the home.

When the forecast predicts the next big rain, be sure to use the hints outlined above to help protect against water damage. With these tips in mind, the heavy rains won't have a chance to dampen spirits or ruin possessions.

Quick Hints For Slow Drains And Clogs

(NAPS)—If your motto has always been, "Down the drain with slow drains and clogs," you're probably not alone. In most drains, over time, a coating of grease, soap scum and other materials builds up along the walls of the drainpipes. Eventually, this build-up restricts the flow of water and causes drains to run slowly and clog more easily.

Unfortunately, while regular drain openers remove clogs, they flow past this build-up. Happily, a new treatment for slow drains and tough build-up has been developed. Called Drano® Professional Strength Build-Up Remover, it uses natural enzymes that won't harm pipes, garbage disposals and septic systems. The enzymes break down grease and other residues that can cause drain slowness and clogging.

Here are some helpful hints on how to use this build-up remover (which works everywhere, including top and sides of your drain, not just at the bottom of the pipes):

If you have a slow running drain...

- Just run warm water (not hot) through the drain for one minute.
- Turn off the water and pour 1/3 of a bottle directly into the drain.
- Briefly run the water again to activate and distribute formula along pipe walls.
- Allow the enzyme to work overnight or while at work before running water in drain again.
- Repeat, using one capful every two to four weeks to help prevent clogs.

A new drain cleaner helps to remove the build-up that causes slow drains.

Those who have used it say this procedure can help keep small plumbing problems from turning into big and costly repair jobs. More aptly put, it's an inexpensive way for homeowners to say "goodbye" to slow drains.

HINTS FOR HOMEOWNERS

Garage Door Options

(NAPS)—A garage door is more than just a luxury or convenience. It provides safety, security and protection from summer heat and winter cold.

But, is your garage door showing its age and dragging down the overall appearance of your home? Is the door cracked, split, dented or rusted? Does the door sag when it's raised? Do the rollers catch or drag when the door is raised or lowered? Is the door safe to operate and does it provide security for your home?

Experts from the National Association of Garage Door Manufacturers (NAGDM) say if your garage door doesn't pass these tests, it's time to replace the door. A new garage door, which accounts for about a third of your home's front appearance, will dramatically improve your home's "curb appeal" and market value.

There is a much broader selection of door materials, colors and construction than even 10 or 15 years ago. Better engineering means the doors operate more quietly. Weather seals at the top and bottom of the door and tighter fitting sectional panels will keep out unwanted heat, cold, rain and wind, as well as pests and animals.

Today's garage doors are manufactured from a variety of materials including steel, plastic and wood or wood-composites.

Design and color options fit any home architectural style. Doors come in raised panel, flush, ribbed and extended panel construction. Typical colors include white, almond and brown. A variety of window styles complement any exterior appearance or design requirement. Steel and fiber glass doors are often available with a factory-produced authentic wood-grain appearance.

Sandwich-constructed steel doors feature a foam plastic inner core between steel skins. This design offers improved garage insulation as well as increased door strength, durability and dent resistance over a simple single-skin door. Sandwich-construction also lends the door a "finished" appearance both inside and out.

Plastic doors consist of fiber glass panels attached to aluminum or steel frames. These doors are resistant to salt air corrosion and allow better light transmission into the garage.

Homeowners who prefer the traditional appearance of solid wood doors will find a variety from which to choose. These doors can be painted or stained to match the house exterior.

For a free brochure about today's options in garage doors, call the National Association of Garage Door Manufacturers at 1-800-517-3404.

Rooms With More Than One View

Spiegel's convertible table/bed seats four for dinner and unfolds to reveal a mattress inside a sturdy twin frame.

(NAPS)—Our homes are evolving. Whether you dwell in a city, suburb or the country, we all share a desire to integrate our lives with our living spaces. According to Bette Rosenberg, director of home fashion for Spiegel, "Home is the most important place in our lives—a safe haven, our command center where we can live and work in harmony."

Because space is a commodity and our lives are so multifaceted, traditional rules for compartmentalizing our homes no longer apply. Rooms that once had one function now have two or three. The dining room that was used only for dining is now also a library and an office. Interior designers and retailers like Spiegel are responding to this trend by offering combined living space solutions that mold to the many needs of their customers.

Bringing the Office Home

Everyone needs a spot in their home where they can pay bills, organize their life, or even run a business—where a comfortable armchair sits in front of a sturdy desk, next to a good lamp, and there's plenty of storage. Spiegel's dream office doesn't have to fill an entire room, in fact it can be placed in any room: the bedroom, living room, foyer or even the dining room!

• Give your office grand style with Spiegel's Queen Anne style computer desk/hutch. A drop down work surface camouflages equipment. The hutch above the desk unit has stationary shelves for picture frames, accessories or books.

• You'll need a comfortable chair for your office. A Regency style chair with carved dolphin arms not only adds charm, but also doubles as a side chair for additional seating at the dining room table.

• A Beidermeier style floor lamp with swing arm design provides good light and flexibility. It's the perfect final touch!

Bed/Bath/Spa

Bedrooms today are for so much more than sleeping. Why travel to enjoy the luxury of a spa when it can be incorporated right into your master suite?

• Adding gym equipment, such as a lifecycle, to your private spa will help you maintain good health and eliminate time spent waiting in line to use the equipment!

• Spiegel's luxury linens combine quality and regal looks with incomparable comfort. Bedding and plush towels provide layers of texture that arouse all the senses and give a real sense of sanctuary to your spa.

• Boudoir furniture, such as a fringe accented ottoman or a chaise, will provide a cozy place to sit after a workout.

Apartment Living

One of the biggest challenges in dealing with small spaces is making every inch count. Spiegel offers apartment dwellers many options by providing furniture that molds to the many functions of a room.

• A convertible table/bed can transform a studio apartment from a dining room/study to a bedroom. The table, which comfortably seats four for dinner, unfolds to reveal a mattress inside a sturdy twin frame.

• Spiegel's table/workstation is an ideal coffee table, providing plenty of storage for magazines, books and/or accessories. A sturdy and uniquely designed arm lifts the top of the coffee table to create a desk top for study or dining.

• The Fournier murphy desk, at first glance, has the appearance of a simple cabinet in birch woodgrain. The cabinet opens to reveal a pop-down work surface and a series of compartments that have been designed to hold a computer, its various components and reference materials. For additional storage, use a wicker letter box file. On the outside it looks like a wicker box, on the inside you'll find plenty of room for files and other important documents.

For more ideas on decorating combined living spaces, call 1-800-345-4500 for a Spiegel catalog.

HINTS FOR HOMEOWNERS

Disaster Proofing Your Home

(NAPS)—Every day, more than 2,000 Americans homes and businesses are destroyed or damaged by fires. Fortunately, an ounce of prevention may be all you need to protect your home and family from fire. Here are some simple fire safety guidelines from the experts at Sentry, makers of leading U.L. classified, fire-resistant security chests, files and safes, and the California Department of Forestry. Heeding them can help you safeguard your home:

• Install smoke detectors and make sure they work.

• Mount portable fire extinguishers in easy-to-find places.

• Plan your escape and practice it every six months. Decide on an outside meeting place and close doors behind you.

• Consider home sprinkler systems which provide an immediate response to extinguishing a fire inside your home.

• Sleep with bedroom doors closed. Since the majority of fires happen at night, closed doors can deter smoke from spreading, allowing more time to escape.

• Feel doors before opening. If door feels hot, use your second way out.

• Crawl low under smoke to exit. Smoke actually kills more people than fire.

• Remember to stop, drop and roll, if you should catch on fire.

• Never go back for anything. Store important documents, records and valuable keepsakes, such as photos, in a UL-tested fire-resistant storage unit.

You can disaster proof your home with preventive safety products such as flashlights, portable fire extinguisher, emergency light, first aid kit and fire-resistant security chest.

If threatened by a fire outside of the home, Sentry and the California Department of Forestry experts suggest the following:

• Report fires immediately. If you see a fire approaching your home, dial 911.

• Dress to prevent burns. Wear long pants, cotton or wool long-sleeve shirts or jackets. Gloves and damp cloth provide added protection.

• Follow a recommended or pre-planned escape route away from vegetation (which will fuel fire) and the general direction of the fire.

Because everyone has a lot to lose in case of fire, it is possible to lessen one's losses by taking preventive steps. Storing valuable papers and possessions in a UL-classified, fire-resistant safe will not only give you peace of mind, but help in the dealing of the crisis, should fire strike.

An informative booklet of fire safety tips plus a handy household inventory checklist is available free by calling Sentry at 1-800-1438.

Search Launched For Worst U.S. Roach Problems

(NAPS)—Surprise appearances, heart-ache, revenge, death, despair...sound like the world's worst soap opera? Actually, roaches have starred opposite humans in this real-life drama for the last 350 million years.

Scientists at The Combat Labs, a leading insect control technology center, want to plot an end to this never-ending battle. They are conducting a search for the nation's worst roach stories. Five of the toughest cases will receive cash rewards and a free home treatment by nationally-renowned Combat scientist, Dr. Austin Frishman—aka. Dr. Cockroach.

Last year's winner couldn't get into her shower, use her oven or change her sheets without seeing dozens of unwanted roaches. The Combat Labs ended her saga. And she now lives happily ever after—nearly roach-free.

If you have an unsolvable roach problem, describe it in a one-page letter and send it to: The Combat Labs, 55 Union Street, San Francisco, CA 94111. All letters must be received by May 31, 1995. Winners will be notified in June.

Spring Into Do-It-Yourself Home Improvement

(NAPS)—It used to be that moving up in the world meant moving on—to a bigger and better house. This spring, though, many homeowners will be staying put and redecorating old spaces to match new needs. In fact, thousands of do-it-yourselfers, from novice to expert, will be tackling home improvement projects this April, during Minwax® National Woodworking Month™.

Unsure of where to begin? A complimentary issue of Wood Beautiful™ magazine, 36 colorful pages of home improvement projects, can help show you some of the many ways wood can add beauty and value to your home. Get started with these tips from the Minwax wood finishing experts:

• Hardwood floors are more popular than ever. If refinishing, let a professional do the sanding, then save money by applying MINWAX® Fast-Drying Polyurethane yourself. For a smooth finish, use a four-inch wide, natural bristle brush to apply the protective topcoat.

• When working with kit furniture, always assemble the piece before applying the finish. For best results, use carpenter's glue (not white glue) in the joints. Before the final gluing, make certain all the drawer glides are aligned. Remember to sand the entire piece lightly, in the direction of the grain, for a smooth, even finish.

• Top quality unfinished furniture is available in a variety of styles, from Early American to contemporary, and offers unlimited finishing options. You can conveniently match unfinished furniture to almost any decorating scheme using MINWAX® Polycrylic® Wood Tones, a one-step stain and protective finish that's low-odor and provides easy clean-up.

• Before applying any stain to furniture, always test for depth of color on scrap wood or on a hidden spot on the piece to be finished. Experiment to see how long to leave the stain on before wiping it off the wood. The longer it stands, the richer the color. And the more coats applied, the darker the color.

• Give tired woodwork a fresh finish and added protection with a coat of MINWAX Fast-Drying Polyurethane. Lightly scuff the surface with a fine sanding pad, wipe off any dust with a tack cloth, and then brush on the Polyurethane.

• Using the right tools is essential for professional-looking results. Brushes with synthetic bristles are ideal for applying water-based finishes.

Want more tips to help bring home the beauty of wood? Throughout April you can call 1-800-44-STAIN for your free copy of Wood Beautiful™ magazine or pick one up at participating hardware stores and home centers.

Save Water—Eliminate Mess

(NAPS)—You can save water, save money and save your floors at the same time. It's done with a special toilet tank liner designed to both stop drips and conserve up to a gallon and a half of water with each flush.

Called the Sweat Stopper, it insulates the toilet tank from surrounding warm air and humidity in the bathroom, to keep it from "sweating" when the cold water flows in. It comes with simple instructions, five easily assembled pieces of ThermoSafe foam plastic and a tube of quick-drying glue. All you need is a tape measure and a utility knife. The liner is guaranteed to work underwater for the life of the tank.

It can be found at local hardware and do-it-yourself centers nationwide. For more information, call Polyfoam Packers Corporation at 1-800-323-7442.

Bridal Bits

by: Sue Kramer
Independent MaryKay Skin Care Consultant

Hello and welcome to my second column. Since we've received only positive comments, I'll keep the information flowing until my readers tell me enough! Like I said in the initial issue, this column will always have tidbits from me and information fom other local vendors. Though I do know some local bridal vendors, I don't know everyone; so if you, or someone you know would like to be interviewed and advertised in this column, give me a call!

Today's interviewees are two friends and colleagues of mine; Teresa Stephenson and John Turek. Teresa is the owner and operator of Stephenson Enterprises and specializes in bridal consulting and retail sales of just about everything except the bridal gown. Teresa gives much free advice and referrals, sells accessories and invitations at a discount, and offers the "Bride's First Tape," an audio wedding planner for those of you like me who spend much time in your car.

John Turek is the manager of Gingiss Formalwear-Orland Park. Gingiss is a nationwide chain who manufactures their own tuxedos and fits a broad scale of sizes, from boy's size 3 to men's size 70.

"What do you recommend to a bride to plan her wedding?

Get a wedding planner book or listen to my tape, attend bridal shows, or listen to a consultant. The most important thing is to set your wedding date because only then can you start reserving things. After you set your date, reserve your reception hall and church. Remember, popular places book 2 years in advance, and the most popular months for weddings are May, June, Sept., and Oct. It is easier to get a booking for a Sunday or Friday evening as Sat. evenings are the most popular times for receptions.

Thank you to Teresa Stephenson of Stephenson Enterprises for your expertise.You may contact Teresa at 708-857-7536.

"John in all your years of formalwear service, what is the most common question and falacies you face from couples?"

Price is the biggest issue. Some people don't really care about service that goes along with that price until sometimes it's too late. We have very competitive rates in this business but really low prices doesn't mean that you are getting a good deal. You can get cheap prices but you also may get a cheap suit that looks like a cheap suit.

At Gingiss, we have a good price, alterations, and service.

"What are the most popular tuxedos today? Does everyone have the same styles and if so, what sets competitors apart?"

The black double breasted worn with a vest is the most popular style currently. Not everyone has the same styles and Gingiss manufactures their own, so no one has our suits. Another advantage as mentioned before is we fit a wide range of sizes from boys 3 to mens 70. Also, since we have a large inventory, next day orders and emergency same day orders are no problem. Gingiss also has a great quality control program that helps us send out a good product.

Thank you, John, for keeping us informed from the groom's side and you may contact John at 708-349-1190 or go see him at Orland Park Mall.

Brides, this is your column so call or send in any questions or information you may have and I'll publish it. You may contact me at 708-423-3316. Keep me in mind for any of your skin care o makeover needs for the big dayand all the little everydays in between.

Burbank residents prepare for summer

Rick Techman

All Burbank automobile owners must display a 1995-1996 vehicle sticker by May 31 according to village clerk, Rosemary Carpenter.

At the May 10th village board meeting Mayor Harry Klein reminded all residents present that this law must be met.

"The sticker will honor the city's 25th anniversary. Stickers may be purchased in person, at the clerck's office, 6530 West 79th Street or through the mail".

The clerck's office is open Monday through Friday and Saturday mornings. Passenger vehicle stickers can also be purchased at Cole Taylor Bank, Garden Gate Currency Exchange and State Road Currency Exchange.

Yardwaste service, by Waste Management, begins April 1st and continues through November 30th.. Yard waste must be contained in yardwaste paper bags or regulation 33 gallon receptacles and cannot be mixed with other garbage.

Yardwaste consists of grass, clippings, shrubbery, weeds, and leaves. Yardwaste should be out by 6:00 a.m. for pickup.

Any call from a Burbank resident for police or fire services shoud be made through 9-1-1 according to the public information bulletin.

A recent Ameritech mailing advising residents to use 9-1-1 for emergency calls only was erroneous and unauthorized according to the bulletin.

The Burbank Emergency Services and Disaster Agency and the City of Burbank remind all residents to "stay away from windows, doors and outside walls" and to "protect your head" during a tornado. For more information on ESDA or severe weather safety tips, call (708)599-9551.

"Make sure you are prepared this season", Burbank E.S.D.A. reminds us in their public service announcement.

"The curfew hour for Sunday through Thursday is 11:00p.m. The curfew hour for Friday and Saturday is midnight" according to the bulletin.

It also said, "curfew pertains to everyone who has not reached their 18th birthday. It is unlawful for a parent, legal guardian, custodian or other person to knowingly permit a person in his custody or control to violate the curfew hours.

"Parents are reminded that all city parks close at 10:00 p.m. and that persons found in the parks, after closing, are subject to criminal prosecution," i t concluded.

As the trees are budding out, flowers begin to bloom with spring color and squirrels and birds dart in and out of the neighborhood yards and parks, I can't help but imagine what George Waite saw when he first surveyed the ridge, which he later named Mount Greenwood.

I am sure that in 1877, no one, not even George Waite, would have dreamed that the tree covered ridge would one day by tranformed into the well maintained residential communitywe know today.

For those interested in learning more about the history of their community, I strongly recommend a visit to the Mount Greenwood Historical Society, which meets at the Mt. Greenwod Library 11010 S. Kedzie Ave. on every fourth monday on the month, which is May 22nd this month.

The society is devoted to collecting and preserving the history of our community. The library also has files and records on community history, which includes a copy of yours truly limited edition my limited edition children's book "The Sesqui-Squirrel History of Mt. Greenwood, Illinois." (The only book written on Mr. Greenwood history to date.) That is why Sesqui-Squirrel is the official mascot of the Mount Greenwood Log. Sesqui-Squirrel is also the offical mascot of the Kennedy Park Library located in the Kennedy Park field house, 11320 S. Western Ave. The library opened April 3rd, 1995 and has already doubled its collection, thanks to community donations.

Mount Greenwood Library, 11010 S. Kedzie has been selected to have accesss to the Internet and use of equipment free of charge. Thanks to the funding provided by the Illinois State Library, a division of the office of Secretary of State, using federal LSCA funding. The Internet, opens the world to users. Please call the Mount Greenwood Library at (312) 747-2805 to setup an appointment.

SEPARATING? DIVORCING?

Your Divorce Lawyer Doesn't Want You To Read This Report

The average person is rarely placed in greater jeopardy-emotionally, financially, and legally than when going through a divorce. The reality of divorce courts is that most litigants leave the courtroom feeling as if they have just been hit by a truck! Even the apparentwinner rarely feels good with the outcome.

Divorce Law attempts to fit one of the most painful of adult choices into a legal framework. Some people expect their lawyers to be confessors or even to provide psychological counseling. Others never give their lawyers a chance, regarding them as the enemy when they attempt to compromise with the other side. There are clients who are in such a hurry to conclude their divorce that they waive anything and everything to which they might have a claim.

If you want to avoid the horror stories; if your goal in divorce is a level of self-control, decorum, and reasonableness; if you appreciate your marriage is ending but your parenting will continue; if you don't want to go broke paying legal fees, then call 1-800-294-7311 for the free report.

You do have choices! You can avoid the costly trap of litigation and the problems associated with it! You can take control of your divorce!

American Trans Air puts people to work

by: Rick Techman

•American Trans Air, the second largest carrier at Midway Airport, will add 100 more jobs to the area with the opening of a maintenance hangar at 5245 W. 55th St. by December.

In a recent press conference, Chicago Mayor Richard Daley announced a ten-year lease with ATA for an existing hangar on Midway which it will share with the Chicago Department of Aviation.

According to the D.O.A., the ATA maintenance hangar on Midway and a new reservations facility on the northwest side will bring more than 300 new jobs to the Chicago area by 1996.

"Each year since 1992," Daley said, "we have added new chapters to Midway's success story. It's the story of a tremendous resurgence, and it can be told in many ways."

"ATA obviously knows how to pick a winner," he added, "because that is exactly what Midway Airport is."

Daley also said Midway Airport presently has 19 airlines offering low-cost service to 70 cities with a 100 percent increase in passenger volume since 1992.

J. George Mikelsons, founder and C.E.O. of ATA, joined Daley at his press conference to announce the package last month.

Mikelsons said, "We opened a reservations center here in 1993 because the mayor and the commissioner took an aggressive and very pro-active approach to focus our attention in making Chicago an attractive expansion site.

"Today, we are proud to announce...our intention to sign a 10-year commitment to a planned move into the city of Chicago," Mikelsons added.

ATA moved more than one million people through Midway Airport in 1994, has a strong presence in the Florida market and operates flights in and out of Midway and O'Hare according to a D.O.A. report.

Since 1992, ATA has taken advantage of a strong, local market by going from five to 15 cities served out of Midway. ATA's direct expenditures relating to operations at Midway are expected to double from 1994 to 1995, totaling more than $35 million.

Mayor Daley thanked Chicago D.O.A. Commissioner David Mosena who worked to secure the maintenance hangar lease.

(Footnote: The planned ATA maintenance hangar on 55th street was originally constructed by American Airlines in the 1950s, became a fixed base operation in the late 1960s and 1970s, was converted to a D.O.A. maintenance building in the 1980s and was used briefly in the early 1990s by the American Airlines Maintenance Academy on Archer Avenue.

Mayor Daley proposes noise abatement at Midway Airport

by: Rick Techman

•Noise abatement projects designed to quiet Midway Airport, which surpassed 10 million passengers in 1994, will begin according to Chicago Mayor Richard Daley.

Last month Daley announced plans to form noise commissions at both Chicago airports and dedicate $180 million to noise projects during the next 10 years.

Recently, Mayor Daley was joined by several suburban mayors committed to resolving noise issues at Midway.

"The city has recently taken steps," Daley said, "to protect its airport system and to protect this airport from being closed."

He also said," I am willing to work with communities around both airports to solve the noise problem."

Daley also said Midway's vitality generates $1.8 billion in personal income every year, provides as many as 50,000 surrounding jobs and supports dozens of related local businesses.

He said some local businesses that benefit from the airport's growth are restaurants, catering, tourism and hotels.

A recent Chicago Department of Aviation study shows Midway surpassed 100 percent of its 1992 capacity last year, has 19 active airlines, offers more than 3,600 airport jobs and continues to develop growth among its present users.

Leader is a word that could mean several things to most of us.

Today we are looking for leaders with outstanding feats similar to those of Michael Jordan, who not only have special talents, but make millions of dollars by just appearing on the big screen.

Some of our leaders today are in government, sports, religious and corporate structures. They represent our nation and, of course, you heard of them because of media output. We have leaders in our society now that get their name in the media and yet, have a very controversial lifestyle. But, of course, if you look at their point of view and their results, their leadership is very successful.

Others you may not have heard of, and yet they are the leaders of our communities. I could think of approximately three outstanding, though controversial, people who are respected within the framework of family and community life.

Rev. Michael Pfleger, pastor of St. Sabina Parish in Chicago; Linda Hoffman-Stearn, resident of Oak Lawn; Al Grajek, VFW, POW, founder of the Worth Memorial in Worth, Ill., are the type of leaders I like to write about.

On April 8, 1995, while attending the funeral of my childhood friend, Joan Pfleger, Michael's sister, I had the opportunity to hear Michael give the homily of the mass and the oratory of Joan's life and what her life meant to him.

After hearing him speak, I took a moment to reflect on the past (it was easy, for he spoke for 48 minutes.)

Michael was only three-years-old when the neighborhood children would attend his mass. His sister was at least 10 years his senior, but I remember the influence he had on her. At three, he convinced her to gather up the neighborhood children and attend mass in the basement of his home. Yes, Michael was saying mass and, for communion, he would give out cookies and milk. Well,. as you may know, we just didn't come for the cookies, it was Joanie's threats that brought us to Michael's interpretation of the mass. Michael would try to convince us that we were having fun and, of course, Joanie would give us her look meaning we better act as though we were.

Today, many years later, Michael is not just giving away cookies. He represents a leader who commits to his lifestyle and follows in the way of Jesus by accepting and loving everyone.

Rev. Michael Pfleger is still unique in his behavior and leadership as a priest. He helped his community by protesting cigarette billboards in the neighborhood, drug paraphanalia and illegal actions from businesses and drug dealers on the streets.

Even though Michael expanded from issues of the neighborhood into issues of government, etc., he drew criticism and backlash from the church and society as a whole.

Most people would retreat from such a highly visible action but Rev. Michael Pfleger proceeded year after year with new and better issues to beautify and clean up the neighborhood and community of St. Sabina Parish. The adoption of his son was the first time a caucasian priest took a position of raising a child- second to a black priest, Rev. Clement formerly of Holy Angel Parish.

The act of adoption was an action to show men that fatherhood is a way of life even for a priest. Yes, Rev. Pfleger is a leader, controversial, but still a leader.

Linda Hoffman Stearn, resident of Oak Lawn, was recently selected M.S. Illinois Mother of the year.

Linda Hoffman, 19 and single, did public relations for well-known bands, was best friends with Sonny and Cher and then gave up her lifestyle to take care of four-year-old Charlie, whom she loves very much.

Charlie is now 30-years-old. When Linda first met Charlie, he was institutionalized and abandoned by his parents. He wasn't expected to live considering he is hydrocephaliac and has a shunt implanted in his head to drain out the fluid.

After a year of visiting him, she decided to bring him home to live with her and her parents. I believe she may have been the first in history, at the age of 19 and single, to care for and foster a child from Misericordia Home. We are referring to the 70s when our society disbanned those in institutions. Linda's courageous and loving ways gave us new insights in which we would have never known. And for this, Linda is a true leader, innovative and successful. Her struggle in the fight of a single woman against an institution, who would not allow her to take care of a handicapped and disabled foster child at home, became a success story and used as an example for many people in later years.

Al Grajek is a vet from WWII whose "Forget me not" slogan on the Worth Memorial goes back to the days when he was a prisoner of war. He knew back then he would never forget and worked for years reminding us, also, not to forget.

Al used the word "veteran" when no one else would. In the Roseland neighborhood, in Chicago, he started a barber shop and called it Veteran's Barber Shop. Well, in those days it wasn't too popular to go against the union, but Al believed that veteran's should be treated royally and with reasonable haircut prices.

In fact, Al was the first one to come up with the idea of inexpensive prices for great haircuts.

From the idea of haircuts from Roseland to haircuts from Worth, Al's "Forget me not" idea just wasn't enough. He started a memorial, but this memorial had to be the best, because we "must not forget."

Well, if you want a lesson in history, and a lesson in the arts, and a lesson on the environment, go to the Worth Memorial, at 111th and Harlem Ave., and see for yourself why a man had a dream and wanted us to share that dream because of those few little words, "Forget me not."

Al Grajek - a noble leader who guided us through the history of the wars and told us never to forget. Peace.

OL Parking

"Don't it always seem to go, that you don't know what you've got 'till it's gone. Today Paradise put up a parking lot."

Joni Mitchell

In sharp contrast to the incessant roar of traffic on Central Avenue, a child's swing sways listlessly in the breeze beneath a tall, shady pine and maple canopy. Nearby, a concrete goose peers around a flower bed at the toys of an all too short childhood that lay about, waiting patiently for their owners to return. A sign close by reminds motorists that this indeed is a special place: Caution, Children Playing.

In less than six months, the bulldozers will come and this tiny, verdant relict will be lost forever, entombed beneath a shroud of concrete and never again bear witness to the perennial miracle of Spring.

The village of Oak Lawn decided "a more beneficial use" was in order. Another parking lot would be built in its place.

It seems parking is looked upon by many as a magic elixir guaranteed to cure the ills of an ailing business environment. While this may or may not be the case, the recent rezoning of 9439 S. Central Ave. appears to be entirely unnecessary.

On May 23, the Village Board voted 4-2 to allow the rezoning from Residential to Parking of the latter property, against the recommendation of the Planning and Development Commission.

Initial concerns for the aesthetics of the proposal and the safety of the neighborhood children were addressed, and a "compromise" was offered.

A concrete wall up to six feet tall would be constructed as a "buffer" and "landscaping..shall be installed and constructed as determined by the Planning and Development Commission and as approved by the Board of Trustees" to "ameliorate any hardships or inconveniences surrounding property owners might experience by the new use."

Robert Streit and Marjorie Joy voted against the proposal.

Despite the officious legal phrasing of the ordinance, the fact remains that the same board that disregarded the initial recommendation by the Planning and Development Commission retains final and absolute control over the matter, rendering any future decision of the "Professional" governmental commission virtually meaningless.

While one can certainly argue with a degree of success the rights of a property owner to use one's land as he or she sees fit, one must remember the real meaning behind the enactment of zoning ordinances. Essentially, zoning is used to preserve the success and continuity of land with a similar and common use. Based on the sporadic, hit and miss "spot zoning" activity of the current board, consistency is sadly lacking.

For over an hour the board discussed the Central Ave. rezoning, with Trustee Stancik vigorously arguing on behalf of the petitioner, who owns the vacant Firestone property and adjacent buildings and land. While two small businesses now occupy the complex, at least 52 parking places exist on the existing property and nearby public streets.

The Village Board does not know the type of business that may or may not occupy the property in the future; the number of people that will be employed; the hours the establishment will be open. But the board does know more parking is necessary.

Facing the Firestone building directly across the street is a large vacant parking lot. Unlike most other privately owned lots located throughout the area, a NO PARKING OR YOU WILL BE TICKETED AND TOWED sign is surprisingly absent. It is not uncommon for local businesses patrons to "share" this empty space.

The prevailing attitude of most businesses seems to echo the words of the late Nelson Algren "One side or a leg off, I'm gettin' mine! It's every man for himself in this hired air."

Fortunately, a singular exception exists where a true, neighborly attitude supplants selfishness and greed. That exception is Bob Kuenster, owner of Thompson-Kuenster Funeral Home at 95th and Central.

Mr. Kuenster has no problem sharing his parking lot with his neighbors and fellow businesses. Customers of the ever popular Premo's ice cream stand are welcome and may park in the Kuenster lot, secure in the knowledge a tow truck will not be lurking around the corner. Unfortunately, the good neighbor effect is not reciprocated, based on the imposing towing threats posted on Premo property.

Neighbors having yard parties often use Mr. Kuenster's lot for their guests' parking. Scout troops sometimes take advantage of the owner's generosity and use the impeccably maintained property as a meeting point for long distance outings. How many businesses care enough about the neighborhood children to install a basketball backboard for communal use?

Parking is no doubt expensive. Initial property cost, upkeep, maintenance, taxes and snow plowing are legitimate business concerns. Clearly, a municipality cannot force a private landowner to share his parking facilities with his neighbors, but how far should a village go to accommodate an unknown entity based on the theory that more parking means more business?

Perhaps one answer to the dilemma would be an incentive in the form of a tax-break that could be made available to those who, by nature of their community pride, have the compassion to think of someone other than themselves.

Oak Lawn Library summary of board

Two newly-elected library trustees, Patricia Roberts and Lee Stein, were sworn in by Village Clerk Jane Powers at the Oak Lawn Library board meeting , May 16.

New officers were elected to one-year terms: Joann Buschbach, president; Shirley Barrett, vice president; Robert Honkisz, secretary; Marian Sullivan, treasurer. Lois Gasteyer, immediate past president, remains as a library trustee.

The board set 7:30 p.m. on the third Tuesday of each month as the regular board meeting date.

Authority to seek bids for a new heavy duty copier for the Oak Lawn Public Library was approved at the regular meeting of the board of trustees. The current heavy duty equipment has produced nearly two million copies since its purchase in 1990. The copier is used by library staff for production of inhouse materials including bibliographies, flyers, booklets, packets, board materials, etc. Specifications are available from the Administrative Office. Bids will be opened at the June 20 board meeting. Proposals will be reviewed and a recommendation presented to the board at its meeting, July 18.

In regular business, the board approved payment of $31,957 for library materials; $30,290 for general operations; and $170,242 for personnel.

Marist collects for Kobe

The Marist High School Mission Committee and Champagnat Movement recently collect $2700. from the student body to be sent to the Marist Brothers International School that was destroyed by the recent earthquake in Kobe, Japan.

The Mission Committee was assisted by the Marist chapter of the Champagnat Movement. The Champagnat Movement consists of students who study the spirit of Marcellin Champagnat, the founder of the Marist Brothers of the Schools. They then apply his theories and try to live what they have learned by doing charitable works and showing their faith through their actions.

Mission Committee officers (from left) Matt Windle (Oak Lawn), Bogaslaw Gal (Lemont), John Dugan (Orland Park), Mike Liston (Orland Park), and Mrs. Marge Geraghty (Beverly) presented Bro. Hank Hammer, FMS, Principal, (Beverly with a check for $2700. to be sent to the Marist Brothers in Kobe to rebuild the school devasted in the earthquake.

•The general membership of the Garfield-Ridge Civic League elected their 1995-1996 slate of officers at the May15 meeting. The annual installation of officers dinner will be in September.

On her outlook for the next year, GRCL President Jean Francyk said, "It all depends on the people in the civic league. It's 'we' not 'me.' That's what my husband always says."

Secretary Christopher Davis said, "I came to a couple of meetings and found it entertaining. I'd like to see increased participation."

He added younger homeowners and young local parents have a responsibility to join the civic league to offer input into their community. He also said he realizes that without a crisis most people stay at home and it becomes more difficult to recruit new members.

Elected with these two officers were V.P. Lorraine Laiter, Treasurer Joyce Guinan and Corresponding Secretary Delores Hanch. Also elected was a Seargant at Arms and three trustees.

The 8th District Chicago Alternative Policing Strategy assembly at Curie High School, May 20, drew almost 800 local residents and turned out "real good" according to Officer Shelton of neighborhood relations.

He said police chiefs and commanders spoke to a "great turnout" of residents and offered awards to citizens who have been instrumental in helping thi s year-old program become such a success.

Neighborhood relations also said the 8th District now has a "good working relationship" with the voters and tazpayers of the Garfield-Ridge and Clearing communities (beats 811 & 812 respectively) in taking a bite out of crime.

But, neighborhood relations said it is "too soon to tell" how crime fighting statistics have improved locally with increased community participation.

SEPARATING? DIVORCING?

Your Divorce Lawyer Doesn't Want You To Read This Report

The average person is rarely placed in greater jeopardy-emotionally, financially, and legally than when going through a divorce. The reality of divorce courts is that most litigants leave the courtroom feeling as if they have just been hit by a truck! Even the apparent winner rarely feels good with the outcome.

Divorce Law attempts to fit one of the most painful of adult choices into a legal framework. Some people expect their lawyers to be confessors or even to provide psychological counseling. Others never give their lawyers a chance, regarding them as the enemy when they attempt to compromise with the other side. There are clients who are in such a hurry to conclude their divorce that they waive anything and everything to which they might have a claim.

If you want to avoid the horror stories; if your goal in divorce is a level of self-control, decorum, and reasonableness; if you appreciate your marriage is ending but your parenting will continue; if you don't want to go broke paying legal fees, then call 1-800-294-7311 for the free report.

Gaelic Fest - Muddy, But Fun

by: Kevin Bastian

On a weekend darkened by cloudy skies and thunderstorms, one would only hope to get out for some routine grocery shopping. But it being Memorial Weekend and all, a sense of restlessness and fellowship seems to overcome our usually boring conscience.

Plus, with the addition of the Ninth Annual Chicago Gaelic Park Irish Festival this weekend, one couldn't help but drive with their windshield wipers on overdrive to partake in a great Irish tradition.

The festival, which began Friday, May 26, at 3 p.m., drew large crowds despite the crummy weather. Irish musical acts such as Dave Coady's Irish Express, Aengus, Tommy Makem, Cherish The Ladies, Reeltime and Goats Don't Shave attracted the majority of the crowds with traditional and contemporary music.

The Performing Arts Stage showcased theater groups such as Chicago'sKiltartan who performed a play entitled "In the Deep Heart's Core" and the Gaelic Park Players staged "Did You Hear the One About the Irishman?"

A variety stage was also set up for magic and puppet shows and various performances geared toward children.

And, of course, the beer was flowing. What's an Irish festival without a pitcher of ale in your hand? The three beer stands were able to fully supply the thirsty festival goers.

The only annoyance of the weekend was the horrible weather, though. Torrid rains and winds swept through the park with a vengeance. Walking about the grounds was quite an obstacle as the once Irish-green grass turned into a thick, sticky, quicksand-like mass of mud.

Luckily, the stages and booths were shielded from the weather by tents so the fest was not delayed. The shows went on, the people disregarded the rains and enjoyed themselves thoroughly.

Rock group Goats Don't Shave, back this year by popular demand, headlined the South stage from Saturday to Monday. Their folksy blend of guitars and violin cuts across the likes of John Mellencamp and Counting Crows and the seven-piece band's energetic live show drew a huge following.

For kids, the ride-packed carnival offered rides that spun, twisted and twirled and the petting zoo was sure to please.

Overall, the Gaelic Park Irish Festival was a great success despite of the surprise arrival of "Mudfest." Huge crowds went to show the pride and tradition of the Irish and what a worthwhile establishment the Gaelic Park is.

The Muppets

(NAPS)—Here's some good news for families who like to laugh together. Two of Jim Henson's most popular classics, The Muppet Movie and The Great Muppet Caper are available now on home video. The feature-length films capture the wit, irreverence and charm of Kermit the Frog, Miss Piggy and a wacky crew of classic Muppet characters.

Kermit the Frog in a sleepy Georgia swamp before he meets the dazzling Miss Piggy, who joins him on his path to stardom in "The Muppet Movie."

• The Muppet Movie tells the story of Kermit the Frog's adventurous road to Hollywood after a fateful meeting with a big-time talent agent in a sleepy Georgia swamp. Along the way a cast of lovable Muppet characters, including the dazzling Miss Piggy, join him on his path to stardom.

Great fun all around and utterly beguiling to both grown-ups and small persons.

by: Rick Techman

•With help from Congressman William O. Lipinski (D-3) and Chicago Mayor Richard Daley, 23rd Ward Alderman Mike Zalewski revived the Garfield-Ridge Clearing Senior Center issue through planned meetings with city officials and a past fundraising group.

Last summer a fundraising activity held at the site of the former Sears Outlet Store complex raised an undisclosed amount of money to implement a senior center that has been discussed for at least the past two decades.

In a recent exclusive interview Alderman Mike Zalewski said former Alderman Jim Laski formed a senior organization to handle the fundraising and planning of the center but the future of the group and its goals have been unclear since the city elections.

"It seems," Zalewski said, "to be revolving around a particular organization, the Southwest Side Senior Service Organization. What happened to the funds that were raised? It almost died."

Zalewski said he would have a meeting May 25 with Marty Lewis, an S.S.S.O. officer who could tell him what still needs to be done to go through with the center and what the future of the S.S.S.O. will be.

Zalewski said he's never had contact with Lewis prior to the May 25 meeting and could not make any confirmations on where the center stands until talking to Lewis, Mayor Daley, Commissioner Smith from the Department of Aging and Congressman Lipinski.

He also said he needed input from other senior groups in the ward before making any set plans.

He added if Lewis and the S.S.S.O. can not continue working on the senior center program, Zalewski said he would ask Lewis to have the funds raised in the past transfered to currently active senior organizations interested in taking on the senior center implementation.

"There are a number of groups out here," Zalewski said, "I'm just telling them to hang in there."

Zalewski added with savings in every department the Chicago Department of Aging considers the senior center on Kedzie a southwest side full service facility and insists meeting with Mayor Daley and Congressman Lipinski will be necessary to get the center moving again.

Zalewski concluded, "one thing you're gonna get from me is honesty and that's exactly where we're at right now."

Yearly scholarships awarded

The Ladies Philoptochos Society of Saint Nicholas Greek Orthodox Church in Oak Lawn, is the philantropic arm of the church and the second largest women's organization in the nation.

One of the many projects of the Saint Nicholas Philoptochos, is to award a yearly scholarship to a member or family member of the organization who wishes to further their education by attending a college or university.

Irene Mishos, President of the Philoptochos presented a check to Christina Marchione, Alexis Paramboukas and Gayle Kamberos, this year's recipients.

FATHER'S DAY IDEAS

Give The Gift Of Helping

(NAPS)—This year, give Dad a gift that he can really use and one that the kids can afford—the gift of helping.

Bill Stuart, developer of CleanTools™ car care products including the absorber®, recommends starting with a basic task like washing the car.

"Kids can be involved at any age," said Stuart. "The trick is to teach them how to do it and make it fun."

"The neat thing about cars," Stuart adds, "is that when your kids are done, they'll be able to see the results."

In addition to helping Dad, they also learn responsibility and pride in a job well done.

Start with a basic car care routine, after all, kids love to play in the water. Attached are some helpful tips you can cut out and save.

As you get your kids involved there are a couple of things to remember. They'll be interested as long as you show interest in them, so work with your children as you show them the ropes. Take extra time to explain each step. Demonstrate and be patient.

As a special gift, give Dad the absorber to dry the car, then show him you really care by putting it to work for him.

Helping dad around the house is a great gift for Father's Day.

Automotive specialty stores, such as AutoZone, CarQuest, Pep Boys, and TrakAuto carry the absorber; hardware stores including Ace, Coast-to-Coast, HWI and True Value; or the automotive section of Kmart, Target and Wal-Mart.

For more information on the absorber or CleanTools products, call (800) 654-3933.

Commission Sheehan presents check

Commissioner Nancy Drew Sheehan of the Metropolitan Water Reclamation District of Greater Chicago presented a check recently to Marilyn D. Altman, Associate Campaign Director of the Jewish United Fund of Metropolitan Chicago.

The check, which was for $2,000, represented a donation from Mesirow Financial who participated in the most recent bond sale by the Water Reclamation District. Commissioner Sheehan joined with other Commisioners to donate the funds that would have been used for a dinner for the underwriters involved in the bond sale, recognizing that money would be much better used for the Jewish United Fund charitable purposes.

Memorial dedication

by: Frank Soczek

On May 28, 1995 the 9000 block of South Oakley Ave. in Chicago received the designation LCPL John A. Guldan Ave in honor of Mr. Guldan, a Beverly resident and Marist H.S. graduate who was killed in Viet Nam in 1970.

Friends, neighbors and relatives gathered on the corner of the block where the young soldier grew up, as John DeCosta and John Cherry unveilled the memorial street sign.

Among the guests attending the simple but moving ceremony were Alderwoman Ginger Rugai, State Senator O'Malley, a U.S.M.C. color guard and Dan Devane who played a haunting rendition of "Amazing Graee" on the bagpipes as he led the procession of those who had not forgotten the little boy who onee ran the tree lined streets of Oakley Ave.

FOOD FOR 'SECONDS'

Don't put your tastes in the sand: Ostrich may be on the menu

by Anita Anderson

The small sample plate of ostrich did not appear inviting. I gazed at the small slices of sausage and the slivers of meat and decided to pop the offering into my mouth. All thoughts of past zoo outings when we would admire the ungainly grey fuzzy birds were pushed to the back of mind.

It was Food Marketing Institute time at McCormick Place, the supermarket convention where the food industry presents the good, great and unusual food that will appear in your grocery store.

According to the reps from ATF Trading House, Inc. in Beaverton, Oregon who specialize in the unique and exotic, ostrich meat can be found on expensive restaurant menus. The meat is the gourmet's red meat alternative and is raised on U.S. farms.

The meat is low in fat and cholesterol and has no artificial additives, chemicals and hormones. The bird is the largest in the world and some are nine feet tall and weigh up to 400 pounds. An ostrich egg weighs 3-4 pounds, equivalent to 24 chicken eggs. Ostriches can live up to 80 years.

The meat is common in African countries and very new here. Cuts include tenderloin, strip steaks, top loin and prime round from which the sausage I tried was made.

All orders are custom cut and processed. If you're interested, call 503-644-3544. The fax is the same number.

I also noted Ginger Aid, a new herb tea blending ginger, blackberry leaf and a hint of lemon. Rubschlager Baking Corporation offered healthy cocktail chips in caraway rye, garlic, pizza and chili corn. They contain less than one gram of fat and have no preservatives.

You will be able to buy sunflower seeds dipped in chocolate by Setton's Pistachios Farm International and coffee lovers looking for a new twist can buy nonfat treats in a shaker jar in such flavors as pure vanilla powder, rich chocolate per cinnamon or nutmeg. They are made by Lochhead Vanilla Co.

Ore-Ida has a hearty, six-cut potato wedge coated with a lightly seasoned batter which promises to hold up better and reheated with no sacrifice to the appearance and flavor.

According to Lynn Dornblaser, publisher of New Product News in Chicago, healthy, good-for-you foods are making a comeback because of the effects of the Nutritional Labeling and Education Act.

Dornblaser, who spoke at one of the several seminars offered during the three day gathering sees speed/scratch mixes coming on big. Mixes, sauces and kits offer partially prepared products like SeaPak Shrimp Sensations Kit, Nestle Asian Favorite or Hormel Omelet Master Omelets.

Cuisines from other countries are emerging from Hawaii the Near East with its couscous mixes and grains, satays from Thailand or Jamaican beef patties.

Never one to shrink from predictions in the food world Dornblaser sees ice cream and sherbet going "tropical" with flavors like passionfruit, mango or guava.

She sees more gelatin/yogurt combinations and microwaveable pretzels and peanuts. Also, this year we won't be forced to eat the pink, cotton-textured tomato when the Calgene McGregor Bio-engineered tomato will replace it. Price will be higher but will taste much better.

You will soon see flavored tuna fish in cans with hints of curry, lemon pepper, tomato and onion, tuna Mornay and Tuna Italienne when British and Australian packers send them to our shores.

And finally, other hot items for 1995 according to Dornblaser include flavored olive oils, hot cookies, whipped yogurt toppings, cranberry-flavored ice cream, fresh veggies with their own sauces, aerosol peanut butter and toaster-ready stuffed sandwiches.

Midwestern Country Cooking

By Frank Boblak

Something new is being added to the Village View Newspaper. It is Midwestern Country Cooking. This column will contain recipes and cooking hints on real "old fashioned" cooking.

HOME-MADE NOODLES & NOODLE BITS

The noodles in this recipe can be used with chicken soup or any other clear-broth soup. The fine noodle bits are for mushroom soup. You will need a good-sized pastry board to make the noodles and bits. It should be 18"X24" or larger. Your guests will be delighted and you can be proud because you made these noodles or noodle bits yourself.

HOME-MADE NOODLES (6-8 servings)

3 qts water
1 egg
2 scant cups flour
1/2 tspn salad oil
1 tspn salt

Combine egg, 1/2 tspn salt and salad oil in bowl. Beat with a fork till smooth. Add flour a little at a time. Keep mixing until a ball is formed which can be kneaded with your hands. Coat pastry board with flour. Roll out the dough with a rolling pin until it is about 1/8" thick. Cover with a clean cloth. Let the dough rest about 15 minutes.

Cut dough into 2" strips. Cut each long strip in half. Then stack them on top of each other and cut crosswise into 1/8" pieces. Add 1/2 tspn salt to water and bring to a rapid boil. Slowly add noodles to water and stir so they do not lump. Cook for 20 minutes, or until noodles are tender. Drain in colander.

NOODLE BITS

Follow dough recipe as above, except use 2 qts of water. Then, using a French chef's knife, chop noodles into fine bits. Cover with a clean cloth and let bits rest 15 minutes. Add 1/2 tspn salt to water and bring to a rapid boil. Slowly add bits to water and stir so they do not lump. Reduce heat and simmer for 20 minutes. Do not drain. Now add the mushroom ingredients to the pot.

UPDATED BEEF STROGANOFF

Total preparation and cooking time: 25 minutes

1	pound beef tenderloin tips
1-1/2	cups uncooked farfalle (bow tie) pasta
1/2	pound mushrooms, cut into 1/2-inch slices
1/3	cup coarsely chopped onion
2	teaspoons vegetable oil
1 to 2	tablespoons all-purpose flour
3/4	cup ready-to-serve beef broth
1	tablespoon sliced green onion
1/4	cup dairy sour half-and-half

1. Cook pasta according to package directions. Keep warm.
2. Meanwhile trim fat from beef; cut into 1 x 1/2-inch pieces. Spray large nonstick skillet with vegetable cooking spray. Heat skillet over medium-high heat until hot. Add beef (1/2 at a time) and stir-fry 1 to 2 minutes or until outside surface is no longer pink. Remove from skillet; keep warm. Season with salt and pepper, if desired.
3. In same skillet, cook mushrooms and onion in oil 2 minutes or until tender; stir in flour. Gradually add broth, stirring until blended. Bring to a boil; cook and stir 2 minutes. Return beef to skillet; heat through.
4. Serve beef mixture over pasta. Sprinkle with green onion; pass sour half-and-half to dollop on top.

Makes 4 servings (serving size: 1/4 of recipe).

Nutrition information per serving: 344 calories; 30 g protein; 15 g fat (5 g saturated fatty acids); 121 calories from total fat (77 calories from fat in beef); 77 mg cholesterol; 4.9 mg iron; 344 mg sodium.

The Spirit of Puerto Rican Rum

SAN JUAN COOLER
(Makes 1 serving)

2 ounces Puerto Rican light rum
1 ounce cranberry juice
1 ounce orange juice
1 ounce pineapple juice
Lemon-lime soda

Fill tall glass with ice cubes. Add rum, juices and soda. Stir. Garnish with lime slice, if desired.

GREAT GRILLING

(NAPS)—You, your family and friends may have a hot time at your next get-together if you get into the thrill of the grill.

Canned pineapple not only fits into the 5 A Day plan but also makes things easier on the cook. For example, consider their role in this recipe for superior sweet and sour spareribs:

SWEET AND SOUR SPARERIBS

Prep: 1 hr. Cook: 20 min. Makes: 10 servings

4 pounds pork spareribs, cut in 2-inch pieces
1 can (20 oz.) Dole® Crushed Pineapple
3/4 cup Dole Pineapple Juice
1/4 cup lite soy sauce
1/4 cup ketchup
2 tablespoons honey
1 tablespoon cider vinegar
2 cloves garlic, minced
1/2 teaspoon chopped fresh ginger
1 tablespoon cornstarch

• Place ribs in large pot; cover with water. Bring to boil. Reduce heat to low; cover, cook 1 hour or until almost tender. Drain.

• Drain pineapple; reserve juice. Reserve pineapple for serving sauce.

• Stir together reserved juice, pineapple juice, soy sauce, ketchup, honey, vinegar, garlic and ginger in bowl.

• Place ribs on grill and brush frequently with sauce, until ribs are cooked, about 20 minutes.

• Return sauce to saucepan, add reserved crushed pineapple and cornstarch. Heat to boiling and until sauce has thickened. Serve with spareribs.

Anti crime tips by street savvy cops

Karon White Gibson, R.N., a former emergency room and psychiatric nurse has created an alliance with two former Chicago Police Decoys, Det. Ralph "Hoot" Gibson and Inv. Gil Broderick, also Gang Crime Specialists and Swat Team members to educate the public. Men, women, children and senior citizens benefit from the demonstrations and tips that these police "stars" portray and display on each other as well as the seminar participants.

Street Savvy Safety teaches you how to be safe and secure in your home, on the street or at work. You must follow easy rules. You make yourself a hard target by....

• Staying Aware: Walk witha purpose and look around constantly. Mopes want to attack those who will not be able to identify them so they attack the slow, preoccupied and scared. You can look tough and sure even when you aren't. Keep your keys on your person, hidden from view, not in something that may get taken away from you easily. House keys taken from you and identifiable may be used to enter your home before you return. Utilize money machines and bank tellers that are well lit and crowded, and hide your money before leaving-never-make others aware of the amount of your withdrawals nor where you keep it.

•While driving, doors must be locked. Rear car doors are an easy entry. When experiments are done for TV, often doors are locked. People who read books, papers or maps are the ones who will find an attacker trying to enter because they are occupied and unaware. Some thieves will even create an incident like bumping your car to get you out to assess the damage; and, when you get out they attack. If your car is hit, turn on emergency lights and talk with the windows closed. If someone says they are the police, wait for identification or drive on to a well-lit and crowded place to carry on the conversation. Call in the accident from your phone. Use a hand-held phone, it will not die out if your car motor stalls.

•Remember, you are vulnerable while pumping gas and so is your car. Keep the keys with you so the motor will be off and keep those doors locked so no one can gain entry and surprise you.

•Developing a strategy may keep you safe. Practice your reactions - those minutes when you are startled by someone are critical (just as unarmed decoys), therefore, you must react while the mope has the least control over you. Fall down, kick, scream, fight, act crazy, hit or get away. Do not be subservient. Mopes mistake kindness for weakness.

•Women must learn to create noise and react purposefully to get the attention of onlookers in anyway possible to gain help of others and to hurt the assailant to prevent injury to the victim. Women must learn to be able to fight instantly when necessary to save their lives or those of their children. This is a hard lesson for a woman since they are not taught to fight as children. Carry personal weapons.

•Weapons such as knives and guns are not a a good idea unless you are trained to use them and know that if you have to pull it; it must be used, not as a threat but as a personal safety device. If the mope takes it away from you it will only help the attacker. Pepper sprays are great, they render the attacker defenseless and usually marks him with a dye that is used to help police identify the person. Train youself to use the spray so you don't use the wrong end and carry it ina very handy place so you won't fumble for it. Check with the police in the state you live in as to the regulations about carrying the spray and ask the airlines before you board a plane. Mace may not work on drug addicts or drunks.

•If mopes see you carrying this spray, which will work at long distances, or they see a large set of keys on a ring, and they feel that you are prepared; they don't want to deal with a hard target with so many easy ones around.

•Try to get away immediately if you are threatened or grabbed. If someone wants your money, he doesn't have to take you elsewhere to get it. Break and run, if you cannot get away when you are in broad view of others, how will you be able to get away when you are alone? Statistics show people have a chance to get away if they run fast and immediately.

•Personal safety alarms are good for kids or attache cases. The alarm can be hooked on to either and when pulled loose lets out a loud, ear-piercing noise that scares the mope and gets everyone looking your way. A personal alarm may be mistaken for a car alarm so it is good to carry pepper spray, too.

•Often, attackers try to hit you over the head and when you bend down, they have you at a disadvantage; you must get away by running right out of the item that they get a hold of, your fur coat or any other item of clothing. Do not hold on to it-let it go. Some women have even had their underwear pulled down and have bent over to pull it back up and have been attacked or their purse has been grabbed while in this uncompromising position.

•Do not decrease your level of attention with loud music, sun glasses or anything else. Stay in areas that are crowded. In bad neighborhoods, it may be safer while well-lit.

•If you feel unsure of anyone, throw them off with statements to nonexistent companions if necessary. Make them believe someone is in the house with you or yell to someone else as if you know them. Get off of any elevator that another suspicious person gets on. Identify emergency buttons and alarms as soon as you enter an elevator and be near and ready to use them. Push them all to give yourself an exit. When you get scared, it is for a reason, react then and don't turn back.

Students volunteer at pediatrics

Students from Queen of Peace High School in Burbank recently hand-delivered stuffed animals, toys and games to pediatric patients at Christ Hospital and Medical Center, Oak Lawn, in what was dubbed "Project Love."

The event was organized by students participating in a course titled "Life Choices" at the high school. The students designed the service project themselves, contacting Christ Hospital for permission to deliver the gifts donated by Queen of Peace students, faculty and staff.

McAuley students achieve history fair honors

Research into Chicago's past history proved profitable for a number of Mother McAuley High School juniors who were rewarded for their efforts at the Chicago Metro History Fair Finals held early in May at the Harold Washington Libriary.

Rebecca Englert, Deanna Prestinario and Cassandra Workman were awarded monetary prizes by the Polish National Alliance for their exhibits on Polish immigration. Cassandra's project also won a superior rating when it advanced to the All-Illinois History Exposition in Springfield. Janette Houk and Jacqueline Super, won recognition for their work on the early history of Oak Lawn, and Jeffifer Powers was awarded a grant from the Margaret Dougherty Foundation for her exhibit on Irish immigrants and St. James Church at the Sag Bridge. Both of these projects earned excellent ratings in Springfield.

Other McAuley local and regional Metro HIstory Fair winners who advanced to the Chicago fials were Meghan Daly, Lauren Douville, AnnFlaherty and Kristen Pluta, Rita Gianoli and Leslie Slomka, Jennifer Haugh, and Bridget Higgins. All the finalists received books on Chicago history and certificates in recognition of their efforts.

The girls are students in the team-taught American Studies program. The focus of the American Studies program is a study of the American character and the American Quest, as well as a full appreciation of the effects of history upon literature. Their teachers are Mr. Susan Farrell, Sister Nancy Houlihan, Mrs. Jan McAliffe and Mrs. Mary Kay Menke.

Did You Know?

(NAPS)—According to a recent survey commissioned by the North American Insulation Manufacturers Association, the fiberglass and slag wool insulation industries combined to use over 1.5 billion pounds of recycled glass and slag in 1993 production of thermal and acoustical insulation.

To help our economy, much of the products we buy must be made here, suggests Robert E. Swift, executive director of the Crafted with Pride in the U.S.A. Council.

A new novel, Joshua and the City, attempts to answer the question of how Jesus would address the problems of modern urban society. The book is available at local bookstores.

Christ Hospital helps patients

NurseCarol Pisano does a blood pressure reading during a follow-up outpatient visit for John Gallagher of Evergreen Park, a patient in Christ Hospital and Medical Center's CHF Transitional Care Program.

Brother Rice students learn dangers of D.U.I.

Brother Rice High School seniors listen intently to a mock D.U.I. trial presided over by the Hon. J. Martin Berry (left) of Evergreen Park, a judge with the Cook County Circuit Court and a 1964 graduate of the school. With Judge Berry is 1974 Brother Rice graduate Michael Zaglifa, a sergeant with the Palos Hills Police Department. Playing the role of defendant was Brother Rice senior Gino Martino of Evergreen Park.

The trial was conducted just as an actual D.U.I. trial would be, complete with attorneys; a spokesperson for Mothers Against Drunk Driving (M.A.D.D.) and a representative for the insurance industry. The attorneys were played by assistant state's attorney John Coyne of Palos Park, a 1972 Brother Rice graduate; 1971 graduate Craig Miller of Evergreen Park, an attorney with Miller & Sopata in Oak Lawn, and attorney Charles Antonette. Nell Givens of M.A.D.D. and Earl Zastro of State Farm Insurance were also participants.

The students were shown what it would be like if they were to be arrested for D.U.I. They were told about the costs of hiring an attorney, court fines and raising insurance rates in addition to potentially losing their drivers license and causing injury or death to other persons or themselves. The trial was part of Brother Rice's Law Week, an annual event meant to show seniors to be responsible for their actions with such upcoming events as prom and graduation parties on the horizon. Law Week is put on by History and Law instructor Dennis Duffy of Everygreen Park.

Son of resident of Oak Lawn is a Navy All Star

Norfolk, Va.-Working hard in the Navy pays off in more ways than one. Just ask Bart Pernai, son of Ceal Beyeri, of Oak Lawn, Il.

When he tried out for an all-star Navy baseball team, Pernai competed against more than 75 sailors form ships and installations in the Norfolk area for one of 25 sports on the teams, and made it.

Now Pernai, a machinist mate onboard the carrier USS Enterprise, and his teammates will be playing against 22 of the best female baseball players in the United States, when they take on the Colorado Silver Bullets.

The Silver Bullets are the only all-female professional baseball team in America, managed by former pitcher and Baseball Hall of Famer Phil Neikro.

"It's exciting to compete against an all-star female baseball team. We might be on television. We'll be playing at Harbor Park, in Norfolk, and RFK Stadium, in Washington, D.C. I've got butterflies in my stomach already."

Pernai plays third base for the Navy team. While many of the players are from the carrier Enterprise, like Pernai, other sailors were selected through open tryouts. In 1993, the Navy team finished second in the Men's Adult Baseball League Fall Classic in Clearwater, Fl.

Pernai feels a little pressure in competing against the Silver Bullets, and representing the Navy, but says he is confident that if he and his teammates do their best and have a good time they can win.

"I believe our manager, Jeffrey Dudukovich (who Pernai played with last year on the USS Enterprise baseball team), did a good job of picking a good team. I definitely think we have a good chance at beating the Bullets," Pernai said.

Pernai's hobbies, strangely enough, include "baseball, baseball, baseball, more baseball and the baseball team.

"I have learned many skills in the Navy and have learned hard work does payoff, not only in baseball, but professionally. I didn't know anything about the nuelear power field and now I'm working on a degree in nuclear technology. The Navy's taught me how to take control of a situation and make it work." With a little luck, Pernai will "make it work" on the ball field.

Your Financial Future

Gotta-run:

That's been the attitude of many harried investors in bond funds this year as they flee the effects of rising interest rates and scares over misuse of derivative securities by some portfolio managers.

Since the value of high-yield junk bonds is based in large part on credit quality and not merely yield, these funds have been hurt the least. As a result, outflows from junk-bond funds this year have totaled only $2 billion.

Tax-exempt Municipal bond funds, buoyed by the claws of supply and demand, have seen about $11 billion taxable bond funds, which live only by interest rates, was hammered the hardest. Nervous investors viewing the dismay results took a whopping $39 billion out of these funds. Bank accounts and money-market funds were likely beneficiaries of those fleeing dollars.

With the possibility of a more stable interest rate environment ahead it's time to stop and think rather than just run and hide. Unless you can really find a better place to put your money or you're a short term investor, you should not be so quick to bolt your bond fund.

It's true that if people think interest rates are going to rise dramatically, they should not be thinking about bond funds, at least for the short term. But if they are already in bond funds and have a 5 to 10 year term horizon, they should stay the course and realize rate movement is simply an inherent part of the bond market.

Investors also should keep in mind that long term bond funds carry greater risk from rate gyrations than those holding bonds of shorter duration, which is why the most successful funds the last 12 months kept maturities short.

Best junk bond funds to be in over the last 12 months, says Morning Star, were: Northeast Investors Trust, Boston $582 Million in Assets; no load (no initial sales charge), $1,000 minimum; total return of 10.96 percent.

Top result for national tax-exempt municipal bond funds over the 12 month period was: Twentieth Century Tax Exempt Short Term. Kansas City, Mo.; $58 million in assets; no load; $10,000 minimum; total return of 2.93 percent.

Best return in investment-G-Note, taxable bonds over 12 months was: Hotchkis and Wiley Low Duration Fund. Los Angeles; $12 Million; no load; $5,000 minimum; total return of 5.38 percent.

25% Discount on our Summer Speech Program when you sign up now!

The Sertoma Speech & Hearing Center provides a summer program of continued therapy/tutoring for children with hearing, or speech/language problems in group sessions that run from June through the middle of August. The group sessions, held at the Center's Palos Hills and Flossmoor locations, are for children up to the age of 21. The cost is $51.50 per hour ($27.75 per ½ hr.) of therapy. (A signed contract is required prior to the first session.) Scaled fees are available upon approval.

Sessions are available without an evaluation if a referral is accompanied by:

. A current diagnostic statement, including a copy of any diagnostic work done at the school.

. A current individual education program (IEP) or individual family service plan (IFSP), including goal achievement dates.

For those children who have never received a speech evaluation, one is necessary prior to enrollment in the summer program. Progress reports are issued at the end of the program.

For information, call the Center at (708) 599-9500.

Pregnancy Center unaffected by law

by Rick Techman

Governor Edgar's teenage abortion consent law requiring 48 hour parental notification preceding an abortion in Illinois for any woman under age 18 will probably have no effect on the Southside Pregnancy Center in Oak Lawn.

Jean Cortez, SPC president, said, "I think parents should be informed. We do work with parents."

She explained, "We are not a medical center." She also said the Oak Lawn SPC counsels young women with crisis pregnancies, particularly pregnant teens, and in almost 99 percent of the situations at hand, a parent is actively involved.

"We really encourage her," Cortez said, "to talk to her parents so hopefully that young woman can say, 'I can make it'. We're very pro-family," she concluded.

Cortez said the SPC encourages abstinence, provides ongoing help for single moms, provides pregnancy classes and offers G.E.D. and job training classes among other things.

She also said since the ACLU decided to put up a court challenge to the parental consent law, it most likely will not even take effect for two or three more years.

She added the bill Governor Edgar signed is the Illinois House of Representatives version which is weaker than the senate version and most likely would have little effect on pregnant teenagers even if it with stands a court challenge.

She explained the senate bill requires the parents consent only for a teen to get an abortion whereas the house bill allows any adult relative of a teen to consent to an abortion.

Despite whether the parental consent law makes it through the courts, Cortez added, the SPC already has the support of almost all parents involved in crisis teen pregnancies on the southside.

Evergreen Park gets new ZIP

•After two decades of fighting to divorce itself from its 60642 ZIP code, Evergreen Park will have a new ZIP code.

Beginning July 1, the village's code will be 60805.

Evergreen used to share its ZIP code with Chicago's Southwest Side.

Evergreen Park's residents look forward to lower insurance rates with the new ZIP code. Chicago codes tend to have a higher insurance rate based on accident, crime and fire rates.

Also, complaints concerning misdirected mail have been abundant due to the sharing of the ZIP code with Chicago.

Burbank celebrates 25th year of incorporation

Rick Techman

About 10,000 people lined 79th street from Cicero Avenue to Sayer Sunday, June 11 for the Burbank 25th Anniversary of Incorporation parade. Village mayors from throught the southwest side and other government leaders including State Representative Michael Madigan (D-22) shared the reviewing stand with Burbank Mayor Harry Klein and State Treasurer Judy Baar Topinka, parade marshall.

Just Between You And Me

Guest Column by Julie Baker

If you, like me, happen to live in the area between 87th to 91st Street and Central to Austin Avenue, from the end of May to about the end of June you live in the Cottonwood belt of Oak Lawn and it's cottonwood picking time again.

The joys of outdoor gardening and yard summer fun are rudely interrupted. Even porch sitting to read, or just plain people watching is everywhere is disrupted by showers of silk cotton-like particles dancing everywhere your eyes can see. Forget also the friendly over-the-fence chats to catch up with your neighbors after the winter retreat. Oh, and if you have a cook-out, make sure you have nets for everything. Don' t speak lest the funny pest finds a way into your mouth. You have two other choices: one is to wear a mask and the other is not to inhale. My preference is to order out and eat in.

For those of you fortunate people who are not familiar with cottonwood, allow me to congratulate you for your good fortune. Second, bear with me while I attempt to explain what cottonwood is.

Cottonwood is the local common name for a tree with flat, somewhat heart-shaped leaves with small, jagged edges. These leaves grow in clusters on small, knobby stems that sprout out of long branches. In this area, a full grown tree is generally taller than the other surrounding species of tree. In the spring, the tree produces about a four to five inch, narrow cone-like pod. In the early stages, the pod is purple. Asit matures, the inside turns white. When it opens, it looks like a long wad of loose, white cotton and shortly after, the small cotton particles are released into the air. They can cloud a sunny day, litter lawns and gardens and clog not only rainspouts and sewers, but one's nose and throat.

Cottonwood picking time gives you the option of first using your sprinkling devices to actively, but ineffectively battle the white fuzzy pest. Upon the arrival of these fuzzy invaders I target their landing with my automatic hose and in a few minutes they look more like spilled, cooked oatmeal on the edges of the lawn, flower beds, and everwhere in the ground where the fuzzzy mess had accumulated.

On the positive side this option releases some of my stress over the unsightly mess. On the negative side it creates another mess. The second option is to retreat to the privacy of my home and wait for the fuzz to settle or for the temporary relief offered by natures own watering system.\

Thirdly, there is the option of asking the Oak Lawn Park District to cut all the thirteen cottonwood trees on Schubert Park and the one tree on the Oak Lawn Activity Center at Menard and 90th Street. (The park has the largest number of cottonwood trees in this area.) In addition, there are two cottonwood trees on a parkway, eight on a small, vacant property behind the Menard Activity Center and 3 in the vacant lot directly west of Schubert Park. Could the village of Oak Lawn have these trees cut? I think yes, not only for the aesthetic appearance of the area, but also for the health of those who suffer from respiritory illness and allergies caused by tree pollen and other vegitation. Furthermore, the village could also request the removal of any existing cottonwood on private property where new home construction is scheduled to begin. Obviously, we canot request property owners to cut down such trees from their property. But the removal of these trees from the vacant lots, the Park District Property, parkways and any new construction sites in the neighborhood will total 26 trees and that is 1/3 of the 76 cottonwood trees in the area. The village will bemoving in the right direction and so will the constituency who lives in the cottonwood belt.

Oak Lawn Village Board meeting of June 13

by: Frank Soczek

Mayor Kolb learned first hand last night what others often take a lifetime to discover. *Nice guys sometimes do finish last.

Following a brief explanation of the new, "experimental" Oak Lawn Village Trustee meeting format, the room was uncharacteristically silent. As the mayor apologetically outlined the new changes which allowed for a half-hour of public comment on meeting agenda topics that followed a truncated "new business" discussion by the trustees, an embarassing stillness remained.

At this time, the mayor could have brought down his gavel and proceeded to the next order of business. And his obligations under the new meeting format would have been fulfilled. But the mayor thoughtfully cajoled the reticent citizens to speak. And like teenagers timidly entering a gymnasium dance floor, one by one their shyness disappeared. And the good mayor probably wished he would have been a little quicker on the draw with his little wooden "peace-maker."

It became quickly obvious that the new "half-hour" limitation on public input was construed as an attempt to curtail, rather than enhance citizen dialog. Questions regarding availability of information packets (documents containing background material on agenda items) were raised, along with the lack of opportunity for "give and take" dialog once the meeting began and trustee positions became evident on agenda topics. The official response to the latter concern was that once the initial period for "discussion" was completed, no further questions or comments would be allowed by the audience.

Trustee Stancik once again noted what he felt were "choreographed" attempts by various opposition groups to dominate and disrupt the meeting. Trustee Walsh stated the "attacks" on individual trustees by citizens with "personal" disputes should be worked out privately, and not at the expense of a public body already under significant time constraints.

Questions regarding the various committee schedules were raised, specifically the absence of a formal calendar listing the meeting times and dates. Village Clerk Jayne Powers explained a list is available upon request and reiterated certain committees have met on the same schedule for many years.

Much like their constituents, the individual trustees were unusually candid in their initial "new business" discussions. Few used even a fragment of the allocated "2 1/2 minutes" while Trustee Streit took full advantage of his allotment with a smug, "I told you so" lambasting of a recently failed Village bid to procure the Pace bus property and a clearly anticpated reference to similar ill-fated Village designs on the Brandt property.

Among the new business topics addressed was a request by Cy Holesha to investigate traffic speeds on 95th Street between Southwest Highway and Austin Ave. Mr. Holesha expressed concern that accelerating speeds by motorists on this particular part of the busy highway posed a potential threat to students of the High School and customers of nearby businesses....

Marjorie Joy requested a resolution honoring Dr. Johnson of School District 122 for twenty two years of service to the community.

Ron Stanecik requested a progress report on the budget following a reorganization of the Quality Control Committee.

Michael Walsh inquired about a proposal being considerd by the Legal and Ordinance Committee that provided for community service for shoplifting offenders convicted in the Village.

Dr. Mike Lambert of Christ Hospital presented a plaque in appreciation of the efforts of Oak Lawn telecommunicators who recently saved the lives of at least two people with their diligent instructions during medical emergencies.

Dr. Lambert praised Paul Warnick for the verbal instructions he gave to save a thirteen year old girl from choking to death and Laura Skala for a similar explanation of C.P.R. techniques she gave over the phone after a man was discovered collapsed on a doorstep.

Oak Lawn Communications Center is the first in the area to be trained in pre-arrival instructions, and the short, critical 5 minute period before an ambulance arrives can mean life or death for the victim, particularly in cases of cardiac arrest and choking.

John Siakotos, owner of Freshline foods was sternly chastised by Mayor Kolb and several trustees for failing to comply with previous agreements to improve his property. Mr. Siakotos had petitioned for a zoning variation involving the alley behind his store. The board voted unanimously to table the petition until such time the latter agreements (a masonry wall to store corrugated cartons, additional landscaping, numerous safety and health related citations) achieve compliance.

The board voted unanimously to renew a five year lease for the Multimedia Cable aerial tower at 9727 S. Central. Trustee Joy initially urged further study of the matter, noting a possible competitive advantage for the leasee.

A lively discussion ensued over the expenditure of $250.00 for an advertisement promoting Oak Family Days. Although the majority initially balked at the "exhorbitant" fee for the tiny display ad, Bob Streit's reminder that over two hundred thousand dollars was spent on the failed Brandt project quickly caused the dissenters to reconsider. A unanimous approval followed shortly thereafter.

Like the traditional fireworks display following an evening at old Comiskey Park, the sly smile on the face of Bob Streit near the end of the evening's agenda was a sure portent that a pyrotechnic exhibition would be forthcoming. With his usual panache, Streit temporarily bowled over Village Attorney Partick Lucansky with a unique interpretation of the phrasing of the existing Village meeting ordinance. Sensing the futility of such a heavy weight legal dialog, Trustee Walsh quickly came to the aid of his fellow attorney and called for an immediate adjournment.

The last item on the agenda, the removal of a liquor license to reflect the closing of the Dairy Basket was accomplished with remarkable haste.

The various fields of industry includes, banking, insurance and real estate.

HI TECH

Rick Techman, Garfield Ridge, Clearing correspondent

• Businessperson and community advocate Anita Cummings said, "The biggest thing is I'm back to my business," describing her life since running in four past elections.

She briefly became philosophical recalling Abraham Lincoln had at least 13 business and political defeats before being elected President in 1860. Though she made no set plans, she added being distanced in time from her defeats allowed her to ponder the possibility of continued political activities.

"I do slow down during the summer," she said. "I'm not as aggressively active." She also said she is glad to see her children back from college.

She said, "Economic development breeds economic development" and explained the 23rd Ward would not have the new streets, Orange Line, and other improvements without a busy, active major airport.

"More credit," she concluded, "should be given to the business community. I'm glad to be a part of that."

She explained how the United Business Association of Midway, a group she co-founded ten years ago, supports a strong Midway Aitport and 23rd Ward with participation from memberships that include local businesses, banks, the airlines and government.

She also said she is eager to see how the new 23rd Ward Alderman, Michael Zalewski, will move the community ahead in his freshman term.

• The Ninth Annual Men's Wellness Event will take place Saturday, June 17, between 8 a.m. and noon. Bulls clinic at Marist

by Rick Techman

The Chicago Bulls and Gatorade are presenting the ninth annual Gatorade/Bulls Summer Basketball Clinics. Bulls players Steve Kerr and Jud Buechler will be at Marist High School (4200 W. 111th St, Chicago) on Tuesday, June 27, at 1 p.m.

Ten youth clinics will be held throughout the Chicagoland area with each accomodating a maximum of 1,000 kids. Two Bulls' players/coaches will conduct each clinic to teach basics of basketball and to encourage Chicago's youth to stay in school., study hard and say no to drugs.

The ten clinics are free and open to the public. Kids at each clinic will receive a free pair of Gatorade/Bulls wristbands and everyone attending will be treated to free Gatorade. Each clinic will last one and a half hours.

If you would like to bring a group of 20 kids or more to a clinic, you must call (312) 455-4137 to pre-register your group at least two weeks prior to the clinic date.

Chicago seniors eligible for 50% off decals

by Rick Techman

• Chicago City Clerk James Laski's office offers any Chicago resident age 65 or more a 50 percent discount on a city automobile window decal if purchased by July 15.

A receptionist at the Chicago city clerk's office said seniors should get a yellow card in the mail in place of the conventional blue and white renewal notice. She said the yellow notice will allow a retiree to get a window decal for $30 per year for one car.

She also said anyone who is 65 years old and still paying the full price of $60 needs to correct the blue and white notice by lining out the incorrect price in the upper right hand corner and any other incorrect information.

She then said the corrected notice should be sent to The Chicago City Clerk's Office at 121 N. LaSalle, Chicago, 60601, with a check for the discounted price.

She also said a photocopy of the person's driver's license with the correct birth date visible must be enclosed to get the discount.

She added senior discount stickers can be purchased locally at participating establishments for an extra handling fee set by the business.

"It," she said, "can still be processed at the bank."

But she said, "Not all banks sell window stickers," and, "not all of them in the program sell seniors."

SEPARATING? DIVORCING?

Your Divorce Lawyer Doesn't Want You To Read This Report

The average person is rarely placed in greater jeopardy-emotionally, financially, and legally than when going through a divorce. The reality of divorce courts is that most litigants leave the courtroom feeling as if they have just been hit by a truck! Even the apparent winner rarely feels good with the outcome.

Divorce Law attempts to fit one of the most painful of adult choices into a legal framework. Some people expect their lawyers to be confessors or even to provide psychological counseling. Others never give their lawyers a chance, regarding them as the enemy when they attempt to compromise with the other side. There are clients who are in such a hurry to conclude their divorce that they waive anything and everything to which they might have a claim.

25% Discount on our Summer Speech Program when you sign up now!

The Sertoma Speech & Hearing Center provides a summer program of continued therapy/tutoring for children with hearing, or speech/language problems in group sessions that run from June through the middle of August. The group sessions, held at the Center's Palos Hills and Flossmoor locations, are for children up to the age of 21. The cost is $51.50 per hour ($27.75 per ½ hr.) of therapy. (A signed contract is required prior to the first session.) Scaled fees are available upon approval.

Sessions are available without an evaluation if a referral is accompanied by:

. A current diagnostic statement, including a copy of any diagnostic work done at the school.

. A current individual education program (IEP) or individual family service plan (IFSP), including goal achievement dates.

For those children who have never received a speech evaluation, one is necessary prior to enrollment in the summer program. Progress reports are issued at the end of the program.

For information, call the Center at (708) 599-9500.

FOOD FOR 'SECONDS'

Chef shares chicken recipes

In its cross-country quest for favorite chicken recipes of some of the nation's leading chefs, the National Brioler Council naturally contacted Michel Richard of Citrus Restaurant in Los Angeles.

Richard is widely acclaimed as one of this country's most innovative chefs and Citrus has been named the best restaurant in the United States. He combines the classical technique and style of his native France with West Coast raw materials and emphasis on lightness and flavor. The appetizing results that draw celebrities, tourists and locals to Citrus can also be experienced in newer Citronelle restaurants in Santa Barbara, Washington and Baltimore.

Creative cooks who like to duplicate in their own kitchens dishes from memorable dining out experiences will appreciate the simplicity and impressive results of two of Richard's chicken recipes.

Tangy Chicken with Shiitake Crust is the result of the chef's desire "to improve on Beef Wellington..and, I love to wrap food." The crunchy textured mushroom crust, Richard explained, is used like a firm marinade to baste and co-mingle with the chicken for a spectacular, professional-looking dish that's actually easy and can even be made ahead.

Nonfried 'Fried' Chicken Breasts with Mustard and Tarragon is Richard's way of creating crisp fried chicken "without triggering high-fat alarms." For crunch, seasoned bread crumbs replace the chicken skin. Dijon mustard, "long a favorite French-homestyle technique of slathering poultry, builds strength of character here with the tarragon adding a perky note," he said.

TANGY CHICKEN WITH SHIITAKE CRUST

6 large boneless, skinless chicken breasts
2 tablespoons olive oil
3/4 pound button mushrooms, ends trimmed, sliced
3/4 pound shiitake mushrooms, ends trimmed, sliced
2 large shallots, peeled, coarsely chopped
2 large cloves garlic, minced
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon freshly ground pepper
2 tablespoons minced fresh chervil, thyme or chives
1/4 stick chilled butter, coarsely chopped

In large heavy frypan, place olive oil over medium high heat. Add button and shiitake mushrooms, shallots and garlic; cook until lightly browned, about 5 minutes, stirring occasionally. Cool. Add salt and pepper. Remove small fillets from underside of chicken breasts and place fillets in food processor; grind to smooth paste, pulsing on/off. Add mushroom mixture and chop coarsely, pulsing. Line large baking sheet with parchment. Between two sheets of wax paper, place chicken breasts and gently pound to even thickness. Divide mushroom mixture into 6 parts (about 1/2 cup each). On 12-inch length of plastic wrap, place 1 part off mushroom mixture in center.

Fold plastic over mixture; pat or use rolling pin to roll evenly thick and slightly larger than 1 chicken breast. Place chicken, smooth rounded side down, on top of gift basket until mixture adheres to top and sides of chicken. Unwrap and gently invert chicken, uncoated side down, onto baking sheet; gently peel off plastic. Repeat with remaining chicken. To serve, place chicken in 350° oven and bake about 12 minutes; remove from oven and let rest 12 minutes. Slice breasts diagonally; arrange on serving plate, fanning out slices. Reheat Tangy Sauce; stir in chervil and butter. Ladle sauce beside chicken.

TANGY SAUCE

Using vegetable peeler, remove only orange part of peel from 2 medium oranges; chop peel coarsely and place in medium saucepan with 2 large shallots, peeled and coarsely chopped. Add 1 cup dry white wine and 1 cup balsamic vinegar; boil over medium high heat until reduced to 1/2 cup. Add 2 cups unsalted chicken stock and whisk in 2 tablespoons tomato paste; boil to reduce to 1 cup. Strain through fine sieve, pressing on ingredients.

NONFRIED 'FRIED' CHICKEN BREASTS WITH MUSTARD AND TARRAGON

4 boneless, skinless chicken breasts
1 cup bread crumbs

2 large cloves garlic, minced
1 tablespoon minced flat-leaf parsley
1 tablespoon minced fresh tarragon

1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon freashly ground pepper
1 large egg
3 tablespoons Dijon mustard
3/4 cup flour
1/4 cup olive oil
4 fresh tarragon sprigs

Place chicken between two pieces plastic wrap and pound gently to even thickness. Line baking sheet with wax paper. In shallow dish, mix together bread crumbs, garlic, parsley, tarragon, salt and pepper. In another dish, beat egg with mustard. Place flour in third dish. Dredge each chicken breast in flour; dip in egg and then bread crumb mixture, covering completley and patting so crumbs adhere. Place on baking sheet. Place oil in large nonstick ovenproof frypan; heat over medium high heat. Add chicken and brown well on both sides. Remove to 350°F. Oven and bake just until chicken is cooked through, about 7 minutes, turning once. Transfer to serving plates; garnish each with tarragon sprig. Makes 4 servings.

This meatball took first place

By Anita Anderson

Michael Menconi of Naperville who works in the imaging department of a printing company can take pride in the fact that from more than 500 entries his Sun-Dried Meatball Puttanesca meatballs took first place in the recent Maggiano's Meatball Contest held at its local restaurants including Oakbrook until the city-wide competition which took place at Maggiano's on North Clark Street recently..

Menconi felt it was the special flavor of the sun-dried tomatoes which gave his recipe the great flavor.

"I entered this contest last year and didn't make it. This year, however, was different," he said.

His prize was a dinner for 50 people at Maggiano's.

The recipe follows:

2 dozen sun-dried tomatoes, diced, about ⅓ cup
½ pound bacon, cooked, drained, crumbled
4 cloves garlic, minced
30 fresh basil leaves, chopped, about ⅓ cup
¾ cup freshly grated Parmesan cheese
¾ pound each: lean ground pork, lean ground beef
1 large egg
½ cup white grenache or zinfandel wine
1 tablespoon cornstarch
¼ cup water
Salt, freshly ground pepper to taste
1 tablespoon olive oil
3 cloves garlic, minced
¼ cup finely chopped onion
1 cup sliced mushrooms
½ cup white grenache or zinfandel wine
1 can (14 ounces) stewed tomatoes

Sauce:

1. Heat oven to 350 degrees. For meatballs, mix sun-dried tomatoes, bacon, garlic, basil and Parmesan together in a large bowl. Stir in the pork, beef, egg and 1/2 cup wine, mix thoroughly. Shape into meatballs about 3 inches in diameter. Put meatballs onto a baking sheet with sides. Bake until golden, about 35 minutes.

2. Meanwhile, for sauce, heat a medium-size saucepan until hot. Add oil and heat oil; add garlic and onion. Cook and stir over medium heat for about 5 minutes; do not let garlic brown. Stir in wine and tomatoes; simmer 5 minutes. Dissolve cornstarch in water and slowly stir into sauce. Cook and stir until thickened, about 5 more minutes. Season to taste with salt and pepper.

3. Arrange meatballs in a serving bowl. Top with sauce and serve.

CHOCOLATE SOUR CREAM WAFFLES

Waffles
3/4 cup all-purpose flour
1/2 cup sugar
1 tablespoon unsweetened cocoa
2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 cup LAND O LAKES Light Sour Cream or No-Fat Sour Cream
1/4 cup LAND O LAKES Butter, melted
1/2 cup skim milk
1 egg
1 teaspoon vanilla

Toppings
2 cups lowfat vanilla frozen yogurt
2 cups sliced fresh strawberries
Powdered sugar, if desired

Heat waffle iron to medium high heat. In large bowl combine flour, sugar, cocoa and baking powder, stir well with wire whisk. In medium bowl stir together Light Sour Cream, butter, milk, egg and vanilla until smooth. Stir into flour mixture until well blended. Pour about 2 tablespoons onto center of each section of waffle iron. Bake according to waffle iron directions (about 3 to 4 minutes). To serve, l place each waffle on individual dessert plate. Top with scoops of frozen yogurt and sliced strawberries. Sprinkle with powdered sugar. Yield 6 serviongs

Tip: Waffle batter can be made into pancakes.

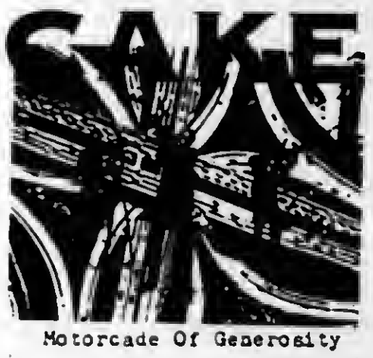
MUSIC CRITIQUE



Motorcade Of Generosity

Cake
Motorcade Of Generosity
(Capricorn Records)

Stemming from California's Central Valley, Sacramento's Cake is really making a name for themselves in the music biz. Despite signing with an independent label, "Motorcade of Generosity" can still be found at most record stores. Its humorous lyrics and unusual sounds present an alternative to the usual alternative music you hear on the radio. Cake blends gritty guitars, smooth vocals and a trumpet that sounds like it was taken out of a Chi Chi's commercial and creates "feel good" music. But theband doesn't like to be looked upon as a comical band...take them seriously because they take their music seriously. It's rather hard , though, when listening to songs with titles such as "Jesus Wrote A Blank Check" and "I Bombed Korea." Funny, yet sincere, lyrics complement Cake's musicianship and make the entire album a joy to experience. Greg Brown's vocals are sinfully witty and sound intriguing over Vince di Fiore's trumpet, especially on "Comanche" and "Up So Close." "Pentagram" is an all-out, foot-stompin' hoedown while "Haze Of Love" is a climactic jam. Cake condemns the CD-buying, concert-going, flannel-wearing groupie on the radio hit "Rock 'N' Roll Lifestyle," a tune that will have you chuckling and telling your friends about it. "Motorcade" is a great album from a young, talented band and would make for a perfect party CD.

All-Star FanFest

(NAPS)—Whether yours is a family of baseball fans or just one that's looking for some fun, a great place to be this July is the fifth annual All-Star FanFest, presented by Pinnacle Trading Cards, in Dallas, Texas.

More than 25 baseball-themed attractions spread out over 400,000 square feet make this year's event the largest in its history, as it presents the heritage and rich tradition of baseball in a way that will delight people of all ages.

You can try your hand at an interactive batting cage to face life-size images of Major League pitchers, broadcast fantasy play-by-play and peep through knot-holes at some of baseball's most memorable plays.

Visitors can also see a three-story replica of the National Baseball Hall of Fame and Museum in Cooperstown, watch as bats, gloves and balls are made and get free autographs from baseball greats while enjoying authentic ballpark food from all 28 major league stadiums.

There are also Country Fair Games, baseball-themed entertainment from the FanFest Kids and continuous musical entertainment performances.

Pinnacle All-Star FanFest runs July 7-11 at the Dallas Convention Center. Advance tickets (tickets purchased prior to July 7) are $10 for adults and $6 for children 13 and under, seniors and the military. Tickets are available at The Ballpark in Arlington and at all Ticket-Master outlets or by calling (214) 373-8000 to charge by phone. Discounts for group purchases are available by calling (817) 273-5222.

Navy Pier Renovated

by Kevin Bastian

Since the spring of 1990, Chicago's own Navy Pier has been under construction, in hopes that a new, fresher look would bring about an increase in tourist attraction.

The largest recreational pier in the U.S., Navy Pier and its renovations will be completed by this fall.

"We set out to make Navy Pier a great public place," said James Reilly, the authority's chief executive officer.

Upon arriving, visitors are led inside through Gateway Park, 19 acres planted with linden, magnolia, crab apple and honey locust trees.

Located in the park, the most intriguing addition to the pier is a fountain created by Wet Design, a company based in Los Angeles. This "imagery spring," as Wet Design's co-founders, Mark Fuller and Alan Robinson, prefer to call it, can be likened to the "jumping waters" at Disney World's Epcot Center.

So-called "skyrockets" send plumes 15 stories into the air from a raised cube, while on the side, 208 "nanoshooters" shoot spouts from an inch to six feet high.

Visitors next come to the Family Pavillion, which holds the Chicago Children's Museum, Imerks Theater and Crystal Gardens.

The Children's Museum, which hopes to open in October and remain a permanent fixture in the Pavillion, hosts several educational, yet fun attractions for kids. Imerks, a big screen movie theater, will offer presentations similar to those at the Omnimax Theater at the Museum of Science and Industry. The Crystal Gardens, located behind the Pavillion, has a main attraction of 71 Mexican fan palm trees that are being specially nurtured outside Phoenix.

"The palms are being irrigated," said Bernard Jacobs, the pier's landscape architect, "and they wear netting to get them used to the reduced level of light they'll experience in Chicago."

A 15-story Ferris wheel will provide passengers breathtaking views of downtown.

"The picture of Chicago that usually appears on postcards is taken from the east end of the pier," said John Schmidt, former chairman of the Metropolitan Pier and Exposition Authority. "Now the Ferris wheel is going to give the same view."

The pier carousel features various creatures and the nearby reflecting pool transforms to an iceskating rink in the winter.

Navy Pier's new convention facility, Festival Hall, covers 170,000 square feet and features several meeting rooms, a glamourous seafood restaurant named Riva and the new headquarters for WBEZ-FM (in August).

Lastly, the Skyline Stage, which opened last summer, fills its 1,500 outdoor seats with music, dance, film and theater events.

Noteworthy upcoming events at the pier include a dedication by Mayor Daley and Governor Edgar on July 12, Natalie Cole on July 14 and Bill Cosby on July 15.

All summer long, the ballroom will showcase big bands playing dance music every Friday and Saturday and laser and fireworks shows outside will keep your eyes open.

Navy Pier first opened in 1916, the first of five municipal piers proposed for Chicago's lakefront but the only one ever built. It is three-fifths of a mile in length and renovations have cost more than $150,000 million.

Elvis Rocks Maplewood

Die-hard Elvis fans, young and old, came out on the night of June 3 to see impersonator, Rick Saucedo.

Maplewood '50s Bowl, located at 2525 W. 111th St., hosted this tribute to the "King of Rock 'N Roll." The bowling alley is already looked upon as a shrine to Presley, adorned with photos, outfits and other Elvis paraphernalia. For this event, huge disco balls were hung above the lanes, Rick Saucedo souvenirs were sold and a raffle for an Elvis guitar clock was held.

The evening's festivites began around 9:30 p.m. with the sounds of Saucedo's band, Revival. Composed of five middle-aged men, this band was anything but lively and seemed like they had never played together before. Their set was made up of classic 50s and 60s hits such as "Peggy Sue," "Great Balls Of Fire" and "La Bamba." The band's weak vocal ranges and occasional playingout-of-tune had the audience fidgeting in their bowling lane seats.

Next, the new back-up singer for Saucedo, Katie Hull, performed four country western songs. Her beautiful voice had some fans screaming for more of her instead of bringing on Saucedo.

Finally, around 10:45, Saucedo took the stage in full Elvis apparel and belted out "Blue Suede Shoes." Not only does Saucedo exact Presley's voice to a science, but he has an on-stage humor that really draws you into his performance.

After noticing his leg shaking (which he unconsciously did all night), Saucedo joked, "Somethin's crawlin' on me." He also held a few conversations with the snake sewed around his leather suit.

Saucedo's mannerisms have been practiced and perfected and, along with his voice, have made him one of the most popular and sought after Elvis impersonators in the country.

He wowed the crowd with hits like "Are You Lonesome Tonight?," "Jailhouse Rock" and closed the first set with "Viva Las Vegas," which had the entire crowd on its feet.

Before his return, which came a little after midnight, the Saucedo-craving fans were forced to endure another set by Revival. My, how the time went by slow.

Saucedo's second set was good, but didn't match the intensity of the first. Songs like "Burning Love," My Way" and "Suspicious Minds" had the alcohol-influenced women screaming as if the real Elvis was on stage.

Even though I was not born long enough ago to experience the "one and only" Elvis Presley, Elvis sightings and impersonators have kept his spirit alive for youngsters like me to appreciate.

But, recently, a book about Presley's personal life entitled "Elvis Aaron Presley: A Revelation from The Memphis Mob" has stirred up controversy among Elvis fans.

"This book is just a money gimmick," said Saucedo. "It's a sack of lies made up by people who are hard up for money."

A petition against the book was presented for signature at the front door of Maplewood '50s Bowl during the performance.

Michelle Elaine, director of public relations for the bowling alley, said, "This book is nothing but trash and the true Elvis fan will not buy this book. The fans are sick and tired of these books being printed about Elvis. He cannot defend himself, so why didn't these guys say these things about him when he was alive? They wouldn't have had the guts."

Overall, the night's performance was most enjoyable. Rick Saucedo's love for what he does shined through. As for Revival, I suggest Rick find a new back-up band. Not only will it improve his image, but it will make the time go by a lot faster between sets.

THE POETRY PATCH

Heart Donor

by Kevin Bastian

Kept it in me for so long
Never thought of lending it out
It's always been a part of me
But then it was out and about
I gave my only heart
To the one I love the most
I was hoping she'd like it
Carry it, cherish it and boast
She had other things in mind
Things I hadn't intended
Things that were cruel
Things that couldn't be mended

She dropped it in the mud
On the way to her room
And a pack of wild ducks
Almost spelled its doom
She poked it with a fork
Mistaking it for Jello
And used the dripping blood
To write some other fellow

She gave it back
In a Tupperware bowl
I hardly recognized it
Dirty, dried up and cold
Now it's worthless
I can never love again
Unless she cleans it
I'll be cursed as just a friend

"Cats" Crawls Back Into Town

by Kevin Bastian

The international musical hit, "Cats," will leap onto the stage of the Paramount Arts Centre, Friday, June 23 for an encore presentation.

Based on T.S. Eliot's "Old Possum's Book of Practical Cats" and with music by Andrew Lloyd Webber, the Broadway smash will have its last performances the weekend of June 23-25. Patrons holding July 14-16 tickets may use them for their corresponding performance on this weekend.

This is the third appearance of "Cats" in Aurora. When it returns this June, audiences will be seeing not only a spectacular Broadway musical, but also a theatrical phenomenon unparelleled in the history of musical theatre. The New York production is currently the longest-running musical on Broadway. The original production in London, which opened May 11, 1981, has become the longest running musical in British history. Worldwide, there have been over 42 productions of "Cats," with box-office grosses of more than $2 billion, more than four times those of "E.T.," the all-time movie moneymaker.

Performance times for this engagement are 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday, 7:30 p.m. Sunday, with 2 p.m. matinees on Saturday and Sunday. Tickets are available at the Paramount box office (896-6666) and at all Ticketmaster outlets and phone service (312) 902-1500.

Civic league helps define community's future

by Rick Techman

•The community leadership role of the Garfield-Ridge Civic League expanded through concern and cooperation with 23rd Ward Alderman Michael Zalewski, promoting the senior center program and monitoring local industries since electing its new slate of officers in May.

Newly elected president, Jean Franczyk, said Alderman Zalewski agreed to speak at the next civic league meeting June 19 and explain how his meetings with Mayor Daley, Congressman Lipinski, the Chicago Department of Aging and other past groups will affect the future of the long proposed Garfield-Ridge senior center.

"He," Franczyk said, "is going to tell us what he has found out about the senior citizens center."

She also said Zalewski would talk to several officers active in the long term implementation of this program to explain what still needs to be done to make the senior center a success.

She said the Garfield-Ridge Civic League will be working closely with Alderman Zalewski, along with many other presently active senior groups, to follow the steps needed to bring the senior center to the community.

She explained the Garfield-Ridge Civic League also observes the activities of local industries, in alliance with a number of other community organizations, to assure fresh air and water by U.S. and Illinois Environmental Protection Agency standards, through monthly community meetings with industry.

She said an alliance recently created by local industry and community organizations allows a representative from each member organization to participate in a monthly brunch and tour with government and industry officials.

"How things are in proper working order," Franczyk said," They do take into account the community."

She added Congressman Lipinski(D-3), the Bedford ParkFire Chief, the league of Women Voters and a host of industry and community officials participate in the monthly tours that publicly show how factory chemical storage, drainage, disposal and safety is handled.

Franczyk concluded the next meeting of the Garfield-Ridge Civic League will be at 7:30 p.m. at Heritage Manor, 5540 S. Narragansette Ave. She added everyone is welcome to attend and learn more about their community.

She also said the next community-industry lunch and tour will be Wednesday, June 21, beginning at 11:45 a.m. She recommended anyone interested in the industry tour should attend the civic league meeting for more information.

Bridgeview gets two new trustees

by Rick Techman

Village President John Oremus returned to office for an unprecedented tenth term with two freshman village trustees May 3. The village board and newly elected libarary board trustees were sworn in by Oremus' lifelong friend, Judge John Mejda.

Norma Pinion and Wayne Grabinske began their freshman terms with incumbent Joseph Kaput and village Clerk Anne Cusack

In a recent newsletter, Village President John Oremus said "As schoool gets out for the summer, please remember that children will be playing and riding bikes. Please obey the psoted speed limits. Don't take a chance on their lives."

The newsletter also announced the U.S. department of Agriculture cutbacks led to the end of the Emergency Food Assistance Program distribution through the department of Publec Aid at the Oremus Center since the end of May.

The letter explained the remaining 40 percent of the past Emergency Food Allotment will be used for pantry and soup kitchen distribution.

Oremus Center Director Harold Robish and the Center staff the facility for allowing the center staff to be of service.

Meanwhile, the Illinois Department of Employment Security reported the unemployment rate plunged to 4.4 percent, with seasonal adjustmentes, in March. This is the lowest unemployment rate in Illinois since October, 1974.

Benifits in almost all areas increased during the past five years for part-time employees who work at least 30 hours per week according to a new study by Hewitt Associates of Lincolnshire, Illinois.

It also said employees working at least 20 hours a week lose some benifits.

HINTS FOR HOMEOWNERS

Purchasing Power: How To Identify Quality Products And Services For The Home

(NAPS)—Customers today demand quality products and services for the home, but busy lives prevent many from doing the homework to ensure that buying decisions will yield the desired results. Before decorating a new home or remodeling an old one, customers should ask themselves the following questions:

• Does the product I'm purchasing have a quality seal or mark? A quality seal ensures that you're getting a quality product that meets company standards of excellence. It also ensures that you're getting "the real thing" and not a copycat product.

Many companies have created quality marks to protect consumers. DuPont, for instance, recently launched a new quality mark symbol that will appear on all of its Corian® surfaces. Some quality marks, such as the Good Housekeeping seal of approval, have become household words. To millions of consumers, this seal guarantees that a product will be replaced or refunded if it does not meet expectations.

• Is the product I'm purchasing covered by a warranty? A warranty "keeps you covered." If you have a warranty, your satisfaction will be guaranteed and any necessary repairs will be made at the company's cost. Warranty durations vary, from as short as a few months, to as long as ten years. Be sure to find out how long your product warranty lasts before making a purchase.

• If I do have a problem with this product, who do I call? Make sure that products you invest in have reliable customer service systems to back them up. Many companies today have service centers and convenient 1-800 numbers to efficiently handle customer requests. In addition to its 1-800-4-CORIAN toll free number, DuPont recently introduced a network of regional Corian® Warranty Service Centers that address customers' needs across the country.

Quality marks or seals, such as the DuPont Corian® quality seal seen here, guarentee customer satisfaction.

• If I purchase this product, will I be making a worthwhile investment in my home? Making a major purchase for the home is an investment worth investigating. Ask yourself these questions—How long will this product last? Will this product look as good as it does now in five years or ten years? How will it affect the resale value of my home?

Talk to friends to gauge their experiences with products. Read product literature and take advantage of a salesperson's expertise. Find out if current customers are satisfied. According to survey results, 98 percent of people who have Corian® surfaces in their homes today say they'd buy it again. Results like this are good to know when making decisions.

Customers who carefully evaluate their needs and identify the products—and companies—that will meet them give new meaning to the phrase "purchasing power." The result will be less time spent worrying about what to buy for your home and more time actually enjoying it.

Farmer's Market to open

The Oak Lawn Farmer's Market will open on Wednesday, June 28 to a grand array of fine fruits, vegetables, nerbs, spices, cider, homemade bakery goods, fresh honey, herbal vinegars and much much more!

If you come early and stay for lunch you can enjoy a hot dog with all the trimmings and a cold drink and benefit Boy Scout Troop #596 at the same time. The Popcorn Wagon will be in its usual location, serving old fashioned lemonade and snowcones.

Each Wednesday, Oak Lawn merchants will highlight their services and be available to meet the shoppers and answer questions. The Market is located on Yourell Drive between Cook and 52nd Avenue and is open from 7 a.m. until 2 p.m.

Saint Xavier Football Team Tours Germany

Saint Xavier University's traveling football team returned June 3 from Germany after a week long trip of sightseeing, cultural experiences and an American style football game versus the Blue Devil team of Hamburg. Fifty-six players of the SXU Cougar Football team took part in the trip, coordinated as part of a sister-city agreement between Chicago and Hamburg, Germany.

The Cougars were defeated by the Hamburg Blue Devils in the Third Annual Charity Bowl match, 20-0, at Volksparkstadion Hamburg in front of a crowd of nearly 20,000 German fans.

In addition to the game and practices overseas, members of the Saint Xavier football team also took tours of the Berlin Wall, Ckeckpoint Charlie, St. Michael's Church, Blankenese Port of Hamburg, Kaiser Frederick III's Castle, Freedom Manor and many other tourist sites.

"This trip was the experience of a lifetime for these students," said Saint Xavier Head Football Coach Mike Craven. "Beyond the historical education from tourist sites, this trip was, for many students, their first exposure to international culture. Learning to work with a new language, handling foreign currency and experiencing the German way of life was an invaluable education for all of the players."

The Saint Xavier football team is one of eleven members of the Mid-States Football Association, which is considered one of the toughest conferences in NAIA Division II. As the only scholarship football team in the City of Chicago, Saint Xavier has completed their second season, winning their first two games in school history this year by defeating Lindenwood College of Missouri and Olivet Nazarene of Kankakee, Illinois.

I am proud to announce that on June 4th, 1995. The Royal Academy of Arts, London, England opened it's 227th summer exhibition and Mount Greenwood is represented. This year among the paintings and sculpture on display in exhibition is a little piece of Mt.. Greenwood, in the form of an Architectural Drawing.

A sketch of my original design for the new Mount Greenwood Library was formally accepted by than alderman Michael F. Sheahan (now Cook County Sheriff) and later forwarded to the Bureau of Architecture of the city of Chicago in 1987, was formally accepted for this exhibition and has been open to private viewing for some time. Now through August 13, the public is invited to view the exhibition in London and at the same time community residents can also see a copy of this sketch by visiting the Mt. Greenwood Library during normal library hours.

The Chicago Park District's 1995 Grant Park Music Festival begins Saturday June 17th. The 35 concerts will run through August 24 and among many season. highlights will be former Tonight Show band leader and trumpet player Doc Severinsen.

The Taste of Chicago is also scheduled to begin on June 24th this year and run through July 4th, highlighted by the new light show of the Buckingham Fountain which can be seen through October 1, 1995, at 8:00.

If you're taking theRock Island downtown for these or other events, you may find yourself in the middle of a flea market in Bohn Park, 110th and Longwood Drive. The Morgan Park Flea Market will open it's 23rd year on the fourth Saturday in June, 8:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. and will be continued on July 22nd, August 26th, and September 23rd, with 100 vendors, selling everythings you can think of, proceeds for the table space rentals benefit the Morgan Park Juniors.

The Chicago Alternative Policing Strategy or (CAPS) beat meeting for Beat 2211, Mount Greenwood will be held on June 15th at 7:00 p.m in Mount Greenwood Park fieldhouse, 3721 West 111th St., and last but not least, I would like to personally thank everyone who has so generously contributed to the collection of the Kennedy Park Library, 11320 S. Western Ave.

The library is being used and enjoyed by community residents of all ages and has something for everyone. All donations are greatfully accepted. Thank you.

Thanks to the special dedication of John Ozaksut and Joe Gioiosa Owners of Milano's Pizza, 10945 S. Western Ave., the community is just a little greener this summer.

John and Joe have recently completed a very special beautification project on the city parkway just south of their store. By planting a tree and flowers in a specially built 20 by 40 raised box, the partners have added to their long list of community donations with a beautiful addition to the neighborhood and to our environment. All this and delicious pizza too. Thank you Milano's.

Noise abatement team exludes homeowners

by Rick Techman

Chicago Mayor Richard Daley's proposal to form a 12-member commission at Midway Airport to address unacceptable noise levels in the area will be composed of six Chicago residents and six suburbanites but none named so far include homeowners from immediately around Midway.

Garfield-Ridge Civic League transportation chairman Marius Gallagher wrote a letter to Mayor Daley asking the full purpose of the commission and why no homeowners from the immediate area were included.

In his letter Gallagher told Mayor Daley, "The enclosed chart shows that although the five suburbs that will be represented on the commission suffer from some aircraft noise, there is not one house or one person from those suburbs that lives in the areas that are classified by the Federal Aviation Administration as having 'Normally' or 'Clearly Unacceptable' Noise."

He added, "In fact, the only suburb that has any homes on the 'Normally Unacceptable' range is unincorporated Central Stickney and they are not on the commission."

The chart, commissioned through an ongoing Landrum and Brown study on Midway Airport, shows about 3,000 citizens in Bridgeview and 3,000 citizens in Burbank affected by noise from Midway Airport.

It also showed a resounding 25,000 Chicago residents living in normally or clearly unacceptable noise ranges and another 38,000 living in affected areas without representation.

A little more than 1,000 citizens from unincorporated Central Stickney live in the affected area without any board representation.

Gallagher said Congressman William O. Lipinski (D-3) offered to get Gallagher a seat among the six members from Chicago which will include business and political leaders outside the affected area.

Gallagher told civic league members this would most likely be an unpaid position but as a board member he would do all he could to keep down noise levels around Midway Airport.

Gallagher also said it didn't make sense to build a noise abatement board of unaffected city and suburban residents.

He insisted a homeowner, such as himself, living in line with a Midway Airport flight path should be on the board to report accurate noise abatement progress to the community and to the board.

Gallagher said Mayor Daley is ultimately responsible for the make up of the committee and 61,000 affected Chicago residents should have more than one representative from the area.

Gallagher explained the Landrum and Brown chart measured affected areas according to the Federal Aviation Administration as suffering noise levels of 65 decibels.

He added the normally unacceptable range included noise levels at 70 to 75 decibels and the clearly unacceptable range included noise levels over 75 decibels.

A corporate turbo prop flies low over homes about 1/4 mile Northwest of Midway from its landing point on runway 4-22.

The federal government helped pay a large percentage of the soundproofing bill for this Catholic school located about one mile from Midway Airport. The govenment contribution was made possible through a noise abatement program for schools near transportation hubs.

Oak Lawn receives Saturn dealership

by Frank Soczek

In yet another quixotic assault on the ever circumspect Oak Lawn Village Board, 3rd district Trustee Robert Streit once again attempted to tilt at the status quo with a well intentioned, though legally questionable proposal involving a village sponsored tax incentive awarded to a local Saturn dealership.

While an ecstatic board embraced the proposed development of a new car dealership on the site of the Oak Lawn Roller Rink property at 91st and Cicero, it was an "add on" provision suggested by Streit that cast a dark cloud over an otherwise ideal business agreement.

The major provisions of the Saturn-Economic Incentive Agreement submitted by Village Manager Joseph Faber included a rebate of 50 percent of all sales tax revenues generated back to Saturn for seven years, with the maximum amount capped at $1,350,000.

If during the first seven years of the agreement, Saturn expands their site, establishes another new car dealership, or establishes a Saturn Corporation Used Car Franchise, the Incentive Agreement is automatically extended by three years.

As the new facility will generate increased employment opportunities, Saturn is committed to alerting Oak Lawn residents of any employment opportunities.

Repeatedly reiterating the 1.3 million dollar sales tax concession, Streit suggested a more substantive quid pro quo in the form of a written committment giving preferential hiring treatment to Oak Lawn residents, decrying the existing language as "vague and non-committal."

Streit suggested the following be included as an integral part of the Saturn Agreement:

1) A written committment to accept employment applications from Oak Lawn residents prior to those of other municipalities.

2)A requirement that 50 percent of the trades working on the construction be Oak Lawn-based.

3)A preference be given to Oak Lawn-based suppliers and services during the duration of the agreement.

4)A requirement that the Saturn dealership must remain in the village for 14 years.

When confronted with Streit's emotion-fraught demands, legal counsel for Saturn President Michael Santangelo gracefully demurred without explanation, referring the latter to Oak Lawn Village Attorney Thomas Bayer.

While Bayer cautiously composed, a carefully measured, legally obtuse explantion of the sensitive subject matter, Trustee William Keane boldly broached the veiled attempts at decorum by bluntly announcing what he felt was the real reason for the reluctance of a written "committment."

"I think it's the 'D' word. I don't think Saturn wants the word 'discrimination' and 'Saturn' in the same sentence, and neither does the Village of Oak Lawn."

Reference was made to previous legal difficulties experienced by the Village which resulted in a Federal Justice Department consent decree over what was determined to be discriminatory hiring practices. One such practice, requiring residency as a term and condition of employment, placed minorities at a distinct hiring disadvantage in the predominantly Caucasian suburb.

While the residency requirement perhaps did not have the intent of discrimination, it unfortunately had the effect of disparate treatment, requiring a conciliatory agreement on the part of the Village to actively recruit minority job applicants.

No doubt realizing the dire consequences of non-compliance with the consent decree (loss of government funding, potential litigation) and certainly reeling from the previous embarassment, Mayor Kolb was forced once again to subdue the errant trustee with a swift stroke of his sententious judicial gavel.

Firefighters Raise Money In Community Effort

by Rick Techman

About 23,000 people visited the Burbank Firehouse at 6530 W. 79th St. Sunday, June 25, for an "All-You-Can-Eat" pancake breakfast sponsored by the Burbank Firemen's Club.

The annual fundraiser allows the fire department to purchase upgraded equipment, that the city does not cover, recommended by the firefighters to improve their overall effectiveness.

Firefighter/Paramedic Tom Barker said a few years ago the money raised was used to purchase 5 inch hose for all of the firetrucks. "It is," he added, " a big asset for firefighting."

State Senator Louis Viverito (D-12), Stickney Township supervisor, was among the visitor's to the firehouse for breakfast where he greeted Burbank Fire Chief Martin Kreil, a long-time friend.

The breakfast featured a plate of three pancakes and three sausages prepared by the firemen, coffee, milk and orange drink. It was served from 7 a.m. to I p.m. at tables set up inside the firehouse. Emergency Services Disaster Agency volunteers handled crowd anf traffic control. Firemens' family and friends helped serve. (Photos by Rick Techman)

Civic league hears Alderman's senior center proposal

by Rick Techman

Last month, the Garfield-Ridge senior center proposal neared reality with the help of 23rd Ward Alderman Michael Zalewski and numerous active civic leagues, senior organizations and the press.

Zalewski spent the end of June speaking to community groups throughout the 23rd Ward, updating them on the activity of the senior center and his immediate goals as alderman.

"There are things out here that need to be done," Zalewski told the Garfield-Ridge Civic League at their June 19 meeting.

He added, "There are issues that need to be solved but I can't do them alone. I need the community organizations. I need all of the civic leagues, all of the chambers of commerce, all of the senior clubs.

"Several things," Zalewski said, "have happened since I became the alderman."

Zalewski explained that within days after being elected alderman in February he began collecting information on the status of the Garfield-Ridge senior center.

He said community groups and the press helped convince him and former alderman Jim Laski that action needed to be taken quickly on this issue.

Zalewski said he followed through with his promised meetings with Mayor Daley, Congressman Lipinski (D-3), the Chicago Department of Aging and a local businessman, Marty Lewis.

Last year, Marty Lewis, under Alderman James Laski's direction, headed up the fundraising arm of the Garfield-Ridge Senior Center under the Southwest Senior Service Organization banner.

Zalewski said, "He was my last meeting."

He said Marty Lewis, who has extensive local business experience but no background in senior centers, visited several active locations in search of information needed to write an effective senior center program.

Once Lewis visited these centers he drew up a plan and presented it to the Chicago Department of Aging. Zalewski said the Department of Aging accepted Lewis' plan and agreed to commit the $65,000 a year rent for three years to the Beacon group.

The Beacon group will spend the next several months, according to Zalewski's plan, remodeling the site of the former Sears Outlet Store for use as the Garfield-Ridge senior center later this year.

Zalewski also said donations made to his office to stock the center with furniture and supplies will be collected during this time.

"I don't," he added,"know what was promised out in the past. And I don't know, to be very honest with everybody, how much money was raised by the former group, the Southwest Side Senior Service Organization, for the center."

He said any inquiries into commitments made last year for the center would have to be pursued through City Clerk Jim Laski's community service office on Archer.

Zalewski also told the Garfield-Ridge Civic League his short-term goals include cutting more trees, paving some alleys near the west side of the ward, fighting crime along Cicero Avenue and tearing down the "white elephant" at 57th and Harlem.

"I've been meeting very closely," Zalewski said, "with the Department of Human Services because they have so many programs that they pull in and help us with in this ward that are untapped.

"Nobody's ever gone after them," he added. "There's dollars there that we can use to stop some of the gang problems that we have and the graffitti. I plan on tapping all the resources that I can but I want to move too quickly sometimes," he also said.

"I am going to work hard," Zalewski added. "If nothing else, I know the taxpayers in this ward are going to get a bang for the buck out of me because old habits are very hard for me to break," he concluded.

23rd Ward Alderman Michael Zalewski talks about the future of the proposed Garfield-Ridge Senior Center before about 30 homeowners and taxpayers of the Garfield-Ridge Civic League.

According to Zalewski, the center will open later this year at the site of the former Sears Outlet Store following needed repairs and signed agreements.

State Senator Lou Viverito and State Rep. Michael Madigan take time for Channel Two team Jay Levine and MaryAnn Childers at the reviewing stand.

HI TECH

Rick Techman, Garfield Ridge, Clearing correspondent

• State Senator Robert Raica (R-24) and 23rd Ward Alderman Michael Zalewski are wroking together in their respective branches of government to clear up the railroad tieup problems on the southwest side.

Zalewski said Raica did introduce legislation in Springfield to curb railroad tieups while Zalewski vowed to fight the railroads through the Chicago city council.

"I;m totally sick," Zalewski said, "of these railroads. It's a hot issue. What I can't understand is the insensitivity of the railroads for this community because we are so dependent on these railroad crossings just to move around the neighborhood.

"Everywhere I go I get caught, my voters get caught, it's crazy. And nobody wants to hear anything we have to say with the railroads," he added.

Zalewski said he will probably make enemies with some railroad officials as long as they remain apathetic to local resident's concerns. He added most residents do not mind the railroads in general.

But he said as long as trains tie up crossings for long time periods, people have the right to complain. Zalewski concluded the heavy fines Raica proposed in Springfield for railroad tieups and his work through the city council with the railroad management should clear up some of the local problems.

• Micki Fisher, past president of the Garfield-Ridge Civic League, told club last month that her husband Al, former treasurer, is doing fine following a serious stroke April 12.

"He's really in good spirits," she said. "He's really doin well. God Bless Congressman Lipinski," she concluded.

Micki explained that though her husband is a veteran, he was not eligible for stroke treatment at Hines Hospital in Lyons because it was not service-related.

She said Congressman Lipinski stepped in to arrange long-term care for Al at the Hines Hospital extended care facility where he is presently receiving effective, long-term stoke recovery therapy.

FOOD FOR 'SECONDS'

Worth a 30-minute drive: Fresh Fish boil offered

by Anita Anderson

Calling all lovers of old-fashioned Door County Fish boils. If you prefer not to drive the six hours or so it takes to get to scenic Door County in Wisconsin, try the summer fish boil that is available at My Place For ? at 7545 N. Clark St. in Chicago. "My Place" has been doing business for 20 years.

You can enjoy the "boil" for $9.95 a person and this includes boiled whitefish in a mix of red potatoes and boiled onion, homemade coleslaw, hot breads and cherry pie for dessert. Even that famous fish chain of eateries can't compete with that price.

Owner SteveDorizas, who lives in the Rogers PArk area where My Place For ? is located, has been serving up a variety of fresh fish which he orders personally from the purveyors who only give him the freshest catch. Dorizas, who grew up in Greece, recalls the catches that came from the depths of the Aegean Sea by the local fishermen. His parents owned a small grocery store and sold some of the fish.

Steve's chef, Mike Kurotobi, is a Kendall Colinary College graduate and was hired by Lettuce Entertain You Enterprises where he worked in the Water Tower Place Food Court before coming to My Place For ?.

With a Japanese heritage and a Peruvian boyhood, Kurotobi offers the unusual in taste challenges.

We tried the fish boil but checked out the menu with its entrees that ranged from Chilean Sea Bass with black beans, Shitake mushrooms, scallions for $13.95 or a wild-striped bass which Kurotobi serves with wood grilled with Asian marinara, fruit chutney, steamed asparagus and a sweet potato hay stack for $15.95. Tilapia with roasted garlic, parmesan mashed potatoes and sauteed spinach is $12.95.

Prices are reasonable considering you are eating the very freshest. Early bird specials are available at good prices Monday through Saturday.

Steve also offers patrons live jazz in the bar and adjacent dining area. Call (312) 262-5767 for a unique dining experience. My Place For ? is open seven days a week but not for lunch.

Following is one of the chef's special recipes:

STEAMED FISH WITH SALTED BLACK BEAN

4-8 oz. fish fillets
4 tbsp. salted black beans
4 oz. shitake mushrooms
2 oz. ginger, julienned
4 tbsp. scallions, sliced
1/2 cup soy sauce
2 tbsp. sesame oil

Soak beans in warm water for 5 minutes. Drain and chop roughly, set aside. In a baking dish, arrange fillets, skin side down. Sprinkle all ingredients evenly over the fillets-except for the sesame oil. In a pot large enough to fit the dish and that gives you at least one inch of clearance to easily remove the dish, bring about two inches of water to a boil. Meanwhile, find a support to put on the bottom of the pot. Place dish on top of the support. Cover and steam for ten minutes. When fish is almost done, heat sesame oil in a pan and just before serving, drizzle the hot oil over fish. Serve with rice. Makes 4 portions.

Glorious Gardens And Baroque at Montefiori

On Sunday, July 16, Montefiori will open its gates to an enchanting Italian summer afternoon, Festival of Flowers. It will take place from noon to 4 p.m. at 171st and Bell Road in Lemont.

Known as one of the midwest's most beautiful garden estates, Montefiori's whimsical gardens are reminiscent of an Italian garden in Tuscany with its elegant and exotic allure.

Festival of Flowers will be an enchanting celebration of this splendid beauty

Enhancing the magnificent array of Montefiori's gardens and flowers will be the brilliant and illustrious sound of Music of the BAroque's performance of Italian composer Antonio Vivaldi's "The Four Seasons," conducted by founder and maestro Thomas Wikman.

Enticing guests further will be adelightful light summer Italian luncheon buffet. Dining among the flowers, both the palate and the eye will be enchanted by Montefiori's resident chef Agostino's sumptuous cuisine.

Admission is $55 per person and $30 for children under 12. The money goes toward benefitting the Music of the Baroque.

Single tickets may be ordered anytime after September 1, 1995 by calling the MVCC Box Office at 974-5500.

Easy Grilling, Great Beef

Celebrate warm weather with a menu that's in tune with the "take-it-easy" spirit of the season--easy, quick and delicious.

Beef steaks are so easy to prepare and always a favorite choice for the backyard barbecue. They're great simply cooked over the coals--or they can be seasoned with on-hand ingredients such as herbs, seasoning mixes, mustards or glazes.

Beef top loin (strip) steaks or rib eye (Delmonico) steaks spread with herbed Dijon-style mustard make a delicious flavor duo for the grill. To complement Grilled Herb Mustard Steaks, grill garden-fresh vegetables alongside the steaks. Bright red tomato halves and skewers of bell peppers, mushrooms and yellow squash add color and variety to the meal. Offer crusty rolls to round out the menu.

GRILLED HERB MUSTARD STEAKS

2 well-trimmed boneless beef top loin or rib eye steaks, cut 1 inch thick
Salt
Herb Mustard:
2 large cloves garlic, crushed
2 tspns water
2 tbspns Dijon-style mustard
1 tspn dried basil leaves
1/2 tspn pepper
1/2 tspn dried thyme leaves

1. In 1 cup glass measure, combine garlic and water; microwave on HIGH 30 seconds. Stir in remaining mustard ingredients; spread onto both sides of beef steaks.

2. Place steaks on grid over medium ash-covered coals. Grill top loin steaks uncovered 16 to 18 minutes (rib eye steaks 12 to 14 minutes) for medium rare to medium doneness, turning occasionally.

3. Season steaks with salt, as desired. Carve steaks crosswise into thick slices.

Midwestern Country Cooking

by Frank J. Boblak

This Beef-Barley-Vegetable Soup is a one-pot-meal. Once you get the meal going, you can sit and relax and let the stove do the cooking. This meal is delicious and nutritious because it is a boiled dinner. It is a meal for a large family. Even though there may be only two of you, you can still prepare the meal, eat all you want and then freeze the rest. My wife and I prepare this meal, we freeze the rest and we have another two or three meals. All we have to do is heat the balance. Yes, it is a little work, but it's worth the effort when you can get several meals out of it.

BEEF-BARLEY-VEGETABLE SOUP

Serves 6-8 persons

3 lbs chuck roast, trimmed of fat
2 tbspns canola oil
4 qts water
9 peppercorns
4 allspice
1 bay leaf
16 oz can tomato sauce
4 carrots in 1/4 inch slices
1 clove minced garlic
2/3 cup barley
1 turnip, diced in 1/4 inch cubes
1/2 head small cabbage, shredded
3 stalks celery, cut in 1/2 inch pieces
2 tspns fresh or 1 tspn dry parsley
4 tbspns sugar
2 tbspns vinegar
6 medium diced potatoes
1 parsnip, diced in 1/4 inch cubes
1/2 tspn dry basil
1 large chopped onion

Brown meat in oil in 12 quart stock pot. Add water and bring to a rolling boil. Skim scum as it forms. Reduce heat to a steady simmer. Crush peppercorns, allspice and bay leaf in a mortar or a mini food processor. Add to pot together with sugar, vinegar, parsley and barley. Cover pot and simmer for 2 hours.

In the meantime, peel and cut up all vegetables. Place in large bowl half-full of cold water.

Remove meat from pot, trim off all bones and gristle and cut into 3/4 inch cubes.

Add meat and vegetables to pot and bring to a rapid boil Reduce heat and simmer for one hour. If soup is too thick, add water to bring it to preferred consistency.

Hum
You'd Prefer An Astronaut
(RCA Records)

Silverchair
Frogstomp
(Epic)

In Concert
Silverchair/Hum
June 23, 1995
Metro

Seeing that I attended their Q101 Low-Dough Show on Friday, June 23, and recently purhased their debut CD', I thought it would be only sensible to critique buzz bands Silverchair and Hum(from Champaign).

The entire discovery process began with Q101's constant rotation of Silverchair's "Tomorrow" and Hum's "Stars," both of which tickled my ear with interest. I bought Hum's "You'd Prefer An Astronaut" with hopes that it would be crammed with menacing riffs and blissful melodies that matched that of "Stars." No could do. With the "put me to sleep" guitars and lazy vocals of the disc's opener, "Little "Dipper," my expectations took a major nosedive. On "rocking chair" songs such as "Suicide Machine," "The Very Old Man" and "Songs of Farewell and Departure," I had to turn the volume up considerably just to check if the CD was still playing. Songs that deserve a second play are the groovy "Why I Like the Robins" and "I'd Like Your Hair Long," in which they sing "It's a waste of a song...you're a waste of my lungs."

On that note, I was hoping that Hum's live performance was better than their studio efforts. They were to share the bill with the Australia-based Silverchair at the Metro at 11:30 p.m. on June 23.

Standing inches from the stage, I watched as three teenagers took the stage promptly at 11:30. I figured they would play a few of their garage-born garbage songs to warm up the crowd. Was I ever wrong. These kids jammed. The drummer's tight snare drum was the heartbeat that carried band which also featured a long-haired bassist and a guitarist/vocalist that could have passed for Kurt Cobain ten years ago. A few songs into the set, I was really into this band - great harmony and good vocals. Then they kick into "Tomorrow," the Q101 hit. This was Silverchair! Three fifteen-year-olds have made a record, toured the world and have a huge hit on the radio. Yet they still behaved like kids, like they were playing for their friends at a birthday party. The Metro crowd moshed frenzily as Silverchair played fast-paced grunge/heavy metal like old pros.

With the floor packed with sweaty patrons, Hum took the stage and began an all-out assault on their instruments. I had to listen carefully to make sure this was the same band whose album had me counting sheep a few nights earlier. The slow, drowning guitars were turned around 360 degrees into cannonballing riffs of ecstacy. Each song grew with intensity as did the mosh pit. By the time Hum began the crowd-pleasing "Stars," they had already convinced me they are an extremely talented band...live, that is.

The next day, I picked up "Frogstomp," Silverchair's debut release for major label, Epic. I found Daniel John's resemblance to Kurt Cobain extends beyond his looks. Catchy guitar riffs and straining, yet beautiful, vocals brought about an imaginary resurrection of the once great Nirvana leader. Silverchair's music seems to be influenced by the likes of hardcore act, Helmet, mainly in its heavy guitar and tight snare thumps("Madman," "Undecided"). But the band can also slow it down and showcase Johns' prized lungs("Tomorrow," "Shade," "Suicidal Dream"). Their likeness to Nirvana is often times scary, especially on "Israel's Son," "Pure Massacre" and "Findaway." Silverchair's future, which should be lengthy, looks to be a bright one.

Overall, the Silverchair/Hum concert was a great opportunity to see two young bands before they hit any level of stardom. These bands rocked the hell out of the Metro and those who filled it. Hum's "You'd Prefer An Astronaut" was a letdown, especially compared to their split-personality performance. "Frogstomp" offers "heavy as a truck full of bricks" rock and sweet melodies that just about equals Silverchair's spirited live act.

Summer Repertory Theater at Moraine Valley

Join Moraine Valley Community College's Academic Theater Department for a summer repertory featuring "The Fantasticks" and "The Mousetrap."

"The Fantasticks" will be performed July 7-9, 21-23 and 30.

Its lyrical style and universality have made it the longest-running musical in the world with more than 10,000 off-Broadway performances. With whimsey and poignancy, it reveals the folly abd fragility of young love, age and human nature. The play is written by Tom Jones and the music was by Harvey Schmidt.

"The Mousetrap" will be performed July 14-16, 22, 28 and 29.

The play, written by Agatha Christie, centers around Monkswell Manor, a typical boarding house--until one of the guests is murdered. The suspects include the newly married couple who runs the house, an architect who seems better equipped to be a chef, a retired Army major and a jurist who makes life miserable for the rest of the boarders. A policeman arrives to solve the case and rattles skeleton in everyone's closet. With another famous Christie switch finish, another suspenseful tale can be chalked up to the foremost mystery writer of her time.

Performances will be in the John and Angeline Oremus Theater, located in the Fine and Performing Arts Center.

Sunday performances begin at 2 p.m. and the other perfromances begin at 8 p.m.

Tickets are $10.25 for adults, $8.25 for senior citizens and $6.25 for children. Tickets purchased in advance of the show will be discounted $2.

For more information or to purchase tickets, call the Fine and Performing Arts Center Box Office at 974-5500.

"Peter Pan" opens Drury Lane's Season

"Peter Pan," James M. Barrie's celebrated classic, will open on Wednesday, July 12, at 8 p.m., at the Drury Lane Oakbrook Terrace. Families can enjoy this musical fantasy by taking advantage of Drury Lane Oakbrook's special children's menu and half-price show tickets throughout the run. "Peter Pan," directed by Gary Griffin, will begin previews on Wednesday, July 5, and is scheduled to run through Sunday, August 20.

In "Peter Pan," the Darling children follow Peter on a high adventure to the make-believe island of Never-Never Land, populated with fearsome pirates, renegade Indians and talking animals. There they encounter the Lost Boys , Captain Hook and Tinkerbell, who saves the children from dangers unknown.

"Peter Pan" features musical numbers, which range from the delicate lullaby "Tender Shepard" to the joyous "I'm Flying," composed by Jule Styne, Betty Comden and Adolph Green, as well as Mark Charlap and Carolyn Leigh.

Although "Peter Pan" first appeared on stage in London in 1904, it is the 1954 Broadway musical comedy version, on which the Drury Lane's production is based, that has achieved international acclaim.

The performance is: Wednesdays at 8 p.m.; Thursdays at 2 p.m. and 8 p.m.; Fridays at 8:30 p.m.; Saturdays at 5:30 p.m. and 9 p.m.; and Sundays at 2:30 p.m. and 7 p.m.

Individual tickets prices range from $18 to $25 and Dinner/Theatre packages range from $29.50 to $38.75 for adults. Tickets for children age 5 through 18 range in price from $9 to $12.50. The Drury Lane's special children's menu includes four entree selections, priced at only $6.95 each, for kids ages five through 12. Soft drinks are priced at just 50 cents.

AMERICA THE BEAUTIFUL

Live From The Nation's Capitol

(NAPS)—"It's a Grand Night for Singing," as more than 400,000 celebrants gather on the West Lawn of the U.S. Capitol building this July 4th for public television's gala holiday concert, A Capitol Fourth 1995. This year's 90-minute special honors the 100th birthdays of renowned lyricist Oscar Hammerstein and beloved Boston Pops conductor Arthur Fiedler. Joining the internationally acclaimed National Symphony Orchestra for this live event are The Chieftains with Ricky Skaggs and performers Leslie Uggams, Barry Bostwick, Gregg Baker, Sylvia McNair and Rita McKenzie—all under the direction of famed pops conductor Erich Kunzel. The special broadcast, which also features a dazzling finale of fireworks and patriotic music, airs Tuesday, July 4 at 8:00 p.m. ET and is simulcast in stereo over National Public Radio. (Check your newspaper for the exact broadcast time here.)

Southwest Symphony Orchestra offers season tickets

The Southwest Symphony Orchestra, in its 32nd year, is offering four different ways to order tickets:

Package A: includes tickets to all 6 concerts

Package B: includes tickets to three subscription concerts at McAuley, the Christmas Concert and the Pops Concert

Package C: includes tickets only to the three subscription concerts at McAuley

Package D: includes tickets to the first two subscription concerts at McAuley and the Christmas Concert

If interested, contact : Moraine Valley Community College, Fine and Performing Arts Center, 10900 S. 88th Ave., Palos Hills, Il. 60465-0937, before July 31.

Single tickets may be ordered anytime after September 1, 1995 by calling the MVCC Box Office at 974-5500.

Pointers For Parents

The Best Summer Ever

(NAPS)—Turning a child's "I'm bored" summer into "the best summer ever" is easier than ever with some suggestions found in a new parent-friendly guide.

Creative solutions are plentiful in The Best Summer Ever (Tricycle Press, $9.95), which offers information on creative cooperatives, quickly organized family adventures, vacations, celebrations, and how to tune into your child's interests. For example, this summer your child could:

- Take a stargazing expedition.
- Run a neighborhood Olympics.
- Celebrate the ice cream cone's invention by making home-made ice cream and waffle cones.
- Honor the birthdays of Beatrix Potter and Henry David Thoreau.

THE POETRY PATCH

Feel The Sights

by Kevin Bastian

Nonexistent it seems sometimes
Road blocks surrounding me
Society's inconveniences
Create obstacles that I must feel Feelin' all day long Nights the same I think
It's hard to tell
When the sun can't make you blink

Black earth standing
Black sky bury
The heavens, they are closed
Clouds veil light eternally

Learned to enjoy
Life's simple pleasures
Sitting still unharmed
Feel the changing weathers
Warm to cool to cold
My heart's vacancies, they pile
Show me the way, blank stranger
Feel good about yourself for awhile

• As head of the A&E section, I am saddened by the paltry number of writings I received in the mail - 0. I would imagine there are at least a few citizens out there with some creativity and even more who would like to see their name and work printed for thousands of others to appreciate. So don't be shy or think your writings aren't good enough. Anything written from your heart has meaning to at least one person..and that's you. Send to: Village View c/o The Poetry Patch, 9720 S. SUMMER VACATION

Gourmet Food Made Spa Regime Stress- Free'

by Anita Anderson

The "Fifth Floor"of the Hotel Spa Ixtapan in Ixtapan, Mexico is a place of wonder and mystique nestled in the grandeur of the Sierra Madre Mountains.

It is there that we overweight mortals are indulged, caressed and creamed to expectations that are higher than we anticiapte. That is, if the mirror does not lie.

In my case I am ashamed to admit, while others stoically dined on a 900-calorie-a-day nutrition which came in the form of clear consomme and mysterious red tea made from a beautiful Mexican flower which helps clear the kidneys, I chose to dine on the main floor where I got a view of spectacular hibiscus in all colors and other tropical flowers along with a mineral rejuvenating pool and an azure blue swimming pool.

I was a guest of the spa for three days so I chose the alternative relax program, which included three reflexology shiatsu massages, (a foot rub), two acupuncture sessions, three yoga classes, two private Roman mineral baths, three golf or tennis lessons and all meals.

I personally have a difficult time relaxing and tend to live on a schedule. Experts have been telling us to get off the fast-track and relax.

The spa relax program made for stress-free living. Although my food from a menu was nowhere the 900-calorie variety, I felt I ate smaller portions and sensibly.

Except for the dessert cart...

The "skinny program" as I like to refer to the participants of the "fifth floor" began with a 7 a.m. hike, about two miles around the lovely sleepy town on the outskirts of Ixtapan. Just about the time I was getting ready for an 8 a.m. breakfast.

The seven-day "slenderizing" program offers twice as many beauty treatments including lodging and all meals. Both programs, however, diet and non-diet, offer a computerized health profile, medical supervision, a gym, wonderful whirlpool, sauna and steamroom and if you like, excursions to nearby areas like the silver town of Taxco, about 80 minutes by car.

"You'd better keep this place a secret," said a young woman from Alabama who was with her mother-in-law. I admired her glowing complexion which she credited to the facial complete with a fresh strawberry mask she had just enjoyed. All beauty packs are made wth fresh fruit, milk and vitamin E oil.

"I was here last year and the prices are so reasonable I'm back. For example, a facial and a body massage are about $10. Back home I pay $50," she explained.

Her mother-in-law sat happily next to her, her feet encased with bits of cotton as she awaited a pedicure.

"You never realize how stressed out you are until you come to a place like this," she said.

According to Maria Carmen Martinez Abaru, spa director, the average weight loss for one week is about eight pounds providing the participants stick to the program.

The spa has a staff of 15.

"We don't exert any pressure on our spa customers," the director said. :If some feel like having their evening meal or breakfast in the main dining room, there is no problem. They don't have to feel guilty."

Ixtapan Spa is a type of refuge built on 35 acres of tropical gardens. The property is fenced in and close enough to the town itself so that a stroll to the main square may be in order.

No one is holding a stick to you if you miss an appointment, although bypassing a body massage would be your loss.

For "shopoholics" a cluster of open-air vendors selling everything from silver jewelry from nearby Taxco to t-shirts are adjacent to the spa property.

At night after dinner which begins at 7 p.m. you can enjoy a few games of bingo with prizes ranging from hats to shirts followed by a movie at 9 p.m.

By 11 you are so tired that settling in your room can be a pleasure. Most rooms have two king-sized beds, refrigerator, another couch that can be used as a sleeper, cable t.v. and a balcony.

Visitors can come for any length of time. Two women from Bethesda, Maryland, chose to visit for two days and paid for their massages and facials and chose non-diet food.

Transportation is available for the two-hour ride from the airport at Mexico City. Price is $80 to $95 depending on the season. Or, you take an inexpensive cab ride to the bus station in Mexico City. Clean, dependable buses leave almost every hour for Ixtapan for about $7. When you arrive you can take a cab for $2 to the spa from the center of town which takes less than five minutes.

As for the rates, hotel rooms begin at $103 for a single and $135 for a double and three meals if you do not choose to take part in a spa or relax program and "do your own thing." Prices vary slightly with the season. The four-day relax program with 13 treatments is $350 including meals and room up until December 18. From January to April the price is $400.

Seven-day relax programs are $665 per person until December 17 including hotel and meals.

Not included is the ten percent Mexican government tax and the transfer price from the airport to the spa.

Most airlines have service to Mexico City. I chose Continental. The airline has added meal service and even on the hour and forty-five minute flight, Houston to Mexico City, we were served a delicious steak dinner.

Southwest Wisconsin Is Fertile Ground For The Arts

(NAPS)—Lush farmlands, rolling hills and valleys and meandering rivers aren't the only lures that draw travelers to Southwest Wisconsin. Just around the bend of many rural roads are cultural attractions ranging from quirky folk art to classic Shakespearean theater.

Mineral Point, one of the oldest towns in the state, is home to some 30 potters, painters, carvers, weavers, wood workers and needlepoint artisans. Their works are sold at numerous shops in town and, in addition to artwork, shoppers will find prime antiquing opportunities. Mineral Point also features distinctive limestone architecture that reflects the English style of the Cornish immigrants who first settled here. The community has made an effort to preserve its original structures, and restored 1800s buildings, homes and bed and breakfast inns line the streets. (608/987-3201)

Southwest Wisconsin's rich and varied arts scene includes the Dickeyville grotto, a cluster of decorated caves and shrines.

Americana in the Heartland

A pilgrimage to the Dickeyville Grotto in Dickeyville leads to a sprawling religious folk art monument built in the 1920s by a German immigrant priest. The shrine is really a cluster of caves and small temples all elaborately embellished with bits of china and glass. (608/568-7519)

The region also affords visitors a glimpse of art and crafts from life in simpler times—Monroe and Vernon counties are home to a significant number of Amish, who are known for making quality, crafted goods that are beautiful as well as functional. Shops, fairs and sometimes even roadside stands sell Amish furniture, quilts, wall hangings, baskets and rugs. (Monroe County 608/325-7648; Vernon County 608/845-5777)

Southwest Wisconsin is a genuine example of "the heartland," and so it's the ideal location for the folksy art of Norman Rockwell. Located in the town of Reedsburg is the Museum of Norman Rockwell Art, the country's largest collection of Rockwell art that's open to the public. More than 4,000 works by this chronicler of American life are on display, and exhibits include framed magazine covers ranging from 1917 to the '70s. (608/524-2123)

Experience the Classics

Theatergoers will find two notable stages in the area—both devoted to Shakespeare and other classics. Platteville's 1995 Shakes-peare Festival runs July 8 through August 12. (608/342-1298) In Spring Green, the American Players Theatre performs four works in repertory in an open-air, wooded setting. The APT season runs June 15 through October 8. (608/588-7401)

A visit to Spring Green offers a chance to tour Taliesin, Frank Lloyd Wright's 600-acre estate and surrounding grounds. Wright's home is built into the brow of a hill overlooking the Wisconsin River and reflects his philosophy that buildings should complement their natural setting. The Hillside Home School for architect students incorporates many of the techniques Wright is known for—natural stone and wood, and large windows that draw in the outdoors. A two-hour walking tour of the Taliesin grounds also includes other buildings Wright designed—Hillside, Midway Farm, the Romeo and Juliet Windmill, Tany-deri House—and the Taliesin gardens. Musical entertainment featuring Oak Lawn Park District children's and adults groups begin at 6:30 p.m. at Richards High School, 106th and Central Avenue followed by the motown band Midnight Hour. A magnificent fireworks display will conclude the day.

Library plan

A four-phase plan for remodeling three areas of the Oak Lawn Public Library was approved by the board of trustees at its regular meeting of June 20. Patrick Callahan and Nikki DeCiani, representatives of Gilfillan, Witt and Callahan, architects, presented a series of drawings reflecting changes to be made in the audiovisual, youth services and administration areas. The estimated cost is $100,965. The plan includes enlarging the audiovisual section for easier selection of materials and establishing a security gate. Also, the storyhour room in the youth services department is scheduled to be doubled in size. The changes for administration, all on the lower level, will involve creating new offices for the libary director and the executive assistant, building a library publications room and a training/class room in the space formerly used by the Suburban Library System (SLS) reference department. SLS moved to the Oak Park Libarary in 1994.. Library staff and the board have ben considering potlibilities for the best use of that space and other library areas since the move.

The timing for the changes has not been decided, but the schedule willbe as little patron inconvenience as possible. According to administration and the board, there is not a deadline to get the work done. Rather, the remodeling phases will be scheduled around the "slow" times in each area. Completion of the project will provide better service for the public with larger areas and easier access to collections.

In other activity, 14 bids were opened from 13 compenies for a new high speed copier for staff use. The bids ranged from $11,000 to $19,000. Staff will examine the bids and prepare a formal recommendation for the next board meeting.

Dr. James Casey, library director, reported that 2,175 more / circulations were recorded in May of this year as compared to May, 1994. This was an increase of 4.6 percent and is the fifth consecutive month in which ciculation has exceeded 1994 levels.

In regular board business, the board approved payment of $40,912 for libarary materials; $24,084 for operating expenses; and $169,151 for personnel.

The board meets at 7:30 on the third Tuesday of each month. Board members are Joann Buschbach, president; Shirley Barrett, vice president; Marian Sullivan, treasurer ; Robert Honkisz, secritary; and Lois Gasteyer, Patricia Roberts and Le Stein, trustees.

BRIDAL BITS

BY SUE KRAMER

Hello and welcome to Bridal Bits. Today, I'll be discussing wedding cakes and jewelry. The interviewees are Mary Thompson, wedding consultant and owner of Things Jamaiican & Etcetera, and Pam Katswalis, owner of Classic Presence Jewelry.

Mary Thompson is quite successful in making wedding cakes for years and has quite an extensive picture portfolio.

!st question: What is the most common priced cake and reception size you currently work with?

"Most weddings are between $300-$400 for 100-200 people. If they need to spend less than that, there is still a lot you can do to make a small cake look bigger - pillars, many staircases or silk flowers.

Also cake size will vary if they are having a sweets table or another dessert. If the cake is your only dessert, it should be large."

What is the most common flavor? What is an unusual but popular choice?

"The most common is yellow cake with real strawberries inside and an unusual, but popular, cake is the Jamaiican cake(a lot of Caribbean brides and themes request this). This cake is a dense-dark brown cake containing fruit-raisins, currants, dates, etc. soaked in wine and rum for months.

Mary Thompson and Things Jamaiican and Etcetera is available at 922-3434.

I asked Pam Katswalis of Evergreen Park if she is selling a lot of glitz in the weddings today or is it still traditional?

"You'll see more traditional. Pearls are still #1 by far! I sell a lot of sets - the necklace and earrings and those make great gifts for the bridal party.

The thing that I am seeing more of is the colored stones - amethyst and emeralds but these are still combined with the pearls."

The most popular set Pam sells is the double and triple strand collar or choke style with earrings with some rhinestones mixed in. For all your jewelry needs, you may contact Pam at 423-4030.

Don't forget your bridal face-makeovers. Be picture perfect on the day of your wedding. Call me for either a private appointment(you need to be pampered at this time of your life!) or bring your wedding party including moms. There is no fee for my service and the best time to see me is months or weeks before your wedding. You may comtact your Bridal Bits columnist at 423-3316. Have a terrific and positive day!

OL Chamber holds annual golf and dinner

A fun-filled day of golf, dinner and more than 100 raffle prizes is promised by the Oak Lawn Chamber of Commerce Golf outing Committee on Wednesday, July 12, at the Palos Country Club, 131st St. and Southwest Highway. Golf only is $50; dinner only is $45. Call the Chamber office for reservations, 424-8300.

Three special prizes have been lined up for the Yankee Doodle Dandy raffle. A Grand Raffle will feature prizes worth at least $50.

As we continue to pray for Cardinal Bernadin's recovery and wish him well, it is Bishop Raymond E. Goedert, who as the Vicar General of the Archdiocese of Chicago has taken charge of day to day operations.

Bishop Goedert grew up in Oak Park and later attended Quigley Preparatory Seminary in Chicago and St. Mary of the Lake Seminary in Mundelein, where he was ordained a priest in 1952.

I first met Father Goedert in the 1970s when he became the pastor of St. Barnabas. For the 11 years he served as pastor, Father Goedert was a strong leader who, in times of trouble, would quietly step in and resolve any program with intelligence and caring. I wish Bishop Goedert all the best in his new role.

Does Your Use of Company Stock Options Stack Up?

Vince Mosquera,
Financial Advisor, with VTM
Financial Services
(312) 914-0753

More and more workers of all stripes are getting part of their pay in stock options these days. That can be a great way for employees to require a stake in the business and an opportunity for tax-favored income. But getting the most out of employer-granted stock options takes some doing.

Employer-granted options give workers the right to buy company stock at a fixed price anytime during an "exercise" period, usually 10 years or less. Typically, the stock can either be sold immediately or held in hops it will bloom in value.

The choices employees make about when to exercise options and when to sell stock required by exercising options can have a big impact on how much tax they ultimately pay and the true value of the options they receive.

Employer-granted stock options fall into two broad categories: "nonqualified" options and "incentive" options. Nonqualified options, which may be issued at a discount to the current trading price of the company's stock, are the more prevalent type. Incentive options, which are issued at or above the current trading price, have more potential tax advantages but are usually given only to key senior executives.

With nonqualified options, for instance, as soon as an employee exercises an option, he owes tax on the difference between what he pays for the stock and its fair markeyt value. An employee owes this tax regardless of what he then does with the stock he acquires in the exercise.

Say an employee at a small technology company is granted options to buy 1,000 shares of the company's stock at $4 a share - a dollar a share less than the company's current stock price. Exercising these options immediatley subjects the employee to income tax on the $1,000 spread; for someone in the 36 percent bracket, the tax would be $360. If the employee then turned around and sold the stock immediatley, the realized profit would be only $640, less trading commissions.

Most people wait to exercise nonqualified options until they feel they have a significant profit in the stock. Then, they exercise the options and sell the stock virtually simultaneously.

Simply by exercising incentive stock options, there's a good chance nowadays that you can be thrown into AMT(Alternated Minimum Tax). You may get an offsetting tax altogether.

The solution is often to exercise the options over many years rather than all at once. But many people wait until the options are about to expire, leaving them no choice but to exercise all of their holdings at once and incur AMT.

U.S. Senator Paul Simon of Illinois

Medicaid: An Orphan In The Budget Debate

Because of the budget with which Congress is struggling, there has been much focus on Medicare, the medical assistance program that goes to most Social Security recipients.

At town meetings I receive many questions about probable Medicare cuts.

I receive almost no questions about Medicaid, in part because it is not widely understood, and in part because many of those who receive Medicaid help can't afford even to go to a town meeting. Most of them do not own cars and in the larger cities cannot afford public transportation costs.

And many Medicaid recipients do not believe our government and government officials really care about them.

Medicaid is the health care assistance we provide for the poor. States have to meet minimum federal standards, design their own programs, and then get federal matching funds.

I feel considerable unease when Congress significantly cuts the growth in spending on Medicaid, because half of those on Medicaid are poor children: Many physicians in Illinois already refuse to take Medicaid patients, partly because of the relatively low reimbursement compared to the fees other patients pay, partly because of the paper work and partly because the State of Illinois is far behind in meeting its bills to doctors, hospitals, nursing homes and pharmacists.

Controlling our rapidly growing health care costs in Medicaid and Medicare is difficult without looking at the total health care picture. I strongly favor protecting all Americans, as all other industrialized Western nations do for their citizens.

But it is clear that will not happen in this Congress.

So partial steps are being taken to control costs for Medicare and Medicaid.

Illinois is one of the worst states in terms of prompt Medicaid payment.

But otherwise, as you compare Illinois with other states, the pattern of assistance is somewhat mixed.

Illinois is slightly below the Medicaid national average in the amount we spend per child under 21: $951 compared to a national average of $955.

For adults 21 to 64, we are well below average: $1,473 compared to the national average of $1,717. We are behind Mississippi, South Carolina, and a number of poorer states in our help for adults. Indiana spends more than twice as much per patient as we do on medical assistance for poorer adults.

> "I feel considerable unease when Congress significantly cuts Medicaid, because half of those on Medicaid are poor children."

For the disabled, Illinois is above average: $8,393 compared to the national average of $7,216. This is the only area where Illinois is above the national average.

For the elderly, the national average is $8,704 and Illinois averages $8,321.

Because so many people need help, this is a costly program both for Illinois and the federal government. In Illinois we average $211 per citizen in spending of state money, with the federal government matching that figure, also spending $211.

New York spends $552 of state money on this program. The per capita federal and state combined total spending is greater in all of our neighboring states with the exception of Iowa, which spends less than Illinois.

I usually try to avoid too many statistics in these newspaper columns, but in this case the statistics tell an important story – important both to the Illinois and federal budgets, and important in the lives of many people who are struggling.

POWERFUL PRAYER TO THE HOLY SPIRIT

Holy Spirit, You Who solves all problems, Who lights all roads so that I can attain my goal. You Who givest me the divine gift to forgive and to forget all evil against me and that in all instances of my life You are with me. I want in this short prayer to thank You for all things and to confirm once again that I never want to be separated from You even and in spite of all material illusion. I wish to be with You in eternal glory. Thank You for Your mercy toward me and mine.

The person must say this prayer for 3 consecutive days. After 3 days, the favor requested will be granted even if it may appear difficult. This prayer must be published immediately after the favor is granted without mentioning the favor, only your initials should appear at the bottom.

Annual Patriots Day Parade a success on Archer

by Rick Techman

About 5,000 people lined Archer Avenue from Vittum Park to Melvina to actively observe Congressman William O. Lipinski's (D-3) Patriots Day Parade, July 3, beginning at 7:00 p.m.

"As far as I know," Deputy Ward Committee Walter Karcz said, "the Congressman has been doing this since his aldermanic days. It's got to be close to 20 years."

Floats and organizations included in the parade began with Chicago Police and Fire Department cars and trucks and continued with veterans color guards and drill teams, school groups, civic leagues, political leaders and businesses among others.

The parade moved down Archer in the westbound lanes to Melvina where the parade disbanded at Wentworth Park while about 2,000 parade-goers walked down to Heritage Club at 5540 S. Narragansette. Once there, 23rd Ward Regular Democratic Organization volunteers distributed free hot dogs and pop.

Congressman Lipinski, State Senator Robert Molaro (D-11), Alderman Zalewski and Cook County Clerk David Orr mingled with voters, taxpayers and their families at the Heritage Club answering constituent questions and complaints and making referrals to concerned citizens.

Board can ammend the village code

by Frank Soczek

Be It Ordained that the Village Code be amended to read in its entirety as follows:

Seetion 1, Title XIV, Chapter 15, Article B, subsection 401 (c) otherwise known as the Klein, Thorpe and Jenkins, LTD Full Employment Act

Whereas the duly sworn members of the Oak Lawn Village Board vowed to uphold the best interests of the citizens of the community by voting on issues of pressing social and otherwise practical concern, and

Whereas the above mentioned Board, following the recomendations of another similarly intentioned governmental body, The Planning and Development Commission voted on and passed Petition # 95-10 (otherwise known as Amendments to Village of Oak Lawn Zoning Ordinance Building, Height and Grade ordinance during its regularly scheduled meeting on June 27, 1995 affirming to all who will listen that Laws Are Good and

Whereas the above mentioned board has voted to consider a variation request (from the esteemed and venerable Hartz Construction Company) during the very NEXT Village Board meeting on July 11, 1995 that would render the terms and conditions of the previously agreed on ordinance Meaningless (Perhaps Laws Are Not So Good) and

Whereas the Oak Lawn Village Board appears to relish establishing complex rules and codices and subsequently finds equal delight in taking exeeption to their own clever handiwork,

Let It Be Hereby Known that this ordinanee be fully adopted on this day and shall be in full force and effect, pursuant to a roll call vote, despite the protestations of one or perhaps two enlightened Trustees who, for whatever reason, continue to find the strength and courage to fight with all of their hearts for what they truly believe in, Do ordain and establish this ordinance forever (or until the next meeting, whichever shall come first)

Several issues, ideas and topics are brought to my attention each week, one such topic is more piquing to me than that of others.

For example, an assoicate of Alexander Graham Bell, Mr. Thomas Watson was developing the telegraph and placed a conductor lower than it was originally. Therefore, Alexander heard a sound coming from the listening device and said, "come here Watson, come here."

Bell proceeded to file for a patent in February 14, 1876 and Bell won the lawsuit against Elisha Gray on March 6,1876.

Because Elisha Gray filed his patent two hours after Bell had filed,the judge awarded Alexander Graham Bell his patent giving him title and rights to own Bell Telephone, now called AT&T.

Many people who work for companies and help with inventions usually turn over their rights by the mere fact of signing agreements at the time of employment.

The purpose of mentioning this is because on January 13, 1991, I wanted to help the Military men and women who would be going to Saudia Arabia, Kuwait and Iraq by having a USO at Midway Airport.

I approached Ret. Lt. Ralph Eldridge, Executive Director of USO of Illinois with the idea on that date. He stated, "This is your idea and you must do the work. Remember it came from you, and I am staying out of it."

I proceeded to get signatures that evening and presented them to Avis LaBelle, The Mayor of Chicago's press secretary. Each week I would present approximately 600 signatures until finally the press secretary said, "Do not come back;" and winked. I knew the mission was accomplished.

As stated in the Southtown Economist, Sunday January 20, 1991 by reporter Cornelia Grumman, "For Annette Dixon of Oak Lawn, inspiration came last week after finding a choice parking space in downtown Chicago and walking three blocks on Wabash Avenue to an appointment. Grumman went on towrite.

On her way, she spotted a USO sign in a window. "Now is the time I should ask exactly why there isn't a USO on the South Side of Chicago," Dixon thought. So she walked inside the USO office at 225 N. Wabash and talked to retired Lt. Col. Ralph S. Eldridge about setting up a USO center at Midway Airport to serve as a meeting place, recreation room and coffee and doughnut station for military men and women waiting for flights.

It turned out that Illinois USO President Gentre Vartan already had asked Mayor Richard Daley's permission to set up shop at Midway. Daley's office said Friday it had no immediate response on the request.

The Chicago City Council in late 1988 gave permission to set up a USO center after completion of renovations at Midway. An impatient Dixon, however, figures that will take another three years, and she doesn't want to wait."

I am bringing this up because a brochure published is 1992 stated that the inception of Midway Airport USO was credited to Mr. Gentre Vartan and the board of Directors of the USO for 1991. There was no mention of the name Annette Dixon.

Documentation and publication took place in various newspapers in 1991 and thereafter, but still the name was meaningless.

My question is, "Would there have been a USO at Midway Airport today had I not proceeded to get petition of signatures on January 13, 1991?" Remember there was a USO downtown, O'Hare Airport and Great Lakes, but not on the south side of Chiago. I did not know that the Persian Gulf War was only going to last a short time and that it took construction of the offices close to a year to build. But I am happy that the USO materialized. We were long overdue for a interim home away from home.

For whatever it is worth, the news clippings and my memory will be able to tell a story someday for those who will want to know HOW MIDWAY USO DEVELOPED.

Hospital cutbacks

by Annette Dixon

Cutbacks for mental health became an issue when an acquaintance tried to help her friend get into Hines Veteran Hospital.

Aid for Nursing Homes became an issue when staffing cuts started to hurt respite.

Incidents of inadequate health care has been brought to my attention not only because I am a publisher but because this seems to be the univeral topic regardless of age, race or creed.

A recent mention is that insurance and co payment companies are finding it difficult to make payment. Hospital are waiting longer for payment.

One example of health care indifference involves an employee of CNA Insurance had his insurance who cancelled without notification because of a pending lawsuit with the and the company.

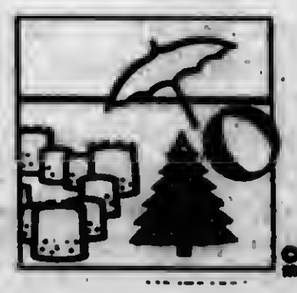
In the meantime the employee was faced with thousands of dollars of medical bills threntening "collection"

One individual was turned away from a VA hospital due to the fact he needed a psychiatrist's signature to admit him and there just wasn't one on staff that evening.

These are just some of the problems that were mentioned to this reporter recently. Dolores Graf will help co-write several stories relating to these incidents and others occuring within health care system.

Some of the following topics will include staffing at state and county hosptials and its effect on the public topics of health care in general at private hospitals vs that of State and County hospitals.

The answers to question regarding statistics and results of mandatory health care for all United States citizens given by our State Senators in Congress will also be discussed, along with HMO and Group Insurance payment problems.



POWER OF THE PRESS

A Big Help

ASK JUDD

Answers to your Environmental questions

(NAPS)—Q: I've been seeing a lot of products that claim to be biodegradable.

What really happens to these products in a landfill? Do they just disappear?

A: You're not alone in being confused about biodegradation. Misconceptions about landfills abound—not surprisingly, since few people have been in one. There is a persistent but incorrect belief that in a typical landfill our garbage is breaking down—turning to mulch.

While some biodegradation is taking place, in reality it is nothing like what most people think. Even after two decades, one-third to one-half of organic waste like lawn clippings and food is still intact and recognizable.

Today's state-of-the-art landfills are designed to preserve their contents rather than to let them decay. This is a good thing. By retarding biodegradation, the harmful air and water emissions that may result from the process are kept to a minimum.

Since using biodegradable products doesn't save much landfill space, consumers should concentrate on reducing the volume of waste they discard. Modern packaging such as plastic-coated drink boxes, lightweight plastic containers and flexible packages made from combinations of plastics, paper and foil can reduce the volume of packaging waste by up to 80 percent as opposed to use of heavier alternative packages.

Community development committee reviews videos

by Frank Soczek

It was like a night at the movies, missing only the popcorn and Milk Duds as members of the Oak Lawn Business Development Comission viewed and critiqued a number of promotional films from Chicago area suburbs, hoping to glean an idea or two for a possible business marketing video for Oak Lawn.

Committee members present for the meeting included Steve Rosenbaum, JoAnn Buschbach, James Buschbach, Dennis Manzke, John Paul, Trustee Bill Keane, Village Manager Joseph Faber and Community Development Director Susan Horn.

Following a dazzling, eye catching sample of state of the art, computer generated special effects featuring many familiar business and corporate logos created by Renaissance Production Company, the group viewed the first video, prepared by the suburb of Niles.

Consisting of predominantly static production shots of village officials (Mayor, Fire Chief, etc.) instruments" since a reading from prepared scripts at their desks, the snoozing audience was mercifully rescued by a touch of the fast forward button to a slightly livelier presentation by the Village of Carol Stream.

Desiring to attract a larger, corporate clientele, this land-rich DuPage County suburb utilized testimonials from existing businesses and stressed the fact that the latter were not perceived as "taxable significant part of the community infrastructure (schools, police, fire depts.) was firmly established, unlike many other newly developing municipalities.

Sure to be nominated for an academy award for Best Fictional Presentation, the Village of Cicero certainly outdid itself, thanks to the imaginative scripting of professional public relations consultant Ray Hanania.

Using a clever computer "mouse" as a graphic framework to guide the viewer through this "user friendly" town, historical allusions to the Roman emperor namesake and native son Ernest Hemingway somewhat upstage the more ominous (and certainly more prevalent) "Big Al" Capone associations.

"Borrowing dynamic film footage of busy Chicago Loop pedestrian traffic and lofty, sweeping shots of the Downtown skyline, the editors (through "creative deception") gave an unwary the viewer the impression of a dynamism unlikely to be found on 22nd and Cicero Avenue.

Described by Bill Keane as "feel good" movies, the Cicero presentation clearly received "two thumbs up" by group consensus, with the Carol Stream promo a close second. It was curious that each suburb stressed their close proximity to Chicago and major traffic interchanges as salient factors for perspective business residents.

While Oak Lawn is clearly unsurpassed in its "Chicago proximity" and access to transportation, the lack of developable land and over abunance of smaller scaled, vacant store fronts pose unique problems for recruiting new business. Among the obstacles discussed by the committee were the competion from the larger local shopping malls, lack of parking in the central business district and the speed of traffic on 95th Street.

The projected cost for an 8 to 10 minute video was calculated at approximately $5000 for pre-production (script writing, preparation) $5000 for filming and an additional $5000 for editing, copying and distribution.

While additional marketing alternatives are being pursued to attract new businesses to Oak lawn, it was noted that it would be futile to bring in "new" entreprencurs when the question of why existing small busniesses are failing or leaving at an alarming rate remains unanswered. Although the idea of an "Oak Lawn" video still remains in the "discussion" stage, the latter concerns will need to be addressed before we can expect to see Steven Spielberg creating magical, cinemagraphic transformations to the blighted, vacant storefronts on 95th Street and elsewhere throughout the village.

Bridgeview Park District News

On Friday, July 21, 1995 beginning at 7:00 p.m., the K-9 Citizen Dog Club of the Bridgeview Park District will hold a dog obedience fun match at the Sports Complex, 8100 S. Beloit.

There are four classes in which dogs may compete: pre-novice, novice A & B combined (for dogs without CD titles), graduate novice and open (A & B combined). Trophies and ribbons will be awarded for qualifying scores.

Doors will open at 6:30 p.m. for registration. Judging begins at 7:00 p.m. The gate fee is $5 per entry.

The public is invited to view the competition at no charge. The match will take place in the Sports Complex gymnasium which is air conditioned. Refreshments will be sold.

Registration is currently taking place at the Bridgeview Park District Sports Complex 8100 S. Beloit, for the Park's shopping trip to Long Grove on Tuesday, September 19 from 8:30 a.m. to 5:00 p.m.

The fee for this day trip which includes deluxe motor coach transportation is $16. for residents of the Park District and $21 for all others. Pre-registration and proof of residency (i.e. driver's license, utility bill) are required. The registration deadline is September 8th.

This day in Long Grove will be the perfect time to begin one's Christmas shopping. This quaint town features many antiique, craft and specialty shoppes. Participants are on their own for lunch.

For more information, call the Bridgeview Park District at (708) 594-1818.

Bridgeview conducts census

by Rick Techman

Mayor John Oremus presided over the swearing in of three new Bridgeview police officers and the promotion to lieutenant of a current Bridgeview sergeant at the May 17 village board.

Sergeant Charles Chigas received a promotion to lieutenant based on his education, experience and hard work on the force. Chigas holds a master's degree in law enforcement and has proven himself time and again protecting Bridgeview citizens.

Bridgeview's three new patrol officers are William Culbertson, Daniel Sullivan and Thomas Carroll. All of Bridgeview's police and fire department officers qualify for their positions through their education, experience and service to the community.

• Village Clerk Anne Cusack's office will be conducting a census this year to determine how many residents Bridgeview has gained since the 1990 census. Bridgeview gets $90.43 for each person who lives in the village, but it costs $59,000 to conduct a census.

The village clerks' office is distributing a simple form in the July village newsletter asking for each resident's address and the number of people at that address. The number of people includes anyone away at school.

By completing this form and sending it back to the village clerks' office with the water bill, residents will save money locally and help the entire village of Bridgeview enjoy a better benefit once the census is completed. The board of trustees appreciates every citizens cooperation.

Rick Techman, Garfield Ridge, Clearing correspondent

• "My daughter is a full-time school teacher," local entrepreneur Mary Ann Dybala said. "I sold her a home right here in Garfield-Ridge.

"I'm here seven days a week," she added. "I do my shopping here which I do with all the trades. I think it's very important to be on a reciprocal basis. When you take from the community you give it back to the community," she explained.

Mary Ann Dybala, co-founder in 1975 of In Realty at 6165 West Archer, told me in an exclusive interview last week how she has tried to return to Garfield-Ridge some of the successes she has had here selling at least 1,000 homes to satisfied buyers since 1973.

"I have been," she said, "very active with the American Cancer Society for the last 12 and a half years from the Garfield-Ridge, Clearing area. We do fundraisers and all kinds of different things to recruit for this good cause."

She continued, "That is one of my charitable organizations that I donate a lot of time to.

"I was," she added, "the first woman president of the Garfield-Ridge Chamber of Commerce trying to get different things that we never had in the community. I was president for five consecutive years."

• Meanwhile, the local homeowner group, the Garfield-Ridge Civic League, will be holding its annual Night-At-The-Races at Sportsmans Park at 35th Street and Laramie Avenue in Cicero Friday, September 8.

Tickets sell for $15.00 each. This includes a buffet dinner starting at 5:30 p.m. and a night of harness racing.

• At least 100 Garfield-Ridge residents attend this annual fall event. This year tickets can be purchased by phone by simply calling me at (312) 585-9094 and placing your order. Door-to-door delivery of your tickets is available at your request.

Write your checks out to the Garfield-Ridge Civic League and give me a call. Final orders will be taken August 31!

In Realty celebrates 20th anniversary with customer

by Rick Techman

While the cost of real estate in Garfield-Ridge and the regulations governing the sale of real estate has increased dramatically in the past 20 years, Mary Ann Dybala of In Realty continues to sell homes here since 1975 with customer service in mind.

She said, "As buyers (in Garfield-Ridge), they should first work with the realtor that they feel very comfortable with and that will explain all of the terms, all of the options that they have.

"We advise people when they by a home," she added, "that we give the comparables of what our homes are going for in the area similar to that home.

"We recommend to them to get a home inspection because a home inspection gives them full protection by the company. If they found something that they said was working and it wasn't, the company backs them up and takes care of it," she also said.

"And the third thing," she said, "that we do suggest, of course, is to have an attorney. Since the real estate that they buy, for the most part, is the most expensive thing that they can aquire, then they should have an attorney to represent them."

Dybala said homes in Garfield-Ridge that sold for $10,000 or $12,000 forty years ago could now be worth upwards of $80,000 to $115,000 now. She said retirees who paid the low price when they moved here after WW II might be tempted to accept, immediately, an $80,000 independent offer for their home when it could be worth much more than that.

She explained most buyers she sees in Garfield-Ridge are young couples interested in a first home near the parents or retirees interested in paying the lower real estate tax, with the benefits of the city, being near the kids, or on a smaller piece of land.

She also said city workers, police officers and firemen required to live in Chicago often purchase homes in Garfield-Ridge. Aside from homes, she also explained condominiums and apartments are available in Garfield-Ridge.

She said in 1975 only a simple agreement was necessary to buy or sell a home. Now she said an abundance of regulations govern real estate sales in Chicago.

"Rules and regulations have changed tremendously," she said. "The contracts were very simple. Over the years they put more legality into it. Especially the last ten months in real estate has changed horendously."

The new seller's disclosure law requires all sellers to answer honesty 22 basic questions about the condition of their home.

She said some questions include the condition of the house, if it has termites and any defects known to the seller prior to the sale.

"The sellers," she said, "should make sure they get a fair market analysis of their home. A typical home in the area depends on the age of the home, the lot size, how many bedrooms and are there amenities in the house that are updated."

She explained how heating and air conditioning systems, needed repairs and improvements can change the price of identical homes constructed by the same builder.

She also said, "I would say homes in the Garfield-Ridge area run at least from $110,000 to $150,000. There are some that are below." But she added, "Most new homes are in excess of $215,000."

Mary Ann Dybala is the past president of the Garfield-Ridge Chamber of Commerce and presently serves on the board of directors. She said she has been an active member of the community since she moved here in 1950 and has always believed business people on Archer should cooperate with the community their business is in.

"I do believe that," she said, "when you have a business, and you're making money from the community, that you have to take time and give time back to the community. It's a give and take situation."

She said, as an officer in the Garfield-Ridge Chanber of Commerce, she has introduced sidewalk sales to Archer Avenue, fought for needed city services in the area and donated space at her office at 6165 West Acher Avenue for the chambers' use including an answering service and mailing address.

She said because good service is so important for her customers she has actually sold as many as 1,000 homes since 1973 including several locations she sold more than once.

She added to celebrate In Realty's 20th anniversary, she will be offering a free one year home warranty, worth $395, to anyone who buys or sells their home through her business through July 31.

New Art Institute cookbook presents exciting art

Recipes from some of the finest Chicago-area restaurants and a selection of extraordinary artworks from the collections of the Art Institute of Chicago are drawn together in a new cookbook, Culinary Art: Recipes from Great Chicago Restaurants, published by The Art Institute of Chicago. This new book celebrates the relationship between food and art by combining exciting recipes with full-color reproductions of great works of art, all accompanied by lively captions, from these traditons.

From the cornucopia of wonderful restaurants in the Chicago area, the Art Institute has chosen eight notable establishments-including its own Restaurant on the Park-that feature cuisine from some of the diverse cultural traditionsthriving in and around the city. Culinary Art showcases the restaurants The Berghoff (German), Betise (French), Frontera Grill (Mexican), New Japan (Japanese), Papagus Greek Taverna (Greek), Prairie (American), Restaurant on the Park (Continental) and Va Pensiero (Italian), all of which contributed recipes, selected exclusively for this cookbook, for some of their most outstanding dishes. Those who appeciate fine dining both at home and on the town now have the opprtunity to create some of the dishes that have made these restaurants popular, including soups, salads, and other appetizers; entrees (pastas, as well as vegetable, meat, and seafood dishes); and desserts. Culinary Art includes recipes appropriate for a variety of seasons and occasions. A light summer meal prepared from the recipes in Culinary Art might include New Japan's Spinach Salad with Sesame-Seed Dressing, followed by Va Pensiero's Rosemary Fettucine with Grilled Artichokes and Pancetta, and concluded with Betise's Fresh Peach and Ginger Cobbler woth a Lemon-Biscuit Top. A hearty winter repast might start with Prairie's Chippewa Wild-Rice Soup, followed by Restaurant on the Park's Roastedm, Honey-Glazed Quail Stuffed with Duck Sausage and Wild Mushrooms, and concluded with the Berghoff's Apple Cake with Bourbon Sauce.

The diversity of the Art Instsitute's permanent collections is well represented alongside the recipes by full-color reproductions of selected artworks from nearly every department of the museum. Works were selected for their relationship to the culinary arts, and include prints, paintings, textiles, decorative arts, and sculptures from Asia, ancient Greece, the ancient Americas, Europe, and the United States. Artists include Paul Cezanne, Winslow Homer, Torii Kiyonaga, Henri Matisse, Peter Paul Rubens, Rufino Tamayo, Wayne Thiebaud and Henri de Toulouse-Lautrec. Both the artworks and the delightful captions that accompany them offer insights into the contexts and meanings of food in different times and places.

Numbering 120 pages, Culinary Art: Recipes from Great Chicago Restaurants features reproductions of 95 works from the museum's collections, along with full-color photographs of dishes from each restaurant. It retails for $29.95 and is at all branches of the Museum Shop.

PAN-FRIED SALMON WITH RED-WINE VINEGAR AND MUSHROOMS

2 tbspns peanut oil
4 salmon fillets, each 5 ounces, rinsed and patted dry salt and fresh ground pepper to taste
2/3 cup red-wine vinegar
16 medium mushrooms, sliced, with stems trimmed
3 tbspns butter

Heat the oil in a 10-inch, nonstick skillet over medium-high heat. Season the salmon with salt and pepper. When the oil is hot, cook the fish skin side up until well-browned, about 4 minutes.

Gently turn with spatula. Cook, covered, until the salmon is just cooked through; timing will depend on the thickness of the fillets. Transfer the fish to four warm dinner plates. Keep the plates in a warm oven while finishing the sauce.

Pour the vinegar into the skillet and stir well with a wooden spoon. Add the mushrooms and simmer until just tender, about 3 minutes. Remove from heat. Stir in the butter until melted. Adjust the seasonings and spoon the sauce over the fish. Serve immediately. Serves 4.

CLASSIC CREME BRULEE BETISE

5 large egg yolks
3/4 cup sugar
11/2 cups whipping cream
1/4 vanilla bean, split

Preheat the oven to 350 degrees. In a mixing bowl, whisk together the yolks and 1/4 cup of the sugar. Place the cream in a saucepan and scrape the vanilla bean over it. Add the vanilla bean and place over medium heat just until the cream simmers. Remove from heat and let stand 5 minutes.

While stirring, pour the warm cream into the yolk-sugar mixture. Pour the mixture through a fine-mesh strainer and ladle into four 6-ounce ramekins. Place the ramekins in a pan and fill the pan with 1 inch of water. Bake until the centers of the custards jiggle but are not runny, about 25 to 30 minutes. Allow to cool completely.

To serve, sprinkle the tops generously with the remaining sugar and broil until the sugar caramelizes. Rotate the creme brulees a few times so they broil evenly. Watch carefully to keep the sugar from burning. Serves 4.

FRESH PEACH AND GINGER COBBLER WITH A LEMON-BISCUIT TOP

Cobbler:
13/4 pounds firm, ripe peaches, peeled
1/4 cup sugar
11/2 tspns fresh grated ginger or 1/2 tspn dried ginger
3 tbspns flour
2 tbspns dark rum

Biscuit Top:
11/2 tbspns sugar
1/2 tspn salt
11/2 cups flour
21/4 tspns baking powder
11/2 tbspns grated lemon zest
6 tbspns unsalted butter
3/4 cup whipping cream
2 tbspns whipping cream
2 tbspns sugar

Preheat the oven to 400 degrees. Slice the peaches into a bowl. Toss with the sugar, ginger, flour and rum. Divide into six individual baking dishes.

Prepare the biscuit topping. Mix the dry ingredients in a bowl. Cut in the butter until the mixture looks like coarse cornmeal. Add the 3/4 cup of whipping cream and mix gently just until ingreduents are moistened.

Roll the dough out on a floured surface to a thickness of about 1/3 inch. Cut the dough to fit the tops of the baking dishes and lay on top of the peaches. Brush the dough with 2 tbspns whipping cream and sprinkle with sugar.

Bake the cobblers until lightly browned, about 15 minutes. Serve warm with whipped creme fraiche or vanilla ice cream. Serves 4.

Easy, delicious barbecue meals

Total preparation and cooking time: 35 minutes
Marinating time: 6 to 8 hours or overnight

1 well-trimmed beef top round steak, cut 1-1/2 inches thick (approx. 2 pounds)

Marinade:

3/4 cup prepared teriyaki sauce
2 tablespoons dry sherry
1 tablespoon finely chopped fresh ginger

1 In small bowl, combine marinade ingredients; mix well. Place steak and marinade in plastic bag, turning to coat. Close bag securely and marinate in refrigerator 6 to 8 hours (or overnight, if desired), turning occasionally.

2 Remove steak from marinade; discard marinade. Cook steak over medium ash-covered coals. (To maintain consistent temperature of coals while cooking, add 8 new briquets around outer edge of ash-covered coals before cooking steak.) Place steak on grid; grill uncovered 27 to 29 minutes for medium rare doneness, turning occasionally. Carve steak crosswise into thin slices.

STEAK WITH PARMESAN GRILLED VEGETABLES

2 well-trimmed beef-T-bone or Porterhouse steaks, cut 1 inch thick (approx. 2 lbs.)
1/4 cup grated Parmesan Cheese
2 Tbs. olive oil
2 Tbs. red wine vinegar
2 medium red or yellow bell peppers, each cut lengthwise into quarters
1 large red onion, cut crosswise into 1/2-inch slices
Salt
Seasoning:
1 tbs. crushed garlic
2 tsp. dried basil leaves
1 tsp. pepper

1. In small bowl, combine seasoning ingredients, mix-well. Remove 4 tsp. seasoning; press into both sides of beef steaks.

2. Add cheese, oil and vinegar to remaining seasoning, mixing well; set

3. Place steaks in center o f grid over medium ash covered coals; arrange vegetables around steaks. Grill steaks uncovered 14 to 16 minutes for medium rare to medium doneness, turning occasionally. Grill peppers 12 to 15 minutes and onion 15 to 20 minutes or until tender, turning both once. Brush vegetables with reserved cheese mixture during last 10 minutes of grilling.

4. Season steaks with salt, as desired. Trim fat from steaks; remove bones. Carve steaks crosswise into thick slices; serve with vegetables.

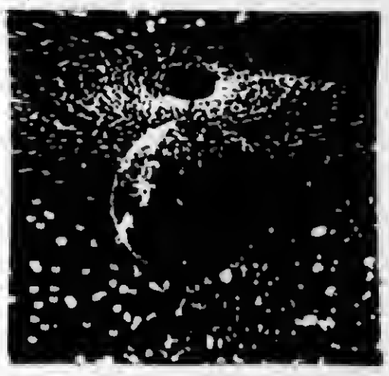
MUSIC CRITIQUE



Neil Young w/ Pearl Jam Mirrorball (Reprise)

Since forming a close friendship a couple of years back while touring together, Neil Young and Pearl Jam have been constantly spotted by each other's side. MTV Awards, Hall of Fame inductions, you name it. Pearl Jam frontman, Eddie Vedder, has even made Young, the "Godfather of Grunge," his personal mentor in some ways.

It seems only fitting that the two forces came together in the studio. Young, who is usually backed by his band, Crazy Horse, seems to regain his youth when with the lads of Pearl Jam. "Mirrorball" vents this fusion with straight-out garage rock that compels you to crank up your stereo. Young's 70's feel for music still lurks in the eleven tracks (all of which he sings), putting him center stage.

Pearl Jam guitarists Mike McCready and Stone Gossard had their amps full blast while new Jam drummer, Jack Irons, got his first taste of studio experience with his new mates.

The only letdown on "Mirrorball" is Vedder's absence (he sings two quick verses on one song). His emotional vocals and energy bring so much to a song that I can only dream of what could have been. While listening to tracks such as "I'm The Ocean" and "Truth Be Known," I could imagine Vedder singing alongside Young, offering a comradery to the atmosphere. Vedder's brief spotlight on "Peace and Love" only adds fuel to the fire. "Broke walls of pain to walk again," he stunningly croons, giving way to Young.

Young shines, though, on "Act of Love," a bring the house down rocker, and the media trashing "Scenery."

But the real stars are McCready and Gossard, who dominate the overall sound of the CD. Whether it's a driving rhythm ("Big Green Country") or a catchy, blues riff ("Downtown"), they nail it down like experienced carpenters.

Pearl Jam's supremacy on "Mirrorball" leads me to ponder why the CD is credited only to Young on its cover. Being the popularity giants they are, Pearl Jam's name on the cover probably would have pushed sales into Top 5 status.

Foo Fighters Foo Fighters (Capitol)

Ex-Nirvana drummer, Dave Grohl, has certainly proven he can succeed on the rock world following band mate Kurt Cobain's tragic suicide. And he doesn't even play the drums!!

Joined by guitarist Pat Smear, who played on tour with Nirvana and became a regular fixture, and two others, Grohl formed Foo Fighters and plays guitar and sings.

The self-titled debut is a far cry from anything Nirvana ever recorded. Grohl's voice is merely a background instrument on most songs, taking a backseat to loud guitars and smashing drums.

Q101 hit "I'll Stick Around," "Alone + Easy Target," "Good Grief" and "Wattershed" are bombarded with racing guitar hooks and driving rhythms.

Grohl's vocals are surprisingly gentle and pleasant. Songs that showcase his voice include their new single, "This Is A Call," the Beatlesque "Big Me" and the quirky "For All The Cows."

Afgan Whig vocalist, Greg Dulli, picks up a guitar and lends a hand on "X-Static," a song that could have used his prized set of lungs to save it.

"Foo Fighters" is a perfect find for guitar lovers and fans of fast-paced music. But don't buy it expecting to hear Grohl bashing his drums like in the days of old. Pity.

In Concert Juliana Hatfield July 7, 1995 Vic Theatre

Always the shy interview, Juliana Hatfield must have grown tired of her reputation as the "quiet" queen of alternative rock. Following up her first two solo releases, "Hey Babe" and "Become What You Are," Hatfield brought a never-seen-before attitude to "Only Everything." With raunchy guitars and in your face lyrics, the new album had critics changing their perception of this gentle giant.

On stage, Hatfield brought a witty personality and openness that totally caught me off guard. Quick chats with fans and frequent discourses on such topics as the city of Chicago and what bands the audience likes showed a very warm, sincere side of Hatfield.

This, coupled with an exhilarating performance, went to show Hatfield has definitely broken out of her shell.

Playing most songs from "Become What You Are" and a handful from "Only Everything," she kept the fans satisfied. Hits such as "My Sister," "Universal Heartbeat," "For The Birds" and "Spin The Bottle" were matched, if not outdone, by her not so popular songs.

The Vic audience, which ranged in age from about 12 to 55, was treated to a great show. Openers Rustbucket and Triple Fast Action were able to play on short notice and the Vic's light show displayed the caliber of that of a 20,000-seat arena.

An Innovative New Approach To The Arts

(NAPS)—Transforming the arts as we know them by merging different arts disciplines is becoming increasingly popular.

This approach may incorporate one or more disciplines such as art, dance, poetry, music and theater to appeal to an ever broader audience—dance aficionados, rock music fans, poetry connoisseurs, opera lovers, and more.

You might expect to find such cutting-edge productions in some avant-garde performance space but thanks to corporate sponsorship, these innovative works are easily encountered on prominent stages.

Lincoln Center, as part of its commitment to push the performing arts boundaries to the limit, has given a platform to visionary multidisciplinary works in its award-winning Serious Fun! series sponsored by Philip Morris Companies Inc. Four new works have been commissioned this year for Serious Fun! by Lincoln Center.

I Was Looking at the Ceiling and Then I Saw the Sky is an earthquake-inspired love story told in song written by John Adams with poet June Jordan. Bebop, gospel and rock songs tell the story of seven young people, who are white, black, Vietnamese and Salvadoran, and whose destinies intertwine in a Los Angeles earthquake. The unconventional rock opera is directed by Peter Sellars.

M.O. is a major new work by Trisha Brown, choreographed to Bach's Musical Offering, the first time Brown has used classical music in a creation. Performed on period instruments, the work has been described as "spellbinding."

This scenic design was created for I Was Looking at the Ceiling and Then I Saw the Sky, a Lincoln Center commission, for Serious Fun!

In An Uncertain Hour, choreographer and dancer Martha Clarke creates a sensual dreamscape, showing the dreams and turmoil of the human heart. Inspired by the art songs of Hugo Wolf, Robert Schumann and Alban Berg, it was created with the Nederlands Dans Theater 3.

The fourth work is a collaborative performance piece created and performed by choreographer Bill T. Jones, author Toni Morrison and composer/percussionist Max Roach.

What do you wear to such unconventional entertainment? A tuxedo and Reeboks? Business suit with an opera cape? Anything that expresses the spirit of adventure found in these works would be suitable. Personal statements are always in style, no matter how understated, since that's what the arts are all about.

Philip Morris Companies Inc. became the first major corporate sponsor of the series in 1991.

Two Classic Movies Reborn On Videotape

(NAPS)—The Secret of Santa Vittoria and Topkapi, two cinema classics from the MGM archives, have been released on video for the first time, available exclusively through the Critics' Choice Video catalog.

"In response to the thousands of customer requests we receive for hard-to-find classics, we've asked the biggest Hollywood movie studios to release a number of popular titles directly to video," states Nancy Hamlin, director of video merchandising at Critics' Choice Video catalog.

Topkapi, starring Melina Mercouri and Peter Ustinov, is a fast-moving comedy about a bumbling group of robbers who hatch a plot to steal an emerald-covered dagger from Turkey's Topkapi museum. (MGM 1964).

The Secret of Santa Vittoria, starring Anthony Quinn and Virna Lisi, is a lively WWII comedy centering around a tiny Italian town and their efforts to hide one-million bottles of fine wine from the German army. (MGM 1969).

Each video is available for only $19.98. To order the videos or to receive a free copy of Critics' Choice Video catalog, call 1-800-367-7765.

Critics' Choice Video is one of the largest-circulation catalogs of prerecorded videocassettes. The 124-page quarterly catalog features more than 2,000 video titles.

Government Protects American Music, Books

This country enjoys world-wide acclaim for the creativity of our authors, composers, songwriters, movie-makers and others. We also enjoy a good deal of income from the creative works we export.

(NAPS)—"Who reads an American book?" wondered British critic Sydney Smith in 1820. "Literature the Americans have none," he went on to say. "It is all imported."

Today, American books, songs, movies, plays and other works can be found all over the world. That cultural and economic success and the prestige and money it brings us all, may be in danger, however, unless Congress passes a bill designed to protect creative Americans.

The bill, HR 989 and S483, called the Copyright Term Extension Act of 1995, would extend copyright protection on new works from the present lifetime plus 50 years by another 20 years.

This will not only protect people who write books, songs, movies and the like and their heirs, it will also help the U.S. compete abroad, since the European Union is considering a similar move. If the bill doesn't pass, the discrepancy would let Europeans sell their efforts here, but hurts the sale of American works abroad.

Then Sydney Smith's comment could become true again.

Many Americans who want to see prestige, prosperity and property rights flourish in this country are urging their representatives to pass the bill. Anyone can write Congress on this or any issue at the U.S. Senate, Washington, D.C. 20510 and the House of Representatives, Washington, D.C. 20515. Or you can write the bill's Senate sponsor Orrin Hatch or the sponsor for the House, Carlos Moorhead, using the same addresses.

THE POETRY PATCH

Poetry and short story reading announced

Poets and authors are urged to prepare their writings for a summer special Poetry and Short Story Reading at the Oak Lawn Public Library, 9427 Raymond Ave. (5300 W. 95th St.) 9:30 a.m. - noon, Saturda, Aug. 5.

The program will follow a two-part format. Those who wish to read during the first segment will sign up at the door. Poetry readers will have five minutes; short story readers will have ten minutes. Speakers will be timed. Participants are asked to pre-time their readings so that limits can be maintained without interrupting speakers.

A short break will follow the initial readers. The second segment is for those who did sign in at the door but wish to read during the second part. If there is time until the noon deadline, readers will be allowed to read a second time.

Light refreshments will be available during the program. Vittorio Carli will serve as presider.

Questions should be directed to Mary Nelson, public relations and development officer, 422-4990.

Spotlight

That spotlight
I caught for just a second
It grabbed my focus
To my vision, it beckoned

I couldn't see them
I couldn't see you leave
Blurs, smudges, muddy
Now I can't be me

Come to me barking
Come to me comatose
Lifting my mood always
Whether poetry or prose

Really can't describe
What does it to me
One's expressions
Expressed so beautifully

On paper or in the air
It's sure to strike me hard
Even a common utterance
Transmits my mind afar
The bellows rise
High to low, soft to loud
Amazing the most captious
Making the fellows proud

Hope one day
I'll attain such imagery
Bestow these emotions

Jim and Becky Carriage Service host business day outings

by Annette Dixon

On July 11, the Chicago Southland Convention and Visitors Bureau had a fantastic day in the country.

The host for the day was Jim and Becky's Horse and Carriage Service, Inc.

Jim and Becky specialize in parades, picnics, festivals shuttle service.

Included with the entertainment of Jim and Eric, The Bluze Brothers, was the Chicago Southland Line Dance Revue.

For the avid fisherman, carp was the only fish that was allowed to leave the pond and Mrs. Kozalowski was the winner.

What a beautiful and restful place Becky and Jim have in Peotone. I will be back.

Make it Easy for a Partner to Assume Finances

Your Financial Future
By: Vincent T. Mosquera, Jr. MBA

What if I fall ill or die? If you manage your family's money, maybe you face the same problem. You want to make sure that your spouse can quickly and easily take over the household finances. But how? Consider the following strategies:

Keep Good Records. Keep a set of binders, each one devoted to a key area of your finances, including mutual funds, insurance, taxes and bank accounts.

Put It In Writing. Draw up a memo every year to your spouse covering everything from insurance to company benefits to the location of passports. The memo should list everything you have, why you have it, where it can be found and what all the account numbers are.

Keep It Simple. Make sure the household finances are not too complex, so that it would be fairly easy for your spouse to take over. Too many people accumulate different types of insurance with different companies, it is best to have one agent. That simplifies things. IRA's also have a way of proliferating. It is best to concentrate them at one brokerage firm. But it's still pretty complicated.

Get Them Involved. Encourage your spouse to become more active in managing the family's money. While you may make the bulk of the investment decisions, your spouse can use your home computer to balance the checkbook, keep tabs on credit card charges and print checks: It is comforting for the spouse when they know more.

Line Up Help. If your spouse ends up managing the family's money, the sort of handholding can come only from a professional investment adviser.

What should you do? You may want to identify somebody whom your spouse can turn to for guidance.

If you die or fall ill, this adviser may take over managing the family's money or steer your spouse to other professionals, who can help with investments and financial planning.

Put Your Trust In Trusts. Many couples use trusts to save on estate taxes. They might put their life insurance in a trust, so that it escapes estate taxes, or set up a bypass trust, which allows both husband and wife to make use of the $600,000 federal estate-tax exemption.

Local parishioners celebrate outdoor mass

by Rick Techman

About 150 worshipers came out to celebrate the annual St. Daniel the Prophet parish Independence Day outdoor mass at 5330 S. Nashville Ave., July 4, beginning at 9:30 a.m.

A veterans' color guard unit displayed the stars and stripes and the Chicago Archdiocesan flag on both sides of the folding alter while Associate Pastor John Cassidy said mass. The St. Daniel choir led each hymn.

Individual parishers brought lawn chairs as pews and set them up along the lawn in front of the church. The alter faced east and sat on the driveway near the steps of the church. The choir and keyboard stood behind the alter.

Pastoral Associate Sr. Eileen Tierney said, "I just think it is a wonderful opportunity for people to come together and celebrate the 4th of July in prayer and in community."

"One of the reasons," Liturgy Chairman Bob Kliver added, "we have it is to show the visibility of our religious freedom." He added, "We have religious freedom in this country!"

Everyone looked to be filled with the spirit and enriched in community under the cloudy sky during the liturgy. Parish volunteers served a continental breakfast following the mass.

Fr. Cassidy said a prayer of thanks during the mass for the dry weather that morning. The winds and rain held off until the last danish and coffee was consumed.

The trip to the Art Institute in Chicago will be on Thursday, July 27 from 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. Transportation will depart from and return to the College Center, on the campus, 10900 S. 88th Ave., Palos Hills.

The trip fee is $42 and includes transportation, audio-guided tour and admission. Lunch is on your own.

• Moraine Valley Community College is offering a one-day workshop for radiologic technologists.

Chest Disorders in Radiography will be offered Saturday, July 29 from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m., in the College Center Moraine Rooms, on the campus.

The workshop will examine different conditions and terminology related to chest disorders. Specific disorders and their correlating radiographs will also be reviewed.

The cost is $40.

• Host homes are needed for international students who will be attending Moraine Valley beginning in August.

Hosts are needed to house students on a short-term (one semester or less) and long-term (more than one semester) basis. Hosts can be individuals, couples or a family with an extra room. Students pay room and board fees to the host.

Host homes are needed for college-age students from Japan, Korea, China, Hong Kong, Germany, Pakistan, Singapore and other areas.

"This is an excellent opportunity for community members to enhance their knowledge of other countries while helping foreign students understand the United States through Moraine Valley's International Host Home Program," said Claudia Robuck, international host home specialist.

Contact Moraine Valley: Host Home Program, call Claudia Robuck at 974-5756.

• Start the day with a trip to see the historic Cuneo Mansion in Libertyville and finsish the day with a Ravinia Concert.

Sponsored by Moraine, the Cuneo Mansion Tour and Ravinia Concert trip will be on Sunday, Aug. 6 from noon to 11 p.m. Transportation departs from and returns to the College Center.

The historic Cuneo Mansion, formerly Hawthorne-Melody Farms, was owned by John F. Cuneo, a prominent Chicago businessman, philanthropist, and gentleman farmer from 1937 to 1990. The mansion was designed in 1914 by Benjamin Marshall for Samuel Insull, founder of Commonwealth Edison Company and partner of Thomas Edison.

The evening Ravinia Concert features the music of the Ravinia Festival Orchestra highligting the "Best of Hollywood Musicals." Erich Kunzel is the conductor.

The $62 fee includes transportation, the tour, and Ravinia concert tickets. Dinner is on your own at Ravinia or bring a picnic dinner.

• Now's the time to register for fall semester classes at Moraine Valley. The 17-week fall semester begins Monday, Aug. 21 and ends Saturday, Dec. 16 for on-campus credit classes.

The college offers classes for those interested in transferring to a four-year college or university, those interested in earning an associate's degree or certificate and then entering the workforce and those who need to update or learn new skills.

A variety of services are available, including a Child Care Center, Learning Resources Center, Academic Advising Center, Job Placement Center and numerous others.

Students can register in person at the College Service Center, located in the College Center on campus.

In addition, students can register by telephone by calling the Colleg Service Center at 974-2110.

• Moraine Valley will offer a variety of liberal arts and sciences classes on Friday evenings, Saturdays and Sundays beginning with the fall semester.

Many LAS course sections will meet exclusivley on weekends this fall. Course options include Introduction to Psychology and General Sociology, two classes that allow you to earn three credit hours in three weekends; a five-week Speech Fundamentals class which meets on Saturdays; and an 11-week General Biology class. Also available is a six-week Art Appreciation class, and a number of course offerings, including Introduction to Humanities, Composition 1, Ceramics 1 and Drawing I, that meet one weekend day for 16 sessions.

Fall semester classes begin the week of Aug. 21. Some of these weekend classes begin the week of Aug. 21; others begin in September and October.

Frank Gardner to be honored

There will be a cocktail reception held in honor of Commissioner Frank E. Gardner, of the Metropolitan Water Reclamation District of Greater Chicago, Wednesday, July 26.

The affair will be held at the Excalibur, 632 N. Dearborn St., between 5 and 7:30 p.m.

Gardner has served as vice president for the district and prior to being elected a commissioner served as the districts attorney for twelve years. One of his favorite charities is the New Horizon Center for retarded children, where he is past president and finance chairman.

Bulls and Gatorade host basketball clinic at Marist

On Tuesday, June 27th over 700 neighborhood young men and women packed the Marist High School gym to see their favorite Bulls, Steve Kerr and Jud Buechler at the Bulls/ Gatorade Summer Basketball Clinic.

A roaring crowd greeted the players as they arrived in the gym. Steve Kerr introduced himself and Jud Buechler and proceeded to call names for audience participation. They demonstrated the basics of basketball: passing, dribbling and shooting. They then assisted the youngsters as they ran through a series of drills.

Each young man and young woman present at the clinic received a complimentary pair of Bulls wristbands as a momento of the day.

POWERFUL PRAYER TO THE HOLY SPIRIT

Holy Spirit, You Who solves all problems, Who lights all roads so that I can attain my goal, You Who grant me the divine gift to forgive and to forget all evil against me and that in all instances of my life You are with me. I want in this short prayer to thank You for all things and to confirm once again that I never want to be separated from You even and in spite of all material illusion. I wish to be with You in eternal glory. Thank You for Your mercy toward me and mine.

The person must say this prayer for 3 consecutive days. After 3 days the favor requested will be granted even if it may appear difficult. This prayer must be published immediately after the favor is granted without mentioning the favor, only your initials should appear at the bottom.

Local legislators review McCook reservoir

By Rick Teckman

Congressman William O. Lipinski (D-3) and local state legislators held a community update July 22 in Countryside to discuss the effects the proposed Metropolitan Water Reclamation District 10.5 billion gallon McCook Reservoir will have on surrounding communities.

The site is located at 55th Street and Joliet Road where the MWRD, U.S. army Corps of Engineers and Vulcan Materials have been discussing possible alternatives for the McCrook Reservoir since 1986.

To fend off arguments of odors and unsanitary conditions on the southwest side, MWRD President Thomas Fuller told the group of about 50 residents that the reservoir would only be used about eight or nine times a year for about a week. He insisted this would not be a year round retention pond.

He said it would be used to drain Chicago and surrounding suburbs after heavy rainfalls. He explained that within a week the water would be processed through the MWRD and released into Lake Michigan. He added the reservoir water would be cleaner than the Des Plaines River.

MWRD Engineer Ayoub Talhami said the reservoir, when it is in use, will hold nine parts rainwater to every one part sewage and most likely will rarely need to hold its capacity of 10.5 billion gallons of water. Fuller assured everyone the McCook reservoir will not be built beyond a 10.5 billion gallon capacity.

Congressman Lipinski co-sponsored the meeting at the countryside city hall with State Senator Robert Raica (R-24) and State Representatives Eileen Lyons (R-47) and Ann Zickus (R-48).

Lyons said, "It's an update from the Water Reclamation District and from Vulcan who are the two principles involved in this and the 1986 plan that was agreed to by the federal government, by the governor and by the City of Chicago.

She added the plan required a reservoir to be built to stop the polluting of Lake Michigan and back up the basins holding storm water.

"So the plan," she added, "was agreed to and what has happened in the meantime is that the impact that it is going to have environmentally is in question.

"Is there a way," she asked, "of doing it so that we as a community are not adversley affected. What we plan to do is get other proposals beside open air.

"I have put forth a proposal," Lipinski said, "both to Vulcan and to the Water Reclamation District. I have recommended, but it hasn't been accepted by either side at the present time, that we just wash out any costs between Vulcan and the Water Reclamation District."

He added, "Vulcan gets the mine underneath the slug pond, gets the mineral rights, Vulcan gets to keep their existing quarry, the Water Reclamation District gets their underground reservoir. "Now we really won't know," Lipinski concluded, "how feasible that is or not until the Army Corps of Engineers comes back and tells us whether it is feasible to go in and build a slug pond and what the cost is."

Raica and Zickus also responded to concerns by local voters and taxpayers regarding the state's involvement in this long term ordeal.

Presently Lyons has placed a moritorium on the reservoir proposal in Springfield which will prevent any level of government or Vulcan Materials, from doing anything with the quarry before December 31, 1995.

During that time there will be monthly community meetings in different suburbs and in Chicago to discuss the progress between government agencies and Vulcan on the safety, reliability and practicality of the McCook Reservoir in the southwest suburbs.

Do Unto Others and Then Run.

Remember when the only sources of reading materials were books, personal mail, the daily newspapers, magazines, and of course comic books, and the funny papers. In those days reading was an art that was savored in silence at a place of your own.

These days, we have other sources of reading materials such as computerized messages on the marquee of shopping malls, banks and other structures. WE also have junk mail, "E"-Mail, one day mail and before elections, political mail. Even while driving, you can find reading material on the license plates and bumper sticker reads more or less "proud parent of an honor roll student at..." or "My son (daughter) is an honor student at..."/ I often wonder how many children that proud parent has. I had often thought about having a bumper sticker of my own that says: "Proud mother of 3 great ordinary children", but I had been too busy gardening and reading. In the summer time gardening takes priority over reading.

Another popular source of reading material is articles of clothing. Years ago, I saw a young man with a T-shirt that read: "Do unto others and then run". As we often do, I gave my own meaning to those words. I perceived his message as a mockery of the golden rule. People who do unto others and then run were people who hit and run, con people who prey on the innocent, purse snatchers and anyone who takes advantage of the good will of others. Last month another T-shirt reminded me of that young man and his T-shirt and I saw that phrase under a different light. We could do unto others and then run by not waiting for reparation of good deeds done unto others, by assisting others on our way and continuing our journey.

When a person helps another change a flat tire and then leaves, he or she did onto another and then ran. The young man who helped me out of a ditch near Moraine Valley on a cold winter evening, almost 20 years ago, did onto me and then ran. I asked him his name and wanted to do something for his kindness, but he refused. His name was David, he said, and then he left with a smile on his face. He drove off on his journey. Wherever he is, I wish him well and I thank him once more. May others do unto him as he did unto me.

Village Board Meetings Need Not Be Boring

By Frank Soczek

Dear Editor: I don't think I can take it any longer.

Effective this issue, I find it necessary to apply for a disability leave, being unable to live a normal life writing about the everyday dynamics of Oak Lawn and the ensuing political vagaries that subsequently come with the territory.

The reason is really quite simple. I'm suffering from chronic and terminal boredom.

Elsewhere in the news, Croatia and Serbia are beating the living "stuff" out of each other on a day to day basis.

People are dropping dead in the heat like flies in that nearby town called Chicago.

An ominous, darker side of an otherwise exemplary life is slowly and painfully unfurling as testimony proceeds in the U.S. Congressman Mel Reynolds hearings, even to the point of upstaging the West Coast Ringling Brothers style of justice better known as the O.J. Simpson "trial."

Surrounding burbs such as Oak Forest are plagued with juicy scandals over Civil Service testing and allegations of corruption and nepotism.

Some gal in Bridgeview is stirring up the pot by refusing to participate in Police Department training lessons, claiming her family obligations seem to interfere with orders from the commanders on high.

Rowdy teens are staging a minor league uprising in Orland Park over the recent prohibition of a popular "teen night" at a local club.

Those who stuck around long enough during the most recent Oak Lawn Village Board meeting July 25, 1995 (all six of you, not counting Village staff, members of the press etc.) were entrusted with the following revelations and bits of wisdom, under the official auspices of "new business:"

Trustee Mike Walsh was worried that local shopkeepers were not adhering to the laws and ordinanees involving business signs and banners throughout the Village. The trustee/attorney suggested it would be a good idea to "educate" those responsible for issuing "tickets" (i.e. fines) to the desperadoes found to be in (God forbid!) non compliance.

Perhaps I'm mistaken, but isn't there a formal committee whose "official" responsibility is to promote new businesses while at the same time attempting to retain and keep existing businesses?

Perhaps we can schedule a special court session for Sign Law Violators after the disposition of all of the shoplifters whose exploits perennially grace the local "Police Blotters. Using the same logic, maybe we should regulate the inflatable gorillas and sundry creatures that grace our friendly neighborhood auto dealerships (size, color, cubic cc's of air etc.) I'm quite sure our crack legal team could come up with something characteristically prosaic. Every little fine would help.

Trustee Robt. Streit spent his entire allocated time (and then some!) bellyaching about the efficacy of Commonwealth Edison and the sporadic power outages experienced during the recent heat wave.

Complaining about the "non-professional response" of the utility, Mr. Streit suggested designating a Village representative to "monitor" future power outages and coordinate information dissemination to the effected parties.

Clearly, the recent weather extremes were an aberration. Absent an occasional "Act of God," chances are that if you have paid your bill, power will emanate like magic from your electrical outlets. Backup power is certainly a possibility, but who will ultimately bear the additional cost?

Existing emergency dispatchers could adequately handle information requests from the public; on duty police or fire personnel could meet with Edison staff, barring any rash of shoplifting or theft of lawn ornaments.

Trustee Ron Stancik inquired about bicycle paths and tree branches obstructing traffic signs. The latter dilemma sounds like it could have been handled by a simple phone call to the appropriate Village department. Mr. Stancik also commented on what he felt were "builder's banners" that appeared to be in violation of Village code. Ho Hum. Maybe I should have snuck out with the Police, Fire and Municipal employees after the awards ceremony was completed. I didn't see too many stick around to find out how their Village works.

Trustee Marjorie Joy requested a review of the Neighborhood Watch program.

Trustee Cy Holesha requested a schedule for sidewalk completion and recommended a Village-sponsored Radon awareness program.

Trustee Wm. Keane, in a rather cryptic manner, commented that laws and ordinances were designed to protect citizens and an occasional review was necessary as times change. He suggested investigating areas where relief is most frequently sought (i.e. restaurants, parking etc.)

Since no fewer than ten variances of existing Village codes or laws were considered and/or changed during this one meeting and such numbers often exceed this amount based on past practice, Mr. Keane may be on to something.

There has been significant activity of late regarding multi-family building zoning, as well as numerous requests for non commercial garage, parking and property line/setback ordinance/code relief.

Some builders received their requested variations; others were not so lucky. Some Trustees took a firm position on a proposal and mysteriously changed their views the following meeting. Based on what appears to be an excessive number of requests for changes and variances on existing laws, only two answers seem to explain the phenomena:

Many of the laws in question are unduly restrictive, outdated or superfluous, necessitating constant and repeated revision , or

Those fortunate enough to have the appropriate political connections with the omnipotent Village Board fare quite well, thank you.

To the six regulars who faithfully follow the workings of this elected government body, the answer is rather obvious.

To the rest of the community that merely stands by and passively endures this folly, the explanation is irrelevant.

You are simply getting what you deserve.

Three police officers received promotions at the July 25th board meeting: Sergeant John Lalla was promoted to Police Lieutenant and Officers Randy Meyers and James Cotter were promoted to Sergeant.

Joseph Halper, James Hynes, Michael Keane, Christopher McGinnis, Anthony Padula and John Travnik were sworn in as Firefighters.

According to Trustee Michael Walsh, the Village Board voted to "Grant a variation for a building that doesn't need a variation...." Acting upon an application by Attorney Gerhardt Gliege representing a Mr. Duffy, the board issued yet another multi-family housing-related variance due to a rash of lawsuits against the petitioner that were ultimately (and secretly) settled out of court. Trustee Streit attempted to elicit the details from Attorney Gliege under the pretext of potential Village involvement in future actions, but the latter was tight-lipped and no details were made available.

Trustee Michael Walsh recommended to waive the bidding requirements and award a demolition contract for 5132-34 W. 95th St to Environmental Cleansing Co.

A similar bid waiver was voted on for a two hundred thousand dollar Fire Truck.

The Matanky Agreement was formally terminated with a unanimous 6-0 vote, bringing the cost of the ill-fated Brandt Project to over two hundred thousand dollars of taxpayer money lost forever.

An ordinance calling for a public hearing to consider designation of a redevelopment project area and redevelopment plan (sound familiar?) for the Village of Oak Lawn was passed 5-1, with Robt. Streit dissenting.

A recommendation to award a contract for telephone wiring for the Public safety building was awarded to Ameritech by a 5-1 vote, with Robt. Streit dissenting.

The semi-monthly financial disbursements were approved by a 5-1 vote, with Robt. Streit dissenting.

Little Company Physician receives recognition

Dr. Ralph Spaeth, a Beverly resident who has been a member of Little Company's Department of Pediatrics for more than 59 years, recently received a special resolution from the City of Chicago upon the occasion of his ninetieth birthday. Although he has been retired from active practice for several years, Dr. Spaeth retains close ties with the hospital and is a member of its Honorary Medical Staff.

Initiated by 19th Ward Alderman Ginger Rugai, the resolution recognizes Dr. Spaeth for his many contributions to the medical profession. Specifically, the resolution highlights his work in establishing the Childrens Clinic, sponsored by the Chicago Medical Society, which ensued care of metropolitan Chicago's foster children; his organization of blood banks at Little Company and Cook Country hospitals, the latter which eventually became the nucleus of the Cook County Blood Bank, the first in the United States; the establishment of the Poison Control Center at Little Company, now recognized as one of the best in Illinois; and Dr. Spaeth's extensive work in achieving a cure tetanus, especially his publication of "A Clinical Study of Tetanus," for which he received a Nobel Prize nomination.

The resolution concludes by stating "we, the Mayor and members of the Chicago City Council... do hereby pay tribute to Dr. Ralph Spaeth for his tremendous contibutions to the children of Chicago and his ability throughout his long life to enrich the lives of all Chicagoans..."

HI TECH

Rick Techman, Garfield Ridge, Clearing correspondent

From more than 950 traffic deaths related to alcohol last year, Illinois is winning the war against DUI according to Secretary of state Geofge Ryan.

"We'd see even sharper declines in our death rates," Ryan said, "if we could pass a law lowering the illegal limit for DUI from .10 to .08. That's been the impact of .08 in each of the 11 states with this law," he added.Ryan also said, "Impaired driving is 100 percent preventable, and if we don't prevent it, all of us pay the price when a drunk hits the road. With tough anti-drunk driving laws and public education efforts, we're making a difference."

He concluded, "But we can do more, and I hope these statistics only strengthen our resolve as a state to keep the heat on people who think they have a license to kill."

Ryan's leadership role in fighting drunk driving locally and statewide led to being named the winner of the "Government Leader Against Drunk Driving" award by the Illinois chapter of Mothers Against Drunk Driving July 8.

Aside from motorists and boaters, drivers of snowmobiles this winter will face tough new drunk driving penalties that were signed into law by Governor Jim Edgar last month. The law takes effect January 1 1996.

Bret Manning, Illinois Natural Resources Department Director, said, "We believe this new law, which follows testing and intoxication standards enforced for motorists and boaters, will help reduce the number of snowmobile deaths and injuries occuring in Illinois each winter,"

More than 43,500 motorist DUI arrests were reported to the Secretary of State's office in 1994. Drunk drivers continue to pose a severe traffic safety threat although their numbers are down six percent since 1993.

Especially since Ryan's "Use it and lose it" law took effect January 1, more than 1,400 drivers under age 21 have driving priviledges for being caught after consuming alcohol..

Meanwhile eighth district neighborgood relations Sargeant Wagner of the Chicago Police Department said their policy has been to strictly enforce all of the traffic laws on Archer Avenue from Harlem to Cicero for the past ten years.

He added, "There's not speeding like there used to be and there is not loitering like there used to be. That's still strictly enforced."

In business related to driving privileges, Governor Edgar also signed a new law that will allow the state to yank the driver's licenses of child support deadbeats.

"This legislation," Governor Edgar said, "gives us an extremely effective weapon in our fight to ensure that parents live up to their obligations to their chidren.

"There are still families being forced into our welfare system by parents who refuse to accept their resposibility," Edgar added. He also said, "Thishits those parents where it hurts-the loss of driving priviledges."

Since Edgar became governor, the state has collected more than $900 million in overdue child support and the amount collected annually has increased by more than 50 percent.

Under the new law, which takes effect January 1, 1996, parents who are more than 90 days delinquent in paying court-ordered support will face suspension of their driving priviledges.

Local entrepreneur Armondt Schmidt, a Clearing Civic League member, awarded club president Richard Zilka a $277.50 check, last month which he received from the Chicago city treasurer's office.

The check was a bounty for an old tire cleanup and recycling program civic league members recently participated in.

Schmidt said in aprogram authorized by Mayor Richard Daley for not-for-profit organizations, members of the Clearing Civic League hauled 555 tires from alleys, parks and railroad tracks in Clearing to a city recycling yard.

"We got rid," Schmidt said, "of somewhere around 125 truck tires. The rest were car tires."

He added, "The best of it is we are cleaning up the neighborhood. Secondarily," he concluded, "it is a nice fundraiser for a not-for-profit organization."

Schmidt said the large payload of tires, for .50 cents to a city disposal yard, was made possible by a donated truck and tractor from a local business that allowed all of the tires to be delivered in one day.

Career truck driver Dave Pavic, a civic league trustee, volunteered to drive the truck through the pickup points to the disposal yard,

Garfield-Ridge Civic League activities will resume Friday, September 8 at 5 :30 p.m. at Sportman's Park with the club's annual Night-at-the-races. Tickets are $15.00 each and are available by calling me at (312)585-9094 and placing your order.

Plans are the dreams of the reasonable.

FOOD FOR 'SECONDS'

Cookbook is an introduction to school called hope

Tikvah Institute for Childhood Learning Disabilities is a 22 year-old small, private, non-sectarian, inter-racial, and VERY NOT-FOR-PROFIT school devoted solely to teaching learning disabled children from 5 to 21 years to "learn how to learn". As soon as they are ready, we return them to a regular classroom in a school of their parent's choice.

Learning Disabilities are malfunctions in the brain's processing of information. The part of the brain that interprets the information sent to it is not working adequately, much as in an older person who has suffered a stroke. The causes of this dysfunction in children are not completely understood.

Children with learning disabilities are not mentally retarded. They have average, and often superior, intellegence. Even a child with a very high IQ can be blocked from achieving his or her full learning potential by this type of disability.

Neither are these children emotionally disturbed. However, their frequent failures often cause them to lose confidence and self-esteem. As a result of continual frustration with learning, they may acquire what is called an "emotional overlay". They may either "act out" or withdraw from others.

Although their perceptual handicaps are often invisible to others, children and their parents are painfully aware of them. These children seem to do everything "wrong". This becomes even more of a nightmare when they compare themselves with other children.

TIKVAH Institute is located at 1255 North Sandberg Terrace, Chicago, Illinois.

"Apple Crisp with Orange Juice" - Barbara Bush

4 cups sliced pared tart apples
1/4 cup orange juice
1 cup sugar
3/4 cup flour, sifted
1/2 tsp. ground cinnamon
1/4 tsp. ground nutmeg
Dash of salt
1/3 cup butter

Mound apples in buttered pie plate and pour orange juice over them. In separate bowl, combine sugar, flour, spices and salt; cut in butter until mixture is crumbly. Sprinkle over apples.

Bake at 375 degrees for 45 minutes or until apples are tender and topping is crisp. Serve warm with cream.

"Sweet Potato Pie" - Ahkieya's Mom

3 large sweet potatoes
1 stick butter, melted
1 1/2 c. sugar
1 1/2 tsp. vanilla

2 tsp. cinnamon
1 tsp. ground nutmeg
favorite pie crust, partially baked

Preheat oven to about 450 degrees. Cook sweet potatoes in boiling water until tender, about 40 minutes. Peel and mash, combine remaining ingredients with mashed potatoes. Spoon mixture into pie shell. Bake at 450 degrees for 10 - 12 minutes, reduce heat to 325 degrees. Bake 35 - 40 minutes, or until knife inserted in middle comes out clean.

"Mexican Mound" - A great Bush favorite!

Easy to make - loved by all who love Mexican food. Ingredients easy to keep in the house. Children or guests can all help with chopping or grating. It's fun!

A - Package of corn chips
B - 2 lbs. ground meat
C - Taco Seasoning Mix
D - 1 cup grated yellow cheese
E - 1or 2 small chopped onions (not minced)
F - 10 chopped ripe black olives
G - 1 chopped tomato
H - 1 cup sour cream
I - Lettuce (a cup shredded)
J - 1 medium can of frozen avocado dip

Follow instructions on Taco Seasoning Mix for browning meat. I serve this meal in my kitchen - a big pot of meat simmering on the stove, a wooden salad bowl of corn chips, and seven bowls (D through J) of the remaining ingredients around the table. Start with a mound of corn chips, a spoon of piping hot meat, cheese, etc.

"Fried Green Tomatoes" - Kenya's Gram

4 green tomatoes, sliced thick
salt and pepper to taste
flour for dredging
1/4 c. vegetable oil or lard

Season tomatoes with salt and pepper. Dredge in flour. Heat oil in heavy skillet. Add tomato slices in one layer, (may need to fry in several batches). Cook until golden brown, about 2-3 minutes per side. Serves 4.

Historic and Culinary Lore from the Prairie State

by Agnes M. Feeney and John L. Leckel

"French Cherry Pie"
Yield: 1 9-inch pie

3 1/2 cups pitted sour cherries
1/4 tsp red food coloring
1/4 tsp almond extract
1/4 cup flour
3 Tbls. cornstarch
1 1/4 cups sugar
1/4 tsp. salt
2 9-inch unbaked pie crusts
1 Tbl. milk

Preheat oven to 400 degrees. Place cherries in bowl. Add food coloring and extract. Sift together dry ingredients; add to cherries and mix thoroughly. Turn into pie pan lined with crust. Cover with perforated top crust; crimp edges. Brush top crust with milk. Bake 45 minutes. Cool on wire rack.

"Peach-Coconut Pie"
Yield: 1 9-inch pie

1 envelope unflavored gelatin
1/4 cup cold water
2 eggs, separated
3/4 cup sugar
1/4 tsp. salt
2/3 cup heavy cream
2 cups minced fresh peaches
1/2 cup coconut
1 Tbl. lemon juice
1 9-inch baked pie shell

1 cup heavy cream
2 tsp. sugar
1/2 tsp. vanilla extract
1/2 cup coconut

Soften gelatin in water. Mix together egg yolks, 1/4 cup sugar, salt, and cream. Cook, stirring constantly, until mixture coats spoon. Stir in softened gelatin. Chill until thick. Fold in peaches, coconut, and lemon juice. Beat egg whites until stiff. Fold into gelatin mixture. Pour into pie shell. Chill until firm. To serve, whip cream stiff with 2 teaspoons sugar and vanilla. Spread on pie. Top with coconut.

"Chocolate Tortoni"
Yield: 6 servings

1 tsp. cornstarch
2 Tbls. sugar
Pinch salt
1/2 cup heavy cream
1 egg yolk, slightly beaten
1/2 1-oz. square unsweetened chocolate, melted
1/2 tsp. vanilla extract
2 tsp. rum

10 candied cherries, divided
5 macaroons, crushed
1/2 cup heavy cream, whipped
1 egg white, stiffly beaten

Sift together cornstarch, sugar, and salt. Stir in cream. Cook 8 minutes. Add some hot mixture to slightly beaten egg yolk; mix well. Stir into remaining hot mixture. Cook 2 minutes. Add chocolate, vanilla, and rum. Beat and cool. Finely chop 4 cherries. Stir cherries and macaroons into chocolate mixture. Fold in whipped cream and stiffly beaten egg white. Pour into 6 crinkled paper cups. Top with remaining cherries. Freeze.

"Apricot Pecan Dessert"
Yield: 10 servings

1/2 cup (1 stick) butter
1 cup confectioners' sugar
2 eggs, beaten
1 1/2 lbs. vanilla wafers, crushed
2 12-oz. cans apricots, drained
2 cups heavy cream
1 cup chopped pecans

Melt butter; stir in sugar and eggs. Cook until thickened, about 4 minutes. Reserving 1/2 cup crumbs, spread wafer crumbs in a 13x9 inch pan. Pour cooked mixture over crumbs in pan; arrange apricots, flat side down, on cooked mixture. Whip cream; fold in pecans. Spread on apricots; top with reserved crumbs. Chill.

Historical Lore

The Home Insurance Building represented the work of engineer William LeBaron Jenny. Jenny had solved the problem of constructing taller buildings by using cast iron beams to support the weight of more and more floors, opening the period of the Chicago School of Architecture in the late nineteenth century.

Glen Ellyn was first called Prospect Park. Although one of Glen Ellyn's interesting historic features is the remnants of Stacy's Tavern from stagecoarch times, perhaps its most unique claim to historic fame was the discovery of the well-preserved bones of masterdon in the 1960's.

LaGrange was linked to Chicago by Burlington Railroad in 1862 although it was not chartered as a village until ten years later. The Annual Pet Parade here draws many spectators from the whole Megalopolitan area.

MUSIC CRITIQUE

White Zombie Astro-Creep 2000: Songs of Love, Destruction and Other Synthetic Delusions of the Electric Head (Geffen)

by Kevin Bastian

Geez, long enough title? It took me longer to read it than it did to realize this album is dreadful. White Zombie first earned respect with great singles like "Thunder Kiss '65" and "Black Sunshine" from their first release, but not one song on "Astro-Creep" comes within an eternity of those thwo, much less the entire first album. Rob Zombie's slurring, chanting vocals have become even more hoarse and come off sounding like a real zombie at times ("Blood, Milk and Sky," "Grease Paint and Monkey Brains"). "Astro-Creep" ventures through industrial (KMFDM) and staggers into heavy metal (Pantera) but never succeeds in either kingdom, while sound clips from horror movies depicting women in bondage or being terrorized add nothing to the gloomy mystique of the band's image. Instead, it makes them look like perverts who revel in S&M and cheap, black and white monster movies. White Zombie's guitar work can be brilliant, though. On songs such as "Super-Charger Heaven," "More Human Than Human" and "El Phantasmo and the Chicken-Run Blast-O-Rama," pulsing riffs and chords are aplenty. But like Hole, great guitars don't necessarily bring about great vocals. Repetitive rhythms and beats along with Zombie's so-called singing makes this album a no-no for potential buyers.

Pavement Wowee Zowee (Matador)

by Kevin Bastian

"Come on in," Stephen Malkmus taunts on "Grave Architecture," inviting listeners into the moody piece. Known as the epitome of "slacker rock," Pavement have survived quite well in the indie-rock world. "Slanted and Enchanted" was a godsend to underground fans while "Crooked Rain, Crooked Rain" put them on the map with the help of the MTV hit, "Cut Your Hair." Now comes "Wowee Zowee," an 18-song collection of all that you'd expect from Pavement - crankin' guitar riffs mixed with country tinges, psychedelica and Stephen Malkmus' distinct vocals that so many young vocalists are trying to emulate. Experimentation is the key to Pavement's sound. Like the legendary Beatles, they're willing to throw anything into the mix to see if it works. "We Dance" delicately opens "Wowee," followed by the radio friendly "Rattled By The Rush." The remainder of the album is a mixture of tunes that sound like several different bands. "Serpentine Pad" is a chant-a-long punk thrasher the Sex Pistols would enjoy, the album's best song, "Flux=Rad," sounds like an attempt to cover Nirvana and "Western Homes" uses the same voice mix as Led Zeppelin's "No Quarter." There are those few songs that you wouldn't mind erasing from the disc if you could, but "Wowee Zowee"'s multitude of musical flavors makes for a winner. With Pavement, either you dig them or you don't. If not, you've wasted your time reading this review. If yes, enjoy the latest offering, slackers.

Boom Hank Nuisance (Pravda Records)

by Kevin Bastian

If, during their tour together last summer, the Gin Blossoms, Cracker and the Spin Doctors recorded an album together, it would have sounded just like "Nuisance," the debut from Chicago's Boom Hank. Though the rhythm guitars are a tad more scratchy, the lead guitar's opo hooks lend a bubble-gum taste to the band's sound. The radio friendly songs that could share a seat with the Blossoms' "Hey Jealousy" include the opener and best song, "Do You Feel Strange?," "Carry Me" and "Suffering Plan." Vocals are spoken, at times, and sung at others, which shows the band's confidence in their music. A major detraction from Boom Hank's pretty boy image, though, is their occasional use of obsenities. The uncanny ability to pull out a full-on jam is illustrated on "Gilly," a brief, racing song that leaves you out of breath. Crafty bass lines carry both "Downpour" and "This They'll Never Miss" and go to show Boom Hank's overall musicianship. Other notables include the Mathhew Sweet-ish "Work My Jack" and "Come In," a quirkish tune that tells of childhood memories to an elementary beat. "Nuisance" shows that Boom Hank is one of the premiere Chicago bands and are worthy of attention. Recorded by Chicago musical guru, Brad Wood, the album deserves a listen. Catch Boom Hank at Oak Lawn's Family Days.

Harlem Corners brings theater back to village

by Kevin Bastian

Are you tired of paying seven or more dollars per person to see a movie? Are you tired of waiting a half an hour for popcorn and missing most of the movie? Are you tired of putting up with sticky floors that force you to use sharp objects to free your shoes from it?

Well, the folks at Harlem Corners Theatres, 7340 W. 87th St. in Bridgeview, are going out of their way to make sure you don't run into any of these problems and your movie-watching experience is a positive one.

Over the past few months, Harlem Corners has been changing its face in an attempt to make their theatres the choice of the locals.

Here is a brief rundown of the theater's features:

• A Book Saver which includes 10 tickets for the price of $13.50 saves you money and time waiting in line.

• Headphones are available for the hearing impaired or if you don't want to be interrupted.

• Handicapped seating areas are situated throughout the theaters

• Dolby Surround Sound makes you feel like your in the middle of the action

Julie Andrews takes the plunge toward Broadway

By Anita Anderson

It would have to be a scary proposition to contemplate returning to the Broadway stage when you are nearing the age where you can sit back and rest on you laurels or just let it "all hang out."

Not Julie Andrews. It really took courage and strength for her to star in "Victor Victoria" which was written and directed by her husband, 73 year-old Blake Edwards.

The entire musical spells MONEY. Of course, Julie Andrews is banking on her impeccable credentials to bolster those so important in-advance ticket sales.

She is still good and a real pro in spite of critics mentioning the fact that in spots her voice falters. Good grief if you were starring in a $8.5 millon dollar show anyone would get a bit queasy.

It's a great show that appeals to lovers of big, flashy musicals with fantastic performances by the likes of Rachel York, the floozy, Michael Nouri who plays a handsome Chicago club owner, and Tony Roberts, suave as Andrew's sidekick, Toddy.

The show will hit Broadway big and with her luck, Julie Andrews will add yet a few more reviews to her ageless photo album. The production continues through Sunday, Sept. 3 at Chicago's Shubert Theater.

Sayonara At The Fireside

By Annette Dixon

Sayonara was movie screen magic portrayed on stage by Jeff Kensmoe, Joseph Dwyre, Yoco Takagi and Sekiya Billman and Mami Saito.

The production originated at Theatre Under the Stars in Houston, Texas and brought to the Fireside in Fort Atkinson by the Klopcic Family.

Costumes executed by Broadway Costumes and were coordinated by Stacey Rae. The costumes, set design and scenery were enhanced by Jim Fultons lighting design. The costumes were so elegantly embroidered and as colorful as a tropical garden.

Major Lloyd "Ace" Gruver, Jeff Kensmoe played such an enduring role I fell madly in love with him. Need I say I wasn't the only one interested in James Micheners best seller!

Enjoy this lovely play at the Fireside in Fort Atkinson on I 94 S Hwy 26 South and enjoy an international buffet on Thursday evening. For more information call 1-800-477-9505.

Sayonara will be playing until October 15.

THE POETRY PATCH

Wash Away

by Kevin Bastian

I want a ship of fools
Cast my anchor miles from shore
Condemn them for my wrongdoings
And chastise in ways unimaginable
Each sin is hurled into the hungry sea
Sinks, and crashes at the foot of
The wood-laden underside
The last few descend slower than the rest
When they reach the pit, they don't crush
Rather, they spread evenly over the ruins
Like a disease that's stricken a nation
They stretch their now-clean arms
Toward the bright surface and the boat
Tired, I cannot escape the sight of the past
Fallen asleep, I dream of days unknown
Red robes tied with gold and wenches
Serving removes aplenty
A clean conscience always bedside
I'm awakened by a change in weathers
Vigorous waves circling my shelter
Bludgeoning my welfare and empire
The arms have broken free and
Now strain on the sides of the plank
Beckoning me to their familiar touch
Courageously, I yell out to them:
"I'm above the water, above your every
Reach. If you manage to climb aboard,
I'll walk to the shore, never turning back.
I'm above you now."

A frozen memory
Now I can't get to you

• Matinees are offered every day, all year round, starting at 12:30 or 1 p.m..

• Giveaways sponsored by M&Ms, Coca-Cola, Foot Locker and film companies are offered

• Harlem Corners sponsors the Bridgeview Christmas Party and the Bridgeview Reading Club in which a free movie is awarded after a certain number of books have been read.

• The snack bar is equipped with six registers to ensure fast and efficient service. Fat-free hot pretzels have also been added to the menu selection.

• Harlem Corners pays close attention to keeping their interior clean. They know that customers who sit in filfth usually do not return.

• Eye-catching movie promotions and cardboard stand-ups are all over the lobby, encouraging movie-goers not to miss the great selection of movies offered. Movies for kids as well as adults makes Harlem Corners the perfect idea for getting out of the heat and enjoying yourself.

Plus, the theater's prices ($1.25 before 6 p.m., $1.75 after) make Harlem Corners an even more appealing hotspot for inexpensive fun.

Tropical paradise makes everyman's dream come true

By Anita Anderson

So why should you visit St. Lucia? Because you owe it to yourself that's why. The former British colony located about two hours by air from San Juan Puerto Rico has a heavy Catholic population with a French influenced mystique.

St. Lucia is 60 per cent rain forest, 160,000 residents and is 238 miles long in a pear-shape. St. and ia boasts the biggest marina in the Southeast Caribbian and you can play nine holes of golf for $20.

We stayed at the East Winds Inn in La Brelotte Bay, Gros Islet. The six acre property owned by Guiseppi Oliveri who also lives on the premises with his wife and his two daughters who live nearby.

"We bought this property so they could come and visit us. Now they also live here so we have our turns at babysitting our grandaughter," Oliveri laughed.

Gareth Leach of Wales is the superb manager who directed the Inn's recent renovation. He and the staff of 15 oversea 36 cottages which he said were 100 percent occupied even in June and July which is off-season.

St. Lucia only has about 1,000 available hotel rooms which adds to its charms. It's not overun with all of the dredges of fast food restaurants and other reminders of the fast life in the U.S. St. Lucia could be described as "untouched".

East Winds Inn is set among mango and banana trees. Our spacious cottage was next to a mango tree and if you didn't watch out lush, sweet mangoes would fall on your head.

Prices at East Winds compare to a Sandals type of operation except at East Bay you get the tranquility and if you want it, night life, all of your meals and snacks, all drinks, live entertainment five times a week and a French chef overseeing the gourmet food that comes out of the kitchens.

One dinner for example included a fried sprat fish (a wonderful local variety) or pate or vegetable kebab. This was followed by a choice of of fresh mango soup or vegetable risotto. Entrees were duck breast with morel sauce or grilled marlin with local seasoning pepper sauce or stuffed sweet pepper. Desert was a passion fruit delight.

Prices vary. For example a superior cottage for two is $490 a day with everything included.

Prices drop by $150 a day in the sunmmer from April through December 16.

There are many things to do in St. Lucia. There is Pigeon Island National Park. A 19,000 acre rain forest with hundreds of rare birds and flowers, tiny fishing villages you can explore by a private boat which can be rented at East Winds for the entireday. Five people will pay about $50 dollars each which includes lunch and drinks. Then there is Soufriere fishing village and its sulpher springs. The Les Piton mountains which rise from the lush coast near the fishing town of Gros Islet which transforms itself every Friday night into a carnival scene locals call a "jump up."

You can also take nearby boat trips to Martinique, Barbados and Grenada.

A highlight of our four-day trip to St. Lucia was a visit to Diamond Botanical Gardens a trip we took by a private boat I mentioned earlier. The gardens boast mineral baths and a waterfall. Diamond Estate was built originally in 1784 for the troops of King Louis XVI so they could benefit from the healing waters.

If you love flowers as I do then be prepared to admire some rarely seen flowers for people in the Midwest.. Delicate blooms in full glory like the Allamanda, bright yellow, trumpet shaped blooms or the unusual Heliconia, known as wild banana. Its pointed bract holds small purple flowers that are popular with hummingbirds.

Another highlight of the day was lunch at Lader, a resort set on a hillside overlooking a green sea of rain forest and the Piton mountains. We lunched in the Dasheene restaurant. The scenery toward the sea and mountains was mezmerizing.

For travelers who like a lot of activity at their hotel complete with body and beauty treatments which are offered from an on-the-premises health spa near the main hotel then Le Sport might be your cup of tea. Its located on Cariblue Beach. Its busting and non-stop fun.

Toll free information can be had by calling 800-544-2883. For East Winds the toll free number is 1-800-223-9832.

Moraine Valley

Moraine Valley Community Community College recently installed a state-of-the-art computer lab in the college's Center for Contemporary Technology that will be used to deliver training in a number of areas.

"The main purpose of this computer lab is to provide training for our students and companies," said Richard Kukac, associate dean of Business and Industrial Technology.

The Pentium machines will be used for Mechanical Design and Drafting/ Computer Aided Design, AS/ 400 application classes, and Certified Network Engineer classes.

The college's CAD program explores the use of computer-assisted design, drafting, graphics, and animation. Using the latest computer equipment and software, students learn to create drawings ranging from simple details to three-dimensional assemblies and animation.

AS/400 application classes prepares students to assist in the implementation of integrated business minicomputer systems, including programming, running applications and evaluating.

Certified Network Engineer classes provides hands-on training in Novell network applications. Moraine Valley's classes in computer networking include Introduction to LANs Sevice and Support of LANs, Netware Installation, and Netware Management.

For more information about computer training programs offered by Moraine Valley, call the Business and Industrial Technology Institute at (708-974-5410.

Moraine Valley Community College is offering a new Associate in Applied Science degree program this fall in Human Resources Management.

This 64 credit-hour program prepares students for careers in Human Resources including benefits administration, employee recruiting, and consulting, according to Richard Hinckley, dean of Business and Industrial Technology at the college.

"Graduates from Moraine Valley's program will be well-suited for an assistant position in a human resources office," Hinckley added.

"Graduates from Moraine Valley's program will be well-suited for an assistant position in a human resources office," Hinckley added.

"Our research shows that positions in human resources are expected to be among the 50 fastest growing occupations in Illinois through the year 2000," Hinckley said.

Courses in the program include Introduction to Personnel, Principles of Management, Employee Training and Development, Consumer Behavior, and Business Ethics.

Fall semester classes begin Aug. 21. For more informationaout the new program, call Business and Industrial Technology at (708-974-5733.

Library Circulation On The Rise

Circulation of audiovisual materials at the Oak Lawn Public Library increased by 26 percent in comparing the period from January through June of 1995 with the figures of the same period in 1994. The statistics were reported to the library board of trustees at its regular meeting, July 18. Other circulations were up also, according to libary director Dr. James B. Casey. Total circulations for all areas of the library increased by 4.4 percent over the first half of 1994.

James Baker, head of the library's Technical Services department, gave his annual report to the board. His area processes all library materials before they are put out for public use. He indicated that 18,765 new items were added in 1994 which was seven percent more than in 1993.

The board approved purchase of a new high speed copier for in-house use, replacing the current machine which has reproduced more than 1.6 million copies. The board had opened bids on the equipment at its June meeting. After study by the staff, the recommendation was for the Sharp SD-2060 from American Office Equipment for $16,950 with maintenanceof $.0089per copy.

In regular business, the board approved payment of $26,508 for libarary materials; $18,001 for operating expenses; and $163,405 for personnel.

Board meetings are open to the public and are held at 7:30 p.m. on the third Tuesday of each month in the library's lower level Oak Lawn Rotary Room, 9427 Raymond Ave.

Paying The Price of Procrastination

Vince Mosquera, Financial Advisor 312-914- 0753.

Paying the Price of Procrastination

If you have put off putting your estate in order because it takes time and involves expense, ask yourself the following: Do you have have a will? If no, on your death the government will decide how to divide what you have worked so hard to accumulate. Do you really want this? What will happen to your children if you and your spouse die? Who will raise them? How will their living and education expenses be paid for? How much estate tax will you pay? Without proper planning, your heirs could see up to 55% of your hard-earned assets go to estate taxes. Do you have a retirement plan? By not using government-sanctioned tax deferrals, you could be cheating yourself out of a healthy retirement? Remember, the cost of planning now can pale beside the cost of not planning at all.

Investing in your future

Did you know that contributing to a qualified retirement plan is a prescription for your future financial health. Why? Because using this financial planning technique allows you to defer tax: Your contributions are not included in our income so they are not taxed immediately. Income in the plan is not taxed as it is earned. You pay tax only when funds are received from the plan. But knowing this is not enough. You need to choose the plan that is right for you and making that choice is not always easy or straight forward.

Sorting Out Your Options

There are essentially five types of retirement plans to which individuals may contribute, in addition to employer sponsored defined benefit and defined contribution plans. 401(K) plan can be used by employees if the employer sponsors a 401(k). Employee contributions are set at a maximum of $9,240 for 1995. The maximum combined employee and employer contribution allowed is generally the lesser of $22,500 or 15% of the employee's income. 403(B) plans are similar to 401(K) plans but are used by public-sector employees. The maximum employee contribution is $9,500. Keough or HR-10 plans are for the self-employed, including professionals. Simplified Employee Pension plans (SEPs) are also for the self-employed as well as for employees of small business. Finally, deductible contributions may be made to Individual Retirement Accounts (IRAs) by anyone who is not a member of an employer 's retirement or profit sharing plan.

Nine Awards For Brother Rice

Brother Rice High School won a school record nine Tony Lawless Awards during the 1994-95 school year. The award is given to coaches and players deemed to be the best for the year in the Chicago Catholic League in a particular sport. The voting is done by Catholic League coaches.

Mulcrone lead the Crusader water polo team to the Catholic League championship and a second straight state championship. "Moose" Mulcrone, Chris' father, guided the team to a perfect 29-0 record.

Hill, who will be playing basketball at Illinois State University next season, lead Brother Rice with 19.8 points per game and 12.1 rebounds per game. In additon to the Lawless Award, Hill was named to the All-Catholic League team for the second straight year and was voted the Crusader's MVP.

Richardson, in his sixth year as head coach, guided the Crusaders to its first outright Catholic League title in 26 years. Rice finished the year with a 29-3 overall record, 11-1 in the Catholic League South.

Murphy, in his sixth year as coach, lead the swim team to its first-ever Catholic League title and the Homewood-Flossmor Sectional championship. His team finished 15th out of 41 teams in the state championships. Brother Rice had top-12 finishers in diving, the 200 medley relay, the 200 freestyle, the 200 free relay, the 100 breaststroke amd the 400 free relay at the state meet.

Layo finished eighth in the 200 freestyle at the state meet and helped the Crusaders to eighth in the 200 free relay, 11th in the 400 free relay and 12th in the 200 medley relay. He was also a member of the state champion water polo team.

Ickes, who started the volleyball program at Brother Rice two years ago, coached the team to their best-ever record, going 8-4 in the Catholic League. Tados lead the Crusaders in kills and was named to the All-Catholic League team.

Gleeson, in his first year as Brother Rice head football coach, guided a junior-dominated team to a 10-2 regular season record. The team won the Chicago City Championship by defeating Dunbar 28-22 in the 61st Annual Prep Bowl in November at Soldier Field. Gleeson also won a Lawless Award in 1993 for coaching the Brother Rice track team to the Catholic League title.

Oak Lawn village board minutes August 22, 1995

by Frank Soczek

New Business of Village Trustees:

Trustee Cy Holesha recommended that the board investigate speeding on Ridgeland Ave, particularly from 87th St. to 95th St. He requested information on the number of accidents and fatalities that have occurred in the last three years, suggesting a uniform speed limit throughout the length of Ridgeland Ave.

Trustee Marjorie Joy commented on the upcoming Education Summit that will focus on funding problems in the school system.

Trustee Wm. Keane announced the next Business Development meeting is scheduled for September 6 and suggested a new subcommittee to address the new park. He also noted that the Chamber of Commerce may be forced to cancel the annual Christmas parade due to lack of membership support; also Mr. Keane requested police assistance for planning and protection of the latter event. He further suggested the present "experimental" Village Board meeting format be continued through the month of September.

Trustee Robt. Streit thanked the Park District for the use of a bus for his recent historic site tour of Oak Lawn. He also suggested a review of current Village ordinances concerning building density, notably the number of housing units allowed per square foot of lot space. Citing the possibility of two additional five unit apartments for the 9500 block of Minnick Ave., Streit projected approximately 20 more vehicles adding to the congestion of the street. While current code calls for two parking spaces per unit, Streit proposed one space for each bedroom, plus one additional.

Trustee Michael Walsh noted there was considerable misunderstanding concerning the Planning and Development hearings procedures, as well as appeals and variance processes. He suggested a simplified explanation via the village newsletter. He also noted the problem of absentee owners failing to maintain their properties, and causing an added burden on Village employees. He noted the lien costs for maintenance often exceed the cost of preventative care involved.

Public Participation:

Mr. Andy Skoundrianos thanked Trustees Streit and Joy for their recent Historic site tour of the Village and urged fellow residents to visit the 9500 block of Minnick Ave. and observe first hand the discordant aesthetic impact of recent multi-family construction.

Consent Agenda:

A request for a variation in driveway width at 8952 S. 55th Ct. was approved;

A request for a parking variation at 6635 W. 95th St. was approved;

A request for a variation to divide a 100 foot lot into two 50 foot lots at 9010 S. Ridgeland was approved.

Traffic Review Referrals:

A "No Right turn" sign from 4pm to7pm for Eastbound traffic at 87th Street and New England Ave.;

A "No Parking" sign 7:30am to 9:30am on School Days on the North side of 102nd St. between Pulaski and the 1st alley west and

"Yield" signs East and West bound at 88th Place and Major Ave were approved by the board.

Mayor Ernie Kolb introduces the bicycle and utility vehicle patrol

Mayor Ernie Kolb was pleased to announce recently that residents will be seeing even more of their Oak Lawn Police Department in their neighborhoods. Through a cooperative planning and funding effort by the Police Department and the Park District, Village parks, shopping centers and the golf course will now be patrolled by a bicycle and an all purpose utility vechicle. Newly appointed Police Chief Houk promises that this new program is just the beginning of a greater involvement by the Police Department in the community residents are urged to meet and greet Sergeant Jim Spallina as he patrols in the police bicycle and to take every opportunity to get to know Officers Claude Weinert and John O'Mara as they patrol in the marked utility vehicle. Pictured from left are Officer John O'Mara, Police Chief Jim Houk, Mayor Ernie Kolb, Sergents Jim Spallina and Officer Claude Weinert.

Village View Newpaper is growing

by Rick Techman

A change is coming to the Village View Newspaper! Beginning Tuesday, September 12 and continuing on the second fourth Tuesday of each month forward, there will be two Village View newspapers.

The first paper will be the original Oak Lawn edition distributed on the first and 15th of each month. On the second and fourth Tuesday of each month the Garfield Ridge, Clearing, Mount Greenwood edition , also known as the Chicago edition, will be distributed.

Fifteen dollar subscriptions will be available to homeowners and apartment dwellers who want reliable home delivery of their paper.

Since the Village View has a bulk rate post mark on every copy, the paper can be reliable delivered through the U.S. Post Office to home and apartment mailboxes assuring regular delivery.

Everyone who reads this paper is encouraged to get a subscription. Casual readers will still have the opportunity to read the Chicago paper in waiting rooms, banks, food chains, doctor offices and medical centers.

Helpful Facts About Adoption

A Difficult But Rewarding Decision

(NAPS)—When Lainie Petersen was 18 years old, she discovered she was pregnant and was unsure of what to do. Eventually, she decided to place her child for adoption with the help of The Cradle, an Evanston, Ill., agency, because she felt she was unable to parent her child and give him the life she wanted. Since then, she has gone on with her life, never forgetting her child, but content that she made the right decision.

Petersen, now 26, is currently studying to be an ordained minister.

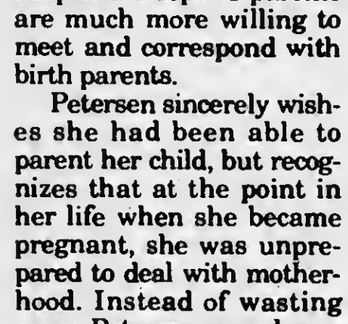
"There is a myth that the birth mother is thrust through life crying for her child," she said. "That's just not true."

"I went to college...and now I'm in graduate school. I feel that [placing my son for adoption] was the most positive choice I could make given the circumstances. Adoption is not inherently positive, but given the circumstances, it was the best choice I could make."

The days of shame for placing a child for adoption are slowly being swept away. In their place are a new candor and honesty about what is best for all involved in an unplanned pregnancy. Birth mothers and fathers are much more willing to discuss their personal situations and what led them to make a plan of adoption. Adoptive parents are much more willing to meet and correspond with birth parents.

Petersen sincerely wishes she had been able to parent her child, but recognizes that at the point in her life when she became pregnant, she was unprepared to deal with motherhood. Instead of wasting away, Petersen moved on.

While admittedly there is pain and loss after the placement of a child, many birth mothers can point to a feeling of well-being—both for themselves and their child. With the exchange of letters and photos that is common today, birth mothers like Petersen can have the piece of mind of knowing that their child is being cared for and is thriving.



In another case, Lynn was at quite a different point in her life when she became pregnant.

At the age of 34, Lynn started to make a plan to place her baby for adoption.

"The fact that I was older may have made it a little easier because I was used to making my own decisions," she said.

Lynn, now 39, thinks her life has been "very good" since the adoption. She realizes that the choice of adoption isn't always for everyone, especially younger women who are unsure of their life plans.

"I never thought in a million years that I could do that until I was faced with it," she said of placing her baby girl. "I think there are a lot of phobias."

Phobias include the many myths about adoption, such as the birth mother is cold and uncaring for even considering placing her child for adoption.

An adoption agency like The Cradle can offer counseling in a time of doubt. No matter what the birth parents' decision, agency counselors will support it. After placement, the maternity counselors can help the birth parents work through the grief and loss. In addition, support groups with other parents are offered through the agency.

Although placing her child was painful, Lynn also sees that her daughter's home is a loving, nurturing environment. It is a home that Lynn herself can be proud of.

Lynn knows there is more than one way to raise a child: "Biology has nothing to do with the ability to love a child."

The vision and the reality of Social Security

"We can never insure one hundred percent of the population against one hundred percent of the hazards and vicissitudes of life, but we have tried to frame a law which will give some measure of protection to the average citizen and to his family against the loss of job and against poverty-ridden old age..."

When President Franklin D. Roosevelt signed the Social Security Act on August 14, 1935, he stated his vision for America. On the occasion of the 60th Anniversary of the program, we have a rare opportunity to measure the vision against the reality. In doing so, I would like to first focus on the elderly as a primary target of the Social Security Act. In a later column, we'll measure the status of other groups against the Roosevelt vision.

The historian Arthur Schlessinger described the times in his book, The Age of Roosevelt. The Great Depression had a even more devastating impact on the elderly. Unemployment among older workers was estimated at 30 percent. Fewer than 18 persons out of a 100 were covered by a pension plan.

The law Roosevelt signed met the problems of old-age by a federal system of old-age benefits for retired workers who had been employed in industry and commerce. It also provided for federal grants in aid to the States to help them give financial assistance to the aged, as well as the blind and disabled.

The next major program change for the elderly came in 1965 with the passage of the Medicare program. It had become clear that for the elderly, the cost of health care was the number one enemy. It depleted income and savings and eroded whatever financial security the Social Security benefits provided. Medicare initially provided. protection for people 65 and over. It includes two parts-Part A for hospital bills and Part B for doctor bills and other bills not paid under the hospital insurance coverage.

In 1972, two changes occurred that had a major impact on the economic status of elderly Americans. First, the Social Security benefit formula was changed to provide automatic cost-of-living increases to help benefits resist inflation. The idea was to take the program out of the realm of politics by making unnecessary the periodic increases the Congress was forced to legislate and to provide greater security for beneficiaries.

A second change transferred the State adult assistance programs under the Social Security Act for the aged, blind, and disabled to the federal level, administered by the Social Security Administration. A new program was created--"Supplemental Security Income" or SSI. SSI payments were designed to provide a nationwide, uniform, floor of income protection for aged, blind and disabled persons with limited income and recources. The SSI program is financed from federal general revenue, not from Social Security payroll taxes.

Today, 95 percent of workers 65 and over are eligible for retirement benefits. Nearly 60 percent of the elderly depend on Social Security for over half of their income, and almost one-third rely on it for their sole income. Medicare has taken the burden of health care off the backs of the elderly.

When the Social Security Act was signed, 35 percent of the elderly were in poverty. Today less than 15 percent of the elderly have incomes below the poverty line, and people 65 and over with little income and resources may qualify for help from SSI.

Roosevelt's vision was the beginning of a process of that would make poverty ridden old age less of a rush for Americans. To most Americans, this vision has become a reality.

Sertoma offers latest in technology

The Sertoma Speech & Hearing Center in Palos Hills is now offering the latest in state-of-the-art hearing aid technology with two new types of hearing aids: programable hearing aids and completely-in-the-canal (CIC) hearing aids.

Programmable hearing aids can be adjusted by the user to provide auditory benefits in a number of different situations. These can include such settings as sporting events, T.V. listening, conversation, driving, and talking on the telephone. These settings are programmed once by the audiologist, to suit the wearer's personal needs and lifestyle. The settings can then be changed in seconds to meet the wearer's needs.

Also available is the new completely-in-the-canal aid. Just as it sounds, this small aid is placed completely in the ear canal, and is virtually invisible.

These hearing aid services are available by appointment only. To make an appointment, simply call the Center in Palos Hills at [708] 599-9500.

Completely-in-the-canal hearing aids are also available at the Center's Flossmoor office, at [708]957-7122.

The Center is the only nonprofit hearing and speech center serving people of all ages in the Chicago South Suburban region. Partially funded by seven area United Way organizations, local Sertoma clubs, and the Sertoma Foundation, it is able to offer free services and scaled fees to clients unable to pay full service costs.

Library circulation on the increase

Circulation at the Oak Lawn Public Library is 15,268 ahead of the first seven months of 1994, an increase of four percent. These statistics were reported by Dr. James Casey, library director, to the board of trustees at its meeting of August 10. Casey noted that the biggest jump occurred in circulation of audiovisual materials which showed an increase of 25 percent over January-July, 1994. Adult books increased by more than two percent. The only decrease was in children's books which fell by slightly more than two percent.

William Goodfellow, department head of reference services, presented his annual report to the board. He stated that the department had participated in the writing of a proposal which resulted in a grant of $4,905, the largest ever received by the library, to further develop the automobile repair manual collection. According to Goodfellow, Oak Lawn Public Library has the finest automolbile repair manual collection in the state. He reported that the reference department has purchased several CD-ROM products including Poem Finder, Social Security Death Benefits Index, PhoneDisc, Biographical and Genealogical Master Index, County and City Plus, Patient Drug Information and U.S. Code.

In regular business, the board approved payment of $61,811 for library materials; $29,416 for operating expenses; and $155,343 for personnel.

Board meetings, are open to the public, are held at 7:30 p.m. third Tuesday of each month in the lower level

Oak Lawn Rotary Room. Board members are Joann Buschbach, president; Shirley Barrett, vice president; Robert Honkisz, secretary; Marian Sullivan, treasurer; Lois Gasteyer, Patricia Roberts and Lee Stein, trustees.

Senior health care seminar

Senior Long Term Health Care: Successful Asset Preservation is the first fall adult program offering at the Oak lawn Public Library. Presenter Marleen Stewart has nursing background. She has owned Medical Claim Services, Inc. for 12 years. The company evolved from requests from elderly patients who were having difficulty filing claims. Many were concerned about conserving their assets as they were seeing family spend all of their life savings on nursing care costs. Stewart says that most people do not understand how fast depletion of their estate can happen.

The program is open to the public relations and development officer, (708)422-4990.

Israeli prime minister convenes

Jerusalem, Isreal-Leaders of tourism enterprises worldwide will meet in Isreal next month with Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin and other dignitaries, to discuss how best to manage and accomodate the burgeoning movement of tourists to Isreal and its neighbors as a result of the ongoing Mideast peace process. In the first five months of 1995 tourism to Isreal has increased by a huge 18% and, according to a survey recently published in TIME magazine, tourism to Isreal and its neighbors will likely increase by more than 200% by the first years of the 21st century.

Some 300 tourism experts, executives, entrepreneurs and investors from 30 countries will attend the Prime Ministe's CONFERENCE ON PEACE TOURISM September 5-7 in Tel-Aviv, which comes as the climax of Isreal's 1994-95" Peace Tourism Year." Delegates will analyze current trends, such as the development of regional tourism, the opening of new border crossings and air routes, joint tourist attractions and marketing campaigns-as will as explore the array of investment opportunities made possible by the peace process.

The urgency of the conference derives not only from the wave of travelers' interest in the region resulting from the strengthening ties between Isreal and its neighbors, but also from three major anniversaries likely to bring literally hundreds of thousands of additional tourists to the region in the next five years

Isreal's Minister of Tourism, Uzi Baram, Isreal and its neighbors must be prepared for an unprecented invasion of travelers as a result of JERUSALEM 300 (the 1996 commemoration of 3,000 years of the founding of King David's City), the 50th anniversary of the anniversary of the founding of the State of Isreal in 1998, and two years later, NAZARETH 2000, the international celebration of two thousand years of Christianity.

In addition to the Prime Minister and Minister of Tourism, conference delegates will be addressed by Minister of Foreign Affairs, Shimon Peres, Minister of Finance Avraham Shohat and the mayors of both Jerusalem and Tel Aviv. Large numbers of key delegates are expected from Europe, North America and Asia-including the chief executives of conglomerates such as Hilton International, Howard Johnson, McDonald's and Club Mediterranée and there will also be a major representation of tourism figures from Arab countries including Egypt, Jordan and Morocco.

For further information on the Prime Minister's Conference on Peace Tourism, contact the Isreal Ministry of Tourism, North America, at 212-499-5640.

FOOD FOR 'SECONDS'

School day Suppers

Your whole family will be buzzing with excitement when you whip up Honey Teriyaki Mini-Meat Loaves in no time.

Your kids are sure to like their own personal meat loaves made with lean ground beef and honey teriyaki barbecue sauce. Add a noodle toss, complete with Oriental vegetables and instant ramen noodles, to create a "honey" of a meal.

HONEY TERIYAKI MINI-MEAT LOAVES AND NOODLE TOSS

Meat Loaves:
1-1/2 pounds lean ground beef
1/2 cup dry plain bread crumbs
1/2 cup honey teriyaki barbacue sauce
1 egg
1/4 teaspoon pepper
Topping:
1/4 cup honey teriyaki barbecue sauce
Noodle Toss:
1 package (16 oz.) frozen Oriental vegetable mixture
2 cups water
2 pkg. (3 oz.each)Oriental-flavored istant ramen noodles
1/4 cup thinly sliced green onions
3 tablespoons honey teriyaki barbecue sauce

Heat oven to 400 degrees. In a large bowl, combine ingredients for meat loaves, mixing lightly but thoroughly.Place approx. 1/4 cup beef mixture into each of 12 medium (2-1/2 inch diameter) muffin cups, pressing lightly; spread remaining 1/4 cup teriyaki sauce over tops.Bake in 400 degree oven 20 minutes or until centers are no longer pink.

Meanwhile in 10 inch skillet, conbine vegetables, water, noodles (broken into several pieces) and seasoning packet from one package noodles (reserve remaining seasoning packet for another use); bring to a boil. Reduce heat to low;simmer 3 to 3-1/2 minutes or until noodles are tender, stirring occasionally.Stir in green onions and barbecue sauce. Remove meat loaves from pan; serve with noodles. Makes 6 servings.

'Political-holic' describes former Prez press secretary

by Anita Anderson

De De Myers, Former Press Secretary to President Clinton

Don't confuse De De Myers, former press secretary to President Clinton for two recent years as a political "yes" persomna. She's an expert at fielding questions as indicate at her past appearances before the White House Press Corps.

Meyers spoke to a full house of women who attended the recent Evening For Women at Navy Pier, sponsored by Marshall Fields who also presented a super runway of wearable fall fashions by Mariana Kero, director of Trend Merchandising for the store.

Myers was a tad disappointing. Outside of her youthful exuberance, (she's in her early 30's and wore a slick fall-look black pantsuit,) she said alot about things most of us know. She's a "talk expert," having worked for Michael Dukakis, Walter Mondale and Diane Feinstein.

A few gleans of light came through, however. Like the story of how former first lady, Nancy Regan had banned all pant suits worn by women from formal White House social events.

Meyers wore a pant suit to Clinton's inauguration and was chastised. Another low point was the flack over the President's choice to have a hair cut from a pricey Beverly Hills hair cutter aboard Air Force One. Meyers said the press claimed the cut caused several delays for travelers.

"Not true," Myers said, "Only one plane was delayed for ten minutes but the press never printed the real truth about the controversial topics that made headlines. "I suppose the whole haircut aboard the plane wasn't a good idea," she said.

Speaking of headlines, Myers said there were recent headlines she personally would rather forget. No doubt she was referring to her recent traffic stop.

"If you want to look in anyone's closet, you'll come up with a skeleton," Myers said. "Even Thomas Jefferson had a few. There's a vindictiveness to politics today, and we are preoccupied with imperfection," she continued.

And just how did she break into big time politics and what past experience helped her?

Myers said her time spent as a camp counselor showed her that she was a "group personality" and could direct people. Stemming from her past political work with the afore mentioned politics Meyers was in the right place at the right time and caught the eye of the White House political entreprenuer, Mickey Kantor, a close friend of the Clinton's.

From what small details Myers divulged it was apparent that Kantor was a big help in introducing her to Bill Clinton who by the way, has appointed Myers sister, Betsy, to an important post on a Women's rights panel.

Back to fashion, the dress code in the work place has changed. You'll see lots of "techno" bright colors like peony, geranium, marigold, grape, scarlet and hot pink. Double-breasted neon colored blazers were worn over long black straight skirts or black wool crepe trousers. Accessories included formed black patent leather purses and shoes.

Short skirts are still on the scene and were worn with red and black plaid blazers, some with faux fur collars. Other big colors for fall were tobacco wool sweater and blazers with plenty of eye catching faux gold chains.

Shine is big for fall. Pant suits worn with rose or olive satin blouses, wine/black iridesent blazers and black lycra turtlenecks. One model strutted the runway in a charcoal/silver iridescent trench coat with pinstripe blazer, matching pinstripe shirt and trouser.

One model wore a black velvet peacoat with a seafoam green turtleneck and velvet slim pants.

And for evening? Black, black and more black with pearl and silver trim, beads and rhinestones detailing and lots of satin accents.

Sports awards presented at the annual Sports Award Dinner

At a recent dinner, hosted by the Ed Kelly Sports Committee, with over 800 people in attendence, several awards were presented to those who have distinguished themselves within the Chicago area. Among those receiving the awards were Lou Tepper, coach of the University of Illinois football team; Jerry Szukala, former professional basketball player; Joe Perillo, Chicago auto dealer; John Phelan, Chicago labor leader; Jeremy Roenick, of the Chicago Blackhawks; and Ray Coffey, featured columnist for the Chicago Sun-Times newspaper.

Ed McElroy, of Chicago radio and television for many years, had the honor of presenting the award on behalf of the Ed Kelly Sports Committee, to Ray Coffey for his contribution of his God, country, home and the field of journalism. On hand for this auspicious occasion were four generations of the Coffey family.

What is Labor Day?

by Rick Techman

The New Standard Encyclopedia describes LABOR as, "physical or mental exertion used in the production of goods and services. "It also adds, "Wage earners who are organized are also referred to as labor. Their organizations, known as labor unions or trade unions, make up the labor movement.

The new Standard Encyclopedia also brings up an interesting quote from 19th century economist William Stanley Jevons, where he defined labor as, "any painful exertion of mind or body undergone partly or wholly with a view for future good."

These definitions are important in lieu of Labor Day, Monday September 5, 1995 and all of the physical and mental exertion that has gone into making the southwest side a strong and viable community.

The 23rd Ward remains a strong industrial and transportation giant with Midway Airport, the Orange Line, railroads and numerous factories and small businesses that have existed at least since 1945.

The southwest suburbans, also since WWII, have had the capacity, according to one local mayor, to politically align as one government and become one of the largest and strongest cities in the nation.

All of this makes Labor Day, 1995 especially important to the voter and taxpayers of the southwest side, primarily middle class workers who have made their individual communities what they are today.

The responsibility of being taxpayers of the southwest communities is best explained in the Gospel of Matthew 22:18-21. When ancient community leaders attempted to discredit Jesus by bringing him a Roman coin, he said, "Show me the coin for paying the tax." They brought him a denarius and he asked them, "Whose portrait is this? And whose inscription?" "Ceasars," they replied. Then Jesus said to them, "Give to Ceasar what is ceasar's and give to God what is God's."

The generosity of the south west side, which is important to the integrity of any strong community, is best explained in Matthew 5:42 where Jesus said, "Give to the one who asks you, and do not turn away from the one who wants to borrow from you."

The citizens of the southwest side communities from Midway Airport to Oak Lawn have worked hard for what they have earned and everyone should remember to fly their American flags proudly all weekend in honor of Labor Day.

Brother Rice basketball camp helps kids learn fundamentals

Brother Rice High School head coach Pat Richardson speaks to a group of boys about the fundamentals of basketball at the school's recent basketball camp. Held in two week-long sessions, the camp was for boys in grades 5-9. In addition to Richardson, former Rice players and college players were instructors at the camp. The purpose of the camp is to stress the fundamentals of the game, sportsmanship and team play in a wholesome atmosphere. Individual instruction is stressed at the camp which features such events as a free throw contest and a 3-point shooting contest. Awards were given to individual winners in each age group for best ball handler, free throw champion, hot shot competition and 3 on 3 competition.

Clorox spendes sports day with children of St. Xavier University's Chicago---The Clorox Foundation has recently donated $5,000 to the Saint Xavier University Reading and Learning Disabilities Clinic during the children's Sports Day celebration held this summer. The donation,presented by employees of the Clorox Company's plant in Chicago (Garfield Ridge), will be used to help support clinical programs which provide diagnostic and remedial assistance to over 300 children and young adults each year.

"The Saint Xavier Reading and Learning Disabilities Clinic is a very valuable community service program that responds to the special human service needs of young people on Chicago's south side," said Dave Santiago, Site Manager for the Clorox Company located in Chicago. "This strong commitment of the University is truly reflective of the Clorox Foundation's mission of helping improve the quality of life in communities where Clorox employees live and work."

The Clinic, located on the University's Chicago campus, is one of the few affordable private programs providing clinical assistance to children and young adults with reading and learning disabilities in southwest Cook County. Annually, approximately 160 children, aged 6 to 16, receive support in reading, language, writing, spatial judgment, math, social judgment skills, problem solving, idea comprehension, and self-esteem enhancement. In addition, nearly 170 children from Chicago and suburban public and private schools receive remediation and enrichment services annually from Saint Xavier students doing clinicals in graduate education courses during the academic year.

"Some of our clients, however, are economically disadvantaged and are unable to afford the modest clinic fee," said Joan Kardatzke, Saint Xavier Clinic Director. "Financial support from organizations such as The Clorox Foundation enables us to insure that no one is refused service, regardless of their ability to pay."

The Clorox Company is a publicly traded multinational company whose pricipal business is developing, manufacturing and marketing premium quality consumer products sold in grocery stores and other retail outlets. In an effort to fulfill Clorox's commitment to responsible corporate citizenship, the Clorox Company Foundation distributed over 1,000 grants last year, totaling $2,467,717 to various nonprofit organiztions. The foundation's key areas of support lie in programs serving youth,k-12 education, social welfare and health programs, and civic and arts organizations.

Saint Xavier University has offered a Masters in Learning Disabilities degree for over twenty years. A vital part of this program is supervised experiences in diagnosing and remediating students. Clinicianships are available for qualifies graduate students in the fall and spring of each year.

New rule puts assistance at trustee's fingertips

It may soon be a little easier for people sorting out their estate plans to choose the right trustee. Picking the right person or organization to manage the trusts set up to administer your assets after death is a common stumbling block in estate planning. You want someone who will be a sound administrator, a wise investor and responsive to the needs of your beneficiaries. But it can be tough to find a trustee with all those characteristics.

People with large and complicated estates often opt for professionals such as banks, but lackluster performance and bureaucratic turnover are common complaints. People of more modest means commonly select close friends or relatives, but they may lack then necessary investment skills.

Moreover, as Yale University law professor John H. Langbein puts it: "Banks do not steal, people do."

But changes are afoot. For one thing, a revision of the prudent investor rule, which sets trust investment standards, is working its way through the states, and has already been enacted in some states, including Illinois.

The revised rule, developed by a committee of trust experts, including Langbein, significantly changes the way trustees must invest. Just as important, it will allow individual trustees to delegate investment responsibilities they formerly had to shoulder alone.

If the trustee does not have the expertise, it encourages the trustee to seek professional help.

That should make the search for a trustee an easier task for many. No longer will someone have to find one person with all the characteristics of a good trustee. Under the new rule, they only have to find someone they trust who knows how to delegate, if necessary.

The next frontier is trusts. Here's why; poor Uncle Harry who is overseeing the family trust fund but lacks the kind of investing expertise now required. Under the new rule, the Uncle Harry's of Illinois are told to get help, be it in the form of hiring an investment manager or even turning to mutual funds. He is not off the hook entirely, however, as he must make the selection with care and can be held accountable for a bad choice.

Governor signs bill protecting former military personnel

by Rick Techman

Governor Jim Edgar signed comprehensive veterans' legislation protecting the job rights and benefits of servicemen and women called to military duty and providing new avenues for recognizing the men and women who fought in uniform for their country.

"This month marks the 50th anniversary of the end of World War II," Edgar said, "and the contributions of thousands of Illinoisans during that great war. Throughout our great history," he added, "Illinois men and women have valiantly served their state and their country in the uniforms of the Armed Forces. This legislation continues this administrations's priority in recognizing that brave duty and service to country."

Among the bill's provision , all of which are effective immediately, is the requirement that anyone seeking employment with the state be able to prove they are a veteran to get the veteran's preference,also declares December 7 of each year as Pearl Harbor Rememberance Day and creates the Women in Military Service Memoria fund as a check-off fund on the Illinois state income tax returns to benefit construction of a national memorial planned at Arlington National Cemetary. Edgar concluded.

"Through this wide ranging legislation we are helping veterans who fought in battles to defend freedom around the world and honoring those who paid the supreme sacrifice with their lives in the service of their country,"

The arrival of a spiritual leader

Media throughout the country including broadcasting journalist and print media gathered for the news worthy event of Reverend Sun Myung Moon's special address on September 12, 1995, at the Marriott Hotel in Chicago.

Reverend Moon's address in Chicago was just one of sixteen cities in which he will be speaking.

His keynote address focused on "The True Family and I", which included several topics, all of which pertained to mind, body and religion.

Among the dignitaries included an Alderman from Chicago, who read a proclamation to be presented to the City Council for a vote on September 13.

A representative from the state treasurer's office was also on the agenda.

Rev. A.I. Dunlap, Mt. Olive A.M.E. Church, criticized those who persecuted and killed religious leaders who speak the truth about Jesus and follow in his name.He said," and Dr. Martin Luther King was also one who was persecuted in Jesus's name."

Father Lawrence T. Fares, a Roman Catholic priest was also trepassed upon by abusivepeople in Ecquador and Nicaragua where he had started several churches. He also was invited to speak at the podium.

The spiritualness that was awakened in the people came from the singing trio of DeLois Barrett Campbell and the Barrett Sisters. The evening ended with a thunderous blend of voices and the rainbow of colors.

Oak Lawn Village Board Meeting
September 12, 1995

The Oak Lawn Village Board held its first meeting in the new Public Safety Bldg. auditorium Tuesday night following a presentation of colors by members of the Johnson-Phelps Veterans Post #5220.

New Business of Village Trustees:

Trustee Cyril Holesha had no new business;

Trustee Marjorie Joy provided an update on the timetable for distribution of new recycling containers recently obtained through a State of Illinois grant. The new green bins should be distributed, along with an explanation of the new features of the program, by the last week of October.

Ms. Joy also announced a meeting on the Education Summit Committee to be held on September 21, 1995 at 4:00pm. in the Public Safety Bldg. All parents, students, seniors and business representatives were encouraged to attend to discuss funding and other important issues;

Trustee Wm. Keane had no new business.

Trustee Ron Stancik noted the first "Trustee Is In" informational meeting was held Saturday, September 9th., and encouraged all to attend future sessions to be held monthly at the Public Safety Bldg. He also announced the first meeting of the new Environmental Concern Committee will take place Tuesday, September 19th.

Trustee Robt. Streit had no new business;

Trustee Michael Walsh had no new business.

Public Participation:

Mr. Thomas Stefanos approached the board and inquired if he would be allowed to comment on the controversial meeting format. He conceded it was not included on the agenda despite his request of Trustee Marjorie Joy to do so. It was noted the matter would be discussed at the next Legal and Ordinance Committee meeting.

Several times, an agitated Mayor Kolb threatened to bar Mr. Stefanos from the proceedings as he continued to pursue his inquiries.

The Recycling Pays contest winners were presented with awards for guessing the weight of a bale of recyclable paper products exhibited at the Farmer's Market August 23rd.

First place winner was Steven Landgraf, a twelve year old student from St. Germaine School. Steven's entry of $249.00 was closest to the actual value of the bale—$248.40. A check in the amount of $248.40 was presented to Steven by Mayor Kolb.

Maureen Riordan, Rose Abbot, Matt Tiffy and Emma McDonald won baskets of products either made from or packaged in recycled materials.

Consent Agenda:

A request for a restaurant located at 10632 South Cicero was approved by the board. The petitioner, Mr. Dennis Lewandowski of Avenue Flower Shop will feature ice cream, pop, coffee and candy for carry-out only consumption from the existing facility.

A request for a driveway width variation at 9604 S. Kolmar (Joseph Damon, petitioner) was approved by the board.

While approving a request for a property consolidation at 9705 S. Ridgeland Ave. (Gerhardt Gliege, petitioner,) the board denied a concurrent request for a driveway width variation for the latter petitioner.

Citing what he perceived were problems with increased density of multi-family development on Ridgeland Ave., Trustee Robt. Streit opposed granting the variation. Trustee Cy Holesha also opposed the request, noting difficulties with the safety aspects of the proposed configuration in which vehicle traffic entered and exited directly onto the busy thoroughfare. The petition was referred back to the Legal and Ordinance Committee for possible revision or restructuring.

A "typographical error" was discovered by Lynn Krauss, Village Engineer and village attorney Thomas Bayer and was "corrected" following a unanimous approval by the Planning and Development commission. The change denied "residential" use in areas zoned C-3 (Regional Shopping district.)

A request by Police chief James Houk to hire a new Community Service Officer (allowing a sworn officer to return to his shift following medical leave) was approved by the board.

A recommendation to authorize the execution of an amended water supply contract between the Village and the City of Chicago was approved by the board. The revised contractual language would allow the distribution of water to a 73.6 acre parcel of land planned for future annexation by the Village of Matteson.

A request for a sale of surplus village owned property was approved by the board. Items include misc. chairs, file cabinets, office equipment, shelving etc. no longer needed in the new Public Safety facility.

A request for a parking variation at 5261 W. 95th Street (John Gnap, M.D., petitioner) was approved by the board. Dr. Gnap plans to purchase the building previously occupied by Peil Shoe Store and specialize in Family Practice and Behavioral Practice.

A resolution authorizing funding for the 111th St. roadway lighting improvement project, from Cicero Ave. to Pulaski Rd. was approved by the board.

A recommendation to waive bidding procedures and award a contract for inspection and maintenance of Village emergency stand-by generators to Cummins Northern Illinois was approved by the board. Cummins submitted the lowest bid in a previously solicited package.

A recommendation to amend language in the Village code to comply with State of Illinois IEPA guidelines involving water booster pumps was approved by the board.

An ordinance for the levy and assessment of taxes for the fiscal year beginning January 1, 1995 of the village of Oak Lawn was approved by a 5-1 vote, with Robt. Streit dissenting.

An ordinance providing for the tax reduction or abatement for the corporate bond and interest fund for the fiscal year beginning January 1, 1995 was approved by the board.

A resolution for sponsoring the annual Oak Lawn Christmas Parade to be held from noon to 3:00pm Sunday, November 19, 1995 was approved by the board.

A request to appoint Thomas Kifl to the Senior Commission was approved by the board.

A request for a Class F (beer and wine only) liquor license to Gino's East, 6156 W. 95th Street was approved after Trustee Ron Stancik and Mayor Kolb expressed reservations concerning the signature "graffiti" inspired decor of this popular restaurant chain. The mayor invited representatives from Gino's East to discuss the difficulties he has with the latter concept, noting what he felt were inappropriate inscriptions condoned at certain Gino's locales.

A request by American Drug Stores (Osco) to begin the sale of liquor at 8:00am on Sundays, December 24th and December 31st was denied by the board.

Angeline Kuczaj a resident of the American Monticello Health Care and Rehab. Center in Oak Lawn celebrates her 100th birthday.

100th birthday for Oak Lawn resident

Angeline Kuczaj a five year resident of the American Monticello Health Care and Rehab. Center in Oak Lawn, will be celebrating her 100th birthday on Sept. 30th Angeline's brother sponsored her migration from Krakow, Poland in 1915. In an effort to repay him, Angie not knowing any English headed for Montana in the employment of Fred Harvey. She helped pioneer the West as an original Harvey Girl.

Life as a Harvey Girl was not as glamourous as Judy Garland portrayed in the movie, "Those Harvey Girls". There were times when the Indians were on the uprise and she had to take refuge in the stockade. Angeline married John Kuczaj in 1916 and this union produced nine children, two of which remain, 14 grandchildren and the family lost count of how many great grandchildren.

Isreal publishes tourist guide for muslim pilgrims

Isreal

A brand new "Guide to Muslim Tourism in Isreal" has recently been published, it was announced in New York by Uzi Michaeli, Isreal's Commissioner for Tourism, North America. The 80-page, 4-color guide - half in English, half in Arabic - was published by Isreal Travel News Ltd. with the cooperation of Isreal's Ministry of Tourism will be distributed worldwide.

In his introduction to the introduction to the brochure, Haj Adel Zeidan, Chairman of the Association of Muslim Religious Leaders in Isreal says, "the Purpose of this brochure, small in size but large in significance," is to present to the Muslim Tourist to Isreal, Muslim sites in Jerusalem and the rest of Isreal."

The brochure describes Muslim holy sites in great detail, as well as devoting attention to dozens of historical and modern sites of interest to Muslim visitors. "While Jewish and Christian pilgrims have been coming to Isreal for decades, "observed Michaeli, "the fast pace of the Mid East peace process means that more and more Muslim visitors are coming too. It's very exciting."

The fee is $15. For more information, call the Job Placement Center at (708) 974-5737. To register, call the College Service Center at (708)974-2110.

FOOD FOR 'SECONDS'

Public school teachers forge a new career in food

by Anita Anderson

When we spoke to Erwin Drechsler of Chicago by phone, he and his wife Cathy, were aglow with plans to fly to Texas to pick up their infant son, Isaac Paul, a six month old baby they had recently adopted.

"Now we have everything, he is a gift," said the former Chicago public school teacher.

"This is my second career. I had taught all levels in Chicago schools, developed teacher training seminars and planned environmental programs," he said.

"Funding for our work dried up in the '80s so Cathy and I began working part-time at restaurants in Chicago. Food was our passion. My father was a butcher and my mother was an accomplished cook," explained Drechsler.

Financed by loans from parents and friends, they helped renovate and open the 32 seat Metropolis Cafe in Chicago's Old Town in 1980. A few years later the complex was done in by the wrecking ball.

After a year's sabbatical and talking with dozens of other small chef-owner restaurants that zeroed in the property at 2925 North Halsted Street and Erwin an American Cafe and Bar took shape.

Cathy is in charge of the front of the house while Erwin focuses on the kitchen and staff. Menus change monthly. Erwin buys local produce and supplies from Illinois farmers as much as possible and the fresh water farm-raised pike and rainbow trout from Wisconsin.

Erwin uses the fresh smoked trout in an appetizer that takes shape in a herb pancake with shredded, smoked trout filling, a touch of cilantro, chive oil and caviar complete the presentation.

He coats whitefish in a cornmeal and serves the fish with summer vegetableand tiny new white potatoes.

Erwin and Cathy's menu is all-American from the wood grilled marinated flank steak with potato salad, corn on the cob and chili pepper barbeque sauce to the wood grilled burger, poppyseed onion roll, hand-cut fried cole slaw with black diamond cheddar.

The wine list is impressive as are the desserts. Erwin tantalizes diners with strawberry rhubarb crisp with vanilla ice cream or chocolate mousse cupcake with rasberry sauce. All desserts are $3.95. Appetizers like crispy coated shrimp with roasted garlic sauce and spicy slaw is priced at $5.95. Soups, such as seafood chowder, is $5.95. Entrees range from $7.95 to about $14.95. Sides like mashed potatoes, spinach with lemon and garlic, hand cut fries, sugar snap peas, black-eyed peas or corn on the cob are $1.95.

Call 312-528-7200 for reservations. Some of Erwin and Cathy's recipes follow.

Grilled Tuna with Mango-Orange Relish

Ingredients:

4-6 oz. tuna steaks
2 ripe mangos, peeled and cubed
2 oranges, peeled and cubed
½ red onion, diced
1 jalapeno pepper, seeded and diced
1 Tbs. cilantro, chopped
1 Tbs. rice wine vinegar
½ cup red bell pepper, diced
Salt and pepper to taste

To prepare:

Place all the ingredients (except for tuna) in a bowl and toss.

Splash in a bit of Tabasco for spice. Brush your tuna with olive oil and grill medium-rare.

Spoon relish over tuna. Squeeze with lime and enjoy.

Wine suggestion: Concannon, 1992 Assemblage (Semillon-Sauvignon Blanc)

Frangelico Cheese Cake

Four 8 oz. packages of cream cheese, 3 eggs, 3/4 cup sugar, 1 tsp. vanilla or almond extract, 1/2 cup Frangelico.

Blend all the ingredients at low speed. Pour into ready made pie crust or graham cracker crust. Preheat oven at 350 degrees. Bake for 40 to 50 minutes. Chill 2 to 3 hours. Add raspberries and boysenberries on top.

We can go almost any where

We Cater To You, an upscale corporate and consumer caterer, formally opened its new facilities with a ribbon cutting and breakfast buffet. Harry J. Klein, Mayor of Burbank, participated in the celebration. We Cater To You offers 24 hour corporate delivery service as well as a six day a week retail operation.

The 2,000 sq. ft. store has extensive kitchen and baking facilities in order to prepare all menu items on site and further develop the company's wedding and party cake business.

Jim Leparski, chef/owner formerly of Tinley Park, is a graduate of the Joliet Junior College Culinary Program. He has worked at various catering facitilies in the Chicago area including the Nikko Hotel and the Empress Casino.

Leparski said, "We found that more and more of our customers wanted full service catering and so we are endeavoring to meet that need with high quality service."

We Cater To You is located at 4820 W. 83rd St., Burbank (just west of Cicero Ave.) Telephone (708)422-3601. Fax (708)422-5895. Retail hours of operation are 11 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday thru Saturday.

Charleston chef's chicken combines tradition

One of the pleasures of visiting historic Charleston is sampling South Carolina's Low country cuisine.

Chef Steve Kish deftly combines traditional recipes with fresh ingredients indigenous to the area. Innovative menus are truly "a taste of Charleston" past and present.

The National Broiler Council asked Chef Kish for the recipes for two chicken dishes which are especially popular with 82 Queen patrons. Both can easily by prepared in the home kitchen.

Baked Chicken Breast with Cornbread-Collard Stuffing and Sweet Onion Gravy

BAKED CHICKEN BREAST WITH CORNBREAD-COLLARD

8 whole, boneless, skinless chicken breasts
1 stick butter, divided
1 small sweet onion, diced
3 cups collard greens, washed and chopped
2 cups crumbled cornbread
1 egg, beaten slightly
1 teaspoon ground sage
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
Sweet Onion Gravy: recipe follows cooked rice

In a large frypan, place all but 1 tablespoon of the butter and melt over medium heat. Add onion and saute' until transparent. Add collard green and cook until tender, about 3 minutes. Remove from heat and place onion and collards in a large bowl. Add cornbread, egg and sage. Mix well and cool. Between two sheets of plastic wrap, place chicken breasts, smooth side down. Pound gently with meat mallet or rolling pin until slightly flattened. Place 1/8 of stuffing on center of each breast; roll and tuck ends under. On large, greased baking pan with sides, place chicken. Melt remaining 1 tablespoon of butter and brush lightly on chicken. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. (at this point, chicken may be covered and placed in refrigerator for up to 24 hours). Place in 375° oven and cook about 20 minutes or until meat is no longer pink when tested with a knife. Slice each breast into 5 slices and arrange on plate with Sweet Onion Gravy and rice.

Sweet Onion Gravy:

In frypan, place 4 tbs. butter ad melt over medium heat. Add 2 thinly-sliced Vidalia or other sweet onions and saute until transparent. Add 2 cups chicken broth, 1/2 cup heavy cream, 1/2 tsp. brown food coloring, 1/2 tsp. salt and 1/4 tsp. pepper; bring to boil. In 1/4 cup cold water, dissolve 2 tbs. cornstarch; add some of gravy from trypan and stir to mix well. Carefully add cornstarch mixture to gravy, stirring vigorously to prevent lumps. Bring to boil, stirring constantly, until thickened.

Makes 8 servings.

The performance schedule for GYPSY is: Wednesday at 8 p.m.; Thurs. at 2 p.m. and 8 p.m. Fri. at 8:30 p.m.; Sat. at 5:30 p.m. and 9 p.m.; and Sun. at 2:30 p.m. and 7 p.m. Individual ticket prices range from $18 to $25 and Dinner/Theatre packages range from $29.50 to $38.75 for adults.

Tickets for GYPSY are available at the Drury Lane Oakbrook Terrace box office or by calling the box office at (708)530-0111. Tickets are also available at all Ticketmaster outlets or by calling Ticketmaster at (312)902-1500. For Group Sales call (708)530-8300.

In the Deep Heart's Core

The Deep Heart's Core will be staged Sunday Afternoon, October 1 at 4 p.m. in the auditorium of Beverly Art Center, 2153 W. 111th Street, Chicago, 60643. Tickets are available by telephone, charged to VISA of Mastercard, at (312)445-3838.

This October 1 production culminates what is aptly described as a Yeats Festival in the Beverly area that has included a mini presentation of excerpts from the program at the Beverly Branch of the Chicago Public Library, and two September 12 workshops for students on W. B. Yeats, presented by Sobol and company at Beverly Art Center.

Tickets for the October 1 presentation of "In the Deep Heart's Core" are also available at the Beverly Art Center, 2153 W. 111th Street. The event is a Benefit for Beverly Art Center.

Oak Lawn Board postpones request to build on 95th

The Oak lawn board of trustees postponed a final decision of Polygon Properties' request to build a Burger King at 4545 W. 95th Street. The 3,900 square foot Burger King have to work out differences with residents.

Many Oak Lawn residents told the village board they didn't want the traffic, noise, odor and crime a Burger King might bring to the area.

A. T. Maras condominium project, which is behind the property were the proposed Burger King would be built, asked the village to rezone the entire site in 1993, so he could build two condominium buildings. The village agreed to rezone the southern half of the property so a larger condominium building could be built. The other half on 95th Street was zoned for commercial businesses.

Many condominium owners, who bought the units for $150,000 to $170,000, blame Maras for lying to them. Maras told the owners he would put a medical office building on the 95th Street frontage property.

Burger King representatives promised to have the latest technologies in use to keep noise, odor and bright lights to a minimum.

Annual Walkathon at Brother Rice

Brother Rice High School students will once again be collection donations for the school's annual Walkathon at the I&M Bike Trail in Willowbrook. Tuition at Brother Rice is $3,300 and the cost to educate each student is $3,800. The money collected for the Walkathon goes to make up some of the educational cost. Each year students collect donations from friends and neighbors who sponsor them on their 6 mile walk. The top student fundraisers receive a variety of prizes including gift certificates to local malls or the Brother Rice Bookstore, a class ring, tickets to the Spring Semi-formal Dance including flowers and dinner, and a Prom Package including a Prom Bid, flowers and tuxedo rental. The top fundraiser for the Walkathon gets to be "principal for the day" while the runner-up gets to be "assistant dean for the day." Call Brother Rice at (312)779-3410 to sponsor a student. Students are pictured at last year's Walkthon.

Job applications taken for new Cub Food store

Six human resources for Cub Foods were on hand Tuesday morning to interview job applicants for the new Cub Foods in Bridgeview. But when 250 job seekers came to apply, they had to call for reinforcements. Patti Hill, a human resource representative from Cub Foods, said the company was expecting to hire 300 people for its new store at 103rd Street and Harlem Avenue.

Company officials said the majority of positions available were part-time, and one-quarter to one-third of the openings available were full-time. Job openings include clerks, cashiers and custodians.

The company is expected to interview 500 to 1,000 applicants through Saturday at the Delphian House at 7825 W. 95th Street. Qualified candidates will be called back for a second interview.

Construction of the 67,000 square foot store is expected to open in November.

Former Spiegel employees complete retraining program

The employees of Spiegel in Chicago, recently completed a 200 hour, noncredit retraining program taught by Moraine Valley, but held at the Spiegel offices. The program, offered by Spiegel to employees who decided not to move out of state with the company, focused on teaching students skills in work processing and electronics spreadsheets.

"Most of the employees were in warehouse jobs and office jobs, but they didn't have computer skills," said Suzanne Ryerson, coordinator of Training Programs for Moraine Valley. "Spiegel offered these employees a variety of retraining options, but the program offered by Moraine Valley was one of the more popular ones," Ryerson added. Now the 100 former employees will be able to have future job prospects.

Oak Lawn Village Board Meeting

by Frank Soczek

Oak Lawn Village Board Meeting
September 26, 1995

New Business:

Trustee Cy Holesha suggested the board investigate the possibility of issuing municipal bonds for the completion of street lighting in the Village; Mr. Holesha also urged the board to order the cleanup of the vacant Concord service station, citing problems with repeated dumping.

Trustee Marjorie Joy announced a meeting scheduled for October 4th at 7:30pm to address parking problems concerning Eagle Ridge and Richards H.S.; Ms. Joy also suggested a formal, written "vision" plan with short and long term goals be distributed to Village employees. Ms. Joy additionally noted the recent Educational Summit was well attended and urged all interested in the problems facing the school system to attend future sessions.

Trustee Wm. Keane announced the reformation of the Special Events Committee and inquired if the Village Attorney had received any correspondence regarding the recently discussed Tax Levy.

Trustee Robt. Streit requested the topics of recycling bins, street repaving and public participation during Village board meetings be opened for discussion. Mr. Streit also inquired about the year-long delay in televising Village board meetings by local access cable channels.

Trustee Michael Walsh announced his receipt of a petition signed by 130 residents protesting the construction of a Burger King restaurant at 4545 W. 95th Street.

Public Participation:

Mr. E. Robuck, speaking on behalf of the condo organization of the building adjacent the proposed Burger King restaurant stated that 49 unit owners, as well as 64 residents of Kolmar and Kostner Avenues expressed concern over what they felt would be excessive noise, traffic and objectionable odors that would result from the new restaurant. Robuck noted thirteen "fast food" establishments in the Village were sufficient to meet the needs of the community.

Mr. Andy Skoundrianos protested the arrest of Oak Lawn resident Thomas Stefanos at the recent Tax Increment Financing meeting; citing a violation of Mr. Stefanos' 1st Amendment rights of freedom of speech. Mr. Skoundrianos noted inconsistent application of board censure, reminding the board that Trustee Keane was not arrested following his disparaging comments regarding certain "outspoken" residents. Mr. Skoundrianos concluded "Words cannot hurt. They make you think."

An inquiry was made by a member of the audience concerning the delivery date of the new recycling bins. Village Manager Joseph Faber explained the delay and assured delivery in the near future.

Another resident queried the board about what he felt were apparent "short cuts" being taken by crews resurfacing the street on the 9700 block of Menard. It was noted that the underpavement was not being scored completely curb to curb; only the center section was prepared. Village engineer Lynn Krauss responded proper procedures were being followed.

Consent Agenda:

Following a unanimous 8-0 approval by the Planning and Development Commission, a review by the Chief Building Engineer, Office of Quality Control, and an approval by the Village Health and Sanitation Inspector, the board voted to "postpone" a decision allowing construction of a Burger King restaurant at 4545 W. 95th St.

Mayor Kolb announced "I don't want a Burger King. We've got enough of 'em." prior to listening to the carefully prepared presentation by principals of the latter restaurant. Most of the "standing room only" audience appeared to oppose the restaurant proposal.

A request for a 4-way Stop sign at 96th Place and Sayre Ave. and 96th Place and New England Ave. was approved by the board.

Various traffic revisions for Hannum School were approved:

Removal of "No Parking, Standing or Waiting during school hours" restrictions on the south side of 98th St., from Tripp Ave. to a point 310 feet west;

Posting of "Yield" signs for north and southbound Kolin Ave. at 98th St.;

Removal of "No Parking on School Days 8am to 9am and 3pm to 4pm restrictions on the west side of Tripp Ave from 98th St. to a point 175' south; and Posting of No Parking Anytime on the west side of Tripp Ave. from 98th St to a point 40' south.

Village Manager's Report:

A request to waive bidding for Breathing Apparatus Units and the purchase of the equipment from Dolton Fire Equipment Sales in the amount of $15,900 was approved by the board.

A request for nine promotions and appointments by the Fire Department was approved by the board.

Village Attorney's Report:

Again the board voted on postponing approval of a liquor license for Gino's East restaurant, citing concerns over the the proposed "decor" of the establishment.

The board approved by a 5-1 vote (Robt. Streit opposing) issuanace of Municipal bonds to pay for the proposed Town Green Improvements, to be paid for with tax dollars projected to be received from the yet unbuilt Saturn dealership.

Initially it was assumed Federal community block grant funds could be used, but the Village was determined to be ineligible due to the nature of the proposed project. Trustee Streit criticized the haste in which over a million dollars was spent "in less than 5 minutes, without sufficient input" and urged retaining the "old" Village Hall that is scheduled for demolition.

A lease of tower space by the Federal Avaition Administration for the installation of a "Doppler" radar antenna at 98th and Central was approved by the board.

A request to waive bidding procedures and award a contract for forty mobile radios in the amount of $15,480 to Illinois communications Sales was approved by the board.

A request by Value City at 8716 S. Cicero to use trailers for temporary storage for the Christmas season was approved by the board.

Liquor licenses for T.K. Monte's Bar and Grill 6950 W. 95th St (fromerly John and Mary's) and Killian's Pub 4642 W. 103rd St (formerly Cagney's Saloon) was approved by the board.

The word filibuster comes from a word, which originally meant pirate. It comes from the Dutch word Vrijbuiter, which means "freebooter."

Oak Lawn announces Christmas Parade

The annual Oak Lawn Christmas Parade is scheduled to kick off at 1:30 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 19. The Oak Lawn Chamber of Commerce in partnership with the Oak Lawn Park District and the Village of Oak Lawn stage the parade each year to welcome the holiday season and to bring Santa Claus to the community.

All businesses, service clubs and civic organizations are encouraged to participate with their own entries or with floats. Those interested in sponsoring local high school bands and other musical units should contact the Chamber office. Float rentals and additional details are available by contacting the Chamber of Commerce office, (708) 424-8300.

The last word she spelled correctly in the contest was "arbiter." Ms. Williams currently is a freshman at St. Ignatius College Prep and plans to study business and law in college.

COURAGE AWARD RECIPIENT:

Dr. Michael Byrnes, Service Station Robbery Hero, Oak Lawn, IL. As a podiatrist, Dr. Byrnes knows the importance of taking good care of feet. While leaving his office at the Ridgeland Foot Clinic in early September, he spotted a robbery in progress at a local service station. The fleet-of-foot podiatrist managed to free the station attendant and chase the suspect a half-mile before the suspect surrendered.

HEART AWARD RECIPIENT:

Fr. John Smyth, Executive Director Maryville Academy, Des Plaines, IL. Since his ordination in April 1962, Fr. Smyth has held only one assignment - ministering to tens of thousands of young people in his care at Maryville Academy as a priest, teacher, coach, administrator, advocate, supporter and leader.

In 1850, the average farmer could supply four people with food, by 1910, it was seven and by 1980, with advances in agricultural technology, a farmer could feed 78 people.

Resident tells not to demolish Village Hall

by Julie Barker

Well, well, well...Our illustrious village board has once more utilize its absence of vision when it voted 5 to 1 to demolish the former village hall. It did it previously when it demolished the old police/fire department building, which before that also housed the village hall. It did it when it had the old train station demolished because it was old and obsolete. At one time they also wanted to demolish Cook School. Is this an irresponsible behavior or is it simply a show of apathy and ignorance about and for our historic past, or, as initially stated, an absence of vision. I say all three or, is that 4?

The demolition of the former police/fire department/village hall building was irresponsible behavior. The destruction of the old train station was a show of apathy for our history and an abundance of ignorance for the appreciation of the legacy from past generations. And all 3 1/2 decisions are an absence not only of vision but also of creative minds.

In more or less 40 years the Oak Lawn Board has been housed in three buildings. No wonder some village official, when the new Public building was built said: "This building will meet the needs of the village for another 40 years." We are a village of disposable buildings, perhaps that is why there are practically no historical buildings left in the village.

The proposal to designate a a historical district in Oak Lawn is not being taken seriously because there is no historical district and it might be embarrassing to admit that in public. The few historical buildings are sprinkled through out the village and the Oak Lawn historical room in the library was closed and its exhibit was filed away.

Now the village wants to build a village green on the site of the former Village Hall. The location for a village green will be very accessible for those who work or regularly frequent the municipal center but not to the majority of the residents of Oak Lawn. Flowers trees and shrubs can still be planted at the present building. The demolition of the previous landmark which in a few short years would be 50 years old (the minimum age for historical designation) to be replaced for a new landmark at a cost of more than $1 million is, to say the least, laughable. There are at least three reasons to reconsider such actions. First, the Old Village Hall is historical by virture of its original purpose and usage. Decisions that affected the life of the residents of Oak Lawn were made in that building. Second, the building could be converted into an emporium of diverse creativity and artistic awareness, by seeking businesses such as an art gallery,. visual studios and shops, small specialty shops

Third, the conversion of the building into a shopping court will add to the village's economic base and the diversification of its goods and services, thus adding some life to the languid and almost desert like 95th street where the money should really be invested.

It is true that we can not live in the past, but we can not live without the past. The measurement for progress rests in the knowledge of the past. If we are serious about historical preservation, and of saving the 95th street business community, let's begin by saving the "Old" Village Hall" as reminder of our duty and commitment to the residents of this village and to its business community and to its history.

Unauthorized pet insurance

Illinois Director of Insurance Mark Boozell issued a final order earlier this month to PetKare HMO, PetKare of America, Inc. and PetKare Midwest, Inc., Chicago and AJA, Ltd., Glenview, Il, to cease and desist their proposed "health maintenance organization" for pets because it constitutes transacting the business of insurance without the authority.

PetKare had advertised their plan in circulars and brochures and entered into preferred provider agreements with several veterinary clinics in the Chicago area to provide prepaid and discounted services for check ups and shots. However, no contracts were actually sold in Illinois. State insurance law specifically defines pets as property and does not extend HMO benefits to animals.

Consumers interested in insurance protection for family pets may contact the Department of Insurance to determine whether a particular company is licensed for that type of coverage before they sign a contract or pay a premium.

FOOD FOR 'SECONDS'

THE WORLD'S FARE VIA BEEF

When it's time for a mealtime departure from everyday fare, remember that beef with Far East flavor will travel to your table in 30 minutes for an unforgettable meal. So spice up the night with Thai-inspired Satay-Style Beef and Pasta.

Beef strips receive a world of flavor from a teriyaki, peanut butter and red pepper sauce. It's a Thai-riffic flavor combination your family will love.

SATAY-STYLE BEEF AND PASTA

1-1/4 pound boneless beef top round or top sirloin steak, cut 1 inch
5 tablespoons bottled teriyaki sauce, divided
2 tablespoons creamy peanut butter
1 tablespoon water
1/8 to 1/4 teaspoon red pepper
1/8 to 1/4 teaspoon ground ginger
6 ounces uncooked vermicelli or thin spaghetti
2 tablespoons vegetable oil
1/2 cup seeded and chopped cucumber

Cut steak into 1/8 inch thick strips. Add 2 tablespoons teriyaki sauce to beef strips; toss to coat evenly.

Combine remaining 3 tablespoons teriyaki sauce, peanut butter, water, red pepper and ginger. Cook vermicelli in salted boiling water according to package directions; drain and rinse. Toss vermicelli with peanut butter mixture to coat well.

In large nonstick skillet or wok, heat oil over medium-high until hot. Add beef (1/2 at a time) and stir-fry 1 to 2 minutes or until outside surface is no longer pink. (Do not overcook.) Add to noodles; toss lightly. Sprinkle with chopped cucumber. Serve immediately.

Total prepartation and cooking time: 30 minutes

Tenderloin with Garlic-roasted vegetables

4-pound well-trimmed beef tenderloin roast
2 tbsp. grated Parmesan cheese
salt

Seasoning:
1 tsp. dried Italian seasoning
1/2 tsp. cracked black pepper

Heat oven to 425°. Combine seasoning ingredients; press evenly into surface of beef roast. Place roast on rack in shallow pan. Insert meat thermometer so bulb is centered in the thickest part, not resting in fat. Do not add water or cover. Roast in 425° oven approximately 45 to 50 minutes for medium-rare to medium doneness.

Meanwhile prepare garlic-roasted vegetables.

Remove roast when meat thermometer registers 140° for medium-rare, 155° for medium; sprinkle cheese over top. Let roast stand 15 minutes. (The temperature will continue to rise about 5° to 145° for medium-rare, 160° for medium.)

Carve roast into 1/4-inch thick slices; season with salt, as desired. Serve with vegetables.

OAK LAWN LADY MAKES STUDENT FEEL WELCOME

By Anita Anderson

Several foreign exchange students got a taste of an American cook-out recently when Linda Stearns opened her door and her heart to welcome students from Hong Kong, Germany and Sweden who are in this country under the auspices of the Foundation for Foreign Study Foundation.

Malin Enegvist

Stearns is hosting blonde, Malin Eneqvist of Sweden for one year while she attends classes at Oak Lawn Community High School.

Malin who is a senior in Oak Lawn says she will study two more years when she returns home to Sweden to complete their equivalent for high school.

"We eat more pasta, potatoes, and fresh food in my country while Americans eat more fast food," Malin observed.

Rebekka Darr of East Germany and Miriam Preis and Andrea Kindich of West Germany all agreed that the dress code is strikingly different here.

"We wear our clothes much tighter in Germany and we dress up more when we go to school," they all agreed. "Here the clothes are so baggy."

Patricia Mann of Mattson is the exchange coordinator. Her daughter, Natalie spent one year in France as an exchange student and recalls it was harder to make friends with the French students but she eventually did. Also, the French showed her how to conserve water when she took a shower and she watched those electric lights.

Student from Governors State designs a home page for daughter

For some students, the thought of doing homework assignments means inconvenience more than enjoyment.

However, that was not the case for John Muzzo, a graduate student at Governors State University, who took the assignment to heart and designed a home page for his 10 year old handicapped daughter.

Muzzo, enrolled in Dr. Akkanad Isaac's "Business in Cyberspace" class at GSU to learn to access the Internet for starting a business and creating a home page.

A home page, Muzzo learned, is an introductory fact sheet. It gives the computer user basic information on one's self or business and offers the user the chance to "link" to other information referred to on the home page.

In Muzzo's case, he designed the home page with a Disney theme for his daughter, Elizabeth, and called it "Elizabeth's Show White Page."

The Muzzo home page takes the user to such destinations as Cinderella's castle at Disney World in Orlando, Florida. After a visit with Cinderella and several other Disney heroines, the computer user can "link" in to information on the naval observatory clock that keeps time for the world. Muzzo also included a picture of Elizabeth in her Snow White Halloween costume.

The Snow White Home Page also allows the computer user to see pictures of people and places as they access the many different links. Through Elizabeth's page, for example, users also can access a home page on the British network featuring another young girl and her English surroundings.

"Many people from around the world have viewed Elizabeth's home page and have communicated via e-mail," said Muzzo. Computer users can access the page using the Internet address http://www.ECNet/users/gjmuzzo/lizzie l. htm

One particular user was Berit Erickson of Halifax, Canada. He works for Cochran Communications, a firm that rates electronic mail. He called "Elizabeth's Snow White Page," one of the best he'd seen while surfing the Internet.

Erickson rated it a perfect five for its appearance, content, ease of use, organization, relevance and its suitability for young computer users.

Elizabeth's handicaps prevent her from doing the typing, but she relays to her father, and brothers, Chris and Ryan, what she wants done to communicate with others around the globe from her home in Chicago Heights.

Elizabeth's home page includes accurate explanations of her handicaps, as well as information on support groups and medical research, all at a touch of the keyboard.

Brilliant colors expected this fall

ILLINOIS WOODLANDS RECREATION

Cool nights, warm and sunny days, and a relatively dry September and October will bring out the best fall color this autumn according to state foresters with the Department of Natural Resources.

State Forester Stewart Pequignot said, "We are overdue for a great autumn display of color," citing the unusual weather extremes experienced in Illinois during the last few years. "an early frost," he added, however, could diminish the fall spectacle we have come to expect, but should never take for granted."

Pequignot said a combination of wet and dry weather patterns in the state make it difficult to predict color intensity and timing.

"Typically, the onset of peak fall color starts around October 1 in northern Illinois, October 15, in Central Illinois and November 1 in southern Illinois," he also said.

Pete Skuba, a forester with the Department, said people will recognize the most predominant trees in Illinois this fall by their bright colors.

"Trees with vivid yellow and orange tints which splash across a brilliant blue autumn sky are the sugar maple, hickory, ash, yellow poplar, birch, black cherry, sycamore, cottonwood sassafras and alder. Trees which produce the deeper oranges, fiery reds and bronzes include the hard maple, red oak, sweet gum, dogwood, tupelo, sumac and persimmon," Skuba said.

According to Skuba, some trees dropping their leaves early because of the late summer dry spell.

"An extended dry period may result," Skuba said, "in leaf colors being less vivid this fall than in the past."

Skuba noted tree climbing vines, such as poison ivy and the non-poisonous five leaf virginia creeper, exhibit deep reds and purples in the fall.

Although roadside viewing is a convenient way to see the best color, Pequignot said state forests, parks, and trails provide a front row seat for people to enjoy the fall spectacular.

For a change of pace to traditional fall color tours, visitors are encouraged to check out the Goose Lake Prairie State Natural Area in Grundy County for a beautiful autumn display of golden prairie grasses.

Low mortgages offered to first time home buyers

Last week, Governor Jim Edgar announced the Illinois Housing Development Authority is offering below-market mortgages to first-time homebuyers whenever they need funds, not just several months each year.

Since the Illinois First-Time Homebuyer Program was launched in 1982, it has relied solely on private bond market proceeds for loans made through its statewide lender network.

Depending on demand, the money was typically all obligated within months. Unfortunately, this meant some people otherwise eligible for first-time IHDA homebuyer loans couldn't get them.

"To solve the problem, " Acting IHDA Director Pamela A Lenane said, "We are taking two steps.

"First," she said, "we are going into the bond market with smaller, more frequent issues to keep loanable proceeds on hand. Some 700 homebuyers will benefit.

"Second," she concluded, "in periods between bond issues when funds have not been available, IHDA will now originate first-time homebuyer loans using our own administrative reserves. In turn, this IHDA money will be repaid from the next bond sale."

Lenane also said IHDA officials will have the flexibility between bond issues to set interest rates on first-time loans to match current conditions in the conventional market, thus staying competitive.

Edgar said, "This is an important day for affordable single-family housing. Now no matter when a qualified applicant wants to buy a house, IHDA will have first-time buyer funds available to assist him or her."

Library circulation continues to climb

Circulation continues to climb at the Oak Lawn Public Library according to statistics given to the library board by Dr. James B. Casey, director. At the monthly meeting, Sept. 19, Casey noted that the total circulation for Aug. 1995 was 56,155 compared to 54,310 for Aug. 1994, a growth of more than three percent. Figures for 1995 to date show circulation for the year is 24 percent ahead of 1994.

According to the board report, library remodeling is on schedule. An area wall has been installed for the audiovisual area and the collection is being reorganized for easier access for patrons. Once this work is completed, the second part of the remodeling project will be to enlarge and equip the Youth Services storyhour room.

In regular business, the board approved the payment of bills for library materials, $47,118; for general operating expenses, $29,270; and for personnel, $154,557. A resolution was approved to transfer building fund monies to the general fund in anticipation of the late collection of real estate taxes. Such taxes, when collected, will reimburse the building fund.

In an annual review, the board approved the following board policies; Reference Service, Database Search, Loan Periods, Library Cards and Non-Resident Fees.

Approval was given to close the library Dec. 8 for a Staff Inservice Training Day.

The board meets at 7:30 third Tuesday of the month, in the lower level Oak Lawn Rotary Room. Meetings are open to the public. Board members are Joann Buschbach, president; Shirley Barrett, vice president; Robert Honkisz, secretary; Marian Sullivan, treaser; Lois Gasteyer, Patricia Roberts and Lee Stein, trustees.

Moraine Valley Community College's Academic Theater Program will present "The Crucible" for its fall production.

The play will be performed Thursday to Sunday, Oct. 12 through 15 and Thursday to Sunday, Oct. 19 through 22 in the Dorthy Menker Theater located in the Fine and Performing Arts Center, on the campus, 10900 S. 88th Ave., Palos Hills. Performances on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday will be at 8 p.m. and Sunday performances will begin at 2 p.m. A dinner theater production will be on Saturday, Oct. 21.

The play, written by Arthur Miller, is a parable of a paranoid society. It tells the story of the Puritan purge of witchcraft in old Salem. Small lies become rumor, and rumor is believed to be fact as an entire town falls victim to bigotry, deceit, and revenge. "The Crucible" is a tale of persecution that has chilling parallels to today's society.

Tickets for the play are $8.25 for adults and $6.25 for senior citizens and students. Tickets for the dinner theater and production are $28.25 for adults and $26.25 for senior citizens and students.

For tickets or more information, contact the Fine and Performing Arts Center Box Office at (708)974-5500.

Diane White joins Moraine Valley Community College as a new full-time instructor in the Mathematics department.

She teaches Intermediate Algebra, Business Calculus, and Finite Math. In addition, she will write departmental final examinations for some mathematics classes.

Prior to becoming a full-time faculty member at Moraine Valley, the Oak Lawn resident was an adjunct faculty member at the college.

White has a Bachelor of Science degree in mathematics from the University of Illinois at Urbana/Champaign and a Master of Science degree in mathematics from DePaul University.

Oak Lawn High School plans Homecoming

The Oak Lawn Community High School Student Council is currently making plans for the Homecoming celebration. The festivities are scheduled for Saturday, October 14. The annual Homecoming Parade, under the theme of "Spartans Under the Big Top" will step off at 10 a.m., at 51st Avenue, and proceed west on 95th Street to the Warren O. Keneipp Athletic Field, located just west of the high school.

The Homecoming Parade again is being planned in cooperation with the Oak Lawn Chamber of Commerce. Chamber representatives include: Ms. Joan Kennedy, Parade Co-chairman; Mr. Milt Andersen, Parade Chairman; and Klem Brzuszkiewicz, Oak Lawn Chamber of Commerce President.

Student Council officers who are planning and coordinating the Homecoming activities are: Jeanie Drechsler, President; Stacy Bieryla, Vice-President; Mandy Zeien, Secretary; Barb Antol, Treasurer. Mrs. Pam Bibeau a and Mr. Vern Scarpelli are the Student Coucil Advisors, and Mr. Thomas Murphy is the Assistant Principal - Student Activities.

The parade will feature the Homecoming Court, Spartan Marching Band, cheerleaders and floats sponsored by various student clubs and organizations. The Oak Lawn Chamber of Commerce donates two cash prizes for the Most Outstanding Float and the Best Use of Theme. The Chamber of Commerce also awards a $50 cash prize for the best float in each category and a $25 prize for the runner up. This year's Grand Marshall will be Joyce Martin, School Nurse, who retired last year after 21 years at OLCHS.

POWERFUL PRAYER TO THE HOLY SPIRIT

Holy Spirit, You Who solves all problems, Who lights all roads so that I can attain my goal. You Who gives me the divine gift to forgive and to forget all evil against me and that in all instances of my life You are with me. I want in this short prayer to thank You for all things and to confirm once again that I never want to be separated from You even and in spite of all material illusions. I wish to be with You in eternal glory. Thank You for Your mercy toward me and mine.

The person must say this prayer for 3 consecutive days. After 3 days the favor requested will be granted even if it may appear difficult. This prayer must be published immediately after the favor is granted without mentioning the favor, only your initials should appear at the bottom.

SEPARATING? DIVORCING?

Your Divorce Lawyer Doesn't Want You To Read This Report

The average person is rarely placed in greater jeopardy-emotionally, financially, and legally than when going through a divorce. The reality of divorce courts is that most litigants leave the courtroom feeling as if they have just been hit by a truck! Even the apparent winner rarely feels good with the outcome.

Divorce Law attempts to fit one of the most painful of adult choices into a legal framework. Some people expect their lawyers to be confessors or even to provide psychological counseling. Others never give their lawyers a chance, regarding them as the enemy when they attempt to compromise with the other side. There are clients who are in such a hurry to conclude their divorce that they waive anything and everything to which they might have a claim.

If you want to avoid the horror stories; if your goal in divorce is a level of self-control, decorum, and reasonableness; if you appreciate your marriage is ending but your parenting will continue; if you don't want to go broke paying legal fees, then call 1-800-294-7311 for the free report.

You do have choices! You can avoid the costly trap of litigation and the problems associated with it! You can take control of your divorce!

Chicago receives 2.75 million to host '96 convention

Chicago will receive a $2.75 million tourism promotion grant to assist the city with its expenses in hosting the 1996 Democratic National Convention according to an announcement made by Governor Jim Edgar last month.

The economic impact of the convention is expected to reach an estimated $122 million according to a spokesman for the governor. The grant to the City of Chicago Office of Budget Management is made through the Tourism Private Sector Grant Program, administered by the Department of Commerce and Community Affairs, Illinois Bureau of Tourism.

The City of Chicago, Department of Cultural Affairs received $25,000 in 1995 to assist with costs from hosting the fourth International Congress of Educating Cities the spokesman also said.

Lieutenant Governor Bob Kustra, Edgar's senior economic development advisor, said the grants are part of Illinois' overall tourism promotion effort.

"The 1996 Democratic National Convention," Edgar said, "promises to showcase Illinois to the 35,000 delegates, alternates, staff, guests and media representatives expected to attend, and to an international audience following the activities," Edgar said.

"This grant," he concluded, "is part of our commitment to the City of Chicago to be a partner in hosting a world class event.

"Sixteen cities competed for the economic benefits and prestige that hosting the the convention will bring. A spirit of teamwork in the public and private sectors helped win the convention for Chicago," Edgar concluded, "and we will continue to work together to prove that Chicago was the right choice."

Kustra added, "Tourism continues to set new records in Illinois. Last year alone, travelers to our state spent nearly $16 billion and the travel industry employed more than 240,000 workers. It just makes sense to encourage development of more public and private partnerships to keep those numbers growing."

The Tourism Private Sector Grant Program, funded entirely by revenue generated by the hospitality industry, was made possible through 'egislation approved in 1993 that increased the percentage of the state's hotel/motel tax designated for the Tourism Promotion Fund.

Grants provide a 50/50 match to applicants who can document matching private sector investment for efforts to attract major national and international events to Illinois.

Patrick Magree, FMS, Moderator (Chicago 55), meet on a bimonthly basis to coordinate and organize their many events of the school year.

Marist fathers plan year events

In December, the Fathers' Club hosts their annual Christmas Dance for parents, relatives and friends. A delightful dinner is served, followed by an evening of dancing and celebration for the Christmas season.

In January, the fathers spend a day with their sons, at the annual Father Son Bowl on January 21st at Oak Forest Bowl.

The grand event of the year is the Las Vegas Nite, held this year on March 29th. The evening begins with a buffet dinner in the cafeteria followed by an evening of chance. The Super Bonanza Raffle is the highlight of the night with prizes totaling over $15,000 with the grand prize of $10,000.

Information regarding any of these events may be obtained by calling Brother Patrick Magee, FMS at Marist High School (312)881-6360.

Board Meeting
October 10. 1995

An ordinance amending the Oak Lawn Village code in regard to the order of business for Village board meetings was approved by a 6-0 vote. Trustee Ron Stancik announced that he was pleased with the unanimous agreement on the decision. The new revised format replaces a controversial "experimental" meeting guideline that severely limited public input during board meetings. The new format, again subject to a six month "review," will observe the following rule of order:

First: Presentation by staff, committee chairperson or the petitioner.

Second: Comments and questions from the public.

Third: Discussion of the agenda item by the Village Board, and Fourth: Motion and vote by the Village Board.

Mayor Kolb presented a commendation from the Oak Lawn Police Department to Dr. Michael Byrnes for his recent apprehension of a robbery suspect following an attack on a gas station attendant.

Dr. Byrnes pursued the offender down several dark streets and alleys, not knowing whether the subject was armed, and finally subdued him.

On the award, police chief James Houk noted "Dr. Michael Byrnes stopped the offender's actions from escalating and prevented more serious injury to the victim." Dr. Byrnes in turn praised the Oak Lawn Police Department for their competent attention to the matter.

Observing the increased number of audience members in the normally sparsely attended public board meeting, Mayor Kolb correctly sensed their locus of concern and pushed the controversial Burger King petition to the apex of the agenda.

Once again, Mr. Don Bettenhausen, attorney for Polygon Properties, and petitioner Patrick Glen faced an overwhelmingly hostile audience as they explained the many revisions made in their original plans in an effort to placate the adjacent condo owners and nearby residents of 4545 W. 95th St.

Mr. Bettenhausen noted that two meetings were held recently with representatives of Burger King and he condominium residents. Changes involving a complete reversal of the site plan to minimize sound, distance and traffic were proffered, along with a six foot high brick privacy fence. Additionally, an increase of forty feet of landscaped "green" area, elimination of a roof top air conditioner and external "tubes" in the children's play area were offered to enhance the visual aesthetics of the structure. Access was also altered in an effort to minimize street traffic on Kenton Ave.

Mr. Bettenhausen noted that no other fast food restaurants in the area have "comparable amenities" and projected in a statement of tax benefit that 115 thousand dollars in revenue would be generated based on 1.2 million dollars in sales.

Mr. Ed Roebuck, speaking on behalf of the condo association, acknowledged the attempts by Burger King to ameliorate the negative perceptions held by local residents, but soundly refused the proposal, explaining the anticipated "noise" simply moved from apts. 05 and 06 to 07 and 08.

Other concerns expressed by neighboring residents include the fear that the restaurant might operate 24 hours in the future, emergency vehicle traffic to local trauma centers would be adversely effected, restaurant and vehicle lights would prevent elderly residents from sleeping before 11pm, adjacent street parking would become burdensome and additional litter would become prevalent.

The board ultimately denied Burger King's petition, with Mayor Kolb casting the deciding vote after Trustees Stancik, Holesha and Keane voted to approve the request and Trustees Joy, Walsh and Streit voted for rejection.

New Business:

Trustee Joy announced an educational funding forum to be held at Oak lawn High School and reported on a proposed 120 foot extension to the outlet of Stony Creek to alleviate flooding in the Oakdale region.

Trustee Keane suggested the implementation of a voice mail system in the administration building and urged the legal and ordinance committee to investigate difficulties encountered when school faculty is increased and parking allotments fail to accommodate the increased number of staff vehicles. Mr. Keane also noted difficulties caused by construction traffic in the vicinity of 103rd to 111th and Pulaski, urging the posting of No Outlet signs to prevent those attempting to by-pass traffic on to dead-end streets.

Trustee Stancik suggested the investigation of senior housing shortages, noting "Everyone wants senior housing, but not in their back yard." Stancik also suggested all litigation pursued by the Village be approved by the Village Board.

Trustee Streit commented on what he felt was an "embellished" police report containing "erroneous" information. Mr. Streit accused Village Manager Joseph Faber of "enhancing" documentation involving the arrest of Coalition Party opponent Thomas Stefanos at a recent public meeting.

Mr. Streit implied the board granted a favorable variance to developer John Maras following a substantial campaign contribution to the Coalition party.

Trustee Walsh had no new business.

Trustee Holesha reported a 400 percent increase in rear-end accidents on 95th Street westbound from Austin to McVicker Avenue. He also recommended posting a sign prohibiting a right turn on red southwest bound on Southwest Highway.

Village Manager's Report:

The board approved by a 5-1 vote (R. Streit abstaining) a five year lease agreement for the Oak Lawn Chamber of Commerce at 5314 W. 95th Street. The lease provides for rent of $250.00 per month for the first year, with a 5% increase each year thereafter.

Planning and Development Commission:

A request for a variance involving a subdivision of three lots at 6049-6051 W. 95th St by Patrick Curtin and Thomas McGinty was approved by a 6-0 vote.

A request for variations in sign ordinance and landscape requirements at 9121 S. Cicero (Saturn Dealership) was approved by a 6-0 vote.

A request for a variation in the sign ordinance at 6421 W. 87th St. (Bison Lumber, petitioner) was approved by a 6-0 vote.

Village Attorney's Report:

An ordinance approving the Village of Oak Lawn Triangle Tax Increment Redevelopment Area Plan and Project was approved by a 5-1 vote, with Robt. Streit opposing.

An ordinance amending the Village code to create a Special Events Commission was approved by a 6-0 vote.

Village Manager's Report:

Village Manager Joseph Faber accused Trustee Robt. Streit of "insulting the integrity" of the Oak Lawn Police Dept. with the latter's accusations of "enhanced" police reports subsequent the Stefanos arrest. Faber further demanded a "public apology" from Streit after noting that it was he (Streit) that called Police Chief Houk and demanded a change in the police report.

Mr. Faber had scheduled a comment on Robt. Streit's accusation of improper Village action regarding Tax Levies but postponed his remarks due to the late hour.

Legal and Ordinance Committee:

An ordinance amending Village Code regarding penalties for code violations was approved by a 6-0 vote.

Five hundred dollar fines are raised to seven hundred fifty dollars; in lieu of or in addition to the latter penalties, any person convicted of a violation of the Village code may be required to perform some reasonable public service work or community service work.

Persons convicted of Retail Theft of property valued at less than fifty dollars shall be fined not less than one hundred and not more than seven hundred fifty dollars. In addition to the latter fine, the person convicted may be required to perform public/community service.

Unlawful use of air rifles and use by persons under the age of eighteen is prohibited. Use of air rifles by minors on private property with parental guidance or adult instructor is acceptable under the revised ordinance.

An ordinance amending Village code regarding development in special flood areas was approved by a 6-0 vote. Meeting on Belt line delays Blown business appointments; children left stranded at schools waiting for rides; missed flights at Midway. These are just some of the problems residents in the 23rd Ward have been facing in recent years as slow-moving Indiana Harbor Belt trains have turned many areas of the southwest side into the automotive equivalent of a doctors' waiting room.

In an effort to give area residents a chance to air their grievances and get some answers about Belt line depays, U.S. Representative William O. Lipinski, Alderman Mike Zalewski (23rd), and State Senators Bob Molaro (12th) and Bob Raica (24th) are sponsoring a community meeting with officials from the railrad and the Illinois Department of Transportation, 7 p.m. Monday, Oct. 23rd, at the Curie High School Auditorium, 4959 Archer Avenue.

"I appreciate that many companies are counting on the Belt line to move their goods, but the trains seem to be getting slower and slower and the delays longer and longer," Congressman Lipinski said. "I think the Belt line owes some answers to local residents for these inconveniences."

Ald. Zalewski added that not only are the trains inconvenient, but potentially dangerous.

"The delays these trains are causing could possibly hinder police and fire response in an emergency situation, especially around Midway," he said.

Added Sen. Molaro, "I can't help but believe that the state, the railroad and the local community can come to some arrangement that would work for everybody."

Congressman Lipinski said that while the meeting is in Chicago, residents of other communities along the Belt line, such as La Grange and Brookfield, are invited to attend and ask questions of representatives from IDOT and the railroad.

"I understand that Belt line trains often clog up the area around 47th Street and East Avenue as well," he said.

More information on the meeting can be obtained by calling (312)582-7323 or (312)886-0481.

Hospital honors Oak Lawn Mayor

Christ Hospital and Medical Center, Oak Lawn, will honor Oak Lawn village president Ernest Kolb with the Outstanding Community Leader Award at its second annual "Salute to the Stars 1995," a fund raising gala, on Saturday, October 28, at the Four Seasons Hotel, Chicago.

The Outstanding Community Leader Award recognizes a community member who has served as a leader for the hospital. During his 30 years of service to Oak Lawn, first as village clerk and later as village president, Mayor Kolb has never lost sight of neither the community's nor the hospital's needs. For each expansion project at Christ Hospital, he has skillfully reconciled residential concerns with the those of a major medical center, He is also lending a hand to the new children's hospital by serving on an advisory council that oversees a volunteer committee charged with raising money toward Christ Hospital's $10 million philanthropic goal to offset construction costs.

Downtown path to be developed

By Rick Techman

The City of Chicago and the Chicago Park District will equally split $400,000 to develop two downtown bicycle paths from a more than $3.1 million dollar grant statewide awarded by Governor Jim Edgar to develop bicycle paths in 34 community projects.

The funded developments will provide expanded recreational opprtunities and important transportation links throughout Illinois.

The two Chicago sites are a proposed quarter mile section of bicycle trail along the scenic and heavily used riverwalk between the Chicago River and lower Wacker Drive and the realignment of a heavily used half mile portion of lakefront trail in Lincoln Park.

Another $200,000 grant will be used by the Cook County Forest Preserve District to construct a two mile section of bicycle trail within the Tinley Creek Bicycle Trail system, a significant regional greenway in southwest Cook County.

The city grant will be used to build a section of trail that will provide a vital link from the Chicago lakefront trail to the Chicago riverwalk.

The park district grant will resolve a serious safety problem by eliminating several 90 degree turns and mid street crossings.

Edgar said, "Bicycle paths are important not only for their recreational benefits, but also for the safer and convenient form of transportation they provide.

"Best of all," he continued, "they give families a healthful activity they can enjoy together."

More than 385 miles of trails have been funded since the inception of the bicycle path grant program six years ago. An avid bicyclist, Edgar championed the legislation establishing the grant program during his tenure as Secretary of State.

The grants are available to any local government having statutory authority to aquire and develop land for public recreation. Grants are funded from a percentage of motor vehicle title transfer fees and provide up to 50 percent of an approved project's total cost. Grants to develop projects are limited to $200,000.

Natural Resources Director Brent Manning said the agency, which administers the program, received 42 applications statewide requesting $3.9 million.

At many points along the Amazon, the river is too wide to see one shore from the other.

AAA gives free Halloween bookmark

Costumes, parties, trick-or-treating and lots of candy create great excitement for children at Halloween. To keep this fun and avoid hazardous situation, drivers and parents need to take special precautions, says AAA-Chicago Motor Club.

Visibility is frequently a problem both for motorist and children. It's hard for drivers to see children after dark, and many children wear costumes which can make them even more difficult to see. To make matters worse, the masks frequently worn by these trick-or-treaters can obstruct their vision so that they miss seeing oncoming cars.

Drivers should practice these precautions:

Parents should be sure their children can see clearly by encouraging them to wear makeup instead of a mask, or enlarging mask eye holes and emphasizing removal of masks before crossing the street. Younger trick-or-treaters should be accompanied by a parent or an older brother or sister.

Colorful Halloween bookmarks are available free for children from the AAA-Chicago Motor Club. To obtain one free bookmark, send a self-addressed, stamped, business-sized envelope to Free Halloween Bookmark, AAA-Chicago Motor Club, 999 E. Toughy, Des Plaines, IL 60018.

Sertoma offers OAE's

The Sertoma Speech & hearing Center in Palos Hills has announced that Otoacoustic Emission (OAE's) are now available to individuals and organizations throughout the Center's service area.

The latest, most up-to-date non-invasive screening tool in the field of audiology today, OAE's can be performed on newborns, infants, children and adults, providing information regarding the function of the inner ear in 98% to 100% of ears tested.

The test does not involve an electrode setup; a small probe tip is inserted into the ear canal. In just five minutes, the audiologist will have extensive, accurate information on how the inner ear is transmitting sounds in the frequencies of human speech. Implemented in hospitals nationwide as part of the Universal Newborn Hearing Screening Program, OAE's have helped identify many newborns with hearing loss who otherwise would not have been tested. These children might not have been diagnosed until much later in childhood when other communication difficulties emerged.

This extremely sensitive test has the potential to determine a mild sensorineural hearing loss as well as persistent conductive hearing loss.

For more information about this latest service, call the Sertoma Center at (708)599-9500.

FOOD FOR 'SECONDS'

KIDS GIVE AN A+ TO THESE LUNCH BOX TREATS

BANANA BROWNIE SMILES

1-1/2 cups firmly packed brown sugar
1 cup (2 sticks) margarine or butter, softned
1 cup mashed ripe bananas (about 3 medium)
2 eggs
2 tespoons vanilla
2-1/2 cups Quaker oats (quick or old fashioned, uncooked)
2 cups all-purpose flour
1/2 cup unsweetened cocoa powder
1 teaspoon baking soda
1/4 teaspoon salt (optional)
1 cup (6 oz.) semisweet chocolate pieces
1 cup chopped nuts (optional)
Decorating icing

Heat oven to 350°. Beat together sugar and margarine until creamy. Add mashed bananas, eggs and vanilla; beat well. Add combined oats, flour, cocoa powder, baking soda and salt; mix well.. Stir in chocolate pieces and, if desired, nuts; mix well. Drop by 1/4 measuring cupfuls onto ungreased cookie sheet. Bake 14 to 16 minutes or until cookies are set. (Do not overbake.) Cool 1 minute on cookie sheet; remove to wire rack. Cool completely. Make a smile on each cookie with purchased decorating icing. Store loosely covered. Makes 1-1/2 dozen.

PEANUT BUTTER 'N' JELLY MINI CAKES

3/4 cup peanut butter
1/2 cup firmly packed brown sugar
1/4 cup (1/2 stick) margarine or butter, softened
1/4 cup milk
1 egg
1 teaspoon vanilla
1-1/4 cups Quaker Oats (quick or old fashioned, uncooked)
2/3 cup all-purpose flour
1/2 teaspoon baking soda
1/8 teaspoon salt (optional)
1/3 cup fruit preserves, any flavor

Heat oven to 350°. Line 30 mini muffin pan cups with paper baking cups. Beat together peanut butter, brown sugar and margarine until creamy. Add milk, egg and vanilla; beat well. Add combined oats, flour, baking soda and salt; mix well. Press rounded teaspoonfuls of dough into each muffin cup. Make shallow indentation in center of dough; fill with 1/2 teaspoon preserves. Bake 14 to 16 minutes or until edges are light golden brown. Cool 5 minutes in pan; remove to wire rack. Cool completely. Store tightly covered. About 2 1/2 dozen.

For bar cookies: Press dough evenly onto bottom of ungreased 13 x 9 inch baking pan. Make 30 evenly spaced shallow indentations (5 across and 6 down) in dough. Fill each indentation with 1/2 teaspoon preserves. Bake 18 to 20 minutes or until edges are light golden brown. Cool completely on wire rack. Cut into bars. Store tightly covered. Makes 30 bars.

Midwestern Country Cooking

This recipe calls for a stew which is a one-pot meal. It has all the vitamins, minerals and nutrients for a zestful and healthy diet. It is practically without fat or salt. You can serve many people with this stew or freeze it many dinners in the future.

BEEF-VEGETABLE STEW
(6 to 8 servings)

2-2 1/2 lbs. boneless beef chuck
2 tbs. canola oil
3 tbs. flour
3 stalks celery, diced
1 small green pepper, diced
2 medium onions, diced
2 cloves garlic, minced
1 qt. water
1/4 tsp. instant bouillon
1 tsp. Worchestershire sauce
1 bay leaf
1/4 tsp. fresh ground black pepper
1/8 tsp. ground allspice
1/4 tsp. basil
1 Tbs. sugar
1 tsp. dry parsley
4 medium carrots, 1/4 inch slices
4 medium potatoes, cubed
1/4 medium head cabbage, cubed
2 Tbs. corn starch
1 Tbs. salt (optional)
1/4 cup dry red wine (optional)

Cut beef chuck into 1" cubes. Coat cubes in with flour. Brown meat in oil in 4 1/2 Dutch oven. Add onion, celery, garlic, green pepper and cook till softened. Add water, Worchestershire sauce, bouillon dissolved in one cup of hot water, bay leaf, parsley, pepper, sugar, allspice, wine and basil. Bring to a boil. Reduce heat, cover and simmer for 1 1/2 hours.

Add carrots, potatoes and cabbage. Cover and cook for one hour or till vegetables are tender.

Mix cornstarch in one cup of cold water. Add to pot. Stir till thickened.

Amish tranquility rubs off on Passerby

By Anita Anderson

Some think that the Amish people have found their own special niche in the fast-moving planets of the universe. You don't have to drive too far to see for yourself.

It was a glorious fall day just before the foliage bursts forth with color, preceding winter's chill. We hit the Indiana toll road I 80 -90 exiting off 72, south on 31 and then east to Nappanee exit S. R. 19 on our way to visit Amish Acres in Nappanee, Indiana, home to a few hundred Amish families.

Our drive was less than two hours and perfect for a weekend as we headed for the Inn at Amish Acres. Downtown Nappanee is listed on the National Register of Historic Places and as we drove up with an Amish couple up front going about their errands in no particular hurry, we could see why Nappanee was unique.

Our Inn was located about one mile from the 80 acre site of Amish Acres, the result of a dream of preserving the land by LaVern Pletcher, a Nappanee furniture retailer who bought the land with three other businessmen at an auction. Their goal was to present and preserve Amish life and culture and to show the independent, self-sustaining spirit of Amish people.

Originally owned by an Amish farmer, the farm can be seen in a couple of hours. A guide will take you through the main farmhouse and the smaller, grandparent's house. After that you can wander on your own through the blacksmith shop, wagon shed, ice house, or broom shop that are situated around the lake, Chores are still done as they were in the 1800's. The wood-burning ovens can still be used for baked goods.

The guides were full of stories. The Amish hold their Sunday services at each others homes and they can last several hours. I got the impression that the services were a religious ritual that also gave the Amish a chance to see each other and catch up on the news.

The acreage has country charm from the circular barn restaurant and its country shops and quilt displays and the hearty family style food to the horse drawn buggy rides that are offered and a large pond populated by local birds and Canadian geese.

A typical day tour might include a 15 minute film describing the Amish life in the reception entrance of the farm followed by a house and farm walking tour and buggy ride around the back roads of the 80 acres. Later, enjoy the multi-course country style Thresher's dinner followed by an evening at the on premises Round Barn Theater to see the Amish musical "Plain and Fancy." This is the eighth year of its production. Jerry O'Boyle of Chicago has been artistic director for the past eight years and he and his actors which number about a dozen live in a home on the farm property.

The best way to enjoy Amish Acres is to purchase the PassPort Ticket. Adults pay $23.00 and this includes the guided farm tour, horse and buggy ride, Thresher Dinner and $4.00 off on the "Plain and Fancy" and additional discounts on the countryside tour and breakfast buffet.

For information on lodging, or theater call 1-800-800-4942. Amish acres is open from March through December. We observed many young couples with children.

Following is an Amish recipe for Shoo-Fly-Pie.

So named because the pies are so sweet that when they are finished baking and set out to cool, the Amish ladies must "shoo" the flies away.

Traditional Shoo-Fly-Pie

1 cup water
3/4 cup dark corn syrup
1 tbls. molasses
1 large egg
1 cup white sugar
1/3 cup flour
1 - 9" pie shell

Mix water, dark corn syrup, molasses and egg in a sauce pan; stir well, turn on low heat. Measure sugar and flour; sift together. Once liquid mixture is boiling add dry ingredients, stirring constantly until thickened. Carefully fill pie shell and let cool. Makes 1 pie.

Apple Bread Pudding

5 loaves of bread
6 apples
12 cups of milk
2 1/2 cups sugar
12 eggs
1 Tbl. vanilla
1 tsp. nutmeg

Quantity produced: 3- 10" cakes, 36 pieces.

Remove crust from bread and cut into cubes. Chop apples and add to bread. Scald milk and temper with eggs, sugar and vanilla. Add to bread. Portion into 10" cake pans with buttered sides. Sprinkle with nutmeg. Bake at 350° for approximately one hour in a water bath. Chill.

SAUSAGE,PEPPERS & ONION SKILLET DINNER
(Total preparation and cooking time: 30 mins.)

12 ozs. fully cooked beef Polish sausage or beef knockwurst links
1 tbs. vegetable oil
2 large green or red bell peppers, cut lengthwise into 1/2 inch thick wedges
1 medium Spanish onion, cut crosswise into 1/2 inch thick slices, separated into rings
1 large clove garlic, crushed
1/4 cup water
1/4 cup dry white wine (optional)
3/4 tsp. dried thyme leaves

1. In large nonstick skillet, heat oil over medium heat until hot. Add bell peppers, onion and garlic; cook 8 to 10 minutes or until crisp-tender, stirring occasionally.

2. Add beef sausage, water, wine, if desired, and thyme to skillet. Cover; continue cooking 10 to 12 minutes or until vegetables are tender. Makes 4 servings.

Designer apples are here

By Anita Anderson

Soon, apple lovers may be biting into Mutso apples from Japan a late blooming yellow fruit, or maybe a Fugi apple, large, pinkish apple which keeps well.

The Doud orchard in Denver, Indiana is seeking apple varieties to extend apple season according to Lorne Doud, father of Steve Doud, owner and horticulturist of the orchard. Steve spoke of Mitey Nice Grill in Chicago recently about the types of apples his orchard grows.

Lorne Doud said Gala apples from New Zealand keep until the end of August and the William Red, a large apple picked in July has the right amounts of balance of acid and sugar to make it taste right. For apple enthusiasts, William Red may be worth a bite.

The Douds raise 50 apple varieties and continually search for new apples which will extend the traditional apple season as we in the Midwest know as fall.

The Douds do a very good mail order business with their apples. The elder Doud said the golden delicious is very popular this year. The apple orchard has been in business since 1894 and have been producing antique varieties such as the golden russet which dates back to the 18th Century England to the snow apple which was enjoyed in 1730 at Lake Champlain, Canada.

Some antique apples can be picked as late as November 10.

"Antique apples raised at the Doud Orchard includes the Jefferis, dating back to 1848. The apple is medium-sweet, juicy, creamy flesh, and good for the late summer season. The Snow Apple or Fameuse came from St. Edmunds, England in 1870 and is sweet, aromatic with vivid white flesh.

The Black Guilliflower or Sheepnose apple had its origin in this country in the 18th Century and is mild, rather dry, greenish flesh with a unique shape and purple color.

The Lady Apple dates back to Ancient Rome and is mild, very small and attractive and has crisp, juicy white flesh. Lady is picked as late as November 10.

Then there are apples called Chenango or strawberry, which were munched in 1850 in Chenango County, New York. They are mild-sweet, very tender with a unique shape and are quite perishable.

When you bite into a plain old delicious apple, remember the "upstart" antique varieties.

Red Hot Chili Peppers
One Hot Minute
(Warner Bros.)

by Kevin Bastian

Finally! After enduring a greatest hits album ("What Hits?!") and rarities album ("Out in L.A.") since their last studio album in 1991 ("Blood Sugar Sex Magik"), the Chili Peppers have finally settled on a guitarist (ex-Jane's Addiction member Dave Navarro) and recorded "One Hot Minute." The new album is the same old, same old; containing all of what you'd expect from the Peppers - funky grooves, mellow grooves, great bass grooves (courtesy of Flea) and some sexually offensive lyrics. Navarro fits in perfectly and is the center of attention on "One Hot Minute." He picks up right where John Frusciante left off. The first single, "Warped," starts the album off with a bang, but is never matched in intensity by any other song. Mostly mediocre songs fill the rest of the album such as the swear fest, "Pea," and the depressing, "Tearjerker," in which Anthony Keidis sings "Guess now you know/I love you so." Very un-Pepper-like. Highlights include "One Big Mob," "Walkabout" and "Shallow be thy Game." "One Hot Minute" deserves a listen, but I suggest you wait and buy it used. The Peppers should have spent more time with Navarro or something to improve their tightness, and the album.

Singin' in the Rain at Pheasant Run

by Annette Dixon

For Southsiders who enjoyed the play at the Candlelight Theatre have a surprise of their life. This play is worth seeing again! Pheasant Run's production gives the play a theatrical setting and preformance no other play of the same nature can compare!

Many lines of Joe Garbe (Don Lookwood) match the quickness of his tapping feet! Mr. Garbe brings a freshness, not an extravaganza to the production. Mr. Garbe was most recently seen as "Big Bill Thompson in Chicago's Gangstertown Revue.

Director Diana L. Martinez has taken on a heavy load, rain that is ... she believes just as in the 1952 movie, dancing can take place in the rain!

Dinner theatre tickets start at $38; show only tickets start at $20. For tickets call (708)584-MEGA of Ticketmaster at (312)559-1212.

Bivouac
Full Size Boy
(DGC Records)

Following three EP's, a slew of singles and a full-length album on England's Elemental label, West Yorkshire's Bivouac has released "Full Size Boy," their DGC Records debut. Excited, loud guitars dominate the album and are its stronghold, especially on "Not Going Back There Again," a potential first single. Bivouac's sound is similar to that of Sunny Day Real Estate and Skiploader, but Bivouac tend to be a bit on the harder side. Examples of this observation are the songs "Familiar," "Mattress" and "Mainbrake," a pummeling breath-taker of a song. "Monkey Sanctuary (Cynic)" is a break from the norm with its Stone Roses/ Jesus & Mary Chain mellowness weaving in and out of the guitars. Paul Yeadon is a great guitarist, songwriter and vocalist who is the key to Bivouac's sound and success. His voice ranges from a normal American chat to a raspy, punk shout to a European slur and his lyrics are, at times, quite poetic in a prose form. Keith York's drumming is also a vital part of Bivouac's crisp sound. His tight drumming (reminiscent of Helmet) keeps your foot tapping throughout the album. "Full Size Boy" is a great major label debut for Bivouac, a great chance for them to get airplay and recognition and a poitive glimpse of their future.

Trout season opens October 21st

Anglers at 34 locations throughout Illinois will be able to fish for rainbow trout beginning October 21, as the Department of Natural Resources' fall catchable trout program gets underway.

The trout season is closed for three weeks beginning October 1 while the Department stocks the fish in the 33 lakes and one canal. Anglers are prohibited from taking trout at any of the 34 catchable trout program areas from October 1 until the program's legal opening at 5 a.m. on October 21.

Natural Resources Director Brent Manning said, "The catchable trout program is very popular across the state among anglers of all levels, from the youngster fishing for the first time, to the experienced fisherman.

"The program," he continued, "was restored in 1994 through the Fish Illinois Initiative, which enhanced fisheries programs."

More than 74,000 rainbow trout will be stocked in the weeks prior to opening. Each trout weighs about a half pound and is 10 to 11 inches in length. Anglers are limited to taking five rainbow trout per day.

To legally take trout from any of the catchable trout fishing areas, anglers must have a fishing license and an inland trout stamp, unless they are under 16 years old, blind or disabled or Illinois residents on leave from the Armed Forces.

A $6 inland trout stamp is required for anglers fishing for trout in waters other than Lake Michigan.

A Lake Michigan Salmon Stamp, also $6, is required for anglers fishing for salmon and trout from Lake Michigan. An agent's fee of 50 cents is also collected at the time each stamp is sold.

Fishing licenses and inland trout stamps are available at sporting goods stores and other vendors located near the catchable trout fishing sites, at the Department's Springfield and Chicago offices and any of the Department's five regional offices.

Immigration bills tighten security at border

U.S. Representative William O. Lipinski (D-3), signed on as a sponsor of two bills designed to put U.S. national interests first in formulating immigration policy and eliminate incentives for illegal immigrants to come to the United States. The Immigration in the National Interest Act of 1995 seeks to restructure immigration policy by setting down guidelines that promote the national interest in admitting legal immigrants. The bill calls for favoring immigrants with education and skills, as well as nuclear families, for entry into the U.S. It also includes provisions for tighter security at our borders and puts strict prohibitions on allowing members of terrorist organizations into the country.

"These bills," Lipinski said, "attack the immigration from both ends, by preventing those who don't have anything to contribute to our society from trying to enter the U.S. legally or illegally."

He also said, "It is still too easy for terrorists to get into this country by claiming political asylum. True victims of persecution don't attempt to blow up skyscrapers in their host country," he continued.

"The immigration act of 1986," Lipinski concluded, "underscored the need to eliminate the job magnet and make it illegal to hire undocumented workers. Unfortunately, this law has been largely ignored as the Immigration and Naturalization Service does not have the resources to do its job."

A spokesman from Lipinski's office said the "Eliminating the Magnet for Illegal Immigration Act" goes after the incentives that attract illegal aliens to this country.

He added the bill beefs up resources for the INS and the Department of Labor to aggressively enforce employer sanctions and wage and hour laws and target those industries notorious for hiring undocumented workers.

In addition the measure would double penalties for violators, but also reduces the number of documents workers can use to verify their eligibility and provides programs to educate employers about their responsibilities.

The bill also cracks down on the manufactures of fraudulent documents and stiffens the penalties for immigration related discrimination the spokesman said.

Oak Lawn Chamber member stops attack

COMMERCE IS MOVING (OAK LAWN)

As of October 1, the Oak Lawn Chamber of Commerce office will be located at 5314 West 95th Street. The Commerce needed to be in a more central location and this seemed to be the answer. The Village of Oak Lawn has been very instrumental in helping obtain the space for the move. The phone number will resume 424-8300. The fax number will be announced.

OAKLAWNCHAMBER MEMBER STOPS ATTACK

Dr. Michael Byrnes, long-time Chamber of Commerce member and podiatrist at the Ridgeland Foot Clinic stopped an attack in progress at the Clark Gas Station on Friday, September 1, 1995, at 11:45 p.m.

Dr. Byrnes, who is known for his late evening hours saw a man beating and attacking a female attendant next door to his office . He jumped out of his car and over the guard rail at which time the suspect stopped beating the girl and fled on foot. Dr. Byrnes, an avid runner and co-founder of the Rice Run 5K had no problem chasing the suspect for four blocks at which time the suspect surrendered to him. Dr. Byrnes walked him back to the gas station where police were first arriving on the scene. The suspect was then arrested.

"Get the word out that the business owners are looking out for criminal activity and that this type of behavior will not be tolerated by any Oak Lawn Chamber of Commerce member," according to Dr. Byrnes.

The Oak Lawn Chamber recognized Dr. Byrnes with a special plaque for his heroic efforts at the recent membership breakfast on September 12.

CHRISTMAS PARADE

The Oak Lawn Christmas Parade will kick off at 1:30 p.m. on Sunday, November 19th. The Chamber of Commerce, in partnership with the Oak Lawn Park District and the Village of Oak Lawn look forward to staging a wonderful event to welcome in the Holiday season, and of course, Santa Claus.

All businesses, service and civic organizations are encouraged to participate. Float rentals will be availabe at a cost of $400. Contact the Chamber office for details at 424-8300.

BONANZA RAFFLE

The Chamber of Commerce sponsors an annual fund raiser which began five years ago and is continuing for 1996. The concept gives participants 48 chances to win prizes through four drawings each month.

Chamber members can pick up or request by phone, books of raffle tickets, each containing ten tickets at $10 a piece. All tickets are put in the raffle drum every month. Four lucky tickets are drawn for cash monthly, one for $100, one for $50 and two for $25 each. Winner need not be present to win.

If you are interested in participating, contact the Chamber office by calling 424-8300.

OAK LAWN CHILDREN'S HOSPITAL

Christ Hospital and Medical Center's "Salute to the Stars" 1995, Fall Gala, will be honoring Dr. Henry Evenhouse, OB/Gyn, and Mayor Ernest Kolb on Saturday, October 28, in the Grand Ballroom at the Four Seasons Hotel, 120 East Delaware Place, Chicago. This is a black tie event, 6:30 p.m. for cocktails and silent auction, 8:00 p.m. for dinner. Cost is $150 with valet parking available.

All procedes will benefit the new Pediatric Division of Christ Hospital. This will be a four-story building (112,000 sq. ft.), a free standing children's hospital. It is scheduled to open in the fall of 1996.

Let's support and honor our Mayor for all his efforts and Christ Hospital by attending this important event. Call 425-0500 if interested.

Brother Rice named Merit Semifinalist

Brother Rice High School senior Roland Schlosser of Oak Lawn has been named a semifinalist in the 1996 National Merit Scholarship program. Schlosser is one of 15,000 high school seniors chosen nationwide who will vie for approximately 6,900 scholarships worth about $26 million to be awarded next spring.

Schlosser is ranked fourth in his class out of 276 students and has a grade point average of 4.7 on a 4.0 scale weighted to give more credit to Honors courses. He qualified for the program based on results of the 1994 Preliminary SAT-National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test. That test was taken by more than 1 million juniors in more than 19,000 U.S. high schools. The highest scorers in each state were then designated as semifinalists.

SEPARATING? DIVORCING?

Your Divorce Lawyer Doesn't Want You To Read This Report

The average person is rarely placed in greater jeopardy-emotionally, financially, and legally than when going through a divorce. The reality of divorce courts is that most litigants leave the courtroom feeling as if they have just been hit by a truck! Even the apparent winner rarely feels good with the outcome.

Divorce Law attempts to [illegible] the most painful of adult choices into a legal framework. [illegible]ople expect their lawyers to be confessors or even to provide [illegible]hological counseling. Others never give their lawyers a chance, regarding them as the enemy when they attempt to compromise with the other side. There are clients who are in such a hurry to conclude their divorce that they waive anything and everything to which they might have a claim.

If you want to avoid the horror stories; if your goal in divorce is a level of self-control, decorum, and reasonableness; if you appreciate your marriage is ending but your parenting will continue; if you don't want to go broke paying legal fees, then call 1-800-294-7311 for the free report.

You do have choices! You can avoid the costly trap of litigation and the problems associated with it! You can take control of your divorce!

It Could Have Been

It's strange
How one discovers love.
Like a dark prowler
Jumping into the light
To startle his victim.

Love hits you
Out of the blue.
The one you used to know,
The one you once embraced,

Never realizing just how much,
Never taking the time.
Had it so good once,
But lost your chance.
Can't chase time backwards.

Now noticing the smallest things;
A beautiful sunset,
Couples lost in love.
Trying ever so hard
To erase this emptiness.

It's strange
That once you've discovered love,
The focus of your desire
It's no longer yours;
Gone forever.

Forever in your heart;
Forever in your thoughts.
Marriage - Children - Old Age
To the last detail,
It could have been.

Village of Oak Lawn seeks Attorney General's office to investigate gouging tax levy

by Frank Soczek

Seven Oak Lawn Fire Dept. officers received promotions at the commencement of the Village Board meeting. Fire Lieutenant Thomas Carey was promoted to the rank of Fire Captain; Fire Engineers David Gudyka and Richard Reno were promoted to the rank of Fire Lieutenant and Firefighters Gary Brockman, Lorraine Hurt, Michael Jensen and Gregory Neal were promoted to the rank of Fire Engineer.

Mayor Kolb opened eight bids solicited for the sale of used Oak Lawn police vehicles and the purchase of new 1996 Ford Crown Victoria cruisers. Offers for eleven 1995 squad cars with 38k miles or less ranged from $10,000 per vehicle (Steel City Ford, Gary, Indiana) to $13,255 (Rami Auto, Ny.)

Two dealerships offered bids on new 1996 models ranging from $19,000 (O'Connor Ford, Evergreen Park) to $19,478 (Steel City Ford, Gary, In.)

New Business:

Trustee Wm. Keane announced the new green recycling bins have been delivered and pick-up for mixed paper products will begin the week of October 30. He also stated the solid waste committee is working on a permanent drop-off location for those residents living in multi-family residences that are currently not included in the Village-sponsored recycling program. Keane also announced representatives from Waste Management created a video detailing the most commonly asked questions concerning the recycling program. This program is scheduled to be broadcast on the local cable network for several weeks.

Suggesting what he described as "proactive action," Trustee Keane urged a discussion at the next Legal and Ordinance committee to address "problems presently existing in Bridgeview and Lansing, concerning basically, 'strip joints.' " Keane averred to the "difficulties" the latter municipalities were experiencing and sought to avoid similar sources of discord in Oak Lawn.

Concluding his presentation, Keane gave a brief synopsis of the twisted logic and paranoia driven methodology frequently attributed to the late Senator Joseph McCarthy. He then proceeded to draw similar parallels to his fellow trustee, Robert Streit.

Trustee Ron Stancik discussed a plan to dredge and renovate Oak Lawn Lake, as espoused by the environmental task force and the environmental concerns committee.

Stancik requested $2000. to spend on a "preliminary study" to look at Oak Lawn Lake. Mayor Kolb commented "There has to be a system to trap the sediment that comes into the creek that runs behind the Village Hall, coming from Pulaski and runs by Christ Hospital and goes into the lake."

Trustee Cy Holesha asked "What did the first study cost? It was so extensive..." Stancik replied "The engineering study was $5000...It's an engineering study. Many people in the environmental task force feel that there are other alternatives, more natural alternatives for dealing with that particular problem." The motion by Mr. Stancik was passed.

Given the charges and unkind words previously addressed to Mr. Streit by Wm. Keane, the former apologized in advance for the response which he felt was necessary to clear up any misunderstandings.

Mr. Streit noted that Wm. Keane's charge that he (Streit) should be investigated for "attempting to have a police report altered" was acknowledged to be untrue. Streit took offense to the fact that his failure to "amend" the police reports on the Stefanos matter should be construed as an assumption the reports were correct.

Responding to the charge that the tax levy increases by the Village of Oak Lawn were not in excess of the five percent figure that would require a public hearing, Robt. Streit presented the following statistics, which he assured were assessed to Oak Lawn taxpayers:

1994 levy: $7,289,610

Noon concerts performed at St. Xavier

The Saint Xavier University Music Department will present the third of its Fall "Xavier Classics at Noon" concert series at noon on Friday, November 10, in the University's McGuire Hall on the main campus, 3700 W. 103rd Street in Chicago. The concert will feature faculty artist Tina Laughlin on Percussion, Jon Johnson on Percussion, and Diana Parmeter on Cello. The "Xavier Classics" concerts are free of charge and open to the public.

Reserved parking for the "Xavier Classics" series is available in front of McGuire Hall for senior citizens. Other "Xavier Classics" programs scheduled for the fall include "Christmas Around the World", a concert performed by the University's chamber singers on December 8.

For further information, or reserved seating for large groups, please call the Music Department of Saint Xavier University at (312)298-3421.

"If you subtract those two, that's an increase of 8 percent any way you slice it." Streit remarked. "The 1995 levy at $7,845,815. amounts to a 7.6 percent increase...that's without a public hearing."

Trustee Keane immediately challenged Mr. Streit to produce his documentation.

Upon tendering the requisite information to Mr. Keane, the latter crumpled up the sheet of paper and threw it at Mr. Streit.

Following the above exchange, Trustee Walsh recommended the Attorney General review Mr. Streit's charge that the levy was in excess of 5 percent and therefore subject to a public hearing, "So that it can be put to rest once and for all."

The board unanimously approved the measure.

Mr. Walsh remarked that the members of the condominium board adjacent the proposed Burger King had reconsidered their previous opposition and wished to express their qualified approval of the project.

Walsh read a letter from the Heritage Condo Association stating that at their annual meeting, "a vote took place of 24 to 6, in favor of withdrawing our objections to Burger King."

After accepting the revised plans proffered by Burger King and intended as a good faith concession to the irate condo owners, several residents from the surrounding area expressed disapproval at what they felt was a "betrayal" by the condo board.

Sensing the obvious discontentment, Trustee Joy requested a delay in voting until a meeting could take place with the dissenting faction.

Ultimately, her request was denied and the board approved the Burger King development by a 4-2 vote, with R. Streit and M. Joy objecting.

Consent Agenda:

A request for rezoning from R-1 (single family) to PK (parking) at 9514 S. Marion Ave. (Schlenker medical bldg.) was approved by a 5-1 vote, with Robt. Streit opposing. Mr. Streit felt a brick wall surrounding the parking lot would be more conducive to the aesthetics of the neighborhood; the petitioner, Ms. Schlenker explained that the later plan would diminish the number of available parking spaces.

Requests for resubdivisions at 4929 W. 105th Place and 4832 W. 105th Place were approved by the board.

Traffic Review Committee:

The following requests were approved by the board:
"Residential Parking Only" on the North and South sides of 107th St, between Kenton and Kolmar from 10 am to 2 pm, excluding Saturdays, Sundays and Holidays;
"No Parking, 7am-3:30pm" on the North and South sides of 99th Place, between Keeler and Kostner, excluding Saturdays, Sundays and Holidays;
"Diagonal" parking on the east sides of Knox and Kilpatrick between 103rd St. and the alley to the south and
"No Turn On Red" sign for southwest bound traffic on Southwest Highway at 95th St.

Village Manager's Report:

A request for a community service officer, a computer operator and an administrative secretary was approved by the board.

A recommendation to waive bidding procedures and award a contract to Action Wrecking Company for the demolition of the Village Hall building was approved by a 4-2 vote, with Streit and Joy opposing. The board ignored repeated requests for "fair and open bidding" prior to their approval.

A petition for a diagonal, on street parking reconfiguration on the east side of LaCrosse Avenue, south of 95th St. was approved by the board.

Anthony Calderone of Palermo's Pizza requested the modification following a loss of parking mandated by an Illinois Dept. of Transportation action.

An ordinance authorizing the issuance of 1.4 million dollars in general obligation corporate purpose bonds to be used for the construction of the new "village green" was approved by a 5-1 vote, with R. Streit opposing.

Requests by Red Lobster, 95th and Southwest Hwy. and Killian's Pub, 4642 W. 103rd St. for liquor licenses were approved by the board.

Chicago Chef shares chicken recipe

The Dining Room at the Ritz-Carlton in Chicago is highly regarded as one of that city's finest restaurants and its chef, 31 year old Sarah Stegner, is considered one of the country's top female chefs.

Named "1994 Rising Star Chef of the Year" by the James Beard Foundation and "One of America's Top 10 Rising Star Chefs" by Esquire magazine, she bases her cuisine on classic French but relies on a secret ingredient -- "a dash of surprise" -- to create innovative dishes that have placed her among the nation's culinary elite.

The National Broiler Council asked Chef Stegner for two of her favorite chicken recipes which could be easily duplicated by the home cook.

Molasses and Honey Marinated Chicken Breast is typical of the imaginative blending of flavors which have become her signature. The combination of molasses and honey create a tangy, mahogany-colored sauce that enhances chicken quarters.

MOLASSES AND HONEY MARINATED CHICKEN BREAST

4 large boneless, skinless chicken breast halves
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon freshly ground pepper
3/4 cup whiskey
2 tablespoons grained mustard
2 tablespoons molasses
2 tablespoons honey
1 lime, juiced
2 tablespoons olive oil
1 cup chicken stock
1/4 cup butter

Sprinkle chicken with salt and pepper. To make marinade, in small saucepan place whiskey; boil over medium heat about 5 minutes, reducing liquid by half (all alcohol will evaporate). Remove from heat and add mustard, molasses, honey and lime juice. Stir to mix well; remove half of marinade and reserve. In remaining half of marinade, place chicken and marinate in refrigerator for at least 1 hour or overnight, if desired. In large frypan, place oil over medium heat. Add chicken and cook, turning once, about 10 minutes or until fork can be inserted with ease. Remove chicken from frypan and keep warm. To frypan, add chicken stock and cook to reduce by two-thirds. Add reserved marinade and butter; simmer, stirring, until butter melts. Pour over chicken. Makes 4 servings.

CHICKEN IN A POT

4 chicken quarters, skinned
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon freshly ground pepper
3 tablespoons olive oil
2 medium portobello mushrooms
10 purple pearl onion, peeled
4 cloves garlic, minced
4 cups chicken stock
1 bunch fresh thyme, tied together
1 butternut squash, peeled, seeded and diced
1 ear corn
20 leaves cilantro,

Sprinkle chicken with salt and pepper. In Dutch oven or large saucepan, place oil and heat over medium heat. Add chicken and cook about 10 minutes, turning to brown on all sides. Prepare mushrooms by removing and discarding the dark underside; dice top of mushrooms into bite-size cubes. Add mushrooms, onions and garlic to chicken in saucepan; saute'' about 20 minutes, or until fork can be inserted in chicken with ease. Skim any fat from liquid; remove and discard thyme. Scrape kernels from ear of corn and add to saucepan; simmer 1 minute. Add cilantro. Makes 4 servings.

Honey Marinated Chicken Breast

SAN DIEGO DINNER

2 teaspoons vegetable oil
3/4 to 1 pound skinless chicken breast, seasoned as desired (salt, pepper, chili powder, garlic salt, etc.)
1 medium (2 cups) zucchini, sliced 1/8"
2 cups hot cooked couscous*
3/4 cup shredded taco-flavored light cheese or taco-flavored cheese
1 cup thick and chunky salsa, heated
3/4 cup sour cream (regular, light or no-fat)

In 10 inch non-stick skillet heat oil; add chicken. Cook over medium high heat, turning occasionally, until browned and fork tender (10 to 12 minutes). Remove chicken from skillet. Cut chicken into 1/2 inch strips; keep warm.

In same skillet place zucchini. Cook over medium heat, stirring occasionally, until crispy tender (2 to 3 minutes). To serve, spoon hot couscous onto large serving platter. Drizzle with 1/2 cup salsa. Top with chicken and zucchini; sprinkle with cheese. Drizzle with remaining salsa; dollop with sour cream. 4 servings

The world fare is on the menu

You won't believe your good fortune when you create a Chinese beef favorite for the entire family in just 30 minutes.

Moo Shu Beef is a snap when you stir-fry strips of marinated beef, then simply combine it with shredded cabbage and carrots, prepackaged for coleslaw, and green onions. Flour tortillas and hoisin sauce put a wrap on this satisfying meal.

Moo Shu Beef

Marinade:
2 tbs. soy sauce
2 tbs. water
1 tbs. dark sesame oil
2 cloves garlic, crushed
2 tsp. sugar

(Total preparation and cooking time 30 min.)

1 lb. boneless beef top sirloin steak, cut 3/4 inch thick
3 cups packages coleslaw mix
2/3 cup sliced green onions
1 tbs. cornstarch, dissolved in 1/4 cup water
8 flour tortillas (6 inch diameter), warmed
1/3 cup hoisin sauce

1. Trim fat from beef steak. Cut steak lengthwise in half and then cross wise into thin strips. Stack 3 to 4 strips; cut lengthwise in half to form thinner strips.
2. In medium bowl, combine marinade ingredients; add beef, tossing to coat. Cover and marinate in refrigerator 20 minutes.
3. Removed beef from marinade; discard marinade. Heat large nonstick skillet over medium-high heat until hot. Add beef (1/2 at a time) and stir-fry 1 to 2 minutes or until outside surface is no longer pick. (Do not overcook.) Add coleslaw mix, green onions and cornstarch mixture. Cook and stir until sauce is thickened and bubbly.
4. To assemble, spread one side of each tortilla with 2 teaspoons hoisin sauce. Spoon about 1/2 cut beef mixture in center of each tortilla. Fold bottom edge up over filling. Fold right and left sides to center, overlapping edges.

St. Laurence holds Open House

St. Laurence High School will hold its annual Open House for 7th and 8th grade boys and their parents on Thursday, November 9th. The Open House will last from 5:00 p.m. until 9:00 p.m. One-hour tours will begin at 5:00, 5:30, 6:00, 6:30, 7:00, 7:30 and 8:00. The school is located at 77th Street and Central Avenue, Burbank. All 7th and 8th grade boys and their parents are invited to attend.

Tours of the school will begin with a performance by the award-winning St. Laurence Marching Gold 100 Band. All tours will feature the state-of-the-art computer lab, Computer Graphics Center, and the Learning Resource Center. Demonstrations by St. Laurence students in the Biology, Chemistry, Physics, and Physical Science labs will enhance the evening.

Stops on the tour will also include presentations by St. Laurence students in the newly-renovated school library, chapel, and activities office. The gymnasium will also be a focal point on all tours. Guidance counselors will also be on hand to explain their varied roles. In addition, all of St. Laurence's individual academic programs will be highlighted. Teachers from each department will be available to answer questions regarding not only St. Laurence's honors, college prep and PLUS programs, but also questions regarding each specific academic area.

All tours will be guided by a St. Laurence student acting as a tour guide. A St. Laurence faculty member will also walk on each tour to help the guides answer questions.

Following the tours, refreshments will be served in the cafeteria where each athletic program and activity will have tables manned with student - atheletes and coaches providing information on their programs. Coaches and activity moderators will be on hand to give more information and answer questions. Transportation and financial aid information will also be available.

"Our Open House gives all elementary school students and their parents a unique look at all of the benefits St. Laurence High School students receive throughout the four years that they attend," remarked Mr. Thomas Kurzawski, Director of Admissions.

"Our students become very involved with the evening, and as a result, are able to communicate to the prospective St. Laurence students all that St. Laurence has to offer in terms of academics, athletics, facilities and activities," concluded Kurzawski.

More information is available by calling Kurzawski during regular school hours. The phone number is (708)458-6900.

ST. FABIAN WOMEN'S CLUB HOLDS ARTS & CRAFT FAIR

The St. Fabian Women's Club invites all to its annual Arts & Craft Fair Saturday, November 11, from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. The Fair will be held in St. Fabian's Social Center and classrooms, located 83rd & Oketo in Bridgeview. Over 75 crafters will be displaying and selling their crafts for your shopping convenience. The Grand Raffle will feature a 1st prize of a trip to Las Vegas, a girls bike, $100 Savings Bond, cordless phone, plus many other attractive and interesting items. Admission to this event is one non-perishable food item for the St. Vincent dePaul Pantry.

Letter to the editor

To those concerned about the Medicare cuts and their possible effect on the long term care resident, take heart. There is a tremendous amount of competition in the industry. More and more facilities are opening (including hospital extended care units) in anticipation of a growing need for nursing home services. We are also competing with a variety of alternative servces such as home health care, adult day care, assisted living units and retirement centers. What does this competition in the long term care industry mean to the consumer? Competition means choice. The consumer in need of long term care can shop and not settle for less than the best. A well-informed consumer will be able to make an intelligent choice when it comes to choosing appropriate care for a loved one.

Administrators know the bottom line. If a facility is not providing the appropriate care, services and a safe enviroment, the consumer will choose another home. Empty beds will close a facility or force it to conform to the needs of the shopper.

Medicare cuts may affect the policing of nursing homes, but in the long run, the consumer determines whether to buy a Ford or a DeSoto.

Gerald 6th grade work on display

The students work included two murals and video made of their habitat preservation research. The students tested the water at Stoney Creek during the 1994/1995 school year. They also interviewed a woman scientist. Ms. Kelly Treese of the Forest Preserve District of Cook County about her work to preserve habitat. Ms. Treese is the volunteer coordinator of the Conservation Department, Land Management office of the county. The project submitted in the spring by these students incorporates research with writing and personal art expression. As a winning entry their murals and video will be on display in a student gallery at the Orlando Science Center beginning Sept. 18. The Seek Out Science contest's goal was to give students a close look at the rewards and challenges of a scientific career and was supported by the National Science Foundation and WGBH in Boston which produced the Discovering Women Science Programs.

Brother Rice holds 40th Anniversary

Parents of prospective Brother Rice High School students browse through one of the school's 40th Anniversary Open House Sunday, Nov. 5th from 11 a.m. - 1 p.m. Visitors will tour the school, located at 10001 S. Pulaski Road, Chicago, meet teachers and administrators, observe science and computer labs in session, view various student exhibits and listen to the award-winning Marching Crusader Band. Parents will also receive important information regarding curriculum from department heads.

Visitors will have an opportunity to see the many facilities that have been added to Brother Rice since its opening in 1956, including the olympic-size swimming pool, the largest and most resourceful high school library in the area which is being completely computerized this year, the second gymnasium and weight room, Joe Johnston Field, and all three of the school's computer labs, including the AT&T Writer's Workbench, the Cainkar Computer Center and the Keyboarding Lab.

Faculty members, along with students and alumni, will conduct tours in small groups so that all questions can be answered. Faculty moderators and coaches will be on hand to answer all questions regarding student activities at all levels. Along with its strong academic program, Brother Rice offers 47 various extra-curricular activites.

Additional information regarding Open House or admission to Brother Rice High School may be obtained by calling Jim Casey at (312)779-3410 any school day between 8 a.m. and 3:30 p.m.

Park Lawn opens their doors to the public

Park Lawn, a non-profit organization serving individuals with developmental disabilities, invites the public to preview it's new vocational services workshop. An Open house business after hours will be held on November 30th from 5:00 p.m. to 7:00 p.m. Personalized tours will be conducted to showcase this 51,000 sq. foot industrial space. The facility, located at 5040 W. 111th St. in Oak Lawn, was renovated to address the production needs of the business community.

Park Lawn workshop employees fulfill sub-contract jobs from local and national companies. They perform a variety of tasks such as packaging, heat sealing, point-of-purchase display assembly, colating, sorting, quality inspection, and bulk mailing.

Space is also allotted to accommodate major production projects and warehouse storage. Multiple loading docks make shipping and receiving readily accessible.

Anyone interested in attending the open house is asked to RSVP to the Park Lawn Development Office by November 24 by calling (708)425-6867.

SEPARATING? DIVORCING?
Your Divorce Lawyer Doesn't Want You To Read This Report
The average person is rarely placed in greater jeopardy-emotionally, financially, and legally than when going through a divorce: The reality of divorce courts is that most litigants leave the courtroom feeling as if they have just been hit by a truck! Even the apparent winner rarely feels good with the outcome.
Divorce Law attempts to fit one of the most painful of adult choices into a legal framework. Some people expect their lawyers to be confessors or even to provide psychological counseling. Others never give their lawyers a chance, regarding them as the enemy when they attempt to compromise with the other side. There are clients who are in such a hurry to conclude their divorce that they waive anything and everything to which they might have a claim.
If you want to avoid the horror stories; if your goal in divorce is a level of self-control, decorum, and reasonableness; if you appreciate your marriage is ending but your parenting will continue; if you don't want to go broke paying legal fees, then call 1-800-294-7311 for the free report.
You do have choices! You can avoid the costly trap of litigation and the problems associated with it! You can take control of your divorce!

Suburbanites decorate for Halloween

Halloween in the centuries past was a dual event. Some witchcraft was performed before a religious holiday in the 16th century and for Catholics, there were religious preparations for the holy day of All Saints on November 1.

Just as days past and some what a repeat of history, young people are concerned with the ghoulish approach to a now fun day. As long as the entertainment and fun is lawful there is a jovial day of laughter and fun.

Following are some of the uniquely decorated homes in the south suburban area.

New school board member discusses hopes for future

by Frank Soczek

After years of attending local school board meetings as a member of the audience; the next meeting for Mary Grana of Oak Lawn will be quite different. Mrs. Grana will assume a seat on the forum that will direct the strategies and goals of Oak Lawn-Hometown Elemen-tary School District 123, having been chosen by a significant voice of the community.

The responsibilities are far reaching, and tangible compensation is non-existent (members serve four years, without pay.) The new board has inherited a legacy of uncertainty, with a financially unstable foundation that was hardly buttressed by the failure of a recent public plea for additional funding.

Clearly, a fresh perspective is not only desirable—it is essential.

Mary Grana recently spoke with the Village View, and candidly intimated some of her hopes and ideas for the future of School District 123; following are some of her reflections:

What do you feel is the biggest obstacle facing the school board?

"Funding is a major problem in this district; I would like to obtain more funds from State sources. I would urge everyone in Oak Lawn to contact their State representative (Maureen Murphy.) Presently, there is approximately a $96,000. budget deficit. Additionally, I would like to prioritize and focus on smaller classrooms with good teachers."

If you could accomplish one thing during the next year, what would that be?

"I would like to see the budget balanced without breaking the bank."

Is there anything else, besides the sobering financial concerns?

"I would like to see the school board meeting location moved to the individual schools, so we would have a greater opportuntiy to meet the people on an individual and more personal level. I would also like to see more input from the School Advisory Committees."

There's an anagram frequently used in business, WIIFM, or "What's in it for me?" Comments?

"Essentially, it would be the gratification and sense of accomplishment in adhering to a practice we follow in the Girl Scouts, (Mary Grana is a Scout leader.) We always stress the importance of leaving a place in a better condition then when we found it...."

How will you know when you have achieved success in your new position?

"When I hear two simple words; when I hear people say 'ThankYou'..for taking the time to listen to their concerns and problems. It is then that I'll know I've done my job."

Mary Grana and daughters Maria (age 3) and Guinevere (age 9).

Elected candidates for Moraine speak out

by Carlene E. O'Connor

In today's society a college education has never been more important. When selecting a college one needs to know about the college as well as the administration. Recently Pat Roche, Mary Nolan, Pat Fleming, and Tom Sulllivan were elected to the Moraine Valley School Board.

These are people that were already involved in community affairs who wanted to contribuute more. For example: after 16 years on the board Flemings said "Many times it's a thankless job but, I enjoy it" Sullivan said, "I can fulfill my campaign promises by doing my homework. I plan on being active around the college." Roche did not make any promises other then saying, "I will be a very good board member. After I am on the board I will know what type of commitment to make." Nolan added by saying, "I will seek to improve literacy in the community and recruit people who need these programs."

Costs are a big issue with a college education. Many times students work their way through school. Nolan said, "Moraine Valley will continue to offer quality education at an affordable price." Sullivan said "Students develop relationships in their jobs and at home that they do not want to leave. Moraine Valley will expand its program by offering classes for the 3rd and4th year."

Moraine Valley Charter by law is only for a 2 year college. Being innovative Governor State and Elmhurst College have been teaching 3rd and 4th year classes on the Moraine Campus. One can get a BA degree in certain areas.

The new officials plan to expand these programs. Sullivan other colleges are calling us to bring them in too.

Pat Fleming said, "They are looking at building a new building for 3rd and 4th year classes."

AAA offers safe winter driving tips

The AAA Chicago Motor Club offers the following tips for winter driving safety:

•Improve visibility by clearing all snow and ice from the entire car—hood, roof, trunk, turn signals, tail lights, windows, mirrors and fender wells. Driving with headlights on low beam provides better road illumination in snow and fog than using high beams.

•Posted speed limits are set for dry and clear conditions only. Slow down when visibility and road conditions are affected by bad weather or traffic.

•Avoid rapid starts, stops and turns. Accelerate carefully so car wheels don't spin.

•If your car has anti-lock braking (ABS) press firmly on the pedal. Do not pump the pedal or remove your foot from the brake. You will typically feel the brake pedal pusle back against your foot.

•If your car does not have ABS, the best technique for braking under icy or snowy conditions is to apply the brakes firmly to a point just short of lock-up, and then ease off the brake pedal slightly. Applying steady pressure is better than pumping the brake and should be practiced on dry pavement prior to driving on snow.

•In a skid, ease off the accelerator and don't hit the brakes. Carefully steer in the direction you want the car to go and straighten the wheel as soon as the car begins to go in the desired direction.

District 123 good education at at fair price

by Carlene O'Connor

Last week in the polls three women were elected to the district 123 school board. With the low turnout in the election, one wonders two things: How much of a campaign is there really and What the effect is going to be on them, the taxpayer and the parent.

The three newly elected board members were Nancy Karr, Sue Phelan, and Mary Grana. All three are Oak Lawn residents and parents.

The schools in District 123 are Hometown, Hannum, McGugan Jr. High, Covington, Sword, and Kolmar.

Enrollment determines many factors in a school. There was an enrollment census taken and it showed there world be a slight increase next year and then decline. According to the new officials no new teachers will be added or raises given. Teachers have a three year contract.

But, according to Nancy Karr , "Teachers should be given cost of living raises".

The first item on the new agenda is a balanced budget. Sue Phelan says,"We must develop a fiscally sound budget. We were $90,000 in the red and latest figrure shows $30,000. It is our first priority."

This does not mean any tax increases. There is currently a 5% cap. Karr says, "We can stay within budget until the 21st Century." Grana on the other hand says,"TIF provides for inadequate funding from the state." When asked if she could come up with alternatives she said, "If I could answer that I would be the most popular woman in the world."

Sue Phelan says, "We must work with the superintendent to explore creative possibilities for the funding formula."

All three agree that the welfare of the students is their chief concern. Grana says, "It's real important to have the parents' perspective and be accountable to them." Phelan adds, "Two questions I will ask myself as a board member are: How will the impact be on the children and can we afford it.? " Karr says, "The borad is going to work as a team. Everything will be out in the open with more information given to the public."

Nicholas presents holiday bazaar

The St. Nicholas Ladies' Philoptochos (Friends of the Poor) Society announces their 24th annual Holiday Bazaar Saturday, November 18 from 9:00 to 5:00 and Sunday, November 19 from 11:00 to 4:00 at St. Nicholas Greek Orthodox Church, 10301 S. Kolmar, Oak Lawn.

You are certain to get into the Holiday spirit with over 100 exciting exhibitors! Santa Claus will be there, too, to take pictures with your little ones. Enjoy delicious Greek cuisine for lunch! A wonderful array of home-baked Greek Pastry may be enjoyed at the bazaar as well as to take home and enjoy. And don't forget that mouth-watering homemade candy. Admission is $1.

Bridgeview Park District holds special sessions

Turkey Shoot - Residents of the Bridgeview Park District are invited to participate in their annual Turkey Shoot on Sunday, November 19th at the Sports Complex beginning at 1:30.

Participants will compete for turkeys by teaming up with a parent (or other adult 17 years and older) and a child to shoot basketball free throws. Teams will combine in age brackets determined by the sum of their combined ages.

Pre-registration and proof of residency is required for this special event and is currently taking place at the Sports Complex. There is no entry fee for this holiday activity.

Each partner shoot 10 free throws. The winners in each age bracket are the teams with the highest number of points. Everyone goes home a winner, though.

A special "mini" basket ball net will be set up expecially for those shooters under four years of age.

For more information call (708)594-1818.

Parents ' Day Out - Let the Bridgeview Park District help you with all of your holiday hustle and bustle! We'll keep your child occuppied, so you can do your shopping, decorating, baking or other holiday necessities!

Registration is currently taking place at The Sports Complex for two separate meetings of "Parents' Day Out" scheduled for Saturday, December 2 and Saturday, December 9 from 10:00 a.m. to 2 p.m. each day.

Pre-registration and proof of residency is required for participation in these special programs in which children ages three through 10 years may be dropped off at the Park for a day of movies, games, stories, crafts, and playtime.

The fee for each meeting of "Parents' Day Out" is $6 per child for residents and $10 per child for all others. All particpants must bring a sack lunch and drink. A lights snack will be provided.

The registration deadlines for all interested participants are November 19th and December 6th.

Children must be completely toilet trained to participate in this special holiday program.

Christmas Lights 'n More Tour - Registration is currently taking place at the Sports Complex for the Bridgeview Park District's Christmas Light's 'n More Bus Trip planned for Wednesday, December 13 from 9:30 a.m. to 9:00 p.m.

Pre-registration no later than December 1st and proof of residency is required by all interested persons 18 years and older.

The fee for this bus trip which includes deluxe motor coach transportation and admission to the Museum of Science and Industry's Christmas Around the World Exhibit is $33 for Park District residents and $38 for all others.

Other stops on the day's agenda also include the Fannie May Factory Outlet, Lincoln Conservatory, Water Tower Place, and Berghoff's for lunch. Lunch is not included in the registration fee.

The drive back to Bridgeview will feature a drive by tour of all the holiday decorated homes in the western suburbs.

The Christmas Lights 'n More Tour will be co-hosted by Al Perkins and Treasures of America.

Moraine Valley to present Messiah and The Velveteen Rabbit

Moraine Valley Community College hosts its 24th annual performance of German composer George Frederic Handel's "Messiah" on Sunday, Nov. 26 at 3pm in the Dorothy Menker Theater located in the Fine and Performing Arts Center, 10900 S. 88th Ave., Palos Hills.

This classic oratorio is a tradition at Moraine Valley that features a full orchestra. A new feature this year will be a choir for the renowned "Hallelujah" chorus. Tickets are $7.25 for adults, $5.25 for seniors. To order tickets or for more information, call (708) 974-5500.

Moraine Valley Community College will present "The Velveteen Rabbit" on Friday, Dec. 8 at 7:30pm in the Dorothy Menker Theater in the Fine and Performing Arts Center on campus, 10900 S. 88th Ave., Palos Hills.

This endearing classic tale comes to life on stage just in time for the holidays. The musical adaptation of Margery Williams' story follows the Velveteen Rabbit on his journey to become real and teaches a valuable lesson—if you believe in yourself, anything is possible.

Holiday programs presented by the Wesleyan Church

The Wesleyan Community Church, 8844 S. Austin, Oak Lawn, will be presenting two very special Christmas musical spectaculars on December 10th and 17th.

The children's choir will be presenting "This little light of mine" and the Adult Community Choir will be presenting a Christmas Musical Spectacular featuring a blend of some of the old favorites and newer Christmas songs.

The program is truly "community" in nature, as many of the cast and crews do not attend Wesleyan Church. In committment to providing quality family entertainment to Chicago's southwest side, the program is free of charge.

A Silent Auction and Italian Dinner will be held Saturday, November 18th. Please call (708) 599-3660 for information.

The workable program

Congressman William O. Lipinski (D-3) called last month on the House Ways and Means Committee to convene hearings on the effect of the North American Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA).

"NAFTA has been in affect for two years and we still don't have any concrete answer as to its effect on environmental and labor issues," Lipinski said.

"A host," he continued, "of side agreements were promised to address these concerns, but we have not seen any pacts dealing with these important issues."

Pollution from Mexican factories along the U.S.-Mexico border has continued largely unabated. In addition many American companies have relocated south of the border, costing jobs in our country while treating their Mexican workers poorly a congressional spokesman said.

"The workability of NAFTA," Lipinski concluded, "is now very much in question. We have a responsibility to our constituents to closely monitor the treaty's implementation.

A congressional spokesman also said Lipinski voted against NAFTA when it was brought to the U.S. House of Representatives in 1993.

The benefits of SS

Your probably one of the more than 230 million Americans who is covered by Social Security.

More than 141 million workers and their families make up this large group protected against the loss of income if the worker becomes severly disabled before retiring. At retirement, these workers and their eligible family members will receive monthly benefits based on the workers' earnings. And, when the worker dies, the spouse and dependent children may be eligible for monthly survivor benefits.

Even as today's workers see Social Security (FICA) taxes coming out of every pay check, many of them underestimate the value of the protection they have under the program. For young workers, the chances of becoming disabled before they reach retirement are nearly one in three.

While few workers have private, long-term disability insurance, nearly all workers have social security disability protection. For a married worker with two young children and average earnings, this protection could, over the years, be equal to the value of a $203,000 disability policy.

Equally important is the value of Social Security survivor benefits. More than 7.4 million people receive monthly survivors benefits because a wage earner in their family has died. For an average wage earner who dies and is survived by a spouse and two small children, monthly Social Security survivor benefits could, over the years, equal a $295,000 life insurance policy.

You can get an estimate of the amount of Social Security benefits you and your family may be eligible for, now and in the future, by calling or visiting your local Social Security office or calling Social Security's toll-free number, 1-800-772-1213.

Ask for SSA Form-7004 (Request for Earnings and Benefit Estimate Statement). The telephone lines are busier early in the week and early in the month so, if your business can wait, It's best to call at other times. If you have a touch-tone phone, you can order the form at night, on weekends and on holidays. If you use Internet, you can get the form from the Social Security Internet Server at:

http://www.ssa.gov.

You will receive your Personal Earnings and Benefit Estimate Statement within four to six weeks after you complete and return the form to Social Security.

FOOD FOR 'SECONDS'

Tantalize your taste buds with Caribbean flair and fun dining

by Anita Anderson

"Eating here is like getting on a boat with a Caribbean destination in mind. Our menu offers spicy Caribbean foods and typical good old American fare," said Roger Lis, owner of Hudson's at 10660 S. Western Ave., in Chicago.

Hudson's is unique on South Western and the Beverly area because Lis offers patrons foods cooked slowly and flavorful on the wood burning roasters for his ribs, chicken and steaks, jerk chicken and beef, so familiar to Jamaica. Jerk chicken and beef is hard to find on the South Side of Chicago. Once you've eaten this food in Jamica especially, your taste buds crave more.

Hudson's opened in the spring of 1993 and Lis, who lives in Palos Hills with his wife, Lynn, is active in the Beverly community and serves on the board of the Beverly Art Center and is chairman of the board of Morgan Park Academy.

To make your dinning experience even more exciting Lis has Caribbean music on Friday and Saturdays. One of the Reggae groups; RAFO recently won a top music award in the Reggae category.

Side dishes to choose from number about 20 and include Caribbean rice and beans, Au Gratin potatoes, okra with carrots, Jalapeno macaroni and cheese or baked Jamican sliced redskin potatoes. Small orders are $1.99 and large orders are $2.99.

The menu features specialty sandwiches, stir frys, rotisserie wood roasted and slow smoked chicken, beef brisket, fish and pastas.

There are more than 200 bottled beers and great desserts like Hudsons Isle Key Lime Pie.

Lunch specials begin at 11 a.m. and prices begin at $4.99 such as the BBQ chicken sandwich with choice of soup or salad.

Call 312-238-7370 for more information.

HALVA PARAIT

1 cup of water
3/4 cup (less 2 Tble.) sugar
6 egg yolks
2 cups of heavy cream
1/4 pound of Tehina
1/4 cup of whiskey
OPTIONAL:
Seasame cookies
Sugar-Covered Pistachios

Combine the water and sugar in a saucepan and cook until sugar is dissolved. Beat the egg yolks with an electric mixer (high). When the syrup reaches 230° Fahrenheit pour it slowly into the beaten egg-yolks: allow to cool. In separate bowls, whip the cream until stiff, and mix the Tehina with the whiskey. Rapidly, pour the tehina-whiskey mixture into the egg-yolk mixture and combine gently; then fold this combination mixture into the whipped cream. Pour immediately into individual ramekins, disposable paper ramekins or a cake pan. Refrigerate overnight. Unmold the ramekins onto individual plates, or the cake pan onto serving plate. Suggested serving with sesame cookies and sugar-covered Pistachios.

The gourmet in Israel

This is the first in a series of THE GOURMET IN ISRAEL features highlighting Isreali restaurants and chefs on the cutting edge of the transformation of Israel's restaurant scene.

Long famed for its extraordinary dairy and agricultural produce, Israel has only recently begun to be recognized for its extraordinary contributions to the creative, new MED-RIM cuisine currently sweeping the great culinary destinations of the Mediterranean... from southern France, to Italy, to Greece, to Turkey, to Morocco ... and to Israel. And it is in Israel that a coterie of imaginative and bold chefs are infusing their creations with ingredients, spices and herbs summoning up flavors of this ancient land's Biblical roots.

DATE PALMS RESTAURANT
CAPOT TMARIM

"I designed the restaurant and kitchen of Capot Tmarim so I could combine French Cuisine Actuelle techniques with Israel's magnificent fresh market products," says Ofer Gal, charismatic owner-chef of the untra-chic Tel Aviv restaurant he opened in 1994. Gal changes the menu every week, sometimes more often. "I pay special attention to exsuring that every menu uses different cooking tchniques: roasting, braising, cold-smoking, grilling," he explains. Each menu also hinges on the availability of the freshest produce ... herbs and spices indigenous to Israel, locally caught fish from the Mediterranean, the Red Sea and the Sea of Galilee, prime Israeli meats and foie gras, and desserts encompassing a variety of textures and flavors. Gal was born in Israel and learned to cook in Paris at the esteemed Ferrandi Ecole Supe´rieure de Cuisine´; he also trained in two of Paris' 2 Star and one 3 Star restaurants.

Capot Tmarim is located in a magnificently restored Bauhaus mansion at the core of Tel Aviv's business destrict at the crossroads of the 86 year old city's first five street. "In designing Capot Tmarim,: observes Gal, "I wanted very much to integrate all sorts of tiles floor. Sepia photographs of early Tel Aviv are mounted on ochre-hued walls. The windows were reconstructed to recreate the original 1930's design: outside each an olive tree has been planted and, at night, each is subtly foodlit. Service plates were customed-fired at Jerusalem's oldest Armenian pottery factory. The waistband worn by each waiter was woven by Druse artisans from ancient designs. The lighting is muted yet radiant. And the overall effect is of impeccable, and uniquely Israeli, taste.

Capot Tmarim's excellent three-course "Business Lunch" is one of Tel Aviv's great bargains. Typically, it might offer a choice of Goose Liver Terrine, Cucumber-Yoghurt Soup with Beets or Warm Quail Salad, followed by a main course of Sea Bream in Sumac Sauce, Roast home-smoked Moulard Goose or Coriander Scented Salmon with sauteed vegetables. Desserts might include a Fresh Fruit Tart, homemade sorbets or a refreshing, Indian-style Mahalabi served with home-maput and coconut ice creams. The even more lavish three-course dinner might commence with Veal Liver with a piquant sauce of Muscat Grapes or Mediterranean Grouper on a Tomato Coulis, followed by Grilled Triggerfish with Saffron, Filet of Beef with a seasonal Fruit Sauce, a Mille-Feuille of Seafood, or Saddle of Lamb with red-wine sauce. And for dessert: Baby Pancakes oozing with a stuffing of local Figs, a Tart of fresh Apricots or Coffee flavored Mascarpone-Cheese Cake.

Oak Library holds sessions

After a successful visit last fall, the Klingon Armada Intl. is returning to the Oak Lawn Public Library, 5300 w. 95th St., 10am-2pm Saturday, Nov. 18. Activities will take place on the first floor near the periodicals desk.

The program will be divided into several sessions which will include a trivia challenge, a Klingon make-over, the history of the Klingons and Star Trek, a presentation to recruit members and an opportunity to learn something about the Klingon language.

Don Pasquale, a great comic opera by Donizetti, is the subject of an opera lecture, 2pm Sunday, Nov. 19 at the Oak Lawn Library, 5300 W. 95th St.

Volunteer opera lecturer Ann Buonomici will bring to life the fast-paced humorous story along with excerpts of the beautiful music.

Friends of the Oak Lawn Public Library are sponsoring a trip to Drury Lane, Evergreen Park, for lunch and the show Celebration on Ice Tuesday, Dec. 5th.

The price is $32 for members and $34 for others. This includes round trip transportation from the library, lunch and show. Please call (708) 424-3781 for reservations or additional information.

The Oak Lawn Public Library, 5300 W. 95th St. will serve as a collection point for the Toys for Tots campaign again this year. Large collection barrels will be placed on the main floor from Nov. 27 through Dec. 20. The toys should be unwrapped so that they can be distributed according to age and gender.

Toys for Tots, sponsored annually by the U.S Marine Corps Reserve, is designed to provide Christmas joy for needy children of all ages throughout Chicago and the suburbs.

O. L. Park sponsors pilgrim pow wow

The Oak Lawn Park District sponsors the annual Pilgrim Pow Wow, 6 to 7:30 pm., Tuesday, November 21 at Oakview Center, 4625 W. 110th St. This family "living history" event features a buffet-style turkey meal similar to the first Thanksgiving meal. Special guests John Smith and Pocohontas tell a story about the first Thanksgiving. Children must be accompanied by an adult. The cost is $10. and $5. for children under 12 years. For more information, please call Oakview Center at (708) 857-2200.

Assistant program grants help

Last month Governer Jim Edgar announced 87 communities throughout Illinois will share more than $22.6 million in Community Development Assistance Program grants to help fund improvements to local water and sewer systems.

"Public health and safety," Edgar said, "and the potential for economic growth, depend on our ability to maintain adequate public infrastructure systems.

"My administration," he continued, "has made infrastructure improvement one of the cornerstones of Illinois' overall economic development policy. These grants will provide smaller cities and towns with the financial tools to make much needed improvements."

Lieutenant Governor Bob Kustra, Edgar's senior advisor for economic development, said growth in rural areas depends in part on maintaining Illinois' high standards for public infrastructures.

He said, "Adequate water and sewage treatment systems are an important selling point for communities hoping to attract new economic development to their areas.

"Assisting local governments," Kustra continued, "in making these improvements is a sound investment in the future of our state."

CDAP grants are funded with federal block grant funds from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development.

They are awarded by Department of Commerce and Community Affairs to units of local government with populations of 50,000 or less that are not located within one of the six large urban counties that receive funds directly from HUD.

Computerize property map may be in the making

Last month Cook County Assessor Thomas Hynes announced plans for a computerized property map for Cook County to track everything from tax information, to census data, to crime patterns, and provide the most efficient response to emergencies such as hazardous spills and fires.

The countywide Geographical Information System is one component of Hynes' three part automation plan, which includes updating the Assessor's entire property data base and completing the automation of the office to provide Cook County property owners with greater accessibility and convenience.

The GIS would enable all county agencies, from treasurer to the sheriff, to produce and catalogue such information from tax data to the most efficient response procedures to emergencies all on a single computerized map of the county's 1.5 million properties.

From allowing taxpayers to obtain all pertinant property information from one computer screen rather than from seperate offices, to enabling communities to determine high crime areas or the quickest emergency traffic routes, the GIS would make county government more open and responsive to the people it serves, Hynes said.

Hynes also said, "A truly reliable information network must be rooted in an accurate, uniform mapping system. Whether in their everyday dealings with county government or times of emergency, the residents of Cook County will benefit greatly from a system offering so much information so quickly and conveniently," he added.

"This automation plan," Hynes concluded, "would bring the height of technology to Cook County. It would not only establish an even better and more responsive assessment appeals system, but greatly improve the efficiency of county government by linking its offices through a common electronic information system."

The savings for all county agencies from implementing this Automation Plan is estimated to be at least $2 million according to Hynes, while the amount of revenue generated from user fees for a single county-wide data base is expected to be more than $3 million each year.

Hynes projected this plan would pay for itself within six years after completion and thereafter provide the county with a continuing gain of $5 million annually.

On Saturday, November 18 from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m., the Chicago Public Library's Harold Washington Center, 400 S. State Street, will turn itself into an educational playland for children, ages 3-10 years old.

The programs include live entertainment, hands on arts and crafts, favorite authors reading their stories, and as an extra attraction, the kids can get aquainted with a beautiful ostrich.

This event is cosponsored by the Friends of the Chicago Public Library. Cameras are welcome. For more information, call (312) 747-4780.

SEPARATING? DIVORCING?

Your Divorce Lawyer Doesn't Want You To Read This Report

The average person is rarely placed in greater jeopardy-emotionally, financially, and legally than when going through a divorce. The reality of divorce courts is that most litigants leave the courtroom feeling as if they have just been hit by a truck! Even the apparent winner rarely feels good with the outcome.

Divorce Law attempts to fit one of the most painful of adult choices into a legal framework. Some people expect their lawyers to be confessors or even to provide psychological counseling. Others never give their lawyers a chance, regarding them as the enemy when they attempt to compromise with the other side. There are clients who are in such a hurry to conclude their divorce that they waive anything and everything to which they might have a claim.

If you want to avoid the horror stories; if your goal in divorce is a level of self-control, decorum, and reasonableness; if you appreciate your marriage is ending but your parenting will continue; if you don't want to go broke paying legal fees, then call 1-800-294-7311 for the free report.

You do have choices! You can avoid the costly trap of litigation and the problems associated with it! You can take control of your divorce!

Mayor Vacco against development of cemetery

by Carlene O'Connor

The Village Board meeting Monday, November 19, brought up some serious proposals for Evergreen Park. One was the village against a Centrum Properties who seeks to put a shopping mall on 30 vacant acres. These acres are part of Evergreen Cemetery at 87th Street and Kedzie Avenue.

Some residents protested and voiced thier opposition. As Frank Bosco, 9120 Central Park described it, "We need a shopping mall like we need more taxes." He told Mayor Vacco, "I know you are fighting big money, but we are behind you."

Vacco's response was, "We support keeping the area as is and will continue to fight. We have submitted proposals to four different law firms. One has responded and we are waiting for others."

A business regulation certificate was given to American Fair Credit. Located at 3147 W. 95th Street it will help people re-establish a credit rating.

A request by the residents on the 9400 block of South Harding to have the barricade removed was granted and a two- way stop (north and south) will be erected.

The first Planning Commission was developed. Trustee Jerome Bosch said, "Twenty-five Evergreen residents applied for the position of chairman and Fred Shannon, 10130 St. Louis was appointed chairman."

On accepting his new position, Shannon said, "I thank you for the confidence you have in me. The initial project will be for developing our mission statement of the community."

The first meeting will be December 6th at the Hamilton Maher Community Center.

Ernest Kolb, Oak Lawn village president, is presented Christ Hospital's Outstanding Community Leader award by the hospital's chief executives, Coletta Neuns (center) and Carol Schneider. Mayor Kolb was honored at Christ Hospital's Salute to the Stars 1995, held recently at the Four Seasons Hotel in Chicago.

Public information for preparing for a greater participation

The Village of Oak Lawn Comprehensive Plan Steering Committee seeks your participation and ideas on the direction of future land-use and development for Oak Lawn. A Steering Committee consisting of local residents and other representatives of the Village have been appointed and charged with the responsibility of preparing a new Comprehensive Plan for consideration by the Planning Commission and Village Board. You are invited to participate and share your concerns and views for the future improvement of the Village at the December 14, 1995 workshop.

The decisions reached as part of the planning process will serve as a policy guide for land use, development, transportation, community facilities, and economic development related decision making for the nex 10 to 15 years.

Please join us on Thursday, December 14, 1995 to share your views on the future of our community.

Should you have any questions concerning the planning process, or the December 14, 1995 Workshop, please contact Ms. Susan J. Horn, Director of Community Development at 708-499-7821.

Village Board Minutes
by Carlene O'Connor

There were many topics at the Oak Lawn Village Board. "Speeding will not be tolerated in the Village of Oak Lawn, 144 tickets were given over Thanksgiving weekend. First offenders are giving a warning and then documented in the computer. The second offense of 10 miles over and the violator is ticketed. We are giving more warnings as we are tickets," said Police Chief Jim Houk.

Trustee Joy announced an Education Summit to be held December 7th at Oak Lawn High School.

This will be a formation of a coalition of suburbs and to set a budget for education. There will also be a foum developed to address state legislature.

CONSENT AGENDA

Restaurant request at 6600 W. 95th St. with a convenience store as part of a restaurant.

There was an ammendment to an ordinance amending Title the Oak Lawn Village Code regarding height limitations and required setbacks.

An award for the 1995 area street light program phase III went to Materials Company in the amount of $497,466.

An ordinance granting a driveway width variation at 5659 West 100th St. also at 6540 West 91st St.

An ordinance amending the number of class B liquor licenses that can be issued in the village of Oak Lawn was American Drug Store (Osco) 9424 S. Pulaski Rd.

An ordinance to approve a resubdivision and granting certain front yard, side yard, and rear yard setback variation (2 lots at 9621 S. Parkside was granted.

It was also approved that Fire Station 1 have an automatic fire suppression system. It was also approved to award bid for installation of base bid and electrical wiring to tenant fire protection in the amount of $32,950.

No more parking in east access zone for people who are not handicapped. The fine has been raised to $150 and the board has approved decals which are good for 90 days.

These decals will be used to identify legal permit holders by their license number.

The system will go into effect in August until then police can radio in the sticker numbers.

Last on the agenda was a request for a class B liquor license at 10327 S. Central Avenue was approved.

Your contribution can help needy families

Each year, starting the day after Thanksgiving, until the day before Christmas the cans come out . . .

Meaning, that at the Oak Lawn Post Office two cans are placed on the counter, in hopes that they will be filled with donations by the very kind and generous customers that pass through the doors during the holiday season.

The names of one or more needy families are given to us by Family Services of Oak Lawn.

Money is collected in the cans and used to provide the needy with Christmas items, such as food, clothing, toys for the children, shoes, etc.

We have collected for more than a dozen years. We are very grateful to everyone who has been kind enough to contribute to the Needy Family Fund over the years.

Thank you,

This column will be a series of columns that will include editorial statements by the publisher!

First of all, I would like to include in this column personal information along with community information pertinent to the interest of the residents of the Village of Oak Lawn. For those who have been following our columnist Frank Soczek you may be interested in knowing that he has left Village View Newspaper and his school reports can be read in the Reporter. We are proud to say, we gave Frank his first reporting opportunity.

Recently, family members of this publisher have been plagued by a series of health problems which affected the every day work habits of this publisher. I thank all those who came to my aid and apologize for any problems that would have affected our readers or customers for the past month.

My condolence to the families of Marilyn Brannigan, Oak Lawn; Bill Dewan, Oak Lawn and Maureen Kalebich of Chicago.

Lastly, many articles are written about the infamous Northwestern Wildcats but mine will be a human interest story!

While attending St. Martin Grammar School in Chicago our annual school class trips were to visit Notre Dame and Northwestern Schools. It was back in the dark ages, when I first became a Northwestern football fan! Surely, I had many years of following a losing team, but I liked the school so much I didn't care about the fact that a top ten football team was considered a loser.

My glory came recently when I watched all ten games in which Northwestern won their conference games and became eligible to go to a bowl. The highlight was when Ohio State lost to Michigan and the commissioner asked Northwestern if they would accept going to the Rose Bowl. Surely sports enthusiasts are talking about how it's been 47 years since going to a Rose Bowl, but none is talking about my friend, Paul Janus of Edgerton, Wisconsin who is number 74 (guard) on the offensive line. The game between Penn State and Northwestern was especially exciting for me when I saw 6'6" 210 pound Paul Janus's arm extend out and a notorious Penn State player fell to the ground. Paul is always doing his job, in fact so well that Darnell Autry is able to find those magnificent holes to gain yardage.

Our family has a summer home eight miles from the Janus Family. We first met them in 1970, when Charlene and Larry got married. They are relatives of Marge Walsh, one of the Looney Tuners from St. Bede's Parish. We were there when Paul was born, we watched him grow each summer. We went to his graduations and we waited for his decision to play football or basketball. We waited for his decision to play for Michigan State, Wisconsin, or Northwestern. I was elated when he chose Northwestern.

Paul really became a favorite of mine! I just didn't realize he would be on first string and a key player on the offensive team so quickly. Paul is a Sophomore! Paul also had a position of snapper the first year and half of 1995.

If anyone I know deserved all this glory, it is Paul. He is the most caring loving person I know. His high school grades reflected a 4.0, so therefore this is a tale of Brains and Braun.

"Good Luck Northwestern" and keep up the good work, Paul!

Little Company honors its many volunteers

Over 350 volunteers devoted a total of 55,821 hours of caring effort to Little Company of Mary Hospital and Health Care Centers from 1994-95. Of those, 220 volunteers joined in a celebration sponsored by the Hospital in recognition of their efforts and dedication at a luncheon at the Oak Lawn Hilton on Oct. 17.

Sister Kathleen McIntyre, LCM, Little Company President, presented Ida Massett and Pat Paul with resolutions for their 25 years of service, and recognized Gertude Schiavone for 30 years of service. Volunteers who contributed at lease 500 hours during the year were also recognized in the 500+ Club. This club now has 16 members.

Volunteers from Little Company's Hospice program, namely Ruth Burke. Alice Zoladz and Lina Mooth were recognized for their unique contributions to the program. The Tribute Fund of the Auxiliary was also honored.

In the early days, Little Company's volunteers were Auxiliary members, usually doctors' wives, who would come to the Hospital to roll bandages. Today, Little Company receives great benefits from the myriad of jobs performed by volunteers, both men and women of all ages, from every walk of life, who serve every department.

Paramount celebrates Elvis' birthday in style

Moraine Valley Board Honors Burton Odelson

The Moraine Valley Community College Board of Trustees honored Trustee Burton S. Odelson at the Nov. 14 meeting of the Board for his 18 years of service on the Board.

A resident of Evergreen Park, Odelson has been a member of the Board of Trustees since 1978. He served as chairman of the Board since 1981 to 1987 and 1993 to 1995. He was vice chairman from 1990 to 1993.

During his tenure on the Board and as chairman, Odelson oversaw a number of construction and building projects, including the opening of the College Center, the Center for Contemporary Technology, and the Fine and Performing Arts Center. He was also involved in the college securing $500,000 in state funds for a proposed instructional facility.

Board Secretary John Donahue presented Odelson's plaque and said, "It is my pleasure to present this plaque to you in recognition of your 18 years of service to Moraine Valley Community College."

"I am going to miss serving the community and watching the college grow to serve the needs of our constituents," Odelson said. "I will certainly miss the Board and members of the Board that I have served with in the past. I feel confident that the Board will continue the model we've established the past two years to keep Moraine Valley at the forefront of education," he added.

FOOD FOR 'SECONDS'

Brasserie:Place for diners to socialize and feast

By Anita Anderson

What is there about the French style of dining that we Americans find elusive? Maybe it's the Francophile option of placing mealtime high on their lists as a time to gather the family or friends and linger over some good food.

Chicago has its lists of "must see" tourist spots but did you know that we have the only first authentic Alsatian brasserie in the U.S. and even a special beer, Hopla, created for the restaurant located at 59 West Hubbarb Street?

Jean Joho, known to some as the finest chef in Chicago since he has reigned supreme at the pricey and gourmet Everest Room for years, adds his cooking talents to Brasserie Jo's. The eatery feature top quality at would you believe low prices?

Most entrees are less than $15. The place is open seven days a week from 5 to midnight except for Sunday when it opens at 4 p.m. Appetizers include mussels in white wine, Onion Tart Uncle Hansi named after Joho's uncle and a stick-to-the rib entree of pork cuts with kraut served in a large fondue crock/Lamb stew is featured on Monday of a course, coq au vin, chicken in red wine broth.

Alsatian food is hearty peasant type food and in the case at Brasserie Jo, the food is prime quality. Little signiature touches appear on every entree whether its wedges of rutabaga or shredded leeks.

Brasserie Jo is a Lettuce Entertain You. Following are recipes adapted for American cooking.

CHICKEN - CORN SOUP

1 5 to 6 pound ready-to-cook stewing chicken, cut up
6 cups water
1/3 chopped onion
2 teaspoons salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1 bay leaf
6 ears fresh corn*
1 1/2 cups uncooked Homemade Noodles (recipe follows)
1 cup chopped celery
2 tablespoons snipped parsley

In a large kettle combine the chicken, water, onion, salt, pepper, and bay leaf. Bring to a boil; reduce heat and simmer, covered, till chicken is tender, about 2 hours. Meanwhile, with sharp knife make cuts down center of corn kernels in each row of the ears. Cut corn off and scrape the cob. (Should equal 2 cups corn.) Remove the chicken from broth; cool and remove meat from bones. Cut chicken into bite-size pieces. Set aside. Skim excess fat from broth. Discard bay leaf. Bring the broth to a boil. Add corn, the Homemade Noodles, celery and parsley. Simmer, covered, till corn and noodles are barely done, about 8 minutes. Add cooked chicken and heat through, about 5 minutes. Season with salt and pepper.

MAKES 8 SERVINGS.

NOTE: One 16 ounce can cream-style corn may be substituted.*

Jean Joho

HOMEMADE NOODLES

1 beaten egg
2 tablespoons milk
1/2 teaspoon salt
All-purpose flour (about 1 cup)

Mix egg, milk, and salt. Add enough of the flour to make a stiff dough. Roll very thin on floured surface; let rest 20 minutes. Roll up loosely; slice 1/4 inch wide. Unroll. Cut into desired lengths. Spread out; dry 2 hours. (Store in covered container till needed.) To cook, drop noodles into boiling liquid; cook, uncovered, 8 to 10 minutes. Makes 3 cups uncooked noodles.

BUCHE De NOEL

4 egg yolks
1/2 cup granulated sugar
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
4 egg whites
1/2 cup granulated sugar
1 cup sifted cake flour
1/2 teaspoon baking powder
1/4 teaspoon salt
powdered sugar
2 tablespoons rum
Chocolate Filling

In mixing bowl beat egg yolks till thick and lemon-colored. Gradually add 1/2 cup granulated sugar, beating constantly. Stir in vanilla. Beat egg whites till soft peaks form. Gradually add 1/2 cup granulated sugar, beating till stiff peaks form. Fold in egg yolk mixture. Sift together cake flour, baking powder, and salt; fold into egg mixture. Pour into greased and floured 15 1/2 x 10 1/2 x 1 1/2 inch baking pan. Bake at 375° till done, 10 to 12 minutes. Promptly loosen edges of cake; turn out onto a dish towel sprinkled with powdered sugar. Drizzle warm cake with rum. From the long side, roll warm cake and towel together; cool. Unroll cake; remove towel. Spread cake with half the Chocolate Filling. Reroll. Diagonally cut a 4 inch piece of cake from the roll. Place the cut edge of piece against longer roll on a serving plate. Frost with remaining Chocolate Filling; mark with fork tines to resemble bark. Decorate as desired.

Chocolate Filling: In a small sauce-pan melt 1 1/2 ounces unsweetened chocolate; cool. In small saucepan combine 2/3 cup granulated sugar and 1/3 cup water. Bring to boiling. Cook to soft ball stage (240°). In small mixing bowl beat 2 egg yolks till thick and lemon-colored. Very gradually add the hot syrup, beating constantly; continue beating till mixture is completely cooled. Beat in 1/2 cup softened butter or margarine, 1 tablespoon at a time. Stir in melted chocolate,

Mid term meal for the holiday

ANYTIME BREAKFAST BURRITOS

To assembe burritos, spread about 2 tablespoons sour cream mixture over each warm tortilla. Top with 1/6 eggs, cheese, lettuce and tomato. Roll up tightly; serve warm. 6 servings.

*1 1/4 cups liquid scrambled egg mix can be substituted for 6 eggs; omit 2 tablespoons water.

TIP: If desired, serve burritos with salsa and additional sour cream and cheese.

3/4 cup sour cream (regular, light, or no-fat)
2 tablespoons taco seasoning mix
6 eggs*
6 (8 inch) flour tortillas, heated
3/4 cup shredded light cheddar or cheddar cheese
1 cup shredded romaine lettuce
1 medium ripe tomato, seeded, chopped

In small bowl stir together sour cream and taco seasoning mix; set aside.

In medium bowl whisk eggs with 2 tablespoons water until well beaten. Pour eggs into 10 inch skillet sprayed with no stick cooking spray. Cook over medium low heat, stirring occassionally, until eggs are set (3 to 5 minutes).

BANANA FRUIT DIP

1 medium sized banana, ripe
2 teaspoons fresh lemon juice
1/2 cup sour cream (regular, light, or no-fat)
1/2 cup vanilla no-fat yogurt
2 tablespoons sugar
1 teaspoon poppy seed

In medium bowl mash together banana and lemon juice with fork or pastry cutter; stir in all remaining ingredients until well blended. Cover; refrigerate until ready to serve. Serve with fresh cut fruit as a dip or drizzle over fresh fruit or granola. Makes 1 1/2 cups.

FRIDAY NIGHT POTATO WEDGES

1 (24 oz.) bag frozen potato wedges with skins
1/2 teaspoon garlic salt
1/4 cup sliced green onions
1 medium ripe tomato, seeded, chopped
1/2 cup shredded light cheddar or cheddar cheese

Heat oven to 450°.

In small bowl stir together all dip ingredients. Cover; refigerate until ready to serve.

Meanwhile, place frozen potatoes in 13 x 9 inch baking pan. Bake according to package directions. Sprinkle potatoes with garlic salt, onions, tomato and cheese. Continue baking until cheese is melted (2 to 3 minutes). Serve hot potato wedges with dip. Makes 12 servings.

Dip

1 cup sour cream (regular, light, or no-fat)
1/2 cup thick and chunky salsa

China Theater Vets to be honored

Chicago native and World War II veteran Frank James Junkroski's reasons for joining the U.S. Army were probably similar to many young Americans today, as well as to those of his countrymen after the U.S. entered the world conflict in December 1941. However, "Nobody could write a typical story," Junkroski said, from his hospice bed at Hines Veterans Administration Hospital. After first being drafted in 1942, then pronounced "flat-footed" by a physician. He succeeded in pursuing military service because, his wife Albina explained, "he wanted to see the world." Junkroski served in China more than six months.

World War II veterans of the China Theater from all over the Midwest had an opportunity to share their stories with each other and with more recent generations, at the Chinese Cultural Service Center in Westmont. There more than thirty veterans received the prestigious China War Memorial Medal at a special ceremony organized by the Taipei Economic and Cultural Office in Chicago on behalf of the government of the Republic of China on Taiwan.

Unfortunately, Mr. F. J. Junkroski, now suffering from advanced bone cancer, was unable to attend this ceremony in Westmont. Attending the ceremony in his place was his wife, two brothers who served in Europe in World War II, Paul and Hilary, and other family members. Albina Junkroski will no doubt place mementos of the ceremony in her husband's personal album, a treasure of vintage wartime memorabilia.

James C. Chen, TECO's deputy director general, stated that the medal is in recognition of each veteran's heroic service in China Theater during World War II." The ceremony was held this year to commemorate the fiftieth anniversary of the end of World War II in 1945 and Taiwan's liberation from Japanese occupation and subsequent return to Chinese governance, which occurred on October 25, 1945. After learning there was a supply of 500 medals that had never been awarded, Hugo Schramm and fellow CBIVA member Daniel Green approached Chen at a Chinese New Year celebration in 1994 about the ROC government awarding the remaining medals to aging China Theater veterans. The government in Taipei approved resumption of the awards.

Collecting Trading Cards Keeps Sports Fans In The Game

Adding to their NBA basketball card collection is a way to score points with many youngsters.

(NAPS)—If you're an adult, you still may be upset with your mother for throwing away your cherished trading card collection. However, if your children have discovered the art of card collecting, you have the chance to relive your youth. Card collecting is a popular hobby and today's hottest cards are NBA basketball cards.

During the last few years, the NBA and its stars have begun to transcend the barriers of language and culture worldwide. Michael Jordan, Grant Hill, John Stockton and Glenn Robinson are among the more popular players with collectible trading cards.

So, with the holidays right around the corner, instead of buying that same boring gift for a loved one, why not consider NBA basketball cards?

Currently, the NBA has four trading card licensees—Fleer, SkyBox, Topps, and Upper Deck. Like most global product companies, each have multiple brands for consumers priced between 99 cents and $4.99 a pack.

To help you and your card recipient get started in planning a collection, follow these helpful hints:

• Do Your Homework—To get a feel for the hottest cards, refer to various basketball trading card publications. In addition, attending card shows, talking to veteran card collectors and visiting your local hobby or toy store, are good ways to get started.

• Collecting Should Be Fun!—Try collecting the cards of your favorite team, player or position. Also, look for special packs and insert sets such as Fleer's "Hot Packs", SkyBox's "NBA Hoops All-Time Rookie Team," Upper Deck's "Crash the Game", or the Topps Stadium Club "Beam Team" laser-cut cards.

Nowadays there are also clear plastic sheets and three-ring binders so you can easily spot and organize all your cards.

In summary, collecting NBA basketball cards helps bring the excitement of the NBA game to your home.

SEPARATING? DIVORCING?

Your Divorce Lawyer Doesn't Want You To Read This Report

The average person is rarely placed in greater jeopardy-emotionally, financially, and legally than when going through a divorce. The reality of divorce courts is that most litigants leave the courtroom feeling as if they have just been hit by a truck! Even the apparent winner rarely feels good with the outcome.

Divorce Law attempts to fit one of the most painful of adult choices into a legal framework. Some people expect their lawyers to be confessors or even to provide psychological counseling. Others never give their lawyers a chance, regarding them as the enemy when they attempt to compromise with the other side. There are clients who are in such a hurry to conclude their divorce that they waive anything and everything to which they might have a claim.

If you want to avoid the horror stories; if your goal in divorce is a level of self-control, decorum, and reasonableness; if you appreciate your marriage is ending but your parenting will continue; if you don't want to go broke paying legal fees, then call 1-800-294-7311 for the free report.

You do have choices! You can avoid the costly trap of litigation and the problems associated with it! You can take control of your divorce!

McAuley senior wins Nissan

Colleen Cloonan, a senior student at Mother McAuley High School, was the envy of 1,961 girls at the high school when she won THE BIG PRIZE - a 1995 Nissan Sentra. The drawing for the car culminated the 1995 Calendar Drive, the major annual fundraising event which supplements revenues from tuition and fees enabling Mother McAuley High School to continue its tradition of excellence in education. Over the last 14 years, this annual drive has generated approximately $4,000,000. The car raffle, along with other incentive prizes, encourages students to participate in the drive and rewards them for their efforts.

Colleen Cloonan is the daughter of Mrs. Linda Cloonan of Chicago.

Brother Rice Key Club serves community

Members of the Brother Rice High School Key (Kiwanis Educates Youth) Club display some canned goods they collected to feed the needy. The Key Club, a service organization in which students volunteer their time to help the community, is under the direction of English instructor Hal Ross of Oak Lawn. In addition to canned food drives, the Key Club organizes blood drives and are involved in Habitat for Humanity projects, volunteering at area hospitals and working at various community events such as Oak Lawn Family Days and Kiwanis Peanut Day.

This school year the Key Club will also be collecting paper goods and baby blankets for the needy and helping at Brother Rice's "adopted" parish, St. Gelasius located at 64th and Woodlawn in Chicago. Next year the club members plan to volunteer their time at the Democratic Convention at the United Center. The Key Club is the largest service organization for high school students and exists in 18 countries.

Compliments go to the villages of Oak Lawn Evergreen Park for their department of public works.

On Monday, December 11 and Tuesday, December 12, the inclement weather brought about accidents due to the slippery roads and streets.

After being on the expressway and Beverly area, it was a pleasure driving through Evergreen Park and Oak Lawn.

The salt trucks were out and the first sign of relief was when I was no longer sliding on the roads.

If my tax dollars, for the village of Oak Lawn, are making my life safer because of cleared, and salted streets, so may it be. I hope there will never be a budget cut for the streets of Oak Lawn hindering the safety of its resdents.

Village trustee questions budget

by Carlene O'Connor

The village board minutes of December 12, 1995 were busy with many topic on the its agenda.

Most of the residents of Oak Lawn enjoy a comfortable living and probably do not give any concern to the homeless.

Pastor Russ has founded a center for the homeless and the village board is seeking to carry out his good work.

According to Trustee Keane, "We can turn a wrong into a good." Mayor Kolb feels, "another location may be the answer." Trustee Stancik seeks a middle of the road approach where all parties can come together and Trustee Stancik volunteered to chair the meeting. The meeting would include neighboring residents of the area and all those interested in the homeless and Pastor Russ's home. According to Stancik, "there were periods when there was not supervision at the home and this was cause for complaints." No decision concerning the home was reached.

Trustee Joy has a petition which would hold state legislators accountable for the amount of money we are paying on our taxes for education.

Trustee Joy welcomed the was a "cheap shot" and that students attending the these skills people bring back meeting, for they are in a are invaluable and feel Oak organziaton called, Good Lawn is a well run Government in Action. community."

APPEAL OF PLANNING AND DEVELOPMENT DENIAL

A request for rezoning from R-2 (two family) to R-3 (multi-family) at 9436 S. Kolmar was denied.

A request for rezoning from an M-1 (restricted manufactoring to a R-3 at 9100 South Kenton was denied.

Subdivision #95-22 Edison's Resubdivision 2 lots at 5466 West Edison was denied.

Consent Agenda

A request for authorization to approve promotions in the department of Public Works was approved.

A liquor license was granted to Roger Janusz at the X-Press Mart 10327 S. Central.

The 1996 Municipal Budget was approved after Trustee Streit proposed a few questions. Chiefly his concern was travel expenses being up 40% from last year. He said, "I view the budget process as a process and need to ask questions."

Trustee Stancik said comments on travel expenses

Mayor Kolb responded by saying,"When I go to these things, I try to learn as much as I can. Oak Lawn is a beautiful town and is a well manage community."

The village hall will be closed Friday, December 22 and Christmas Day, Monday December 25th. There will be no village meeting on December 26th.

Mayor Kolb concluded the meeting by accepting Phillip V. Boyle's resignation from the Senior Citizen Commision. He is retiring.

Mayor Kolb wished everyone a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year with good Health.

Social Security offices improve new systems

Under new systems improvements, Social Security can now make online computer corrections to workers' earnings records, according to Rosalie Thompson, Manager of the Social Security office in Evergreen Park. Before, adjustments to an individual's earnings record took from nine to 18 months because of manual preparation and transferral of documents.

Now, if you call Social Security toll-free number, the Social Security representative who answers your call will :

1. Make the correction if possible during this phone call.
2. Tell you what documents you need to furnish to show proof of the correct earnings for the period in question.
3. Make an appointment for you to correct the error at your local office, if that is necessary.

Your earnings record will be updated overnight and a printed correction will be mailed to you upon request.

A correct earnings record is important because it ensures that workers have the proper wage amounts credited to their Social Security records. These amounts are used in calculating Social Security benefits payable to workers and their families if they become disabled or retire and in determining eligiblity for Medicare coverage.

Social Security recommends checking your earnings record every three years. To find out if your earnings are recorded correctly, you can call Social Security's toll-free number, 1-800-772-1213 and request a Personal Earnings And Benefit Estimate Statement (PEBES) which shows an annual breakdown of earnings recorded since 1951. Earnings before 1951 are summarized. People who reach age 58, 59, or 60 in 1996, who have earnings and are not currently receiving benefits, will automatically be mailed a PEBES. By the year 2000, Social Security will automatically send annual statements to all workers age 25 and older.

If you receive a statement and find an error, call the toll-free number above to have it corrected.

Donnersberger endorsed as judge

Thomas C. Hynes, Chairperson of the Judicial Subcircuit Committee and Democratic Committeeman of the 19th Ward, has announced that Judge David R. Donnersberger received the committee's endorsement for a full Circuit Court judgeship. Judge Donnersberger has been serving as an Associate Judge for the past 6 years and is the recipient of the highest rating possible from the Chicago Bar Association.

Judge Donnersberger has 23 years of experience as an attorney, having tried more than 50 jury trials and over 600 bench trials. Park Lawn gives new opportunities to others

Park Lawn is a non-profit agency which addresses the needs of children and adults with developmental disabilities. Park Lawn was founded in 1955 by a group of parents who recognized untapped potential in their children and sought to give them the same opportunities to learn and grow as others.

In 1968, Park Lawn erected a school building and professional staff was hired. Individuals between the ages of three and twenty-one with a primary diagnosis of mental retardation are eligible to enroll in Park Lawn School.

The curriculum is functional in nature and stresses self-care, social interaction, communication and fine and gross motor coordination. Academic skills such as word recognition and basic numbers are stressed and provide the foundation for telling time, counting money, shopping and meal preparation.

An addition for adult programs was built in 1972. The needs of individuals over the age of twenty-one with severe or profound disabilities are addressed in the Adult Developmental Training Program. Goals include achieving self-sufficiency by mastering practical life skills and furthering proficiency in vocational tasks.

Soon after the adult programs were built, Park Lawn developed a workshop program and several residential facilities. The workshop employees fulfill sub-contract jobs from local and national companies. They perform a variety of tasks such as packaging, heat sealing, point-of-purchase display assembly, collating, sorting, quality inspection, and bulk mailing. Short-run and continuous contract jobs are competitively priced, completed within specific time frames, and backed by quality assurances.

Today over 180 persons from Chicago and more than thirty surrounding suburbs participate in the programs offered.

Self-employment program at Moraine

Moraine Valley's Small Business Development Center will offer a Self-Employment Training program in January for small business owners and those interested in starting a small business.

The five-session program will begin on Tuesday, January 23 and conclude on Wednesday, January 31. This session will provide an overview of small business issues. Each of the five sessions will cover a different topic.

St. Gerald's receives first place

St. Gerald's eighth grade students received First Place in the "It's Academic Competition" on November 16th, at St. Rita High School. Seventeen Catholic Elementary Schools sent eighth grade teams to compete in this event which features questions in Math, History, Literature, Science and Religion. The format requires students to answer questions orally within a limited time.

Moraine faculty member receives award

Sylvia Jenkins, assistant professor of Learning Resources at Moraine Valley, recently received an inaugural David Pierce Quality Award from the National Initiative for Leadership and Institutional Effectiveness for the development of the college's LRC Technology Workshops.

Jenkins developed the workshops in 1988 with Betsey Teo, professor of Learning Resources at the college.

The LRC Technology Workshop teaches students to access software using CD-ROM and online databases. Class participants are introduced to a basic work processing package to produce their research paper.

Social Security changes in 1996

Social Security and Supplemental Security Income (SSI) benefits will increase 2.6 percent beginning with the payments that Social Security beneficiaries receive January 3 and SSI recipients receive on December 29, Rosalie Thompson, Social Security Manager of the Evergreen Park office said today. The automatic cost-of-living adjustment is made annually.

For Social Security beneficiaries, the average monthly benefit amount for all retired workers will rise from $702 to $720. The maximum federal SSI monthly payment to an individual will rise from $458 to $470. For a couple, the maximum federal SSI payment will rise from $687 to $705. Some states add a supplement to the federal payment.

Social Security and SSI benefits increase automatically each year based on the rise in the Consumer Price Index for Urban Wage Earners and Clerical Workers (CPI-W) from the third quarter of one year through the corresponding period of the next. This year's increase in the CPI-W was 2.6 percent.

OLCHS does excel

During the past several weeks, some articles in area newspapers have been critical and/or reported inaccurate and incomplete data regarding Oak Lawn Community High School's State School Report Card results.

Oak Lawn Community High School would like to set the facts straight. Did you know that:

- 89% of math students have met or exceeded the state goals compared to the state average of 78%. In fact, the math results were the highest in the area.
- Writing results indicate that 70% of the students have met or exceeded state results compared with an average of 57% of the state. Again, these scores reflect the highest results in the area.
- 35% of the student body earned First Quarter Honor Roll/High Honor Roll status.
- 68% of the student body is involved in more than 64 extra-curricular sports and activities.
- Twenty-nine students were named "Illinois State Scholars" for 1995-96, up 45% from last year.

Oak Lawn Community High School is constantly improving its teaching and learning to ensure that all students are learning and being served.

"I resolve to do in '96"

By Carlene E. O'Connor

New Years Resolutions, some people make them and break them sometime in the course of the year and others stick by them. In a mini poll of area residents these people hope to stick to theirs. These are:

Jerry Medlen, of Bridgeview: "I want to quit smoking by using Niceret gum. I know I will pull my hair out."

Bud Milazzo, of Oak Lawn: "A resolution will not make me do the things I want to do or not. I do them anyway."

John Tinto, of Oak Lawn: "I want to quit gambling."

Bill Shaheen, of Oak Lawn: "I hope to lose weight in '96."

Steve Phillops, of Oak Lawn, "I want to be married before I am 34. (He's 33 now.)

Jose Jaquez, of Oak Lawn, "I want to become an American citizen."

Lt. Rich Harper, of Burbank: "I want to finish alot of things I started last year and spend more time with my family."

Phil Reed, of Burbank: "I want to give up liver and onions and become a better person."

James K. Johns, of Burbank, "I want to stop procrastinating and get more chores done around the house."

Tim Ried, of Burbank: "I want to live healthier."

Barb Doody, of Evergreen Park: "I want to work harder to understand my teenage son."

Kristine Mc Cann, of Evergreen Park: "I want to watch what I eat and exercise."

Trustee Carol E. Kyle, of Evergreen Park: "I want patience with teenagers."

Trustee John F. Murphy, of Evergreen Park: "I want to quit smoking."

Mayor Anthony Vacco, of Evergreen Park: "I want everyone to stay sober and enjoy the holiday. I wish everyone good health."

Ed Schultz, of Oak Lawn: "I like to quit smoking in '96."

Anne Cusack, of Bridgeview: "I really didn't make any. Maybe lose weight and exercise."

Pat Lyman, of Bridgeview: "Have more patience."

John Gremlin, of Oak Lawn: "I want to exercise more by laying on the ground and doing sit-ups. Also have more spiritual growth and be upwardly mobile on personal enrichment."

As one can see, New Years Resolutions vary from person to person. good luck to them all and Happy New Year to all Village View Readers!

Choral Croup from Richards High School.

Christmas gifts to LARC

The Chicago Southland Convention and Visitors Bureau and its members donated over 100 Christmas gifts to LARC. The gifts were collected at the 2nd Annual Holiday Party at the Holiday INN - Alsip on Monday, Dec. 12, 1995. Entertainment for the evening was the Choral Group from Richards' High School.

Bureau members were asked to bring new various items including games, video tapes, batteries, gloves, scarfs, towels perfume, aftershave and many others for LARC. LARC is an association that exists to provide services that enable people with developmental disabilities to work, live and play in the community. LARC is a private non-profit organization originally formed as a school for mentally disabled children in 1956. LARC currently provides day training and work activity and operates several residential homes called Community Integrated Living Arrangements.

The Chicago Southland Convention and Visitors Bureau is the second largest bureau for tourism in the state of Illinois representing 60 South and Southwest Chicago Suburbs, an area of approximately one million in population. The Bureau markets the Chicago Southland as an affordable venue for meetings and conventions and an exciting destination for leisure travel and visitors. The economic impact of the travel and hospitality industry to the Chicago Southland exceeds $100 million annually and employs nearly 12,000 people.

Bridgeview gives commendation

By Carlene E. O'Connor

The Village Board of Bridgeview on December 13, 1995 gave special commendation to two telecommunication officers, Tina Falk and Cynthia Wuethrich.

The City of Bridgeview is a city that works during time of emergency. This was proved on November 12, 1995 when T.C.O. Falk received a call from a man advising that his wife had stopped breathing. Within 37 seconds T.C.O. Wuethrich dispatched the Bridgeview Fire Department.

By providing pre-arrival information via the phone, Falk and the man revived his wife.

The Village of Bridgeview commended these T.C.O.'s for a job well done and it was entered into their personal files.

Other business at the meeting included making license fees for a Class C-2 license for sports bars $2,800.

There was a motion by Trustee Kaput and seconded by Trustee Pticek to adopt ordinance 95-53. This ordinance is for the revocation, suspension, and imposition of fine of liquor licenses. The fines imposed can be up to $1,000 and cannot be more than $10,000 against any licensee during the period of the license. Proceeds from such fines shall be paid into the General Cooporate Fund.

New business licenses that were approved were Salam Company, 9824 Industrial Dr. #D, Ferrise Auto Cleaning, 8402 S. Oketo, Rizza Chevrolet, 8028 S. Harlem, Thunderbird Catering, 1204 W. 36th Place, Chicago, and Holiday Food Systems, 12633 S. Springfield.

Bridgeview announces house decorating

The winners of Bridgeview Park District's Annual Holiday House Decorating Contest conducted December 19th have been chosen.

In category number one with more than 50% use of homemade props and decorations 1st place went to the Pavel Family, 7416 Octavia Ave., 2nd place went to the Presz Family, 8831 S. Olympic Drive.

In category number two with less than 50% use of homemade props and decorations, 1st place went to the Traver Family, 8545 S. 77th Ct. and 2nd place to the Schiavone Family, 7717 Suburban Lane.

The Mooney Family, 8800 S. Harlem #2005 received 1st place in the mobile home category and the Patterson Family, 8800S. Harlem #2388 received 2nd place.

All contestants' houses were judged on the basis of props, lighting, use of theme, and originality.

Committee attempts changes

The Education Summit of Oak Lawn is circulating a petition in Oak Lawn and adjacent communities calling for a change in the school funding system in Illinois.

The current schoool aid formula relies on property taxes which creates large differences in state-wide school district funds. If a district is in a property-poor area, it will not get as much money from the tax rate imposed on residents.

The Cook County tax cap law limits school districts to property tax levy increases of 5% or the rate of inflation, whichever is higher, districts without strong property tax bases are forced to get voter approval for additional rate increases needed to pay for running the district.

The Education Summit Committee of Oak Lawn -- which includes village officials, community members and educators wants funding to come from income tax instead of property tax.

Twas three days before Christmas and all through the plane not a person was peeping not even a child.

The people were fed and sitting quietly in awe, wondering if St. Nick placed that snow cap below. All the mountains were nestled in the craters below, while imaginative angels danced in our heads.

Rich in his sweats and I in my tights had just settled down for a brief winter's nap. When out in the sky there arose such a splatter, I opened my eyes to see what's the matter.

When what to my wondering eyes should appear but mountains, mountains and mountains and a sky that was so near.

I threw down the paper and what to my wondering eyes should appear but eight tiny mountain ranges and someone calling them by name.

Now Sierras, Mandrea, Utes and Zion, Catalina, Montezano and the big Grand Canyon, when suddenly there appeared into sight, the largest mountain range of all.. Rockys, the greatest one of them all.

Suddenly out from the cabin I heard him exclaim "Merry Christmas to all and to all a good day!"

Hoping by now Claude Evans is out of the hospital and doing well with his prosthesis!

Our sympathy to the family of John McGivern, trustee of Evergreen Park, who died of a heart attack, Wednesday, Dec. 27, 1995. John was an usher at St. Bernadette Church in Evergreen Park and he was a parishioner for more than 40 years.

Congratulations to Mr. Delort, who became the Village of Evergreen Park's new Zoning Board of Appeals Chairman. Mr. Delort is an attorney with the firm of Odelson and Sterk Ltd.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Dixon of Oak Lawn, announced the engagement of Lance Richard Dixon, formerly of Oak Lawn, to Anne Woollard, formerly of Destin, Florida, on December 22, 1995. Lance is a manager at Kinkos in Peoria and Anne works at Kinkos in Peoria. No date has been set for the wedding!

Things just don't happen-you have to make them happen

By Annette Dixon

Approximately three years ago, while working at the U. S. O. at Midway Airport a young woman came into the service center and asked if she could volunteer her services.

Her story was unique! Her name is Christine Weingart and she resides in Mt. Greenwood. The problem she had as a volunteer was that she was unable to drive a car, but if she could get a ride to and from the airport, she would be more than happy to volunteer!

Guess who became the driver? Not only did I become her driver, but we became good friends! Chris told me of the passing of her father and how much she relied on his encourgement and support for her. See, Chris is in a wheelchair and has been in one since 1978.

Notice, I didn't use the words, handicap or disabled. The intentional use of these words would be detrimental in telling the story about Chris! The reason disabled and handicap cannot be used in describing Chris is because she leads me to believe in no way is she disabled or handicapped. Of course, she jokes around, "yea, look, do you see me running or walking?" I see that her mind and spirit is that of the most idealistic positive person I have ever met!

Not only do I feel this way about her but her friend, Kathy of more than 29 years also feels that Chris is the most positive person in the world! Kathy knew Chris in high school prior to her surgery.

Some readers may know Chris was operated on her spine for a benign tumor which left her paralyzed. She had no recourse, but to be lifted by the spirit and become her father's princess! The joy she had being with her mother and father was unmeasurable in words!

After his death, Chris went through months of mourning, but quietly, so that one would not guess it was happening. Her mourning period consisted of having management move her dad's body from the burial plot to the mausoleum and being able to know someday she would be able to drive to the mausoleum and sit inside a building in the winter or summer.

Chris then decided to take driving lessons and has been driving for 2 1/2 years. She now has her own car with hand controls and weathers the storm.

Not only did she start to drive alone, but has traveled frequently by air.

The bravest and most difficult thing Chris was faced with was the decision to repair broken water main pipes in the home or just sell the home in which she lived more than 45 years!

Is this story any different than two of my other friends in a wheelchair (Angela Barrett and Bob Burklund)? Not really, but I didn't know the complete story of Angela's and Bob's, but I do know Chris' story!

The secret story is out! Chris always stated she wanted to meet an ambulatory person, her comment, "one of us has to walk."

Chris's positive statement was not successful for she fell in love with Jerry Toigo, Chris's fiance' who also is in a wheelchair, but to watch them go out is amazing! Chris slips into her side of the car. She and Jerry pull her chair into the back seat of the car. Jerry scoots over to the driver's side, slips into the front seat and pulls his chair into the back seat and now they are on their way to B.J. Fellow for a late night out.

Of course, you won't always find them there, for they do dine out frequently in plush restaurants and think nothing of traveling 30 miles for a good restaurant.

Evergreen Park Village Meeting

By Carlene E. O'Connor

The Village of Evergreen Park Board meeting of December 18, 1995 began with the mayor wishing all a Merry Christmas and a healthy, prosperous New Year.

Good news to all in the community is that St. Xavier College is planning a 1.75 million expansion project. They plan on building a community conference center by the lake. Ground will be broken in the spring. This will house 235 people with partitions for six rooms and will be available to the community. Overnight accomendations are being which were accepted were Nails Salon, 3336 W. 95th Street, Kirby Vacuum Service and Sales, 3625 W. 95th Street, and Dr. Neezer Shaik, Medical Services, 3830 W. 95th Street were approved.

Other licenses granted by the board were to four scavenger services. These are Evergreen Scavenger, Business US Waste, Waste Management, and National Waste Service.

The Zoning Board of Appeals will be headed by Mathias W. Delort. He will serve as chairman and was appointed by the mayor.

It will cost you more to made possible.

The Evergreen Park Police department is asking everyone to participate in the fight against crime. They have organized a neighborhood watch and one can participate by calling 422-2944 or you can call the mayor at his office.

The mayor assured everyone that they cannot give opinions on the litigation over the development of the cementery. This does not mean that they are not fighting any development of the land.

The next meeting of the Planning Commission will be on January 3, 1996. Monthly meetings will be held on the Wednesday after the board meeting.

Mary Griffin Murphey resignation as Recycling Director was accepted. She served 5 1/2 years.

The business licenses sell your house. An ordinance No. 27-1995, "An ordinance amending Chapter 18, Business Regulation Certificates and Taxation by Changing Section 18-50 Real Estate Transfer Tax Imposed." This means that taxes will be $5 instead of $3 per thousand on the sale of a home or business. The tax is to be paid by the seller. Anyone who moves back to the Evergreen Park Community within one year will receive a rebate.

Better news is that if you reside in Evergreen Park taxes will not be going up to pay for General Obligation Bonds. These bonds were purchased at the cost of $1,700,000 to pay for various capital projects. There will be no increase to taxpayers and payment will begin in the year 2001 when the present outstanding bonds will be paid.

Library remodeling on target

Remodeling on the first floor of the Oak Lawn Library is going well according to Dr. James Casey, director, in his report to the library board at its regular meeting, Dec. 19. The new audiovisual service desk will be installed soon. The expansion of facilities in Youth Services is proceeding according to plan. When first floor construction is completed, the second floor and the lower level are targeted for some changes.

Circulation continues to run ahead of 1994, about three percent at the end of November, a total of 18,000 more transactions.

During the meeting the board reviewed and made no changes to the Conventions, Conferences, Memberships Policy and the Staff Association Policy. A revised Unattended Children's Policy was adopted.

In regular business, the board approved payment of $21,940 for library materials; $34,373 for operating expenses; and $158,968 for personnel.

Board meetings are held at 7:30 p.m. on the third Tuesday of each month in the library's lower level meeting room, 5300 W. 95th St. Meetings are open to the public.

OL Chamber kicks off 50th anniversary celebration

A gala dinner dance with installation of officers will kick off a year-long celebration of the 50th anniversary of the Oak Lawn Chamber of Commerce. The affair will be held on Saturday, January 20, at the Oak Lawn Hilton Hotel and Conference Center, 9333 S. Cicero Avenue. Officers to be installed are Joann Buschbach, president; Jim Brady; first vice president; Laura Shallow, second vice president; Chris Augle, secretary; and Doris Marks, treasurer.

Cocktail hour begins at 6:30 p.m. The installation program is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. with dinner at 8 p.m. Kurt Michaels orchestra will provide the music for dancing. Black tie is optional. Tickets, at $40 per person, are available at the Chamber of Commerce office, 5314 W. 95th St. 708-424-8300.

Former Chamber officers, directors and business owners are expected to be on hand to help launch the celebration year which will include special events and activities.

Province appoints president to Marist High School

Brother Hank Hammer, FMS, Principal at Marist High School, announced yesterday to the faculty and staff that he will not seek a second term as Principal for the 1996-97 school year.

As a result of this decision, the Province Leadership Team of the Marist Brothers, has worked closely with the Board of Directors to plan the future administration. Marist High School will begin a President-Principal model of educational administration beginning July 1996. The Province Leadership Team is proud to announce that Brother Richard Sharpe, FMS, has accepted the nomination to be the first President of Marist High School.

Marist High School Bro. Richard Sharpe FMS President.

Brother Sharpe, a native of Wheeling, West Virginia, is a graduate of Marist College in Poughkeepsie, New York and has his Master's Degree in Public Administration from the University of Notre Dame.

His first position upon graduation was at Marist from 1970-1976, where he served as Teacher and Chairman of the Social Studies Department, along with acting as Student Council Moderator.

In 1976, he left Marist to accept his first administrative position as Principal at Bishop Carroll High School in Edensburg, Pennsylvania. He served in this capacity for 5 years, and then in 1981 he moved on to another Marist school, Mt. St. Michael Academy in Bronx, New York to supervise faculty and curriculum development as Vice-Principal. There he remained until 1987.

His last stop before returning to Marist as President would be for 8 years at St. Elizabeth High School in Oakland, California. In 1987 he served as the Dean of Studies and then in 1990 he was named Vice-Principal and Jr./Sr. Dean, along with his position as Dean of Studies.

A national search committee will be established by the Board of Directors for the position of Principal effective July 1996. Brother Sharpe said, "I feel that this new model of administration at Marist will allow the new Principal and his administration to focus on education and instructional delivery, and both he and I will have the time to spend with the students, who need nurturing and attention, because the students are the reason we are all here."

Illinois Municipal League reviews amendment

Oak Lawn Mayor Ernie Kolb recently attended the Illinois Municipal League's winter Board of Directors meeting December 15-16 in Chicago. Mayor Kolb, a vice president of the Illinois Municipal League, serves on the Board of Directors, the policy-making body of the Municipal League.

At the Board of Directors meeting, Illinois Municipal League President Greg Sparros reviewed the progress of the Unfunded Mandates Constitutional Amendment. Also, 1996 legislative proposals were discussed and approved.

"The focus of the winter Board Meeting was the unparalleled need for an Unfunded Mandates Constitutional Amendment," said Mayor Kolb. Mayors, managers, trustees, alderman, clerks, treasures and all local government officials need to take action by directly lobbying the General Assembly in passage of the constitutional amendment. Local officials will need to take advantage of every opportunity to promote the message by attending Unfunded Mandates Day in Springfield, holding press conferences, participating in a direct letter campaign and contacting legislators in their district office.

An Unfunded Mandates Day will be held in Springfield during the final week of March. All local officials are urged to attend. The final effort will take place from April 15th to May 6th.

Sensitive travel destinations emerge

Florida remains one the most popular vacation spots in 1996 and exotic locations such as Costa Rica, Belize, Jordan, Turkey and Vietnam are newly emerging as requested destinations, according to a survey of managers of the Chicago Motor Club's AAA Travel Agency.

"With attractions such as Walt Disney World and a well-developed coast line, Florida is worthy of the number-one slot," says Don Pryber, vice president of travel services. "New World destinations like Costa Rica and Belize and Old World locations like Jordan and Turkey offer travelers ecologically sensitive and historically sensitive vacation choices."

Home to rain forests and other exotic wonders, the Central American countries of Costa Rica and Belize are becoming popular destination for travelers with interests in nature and ecotouriesm. Jordan and Turkey offer a great deal of biblical and cultural history.

Vietnam elicits curiosity from Americans whose lives have been touched one way or another by that country. In fact, politically sensitive Vietnam, already a popular stopover on Asian cruises, is emerging as a viable destination.

Following is the AAA Travel Agency's top 10 vacation hot picks for 1996:

1. FLORIDA. With a variety of attractions, natural sites and activities, the entire state makes for an extremely popular vacation for all ages.

2. ALASKA. This natural wonderland continues its stronghold in the tourism industry. Alaska is especially popular as a cruise destination.

3. CRUISES. Crusing is affordable, convenient and very appealing for a wide range of travelers. Caribbean and Hawaiian cruises are most popular.

4. MEXICO. A quick jaunt across the border makes for an affordable and exotic vacation. The country's government continues to improve its infrastructure and tourism facilities, which makes it a convenience for travelers.

5. PACIFIC NORTHWESTERN U.S. This region offers an excellent choice for travelers looking for nature-oriented "ecotourism." Beautiful national parks and scenic coastlines, as well as well-appointed urban areas, are the appeal of the Pacific Northwest.

6. CARIBBEAN. Whether it's spicy nightlife or a relaxing escape, travelers can find it in this collection of islands. All-inclusive resorts are a popular feature of vacationing in the Caribbean.

7. LAS VEGAS. The appeal of the city is a constant for travelers looking for action--whether it's at the slots or on a pool-side lounge chair. Las Vegas continues to attract families by offering entertainment for all ages.

8. HAWAII. Travelers continue to flock to the islands, which are known for their lush natural sits and a true get-away-from-it-all atmosphere.

9. BRITISH ISLES. Tourism will be strong to this European destination, with its historical sites and varied touristic attractions.

10. ARIZONA AND SOUTHWESTERN U.S. Temporate climates and lovely natural scenes make this region a big draw for Midwestern tourists.

The Chicago Motor Club's AAA Travel is a full-service agency serving the general public and AAA-CMC members throughout Illinois and Northern Indiana.

Brookfield Zoo Recruits Volunteers

Brookfield Zoo is holding two open houses for those interested in the Guest Guide program. The open houses are Sunday, January 21, 1996, from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. and Wednesday, January 24, 1996 from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m.

The Guest Guide program is ideal for anyone, including retirees, schoolteachers, parents, 9-to-5ers, and college students, who want to contribute to their community but haven't been able to find a volunteer job that's both satisfying and flexible enough to fit into their busy schedules.

The program offers volunteers an opportunity to be outdoors, meet new people, learn new skills, and help Brookfield Zoo meet the needs of its guests. Guest Guides provide a variety of duties in the park, including welcoming visitors, adressing visitor's questions and concerns, helping guests locate facilities throughout the park, and offering suggestions for a more pleasant zoo visit.

Guest Guides are required to participate in a short, intensive training program to learn more about the physical layout of the zoo, the exhibits, attractions and services, special events and membership and animal adoption opportunities. They receive free zoo parking and admission for themselves and their immediate families. In addition guest guides are able to attend continuing education programs offered to Brookfield Zoo's volunteer educators.

Candidates for this program must be at least 18 years of age, friendly and outgoing, and able to work without direct supervision.

Those who plan to attend one of the two open houses should call Brookfield Zoo's Education Department by Wednesday, January 17, 1996, at (708)485-0263, ext. 852.

In Their Own Voices

The oral histories and pictorial languages recited and recorded by American Indians are legacies that offer rich insight into cultures that existed in the Americas long before the voyage of Columbus.

In their own voices, American Indians portrayed their societies before and after Europeans landed on their shores.

This exhibition, at the Field Museum at Roosevelt Road and Lake Shore Drive from now until February 25, 1996, explores in-depth three visually compelling documents, augmented by other examples drawn exclusively from the Library of Congress' collection.

The primary documents of the exhibition are: the Huejotzingo Codex, 1531 that illustrates the tax system of the Nahua people in Pueblo, Mexico; the Oztoticpac Lands Map, 1540, which shows land ownership among people living east of present day Mexico City; and Battiste Good's Winter Count 1230-1907, named after its author, Battiste Good, which documents how the Brule people of South Dakota and Nebraska used symbolic pictures to record historic events.

In Their Own Voices is on display in the Webber Gallery and is free with regular museum admission.

Route 66 Revisited

"America's Main Street" is alive and well in "Return to Route 66:Photographs from the Mother Road", by Shellee Graham. The free photographic exhibition, which opens at the Chicago public Library on Saturday, January 20, 1995, will run until March 17, 1996 in the Main Exhibit Hall of the Harold Washington Library Center, 400 South State Street.

After five years of driving and photographing sites along U.S. Highway Route 66, Shellee Graham has organized this exhibition of over 60 photographs with accompanying text. Graham captures the essence of the "Mother Road," while traveling through states like Illinois Missouri, Kansas, Texas and New Mexico.

"It is a pictorial journey that details the highway's history, forgotten towns, roadside diners, motels and people," said Graham.

Graham received a Bachelor of Fine Arts degree in Drawing from Drake University in Des Moines, Iowa. She has since exhibited her drawings and photographic exhibits on Route 66, and is involved in several non-profit arts organizations, including the Route 66 Associations of Missouri and Illinois.

The exhibit is sponsored by the Chicago Public Library's Special Collections and Preservation Division. All are invited to view this exhibit as we celebrate the 70th anniversary of Route 66. For more information call 312/747-4649.

Stickney Township Marks 95th Anniversary

Stickney Township's 1996 calendar, which was mailed last week to township residents, pays tribute to the township's 95th anniversary, which will be celebrated April 23, 1996.

The calendar's cover features a color photo of a boy on horseback, a scene typical of the area that was mostly mud and prairie when German and Dutch immigrants settled the territory at the turn of the century.

A brief history of the township by Supervisor Louis Viverito pays tribute to Alpheus Beede Stickney, for whom the township was named. A native of Maine, Stickney went to St. Paul, Minnesota and became one of the country's dynamic railroad pioneers.

He came to the Chicago area where he envisioned the construction of a gigantic freight transfer and railroad clearing yard in what is now called the Clearing area. The area did prosper and develop as he predicted, though the 1893-1897 panic dealt it a setback.

Stickney Township was the first established government in the area. By 1911 the first town hall was built at 5469 West 63rd Street. Construction of roads and bridges was underway and general assistance was being provided to the needy.

The township first provided medical care, which has become one of its main functions, in 1913 though a full-time Board of Health was not added until1918 and the Public Health District was not created until 1946.

The Township was a major provider of relief for the jobless, homeless and needy during the Great Depression of the 1930s.

To expand its health care program, the Township built two medical centers, one north and one south, in 1947. One for Central Stickney was added in 1957. In recent years all three have been modernized and enlarged.

Great expansion has taken place in providing family health care, senior citizen services, classes and recreation for youth of all ages, mental health, environmental protection, day care, counseling and training for mothers and infants, special mammography and cholesterol screening and animal control.

These programs have resulted in Stickney Township winning the Governor's Hometown Award for Senior Achievement in 1990 and being named Illinois Township of the year in 1992.

A primer on investing for your child's education

Submitted by:
Dennis R. Canalini, Sr.
Account Executive, Investments Retirement Planning Specialist; Dean Witter Reynolds, 4801 Southwick Drive, Matteson, IL 60443; 708-481-0520

It's the year 2016 and it's one of the proudest moments in your life--junior's going off to college. Congratulations! But by the time you hear "Pomp and Circumstance" four years later, you will have spent up to over $268,000* for tuition and expenses from that four-year private college.

The lesson is simple; If your child is going to pursue a college education you probably need to start pursuing a sound investment strategy now.

What Price Knowledge? The Rising Cost of Higher Education

Over the past ten years, college costs have risen at an average annual rate of 8%. At this rate, it could cost as much as $81,688 to put a child through a four-year public college seventeen years from now.

There is good reason to believe that the price of higher education will continue to rise at a healthy clip. Schools face rising costs to remain competitive and the population of college-age Americans is shrinking steadily. These factors mean that the costs of expanded technology and salary increases will be distributed over a smaller number of students.

What's the best way to prepare? Get a jump on the costs by beginning your financial planning now! The first step is estimating the amount and the timing of your future payments for higher education. Then graduate from step one and examine the sound investment alternatives that are open to you -- and your child's future.

A Tutoriai On Funding Your Chiid's Coiiege Education

Most college funding plans have their foundation in relatively safe, growth-oriented instruments that are invested for the long term. The key is to find investments that provide as high a return as possible, given the desire for reduced risk. Here are just some of the investments you may wish to add to a college-funding portfolio:

Zero Coupon Treasury STRIPS. The deeply discounted purchase price of these instruments makes them affordable -- plus they offer the highest credit quality available, the "full faith and credit" of the federal government. (Note that these instruments are subject to market fluctuation if sold prior to maturity). Another advantage: Since Treasury STRIPS are available in a wide range of maturities, you can structure a "ladder" portiolio of these securities that will mature over a four-year period to coincide with college tuition payments.

As their name implies, zero STRIPS make no periodic interest payments. Instead, accreted interest compounds internally over the life of the bond until maturity, eliminating reinvestment risk for the holder.

Municipal zero coupon bonds. Zero coupon municipal bonds are federally tax-free investments that pay no current interest, but return full face value when held to maturity. Municipal zeros are also generally exempt from state taxes when bought by a resident of the issuing state. They are sold at a deep discount from par value and compound or accrete at an initial stated tax-exempt rate of return as the bonds grow from their discounted price to their par value at maturity. (Note that, like other zeros, municipal zeros are subject to market fluctuation if sold prior to maturity.) Municipal bonds offer a degree of safety that is second only to U. S. Goverment obligations.

Mutual funds. Mutual funds own a pool of securities and sell interests in the pool to investors, giving them the benefits of a diverse portfolio and professional management. Every fund has a specified investment objective and buys and sells securities accordingly. The more conservative funds are those invested in U. S. government securities. If your risk tolerance is slightly higher, you might consider a fund that invests ir. blue-chip stocks.

The cost of mutual fund shares and the price you receive when you sell shares varies according to the market value of the underlying securities. When it's time to make a tuition payment, you would sell shares of the mutual fund at the current market price of the fund. Many mutual funds are subject to a declining sales charge upon redemption. Investors should check the fund's prospectus for more information before investing.

Unit trusts. A unit trust also sells shares in a pool of professionally selected securities designed to meet a specific investment goal. However, unlike mutual funds, unit trusts have maturity dates and the underlying securities generally remain the same for the life of the trust. As with zero coupon bonds, the maturity of unit trust investments generally can be timed to match expected tuition payment dates. However, investors should be aware of the fact that in some unit trusts, owing to the nature of these investments, maturity will occur prior to the original termination date.

Study Today's Gifting and Tax Opportunities

To reduce the tax liability on any type of investment earmarked for college, consider placing the securities into a custodial account that meets the requirements of either the Uniform Gift to Minors Act (UTMA).

By depositing securities into these types of accounts, you can take advantage of lower tax rates generally available to minors. Since there are limitations to this, depending on yearly income and age of child, you should consult your tax advisor before opening an account of this type.

Interest on U. S. government securities, such as Treasury zeros, is exempt from state and local taxes. However, the federal government taxes the accreted interest on

Treasury zeros each year as ordinary income. Some mutual funds and unit trusts are designed to provide municipal bonds. However, you may prefer to purchase a mutual fund or unit trust that invests in seurities, such as equities, that are likely to provide greater growth potential. Since both mutual funds and unit trusts are sold pursuant to a prospectus, it is important that you carefully read and understand the contents of the prospectus before investing in a particular fund or trust.

Moraine Valley and Governors State sign agreement

Governors State University and Moraine Valley Community College have announced an affiliation agreement to improve educational services to students served by both institutions.

Under the agreement, GSU will offer the last two years of the bachelor's degree in business and technology and the bachelor's degree in health administration on the Moraine Valley campus. The health administration bachelor's degree is the only such accredited degree offered by a public university in Illinois. The business and technology bachelor's degree is also the only such capstone degree offered by a public university.

"Together our schools will create a strong and diverse mix of academic programs and educational opportunities for upper division and graduate-level credit work," Governors State University president Paula Wolff explained. "We find Moraine Valley students well-prepared and serious students, many balancing jobs, family, and school. We hope to make their bachelor's degree completion at GSU as convenient as possible."

"Moraine Valley is pleased to announce this new agreement with Governors State University," said John Donahue, chairman of Moraine Valley's Board of Trustees. "Although we've worked together in the past, this represents a stronger relationship between the two colleges."

"This agreement will benefit all residents of the southwest suburbs by providing them with the opportunity to earn a bachelor's degree by correspondence. These courses will lead to bachelor's degrees offered through the GSU College of Business and Public Administration and the College of Health Professions.

During the past several years, Governors State advisors have been on the Moraine Valley campus, providing information on transfer procedures and course requirements. Their assistance will continue on a regular basis.

For additional information on course offerings and GSU services at Moraine Valley, call the GSU Office of Off-Campus Programming at (708)534-3143.

enrolling in classes held on Moraine Valley's campus," said Dr. Vernon O. Crawley, president of Moraine Valley.

During this first year of affiliation, Governors State and Moraine Valley are working on a program of articulation so that students who have completed courses at Moraine Valley will be able to enroll in sequences of GSU courses on the Palos Hills campus, through the new telecommunication interactive classrooms, or at other teaching sites in the Moraine Valley area.

Registrations and additional information are available at the Oak Lawn Chamber office, 5324 W. 95th Street, 708-424-8300.

Brother Rice hosts anniversary dance

Members of the Brother Rice High School 40th Anniversary celebration committee hold the first seat reservations for the school's 40th Anniversary Dinner-Dance. From left are Rice board of directors member Mike Coffey, dinner-dance co-chairs Laura Shallow and Cathy Cainkar, 40th Anniversary Committee chairman Mike Gorman, '81 of Evergreen Park and assistant principal for institutional advancement Br. C. J. Gattone of Beverly. The reservations were from Kelly-Kean Nissan in Oak Lawn, Kean Brothers, Inc., in Evergreen Park and Sheehy Funderal Homes.

The 40th Anniversary dinner-dance will be held Sunday, Feb. 11 at the Martinique Restaurant in Evergreen Park. Reservations are being accepted through February 1. Tickets are $100 each and includes dinner and a night of dancing. Refreshments will be served at 5 p.m. with dinner at 6 p.m. The first Edmund Rice Award will be presented to Mrs. Betty Barton of Beverly following the dinner. Music will be performed by the "Big Band Machine' led by alumnus Rich Daniels, '78. All Brother Rice alumni, alumni parents, friends and supporters are invited to attend this gala event to celebrate the school's 40 years of excellence. Contact the Brother Rice Development Office at 312-779-3410 for more information and to make reservations.

St. Xavier offers immunization

A Community Immunization Fair will take place from 9:00 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Wednesday, January 17 in the Nursing Center of Saint Xavier University, located at 3700 W. 103rd Street in Chicago. The fair offers people of all ages an opportunity to obtain MMR (measles, mumps, rubella), polio, DPT and other vaccinations. Hepatitis B immunizations are only available for infants due to Department of Health policy.

The program is a joint effort of the Saint Xavier University School of Nursing and the Chicago Department of Health. A donation of $10 per family is requested to help offset program costs, however, no one will be denied services.

Parents must accompany their children and bring immunization records. If these records are unavailable, please contact your physician for a copy.

No appointments are necessary. For more information on the Immunization Fair, call the Saint Xavier University School of Nursing at (312) 298-3731.

OL Chamber sponsors live satellite broadcast

Oak Lawn Chamber of Commerce is linking up with "Action '96", a live satellite broadcast of a legislative briefing featuring, among others, Sally Jackson, CEO and president of the Illinois State Chamber of Commerce. With the cooperation of Governors State University, the broadcast will be received on its campus, 11:30 a.m. - 1 p.m. Tuesday, Jan. 23. The broadcast will air from Western Illinois University, Macomb. Issues important to Illinois businesses will be discussed.

Oak Lawn Chamber extends an invitation to all Chambers in the surrounding area to join them for this special event. The University will serve a buffet lunch for $5.95 per person.

Governors State University is located at University Parkway (formerly Steunkel Road) just off Cicero Ave.

Chamber announces logo contest

High School students from Oak Lawn Community High School and Richard High School are invited to compete in a logo contest sponsored by the Oak Lawn Chamber of Commerce.

The Chamber will celebrate its 50th anniversary in 1996. It is looking for a new logo commerorating this special event. The Village of Oak Lawn has agreed to use the winning design on its 1996 vehicle stickers. Cash awards will be given to the top three finalists; $75 for the winner, $50 for second place, $25 for third place.

Deadline to submit entries to the Chamber office, 5314 W. 95th Street is January 29. The entries will be judged at the Oak Lawn Municipal building on January 30. Judges include Mayor Ernest Kolb, Village Manager Joe Faber and a representative from Multimedia Cablevision. Multimedia has been asked to interview the winners at the Municipal building, January 31, when Joann Buschbach, Chamber president will announce the winners and present the awards.

Information about the contest and guidelines has been forwarded to the high schools and is also available from the Chamber of Commerce office, 708-424-8300.

McAuley students sponsor toy drive

Putting a smile on the faces of children was the goal of Mother McAuley High School students, who worked overtime during the holiday season to collect new and nearly new toys. Members of Action/Reaction, a club that attempts to bring about a heightened student consciousness for social issues, collected and wrapped over 350 toys that were delivered to children in kindergarten, first and second grades at the Patton School in Riverdale. Action/Reaction is moderated by Mrs. Nancy Little.

Dr. Cava, was senior surgeon at Little Company of Mary in the field of obstetrics and gynecology and practiced for 34 years. He recently retired, although his partner Dr. Jagodzinski will remain at their current office.

Little Company welcome cancer specialists

Jacob Rotmensch, M.D., U of C Section Chief, Gynecological Oncology; and Steven Waggoner, M.D., U of C Gynecological/Oncology.

As leaders in the specialty of cancer, they are working to discover new methods of detecting and treating ovarian, cervical, and uterine/endometrial cancer. Each has published many articles on their research findings and received distinguished professional awards.

Fighting cancer is a priority at Little Company of Mary Hospital and Health Care Centers. In the best interest of female patients, Little Company invited three physicians, with expertise in gynecological oncology from the University of Chicago, to join the medical staff. Their office is located in Little Company's Mary Potter Physicians Pavilion, 2800 W. 95th in Evergreen Park.

They are Arthur Herbst, M.D., Chairman, U of C Obstetrics/Gynecology;

Our condolence to the Oak Lawn families of the young adults that were victims of a car crash.

Christ Hospital, the Trauma Center, is the largest health facility center on the southside of Chicago. Christ Hospital, one of the largest employers in the south suburbs is proud to have that honor. Christ Hospital also is the only Trauma Center in this area. What is very difficult to understand is how the Village of Oak Lawn benefits by having Christ Hospital in its suburb.

Some of the benefits I'm sure are revenue from sales tax, employment for skilled and non-skilled workers, and the convenience of the stucture and location for the revenue from real estate taxes.

Many benefits when one's health is in danger, out ways the negative approach to health care at this hospital.

Some of the problems I see with this hospital would be the Triage (emergency center) and Trauma Center. Many buildings have been added onto the original building in the past years, there is no single unit for victims of crime, their families, friends or gang members.

So often, we forget that our society is now filled with much of the same violence as you see on T. V. each night!

Therefore our Christ Hospital's Trauma Center receives all the victims of violence from the south side of Chicago and Suburbs.

The uncomfortable atmostphere of this circumstance is when the emergency room is overly crowded with patients of all ages and lined up in the halls waiting for admittance. Whatever happened to the concept of Triage?

Recently the announcement came to the press regarding the sisterhood of other hospitals, meaning if Little Company of Mary Hospital was overcrowded they would send patients to St. Francis or wherever.

I believe Christ Hospital can send patients to Palos Community Hospital or South Suburban Hospitals or whereever.

January 2nd, I accompanied someone to Christ Hospital and the patient waited approximately 12 hours before being admitted to his room. Now I had a real learning experience about emergency rooms! That particular day someone's purse and money was stolen in the emergency room! The patients were lined up against the wall. At the immediate entrance of the emergency room, a young adult was vomiting and another crying and screaming, and yet only the security guard was available!

Oh yes, there were Oak Lawn residents trying to receive some help for heart attacks, as well as one woman who was dying and her family was sitting in the hallway with the dying patient.

Accidently, I walked into the comforting room and met three family members. The conversation I heard as I walked ahead of the three individuals was "Well you have to sign for him,""I'll get his things." One young teen girl was shedding tears while the other two just reacted as usual.

I was mortified! My first response was to want to yell out, doesn't any care!

There are four neighboring hospitals. Is it the red tape of paperwork that limits health service facilities to act accordingly? When will we as individuals be able to just say to one another, "I know you need (whatever) and I can get you help!" It just doesn't happen in todays technical emotionally unattached society.

This is not a bash against the health service's staff or technicial staff, it is a question to ask administration. When does one managing the emergency room make a decision to follow in the concept of what triage means and follow with the procedures of when there is overcrowdness to release some patients by ambulance to other hospitals for better immediate healthcare?

Xavier students named Who's Who in American Universities

Students from our circulation area were recently selected to appear in the 1996 edition of "Who's Who Among Students in American University and Colleges." This national recognition acknowledges these outstanding student leaders from St. Xavier University.

Campus nominating committees and editors of the annual directory have selected these Saint Xavier students based on their academic achievement, service to the community, leadership in extracurricular activities and potential for continued success.

"It is no surprise to me that Saint Xavier has such a significant number of recipients for this honor," said Steven Murphy, Vice President of Student Services for the University. "Our strong academic programs, coupled with the University's support services, provide our students with the foundation they need to succeed. We are very proud of their accomplishments."

Candy-Like Cookie takes $10,000 prize in Oatmeal Contest

Presto, chang-o! A favorite candy turned into a cookie took the Grand Prize in the 6th annual Quaker Oatmeal "Bake It Better With Oats" Recipe Contest. Oatmeal Butter Brittle Cookies, a crisp, nutty cookie that's broken into pieces just like peanut brittle, won $10,000.

Cookies took top honors this year in more ways than one. For the third year in a row, the cookie category had the most entries (42 percent). Within the category, indulgence was a key trend. Nearly half of the recipes called for butter, and many paired chocolate with the oats--semisweet chocolate, milk chocolate, white chocolate, mini chips, jumbo morsels and chunks. Peanut butter and tropical ingredients also were popular. To take their favorite flavors to new heights, contestants experimented with "flavor layering"--combining several forms of the same flavor, such as peanut butter, peanut butter chips and crushed peanut brittle.

Ease of preparation also was a trend among this year's cookie bakers. Some took advantage of convenience products such as packaged brownie mixes while others saved time by creating bar cookies. In all cases, oats were an easy and wholesome replacement for some of the flour.

The grand prize winner is a variation on a bar cookie. The buttery oatmeal cookie dough is patted by hand into a thin, very large cookie right on the cookie sheet. After baking semisweet chocolate pieces are sprinkled on top. The warm cookie softens the chocolate, making it easy to spread. To serve, the big cookie is broken into pieces of varying sizes--

Winner Gloria Piantek of Plainsboro, New Jersey bakes often and says cookies are her favorite.

"I started with the idea of a brittle because I thought it would make an unusual cookie that would also be easy," Piantek said. "Once I began experimenting, I took my first batches into work to get everyone's reaction. They loved the taste, and they liked being able to choose the size piece."

Piantek teaches reading at a middle school and often uses the teachers' lounge as a testing ground for new recipes. When she's creating one for a contest, she starts by looking in her pantry for ingredients people usually have on hand.

Piantek said, "The reason I bake so often with oatmeal is because I always have it in the house for breakfast."

The natural nuttiness of the oats enhanced by the roasted peanuts gave Oatmeal Butter Brittle Cookies a great, toasted nut flavor that brought "m-m-ms" from all of the contest judges.

OATMEAL BUTTER BRITTLE COOKIES
$10,000 Grand Prize
Quaker Oatmeal "Bake It With Oats" recipe contest
2 cups Quaker oats (quick or old fashioned, uncooked)
1-1/4 cups all-purpose flour
1/2 teaspoon baking powder
1 cup (2 sticks) butter or margarine, chilled
1 cup powdered sugar
2/3 cup firmly packed brown sugar
1-1/2 tablespoons water
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup chopped dry roasted or lightly salted peanuts
2 cups (12 ounces) semisweet chocolate pieces

Heat oven to 350 degrees F. Line two cookie sheets with foil. Combine oats, flour and baking powder. Add butter; blend with electric mixer on low to medium speed until crumbly. Add powdered sugar, brown sugar, water and vanilla. Mix until dough starts to form Stir in peanuts. Divide dough in half. Using first half of dough, drop by large spoonfuls onto foil-lined cookie sheet; pat evenly into 13x9-inch rectangle with lightly floured hands. Repeat using remaining dough and second cookie sheet. Bake 22 to 25 minutes or until golden brown, rotating cookie sheets after 12 minutes Remove cookie sheets to cooling racks. Sprinkle 1 cup chocolate pieces evenly over cookie. Cool completely. (Chill 15 minutes to set chocolate, if necessary.) Remove from cookie sheets and peel off foil. Break into pieces. Store lightly covered.

Sausage and Corn Chowder Warm-Up

As the cold winds blow, make it a "souper" season and warm up to Smoked Sausage and Corn Chowder.

Lunch will be the favorite subject of the day when this hearty favorite featuring savory smoked beef sausage, potatoes O'Brien and corn is served.

SMOKED SAUSAGE AND CORN CHOWDER

Total preparation and cooking time: 30 minutes

8 to 12 ounces fully-cooked smoked beef sausage, cut into 1/2-inch thick slices
1 cup sliced green onions
2 teaspoons vegetable oil
2 cans (14-1/2 ounces each)vegetable broth
2 cups frozen potatoes O'Brien
1 can (13 1/4 to 15 ounces)cream style corn
1/8 teaspoon ground red pepper
1/2 cup heavy cream

1. In large saucepan, cook onions in oil over medium heat 3 to 4 minutes or until tender. Stir in sausage, broth, potatoes, corn and red pepper. Bring to a boil; reduce heat to low. Simmer, uncovered, 20 minutes.
2. Stir in cream; heat through. Garnish with additional sliced green onion. if desired.

Spirited Southern Sweet Potato Bars

Spirited Southern Sweet Potato Bars, this year's "top cookie," earned $2,000 for Larry Elder of Charlotte, N.C. Three delicious layers tall, they feature an oatmeal cookie crust and an oat-pecan streusel topping

SPIRITED SOUTHERN SWEET POTATO BARS
2 cups Quaker oats (qick or old fashioned uncooked)
1-1/2 cups all -purpouse flour
1/4 teaspoon salt (optional)
1/8 to 1/4 teaspoon ground red pepper
1 cup (2sticks) butter or margarine, softened
2/3 cup granulated sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 cups mashed cooked sweet potato or canned pumpkin
2 eggs, lightly beaten
3/4 cup firmly packed brown sugar
2 tablespoons bourbon or 1/2 teaspoon rum extract (optional)
1 cup chopped pecans

Heat oven to 375 degrees F. Lightly grease 13x9-inch baking pan. Combine oats and flour, mix well. Remove 2/3 cup and add salt and red pepper, set aside for filling. To remaining oat-flour mixture, add buttter, granulated sugar and vanilla; blend with electric mixer on low to medium speed until crumbly. Reserve 1 cup for topping. Press remaining mixture evenly onto bottom of prepared pan. Bake 15 minutes; remove from oven. In seperate bowl, combine sweet potato, eggs, brown sugar, bourbon and reserved 2/3 cup oat-flour mixture; mix well. Spread filling over warm crust. Add nuts to reserved topping mixture; mix well. Sprinkle evenly over sweet potato filling. Bake 30 to 35 minutes or until topping is light golden brown. Cool; cut into bars. Serve at room temperature. Store in refrigerator lightly covered.

"Camelot" auditions held at Pheasant Run

Pheasant Run Theatre and director Diana L. Martinez proudly announce auditions for Lerner & Loewe's "Camelot", scheduled to run June 7 - October 13, 1996. Ms. Martinez is seeking to cast a strong ensemble of actors and singers, who move well.

Those auditioning should prepare a 24 bar selection from the score of "Camelot". An accompanist will be provided. Please have your sheet music prepared in the key you will be singing as on-site transpostions will not be done. Dance auditions are at call backs the following week.

All roles are open. All positions are salaried and non-equity. Rehearsals begin in April, 1996. Performances are Thursdays through Sundays weekly, June 7 - October 13.

Auditions are Monday, February 5 at Pheasant Run Theatre, 4051 E. Main St. in St. Charles, from 1-8 p.m. and on Tuesday, February 6 at The Fine Arts Building, 410S. Michigan Ave., Curtis Hall, 10th Floor, in Chicago from 1-8 p.m. Auditions are by appointment only. Please contact Carolyn Nivling at (708)584-6300, extension 7661, weekdays from 9 a.m. - 5 p.m. to schedule an appointment.

Construction continues on Christ Hospital's new children's hospital

Despite the arrival of snow and frigid temperatures, progress continues on Christ Hospital and Medican Center's new four-story, 60-bed children's hospital. The $25 million facility, located on the medical center's campus in Oak Lawn, is slated for completion next fall. Christ Hospital officials expect to begin enclosing the structure in January. The new children's hospital will include 45 private impatient rooms and a 15-bed pediatric intensive care unit. Headquartered in the building will be the Heart Institute for Children, Christ Hospital's renowned pediatric program.

Top-ten and low-five strategies are desciplined approaches to investing

TOP-TEN AND LOW-FIVE STRATEGIES ARE DISCIPLINED APPROACHES TO INVESTING

Submitted by: Dennis R. Canalini, Sr.; Accounts Executive, Investments Retirement Planning Specialist; Dean Witter Reynolds 4801 Southwick Drive, Matteson, IL 60443 (708)481-0520

Discipline is one of the first rules in successful investing, particularly with stocks. Emotions often can get the better of investors, causing them to react too quickly, only to regret their actions later. Two time-tested investment strategies, based on stocks in the Dow Jones Industrial Average (DJIA),• have shown that discipline can pay off over time. The strategies are often known as top-ten and low-five.

The Top-Ten Approach

Top-ten investors buy the ten highest-yeilding stocks in the DJIA and hold them for 12 months. After 12 months, investors sell any stocks that are no longer among the top ten and buy any that are new to the list.

The Low-Five Strategy

Investors employing the low-five strategy purchase the five lowest-priced of the ten highest-yielding DJIA stocks. They hold the stocks for 12 months, after which time they readjust their portfolios so that they continue to own the five lowest-priced of the ten highest-yielding DJIA stocks.

Reasons Behind the Strategies

There are four primary reasons why investors have used the top-ten and low-five disciplines:

1.) The stocks are blue chip names. The 30 companies in the DJIA are generally considered to be large and financially sound. Thus, they are viewed as relatively conservative.

2.) The stocks are out of favor. When you buy the highest-yielding stocks, you are in effect purchasing issues that are out of favor. The high yield usually means the share prices are depressed.

3.) The yields tend to support the stock prices in down markets. Stocks that offer moderate dividend yields tend to perform better during weak markets than stocks that do not offer a dividend.

4.) Historical performance has been impressive. Both strategies have proven to be effective over time, according to Beating the Dow , a monthly newsletter edited by John Downes (and a book of the same name by Michael O'Higgins with John Downes). From January 1973 through December 1994, a portfolio containing the top ten DJIA stocks would have posted average annual compound growth of 17.1% per year.•• A low-five DJIA stock portfolio would have posted a 20.6% growth rate.•• The DJIA rose 10.9% over the same time period. These returns assume reinvestment of dividends each 12 months, exclude brockerage commission costs, and assume the investment was made on the first trading day of the year. However, O'Higgins writes. "It doesn't matter what 12 month period is used as long as it is used consistently over time."

If you would like more information, please write care of Dennis R. Canalini, Sr.; Dean Witter; 4801 Southwick Drive; Suite 100; Matteson, IL 60443.

Information and data in this report were obtained from sources considered reliable. Their accuracy of completeness is not guaranteed and the giving of the same is not to be deemed a solicitation on Dean Witter's part with respect to the purchase or sale of securities or commodities.

• Dow Jones Industrial Average (DJIA) is the property of Dow Jones & Company, Inc., which is unaffiliated with and has not participated in any way in the creation of the top-ten or low-five strategies or the selection of stock therein.

•• Past performance does not guarantee future results. While the top-ten and low-five strategies outperformed the DJIA is some years, they underperformed the DJIA in other years.

Br. Rice students collect food for underprivileged

Brother Rice High School student council officers Tino Ochoa of Scottsdale and William Stanley of Burbank display some of the food brought in by students during the schools; annual Holiday Food Drive. Each year the student council, under the leadership of Mrs. Jo Anne Collins, organizes the food drive for underprivileged people in the Chicago area. Brother Rice students collected the food from their homes and neighborhoods.

A van full of food was given to both the Back of the Yards Council and the food pantry at St. Gelasius Church in Chicago's Woodlawn neighborhood. St. Gelasius is Brother Rice's "adopted" parish in which students, under the leadership of Br. Charles Fitzsimmons, participate in programs throughout the year such as tutoring grade school students and helping at the food pantry. Representatives from the Back of the Yards Council were on hand at the all-school Christmas Mass to receive the donated food. "We're very proud of all our students who displayed a great deal of 'Rice Pride' this year by donating a mountain of food," Br. Fitzsimmons said at the Mass.

The Chicago Southland Convention and Vistors Bureau, South Suburban Mayors and Managers Association and the Southwest Conference of Local Governments have teamed up to host the 4th Annual Festivals & Events Workshop. The workshop will be held Wednesday, Feb. 14, from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m. at the Oak Lawn Hilton.

The workshop is designed for those responsible for the planning, management, operation and support of special events including, but not limited to, professional/ volunteer event managers, governing board members and members of organizations that support the industry.

In addition to the fantastic line up of educational sessions, the workshop features a Fest Expo. During the expo, festival and event planners have the chance to talk with various vendors including; amusement rides, fireworks, food vendors, promotional specialties, entertainment, portable sanitation units, etc.

The Bureau recognized the economic impact of festivals and events, and therefore, provides educational opportunities to festival and event planners each year. "The State of Illinois has thousand of festivals and events each year.

We need to keep our festivals competitive in the industry to attract our share of visitors," comments Kim Kislowski, Marketing/ Communications Manager.

The Chicago Southland Convention and Visitors Bureau is the second largest bureau for tourism in the state of Illinois representing 60 south and southwest Chicago suburbs as a travel destination.

If you're interested in attending the workshop or exhibiting at the expo, please call Kim Kislowski at (708)503-1800.

Harris bank receives Brandt contract

by Carlene E. O'Connor

Many items were discussed and resolved at the January 23, 1996 Oak Lawn Board Meeting. Even in the absence of Mayor Kolb, Trustee Stancik chaired a very intense meeting.

New Business

Trustee Joy brought up the Bike Way Committee. They are hoping to have an area wide bike trail which links bike ways through the State of Illinois.

There will be a Forum by District 123 discussing educational funding in the State of Illinois.

The motion was passed 4-2 to send a letter from the village to Governor Jim Edgar to sign into law a repeal of the Retail Rate Law, which grants monetary incentives to trash two energy incenerators. The two opposed were acting chairman Stancek and Trustee Walsh.

Trustee Holesha talked about the closing of Centennial Pool at 94th Street and Nashville Avenue. He encourages residents to continue to call.

Valentine's Day, Feb. 14

Planning and Development Commission Referals

1.) Sub #96-1 Brauer's Consolidation 1 lot at 6540 W. 91st Street.

2.) Pet. #95-4 Alley Vacation: Remainder of North/South Alley, West of McVicker South of 99th Street and East of Meade Avenue. George Stourton, pet.

Both requests were approved.

Village Attorney's Report

Ordinance #96 - 2 - 4 authorizing certain traffic regulations (Stop signs: 97th Street and Kolin Avenue and 98th and Natoma Avenue).

Consent Agenda - Village Manager's Report

1.) Per the 1996 Budget they will hire three new firefighters: one replacement and two new hires.

2.) Ms. Kell, Business Regulation Officer in the Department of Administration, is retiring and they are seeking a replacement. Trustee Joy said, "Thank you for a job well done."

3.) There was a request for promotions and a new hire in the Public Works Department, Water Division. The consent agenda was approved by the board.

Village Manager's Report

1.) Award of Bid for Street Sign Materials.

Aluminum Steel Sign Blanks in the amount of $14,242 and stainless steel banding in the amount of $47.00 per roll to Vulcan Signs of Foley, Alabama.

2.) "3-M" type heat activated and pressure sensitive decals, ($77,429) steel sign channel posts ($11.60 each for 9' posts and $12.95 each for 12' posts) to the lowest bidder, Decker Supply Company of Madison, Wisconsin. These items were approved.

Village Attorney's Report

1.) Ordinance # 96 - 2 an Ordinance Amending Title 3, Chapter 3 Section 3-3-7 of the Village Code Re: Liquor License Fees.

It was approved that if one has a business with a liquor license and sell it, if the deal falls through one can apply for a renewal.

2.) Ord. #96-2- An Ordinance Amending the Number of Class "1" Liquor Licenses which can be issued in Oak Lawn. Licenses were granted to T & K of Illinois Corp., d/b/a T & K Monte's Bar & Grill and M. J. L. Inc. d/b/a John & Mary's Lounge, 6950 W. 95th Street.

Finance Commitee Report

An Ordinance authorizing the issuance of $2,600,000, Industrial Revenue Bonds, Series 1996 (Lavergen Partners/Automotion Project) was approved.

Village Clerks Report

Voter Registration is being taken place daily in the Clerk's Office. Last day to register to be eligible to vote in the March 19th Primary is February 20.

Village President

1.) Donald Brannigan to fill unexpired term of Diane Johnson to the Police Pension Board.

2.) Request for Class A Liquor License was granted to Krauss Gaslight Lounge, 5130 W. 95th Street.

Now the moment everyone waited for after an hour and half of deliberation behind closed doors the Board finally reached a decision as to who would redevelop the land around village owned Brandt Tavern at 95th Street and 52nd Avenue. The prize goes to Chicago based Harris Bank.

Brother Rice honors area resident

Members of the Brother Rice High School 40th Anniversary celebration committee gather around Edmund Rice Award winner Mrs. Betty Barton of Beverly. Mrs. Barton will receive the first-ever award at the Brother Rice 40th Anniversary Dinner-Dance Sunday, February 11 at the Martinique Restaurant in Evergreen Park. The award, named after Brother Edmund Ignatius Rice, the founder of the Congregation of Christian Brothers and namesake of the school, is for lifetime service to Brother Rice.

Mayor mentions community watch for leaks or abuse of Evergreen Park hydrants

by Carlene E. O'Connor

Mayor Vacco began the Evergreen Park meeting of January 15, 1996 by saying, "I am proud of my staff and the good work that they do everyday."

There is much hubbub over building on the cemetery lot. The Mayor said, "We are fighting commercial development on the cemetery. It is not zoned for anything but, a cemetery. Cemetery use is the best use and should stay that way."

There was board action on Resolution No. 6-1996. It was approved for payouts to vendors and payroll $461,819.53 and $56,058.81 sewer and water department.

Approved for new business licenses were: Papa Joe's, Evergreen Plaza; Fair Service, 3925 W. 95th Street; Nichol's Enterprise, 9730 S. On other matters the board tabled discussion on House Bill 25-30 and Representative Dart's request for support. If approved this bill would provide for income to low income seniors.

As far as sewers and sidewalks community projects are being undertaken and Mayor Vacco stated. "Things do not get done unless they get started."

The Citizens Services Department received a new mini bus and the trade in will go to the recreation department. The cost of the bus was $49,838.00.

In closing there is an adopt a hydrant program. Citizens are being asked to watch their hydrant in case of leaks or abuse. Mayor Vacco said, "They see them everyday and can be a watchman for us." In case of any problem call the Mayor's office.

City of Chicago raises water rate in Bridgeview

by Carlene E. O'Connor

At the regular meeting of the Village of Bridgeview many items were discussed. The highlights of the meeting were as follows:

There will be four new businesses in the Village of Bridgeview. These are:

Tobacco City
7545 W. 99th Street
Distribution of tobacco products

Yoon's Martial Arts
7251 W. 87th Street
Martial Arts School

North Grant Auto Parts
7508 W. 90th Street
Storage only, no business conducted at this address

Distribution 2000, Inc.
7715 S. 78th Street
Warehouse distribution

For a job well done two letters of commendation were given to the Fire Department and one to the Police Department.

Gumball machines are no longer going to get a way with not paying taxes on the revenue. Mayor Oremus appointed a collector for these taxes.

Trustee Haraaf had good and bad news to report concerning water. The water testing bill of $27,300 was the same as last year. The bad news is that the City of Chicago raised the water rate 1.98% and this will be passed on to the residents.

On a better note, Mayor Oremus secured 12 acres for the Half Century Progress. The land is located at the southside of the village.

The mayor's comment on the project was, "In many instances this job can be hazardous. I enjoy it or I wouldn't of been here this long."

Evergreen Park: the suburb which is west of Beverly, south of Wrightwood and north of Mount Greenwood.

Evergreen Park: the suburb which had the first shopping mall on the south side of Chicago.

Evergreen Park: the suburb which once boasted of having elite stores such as Carsons, The Fair, Charles A. Stevens and many exclusive shops.

Now this quiet suburb is in the focus of media attention each day regarding the latest topic, integration. Interesting enough I could say that the reason some of the above mentioned stores are no longer in Evergreen Plaza is because of the influx of black shoppers who shoplift to support their drug habit, but I would be a fool making that comment.

First of all, the majority of stores that moved was because they had filed bankruptcy and closed their doors throughout the country and not just in Evergreen Park.

My conflicting remarks are mentioned only to show the readers that bias and prejudice is within each one of us, whether we are black or white.

Issues of prejudice coming from black versus white, yellow versus white, red versus white, black versus yellow, etc. are only issues of prejudice and these issues can be resolved.

What cannot be resolved are prejudices that are left unspoken.

Many years ago, I was fortunate to live in an integrated neighborhood, attended an integrated school and became the last white family on the block.

My family had a two flat in the city at 59th and Emerald. They could not afford to move into an all white neighborhood until the house was sold.

Surely, property values went down because the first person who sold to a black family inflated their price.

Oh, we will not forget because it was our democrat precinct captain who just happened to be a realtor, who assured us that our neighborhood would be safe if we all signed an agreement not to sell for a few years.

The sale of his home broke the barrier of segregation on Emerald Ave. between 57th through 59th. Where there black families living on Halsted St., 59th Street and Union Ave.? Of course, but the object was to keep the neighborhood integrated and not have a white flight.

This now brings my story back to Evergreen Park, because in 1956, I moved from an all black neighborhood to an all white community.

Did I feel odd, strange, indifferent, confused? Yes, I felt that I couldn't communicate with my peers.

As a child, I found Evergreen Park to be a healthy environment for me. I didn't have to fear for my life, the suburbs were safe at that time. Adjusting to my new environment took me at least a year.

Now many years later, due to our colorless, socially corrupt society, infiltrated with gangs, drugs, etc., it really doesn't matter whether a neighborhood is all white or black in order to eradicate crime.

Crime is prevailent in our streets, in our homes, and crime is not an issue of color as in the past.

The only issue now is how safe are our streets in our neighborhoods. I hope people in the past moved from their neighborhoods because of the crime that infiltrated their neighborhood and not just because of color.

In the month of February, Black History Month, our focus could be on coming together and really saying, "Free at last, thank God, we're free at last."

OL Library host author of mystery guide

Showtime salutes the Oscars

By Julie Barker

It was downright dangerous to venture out into the bitter cold last weekend, those who did must have been seeking adventure, had absolutely no choice, or were going to see St. Gerald's "Showtime Salutes the Oscars". The many who did the latter were quickly warmed up by the friendliness of the crowd and a fast paced entertainment show. That fast pace kept one from being distracted by the few minuses of the production.

From Moon River, beautifully sang by Dennis Sobczak, "I'm too Sexy", hilariously performed by four uninhibited "dames", to the chorus line numbers and solo performances, you had the opportunity to be touched by nostalgia, humor, and charm.

The show was directed by Amy Lynn Moore, from Evergreen Park who is a recent graduate from UI at Champaign. She was recommended to direct the show, by Ken Kazin, St. Gerald alumni and director of the music program at Evergreen High School. Ken did not have time to take the directors responsibility himself but he shared his well known percussion skills from the pit.

Festivals & Events Workshop set for Valentine's

Library remodeling soon to be finished

Library remodeling projects currently underway in Youth Services and Audiovisual area will be completed in Febrary, according to the report given to the Oak Lawn Library board of trustees at its regular meeting, Jan. 16, by director Dr. James B. Casey.

A second phase of remodeling will be started later in the year with work scheduled for lower level facilities.

In regular business, the board approved payment of $14,197 for library materials; $28,707 for general operating expenses; and $155,747 for personnel.

The board meets at 7:30 p.m. third Tuesday of the month, 5300 W. 95th St. Meetings are open to the public.

In other library news, travelog will feature "Poland Revisited" on Thursday, February 8th at 7 p.m. Prof. Joseph Hapak, Moraine Valley Community College, will treat the audience to his colorful slides and informative narration.

The program is open to the public without charge on first-come first-seated basis.

Health club donates membership proceeds

Clients of the Sertoma Speech and Hearing Center will reap the benefits of a special gift from the Palos Olympic Health and Racquet Club.

During the months of February and March, proceeds from all new Racquet Club memberships will be donated to the Center, to help provide services for Center clients who otherwise would be unable to afford them.

"I want to thank Bob Diamond of the Palos Olympic Club for thinking of the Sertoma Center and its clients," says Center Executive Director David J. Rompala. "This generous gift gives area residents a double reason to join the Club now and feel great; First, the joiners get the health benefits of membership in one of the finest facilites in the area, and second, they will have the knowledge that their membership fees will go to provide help for individuals ranging from children in need of speech therapy to seniors in need of new hearing aids."

For more information call (708) 974-1900.

The Oak Lawn Park District seeks volunteers, 18 years and up, for the following positions: men's basketball scorekeeper, special recreation club chaperones, special recreation basketball coaches and Special Olympics track and field coaches. Xavier announces expansion plan

A $1.75 million dollar expansion plan for Saint Xavier University's campus was recently announced by the University's President, Dr. Richard Yanikoski. The new expansion plans will include a Community Conference Center by the lake, an improved food service area, renovated dormitories and enhanced parking facilities. The refurbishing program is supported, in part, by a U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) grant awarded to the University last fall.

The Community Conference Center will be a one-story, brick building between the current Pacelli Residence Hall and the lake located on Saint Xavier grounds. The new Center will feature a 235-person capacity conference area with the capability of being partitioned into six separate rooms. Commuity groups, businesses and various professional organizations will be encouraged to use the Center to host evening, weekend and summer conferences and programs; on-campus overnight accommodations will be available for attendees during the summer.

During the academic school year, the new Conference Center will be used as additional classroom space. According to Saint Xavier President Richard Yanikoski, this new Center will provide significant relief to the current demand for classrooms. "As our student population continues to soar, we are faced with increasing shortages of space. This new center will relieve some of the immediate needs until additional facilities can be completed." The new Conference Center classrooms will also house state-of-the-art, audio-visual technology.

"Our goal is to complete the entire project by the start of the next school year in September," said Susan Piros, Vice President of Financial Affairs for the University. "We anticipate the opening of the new Center to serve as a kick-off of the University's celebration of 150 years of service to Chicago."

St. Patrick is said to have baptized more than 120,000 persons.

The Oak Lawn Park District hosts a support group for people with Multiple Sclerosis; 11 a.m. to 1 p.m., the 3rd Monday of each month at Oakview Center, 4625 W. 110th Street. The group is for people newly diagnosed as well as people with long term affliction. Family members welcome. For more information, please call Oakview Center at (708) 857-2200.

Clouds

I gazed into the clouded skies,
I swear I saw some angels there.
Reclining on fluffy couches of white,
gathered around their holy mentor,
God, sitting on his golden throne.
Were they resting there in Heaven,
awaiting calls from troubled mortals?
Could one have been my own protector?
All too soon, the clouds, the winds dispersed.
As I watched them fade away
I wondered if they would reappear
on another windy cloudy day.

"Destiny in Space" at the Omnimax®

The Museum of Science and Industry's Omnimax Theater, located in the Henry Crown Space Center, reopened on January 21, 1996 after a two-week renovation.

During the renovation period, the theater has been outfitted with new seats and carpeting, and the seating has been reconfigured to increase the number of wheelchair accessible locations from two to six. The five-story, domed screen has undergone a thorough cleaning to enhance picture quality, and the Omnimax projector and sound-systems were fine-tuned.

Beginning Friday, Feb. 9, the Omnimax Theater will show "Destiny in Space," a forty minute giant screen exploration of the far reaches of the universe.

The Museum has also expanded and improved other elements of its already exceptional space exhibits. Beginning February 9, the Museum will display a 40' replica of the Saturn V Moon rocket on loan from NASA, in the rotunda. Additionlly, the Space Shuttle Experience exhibit in the Henry Crown Space Center will show a new 24-minute film, entitled "To Be An Astronaut."

The Museum of Science and Industry is conveniently located just off of Lake Shore Drive at 57th Street just minutes from downtown Chicago. For more information, please call the Museum at (312)684-1414 or outside the Chicago area call 1-800-GO-T)-MSI.

POWERFUL PRAYER TO THE HOLY SPIRIT

Holy Spirit, You Who solves all problems, Who lights all roads so that I can attain my goal, You Who gives me the divine gift to forgive and to forget all evil against me and that in all instances of my life You are with me, I want in this short prayer to thank You for all things and to confirm once again that I never want to be separated from You even and in spite of all material illusion. I wish to be with You in eternal glory. Thank You for Your mercy toward me and mine.

The person must say this prayer for 3 consecutive days. After 3 days: the favor requested will be granted even if it may appear difficult. This prayer must be published immediately after the favor is granted without mentioning the favor, only your initials should appear at the bottom.

Survey shows health price is why consumers purchase chicken

Americans are consuming more chicken than ever and in an ever-widening variety of chicken products, according to a consumer survey conducted for the National Broiler Council.

Most of the households surveyed serve chicken "2 or 3 times a week." Boneless, skinless chicken breasts are the favorite part of the chicken mentioned by 47 percent as being one of the parts most frequently served.

And how is chicken cooked at home? The most popular method, mentioned by 68% of those surveyed, is baked/roasted. This in-the-oven preferred method is followed by grilled/barbecued and fried. Fried chicken remains most popular in the South by a clear margin and in households where the oldest adult is from 18 to 24 years of age.

"More healthy" is the leading reason consumers mentioned for why they purchase chicken. This was followed closely by "versatile/cook in many ways," "low in fat" and "convenient/easy to prepare." "Economical" also received high mention as did "taste better."

SWISS CHICKEN ON ENGLISH MUFFINS

1 chicken, cooked, skinned, boned and chopped fine
5 tablespoons Dijon mustard
2 tablespoons diced dried onion
1 teaspoon liquid smoke
1 teaspoon Worcester-shire sauce
1/2 teaspoon poultry seasoning
3 tablespoons poppy seed
2 tablespoons reduced-calorie mayonnaise
4 oz. Swiss cheese, finely grated
6 sourdough English muffins, split
2 tablespoons butter-

In small bowl, mix together mustard, onion, liquid smoke and Worcestershire sauce. Let sit 10 minutes for onion to soft en. Sprinkle chicken with poultry seasoning and poppy seed; stir in mustard mixture and mayonnaise. Add half of the grated Swiss cheese and mix well. Line baking pan with foil to ease cleanup. Spread each muffin half with 1/2 teaspoon margarine. Cover each muffin half generously with chicken mixture and sprinkle with remaining Swiss cheese. Bake in 350 degree oven for about 15 minutes to heat thoroughly. For hors d'oeuvres, cut each muffin half into 4 pie-shaped wedges and garnish with pimento strip. Or, serve each muffin half hot as open-face sandwich. Makes 48 hors d'oeuvres or 12 sandwiches.

Beef Taco-Mac-30 Minutes

Lawry's® Taco Spices & Seasonings simplifies and combines two all-time favorites, beef tacos & chili-mac, into one.

- 1 pound beef cubed steaks
- 1 tablespoon vegetable oil
- 1 medium onion, chopped
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 1 package (1.25 oz) Lawry's® Taco Spices & Seasonings
- 2 cans (14½ to 16 oz each) diced tomatoes, undrained
- 1½ cups uncooked rotini (spiral) pasta
- ½ cup water
- ½ cup shredded Cheddar cheese

1. Cut beef steaks lengthwise into 1" wide strips and then crosswise into 1" pieces. Heat oil in Dutch oven over medium-high heat until hot. Add beef and onion; cook and stir 3 minutes. Season with salt.
2. Stir taco seasonings, tomatoes, pasta and water into beef. Bring to a boil; reduce heat to low. Cover tightly and simmer 20 minutes or until pasta is tender.
3. Sprinkle with cheese before serving. Makes 4 servings (serving size: 1½ cups).

Do you need a college degree?

Dr. Vernon O. Crawley
President
Moraine Valley Community College

"Why should I spend any more time in school if I can get a job right now," asks the high school student. Once, parents had an easy retort, because a college degree was the ticket to a good job. Now, these conversations take on more difficult nuances as many college graduates are unemployed or working at jobs for which they are overqualified. According to the Bureau of Labor Statistics, 30 percent of college graduates entering the workforce between now and 2005 will be unemployed or underemployed.

Indeed, we all have heard horror stories of college graduates who couldn't find a good job. For instance, I know a young man who received a degree in history from a well-respected state school. Because he was not able to find the type of job he wanted, he went to work managing a video store. We also hear stories like the one of an English major who took a job working as a secretary in a large advertising firm. While managing a video store or working as a secretary are respectable ways to earn a living, parents and students alike are questioning whether they are receiving an apprpriate return on the expensive college tuition they paid for two to four years.

Despite these seemingly dim prospects, I contend that a college degree is still necessary and desirable. The economic facts speak for themselves. College educated workers make 65 percent more than workers with high school diplomas, according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics. Futhermore, workers who aspire to further their education after high school and attend community colleges or trade schools also see an increase in earnings over high school graduates. One obvious cause for this trend is the expanded use of technology in the workplace. More and more companies are demanding computer savvy employees who can easily adapt to emerging technology.

Besides the increased demand for a computer-literate workforce and the potential for higher earnings, college graduates are more likely to succeed in our increasingly volatile workplace. Labor Secretary Robert Reich contends that workers can expect to hold at least eight different jobs in their lifetime. The era of a guaranteed job for life is over. College graduates are at an advantage in this unstable environment because they can transform a less desirable position into a career opportunity. Instead of looking at a college graduate's first job, we need to look at the graduate's career potential that may take years to reach its peak. Take the case of the English major working as a secretary. With a lot of hard work and ambition she was able to convince her bosses that they were underutilizing her writing skills. Within a year, she was promoted to a copy writer and is very successful and happy in her new position.

Similarly, the college graduate working as a video store manager continued to look for a job in the sales industry. Eventually, he was hired at a major electronics corporation where he was able to combine his college degree and real life skills as a manager to redirect his career.

These two cases illustrate my central point. Although a college degree may not pay off immediately after graduation, a college degree gets your foot in the door. A diploma is still the ticket to career opportunity. As more students obtain college degrees, the competition for all jobs increase. Put simply, employers are more likely to hire college graduates because college still teaches valuable skills. College teaches students how to communicate, analyze problems and work as a team. These traits are among top skills employers are looking for in new hires.

Although college may seem an immeasurable return on your investment, the skills you learn while in school stay with you for a lifetime. In the end, college remains a good investment in your future.

Supporters honor McNamara

Worth Township Democratic Committeeman John J. McNamara will be honored on Fri., Feb. 16 for his continued work for the organization and area residents, as well as for continued success in the coming years.

The Citizens for McNamara Committee and other long-standing supporters are holding a buffet dinner for him. The dinner will be from 7 to 10 p.m. at the Rosewood Restaurant in Crestwood.

Joyce Mancillas, Committee Co-Chairperson, urged everyone who has supported McNamara in the past and those who will continue to do in the future to attend the buffet dinner.

"John, who has compiled more than 20 years of experience in public service, never has turned down helping someone and has consistently put forth a tremendous effort working hard. That kind of spirit and work ethic needs to abound in government today," Mancillas said.

At the buffet dinner, there will be new live entertainment, as well as wine, beer and soda. There will also be a raffle, with prizes donated by local businesses.

For those who are interested in attending the dinner and showing their support, please, contact the Citizens for McNamara Committee, (708) 422-9300.

The Heart Connection helps grieving children

Little Company is proud to announce a new program dedicated to helping children overcome the grief of losing a loved one. This program encourages children to express their feelings through play and creative activities with a peer group of similar concerns, and begin the necessary healing of their hearts.

Registration for this free program is required and should be made before Feb. 19th. Please contact the Little Company Pastoral Care Department at (708) 229-5480 for registration, program information, donations or questions. Information on the Hospital's Adult bereavement program is also available.

P.S./WASHINGTON

a column by
U.S. Senator Paul Simon of Illinois

Robin Williams, Christopher Reeve And The U.S. Health Care Muddle

A few years ago when I sought reelection to the Senate, the actor Christopher Reeve was good enough to be the draw for a fundraiser I had in New York City, and afterwards we had dinner together.

So though my knowledge of show business is slim, I have followed his career with some interest. And I joined the nation in a collective groan of regret when I read about his accident on a horse that paralyzed him.

Recently I saw this item in the Washington Post:

"Actor Robin Williams has pledged to pay Christopher Reeve's medical bills when the paralyzed actor's health insurance runs out later this year ... Reeve's ongoing treatment is expected to cost about $400,000 a year. Williams and Reeve made a pact more than 20 years ago, when both were attending Julliard, that if either made it in show biz, he'd help the other in time of crisis."

I applaud what Robin Williams is doing.

But something is wrong with our system when Robin Williams has to do that. And what about the millions of Americans who have no Robin Williams to help them?

There are now 41 million Americans with no health insurance. If those same people live in Italy or Denmark or Great Britain or Canada or Japan or any other West European industrial nation, their health costs would be covered.

On December 14th, the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention in Atlanta released a study that shows infant deaths for women with incomes above the poverty line in the United States are 8.3 per 1,000 births. But for women below the poverty line it is 13.5 per 1,000 births.

Because we are insensitive to both poverty and to health care needs, these needless deaths are occurring.

Today, as I type this, I read a newspaper story that talks about "the disaster of President Clinton's proposing a health care plan." The disaster was not that he proposed a plan; the disaster was that we did not pass one.

If Christopher Reeve lived in Canada, Robin Williams would not have to pay these costs.

And the average lifespan in Canada is greater than it is in the United States.

In a poll taken a few years ago, Canadian citizens were asked if they were satisfied with their health care system. Fifty-six percent responded favorably, not a high percentage, but not bad. Then the pollsters asked if they would prefer the U.S. health delivery system. Three percent said they would prefer our system!

Those who profit from the present U.S. system spread largely untrue stories about the flaws in the Canadian system. When I talk to my friends who are Canadian parliamentarians, they do suggest some modifications that they would like to make.

But I have yet to talk to a single Canadian citizen who does not prefer their system to ours.

Three cheers for Robin Williams!

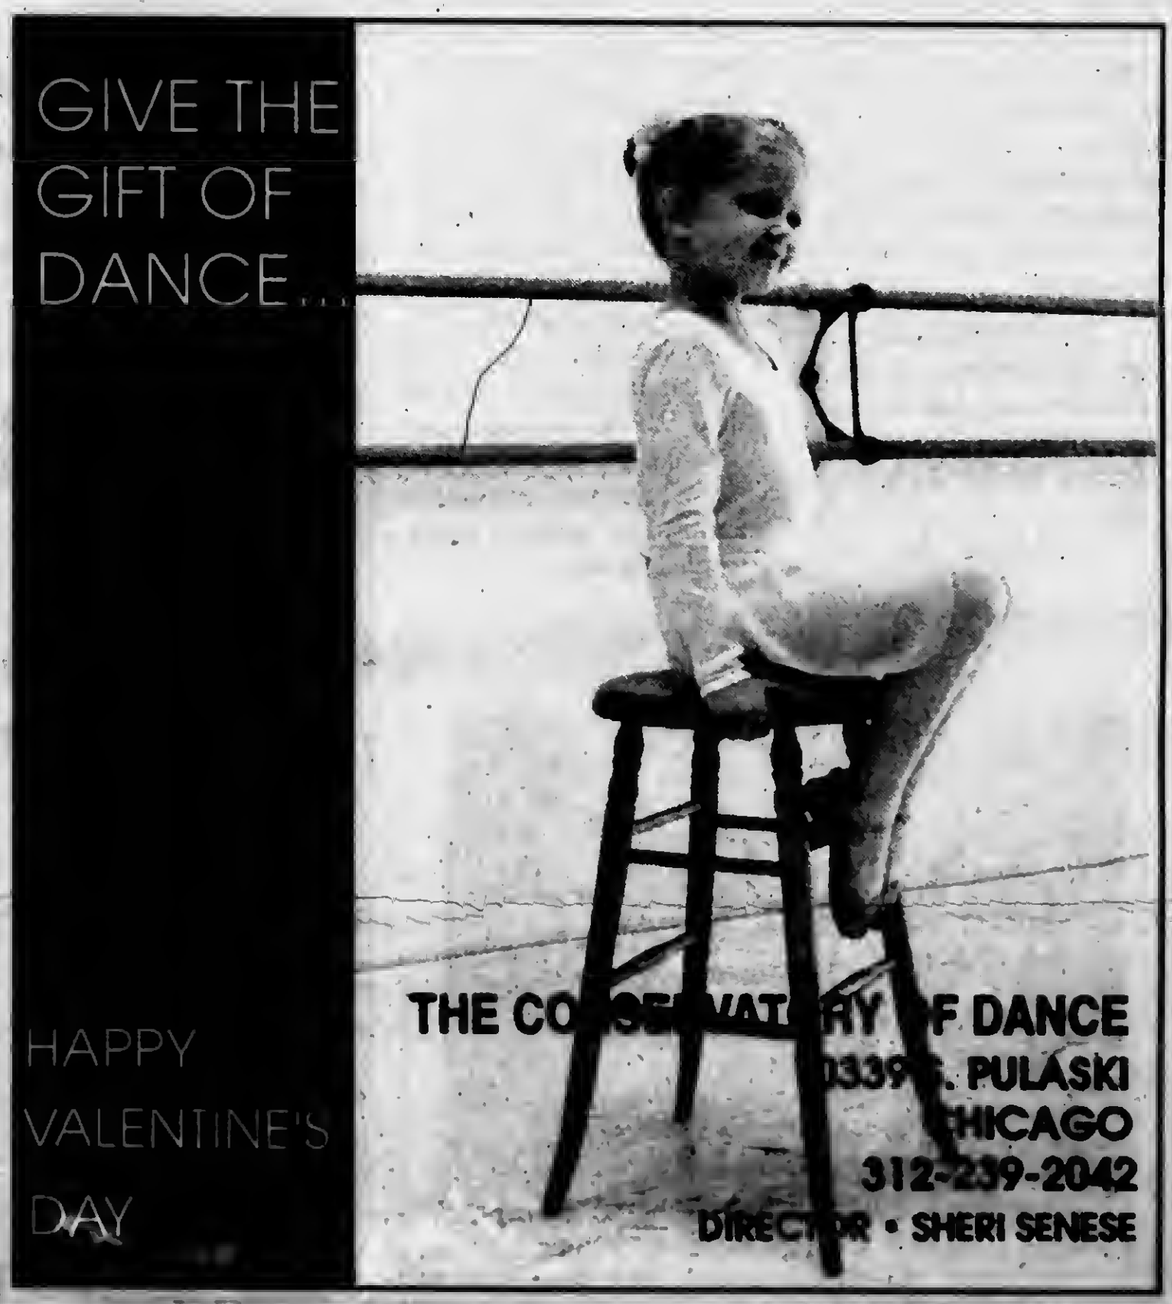
But three Bronx cheers — boos —for our short-sightedness in not protecting all our citizens.

The Royal Society for the Prevention of Accidents erected a display at the Institute of Personnel Management Conference in Harrowgate, England. It collapsed.

St. Xavier sponsors MercyCare program

In an effort to bring a greater presence of the Sisters of Mercy to the Saint Xavier University students and members of the community, Sister Mary Laurus Gannon of Mt. Greenwood in Chicago and Sister Mary Loftus of Oak Lawn have created "MercyCare." Through this new program students will have greater access to the Sisters and an opportunity to seek advice and spiritual support.

"The concept behind "MercyCare" is to affirm our sponsorship of the University and to offer our support to the student body in a caring, spiritual and non-structured way," said Sister Mary Loftus, a member of the Sisters of Mercy, Regional Community of Chicago.



OLCHS parenting class

Oak Lawn Community High School Parenting class participated in a new, high-tech parenting simulation called, "Baby Think It Over". "Baby Think It Over " was created and designed by Rick Jurmain, an unemployed engineer.

At the beginning of the semester the student contemplated the issue of wanting to become a parent. From there, the students worked through pregnancy, delivery and the arrival of a newborn. To make the class practical and as realistic as possible, the "Baby Think It Over" dolls were used.

The "Baby Think It Over" project is intended to help students understand two very important facts about infants:

1. Their demands are unpredictable but must be met promptly.
2. They require a great deal of time and attention and will change their parent's lifestyle profoundly.

What is the doll? It is an infant simulator that is intended to provide an experience to the parenting student that simulates the experience of parenting a young adult. Students receive the baby, clothing for the child, diaper bag and the use of a car seat and/or carrier if needed. The baby is approximately 8 lb. and 20 inches long. There is a computer box in the back of each baby doll that contains a programmable microprocessor.

This internal computer simulates the realistic cry of an infant at random intervals of 15 minutes to 6 hours for feeding or care 24 hours a day.

"Feeding" the baby demands the student parent to insert a probe into its back and hold it in place for up to 35 minutes. The probe is attached to a tamper-proof, non-transferable bracelet worn on the student's wrist. Only the student parent can quiet the child.

Preparing students carried their babe and were the sole provider for 48 hours. The project was very successful and many lessons were learned by all!

Something Old/ Something New

Dear Brides to Be,

Don't forget to say Thank You! Each wedding gift should be acknowledged with a handwritten note.

Order plain or pastel stationery with your initials both married and maiden. You will recieve gifts before and after the wedding. To be real fancy it can be in your wedding colors with a border.

Be organized! You will be swamped at your showers. Have your mother or Maid of Honor keep track of who gave what. Save the bows for a bouquet at your rehearsal dinner.

Etiquette says send each thank you after the gift arrives. With all that there is to do this can be an impossible task. To be gracious, send notes no later than one month after the wedding.

Try to include the groom as much as possible and say something special about each gift. Remember they spent time and thought when they sent it to you.

I like to say at this time thank you for reading the Village View and particularly my column.

Best wishes,

Carlene E. O'Connor

POWERFUL PRAYER TO THE HOLY SPIRIT

Holy Spirit, You Who solves all problems, Who lights all roads so that I can attain my goal. You Who gives me the divine gift to forgive and to forget all evil against me and that in all instances of my life You are with me. I want in this short prayer to thank You for all things and to confirm once again that I never want to be separated from You even and in spite of all material illusion. I wish to be with You in eternal glory. Thank You for Your mercy toward me and mine.

The person must say this prayer for 3 consecutive days. After 3 days, the favor requested will be granted even if it may appear difficult. This prayer must be published immediately after the favor is granted without mentioning the favor, only your initials should appear at the bottom.

Oak Lawn commuters will be singing "don't rain on my work clothes"

Oak Lawn village officials may use a state grant to build passenger shelters and canopy at the Oak Lawn Metra Southwest Service Railroad Station.

The Oak Lawn Commuter Station was built in 1984. Oak Lawn village purchased the property with grant money.

The Illinois Department of Transportation (IDOT) granted $247,000 through operation Green Light which provides money to communities for improvements.

The canopy would cover boarding platforms on both sides of the Metra station and will keep commuters out of the rain. The style of the canopy is planned to compliment Harris Bank being built at 95th and 52nd avenue.

Bids for the project will be taken while searching for an architectual firm. The Quality Control Committee will probably choose an architect at its March meeting.

Start up for the project will be in May with completion sometime next fall.

Local patriot celebrates centennial birthday

On February 22, Roy Panabaker, a longtime resident of Oak Lawn, will be celebrating his centennial birthday.

Mr. Panabaker graduated from Lane Tech in 1918. Immediately after graduation, he joined our military to help serve our country in World War I.

After returning from the war, Roy married the late Loretta Panabaker. They moved from 74th and Aberdeen in Chicago to Oak Lawn. He lived and farmed the area which is now called Columbus Manor.

For thirty years, Roy worked at Swift & Company. He is a member of Masonic Lodge #815 for 76 years and the American Legion for 50 years.

Mr. Roy Panabaker
100 years young

Roy and Loretta had a daughter named Ruth. She married Milton Johnson in 1939. They have two daughters and four grandchildren.

Forty people came to Salem Village (a graduated living with limited assistance home) to help celebrate Roy's 100th birthday this past weekend.

If you would like to send this patriot a birthday card please send it to:

Evergreen Park's Minutes

In the Village of Evergreen Park residents have a new trustee. Mayor Vacco appointed Mark Marzullo to fill the vacancy until April 30, 1997.

At the meeting the block grant was discussed and the mayor invited public input. Vacco wants an elevator for the Village Hall building. He said, "The elevator is a compliance and it would be good if we could receive help.".

The Mayor's comment on development of the cemetery property by Centrum was, "We will continue to fight development of the land."

Village Attorney, Vincent Cainkar spoke to Rep. Murphy and State Senator Patrick O'Malley about the same matter. They are introducing two bills to the General Assembly that would subject the land to commercial taxes if sold and not allow for building within 300 feet of a gravesite without muncipalities permission.

Resolution No. 7-1996, Vendors and Payroll payout $747,952.51. Sewer and Water $203,944.63.

There will be five new businesses in the area:

Sweet Stop, Inc.
Evergreen Plaza

There was a new appointment by the Mayor of Elizabeth Donahue to Recycling Director. Her term is until April 30, 1996.

Buy Girl Scout cookies. It was approved that March 10-16 be "Girl Scout Week" and March 12 a special "Be Your Best Day."

If you like to gamble and benefit a good cause, Most Holy Redeemer Rectory will hold a Las Vegas Fundraiser on the nights of Friday, Feb. 23 and Saturday, Feb. 24 at 6 p.m.

A four-way stop sign at 93rd and Trumball was considered by the board and turned over to the Traffic Safety Commission. Vacco said, "I will install yield signs there no matter what happens."

The board is sending a letter to the Governor concerning H. B. 1523 "Retail Rate Law."

Good news for everyone in town is that authorization was given to the Mayor, clerk, and Attorney to purchase 2 buildings and a vacant lot from Bethel Church. Mayor Vacco said "We plan to extend services for more recreational space."

The gym will be available for use as soon as possible and we are considering putting a tot lot on the vacant land with a fence around it."

All vehicles at Elementary School District 124 will require a permit. Vacco said, "We will ticket violators, not tow."

Bridgeview's Town Minutes

In the news of Bridgeview much was discussed at the town meeting. Mayor Oremus appointed Michael Pticek to act as stand-in during his absence.

There was one bid for the property at 7358 W. 75th Street. Valley Builders, Hickory Hills bid $76,100 for the property. This will be turned over to the board and trustees for consideration.

Attorney's Report

Section 6-2-6 Class C Buildings - Detached garages can now be 30' x 20'.

The board denied Falcon Ridge Townhome Request PUD to enlarge the buildings to 56 feet and reduce yard size by 3 feet.

In response to those bogus Police calls for charity the board is devising a form that residents can sign to place a complaint.

To better protect the businesses and residents in the area, Trustee Haraaf is looking to have police officers at the malls on foot patrol; at least during the summer.

The cost for our water is going up. To accomendate the use in the water rate, there must be an increase of 1.9% in the sewer rate.

On a better note the board wanted to congratulate the Public Works Department for an outstanding job during the severe cold weather.

Letters to the Editor

By Joyce Woytek
Administrative Direcotr,
Emergency Services

In her column of January 16, Annette Dixon described her recent experience in the emergency department at Christ Hospital and Medical Center. We are sorry to hear that Ms. Dixon was uncomfortable during her visit. The night she was here, we were exceptionally busy and many people were waiting. Although we do our best to make everyone as comfortable as possible, sometimes we can't provide services as quickly as we would like due to situations and events that are beyond our control. We certainly are aware of this problem and currently have a number of plans underway to help remedy the kinds of situations Ms. Dixon described.

Christ Hospital's emergency department is one of the busiest in the Chicago area. Our highly trained emergency team cares for more than 60,000 patients a year. In her column, Ms Dixon suggested that we send patients to other hospitals to ease overcrowding in our emergency room. The truth is, we don't have that option. A state law mandates that hospitals treat all patients who come to their emergency rooms.

We believe that each patient who comes through our emergency department deserves personal attention and quality care. However, the needs of some are more urgent than others. We use a system called "Triage" to prioritize patients according to the urgency of their needs and the type of treatment required. Naturally, a severe injury (trauma) or other life-threatening condition must be treated more quickly than problems that are not life-threatening. That's why we have separate areas of care for various levels of medical emergencies.

Christ Hospital has chosen to maintain its status as a Level I trauma center while many other hospitals are no longer providing these services. People often have misconceptions about what a trauma center does. As a trauma center, we have the skills and technology to treat the most severe kinds of injuries. The public may hear about victims of gun shots and gang violence on the evening news, but most of our trauma patients could be your family, friends and neighbors: the child who is struck by a car, a father whose arm is crushed in an industrial accident, or a teenager injured while riding a bike. As it happens, on the night of Ms. Dixon's visit, there were no trauma cases, which, in fact, comprise only about 4 percent of the total number of patients who pass through our emergency room each year.

We care about each of our patients and attempt to provide quality care to everyone who seeks our services. While we regret Ms. Dixon's discomfort, we remain proud of the level of services provide by Christ Hospital's emergency department.

Oak Lawn graduate serves as program coordinator

Maria Giglio, Oak Lawn Community High School graduate and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Giglio of Oak Lawn, is a member of the Best Buddies program at Lake Forest College. She serves as the Program Coordinator.

The program Best Buddies is a national organization for the purpose of building friendship between college students and cognitively challenged young adults. The buddies develop a special friendship as they spend time together on group outings, talking on the phone, and one-to-one activites.

The Sertoma Speech & Hearing Center is offering free speech/language consultations to children and adults at its office in Palos Hills. Three speech pathologists are on hand to provide the consultations. The free screenings, which take about 25 minutes are available to children and adults, and include consultation with a speech therapist who will provide recommendations.

Evangelical author to speak at Trinity College

The thought-provoking evangelical Christian author Os Guinness will be the featured speaker at this year's Stanley Lecture at Trinity Christian College (located at 6601 W. College Dr.) at 7:30 p.m., on Tuesday, March 5. Dr. Guinness will address the issue "The West vs. The Rest: the Christian Faith and the Coming Conflict of Civilization."

Needless to say, Guinness is a controversial author in evangelical circles. His deep concern is to bridge the chasm between academic knowledge and popular knowledge, taking things that are academically important and making them intelligible and practicable to a wider audience.

Dr. Guinness will also address the Trinity community in chapel Wed. morning, March 6, at 10 a.m., as part of March Madness featuring an all-star lineup of chapel speakers well known withing the Christian community. Dr. Bryan Chappell, president of Covenant Theological Seminary, will speak on March 13. Mr. Michael Horton, head of Christians United for Reformation, will speak on March 22. Dr. Cornelius Plantinga of Calvin Theological seminary will speak on March 27.

Wanted: North Americans to Rio de Janeiro

Tourism representatives of Rio de Janeiro announced this week in New York that they will launch a two-pronged, multi-million dollar advertising and promotional campaign in North America in 1996.

The New York advertising agency, Jerry & Ketchum, has been named to put Rio into the tourism spotlight.

Also, Visa will promote Rio worldwide through a "Rio Welcome Visa" program.

"Remember Brazil's success at soccer, winning the World Cup of Soccer Championship game played in the U.S.," said Alexandre Raulino de Oliveira, a spokesman for Rio's tourism consortium. "We have a very competitive spirit in Rio which we happen to think is one of the world's most beautiful cities. With the help of Visa and Jerry Della Femina - call it credit and creativity - we're going to make believers of North Americans too."

Alexandre Raulino De Oliveira, execive director of the Rio Covention & Visitors Bureau, said these programs represent a first for Rio de Janeiro in tems of significant funding for a North American campaign. He credits Rio's mayor, Cesar Maia, for creating an environment in which tourism interests can flourish.

"We believe there's an excellent opportunity in Rio - in its beauty, glamour, music and people - to create new excitement for one of South America's most important cities," said Tenny, executive vice president.

Jose B. Cardenas, vice president of Visa International for Latin America and the Caribbean, said that the Visa International campaign will reach more than 20 million Visa cardholders worldwide in 10 different countries.

A key element of the Visa program is its exclusive "Passport of Offers" to be presented to all passengers who arrive at Rio's Galeao International Airport. This provides Visa cardholders with exclusive offers and added values at hotels, restaurants, shopping centers, auto rental companies, tourist attactions and entertainment venues when using their Visa cards as a form of payment.

Also, Visa and Varig Brazilian Airlines together will offer discounts on travel packages to Rio from participating markets worldwide.

Beverly Theatre Guild holds auditions

The Beverly Theatre Guild will hold open auditions for the comedy/drama, "Come Back to the Five and Dime Jimmy Dean, Jimmy Dean" by Ed Graczyk and directed by Errol McLendon (West Belmont).

Performances will take place at the Beverly Art Center, 2153 W. 111th Street, Friday, May 3 and Saturday, May 4 at 5 p.m., and Sunday, May 5 at 2 p.m. Parts are available for eight women, two in their teens and six, 30 + and one male (late teens, early twenties) with some resemblances, if possible to James Dean. The story follows the twentieth reunion of a Jimmy Dean fan club, during a heat wave in a small town dime store in McCarthy, Texas. The women reminisce and flashback to their youth and one in particular claims that Jimmy Dean, while filming near her home, fathered her child who resembles the movie star of the sixties. The show features moments of raucous comedy and stunning drama. Call 312-409-2705, for any further information. Auditions will be held at the former Talman Bank Building, 4740 W. 95th Street (95th & Cicero). The audition dates are Wed., February 21 & Thursday, February 22 from 7:30 - 10:30 p.m. and callbacks, Sunday, February 25, from 1:30 - 3:30 p.m.

Beverly Guild presents an Irish musical

The cast for the Beverly Theatre Guild's original Irish musical, "My Heart, My Home, My Ireland" written and directed by guild member, Carol Kearney (Palos Heights), musically directed by David Boyle (Chicago) and choreographed by Barbara Moore (Tinley Park) and Julie Showalter (Hinsdale), has been chosen. The cold of January didn't stop a talented group of auditioneers from singing, dancing and acting for the seventeen parts available.

This original production features a story set in Ireland, a number of colorful and comical characters, traditional Irish music featuring songs such as "Danny Boy", "The Rose of Tralee", "My Isle of Dreams", "The Rocky Road to Dublin", among others and a fine display of Irish step dancing. The show will premier at the Beverly Art Center, 2153 W. 111th Street, Friday, March 8 & Saturday, March 9 at 8 p.m. and Sunday, March 10 at 2 p.m. Phone 312-409-2705, for tickets which are $13 per adult, $11 per senior citizen or student, with group rates available.

Christ Hospital featuring annual Epicurean Delight

Specialties prepared by some of the area's finest chefs will be featured at the seventh annual Epicurean Delight, sponsored by the Auxiliary of Christ Hospital and Medical Center. The event, from 2 to 5 p.m. on Sunday, March 3, at the Hilton Inn of Oak Lawn, will benefit Christ Hospital's new children's hospital, currently under construction on the hospital campus.

The food fest will feature cuisine from 40 to 50 of the area's finest restaurants, bakeries, caterers, and other food and beverage specialists. For a ticket price of $25 person, guests may sample each chef's gourmet specialties, ranging from hors d'oeuvres to entrees and desserts. Beverages include complimentary wine, espresso and cappuccino. The event will also feature musical entertainment.

Beverly Theatre Guild hold auditions

The Beverly Theatre Guild will hold open auditions for the comedy/drama, "Come Back to the Five and Dime Jimmy Dean, Jimmy Dean" by Ed Graczyk and directed by Errol McLendon (West Belmont).

Performances will take place at the Beverly Art Center, 2153 W. 111th Street, Friday, May 3 and Saturday, May 4 at 5 p.m., and Sunday, May 5 at 2 p.m. Parts are available for eight women, two in their teens and six, 30 + and one male (late teens, early twenties) with some resemblances, if possible to James Dean. The story follows the twentieth reunion of a Jimmy Dean fan club, during a heat wave in a small town dime store in McCarthy, Texas. The women reminisce and flashback to their youth and one in particular claims that Jimmy Dean, while filming near her home, fathered her child who resembles the movie star of the sixties. The show features moments of raucous comedy and stunning drama. Call 312-409-2705, for any further information. Auditions will be held at the former Talman Bank Building, 4740 W. 95th Street (95th & Cicero). The audition dates are Wed., February 21 & Thursday, February 22 from 7:30 - 10:30 p.m. and callbacks, Sunday, February 25, from 1:30 - 3:30 p.m.

FOOD FOR 'SECONDS'

'Watery employment' flowed into fiery future

By Anita Anderson

Chef Russell Bry of Lombard, the chef extraordinaire of the new Lettuce Entertain You Enterprise Restaurant, "Wildfire" had his early career beginnings when he was 12 and was employed as a dishwasher.

That watery start flowered into his present challenge, that of chef/proprietor of the Wildfire Restaurant at 159 West Erie Street, in Chicago. The eatery features cooking done over a natural wood fire in an open grill, wood oven and rotisserie.

"None of my family had ever been in the food business but early on I knew I really enjoyed cooking," said Bry.

Bry says he was the first chef in the Chicago area to do fried cheese. "One Bastille Day I had ten wheels of French Brie which we fried."

Innovative food seems to be Bry's forte. After studying at Triton's College Food Service Program he worked at the Ritz Carlton Hotel, Tango and Sweetwater, just to name a few of the prestigious restaurants he was associated with.

"I like to think of the cuisine at Wildfire as rustic, when foods were simply prepared over open flames," he said.

Bry prefers three spices, sage, rosemary and thyme and uses marinades, signature rubs and unique roasting methods.

Wildfire menu is amazingly reasonable. From the baked cannelloni with roasted chicken, mushrooms and spinach folded into fresh-pasta sheets and served with a light cream sauce for $9.95 to the heartier prime rib crusted with rock salt and pepper served with mashed potatoes and horseradish cream for $18.95 for a large serving and $15.95 for a smaller portion.

Rostisserie chicken is priced at $10.95 and slowly roasted over white oak and comes with shoestring or mashed potatoes or wilted greens and oven-roasted potatoes.

Rostisserie pork is on the menu at $12.95 and is marinated with maple syrup, whiskey and spices. A full slab of ribs is $16.75.

There are also two-handed sandwiches, seafood, appetizers including a wood-fired pizza. We noted that the french-fried onion rings were the best we had ever tasted and my dining partners prime rib was superb while I enjoyed the salmon grilled over hardwood.

Bry and his wife have four children who the chef describes as having definite opinions on his cuisine although they eat their share of pizza and macaroni and cheese.

"Anytime I don't have to cook at home I'm happy," Bry said.

"My wife tells me when we go out to eat I always order the hardest thing to prepare on the menu and then I'm usually disappointed."

Wildfire seats 180 diners and the stone fireplace overlooks the drama of the dining room and open kitchen. Wildfire also has its own dry aging room to store one of its house specialties, the crusted prime rib.

Call 312-787-9000 for reservations.

Making seafood at home is a snap

(NAPS)—If the prospect of making a lobster, crab or scallop dish at home gives you "claws"-trophobia, think again. Preparing seafood can be a snap, thanks to surimi, which is riding a new wave of popularity with today's health-conscious cooks.

What's surimi? It's a seafood alternative that's been swimming in popularity in Japan since around 1100 A.D. Surimi is made from white fish that's been cleaned, minced, washed and flavored to resemble such seafood favorites as crab, lobster and scallops.

So how does surimi stack up nutritionally? With today's emphasis on low-fat, low-cholesterol foods, it's a healthful and economical choice. Surimi is low in calories, low in cholesterol, low in fat and high in protein.

Surimi is also much easier to cook with than regular seafood. That's especially true if you make a meal with Crab Delights®, Lobster Delights® or Scallop Delights™ from Louis Kemp®—fully cooked and ready to use right out of the package. Unlike other surimi products, this brand is totally fat-free.

Lowfat Seafood Lasagna Roll-ups

The next time you're hungry for seafood, try this easy low-fat recipe:

LOW FAT SEAFOOD LASAGNA ROLLUPS

- 6 lasagna noodles
- 1 can (15 oz.) Italian-style tomato sauce

Filling:

- 1 package Louis Kemp® Fat Free Crab Delights® flakes or chunks
- 1 cup low-fat (1%) cottage cheese, drained
- 1/4 cup grated Parmesan cheese
- 1 egg
- 1 tablespoon dried parsley flakes
- 1/4 teaspoon onion powder

Cook noodles as directed on package. Rinse in cold water; drain well. Combine filling ingredients with fork. Spread 1/3 cup filling on each noodle. Roll tightly; place seam-side down in a 9-inch baking pan. Pour sauce over rollups. Bake covered at 375°F for 30 minutes. Garnish with a sprinkling of grated cheese. Makes 6 servings.

Microwave: (500W-700W) Prepare as above, placing rollups in a microwave safe baking dish. Cover with plastic wrap, folding back corner to vent.

Microwave at HIGH 10-13 minutes, rotating dish halfway through heating.

Children decorate wall for Christ Hospital

Children are invited to leave their marks on Christ Hospital and Medical Center's new children's hospital by painting tiles that will be permanently affixed to a wall inside the new Oak Lawn facility. The tile painting event is part of the "Once in a Lifetime" fund-raising effort to help offset costs of the new hospital, currently under construction on the main hospital campus.

Wth the help of ceramic instructors, children may paint a tile, which cost $25 each, at one of three sessions on Sat., March 9 at Orland Park Ice Arena, 10701 W. 159th St. The sessions are set for 9, 10 and 11 a.m. For more information about the event or about purchasing a tile, call Advocate's Charitable Foundation at (708) 696-7652.

The 112,000 sq. ft., four-story children's hospital is designed to address the special needs of critically and chronically ill children. Construction, to be complete in the fall of 1996, will cost $25 million with $10 million coming from philanthropic gifts.

ASK JEFF JAY

Husband's Alcoholism Causes Family Pain

(NAPS)

Dear Jeff Jay:

I hear a lot about the problem of alcohol and drug abuse but very little about what a family can do when someone they love has a problem. Instead, I hear, "The alcoholic has to hit bottom" or "The drug abuser has to want help before they can get it." I want to know what the family is supposed to do in the meantime.

My husband has a problem with alcohol. When he drinks his personality changes. He gets argumentative and mean. It always leads to a fight and it's really affecting our three kids.

When we socialize, I never know if he'll drink too much and embarrass me. When I bring up my concerns about his drinking, he always turns it around and makes me feel like I'm the one with the problem.

We all live with fear and worry because of his drinking. I don't want a divorce, but I can't live with this problem forever.

Ready for a Solution in Seattle

Dear Ready:

There was a time when it was true that a person with an alcohol or drug problem had to "hit bottom"—losing home, job, family, health—before getting help. Of course, that meant the family hit bottom too. Thankfully, that's no longer true. For the last 30 years, families have been successfully dealing with the problem before the alcoholic or drug abuser hits bottom. Three things you can do are: 1) learn how to stop enabling the alcoholic; 2) learn how to motivate the alcoholic to seek help; 3) begin to access the resources available in your community. A free brochure on how you can learn to help someone with an alcohol or drug problem is available by calling 800-448-7717.

Dear Jeff Jay:

My son drinks a lot of alcohol and it's causing trouble in his marriage. My husband says we shouldn't be too concerned because he doesn't drink every day. But his wife is talking about leaving him and they have two beautiful little girls. I think I should be worried about his drinking. What do you think?

Broken-hearted Mom
St. Paul, MN

Dear B.H. Mom:

You're right to be concerned. When alcohol is causing repeated negative consequences in any area of someone's life and they continue to drink anyway, they are probably alcoholic. The problem isn't about how much your son drinks or how often he drinks, but what happens to him when he drinks. Learn all you can about the disease of alcoholism and how your family can intervene to get your son the help he needs. Ask his wife to get involved too.

Jeff Jay is an alcohol and drug therapist, and author of "Take Charge with Jeff Jay", a home education program for concerned families, published in association with Hazelden. For information on the "Take Charge with Jeff Jay" program and resource material, call 800-448-7717.

Seven Brides for Seven Brothers dances into Paramount Art Centre

The acclaimed Broadway stage version of the famous MGM movie, Seven Brides For Seven Brothers dances into the Paramount Arts Centre for two performances on March 16,1996.

This exuberant tale of the seven Pontipee brothers vibrantly recreates the film on stage with all of it's rich melodies, dazzling choreography, and hilarious comedy. When Adam, the eldest Pontipee brother marries a spunky orphan, Milly, his family is shaken out of their backwoods lifestyle with a vengeance. Determined to marry off her brothers-in-law to insure the success of her own marriage, Milly single-handedly cleans them up and introduces the neighboring town to some wild Pontipee courting which shakes up all the unattached hearts in the vicinity.

Seven Brides for Seven Brothers is packed with full-bodied singing and infectious high spirits. This rip-roaring hit features dazzling somersaults, sensational leaps, and jumps over ominous axes all together making the most explosive dance hit since West Side Story.

This action-packed musical dances its way into the Paramount Arts Centre on Saturday March 16 at 3 & 7:30 p.m. Tickets are $25.50 and may be purchased at the Paramount Box Office (708) 896-6666, as well as any Ticketmaster outlet.

Peking acrobats amazes audiences

Feats ranging from the incredible to the virtually unbelievable will be performed with a dancer's grace when The Peking Acrobats showcase their skill and agility at the Paramount Arts Centre on Friday, March 8 at 7:30 p.m.

Daring maneuvers atop a precarious pagoda of chairs...treacherous wire walking...powerful precision tumbling, somersaulting and gymnastics ... amazing displays of contortion, flexibility and control... and all the excitement of festive pageantry lend to the atmosphere of a Chinese Carnival. All of this is just part of the magnificent show offered by the Peking Acrobats.

Tickets are $18.50 for adults and $16.50 for children. Tickets may be purchased at the Paramount Arts Centre Box Office at (708) 896-6666 or at any Ticketmaster outlet.

Illinois resume downward trend in gas prices

Rebounding from an uncommon January increase, average self-serve gasoline prices in Illinois and Indiana have dropped according the AAA - Chicago Motor Club's February Fuel Gauge Survey.

In Chicago and Cook County, average self-serve gasoline prices dropped 0.6 cent per gallon since last month. Currently, a gallon of self-serve unleaded regular gasoline averages $1.276.

In Illinois outside of Cook County, average self-serve pump prices fell 0.7 cent per gallon since last month. A gallon of self-serve unleaded regular gasoline currently averages $1.176 per gallon.

In Northern Indiana, average self-serve gas prices slid 3.6 cents during the past month and a total of 10.7 cents since last November, despite the January, 1996 increase. Currently, a gallon of self-serve unleaded regular gasoline averages $1.040.

During the next few months, look for possible price hikes due to the annual changeover to a summer-blended fuel with a lower Reid Vapor Pressure (RVP).

As of Feb. 5, 1996, the national average for a gallon of self-serve unleaded regular was $1.131, up 2.7 cents since AAA-CMC's January Fuel Gauge Survey.

Daley-Laski Plan targets "Deadbeat" Parents

The state of Illinois is on the Children's Defense Fund's "Hall of Shame" for being one of the top ten states with the worst child support collections.

While Illinois has joined 18 other states by suspending the driver's licenses of "deadbeat parents," Mayor Richard M. Daley and Chicago City Clerk Jim Laski have been working to take a crackdown in Chicago much further.

Now the collective efforts of two of Chicago's top officeholders could bring about one of the most hard hitting crackdowns on "deadbeat" parents in the country.

Daley and Laski have devised an ordinance that would deny city/county business licenses, contracts and jobs to those who don't pay their child support.

"As taxpayers we pay millions every year," Laski said, "for welfare, criminal justice and drug abuse.

How can we allow "deadbeat" parents, who perpetuate these problems, to continue to operate in the City of Chicago," Laski added.

Laski spearheaded the initiative by introducing an ordinance in September, 1994 that would deny business licenses to "deadbeats." As Chicago City Clerk, Laski added that his office handles all business issuance and renewals and will play an important role in the enforcement of the new program when it is passed.

Daley, who has taken a special interest in child support collections since his days as the Cook County State's Attorney, widened the scope of the original ordinance.

He plans to not only deny "deadbeats" of business licenses, but to deny them city jobs and loans and to charge an eight percent penalty on bids from companies seeking city contracts if a "deadbeat" owns 25 percent or more of their stock.

At a news conference on December 12, 1995, Daley also garnered the support of countywide officials such as Cook County Board President John Stroger, who promised to introduce a similar ordinance at the county level.

"With passage of this ordinance,"Laski said, "I think we are going to see some landmark accomplishments that will effect a nationwide crackdown on "deadbeats."

"The leadership of Mayor Daley," he continued, "who has such a tremendous track record with this issue, has been and will continue to become increasingly vital to its success."

During the past year, only 51 percent of the $235 million in child support due in Cook County was paid, leaving a whopping $115 million unpaid.

An estimated $34 billion goes unpaid each year across the nation. In the City of Chicago, as many as 140,000 names are on a "hot list" of "deadbeat" parents.

Daley/Laski Plan cracks down on "Deadbeats"

Mayor Richard M. Daley (center) and City Clerk Jim Laski (left) announce the city's crackdown on "deadbeat" parents at a news conference last month. Laski said this new city ordinance should lead the nation in crackdowns on "deadbeat" parents and Mayor Daley's leadership will have an increasingly vital link to its success in Chicago.

After 40 Years " White Elephant" Comes Down

On January 23 and 24 court hearings were held downtown to determine the future of the "white elephant" at 59th and Harlem Avenue. Vacant for more than 40 years, community residents led by the Clearing Civic League gathered together at 23rd Ward Democratic Headquarters to board a bus downtown on both days to testify against the continued renovation of the building. The judge, overwhelmed by the response of the citizens, bowed to the conviction of the homeowners and moved to have the building torn down.

Nip It In The Butt!

(NAPS)—A street is a street, not an ashtray. That's one of the messages in a "Smokers for a Clean America" campaign reminding smokers to dispose of their butts carefully when walking and working in our cities.

PIGEONS DON'T SMOKE! Free portable ashtray that helps smokers dispose of cigarette butts properly can be obtained by calling toll-free 1-800-366-8441.

Another element of the campaign, created by R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Company, is the offer of a free portable pocket ashtray to any adult smoker who calls the toll-free number 1-800-366-8441.

Most smokers agree it's their responsibility to dispose of cigarette butts, ash and empty packs properly. The decision to smoke also means making the decision not to litter.

World Travel

Last night I went across the world.
I didn't even leave my chair.
I can't believe I was transported to the strangest places anywhere.
Africa with its elephants so monstrous, wildebeasts, lions and the so deadly cobras.
Then to India, its tigers so fearsome.
On to China, the panda so cuddlesome.
Along the Great Wall so long and unchanging.
Back over the wide, wide Pacific.
High over the Rockies' majestic ranges.
The final stop in New York City buying cheesecake at a famous deli.
When I had enough of all that travel
I pushed the Off button on my Tele.

St. Laurence constructing new fitness center

St. Laurence High School has announced plans for constructing a $250,000 Fitness Center to enhance its current facilities. Plans for the new construction project have been in the works for nearly a year.

The Fitness Center, which will occupy 2,100 square feet, will eventually house assorted free weights, universal machines, and aerobic equipment, such as stair climbers and treadmills. The total cost of the building and materials is estimated at $200,000 with architectural fees included. The facility will contain all of Saint Laurence's existing weights with new equipment pushing the total cost of the project to about $250,000.

"It's a pleasure to announce that our dream is now a reality. This project will be a major improvement to our already outstanding existing facilities," commented Mr. Thomas J. Ondrla, Principal of Saint Laurence High School.

School officials have emphasized that the project will be funded entirely through Development and fund raising activites, without borrowing or impacting the school's operating budget.

Oak Lawn Veterans Memorial

by Carlene E. O'Connor

A monument in tribute to Veterans of the armed forces will be displayed in Oak Lawn at the East entrance of the Village Green between Raymond and Cook Avenue.

The inscription will read:
In Honor of Those Who Served
In Tribute to Those Who Perished
In Gratitude to Those Now Serving.

Three flagpoles will also be located at the memorial site: State of Illinois, United States Flag and Village of Oak Lawn Flag.

This monument commorates the men and women who served this country. The United States Army, Navy, Marine Corps, Air Force, and Coast Guard are represented.

Gene Gallagher, President of the Oak Lawn Memorial Foundation says, "Many men and women from the village of Oak Lawn are presently serving in the military in crucial areas, and elsewhere protecting and enduring world peace. Their Oak Lawn neighbors and friends are extremely proud and sincerely greatful."

In a letter Gene Gallagher wrote to the public stated: more than 38,000,000 veterans have served their country from Bunker Hill to Bosnia. The United States has suffered almost two and one half million casualties in battle. Over 600,000 were killed in action while another 446,000 have died from other causes. There are approximately 26 million veterans still living today.

This monument is presented by the greatful people of the village of Oak Lawn and by the memberships of Johnson-Phelps VFW Post #5220 and Green Oak American Legion Post #757 in cooperation with the Oak Lawn Veterans Memorial Foundation.

If any residents know of an Oak Lawn Veteran or someone presently serving the armed forces, call Gene Gallagher at (708) 424-2733.

Zorich not only a Bear but a humanitarian

by Carlene E. O'Connor

There is more to Chicago Bear #97 that meets the eye. Chris Zorich at the young age of 26 has dedicated his life to helping others as stated on his recent speech at St. Xavier University.

One may ask why? He does seem to have everything. Zorich's answer is that he grew up in a humble environment and learned from his mother Zora, a single parent to "love and care for others."

Zorich says, "my success as a Bear means as much to me as you can buy with a quarter." His position on the team enables him as a local celebrity to meet people which can help with the mission.

For example, he has met with executives from Jewel and Cub Foods to donate food to his causes.

Zorich was raised on Chicago southside and learned how to live on $3,000 annually from Public Aide for eighteen years.

Zorich says, "I am tough because of the neighborhood I grew up in. There were muggings and we were even beat up. "He vowed to take his mom away from there.

Zorich learned from his mother how to sacrifice. He claims many times she went without dinner to feed her son. He says,"Through sacrifice alot can be accomplished."

Zorich attended Chicago Vocational High School, majoring in business. He graduated in 1987 earning a football scholarship to the University of Notre Dame.

In 1991, he was drafted to the Chicago Bears.

Zorich supports many nationally known and Chicago area Charities. He is chairman of the Christopher Zorich Foundation, which ventures include: a Notre Dame Scholarship, Children's Youth program, Assistance to Women's Shelters, and a food distribution program.

Zorich said he would not change anything about his life. Knowing that his career with the Bears is short lived, Zorich plans on opening his own orphanage in the future.

Zorich's advice to youth is "Make it Happen."

Oak Lawn Family Days look to '97

by Carlene E. O'Connor

What was becoming an Oak Lawn summertime tradition will no longer be carried on. Oak Lawn Family Days will not be sponsored this year and plans for the future are sketchy.

Fred Stoettner, Family Days organizer told the Oak Lawn Village Board due to low profits, the committee of six service clubs would no longer sponsor the event.

Oak Lawn Family Days was sponsored by the Oak Lawn LIons Club, Oak Lawn Athletic Club, Kiwanis Club, Police Department, Rotary Club and Sertoma.

The responsibility of the fest was that of the Special Events Committee. Trustee Keane's (Liaison) response was, "we would not be able to do it in the time frame given."

Stoettner offered all information the committee had to the board to organize another festival. It's on computer disc.

The board regrets the decision, but, they are happy with his cooperation.

Trustee Ronald Stancik, District 2 said, "With the redevelopment of the town green, it's a possibility. I'd like to see it explored for 1997."

This column is dedicated to the memory Pat Vacco!

Many years ago when I was a sales person for Village View, I met a lovely person named Pat Vacco. Pat always greeted me pleasantly with a smile and an accolade.

Pat could have sat with many of the distinguished guests at parties, but didn't hesitate to treat me as her equal by sitting with me.

No, I didn't serve on any of her committees, nor did I socialize within her circle of friends, but she always treated me with friendship and kindness.

I remember when she started her business in Evergreen Park, she was so happy. But as the years progressed so did Pat's arthritic pain. Pat went to work daily in pain until it was to unbearable, but continued to work her business at home and sometimes in the hospital.

Travel Log on 87th and Francisco is now managed by Ms. Vacco's daughter.

Whenever I think of this wonderful person, I will always remember the days when Tony Vacco ran for State Senator in 1976..

Pat was so dedicated in supporting her husband, I remember she not only ran his campaign, but several other candidate's campaign in the Oak Lawn headquarters. She certainly will be missed.

Music ensemble delights audience

by Annette Dixon

Governors State University premiered their four brunch season with brunch at the University and a concert with the Tokyo String Quartet at the Center of Arts and Technology Theatre.

The Center of Arts Theatre is attached to the main center of the entrance and is complimented by the spacious seating arrangement..

Tokyo String Quartet, a supreme chamber ensemble, featured the reknown Pinchas Zukerman! My personal thoughts and listening pleasures were with Mr. Zukerman. He is a naturally, talented musician who's music can be easily distinquished between other violinists.

Another favorite violinist was from the Tokyo String Quartet, he is Kikuei Ikeda. The Bartok, Arabian Song #42 was played as a duet by Ikeda and Zukerman.It was surely the favorite of the audience.

If you want to have brunch and listen to great music or just listen to great music, contact The Center at (708) 235-2238 for details.

Solid waste center planned for 98th and Central, Oak Lawn

A solid waste recycling center at 98th street and Central Avenue was the topic of discussion at a February solid waste committee meeting and recent full village board meeting.

Village board members who make up the solid waste committee debated whether it should be located in the parking lot behind the baseball fields on Central Avenue or enclosed in the nearby public works area.

Regardless of the location, Trustee Robert Streit (3rd)objected to both sites complaining that a better place for the recycling center would be a school or park facility. Streit added that a recycling center at 98th and Central would bring additional heavy traffic to an already congested area.

The site proposed forthe recycling center is surrounded by a baseball field, parking lot, public works garage and cable television antennas and satellite dishes.

Streit attended the February solid waste committee meeting, though he is not a member of the committee, to voice his concerns about an area of Oak Lawn contained within his district.

Trustee Bill Keane (6th) told the full village board at their meeting Tuesday, February 27 that the best site for the recycling center would be the public works yard so that the village would not face an unneeded facility at a future time when curbside recycling is installed throughout the town.

The solid waste committee wants the public works site landscaped, beautified and enclosed with fencing if the recycling center is located there. Public Works Director Lynn Krauss was asked by the committee to study the effects of placing Oak Lawn's first permanent recycling center on the public works grounds.

The proposed recycling center would contain two large cotainers and one small container to hold recyclables and would be 36 feet high by 26 feet wide..

We're together

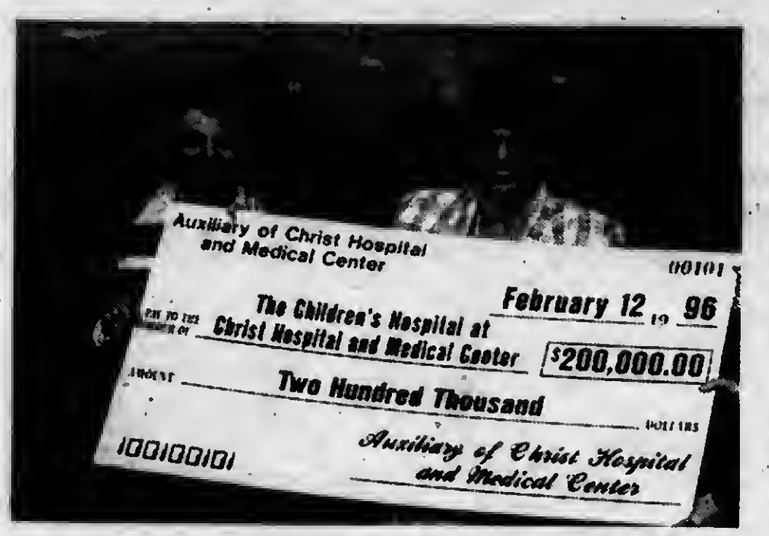
Worth Township Committeeman John McNamara is asking Democrats to come out and take advantage of their precious right and cast their vote for these two well qualified men.

Judge Donnerberger of the Domestic Relations Division of the Circuit Court of Cook County, and Attorney Kenneth J. Wadas, who is the Prosecutor for the City of Burbank, are candidates in the upcoming primary election in the 3rd Judicial Sub-circuit.

The primary election is Tuesday, March 19th.



Christ Hospital Auxilliary donation helps Children's Hospital building fund

Alsip resident Marianne Cox (left), president of the Auxiliary of Christ Hospital and Medical Center, Oak Lawn, presents a check for $200,000 to Coletta Neuens, the hospital's chief executive. The donation, presented at an auxiliary luncheon Feb. 12 at the Oak Lawn Hilton, is a portion of the auxiliary's $2 million pledge, the largest to date, to help Christ Hospital build its new children's hospital. Construction for the 60-bed hospital, located on the hospital's campus, is scheduled for completion this fall. Christ Hospital's 925-member auxiliary is an active group of volunteers who, through their service and fund-raising activities, help the hospital fulfill its mission of providing quality medical care and services to the community.

Park District Host Leprechaun Luncheon

The Oak Lawn Park District host an annual Leprechaun Luncheon, 5:30 to 6:30 p.m., Wednesday, March 13 at Oakview Center, 4625 W. 110th Street. Participants of all ages are invited to wear green, eat green, be green and participate in special activities, crafts and contests. Performing are popular Irish Dancers. Register by March 9 at all Oak Lawn Park District facility locations. The cost is five dollars.

Immunzation Fair at St. Xavier University

A Community Immunization Fair will take place from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Wed., March 13 in the Nursing Center of Saint Xavier University, located at 3700 W. 103rd Street in Chicago. The Fair offers people of all ages an opportunity to obtain MMR (Measles, mumps, rubella), polio, DPT and other vaccinations. Hepatitis B immunizations are only available for infant due to Department of Health policy.

The program is a joint effort of the Saint Xavier University School of Nursing and the Chicago Department of Health. A donation of $10 per family is requested to help offset program costs, however, no one will be denied services.

No appointments are necessary. For more information on the Immunization Fair, call the Saint Xavier School of Nursing at (312) 298-3731.

Library Foundation offers Bulls Challenge

Rickie Hawkinson, Dr. James Casey and Lois Gasteyer, members of the Oak Lawn Community Library Foundation, display a pair of tickets for the Chicago Bulls basketball game, April 4, top prize in the "Bulls Challenge," an information scavenger hunt scheduled for March 15-29.

Those wishing to participate in the Foundation-sponsored contest can pay a five dollar registration fee at the General Information Booth, Oak Lawn Library, 5300 W. 95th St. Entrants will receive an official question sheet and a complete description of the library sources which must be used in locating the answers to the questions.

Prizes in addition to the Bulls tickets which were donated by Hawkinson Ford include a basket of books and gift certificates for free dinners at local restaurants. Winners will be announced at 2 p.m. Sunday, March 31.

Call James Casey for additional info, 708-422-4990.

Fashion show to benefit St. Rita

Tickets are now available for the St. Rita High School Mothers Club Fashion Show. This evening of fashion, entitled "As Time Goes By", is being held in conjunction with the school's 90 year anniversary and will be held on Wednesday, March 27, 1996 at 6:00 p.m. at the Martinique (2500 W. 95th Street).

This year's gala event will reflect on both past and present fashions. Fashions from various area retailers will be modeled by St. Rita mothers, faculty, students, families and friends. St. Rita welcomes Robin Baumgarten from WGN TV/Radio as the emcee for the evening.

This incredible evening of fashion will include door prizes and a grand raffle with incredible prizes such as $1,000 cash, weekend getaways, fine dining packages, precious artwork, sports tickets and much more. Raffle tickets are $5.00. Winner need not be present.

The fashion show is organized and run by the St. Rita Mothers Club but is not limited to mothers of young men at the school. The cost of the fashion show is $25.00 and the ticket price includes dinner and open bar. Fashion show tickets and additional information can be obtained by calling Sue Domagalski at (312)925-5029. Raffle ticktets can be purchased by calling Marie Whitney at (312)776-7654.

Prestigious appointment for resident of Oak Lawn

Governors State University Professor Diane Dates Casey is joining an elite group of national and international librarians who will be making decisions about how library materials are presented to the public.

Casey has been appointed chairperson of the American Library Association's Subject Analysis Committee. She has served the committee in various capacities the past two years and will officially move to the top spot after the committee's national meeting this summer in New York City.

"My role will be to orchestrate and choreograph their work," she says of the other members, interns and liaison representatives who serve on the committee. "These are 24 people who are among the country's leading scholars and researchers in the area of cataloging."

Casey believes it was her administrative skills that won her the chairperson's position. It follows a year's stint as the committee's secretary during which she has been obliged to take detailed notes at six-hour meetings. Before that, she was an intern with the committee for a year.

Casey has been a professional librarian since 1990. She held positions in Ohio before a move to the Chicago area brought her to Oak Lawn and her first job at Moraine Valley Community College. She joined the GSU staff in January 1993.

Casey moved into library work after serving as a pastor to a Lutheran congregation in Ohio. "I left parish ministry after trying for five years to advance to a larger congregation," and enrolled at Kent State University where she received a master's degree in library science with an emphasis on cataloging.

In addition, Casey notes, catalogers today are focusing on information technology issues as part of their daily work. Although she won't classify herself a "techy," Casey has become well-versed in the technology in the library and has written about it for professional publications, lectured about its uses and given workshops and classes.

Cycles of Violence lecture

Moraine Valley Community College's Adult Center will sponsor a free lecture presented by Andrea Schultz entitled, "Cycles of Violence: Domestic Abuse and Intervention Programs" on Wed., March 27 at 12:30 p.m. The lecture will be held in the College Center, Moraine Room 1, on the campus, 10900 S. 88th Ave.

avenue, Palos Hills.

This lecture will define the cycle of violence and the behaviors most often exhibited by people involved in a domestic violence relationship. In addition, Schultz will discuss the different intervention programs available through the Crisis Center.

For more information, call the college's Adult Center at (708)974-5477.

Jamaican Shrimp with Mango Relish

Makes 16 hors d'oeuvres

SHRIMP PREPARATION:

1/4 cup vegetable oil
3 tablespoons white wine vinegar
2 tablespoons fresh lime juice
1 tablespoon honey
1 tablespoon fresh thyme leaves
1/4 teaspoon ground all-spice
1/4 teaspoon hot -pepper sauce
16 medium-sized cooked shrimp, peeled and deveined
2 Bays English Muffins, split and lightly toasted
Cilantro leaves

RELISH PREPARATION:

1/2 cup peeled, diced fresh mango
1 fresh jalapeño pepper, seeded, minced
1 tablespoon roasted red pepper, minced

In covered jar, combine first seven ingredients; shake to mix. Reserve 1 tablespoon for mango relish. Place shrimp in shallow glass dish; pour remaining marinade over shrimp. Cover and marinate 30 minutes at room temperature.

In small bowl, combine mango, jalapeño pepper, green onion, roasted red pepper and reserved marinade. Set aside. Drain shrimp. Cut the muffin halves into quarters. Spoon mango relish on each muffin piece; top with 1 shrimp. Garnish with cilantro leaf.

New kid on the block is getting much deserved attention

By Anita Anderson

Chinese cooking can be divided up into five flavors: sweet, sour, salty, bitter and hot. The country has always been preoccupied with preparing and eating food because of its share of droughts and food shortages throughout the ages.

Ben Pao, the first Lettuce Entertain You Chinese restaurant, is the new kid on the block at 52 West Illinois Street, in Chicago.

The elegant eatery highlights Cantonese, Hunan and Szechuan specialties. Its name, Ben Pao means fireworks and from the first course, a fiery cabbage which served to spark up your taste buds carried forth its title.

Hunan and Szechuan food reflected the hot, sour, sweet and salty foods. You see it in the Hong Kong Spicy Eggplant, Fiery Szechuan Noodles and Spicy Fragrant Beef, or a daily steamed, fresh fish. Especially good were the Chicken Soong in a Lettuce Pocket, similiary to a taco served to us as a starter by a superb, knowledgeable server named Angela who came from Hong Kong several years ago.

The pockets reflected the Canton cooking with its subtle, fresh and yet exotic presentation.

At Ben Pao food is prepared in Mandarin woks over a flash fire at an intense 1200-degree heat. Not to be missed it Tony's Amazing Chicken with its subtle flavor and just a hint of minced ginger coming through. The dish was created by Tony Cheung, chef and partner.

Guests can sample a varity of foods served in lazy susans.

Ben Pao seats 190 patrons who dine in a dramatic area made richer with creating maple decor and black accents. Two granite columns feature water rippling into a pool, yet another soothing Chinese ambiance.

Managing partner is John Buchanan who was raised in the Midway area of Chicago. Under his watchful eye the Ben Pao gets its shares of repeat diners.

He has been associated with Lettuce Entertain You Enterprise for many years.

Executive chef is Paul Wildermuth.

By the way, since its always good to end your day on a sweet note don't miss the Mandarin Orange Cheesecake.

Call 312-222-1888 for reservations or more information. Vallet parking is available.

Following is an easy to create Twice-Fried Shredded Beef. The recipe is not from Ben Pao

Twice-Fried Shredded Beef

3/4 pound beef sirloin or flank steak

MARINADE

2 tablespoons each dry sherry and soy sauce
1 teaspoon each sugar and cornstarch
1 small carrot
1 green bell pepper
2 stalks celery
1 small onion

SAUCE

2 tablespoons rice vinegar
1 tablespoon soy sauce
2 teaspoons sesame oil
1 teaspoon sugar
1/2 teaspoon each chili oil and cornstarch

Trim and discard excess fat from beef. Cut beef across the grain into 1 1/2 inch matchstick pieces. Combine marinade ingredients in a medium-size bowl. Add beef; stir to coat. Set aside for 30 minutes.

Cut carrot, bell pepper, and celery into 1 1/2 inch matchstick pieces. Thinly slice onion. Set vegetables aside separately.

Combine sauce ingredients in a small bowl and set aside.

Set wok in a ring stand and add oil to a depth of 1 1/2 to 2 inches. Place over high heat until oil reaches about 375 degrees. Add beef, half at a time, and deep-fry for 1 minute until browned, turning occasionally. Lift out and drain on paper towels; set aside. Cook remaining beef.

Remove all but 2 tablespoons oil from wok. Reheat oil over high heat until hot. Add carrot and onion; cook, stirring constantly, for 1 minute. Add bell pepper and celery; stir-fry for 1 more minute. Stir in sauce and beef. Cook and toss until well mixed.

The low-down on low-fat

Through experimentation, I found that substitutes work best in recipes in which oil is the fat. In cakes that call for creaming butter and sugar, the resulting texture cannot be duplicated by adding a substitute. Also, a fruit puree should be substitute for only three-quarters of the fat amount. The exception is brownies. Try substituting, prune puree (made at home by placing 1 1/3 cups pitted prunes and 1/2 cup hot water in a food processor and processing until mixture forms a puree), or lekvar, a canned puree available in baking section of supermarkets, for all of the fat in purchased brownie mix calling for oil. The brownies are dense but still maintain an intense chocolate flavor while cutting way back on fat.

Many boxed mixes work well by substituting, applesauce or low-fat plain yogurt for the oil. While these baked items are low in fat, they are not necessarily low in calories. Most fat substitutes, other than yogurt, are high in sugar.

Dial "M" for enjoyment

By Anita Anderson

All of the aspects of the O. J. Simpson trial may be just the ticket for people who wish to attend the suspense thriller "Dial "M" For Murder" at the Shubert Theater through March 10.

"It's got adultery, betrayal and murderous thoughts," said John James who portrays the part of conniving husband, Tony.

James is known to TV fans for his lasting roles on "Dynasty" and the daytime soap, "Search For Tomorrow" not to mention "The Colby's". Russian TV just purchased the rights to show "Dynasty".

James has some definite thoughts on the plight of American theater today. Recent complaints about the torrent of rehashes and reruns brought the reaction "Where are the new shows and the new young writers," he questioned.

James feels that local dinner theaters and playhouses should serve as showcases for new talent and their plays.

"Putting on Shakespere is fine, but to do it at a local playhouse is a form of intellectual snobbery. Where is the new material being written out there. Lets give them a chance," he continue.

"Maybe we should have a competition to find the new material. It's very important that the theater attract younger audiences," the actor continued.

John James

James has a little girl who is 3 1/2. She and her mother, Denise, make every attempt to meet up with the actor in various cities. The show has been on tour for six months and Chicago is the last stop. Then, it's home to Connecticut for James.

"Dial "M" For Murder" also stars Nancy Allen, as Margot the terrorized wife, and Roddy McDowall as the police inspector.

Drury Lane Oakbrook present "Man of La Mancha"

Drury Lane Oakbrook will present one of the greatest hits of the Broadway stage, "Man of La Mancha", scheduled to open on Wednesday, March 13 at 8 p.m. Directed by Drury Lane Oakbrook Artistic Director Gary Griffin, "Man of La Mancha" begins preview performances on Wed., March 6 and is scheduled to run through Sunday, April 28, at the Drury Lane, 100 Drury Lane in Oakbrook Terrace.

"Man of La Mancha" is a brilliant, touching and melodic double portrait of Cervantes, the classic Spanish writer and his fictional creation, Don Quixote. As the curtain rises, Cervantes, a 17th Century soldier of fortune turned author, is thrown into prison. To prevent the other prisoners from burning his manuscripts, Cervantes transforms himself into his creation, the incredible knight errant, Don Quixote de La Mancha. Cervantes, as Don Quixote, then entertains the ruffians with tales about the adventures of this bumbling hero.

Written by Dale Wasserman, with music by Mitch Leigh and lyrics by Joe Darion, "Man of La Mancha" is filled with such popular hits as "The Impossible Dream," "The Quest," and "Dulcinea."

Tickets are available at the Drury Lane box office or by calling 708-530-0111, or Ticketmaster at 312-902-1500.

Gino's not only a Steak House

by Annette Dixon

Gino's Steak House, with new management since October, 1995, now introduces an expanded menu from seafood to pasta.

Bob Gereg and Sonny Dervishi are doing a fantastic job. Sonny, owner of Tuto Italianno, a downtown Chicago restaurant is bringing his favorite pasta recipes, such as Pasta Con Pollo and Vitello Dela Casa to Gino's.

I ordered Zuppa Al Frutti DiMare, which was a mixture of seafood and fettuccine. The kitchen supplemented fettuccine instead of linguine.

It was the only mistake that was made throughout our dinner. I sampled the Filet Mignon, which my husband ordered and I knew why the gleam was in his eyes. The meat's texture was smooth and the taste was scrumptious..

I could not compare the food to that of the former owner, but I do know after Bob gave me a tour of the kitchen and explained that they have their own butcher cutting meat daily, I felt comfortable in Richard eating beef and I the seafood.

Our compliments to chef Henri Flynn for the fine kitchen staff he has and working with a restaurant with the quality of expertise in food management and purchasing. Our compliments again to Chef Flynn on preparing homemade sour dough bread, and all bread and rolls, including tomatoe bread. The homemade dessert was very light, so much so that it was the first time I could eat homemade Tiramisu.

Gino's is one of the few restaurants left that still believes in serving one of the best relish trays. Roasted red and green pepper marinated in fresh garlic, olive oil and a touch of cider vinegar plus crackers and bread sticks for the homemade cheese ball, along with fresh vegetables and homemade dip for the vegetable made our pre dining enjoyable..

Bob said he will be featuring the marinated peppers at Walt's Food stores soon.

Gino's, an impressive, elegant 18,500 sq. ft. all brick building with spacious parking has four large dining room and three small ones. With 105 employees cooking and serving patrons, Bob stated that over 1000 patrons were served Sunday, February 25th.

What I have noticed is that the food was tasty, different than the ordinary restaurants of Chicago and Southern suburbs. I compare this restaurant to the northside of Chicago. It has the ambiance and decor and taste so desparately needed in order to dine out and enjoy the evening.

They give a generous portions of food, which is piping hot. I would give this restaurant a special star just because they are unique.

Newcomers and Veterans Complete Comedic Cast of "The Foreigner"

Rockton Productions and director Diana L. Martinez proudly announce the cast of Larry Shue's hysterical comedy "The Foreigner", coming to Pheasant Run Resort's Theatre on March 15. Featuring a talented ensemble of professional Chicagoland area actors, "The Foreigner" cast consists of five male newcomers and two female Pheasant Run veterans.

The New York Drama Critics Circle award-winning comedy "The Foreigner" tells the story of shy Englishman Charlie. After the recent discovery of his wife's multiple affairs, Charlie is persuaded by his best friend Froggy to escape reality at a backwoods fishing resort in Georgia. Part of Froggy's plan to keep Charlie incognito is to introduce Charlie as a non-English speaking "foreigner" at the lodge. Convinced Charlie cannot understand English, the lodgers begin to speak candidly about their personal lives. As a result, Charlie becomes a witness to a dispute over an inheritance, an ill-advised shotgun marriage and a plot involving the Ku Klux Klan. Ina desperate attempt to reveal these plots, Charlie enlists the "half-wit" boy Elliard to teach him "English". Destined to leave audiences crying... with laughter, "The Foreigner" requires an ensemble of seven gifted and comically challenged actors.

See why audiences are screaming with laughter as the cast ot "The Foreigner" delights audiences with their comedic magic. A limited engagement, "The Foreigner" will only run from March 15 through May 19. Performance times are Thursdays and Fridays at 8:15 p.m.; Saturdays at 5:15 p.m. and 9:45 p.m., and Sundays at 2:15 p.m. Prices start as low as $20. Dinner, Brunch (Sundays only) and overnight packages are available.

McAuley board look to the future

Guided by its Board of Trustees, Mother McAuley High School is engaged in a planning process to seek new directions regarding student needs for today and tomorrow that will guide the school into the new millennium. In its planning efforts, McAuley's administration, together with the Board, is in the process of an analysis of the school as a system of many constituencies who must be served. Faculty and staff are also involved in assessing future needs in light of current programs to enhance the existing structures.

McAuley's new vision is based on a commitment to excellence and to education of the whole person - physically, mentally and spiritually. The school will continue to identify and develop leadership for the school as it moves into the future.

Alternative arrangements for physical space, allocation of time, and sites and structures for learning will also be explored. McAuley benefits from having on its Board of Trustees individuals with expertise in strategic planning who can lend those skills to this process within McAuley.

Stephan M. Hallenbeck is the newest member of Little Company of Mary Hospital and Health Care Centers' Board of Directors.

Little Company welcomes new board member

Little Company of Mary Hospital and Health Care Centers is proud to announce the appointment of Stephan M. Hallenbeck, Executive Vice President of the First National Bank of Evergreen Park, to its Board of Directors.

In addition to his position on Little Company's board, Mr. Hallenbeck is also a member of the Hospital's Finance Committee and the Associate Board of Metropolitan Family Services/ Southwest, is on the Board of Trustees and the Planning Committee of the Mother McAuley Liberal Arts High School. He also does volunteer legal work for the Chicago Legal Clinic on the southside, following a 20 year private law practice.

When his father-in-law was suffering from a major illness, the family spent time in Little Company and other hospitals. He remarked that "The care my father-in-law received at Little Company at all levels was superior. Little Company means what it says when they look to their mission of caring for and about patients. In my experience, the presence of the Sisters helped carry this mission further. Not only do they care for the patients, but also for the family members who are living through the illness."

Mr. Hallenbeck stated, "I am honored to be chosen for this position, and hope to help the Hospital meet the challenges of the future while continuing to deliver professional, personalized care to the community we serve."

Highway Heroes

(NAPS)—Following their daring rescue of three children from a burning auto wreck, two professional truck drivers were presented with the Goodyear National Highway Hero award.

Rob Lomanno, of Malden, Mass., and Chris Kendall, of Nashua, N.H., received the award in front of 200,000 race fans shortly before the start of the 38th Daytona 500 stock car race. Goodyear Chief Executive Officer Sam Gibara presented the award.

An independent panel of judges from the trucking industry selected the two Clark and Reid Co. drivers from among four finalists, narrowed down from 28 candidates in the company's annual truck driver honors program.

Kendall and Lomanno were honored for risking their lives to save three children who were trapped in a burning sports utility vehicle that had been thrown into the air after a high-speed crash with another car. Having witnessed the accident, the men ignored the fire, pried open the doors of the truck and rescued the children.

In addition to the National Highway Hero title, four other drivers were named Goodyear Highway Heroes for acts of bravery and humanitarianism in 1995.

Vincent Carr, a Pleasantville, N.Y., driver for J.B. Hunt Transport and Shawn Dyke of Umatilla, Ore., driving for American Van Lines, share an award for pulling an injured driver from a vehicle stalled in the path of an oncoming freight train; Chris Dyson, Rock Hill, S.C., driving for Marriott Distribution Services, pulled a woman from a burning, overturned light truck; and Walter Druck-enmiller, Ponca City, Okla., a driver for Glass Trucking Co., waded into a pool of hot asphalt to help the victims of a tank truck which overturned, spilling its contents.

Lomanno and Kendall will each receive $20,000 in U.S. Savings Bonds and a Super Bowl-style ring commemorating their heroism. Carr, Dyke, Dyson and Druckenmiller will each receive $5,000 in U.S. Savings Bonds.

In addition to the Daytona trip provided by Goodyear, the drivers were honored by Walt Disney World near Orlando as Grand Marshals in a parade through the Magic Kingdom.

Goodyear 1995 National Highway Heroes Lomanno and Kendall are expected to receive their bonds and rings on The Nashville Network's new musical variety program, Prime Time Country, later in the year.

Saint Xavier dinner dance raises scholarship funds

Over $115,000 for student scholarships was raised at Saint Xavier University's Eleventh Annual Dinner Dance, the most successful fund-raising dance in the University's history. The March 1 Presidential Gala welcomed 502 guests and honored Senator Paul and Mrs. Jeanne Simon with the Shield of Saint Xavier Award.

Among the other distinguished guests for the evening were Congressman William Lipinski, State Senator Patrick O'Malley, State Senator Louis Viverito, 19th Ward Alderman Ginger Rugai, City Health Commissiner Sheila Lyne, a Sister of Mercy, Commissioner John Daley, Chairman of the Cook County Finance Commitee, and former Illinois Attorney General and Lieutenant Governor Neil Hartigan. In addition, ten Saint Xavier University student ambasssadors were present to greet guests for the formal evening held at Chicago Hilton and Towers.

Proceeds from the 1996 gala evening will benefit the Presidential Scholarship Program, which each year assists 150-180 academically outstanding students at Saint Xavier University with annually renewable scholarships of $1,000 to $5,000 each. Another eighty-five highly qualified students will be awarded Presidential Scholarships this year by Dr. Richard Yanikoski, President of Saint Xavier University.

"Thousands of students across the nation have benefited rom the educational support of Paul and Jeanne Simon," said Saint Xavier University President Richard Yanikoski. "To honor him and his wife with the Shield of St. Xavier Award seemed very fitting as this event itself will continue to directly benefit the students at Saint Xavier."

Oak Lawn survey reported

Village Trustees had alot of information to compile at the meeting March 12.

An opinion poll was conducted asking Oak Lawn residents how they felt about their community. There was a 54% turnout and feedback was as follows:

Robert Streit said, "The people are looking for a strict code of property maintenance, more police in parks and neighborhoods, pay special attention to speeders in the area and the fate of Cook School."

Michael Walsh replied, "Residents want us to have control over general business in Oak Lawn. I will set up meeting to let people express opinions in an unstructed enviroment."

Trustee Cyril Holesha stated, "The Chamber of Commerce should make a point to tell Oak Lawn business of our loan program."

Marjorie Joy gave these results, "The residents are concerned about the flooding in Oakdale. An engineer has conducted the final draft of the study. The results must be sent to Washington, DC. This could take two months."

To support state funding of education there will be a "March on Springfield." Joy said, "In a loud and clear voice we will get out opinion across." It will be held March 27 and there will be buses leaving from the Village Hall." Call the village if you would like to attend. Joy also said, "Even if you don't have children you should go to the schools and observe.."

Trustee Keane wants a "Steering Committee workshop." He said, "All trustees should attend and hear the residents."

Ronald Stancik said, "Cook School should be an administraive offical for the Park District. Then we could have a square of government services."

Bridgeview asks for action alert

A bill presently in Illinois State Senate designed to prevent residents from paying for unfunded state mandates through increased local taxes needs voter and taxpayer support according to Bridgeview officials at the March 13th meeting.

The bill SRJCA 76 will prevent the state from forcing local governments from taxing their residents to replace unfunded state mandates.

Officials are asking that residents call or write their State Senator and ask him or her to support the Unfunded Mandates Constitutional Amendment.

In the Bridgeview area, citizens would call:

State Senator
24th District
Robert M. Raica
1040 S. La Grange Road
La Grange, IL 60524
(708) 352-2411

They are asking that you call today. Your support is greatly appreciated.

Other items discussed at the meeting were as follows:

St. Fabian, Rev. Walter Turlou will hold Mass, March 23,1996 at 5:00 for installation Mass of new pastor.

There will also be Carnival Days at St. Fabian, June 5-9. All are encouraged to come and have fun and support this cause.

Be careful in the Village of Bridgeview when you park your car! Now handicapped parking has been raised to a $100 fine.

In other business a speaker from the I & M Civic Center Authority spoke about the Canal.

A plaque was given to the Village of Bridgeview in honor of their support.

Representing 12 communities this volunteer organization is organized to aide National Parks.

Currently they are working on improving the I & M Canal, Oct. 5 will be a Kick-Off Meeting.

For more information call Stanley A. Johnson at (708) 252-7542.

The next meeting for the Village of Bridgeview will be March 27, 1996 at 7:30 p.m. All residents are encouraged to attend.

Marist band receives O'Sullivan Award

The Marist High School Marching Band recently received the O'Sulivan Award for being the "Best Band in Chicago" at the Chicago St. Patrick's Day Parade in 1995.

This year, the Marist band will again perform in the St. Patrick's Day Parade, Downtown on March 16th, and in the Southside Irish Parade on Sunday, March 17th.

The Marist band will begin their biyearly tour on Thursday, March 28th. This tour will take them to performances at the Magic Kingdom in Disney World.

In April, the band will peform for the 7th year in a row at the White Sox Opener.

To end the year, they will travel to the Holland Michigan Tulip Festival.

Augustians co lead Irish parade Sunday

St. Rita High School is proud to announce that the Order of St. Augustine has been named the Co-Grand Marshal of the South Side Irish Parade to be held on Sunday, March 17 at 1 p.m. The Augustinians will be well represented in the parade and ask you for your support by coming out and "cheering them on from the sidelines" along Western Avenue from 103rd - 115th Street. So whether you're a friend of St. Rita, Providence Catholic, Mendel or Bishop McNamara High Schools or one of the Augustinian Parishes, this is a great opportunity to support the Augustinian Family and all that they continue to stand for.

St. Rita, run by the Augustinians, would like to take this opportunity to thank everyone involved, especially members of the South Side Irish Parade Committee, for recognizing the Order of St. Augustines on their 200th Year Anniversary in America.

A special memorial for Nola Huskey

In 1987, a very memorable story was written by Nola Huskey's grandson, for it was that of her centennial year and the history that occurred for the past 100 years.

Every year thereafter, Vi Rowe and Herb Huskey celebrated their mother's birthday on November 29, 1995. It was Nola's 108th birthday and again a gathering took place and the celebration was in order that Nola could enjoy that wonderful day with friends and relatives.

What could you possibly say about a person who was a teacher, mother, friend, hard worker, dedicated church woman, charmer, humble, Republican and lived to be 108.

Nola Huskey was the oldest of four children born to E. A. and Jane Murry. Nola was raised in Missouri around Marquand area. Mrs. Huskey taught school in 1907 and in 1914, married Thomas Huskey and became mother of five children of whom two (Vi Rowe and Herb Huskey) are living!

Cook County Recorder of Deeds sets his sights on another term

With a proven track record of excellence, Jesse White is looking to retain his position as Cook County Recorder is the upcoming primary elections. "I feel that I have exceeded everything that has been asked of me in this office," said White. "When I took this office in 1992, I had the goal of becoming the best Recorder the County has ever had and I have worked very hard to achieve this goal."

Jesse is known for being fair-minded and dedicated. He has truly worked hard to achieve all his goals. As the Recorder, he is responsible for an office of over 270 employees and an annual budget of $13 million. In 1994, the Recorder's office achieved new highs generating over $35 million for the County and recording over 1.1 million documents.

White has also worked hard to streamline procedures and expand services by opening suburban locations and extending office hours. The Recorder's five satellite locations are in Bridgeview, Rolling Meadows, Markham, Skokie and Maywood.

Customer services and communications have been improved with the addition of a special service section with extra customer service assistance. The Recorder has brought together a council of title company executives to serve as an advisory panel, thereby facilitaing better lines of communication between the Recorder's office and title companies.

Prior to becoming the Recorder of Deeds, Jesse White served 16 years as an Illinois State Representative in what used to be referred to as the (13th District) and is now the 11th District. While serving in the Illinois General Assembly he represented the most culturally, economically and racially diverse District in Illinois. White worked hard to build a solid record for fighting crime, improving education and helping senior citizens. He was chairman of the Illinois House Committee on Human Services and an active member of the education committee and other select committees on children and aging. Even today, his community service office remains a source of information and help for residents of the Near North side, where White has lived and worked all his life.

Before becoming a State legislator, White earned a Bachelor of Science degree in 1957 from Alabama State College (now Alabama State University). During college, White participated in two sports and earned all-conference honors in baseball and basketball. Just this past year, White was inducted into the Southwestern Athletic Conference Hall of Fame for his outstanding collegiate achievements. White was also inducted into the Chicago Public League Basketball Coaches Association Hall of Fame in June of 1995.

White served his country as a paratrooper in the 101st Airborne Division and was a member of the Illinois National Guard. White also had a 33 year career as a physical education instructor and administrator with the Chicago Board of Education.

White is the founder of the internationally known Jesse White Tumbling Team which continues to thrill audiences on a local, national and international level.

Full circuit court judge for Donnersberger

With a proven track record as an Associate Judge, David Riley Donnersberger is taking his career to new heights as he campaigns to become a Full Circuit Court Judge in the 3rd Judicial Sub Circuit in the primary elections on March 19.

Donnersberger's judicial expertise has not gone unnoticed as the Chicago Bar Association rated Donnersberger "Qualified" in both 1994 and 1995. In fact, on the current ballot for the 3rd Sub Circuit, Donnerberger is the only candidate with judicial experience. His bar admissions include Illinois, Florida, the U.S. District Court and Federal Trial Bar.

Donnersberger actually got his start in the legal profession after working as a teacher in public high schools and City Colleges. At the age of 29, he decided to study law at De Paul University at night while working full time as an Assistant Professor at the City Colleges. Donnersberger was also a member of Local 1600 and served as both Grievance Chairman and Delegate to the House of Representatives.

After passing the bar in 1972, he worked for a law firm from 1972 to 1975 and then served as an Assistant Cook County State's Attorney for three years.

Donnersberger also worked in the First Municipal Division in Narcotic Preliminary Hearing Court, Felony Preliminary Hearing Court, and in Criminal and Civil Courts.

In 1978, Donnersberger became a sole practitioner where he had a variety of trial experiences including 250 misdemeanor bench trials, 30 criminal jury trials, and close to 100 felony bench trials.

With a wealth of personal and professional experiences to his credit, Donnersberger is ready to take on another challenge as a Circuit Court Judge. "If elected, I will make sure that fairness always prevails in my courtroom," remarked Donnersberger.

Bureau recognizes villages' marketing partner

Sixty south and southwest municipalities, which comprise the area marketed by the Chicago Southland Convention and Visitors Bureau, are being recognized for their marketing and financial partnership with the Bureau. "It is a way of saluting those who have joined with the Bureau to market the Southland, "remarks Bert Doeter, Chairman of the Board. "The Bureau does an outstanding job with its resources in reaching viable markets that will generate business for our region. These village partnerships are essential and we value them.

The Bureau has scheduled visits and presentations before Village Boards through the month of May. During these visits, brief remarks are made regarding the mission and programs of the Bureau. A handout is provided to each Village Trustee. A certificate is being presented to each of the 60 Village Boards, recognizing them for their commitment in the Bureau's marketing partnership. Twelve Village Boards are presented plaques that express the appreciation of the Board of Directors for their financial commitment.

"Each Village relationship is important," adds Rich Gartrell, President/CEO. "These presentations are our way of saying 'thank you' as well as a way to share information about who and what we are all about as a marketing organization. Many trustees have had little contact with the Bureau. This gives us a chance to brief them."

Twelve Villages have financially contracted with the Bureau a portion of the hotel room tax to under gird its marketing programs, along with a commitment declaring the Bureau their "convention bureau of record" (used for calculations for a matching state grant); plaques and certificates have been presented to Oak Lawn and Burbank.

Additional Village visits are planned throughout March, April, May and June.

The Chicago Southland Convention and Visitors Bureau is the second largest bureau in the State of Illinois, representing 60 south and southwest Chicago suburbs, an area of approximately one million in population. The Bureau markets the Chicago Southland as an affordable venue for meetings and conventions and an exciting destination for leisure travel and visitors. The economic impact of the travel and hospitality industry to the Chicago Southland exceeds $100 million annually and employs nearly 12,000 people.

Forty years of fiction in the flesh

The Chicago Cultural Center Studio Theater at 77 East Randolph and the City Lit Theater will regale you with masterpieces of fiction--one from each of the five decades marking Playboy's magazine's extensive history and the distictive voices that continue to fill its pages.

Charles Beaumont's Black Country (September 1954), adapted by Mark Richard, directed by Andrea Dymond, was the first piece of original fiction published by PLAYBOY.

A Great Voice Stilled by Shirley Jackson (March 1960), adapted/directed by Andrea Dymond, is a short, funny satire of east coast literati jockeying for position at the death bed of a famous author.

Brennbar's Rant by John Irving (Decemember 1974), adapted/directed by Mare Silvia, predates his global best-sellers, The World According to Garp and A Prayer for Owen Meany. Drily recounting her husband's outrageous verbal assault over dinner--he posits acne-sufferers as the last minority group against whom blatant bigotry is accepted--Brennbar's wife hilariously skewers the tone of such pretentious politically correct conversation, circa 1970's.

T. Coraghessan Boyle's Modern Love (March 1988), adapted by Mark Richard, directed by Mare Silvia, is a clever and ultimately bittersweet spoof on the terrors of love & lust in the safe sex 80s.

Unlocking the Air by Ursula K. LeGuin (December 1990)--adapted/directed by Mare Silvia as a poetic and beautiful fairy tale--captures the spirit of hope and the moment of history itself as the Great Russian Bear bites the dust and forty years of bringing Communist incarceration slams to an end.

Regular performances run Fri./Sat., 7:30 p.m.; Sat./Sun., 3 p.m., through April 6. Ticket prices: $16-$19. (312) 913-9446.

Something Old/ Something New

Dear Brides to Be:

As the old adage goes,"Diamonds are a girl's best friend." One has to treat them as such.

This column is dedicated to the care of your diamonds. Many jewelers neglect giving their customers this important information. First you have to have your diamond appraised. This appraisal is necessary for insurance purposes to be sure you recreive the full replaceable retail cost of your diamond in case of theft or loss. Make sure your diamond is insured from the day it leaves the jewelery store.

Don't wear your ring while doing housework. Cleaners are harsh to the stone and can pit or discolor mountings. Abrasive cleaners can scratch the bands. A diamond can scratch also, so be careful while traveling. Wrap them in tissue or store in a ring box.

At home, store your ring in your jewelery box or a special place designated for your ring.

Clean your ring at least once a month. Use jewelry cleaner or a mild soap. Use a small brush or old toothbrush and gently scrub the whole ring. Dry with a soft rag or jewely cloth. You might be able to have your ring professionally cleaned where you made the purchase if they offer this service. At that time have them check the mounting especially the prongs.

An added tip is to keep your hands manicured to show off your diamond at its best!

Best Wishes,

Carlene E. O'Connor

Military News

Navy Airman Mark A. Bastys, son of Alex and Rita M. Bastys of Oak Lawn, is serving in the Adriatic Sea near Bosnia board the aircraft carrier USS George Washington.

Bastys is one of more than 5,000 sailors and Marines aboard the aircraft carrier participating in a six-month overseas deployment, and helping enforce the peace process in Bosnia. Bastys' ship is leading an 11-ship battle group that includes more than 80 tactical aircraft, and ships and submarines armed with Tomahawk cruise missiles.

The 1987 graduate of Oak Lawn Community High School joined the Navy in December 1992.

Last year my entry for the 227th Summer Exhibition of the Royal Academy of Arts was an architectural sketch, a design for the new Mount Greenwood Library.

I had originally submitted this design to Alderman Michael Sheahan in 1987 who passed it on to the Bureau of Architecture and the supervising architect for the project.

This year the Art Institute of Chicago will host an exhibit titled "British Architecture's Cutting Edge," contemporary British architects: recent projects from the architecture section of the Royal Academy Summer Exhibition.

This exhibit presents three years of highlights from the architecture room at the Summer Exhibition.

This is a showcase for both established and up and coming British architects. The Architecture Room has been called "the place to find out what is happening" on the architectural scene today.

Organized by the Royal Academy, this exhibition comes to Chicago after a critically acclaimed run at the National Academy of Design in New York.

Since it was founded in 1768, the Royal Academy of Arts has supported architecture, along with painting, sculpture and printmaking.

In connection with the exhibition, the Art Institute is presenting the following events.

1) On Wednesday, March 20, at 12:15 p.m. a gallery talk, "Contemporary British Architecture," Gallery 227.

2) On Monday, March 25, at 6:00 p.m., a lecture, "Hi Tech, Lo Tech, No Tech," by Eva Juricha, British architect and exhibition participant. It will be held in the schools ballroom, 2nd Floor, 112 S. Michigan Avenue, Chicago. Call (312) 899-5194 for more information.

3) On Wednesday, March 27 at 5:30 p.m., lecture and dialogue, including Colin Amery, Architecture critic. For ticket information call the Architecture and Design Society at (312) 857-7166.

4) On April 30th at 12:15 p.m., curators walk through the exhibition, Martha Thorne, Associate Curator of Architecture, Gallery 227.

While my work is not part of this exhibit, I can say that my entry for the 228th Summer Exhibition has been received by the Royal Academy and the exhibition will open June 9, 1996 for anyone planning to be in London, England between June and September of this year.

THEATRE ALIVE

With Georgean Fitzgerald

If you've never seen a classic play, but are familiar with Greek tragedy, these might just be the plays for you.

One is "Jeff" recommended and highly recommended by the Chicago Tribune, "Agamemnon", and its companion, "Electra". They are in repertory at the Wellington Street Theater, alternating appearances over weekends, at 615 W. Wellington Avenue in Chicago, and produced by the European Repertory Company.

The Greek legend about Agamemnon, the King of Mycenae, originally conceived by Homer, and revised and rewritten by others, tells the story of how Agamemnon led the Greeks against the city of Troy. After returning victoriously, he was treacherously slain by his faithless wife, Clytemnestra, who is in love with Aegisthus.

"Electra" is the third play of a political series and by far the least popular and least known. "Electra" is the daughter of Agamemnon and Clytemnestra, and together with her brother, Crestes, attempt to avenge the murder of their father, Agamemnon. The difference between the two plays, thematically, is simply that in the first we sympathize with the man and in the second with the girl.

The European Repertory Company was founded by Yasen Peyankov and Dale Goulding to allow actors interested in European Theatre to find 'a focus' for their talents. Agamemnon was first performed as a work in progress at the Round House, London, in December, 1973. It was produced and adapted by Steven Berkoff with himself in the title role.

Yasen Peyankov, a Bulgarian Actor/Director was trained at the National Academy of Theatre and Film Arts in Sofia. He was influenced by the early work of Stanisiavski, Chekhov, and The Russian National Theatre.

Dale Goulding was trained at Oxford and the British Academy of Dramatic Arts in London. The European Repertory Company strives to fill the emptiness in us and to fulfill ourselves.

The company of actors is outstanding and the acting is powerful as they perform on a sparse set, simply staged with unusual and effective lighting design. The director, Dale Goulding, has produced a visual and dynamic testimony to great performances.

The professional actor who portrays Aegisthus is a local resident from Blue Island. Steve Cinabro is a young actor who studied at the Goodman Theater and DePaul University, but still resides with his parents and brothers. During the daytime hours, he is the proprietor of a book store, Bookies' Paperbacks.

Due to popular appeal and attendance, and rave reviews. "Agamemnon" has been extended since opening in mid 1995. "Electra" was added as a companion piece three months ago as a continuance of the tragedy.

For a thrilling, chilling demonstration of evil, treat yourself to both of these powerful drama. The small theater on Wellington seats only ninety, but your trip there will be worth it.

Trimmed down terrific breakfast bread

Home bakers can leave the high tech fat substitutes to the scientists who created them and still turn out leaner muffins, coffee cakes and other breakfast treats that taste terrific. How? By following a few, simple, lower-fat baking how-tos.

First, cut back on the amount of fat (butter, margarine, shortening or oil) in a recipe but don't eliminate it altogether. Baked goods made without any fat tend to be tough because fat is what makes baked goods tender.Depending on the recipe, applesauce and other fruit purees, canned pumpkin, and plain nonfat or low-fat yogurt can be substitued for part of the fat. While it's possible in many cases to reduce the amount of fat by as much as one-half.

Second, measure ingredients accurately, especially the flour. To measure flour, stir first then lightly spoon into a dry nested measuring cup until overflowing. Level by sweeping a straight-edged spatula or knife across the rim of the cup. Use a glass measure with a pouring spout to measure liquid ingredients.

Third, mix batters as little as possible. After adding the liquid ingredients to the dry ingredients, stir just until the dry ingredients are moistened. Overmixing develops the gluten in the flour, which can make muffins and other quick breads tough.

Naturally, be sure not to overbake. Begin checking for doneness a minute or two before the time given the recipe. When a wooden pick inserted in the center of muffins (and coffee cakes) comes out with a few moist crumbs clinging to it, the muffins are done.

Honey Lime Oat Muffins, developed in the Quaker Oatmeal Kitchens, weigh in at a lean 200 calories and 3 grams of fat. Plain nonfat yogurt replaces some of the margarine in this tender, honey-sweetened muffin that features the wholesome goodness of rolled oats. For a flavor twist, substitute lemon or orange peel and juice for the lime.

In this recipe, either the quick or old fashioned oats may be used. Old fashioned oats will provide a heartier texture than quick oats because the oats are left whole.

Honey Lime Oat Muffins

MUFFINS;
- 1 cup Quaker oats (quick or old fashioned, uncooked)
- 1 8 oz. container plain nonfat or low-fat yogurt
- 1/2 cup honey
- 1/4 cup skim milk
- 3 tablespoons margarine or butter, melted
- 2 teaspoons grated lime peel
- 2 egg whites, slightly beaten
- 1-1/2 cups all-purpose flour
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon baking soda
- 1/4 teaspoon salt (optional)

GLAZE:
- 3/4 cup powdered sugar
- 4 teaspoons lime juice
- 1 teaspoon grated lime peel

Heat oven to 375•. Line 12 medium muffin cups with paper baking cups or spray bottoms only with no-stick cooking spray. In large bowl, combine oats with yogurt, honey, milk, margarine and lime peel. Let stand 10 minutes. Stir in egg whites until blended. Add combined dry ingredients; mix just until dry ingredients are moistened. Fill muffin cups almost full. Bake 20 to 24 minutes or until light golden brown. Let muffins stand a few minutes; remove from pan. Cool slightly. For glaze, combine powdered sugar, lime juice and peel; mix until smooth. Dip muffin tops in glaze.

1 DOZEN

Ginger Oat Crumb Cake

- 1/3 cup Quaker oats (quick or old fashioned, uncooked)
- 1/4 cup all-purpose flour
- 1/4 cup firmly packed brown sugar
- 2 to 3 tablespoons finely chopped crystallized ginger or 1 teaspoon ground ginger
- 3 tablespoons butter or margaringe, chilled

CAKE:
- 1-1/4 cups boiling water
- 1 cup Quaker oats (quick or old fashioned, uncooked)
- 1 cup granulated sugar
- 1 cup firmly packed brown sugar
- 5 tablespoons margarine or butter, softened
- 2 egg whites
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 1-3/4 cups all-purpose flour
- 1 tablespoon ground cinnamon
- 1 teaspoon baking soda
- 1/2 teaspoon ground cloves
- 1/4 teaspoon salt(optional)

Heat oven to 350•. Lightly greaseand flour a 9-inch square or 11 x 7-inch baking pan. For topping, combine oats, flour, sugar and ginger; mix well. Cut in margarine until mixture is crumbly; set aside.

For cake, pour boiling water over oats; set aside. Beat sugars and margarine until well blended. Add egg white and vanilla; mix well. Add oat mixture and combined remaining dry ingredients, mix just until dry ingredients are moistened. Pour batter into prepared pan. Sprinkle with topping mixture. Bake 50 to 60 minutes or until wooden pick inserted in center comes out clean. Cool on wire rack. Serve warm or at room temperature.

Shaw's features smelt in April with a 'Catchy Trip'

Shaw's Crab House, 21 East Hubbard Street in Chicago, will be featuring a Lake Michigan treasure, smelt, during the month of April. Shaw's Chef Colin Turner and Shaw's Seafood Grill Chef Jeff Boerst will offer the restaurant's secret recipe smelt on the menu of the Chicago and Deerfield restaurants throughout the month.

In addition, Shaw's will host a trip to the 45th Annual American Legion Smelt Fry, featuring a tour of two Wisconsin breweries on route.

Smelt lovers look forward to this fun annual outing featuring an All-You-Can-Eat-Dem-Tails Smelt Fry prepared and served by American Legion Post #82 during a special bus trip to Port Washington, Wisconsin on April 13.

The 45th Annual American Legion Smelt Fry, priced at $45 per person, begins at 11 a.m. with Bloody Marys, bagels and coffee at both Shaw's in Chicago and in Deerfield, IL. At 11 a.m. lunch courtesy of the restaurant, and a chance to participate in the 1995 Great Lakes Trivia Quiz for prizes.

Fuller seeks re-election as Water reclamation commissioner

Commissioner Thomas S. Fuller, who is the President of the Metropolitan Water Reclamation District of Greater Chicago in all shape and form is a self-made individual.

Prior to coming here to the City of Chicago, heeame from a very humble life. Upon arriving in Chicago he dedicated himself to becoming avery self-made man.

President Fuller holds a Bachelor's degree in Psychology, and a Master's degree in Public Administration, and believe it or not, he is a Certified Social Worker. He was also awarded an adjunct Professorship at Chicago State University in recognition of outstanding leadership.

In May of 1975, the Governor of the State of Illinos appointed him an Affirmative Action Officer for the State of Illinois. Then, in 1976 he assumed the newly created position by state statute as Director of the State Equal Employment Opportunity Office. Tom has been the architect of the State of Illinois Affirmative Action Plan, which ensures fairness in employment for minorities and women.

Prior to working in government, Commissioner Fuller was the Director of Community Relations and Communications for the American Hospital Assn. with the responsibility of implementing programs involving consumer health serices in the U.S.

A fewer of his many accomplishments include being the Executive Vice President of the Independent Union of Social Service Employees in the State of Illinois. He is Past President of the Community and Economic Development Association. This association handles Federal, State and Local funds for programs in suburban Cook County.

For a quarter of a century he has been politically active. He served one time as the Democratic Committeeman of Evanston Township.

In 1984 Thomas Fuller was elected a Commisioner of the Water Reclamation District and was re-elected in 1990. In 1992 he was elected by his peers to be the President of the District and was re-elected again in 1994. Fuller is now running for his 3rd term as a Commissioner.

MVCC presents a comedy

Moraine Valley Community College's Academic Theater Program will perform the 18th century comedy "She Stoops to Conquer."

The play will be performed Thursday to Sunday, March 21 through 24, and Thursday to Sunday, March 28 through 31, in the Dorothy Mender Theater located in the Fine and Performing Arts Center, on the campus, 10900 S. 88th Ave., Palos Hills. Performances on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday will be at 8 p.m., and Sunday performances will begin at 2 p.m. A dinner theater production will be on Saturday, March 23.

This charming comedy centers around the romantic trials, tribulations, and manipulations of the Harcastle family. Its wit and style give "She Stoops to Conquer" a vitality that has endured for more than two centuries.

Tickets are $8.25 for adults and $6.25 for senior citizens and students. Tickets purchased the day of the performance ar an additional $2. Tickets for the dinner theater production are an additional $20.

GREAT PLAINS FOLK FESTIVAL

A weekend full of concerts and workshops on fold music, dance, harp, and dulcimer are just part of the third annual Great Plains Folk Festival at Moraine.

The Great Plains Fold Festival is scheduled for Friday, Saturday, and Sunday, April 26, 27 and 28. Activities include classes, main stage concerts, demonstration stages, and workshops.

Activites on Friday include a barn dance and master classes featuring six internationally-known musicians.

SECOND CITY NATIONAL TOURING COMPANY

The Second City National Touring Company will appear at Moraine Valley Community College on Saturday, April 6, at 8 p.m. The performance will be held in the Dorothy Menker Theater, located in the Fine and Performing Arts Center, on the campus.

For more than 35 years, the Second City National Touring Company has been delighting audiences all over the world with The Best of Second City, a compilation of sketches, songs, and improvised scenes. Choosing material from the early 1960s to the present day, the touring company compiles the best material from the best revues to make The Best of Second City.

The concert is sponsored by the College Activites Office. Tickets are $15.25 for adults, and $12.24 for senior citizens and students. For more information or tickets, call the college's Box Office

ST. LAURENCE ALUMNI ASSOC SPONSORING ALL-ALUMNI REUNION BANQUET

The St. Laurence Alumni Association is sponsoring its annual All-Alumni Reunion Banquet on Friday, April 12 at the Burbank Manor located at 6435 West 79th Street in Burbank.

This year, the reunion classes of 1966, '71, '76, '81, '86, and '91 will celebrate their respective reunions at the banquet. In addition, several championship teams from those years will be honored. The evening's program also will include presentations of Honorary Alumni awards.

Prior to the banquet, there will be an Open House at the high school from 5:30 - 7 p.m. for all graduates who would like to visit the school to observe campus additions and upgrades.

Tickets are $45 and include dinner, open bar, and a souvenior gift. Tickets should be purchased no later than April 5th by contacting the school's Development Office at (708) 458-7898. Please note that the banquet is limited to the graduates only.

Cocktail hour will begin at 7 p.m. with dinner being served at 8 p.m.

If you are a member of one of the reunion classes and have not received an invitation, please contact the school's Development Office. You may be "lost" from the school's files.

Tickets and additional information may be obtained by contacting the Development Office at (708)458-7898.

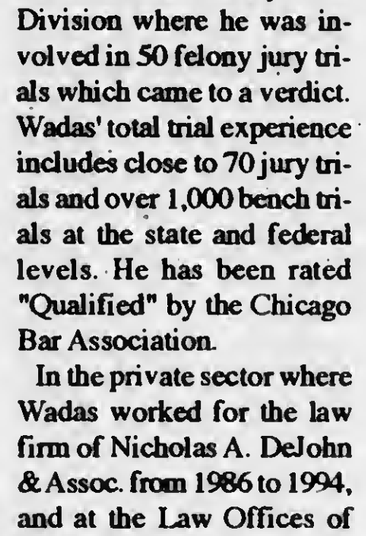
Wadas makes his bid to become judge

After having a successful legal career that has spanned over 20 years, Kenneth J. Wadas is seeking to bring his expertise to the bench as he sets out to become a Circuit Court Judge in the primary elections this March 19.

"With a wealth of experience as a prosecutor and a defense attorney, I know I have the necessary experience it takes to excel as a judge, said Wadas who speaks of his judicial bid with enthusiasm and sincerity.

Wadas, has an impressive list of credentials which includes ten years as a Cook County Assistant State's Attorney where he served as Chief of the Narcotics Division from 1983 to 1986 and was responsible for all narcotics prosecutions, investigations, and forfeitures. From 1977 to 1983, Wadas served in the Felony Trial Division where he was involved in 50 felony jury trials which came to a verdict. Wadas' total trial experience includes close to 70 jury trials and over 1,000 bench trials at the state and federal levels. He has been rated "Qualified" by the Chicago Bar Association.

In the private sector where Wadas worked for the law firm of Nicholas A. DeJohn & Assoc. from 1986 to 1994, and at the Law Offices of Joseph V. Roddy from 1994 to the present. Wadas is a member of the Chicago Bar Association, West Suburban Bar Association, and the International Narcotic Enforcement Officers Association.



Wada established a citizens' advisory group on narcotics and even produced a slide show and drug information booklets that were used throughout the Cook County area in high schools, grammar schools, and youth groups.

Wadas attended John Marshall Law School in 1967, but his education was interrupted when he enlisted in the U. S. Marine Corps in 1968 and served until 1971. As a Vietnam Veteran, he earned the Navy Commendation Medal for Combat Valor; the Combat Action Medal; and numerous other unit commendations, citations, and meritorious medals and ribbons. Wadas completed his military career with the rank of Captain. Upon return from the Marine Corps, he went back to John Marshall Law School whilc working full time. Wadas went on to graduate from law school in June 1975 while raising his family.

Groah prosecutor running for judge

Paul Groah is a Democratic Primary candidate running in the fourth judicial subcircuit, vacancy "B," race. Groah is a successful prosecutor in the Cook County States Attorney's Office, and for the past 9 years has been involved in prosecuting 43 jury trials and hundreds of bench trials. Currently Groah is supervising the 6th Municipal District's Felony Review Unit. Groah has received the highest rating from the Chicago Bar Association who said, "Paul W. Groah is qualified for the office of Judge of the Circuit Court. This candidate has solid trial experience and the temperament to serve as a Circuit Court Judge." As well, the Chicago Council of Lawyers said, "Both prosecutors and defense counsel report that Mr. Groah is hardworking and a fair prosecutor. He has good legal ability and a good temperament. The Council finds him qualified."

Groah is a man who is committed to his community and is actively involved in a wide range of local issues. Groah is quick to volunteer his knowledge and experience as he speaks to families of homicide victims in his role as a speaker for the State Attorney's Victim-Witness Division Informational Series. He has been active as a Oak Lawn Parks Foundation trustee for over three years and serves on a dynamic local education committee that works to change the complexion of education and funding.

Prior to becoming an Assistant State's Attorney, Groah worked for the Belt Railway Company of Chicago and the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad for nearly 15 years. During that time he worked several jobs that involved working with the public. While at the railroad, Groah became very active with Local 1505 and was successful in his bids for union treasurer and Recording Secretary. The Fraternal Order of Police (Lodge 6), Combined Counties Police Association, Illinois Brotherhood Electrical Workers (Local 134), Coalition of Active and Retired Employees Political Action Committee, United Transportation Union and United Steel Workers of American (Local 3911) all have enthusiastically endorsed Paul's candidacy.

Groah is a family man and supported in his campaign by his wife and daughter. Like Groah, his wife, Maree Anne, has been actively involved in School District 123; she also works as a teacher in a neighborhood Pre-School and Kindergarten.

As Groah heads into the final weeks of his campaign, he plans on going door-to-door to talk to voters about his bid for judge. He believes he can make a difference in the judicial system. "It is frustrating to see certain cases like simple drug offenses take several months to conclude," he said.

Paul is confident that his litigation and supervisory experience, coupled with his community involvement, will appeal to voters in the March 19th primary.

Water reclamation commissioner seeks reelection

After a successful six-year term with the Metropolitan Water Reclamation District of Greater Chicago, Kathleen Therese Meany is seeking to continue her public service as she campaigns to retain her seat among the District's nine-member board.

Meany's interest in enviromental issues actually began to surface many years ago after spending a summer teaching at a Navajo Indian reservation in Window Rock, Arizona. "My enviroment consciousness was raised," said Meany. "From that point on I knew that I would become more involved in enviromental issues in the public arena."

In 1983, after teaching in both the Chicago Public School system and the City Colleges of Chicago, Meany decided to put her teaching aspirations on hold and went on to pursue a Master's degree in Public Administration from Harvard University's John F. Kennedy School of Government. After graduation in 1984, Meany came back to Chicago to teach for several years and then decided to enter public life and run for a Commissioner in the Water Reclamation District.

Since that time Meany has sought to be actively involved in all of the District's operations and projects. As a public trustee, Meany has been a strong advocate of the District's Tunnel and Reservoir Plan that is being implemented to provide flood relief for the residents of Cook County. With a strong public policy background, Meany has also worked hard to bring new ideas to the District including introducing a program to collect and properly dispose of household hazardous waste which may have otherwise been discharged in the sewer system. Since 1993, Meany's idea for an annual Hazardous Waste Collection Day has received a favorable response from the public and has become an annual event.

During her tenure as a Commissioner, Meany has always worked hard to serve as a liaison between the District and the local communities affected by its operations. Meany has also been a long-time supporter of labor and was a strong advocate of the recently signed Multi-Project Labor Agreement with local unions, who are part of the Chicago and Cook County Building and Construction Trades Council.

Meany is Vice President of the District and serves as Chairman of both the Public Information and Education Committee and the Purchasing Committee. She is also Vice-Chairman of the Committees on Finance, Federal Legislation, Real Estate and Industrial Waste and Water Pollution.

Looking to the future Meany says, "I look forward to continuing to serve the residents of Cook County as Commissioner and continue to work to protect our water enviroment

Believe in Angels

I believe in Guardian Angels.
Many times, I'm sure they saved me from tragedy, loss and irritation.
Mine were in the guise of good Samaritans.
As I traveled on the highways and was stranded, somehow, I never questioned that my angel would appear disguised as someone handy, to give me the aid that my troubles demanded, relieve my fears and send me on my way.

Spring toward good health with Little Company's Adult Health Fair

Does feeling well necessarily mean you are a well person? Unfortunately no. Many people will only seek care if they experience discomfort or pain. In most cases, these symptoms can be prevented if people choose to seek preventive health care. A Proper diet, exercise and regular physicals are crucial to a healthy life-style.

Little Company of Mary Hospital and Health Care Centers is encouraging community members to "Spring Toward Good Health" at the Hospital's 15th annual Adult Health Fair on Saturday, April 13 at St. Bernadette Quonset Hut and O'Brien Hall, 9339 S. Francisco, in Evergreen Park, from 8 am. until noon.

The Adult Health Fair offers blood tests at a reduced rate of $30 per person. Although not mandatory, this blood chemistry test can detect kidney and liver disorders, diabetes, gout, blood oxygen levels (oximetry) and determine cholesterol levels in the blood. Test participants should not eat for 12 hours prior to the test, and should drink only water, black coffee or clear tea. However, diabetics should not fast, and should take their insulin. Anyone taking prescribed medication should continue to take the medicine as directed.

The Adult Health Fair offers free physicals, height and weight screenings, and blood pressure testing. Free take home colon-rectal cancer detection kits will also be available for participants. Information booths with details on Little Company and community programs will be available.

No preregistration is required. For further information, please call Health Promotion Services at (708) 229-5831.

Celebration '96 planned for McAuley

Mother McAuley High School's annual dinner party, Celebration '96, is planned for Friday, April 26 at 6:30 p.m. at the Martinique Restaurant in Evergreen Park. Entertainment will be provided by Franz Benteler and His Royal Strings. Tickets are $125 per person and may be reserved by calling Mary Clark, Vice-President of Development at (312) 881-6558.

The highlight of the evening is the presentation of the Catherine McAuley Leadership Award to Michael A. Lombard and George E. Lombard, founders of the Lombard Company.

The Lombard family has a long history of involvement with Mother McAuley High School. George is a former member of the Board of Trustees and currently serves on the Development Council. All four of George's daughters are McAuley graduates and his granddaughter, Jennifer, is a first year student.

Co-Chairmanship of Celebration '96 is shared by veteran planners Colleen Lamb Ferrara and Fran Houlihan who are joined this year by Mary Ragen O'Rourke and Tom Dombro. Bob Kuenster serves as chair of a silent auction that will be included in the evening's festivities. Some of the unique silent auction items that guests may take home are two round trip tickets to London with hotel accommodations, one week at a Spa and Sport Hotel in Austria, a Condo for one week on Hilton Head Island and many more exiting prizes.

All proceeds from Celebration '96 are earmarked for the endowment fund for student financial aid. Each year, McAuley help approximately 150 students in need who otherwise would be unable to attend the school.

St. Rita to hold dance

All are invited to attend St. Rita High School's 50's & 60's adult dance, "Schoolhouse Rock" to be held on Saturday, April 20th from 7 P.M.. - midnight in the St. Rita Gymnasium located at 7740 S. Western Avenue in Chicago. This year's dance will feature live music by "Frat Boys and Future Stewardesses", the hottest oldies band in town. Prizes will be awarded for the best 50's / 60's costumes and many surprises are planned throughout the evening. Pizza will be provided and guests are invited to bring their own food as well. A cash bar will also be available. Tickets are $15 each and can be reserved by calling (312) 925-5029.

50th Anniversary party including John and Rose Stella, accompanied by their daughter, Annette Dixon.

50 years of marriage and waiting for more

Rose and John Stella, residents of Evergreen Park for 40 years celebrated their 50th anniversary at St. Bernadette Church on March 30, 1996.

Following the concelebrated Mass and the renewal of vows, a reception for 85 family members and guests was held at Royal Palace in Chicago Ridge.

At the reception, The Electric Bluze Brothers, Eric and Jim, delighted the guests with songs and skits from the Andrew Sisters, Elvis, LaBamba, Elvira, Sister's Act, Blues Bros., etc. Rose and John participated in the skits.

As Jim and Eric stated, Rose and John are duly certified by the Pope, Cardinal Bernadine, President and Hilary Clinton, Governor Edgar, Senator Patrick O'Malley, State Representatvie Ann Zickus, Democratic Committeeman John McNamara, Mayor Vacco, and a special presentation from State Representative, Maureen Murphy.

Members of the family are Annette Dixon, John Stella, Jr., 6 grandchildren and one great grandchild Alexis, Danielle Stella

John and Rose are both retired. After retiring many years ago, they started working for Village View Newspaper and ADD Flyer Delivery Service. John retired two years ago from ADD Flyer Delivery Service and Rose currently works part time for Village View Newspaper.

"To be or not to be, that is the question."

By Carlene O'Connor

The owners of B. J. McMahon's, In Oak Lawn recently requested a parking variance in order to expand their tavern.

The board was deadlocked at a 3-3 vote to deny the request!

In the controversy over the B. J. McMahon proposed Banquet Hall there were several comments. These were:

Trustee Keane said, "We have a local businessman willing to go into a property and provide a service to Oak Lawn which is good. If we are going to keep 95th Street than we must be willing to give variances. I will say no to the denial."

Trustee Joy said, "I cannot approve it with a 75% variance in parking."

Trustee Walsh said, "This situation is no different than any other along 95th Street. We should have written conditions in the variance."

Benson, Attorney for B. J. McMahons plea was, "We already have the business loan contingent on approval of the parking variation. We are Oak Lawn people who want to have an Oak Lawn business. We have a neighborhood gathering at B. J. McMahons.

Trustee Holesha said, "Meinke Muffler and the Pregnancy Center proposes a parking conflict with B. J. McMahon's. The hours of banquet hall and bar would conflict. Take the area north as a joint venture with other businesses for a parking lot."

Trustee Walsh added another comment by saying, "Residents oppose a parking lot. They should give us a suggestion as to what to do. Battle is fought twice a month. I have heard no one with a good solution to the problem."

Mayor Kolb did not vote but said, "None of 95th Street can comply with any variation. We will look into the future and see what can be done."

The request of the Parking Variation for B. J. McMahons was denied by Zoning and the Village Board but referred the request back to the Village Planning and Development Commission, which will reconsider it April 15.

By Fearful of Emergency Rooms:

While waiting in the emergency room at Christ Hospital recently, I had the opportunity to that with a local woman who had brought her 88 year old mother in. After laying in one of the emergency private rooms for 12 (yes 12) hours and poked and prodded by a series of doctors because she was hemorrhaging it was decided that the lady required a D and C. After the surgery the 88 year old patient was released to her daughter who by then, was exhausted.

The woman had Medicare. Couldn't she have at least been kept for ONE night for observation? Instead, sent home like a piece of cattle for her daughter to observe. It boggles the imagination what has happened to the american way of caring for its own. Maybe one day soon, Christ Hospital can figure out how to do brain surgery on the curb of the parking lot and not even bother letting the patient in the hospital. As I said before. Something is wrong with our health care system. Hillary, come back from Bosnia, we need you.

Village Board of Evergreen Park

By Carlene E. O'Connor

The Village Board of Evergreen Park met on March 18th and many items were discussed.

There will be four new businesses in the area. These are White Hen, Grecos, Cut Above Beauty Salon, and Airborne Beepers.

One operation which will no longer be tolerated is "Ann's Health Spa and Massage." This license was revoked after sworn testimony from police officers in January said that they were propositioned for sex by Spa employees. Mayor Vacco revoked the business license the same day as the hearing. Spa owners were unavailable for comment.

Vacco appointed the following trustees to his standing committees:

Public Safety
John Murphy, Chairman
Jerome Bosch
Mark Marzullo

Public Works
Anthony Yukich, Chairman

There will be many events coming up in the city of Evergreen Park.

The week of April 21-27 is "Independent order of Forester's Child Abuse Prevention Week."

July 3 will be the "Twenty-eighth Annual Independence Day Parade."

In conclusion Ordinance No.4-1996," Approving a Real Estate Contract between the Village of Evergreen Park and Bethal Lutheran Church for the purchase of property at 3220 W. 98th Street was approved.

The Next meeting will be held Monday, April 1 at the Village Hall.

Burbank Minutes

By Carlene E. O'Connor

Village officials of Burbank met on March 20 and passed the following items:

Department of Zoning
96-3 Luke Castogiovani, 7112 West 81st Place to construct two single family homes.
96-3-4 Burke Builders 8438-42 South Oak Park to change two lots into three conforming lots to construct three new single family homes.

Both proposals were passed by zoning first and then brought to the village board for approval.

Department of Public Safety/Fire
A bid of $18,375.00 from Specialty Vehicle Service was approved to refurbish 1986 Mac Fire Engine.

Administration
Work is being done on a Civilian Handbook and will be distributed after being approved by Mayor and Trustees.

Bridgeview Happenings

By Carlene E. O'Connor

FROM THE BULLETIN:

In the events of Bridgeview it is with regret that residents and village board members must say good-bye to Fire Chief Billig. Billig will retire on April 20th.

In the Public Works Committee Report Trustee Chester Haraf says, "This year's cold caused many water main breaks. I commend our staff for a job well done."

Mail boxes damaged by winter plows must be reported to the village for replacement.

The 50/50 sidewalks program will be renewed and there will be a continuance of street rehabilitation in June. Repair of driveways and parkways will begin in April and continue until fall. Work is subject to dry weather conditions.

"Remember to register to vote," says Anne Cusack, village clerk. If one only registers at the driver license facility, they can only vote for President and Congress. A resident must register at the Village Clerk's Office to vote in all elections.

The Village Board meeting of March 27, 1996 was brief. The following business licenses were approved:

1.) All Beverage Service
7222 W. 90th Place
Service

2.) Orland Fleet Maintenance, Inc.
7432 W. 90th St.
Diesel Truck Repair

3.) American Sealcoating and Maintenance
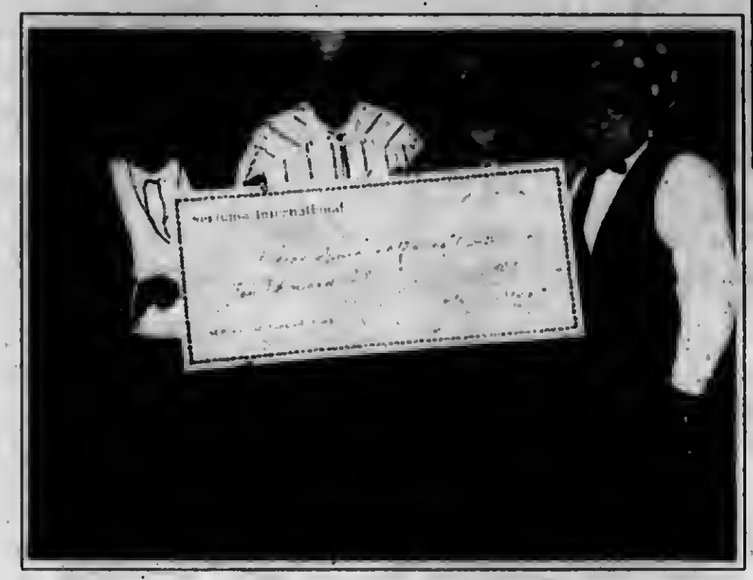
6930 Garden Lane
Phone Use Only

The next board meeting will be April 3, 1996 at the Village Hall.

Mardi Gras benefit boosts Sertoma Client Fund



(l. to r.)Sertoma Board of Trustee Tresurer C. Richard Blakley, International President William"Doc" Martin, and Illinois/Wisconsin Director Wally Quinlan present Sertoma Executive Director David J. Rompala with $10,000 check for the Center's needs.

Thanks to the willingness of participants to get in the spirit of things, the Sertoma Center grossed $23,000 at the Second Annual Mardi Gras Night Celebration held the evening of February 10th.

In addition to dining and dancing, the evening featured raffles, free caricature drawings and an ongoing silent auction of items ranging from a trip to New Orleans to a basketball autographed by former Bulls Center Bob Love.

Enjoy the lazy, crazy days of Spring!

Oak Lawn P.D. hosts speaker

Oak Lawn Park District invites you to attend the April 5th meeting to be held at Oakview Center at 7:30 p.m. Our guest speaker for the evening is Paul Petraitis who will talk about the I & M Canal, Lake Calumet, Blue Island and Stoney Creek. He will show slides and issue maps and other handouts to increase our understanding.

Exchange students meet Bozo at Shriner's Circus

Malin Enequist and Anna de Queiroz, foreign exchange students attending Oak Lawn High School recently had the pleasure of meeting with "Bozo, the World's Most Famous Clown" while attending the Shrine Circus.

This is the second year Bozo has appeared in the Shrine Circus. The circus is held to raise money for charity and to support the Shriner's Hospital for crippled children. There are 23 hospitals for crippled children and four burn hospitals located throughout America.

For 35 years, Bozo has appeared on WGN television. The show is currently on Sunday mornings at 8 a.m. There are three stations in America that carry "The Bozo Show" although 40% of America watch on WGN.

Bozo is a very popular childrens show in Brazil.

Over ten years ago, original scripts were sent to Brazil where Bozo speaks portuguese. Bozo is also extremely popular in other Asian countries such as: Thailand and Japan. Soon Bozo will be opening in Spain.

Anna is a foreign exchange student from Brazil sponsored through the Rotary Program and Malin is a foreign exchange student from Sweden sponsored through the Educational Foundation for Foreign Study.

If we were lucky enough to have been a part of the Bozo Show - some of us waited for tickets for over 10 years. All these girls had to do was travel thousand of miles to Chicago and meet up with someone who arranged a wonderful night at the Shrine Circus and a memory that will last a lifetime, "Meeting Bozo."

IOF donates to Childrens' Miracle Network

On Februrary 19, 1996, Bridget Morris of Childrens' Memorial Hospital received $728.50 of fraternal funds from IOF Foresters #1076 Chief Ranger Dan Lenihan for the Childrens' Miracle Network.

Kids paint tiles for Children's Hospital

In years to come, 10-month-old Zachery Schneider and his mom, Carol Schneider, chief executive of Christ Hospital and Medical Center, will be able to admire his tile-painting artistry on a wall in the hospital's new children's hospital, currently under construction on the Christ Hospital campus.

Participants needed for Bowl-A-Thon

You'll be able to hear the pins drop...bowling pins, that is...and it's all for charity!

Calling all bowlers: you are cordially invited to participate in the 1996 Bowl-A-Thon, sponsored by the Sertoma Speech and Hearing Center, to be held at Oak Forest Bowl Sunday, April 28th from noon to 4 p.m.

The contest is open to all with prizes given for high and low games, high and low series.

All proceeds from the contest will go toward providing free and scaled fee services for clients of the Center who are unable to pay full service costs. The Sertoma Center is a nonprofit, United Way funded agency serving individuals of all ages throughout the south suburbs who have, or believe they may have, a speech or hearing problem.

Each participant will be asked to submit a pledge sheet at the bowling alley with sponsors for a minimum $25 entry fee. Children 16 and under will be able to play for a special $15 fee.

Spots are limited, so participants are urged to enter early. Each bowler will receive a free luncheon, door prize, and three games of bowling.

To register, call the Center before April 19th at (708) 599-9500.

OL village board minuites including information regarding grants

by Carlene E. O'Connor

The Oak Lawn village board discussed many items in their two hour meeting, March 26, 1996.

The meeting was opened with bids for the following: 1996 2-wheel drive cargo van, tractor/loader/backhoe; 4-wheel drive pickup truck; Dump truck (15,000 lbs GVW); trailer mounted flashing arrow sign.

These proposals were turned over to management and staff for review.

NEW BUSINESS

Trustee Hofesha brought up the sidewalk program taking place in April.

In other ways to improve the village Trustee Streit said, "I have had numerous calls from residents about alley conditions being 'awful,' we need to find a long term solution to this problem."

Mayor Kolb's response was, "The best thing to do is pave the alleys and put in drainage. We would solve the problem one and for all"

The alley situation will be on the next agenda of public works.

EASTER

THE LAST SUPPER

By Robert P. Workman

Five hundred years ago in 1496, a man named Leonardo da Vinci was hard at work painting a fresco on a wall in a small monastery in Milan, Italy. This work would later become one of the best know works of art in the world, "The Last Supper".

Because of years of damage and dampness in the monastery wall, much of the detail and color has been lost to time. And today the wall itself is in danger of crumbling into dust. In honor of this great masterpiece and it's creator Leonardo da Vinci, I have done my own re-creation of this masterwork,as I believe it originally looked when finished. Because of centuries of repainting (Leonardo had devised a method of painting using tempera and this experimental fresco technique was not able to withstand the dampness in the monastery wall.)

I am not sure anyone can be sure what the painting first looked like when Leonardo completed it. But I have worked to re-create this work as closely as possible using photo's of The Last Supper as it looks today.

The publication of this sketch for the painting marks the first time this work has been seen publicly. I hope to exhibit the completed work at a later date.

Saint Xavier shows The Object of Beauty as season finale

The 1991 film, The Object of Beauty, will be shown by Saint Xavier University at 7:30 p.m. on Friday and Saturday, April 19 and 20, in McGuire Hall of the University's main campus located at 3700 West 103rd Street in Chicago. Admission is $3.

The Object of Beauty takes a British look at American yuppies living the good life. Andie MacDowell and John Malkovich star as a pair whose reversals of fortune lead them to see themselves and their relationship in a new light. There are a series of twists and turns throughout this film, which takes a look at relationships of the 90's. The peripheral characters in The Object of Beauty give the film its moral center.

Saint Xavier University's Film Series annually provides films of international prominence and cultural value to Chicagoland moviegoers.

For further information on the Film Series, call (312) 298-3231.

Israel gearing up to observe Passover

As Jews around the world prepare to celebrate Passover - the festival of freedom commemorating the Children of Israel's Exodus from Egypt, Israelis and tourists to Israel become automatically enmeshed in the holiday as they sit down to large family "Seder" dinners on April 3. Israeli hotels mount elaborate SEDERS for tourists, complete with services in English (and other "tourist" languages) and a complicated meal of traditional Passover foods and dishes. For seven days, almost the only food items tourists in Israel encounter are those certifies "kosher for Passover;" the most prominent facet of Passover kashrut is the substitution of Matzo (the unleavened bread eaten during the Exodus because their escape permitted no time for the bread to rise) for bread and bread-related items.

Moraine presents student-directed plays

Moraine Valley Community College's Academic Theater Program will present student-directed, student-acted, one-act plays "All in the Timing" this spring.

The productions will be performed Thursday, April 25; Friday, April 26; Saturday, April 27; Thursday, May 2; Friday, May 3; and Saturday, May 4 at 8 p.m. and Sunday, April 28 and Suday, May 5 at 2 p.m. in the John and Angeline Oremus Theater, located in the Fine and Performing Arts Center on the campus. A dinner theater option will be held on Saturday, May 4.

"All in the Timing" is an evening of one-act plays that combine wit, intellect, satire, and just plain fun. The hilarious sextet includes "Words, Words, Words," which recalls the philosophical adage that three monkeys typing into infinity would sooner or later produce "Hamlet," and "The Universal Language," an exploration of love through a dazzling display of hysterical verbal pyrotechnics.

Tickets are $8.25 for adults, and $6.25 for senior citizens and students. Tickets purchased the day of the performance are an additional $2. Dinner tickets on Saturday, May 4 are an additional $20 each.

For more information or tickets, call the Fine and Performing Arts Center Box Office at (708) 974-5500.

THEATRE ALIVE

With Georgean Fitzgerald

As part of the Moraine Valley Community College's academic theater season, an intriguing and highly entertaining production of "She Stoops to Conquer" by Oliver Goldsmith opened on March 21 in the Dorothy Menker Theaetre located in the new Fine and Performing Arts Building on the campus.

Directed competently by Professor Joyce Porter, with seventeen actors in the cast and a production staff numbering twenty or more students and professional staff, the preview performance we saw on Wednesday evening appeared to have a nearly perfect presentation.

A play that was first performed in 1773, "She Stoops To Conquer" has a timeless quality, which belies the exquisite costumes worn by the cast: gentlemen wearing handsome tunics and fitted jackets, jabots of cascading lace ruffles, and lace cuffs, knee-length white stockings thrust into black slip-on shoes, and fanciful frippery of knickers and wigs. The ladies were a sight to behold, gowned in the fashion of the period: bouffant hooped floor-length skirts swinging and swaying as they walked, and a sight to behold as they maneuvered through doorways. Gowns rich in blue, scarlet, purple and green, decorated with fanciful trimmings, and decollete displaying just the right amount of cleavage, and topped off with foot high wigs.

"She Stoops" is a comedy of mistaken identities, crafty schemes, and contrived machinations.

The synopsis goes something like this: The lazy, spoiled son, Tony Lumpkin (Sean Ekl) of Mrs. Hardcastle (Janet Brudnlckl) meets two young gentlemen: Hastings (Peter David) and Marlowe (J. B. Scott) at an inn who are on their way to the Hardcastle estate, having been invited there to meet Hardastle's daughter, Kate (Debra Alba), and Mrs. Hardcastle's ward, Constance Neville (Melanie Schultz) for the purpose of a possible marriage.

The two men have lost their way and stop at the inn for directions to the Harcastle estate. Tony deceives them by giving the directions to the Hardcastle mansion, but tells them that it is an Inn.

Mr. Hardcastle (Jim Kearney) who they believe to be the innkeeper, and are very bold and obnoxious to him and the various servants who, through the subtrafuge, create even more comic episodes reminiscent of old television shenanigans ala the 'Carol Burnett Show', Laugh In', and 'I Love Lucy'.

"All's well that ends well", to borrow a Shakespearean phrase, as Kate and Marlowe, and Hastings and Constance decide to marry with the Hardcastle's blessing. In spite of a little controversy regarding Constance's dowry, whether Tony had become of age, and whether Hastings was a fine young man, Kate married Marlow, Constance married Hastings, and Tony gained his freedom from his mother.

The story has a happy ending as the servants continue to enter and exit, stage right and left, through the double doors, continuing to perform their various contrived duties (business) that lends interest and hilarity to the comedy.

FOOD FOR 'SECONDS'

Life on the 'Show Boat' inspires food

By Anita Anderson

"Show Boat" has steamed into Chicago and with it a wonderful offering of food that could have been served on the romantic riverboats that once wended their way up the Mississippi River.

Chef Dennis Kolodziejski of the Renaissance Hotel and a resident of Hinsdale, along with Executive Chef Paul Wayland Smith collaborated with Sous Chef Keith Bryant of the Delta Queen Steamboat Company of New Orleans to present special show boat menus and packages offered at the Renaissance Chicago Hotel at One West Wacker Drive.

In the setting of the Cuisines Restaurant on the hotel's second level diners can enjoy fried oysters on a sauce of shrimp, mushrooms, peppers and cream, crayfish bisque and spinach roquefort cheese and smoked bacon with warm cider vinaigrette.

Entrees could be veal scallopini with lump crabmeat, leeks and oyster mushrooms, or a red snapper with crayfish and andouille risotto. For dessert you'll be tempted by pecan tartlette with praline ice cream or warm bread pudding with bourbon caramel sauce.

In Great Street restaurant in the hotel diners can be more casual and enjoy typical New Orleans meals such as chicken andouille gumbo, crayfish etouffee and field greens with fried oysters and sauce remoulade or a blackened filet of beef with fried green tomatoes. For reservations call 312-372-7200.

CRAYFISH BISQUE

5 lb. Crayfish
1/2 lb. Carrots
1 lb. Leeks
1/2 lb. Celery
1 lb. Onion
6 oz. Olive Oil
2 oz. Tomato Paste
2 gallons Crayfish or Shrimp Stock
2 oz. Brandy
2 oz. Sherry Wine
4 oz. White Wine
2 ea. Bay Leaves
2 ea. Thyme Sprigs
2 ea. Parsley Sprigs
1 qt. Heavy Cream
4 oz. Flour
4 oz. Butter

PREPARATION:

Cut crayfish in half.

In a hot skillet saute crayfish with olive oil for 5 minutes.

Cut vegetables into large dice and add to crayfish. Cook until tender and add tomato paste. Cook for 3-4 minutes.

Deglaze with brandy and sherry.

Add white wine, reduce to dry.

Add water, herbs, bay leaves and simmer for 2 hours, skimming the fat and foam as it rises to the top.

Once stock is cooked to half, strain in another pot and bring to a simmer.

In a bowl combine flour with soft butter. Whisk mixture into crayfish stock and cook for 5 minutes.

Add cream and simmer for 15 minutes, until creamy consistency.

Season with salt and cayenne pepper to taste and strain once again.

WARM BREAD PUDDING

1cup Heavy Cream
5 cups Whole Milk
1 cup Granulated Sugar
6 lg. Whole Eggs
1/2 tsp. Ground Cinnomon
1/4 tsp. Nutmeg
1 tsp. Vanilla Extract
12 ea. Danish Pastry Medium Dice

In a small sauce pan bring to a boiling point the heavy cream, milk, sugar and spices. In a small bowl beat your eggs. And set aside.

Incorporate your milk mixture to your eggs. Strain the mixture.

Butter the 8 oz. cups. Place danish evenly amongst the buttered cups.

Cover each filled cup with 1/2 of the liquid mix. Let soak for 5 minutes, then pour the remainder over each cup.

Pre-heat oven to 300 degrees.

In a deep pan place your cups in a water bath. Bake for 45-60 minutes, garnish with whipped cream, fresh berries and fresh mint sprig.

Drizzle caramel sauce over the pudding.

SWEEET DOUGH CRUST

Makes 3-9" tarte shells
4 sticks Unsalted Butter (soft)
1 1/3 cups Granulated Sugar
1 Whole Egg
6 1/2 cups Cake Flour
1 tsp. Vanilla

Cream the butter and sugar in a small mixing bowl using the padle for 2 minutes.

Then add the eggs slowly do not over mix, just until eggs incorporate to the sugar and butter.

Then add the vanilla.

Add your cake flour but do not over mix. Mix the flour until it blends together.

Refrigerate your dough for 2 hours then roll out the shells.

PECAN TARTS

Pecan Filling:

1/3 cup Brown Sugar
7 tbsp. Bread Flour
4 oz. Stick of Unsalted Butter (Soft)
8 lrg. Whole Eggs
1/4 tsp. Salt
1 tsp. Vanilla Extract
3 cups Dark Corn Syrup
3 Tbsp. Kahulua Liquor
2 ea. 9" Tart Shells

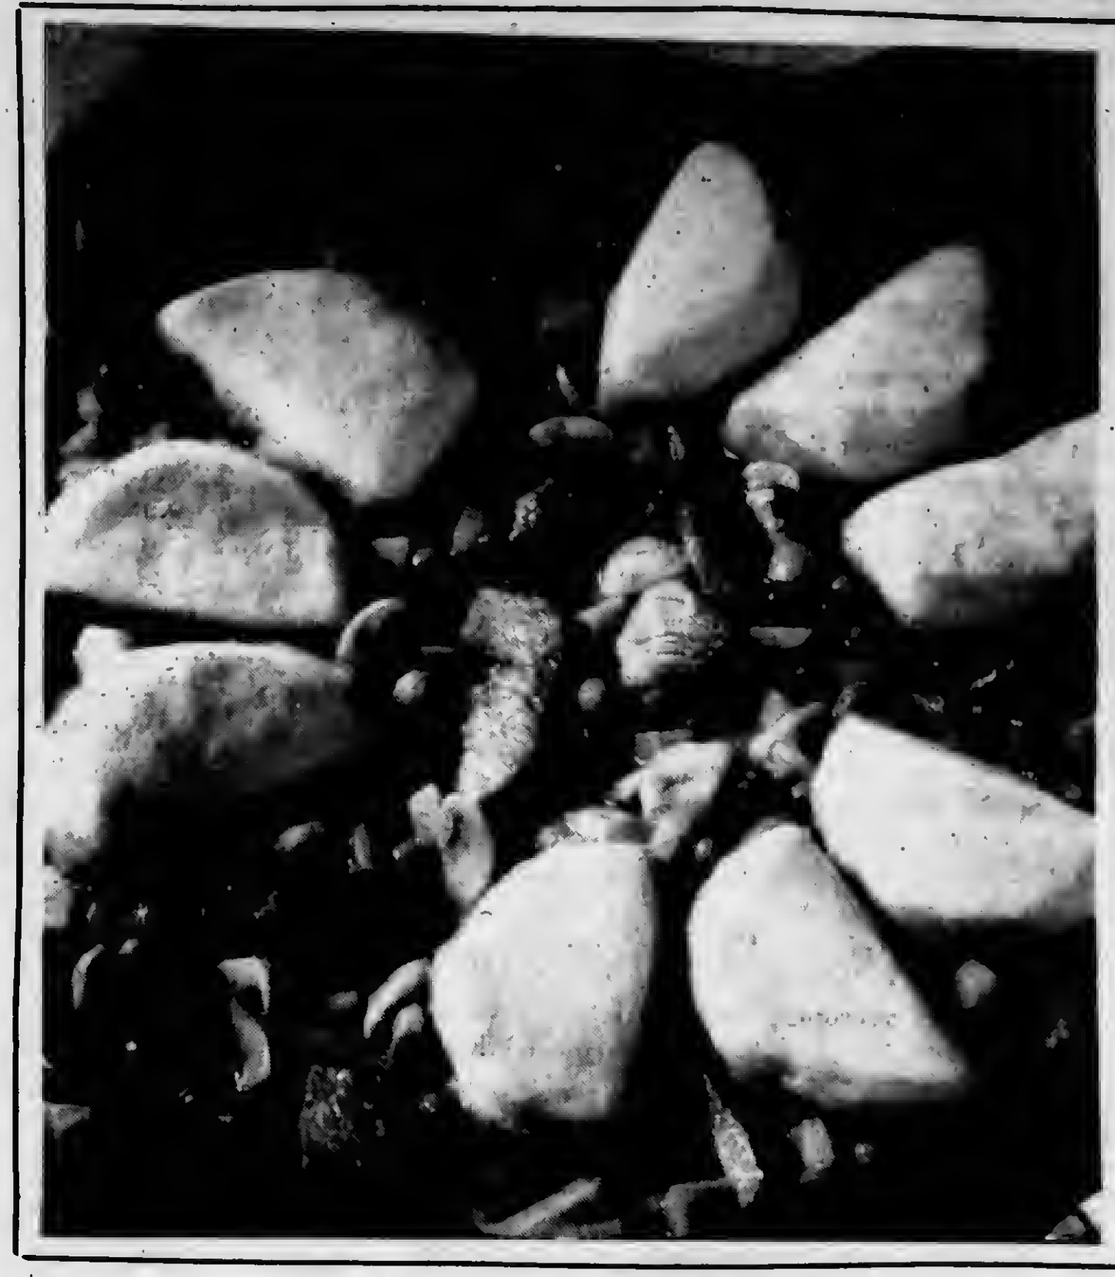
Cream in a small mixing bowl: Sugar, butter, flour till looks like wet sand 1 or 2 minutes.

Then slowly add your eggs, salt & vanilla then add corn syrup.

Pre-bake your shell until it is a light gold. Add 1 1/2 cups pecan pieces. Then 1/2 of the filling in each tart.

Bake at 350 degrees for 45-60 minutes.

Cut in 8 wedges and garnish with almond hazelnut lace and 1 scoop praline ice cream.



New-Style Dinner

For many 90s' families, Sunday evening is the only time everyone can get together for a meal. So make that night a standing date for the family--set aside everything else and enjoy the evening together.

In addition to planning a menu with all-family appeal, you'll need an activity or two. It might be as simple as playing a board game or watching old movie classics on the VCR. For a change of pace, set up dinner on trays or spread a blanket on the floor for an indoor picnic.

Choose an easy menu that won't require too much time in the kitchen. Make-It-Easy Beef Pot Pie fits the bill perfectly.

Jar beef gravy, frozen peas and carrots and refrigerated biscuits contribute to the quick preparation, as does the cooking method for the beef. Strips of lean tender beef top sirloin are stir-fried, then added to the gravy and vegetable mixture. Top with the biscuits and bake until they're golden brown-- that's all there is to it!

Satisfy dessert-lovers by rounding out the meal with fresh fruit and an assortment of cookies to pass.

MAKE-IT-EASY BEEF POT PIE

Total preparation and cooking time: 30 minutes

1 pound boneless beef top sirloin steak, cut 3/4 inch thick
1 tbsp. vegetable oil
8 oz. small mushrooms, quartered
1 medium onion, sliced
1 clove garlic, crushed
1/4 cup water
1 jar (12 oz.) brown beef gravy
1 pkg. (10 oz.) frozen peas and carrots
1/4 tsp. dried thyme leaves
1 small can (4 1/2 oz.)refrigerated buttermilk flavor biscuits

Heat oven to 400•. Trim fat from steak. Cut steak lengthwise in half and then crosswise into 1/4 inch thick strips. In large ovenproof skillet, heat oil over medium-high heat until hot. Add beef (1/2 at a time) and stir-fry 1 to 2 minutes or until outside surface is no longer pink. (Do not overcook.) Remove from skillet with slotted spoon.

In same skillet, add mushrooms, onion, garlic and water. Cook and stir 3 minutes or until onion is tender. Stir in gravy, vegetables and thyme. Bring to a boil; remove from heat. Return beef to skillet. Cut biscuits in half; arrange in a ring on top of beef mixture.

Bake in 400• oven 12 to 14 minutes or until biscuit topping is golden brown.

Make-It-Easy Beef Pot Pie is a 30-minute meal-in-one that the whole family will enjoy for Sunday night supper.

Makes 6 servings (serving size: 1/6 of recipe).

"Xavierite" garners three state-wide awards

Saint Xavier University's student newspaper, The Xavierite, won three awards, including a first-place award for sports writing, at the annual Illinois College Press Association Convention recently held in downtown Chicago. The annual competition features most major private and public universities and colleges in Illinois. This is the third consecutive year that Saint Xavier University students have earned state-wide recognition.

In the 1995 competition, held at the Holiday Inn Mart Plaza, Xavierite staff members received awards for best sports news story, front page layout and editorial column. All of the awards were won in the non-daily portion of the competition.

"We've won eight awards over the last three years and this is a tremendous accomplishment for our entire staff," said Stan Iwaszkiewicz, adviser of Saint Xavier's student newspaper. "The Xavierite has come a long way, despite some ups and downs during that time. Mostly we've been up to the task of producing a quality publication that everyone at SXU can appreciate." At this year's convention, Xavierite staffer's Keisha Reed of Chicago (Washington Heights) and Nancy Heuser of Orland Park were awarded first-place for best sports news story among non-dailies for a story last fall on the SXU basketball team entitled "Varsity . . . Basketball Stomps Trolls." Heuser, a junior art education major, said, "I'm happy that I won, but it was a big shock because there are other good writers on the sports page of The Xavierite." Junior mass communications major, Reed, concurred, "I'm happy to get an award. It means a lot to me to know that something that I helped create is recognized."

Former news editor Kevin Plienis of Evergreen Park and current managing editor Jessi Virtusio of Burbank combined to earn a second place award for the front page layout of an issue that appeared last May. Virusio, a junior mass communications major, has been The Xavierite managing editor for the past three years. According to Virtusio, "It was gratifying for me to be recognized by professionals in the business. The Xavierite staff was always strived to produce a quality publication, and it's organizations like the ICPA which help us to realize whether or not we are succeeding in our jobs as editors and journalists of school newspapers."

Former opinions editor Giovanna Bottari of Oak Lawn earned an honorable mention in this year's contest for one of her editorials. Bottari, an SXU alumni, is using the skills she developed at The Xavierite in her work as a direct marketing coordinator.

Virtusio said she was very happy to learn of this year's awards. "I think that it's great, because it shows how far the paper has come in the last couple of years. It also shows how we have improved in both grammar and content. With a dedicated staff we have been able to expand the sports section, taking the page size from four to eight pages with an occasional 12 page issue. All the way around we just look better."

Board of Directors gives financial approval for fitness

Recently the Board of Directors at St. Laurence High School, located at 5556 W. 77th Street, gave approval for a project that calls for a 2100 square foot fitness center to be constructed as an addition to the school.

Final aproval was granted after the Development Office gave a financial report during a special meeting of the Board of Directors regarding pledges secured from the major gift portion of the fundraising drive. After approval was granted, the board determined that friends of St. Laurence and the school's alumni would be contacted to help complete funding for the building.

"The support we have received for this project has been overwhelming. We knew from the outset that we had to build the Fitness Center without impacting the school's operating budget, and it looks like we will be able to do just that," commented Thomas Ondrla, Principal.

The cost to build the first-ever addition to the structure of the school, including architectural fees, is nearly $200,000. However, when all furnishings are installed, the total cost of the project is estimated at $250,000

The Fitness Center, which will be accessible to all of St. Laurence's students, will replace two old weight rooms which served as the only training facilities available to the general student population. Aerobic equipment, free weights and specialized training machines eventuallly will fill the Center.

Alan Haraf, Development Director, is leading the fundraising drive to finance the Fitness Center through private donations made to the Fitness Center Fund. Haraf is encouraged by early pledges and gifts made by benefactors of the school.

"I think we're been getting such a positive response for this project because many of our benefactors and alumni understand that this is something the school really needs to do in order to modernize its current facilities," Haraf said.

Mr. Thomas Kurzawski, Director of Admissions, and other school officials are in agreement.

"This facility, in addition to other development projects that have taken place in the last two years, certainly will enhance the value of a St. Laurence education current as well as prospective students," Kurzawski said.

The building is scheduled to be operational for the Fall of the 1996 school year.

Charity Volleyball Tournament

Volleyball for charity will hold its annual tournament benefiting the children and adults with developmental disabilites at Park Lawn on April 20. There will be three tournament divisions: power, competitive and charity. Each team is guaranteed to play at least five games at either the Oak Lawn Park District Pavilion, Mother McAuley High School, or Richards High School. The cost of a team is $250 for up to eight people and includes tournament T-shirts, or $325 which also includes tickets to the post-tournament celebration. Community Colleges: The College of Choice

by Dr. Vernon O. Crawley

Every national survey reveals growing public disenchantment with the performance of our nation's institutions. None--Congress, the courts, our churches, nor education--has escaped public criticism.

At the same time, as a nation we should not losc sight of those institutions that remain committed to public service and work daily, if quietly, to help individuals reach their personal goals and, in the process, build stronger communities.

One such institution is the community college. Largely without fanfare, the nation's 1,100 community colleges have gone about thc public's business of providing everyone who seeks the opportunity with access to the courses, the training, and the services that can renew and re-skill them in the face of a rapidly changing and increasingly competitive world. In 1993 alone, community colleges provided educational opportunities to 5.6 million credit-seeking students and to about 5 million non-credit students.

In part, community colleges make good on their commitment to access by keeping tuition low, by offering their courses close-by and at convenient times, and by offering comprehensive programs, ranging from transfer curricula and career courses to developmental studies and counseling. But central to this commitment is the dedication of community college counselors and faculty to a vision which sees the potential for growth in every individual, and which believes that community progress is best achieved through the lifelong learning of each individual.

In our own community, we can see the effects of this commitment in the lives of many among us. As exemplified by the inspiring lives of Moraine Valley graduates, Moraine Valley has provided a gateway to opportunity that enabled them and so many others to overcome the challenges and barriers of the moment to realize a better tomorrow.

Nor has the power of this commmitment gone unrecognized in other communities. According to the latest figures from the National Center for Educational Statistics, fully 56 percent of all adult Americans have, at one time or another, been enrolled in a community college.

This remarkable flexible institution has served as a first step in a young person's college education, as the point of re-entry to the world of education for older men and women after a period of work and family commitments, or as a site for the re-skilling of workers facing new job challenges.

The community college has become America's college of choice not simply because of its commitment to serve all Americans, but from the inspiration we each gain from this commitment to work for a better tomorrow.

In much the same way, the resurgence of the American economy is attributable in large measure to a more efficient and skilled manufacturing workforce. To a remarkable degree, American workers have gained the skills that have made them globally competitive through courses and programs offered at their local community college.

The accomplishments of its graduates, both past and present, demonstrate that America's community colleges offer quality instruction that makes good on their promise of access with excellence. The community college is not only a gateway to oportunity, but an institution whose commitment to small classes, taught by a talented and concerned faculty in a nurturing climate, draws out the best from each student, and makes possible a life of personal fulfillment and of notable public service.

Scheduling announced for library remodeling completion

Oak Lawn Public Library remodeling which began last fall is scheduled for completion this fall according to a schedule presented to the library board of trustees at its regular meeting, March 19. The project to date has included constructing of a new and larger storyhour room for the Youth Services Department and an improvement in the checkout system for the audiovisual section.

Future work includes construciton of new administrative offices, a local history room and a classroom/meeting room in lower level space left vacant when reference services of the Suburban Library System moved to Oak Park Library in 1993. Youth Services Department offices will be enlarged and the staff lounge be redecorated.

Parking will be restricted according to the latest Village Green construction plans announced by the Village of Oak Lawn. Cook and Dumke Avenues and the Cook Avenue parking lot will be closed from April to June to rebuild, resurface and landscape the parking lot and to hasten completion of the projected park and war memorial.

Dr. James B. Casey, library director, reported that all categories of circulation were up by an overall average of more than two percent for the first two months of 1996 as compared to last year.

McAuley celebrates women

On March 7, over 350 young women and administrators from their prospective high schools converged on Mother McAuley High School to participate in the WST Student Colloquium. WST (Women's Schools Together) is a national coalition of nearly 200 Catholic high schools for young women, national organizations and Catholic Archdioceses committed to the education of women.

The events of the day included a presentation by the Imagination Theater entitled "No Easy Answers" which addressed issues of communication, self-esteem, and peer influence. Following the presentation, student facilitators lead small group discussions relating to death and loss, divorce, stress, relationships, wellness, violence toward women, decision-making spirituality, time management, conflict management and communication between men and women. The participants concluded the sessions with lunch and liturgy.

The colloquium kicked off a month long calendar of women's activities held at McAuley. McAuley has named March, Women's History Month, as a celebration of "Ordinary Women Doing Extraordinary Things." Curricular departments at the school have displayed women's accomplishments in their respective fields and posters of famous women in history that decorate main hallways.

McAuley High School students Kelly O'Connell of Oak Lawn (2nd from right) and Melisa Hunt (far right) of Orland Park meet Mother Theodore Guerin High School students Tracy Gibbons and Tina Maldonado at the Women's Schools Together Colloquium on March 7.

POWERFUL PRAYER TO THE HOLY SPIRIT

Holy Spirit, You Who solves all problems, Who lights all roads so that I can attain my goal. You Who gives me the divine gift to forgive and to forget all evil against me and that in all instances of my life You are with me. I want in this short prayer to thank You for all things and to confirm once again that I never want to be separated from You even and in spite of all material illusion. I wish to be with You in eternal glory. Thank You for Your mercy toward me and mine.

The person must say this prayer for 3 consecutive days. After 3 days: the favor requested will be granted even if it may appear difficult. This prayer must be published immediately after the favor is granted without mentioning the favor, only your initials should appear at the bottom.

Oak Lawn Minutes

By Carlene E. O'Connor

The Village of Oak Lawn Board met Tuesday, April 9. Many items were discussed as follows:

NEW BUSINESS

Trustee Holesha brought up the importance of Cultural Awareness being held April 16 at Oak Lawn Community High School.

Trustee Joy said, "The March to Springfield was uplifting. As many as 160 residents came along. I am proud of the people."

The next Education Summit Meeting will be April 18. They are planning a march in October before the election.

Trustee Walsh said, "Thirty-seven drug arrests were made in the South Suburban Area. Four of these arrests were at Oak Lawn establishments. Although no employees or owners of these establishments were arrested, I feel we should call the four businesses in to see what they know. I don't want Oak Lawn to be the place to make connections."

Trustee Walsh went on to say, "Zoning Code C-3 Largest Main Corners of town is where the major retailers are located. They are doing the worst job in keeping their property maintained. It was proposed that we make C-3 property owners follow a maintenance program with Quality Control. If small business owners can do it big ones should as well."

PLANNING AND DEVELOPMENT COMMISSION

Approved #1 and #3. Two were sent to management for review.

Holesha said, "Should these people be building here."

Village Manager and Village Attorney's Reports are approved.

Ordinance #96-7, an ordinance authorizing certain traffic regulations (Residential Permit Parking Only: 55th Avenue, from the first alley north of 95th Street to 94th Street. Approved.

BOARD OF TRUSTEES COMMITTEE REPORTS

1.) Cost Estimates to Televise Village Meetings - Still to be discussed. Trustee Streit said, "Residents can see how things get done at City Hall. Multimedia Cable has set aside one channel for this. Walsh said, "Costs have been discussed and if cable company is willing to foot the bill; If it is free than I think we should give it a try."

2.) Recycling Drop Off Center - 98th Street and Central Avenue. Eight foot solid wall to replace one which exists. Approved.

LEGAL ORDINANCE AND LICENSING COMMITTEE REPORTS

1.) Ordinance #96-7 - An ordinance raising requirements of contractors and insurance. Approved.

2) Ordinance #96-7 - An ordinance amending automatic machine licenses. Approved

QUALITY CONTROL COMMITTEE REPORT

Recommend award of contract for the demolition of Brandt Building.

Bid awarded to Action Wrecking for $33,000.00. Approved.

VILLAGE CLERK'S REPORT

Disb. Res. #96-7D - Semi-monthly disbursements - $1,442,382.86.

Request for waiver of fees for St. Louis De Montefort Carnival June 12-16. Approved.

The next board meeting will be 8 p.m., April 23 at the Village Hall. All residents are encouraged to attend.

Gymnast vaults into state competition

Dave Johnson is a Junior from St. Rita High School. He has been involved in many sports during his life, but none have had quite the impact as his most recent passion, gymnastics. Dave has been training as a gymnast for the past seven years and is presently competing for his first state title. He has enabled St. Rita to become the first member of the Chicago Catholic League to have a gymnastics team and his fellow students are beginning to show interest in the sport.

He finished tied for first all around at the Hinsdale Central Gymnastics Invitaional, first place all around at the Lake Park Invitational and took the goldmedal overall at the Naperville North Invitational.

The I.H.S.A. Team Gymnastics Regional to be held at Downers Grove High School on April 30 is Dave's next stepping stone in state competition. Sectionals will be held at Downers Grove North on May 3.

Kids design and paint construction fence for children's hospital

Students from Oak Lawn and South Chicago schools join together for the dedication of a colorful fence they designed and painted to mark the construction site of the new children's hospital at Christ Hospital and Medical Center, Oak Lawn. Participating in the March 28 event were hospital representatives and students and teachers from McGugan, Hannum, Sward, Coving, Hometown and Kolmar schools in Oak Lawn, and Sheridan School in South Chicago. The $25 million, state-of-the-art children's hospital is scheduled to open in the fall. Much of the support and funding for the new hospital is being achieved through volunteer efforts from members of the local communities such as these school children.

Protect land and nature

By Carlene E. O'Connor

The United Home Owners Good Government Party of Evergreen Park go on record stating that they are opposed to a development of the Evergreen Park Cemetery located from 87th to 91st and Kedzie Avenue.

Service Corporation International (SCI), a Texas based corporation which owns the property, is working in conjunction with the Centrum Realty Incorporated of Chicago, who submitted plans for the proposed development.

The United Home Owners Good Government Party of Evergreen Park are going to fight. To raise funds for the venture they are holding a party. They are announcing their Plan-Protect Land and Nature (PLAN).

The details for PLAN are: Sunday, May 19th at 3 p.m. - 6 p.m. at Burke's Market and Grill (90th and Kedzie Avenue). The price is $25.00 per person and includes hors d'oeuvres, soda, wine and beer.

Any funds raised from the event will be given to the village for use in the lawsuit. If the developer withdraws the lawsuit, the funds will be given to the newly formed planning commission.

THEATRE ALIVE

with Georgean Fitzgerald

Once again, John R. Lazzara, Executive Producer at the Evergreen Park Drury Lane Theater, has brought a remarkable breathtaking and exciting production, Duke Ellington's "Sophisticated Ladies" to his audiences. It is the musical legacy of the "Duke" by celebrating an all-singing, all-dancing, and stylish and brassy revue that has taken the audiences and critics overwhelmingly by storm. It MOVES, it's HOT, it GROOVES.

Act One begins at The Cotton Club with five couples dancing to "Duke's Place". The music segued to "Music is a Woman" when you couldn't hear a pin drop and all eyes watched the graceful dancers. The Sophisticated Ensemble of twelve took us through numerous numbers such as "Hit Me with a Hot Note and Watch Me Bounce", whether vocally or dancing, or a combination of both.

In "Harlem Suite" we were mesmerized with their rendition of "Drop Me Off in Harlem", "I'm Just a Lucky So and So" and "Do Nothin Till You Hear From Me". The ensemble followed with a "Rhythm and Blues 1" segment featuring "In a Sentimental Mood" and "Rockin' in Rhythm".

Act Two opened with 'Swing Time' melodies followed by the classics: "I'm Beginning To See the Light", "Caravan", "Don't Get Around Much Anymore" and "Take the A Train".

These were followed by Rhythm and Blues TWO with "I Got It Bad and That Ain't Good", "Mood Indigo" and "Solitude".

In the "Sophisticated Lady" sequence, the audience responded with cheers and applause when the strains of "Satin Doll" and "It Don't Mean a Thing" finale were heard.

The show features over thirty-five songs and knockout dance sequences, with dance styles ranging from Charleston, hot and jazzy Harlem suites, to dazzling production tap numbers and the elegant Sophisticated Lady Waltz.

Duke Ellington produced more hits in jazz than any other person who ever practiced and tried to perfect this particular art. This regal man with the fertile mind, the facile tongue and the showmanship was a composer, arranger, pianist and orchestra leader. In his early days, he was a soda 'jerk', and wore a nattily starched uniform, which earned him his "Duke" nickname. An innovator, he created harmonically advanced chords that later typified his music. The Ellington sound, with its full voicings, its startling chords, its unique blending of various instruments, its exciting rhythms from primitive to the complex permeated all of his music.

The Drury Lane Orchestra consisting of eight musicians and directed by Margaret Bell did justice to the Duke's music. And the standing ovations, and whistles, and the applause and "un'huhs" was so evident that you knew that the entire audience 'dug it' and were 'swept away!'

Performing through May 26, tickets can be purchased at the theater in Evergreen Park, 2500 W. 95th Street, phone: 708-422-0404.

Rolling Stones "At the Max"

The consummate concert film for the 90's, will return to the Museum of Science and Industry's newly renovated Omnimax Theater, located in the Henry Crown Space Center, for a special evening-only limited engagement, April 12 through June 30. "Destiny in Space" will continue to be shown in its regular daytime schedule at the Omnimax Theater through July 4.

Rolling Stones "At the Max" puts audiences inches away from Mick Jagger as he demands "Satisfaction," a chord change away from Keith Richard as he lines up for "Ruby Tuesday" and a beat away from Charlie Watts as he hammers the first bars of "Brown Sugar."

For fans of the Rolling Stones, seeing and hearing the film is an indescribable, unforgettable thrill.

Tickets are $15 for adults, $13.50 for senior citizens 65 and over and kids ages five to 12. Call the museum at (312) 684-1414.

"42nd Street" opening at Drury Lane Oakbrook

Drury Lane Oakbrook will present the musical extravaganza, "42nd Street", scheduled to open on Wednesday, May 15 at 8 p.m. Directed by Drury Lane Oakbrook Artistic Director Gary Griffin, 42nd Street begins preview performances on Wednesday, May 8 and is scheduled to run through Sunday, June 23, at the Drury Lane.

"42nd Street" is a reworking of the famous 1933 movie musical of the same name. Stagestruck Peggy Sawyer gets a job in the chorus line of a new show being staged by famed director Julian March but runs afoul of the spiteful star. When the leading lady suffers a broken ankle just before the Broadway opening, the youngster goes on in her place and comes back a star!

Audiences crazy for Fireside's "Crazy for You"

Take nineteen of the brightest and best Gershwin tunes, add a fresh new story, dazzling tap dances, side-splitting humor, and a cast of energetic, talented performers and you have the recipe for the Tony Award-Winning Best Musical of 1992.

The Fireside in Fort Atkinson is one of the first regional theatres in the country given the performance rights to this new Gershwin musical.

Performances run Wed. through Sunday with both matinees and evening shows available that includes dining in The Fireside Restaurant.

For more information, call The Fireside at 1-800-477-9505.

Native American Troupe performs at GSU

Red Path Theater Company of Chicago will stage "Shattered Dreams," a play exploring the contemporary Native American existence, at 7:30 p.m. Friday, April 26, at Governors State University.

This free performance will be in The Center for Arts and Technology on campus, Stuenkel Road east of Governors Highway in University Park.

"Shattered Dreams" by E. Donald Two-Rivers tells the story of American Indian identities claims and reclaimed, the interference of business as it tries to buy tribal land, power in its many forms, and people needing and cherishing each other.

Red Path Theater Company of Chicago is the only Native American theater company in Illinois. This troupe appears courtesy of Truman College.

This event is sponsored by the Students for Native American Interest, GSU's Student Life Division and the Office of Student Affairs and Services. Reservations are being accepted by the Office of Student Life at (708) 534-4550.

Spend Sunday with Friends listening to big band sounds

The ever-popular big band sound will be heard at the Oak Lawn Public Library, 2 p.m. Sunday, April 21, when the Friends of the Library present the Right of Way Band as part of the Sunday with Friends Series. This talented music group has appeared twice previously and drew standing room only audiences.

This program is guaranteed to have the audience tapping its feet, singing along and hardly resisting the temptation to get up and dance. Library doors open at 1 p.m.

FOOD FOR 'SECONDS'

Beverly chef, Marist grad, owes culinary talent to mom

By Anita Anderson

Steve Chiappetti

Steve Chiappetti's star is ascending into culinary attention from both diners and professionals in the food business who have frequented his wildly successful (75-seat) Mango Restaurant at 712 N. Clark Street, Chicago.

And he credits his mother, Antoinette of Beverly for instilling in him his passion and love for food.

"She took lessons from the Antoinette Pope Cooking School before it was trendy to take cooking lessons," Steve said.

The Marist grad is part of the large Chiappetti Lamb Company who serve well known restaurants in Oak Lawn, Chicago and surrounding suburbs. The Chiappetti's are a three-generation group of leaders in the city's meat-packing trade. Steven, twenty-eight, was the first culinary student graduating from Kendall Culinary College in Evanston.

While working under the tutelage of Executive Chef Fernand Gutierrez of the Ritz Carlton Hotel, Chiappetti was sent to France four times, working in small bistros in different coastal regions of France to expand his expertise.

Chiappetti co-owns Mango with George Guggeis. The men decided to keep menu prices reasonable while still offering flavorful, simple foods. Lunch averages about $12 and dinner from $18 to $22.

For starters chef's soups of the day with croutons averages $3; excellent duck proscuitto made by an entrepreneur in Evanston is served with mango, mache lettuce and chive dressing for $6 or try the fresh water shrimp with polenta lasagna and a mint tomato broth for $6.

Main dishes might be the sauteed salmon fillet with savory cabbage and pancetta and a red wine reduction for $12 or the roasted pork chop with Northern white beans and caramelized onion and mustard sauce for $13.

Side dishes of wild mushrooms or mashed potatoes for $2 just to name a few.

Don't miss the desserts which vary from a warm apple tart with cinnamon ice cream and mint essence from $3.50 to the Frozen Chocolate Tower, banana chips and strawberry sauce for $4.

As we said the name of the game at Mango's is wonderful food, priced right with a speedy turnover in a bistro style setting.

Mango also features a 30-seat private party room and wine cellar in the lower level. Call 312-337-5440.Reservations are suggested. Parking is available nearby the eatery.

On Sunday, April 21 Steve and more than 35 of the country's top chef's will gather for a grand tasting of more than 40 dishes and wines to benefit the Chicago Fund's Meals-On-Wheels-Program at the James R. Thompson Center (Illinois Building) at 10:30 a.m.

The program receives no state, federal or city funding and exists through donations from corporate sponsors and individuals. Tickets are $150 a person. Call 312-744-2120.

Chiappetti will prepare Rack of Veal Stuffed with Pine Nuts, Roasted Garlic and Spicy Italian Sausage with Garlic Saffron Rice.

Two of Chiappetti's recipes follow which are served at Mango.

Roasted Chiappetti Lamb Shank

2 pc.	Lamb shanks (Chiappetti Lamb)
1/2 cup	Molasses
2 oz.	Onion
2 oz.	Carrot
2 oz.	Celery
2 leaf	Bay Leaf
4 cups	Lamb stock
1/2 cup	Lentils
	Salt and Pepper to your taste

Sear Lamb shanks in a hot skillet with a shallow amount of oil. Cut the onion, celery, carrot into a large dice and add to the pan. Deglaze with the veal stock and add the molasses. Place in an oven pre set at 400• and cook for one and half hours then add the lentils and cook for another hour. Consistently baste the lamb with the broth. When finished remove and serve onto a large platter.

Mango and Ricotta Cheese Tart

Makes one tart shell

2/3 cup	Ricotta cheese
1/4 cup	Sugar
2/3 cup	Milk
3	Eggs (separated)
1	Juice of lemon
1 oz.	Flour
1.5 oz.	Cornstarch
1 oz.	Powdered Sugar

1.) In a bowl mix the ricotta, sugar, milk, egg yolks, lemon, flour, cornstarch.
2.) In a mixer beat the egg whites till a hard peak. Fold into the mixture but do not beat, gently fold. Place into a puff pastry shell.
3.) Bake at 375• for 35 minutes.

Easy Appetizer

Majorcan Mushroom Tapas

Makes 10 Appetizers

STREUSEL PREPARATION:

- 1 cup Bays English Muffin crumbs (about 1 muffin)
- 1 tablespoon olive oil
- 3 cloves garlic, chopped
- 1/4 teaspoon freshly ground black pepper
- 1/4 cup sliced almonds, broken

Combine crumbs, oil, garlic, pepper and almonds in large skillet. Cook over medium heat , stirring constantly until crumbs and almonds are light golden brown. Remove from skillet and set aside to cool.

PREPA RATION:

- 2 tablespoons olive oil
- 1/3 cup finely chopped shallots
- 1 teaspoon minced garlic
- 12 ounces mixed mushrooms, thinly sliced (preferred mix-button, cremini, shittake, oyster)
- 2 tablespoons dry sherry
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 tablespoon finely chopped fresh thyme leaves
- 5 Bays English Muffins, split and lightly toasted
- 1-1/2 cups mascarpone cheese, room temperature
- Thyme leaves, optional

Using same skillet, wipe clean; add oil, heating to medium. Sauté shallots and garlic until soft, about 2 minutes. Add mushrooms, sherry and salt: sauté until mushrooms are tender, about 10 to 12 minutes. Stir thyme and continue to cook until most of liquid evaporates.

Spread muffin 'tapas' with cheese. Top cheese evenly with mushroom mixture; place 'tapas' on baking sheet. Bake at 350• until hot, about 5 minutes. Spoon Almond-Garlic Streusel over mushrooms. Garnish with thyme, if desired.

Baking with low-fat

Eating desserts is one of the greatest pleasures in life. However, many desserts just don't mix with a low-fat diet and a healthy lifestyle. But when you really crave fat, only the real thing will do. Still, most of us need to find some balance in order to maintain a healthy diet, yet satisfy a sometimes overpowering sweet tooth.

Fats are important to baked goods as they influence structure, flavor and tenderness. They also contribute moisture and "mouthfeel" that smooth, rich quality that makes high-fat foods so devilishly appealing.

There's been a recent proliferation of recipes in which applesauce, prune and fruit purees and yogurt are substituted for all or most of the fat in baked items. Luckily, many foods, especially desserts, can be transformed into lower-fat versions while still maintaining good flavor, thanks to these healthful substitutions.

In the following recipe, applesauce has been substituted for most of the fat.

Applesauce Ginger Cake

- 1 1/2 cups all-purpose flour
- 1 teaspoon baking soda
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 cup sugar
- 1 teaspoon each: cinnamon and ginger
- 1/4 teaspoon ground clover
- 3/4 cup applesauce
- 1/3 cup mild molasses
- 2 tablespoons vegetable oil
- 1 egg

Heat oven to 350•. Combine dry ingredients in medium mixing bowl. Combine applesauce, molasses, oil and egg in small bowl. Stir into dry ingredients until moistened. Spread batter into a 9 inch square baking pan coated with cooking spray. Bake until wooden pick inserted in center comes out clean, about 20 minutes. Remove from oven. Cool slightly and cut into 12 pieces; top with Creamy Topping before serving.

CREAMY TOPPING

- 1/2 cup whipped topping
- 1/2 cup nonfat or low-fat lemon yogurt

Whisk topping and yogurt until smooth. Serve covered in refrigerator.

Can Spirituality Improve Healing?

(NAPS)—An increasing number of doctors are beginning to believe that spiritual practices may be able to improve the ability to heal.

A growing number of doctors believe that spiritual practices can help people to heal better. Discuss the role of spirituality and health with your doctor.

"Scientific studies demonstrate that by repeating prayers, words or sounds, and passively disregarding other thoughts, many people are able to trigger a specific set of physiological changes—including decreased metabolism, heart rate, rate of breathing and distinctive, slower brain waves," said Dr. Herbert Benson, director of the Mind/Body Medical Institute and associate professor of medicine at Harvard Medical Institute.

According to Benson, author of Timeless Healing: The Power And Biology Of Belief, these changes, which are the opposite of those induced by stress, can have a beneficial effect on patients with various illnesses.

Recently, Benson and approximately 1,000 physicians, nurses, social workers, clergy members and health care practitioners took part in a Spirituality and Healing in Medicine Seminar in Boston, which focused on how spiritual practice impacts the healing process. In this seminar Benson discussed the differences and similarities among long-standing practices of major religions.

Increasingly, many doctors and major hospitals are investigating alternative or what some doctors call complementary cures. Many doctors are studying mind-body interaction and some of the more distinguished hospitals already have alternative therapists on staff.

For more than 25 years, the Mind/Body Medical Institute at Harvard Medical School has been researching how mind-body interactions can be used to treat and manage hypertension and cardiovascular diseases, cancer, chronic pain, AIDS, insomnia, infertility; and diabetes; as well as other medical conditions in which stress adversely affects health.

Funded by a grant from The John Templeton Foundation, the Spirituality of Healing in Medicine Course was the first continuing medical education course related to Spirituality offered by the Harvard Medical School. A 1996 course is being planned for Nov-ember in Los Angeles.

Can spiritual practices help your healing? A growing number of doctors seem to think it's possible. Discuss the role of spirituality and health with your doctor.

SENIOR WATCH

High Drug Prices: A Threat To Our Health?

(NAPS)—Surprising to many Americans is the fact that the prices of America's twenty top-selling brand name prescription drugs increased more than one-and-a-half times faster than the general rate of inflation last year. Unfortunately, while skyrocketing drug prices are hard on many consumers, they are especially hard on older Americans.

The skyrocketing rise in drug prices hurt senior citizens more because 85 percent take at least one prescription drug a year.

While increases in seniors' Social Security checks are pegged to inflation, the prices of their medications go up much faster than inflation. Seniors are also more likely to need prescription drugs than do younger people. According to a spokesman for Families USA Foundation, a health care consumer group, 85 percent of seniors take at least one prescription drug each year. Medicare does not cover prescription drugs and nearly half of the elderly do not have any insurance to help pay for prescriptions.

Many Americans feel that drug company price increases have become a threat to Americans' health and that they should be moderated.

Stocker offers "Best Fit Mastectomy Products"

As owner of Best Fit Mastectomy Products, Jo Anne Stocker offers professional service and personal care in the fitting of quality products to post mastectomy women. Although a Certified Fitter for Orthotics and Prosthetics, Stocker has elected to concentrate solely on fitting mastectomy products.

Stocker feels it is important to educate the women about the products they are using. At the time of the fitting a complete line of mastectomy products is displayed. A comprehensive explanation of the prosthesis, such as medical purpose, poduct material and design is discussed.

Stocker feels women should have choices. Therefore various name brands and styles of quality mastectomy products are offered.

Once product discussion is competed, measurements are obtained to determine sizing. Various shapes and sizes are tried to obtained the best results.

A unique service Best Fit Mastectomy Porducts offers is local home visits. By offering this service, women have the convenience and privacy of the fitting in their own home. This is a personal situation and Stocker wants her clients to feel as comfortable as possible. Best Fit serves the southwest suburbs.

Best Fit Mastectomy Products offers personal care, professional service and quality products. "I am committed to fitting my clients properly with the quay care and the products they deserve."

Please feel free to contact Jo Anne at Best Fit Mastecto if you should have any questions. (800) 585-4580.

Denise Aidinovich Scanlon, a former member of the St. Gerald Parish in Oak Lawn, has been battling leukemia since last October with the help of her family.

A series of blood tests showed Denise that she had leukemia, rather than the flu as she originally thought, and since December she has been at the University of Chicago Hospital where her family and friends take turns visiting her.

Denise needs a bone marrow transplant to overcome her illness. She has already received chemotherapy. Although none of her six brothers and sisters' bone marrow matches hers, there are donors on a national list who can help.

To help offset medical and child care expenses a benefit is being held from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. on April 21 at the Glisson Archery Club, 22900 E. Maine St., Plainfield. The cost is $8 for adults and $4 for children age 16 and under. Call (815) 436-5803 to make reservations or for more information.

Aside from the fund-raiser, donations can also be received through, "For the Love of My Mom," Standard Federal Bank, 8357 South Roberts Rd., Hickory Hills, Il. 60457

Sheriff holds conference to target suburban gangs

Cook County Sheriff Michael F. Sheahan is calling on suburban residents and community leaders to join him at a series of conferences this Spring to discuss the spread of gang activity in the suburbs.

The Citizens Gang Awareness Conferences will be held throughout the month of May. Representatives from the Sheriff's Office will provide details about gang activity in the suburbs and give parents advise on how to keep their children free of gang involvement.

"Anyone who believes that gangs operate strictly inside the Chicago city limits is dead wrong," Sheahan said.

"Suburban gangs may not be as well organized or as violent as their counterparts in the city, but they exist nonetheless. Suburban residents and police officials must enter a dialogue about gangs and search for ways to stop their spread in our communities."

According to the Sheriff's Police Gang Unit, gang related arrests have increased steadily in the suburbs. In 1991, the Sheriff's Gang Unit made less than 400 arrests in suburban Cook County. Last year, more than 1,500 suburban gang members were arrested. Sheriff's Police investigators have also identified more than 60 different suburban-based gangs and have established a computer program that contains intelligence information on nearly 6,000 suburban gang members.

According to Sheahan, the main focus of the conferences will be to give suburban residents an opportunity to express their concerns about gangs and share their ideas about crime prevention with police officials.

Each conference will begin at 7 p.m. The schedule is as follows:

Wednesday, May 22
South Suburban College
15800 S. State St.
South Holland

Wednesday, May 29
Moraine Valley
Community College
10900 S. 88th Ave.
Palos Hills

"I encourage all interested Cook County residents to attend the conference in their area," Sheahan said. "Police agencies cannot stop gangs on their own. We need the help of a well informed and active community."

Family Days scheduled for August

By Carlene E. O'Connor

The Village of Oak Lawn Board and Park Board finally worked it out and the residents will once again be able to enjoy Family Days as in years past. Permits for the fest were granted at the April 23 Village Board meeting.

The event will be held the first weekend in August.

Village Trustees held up fee waivers because of their concern over the park district's involvement in the fest. Next Tuesday will be a meeting and hopefully things will be ironed out.

Cook School and what plans are being made for it will also be discussed.

Trustee Holesha is concerned about Centennial Pool and said, "How can they come up with the $50-100,000 for Family Days after they closed the pool? I feel some figures have to be given at the next meeting."

Trustee Stancik said, "I don't want to waive the permit fees unless everyone else waives their fees, too."

They have agreed to cut their fees by 50% according to Richards, owner of the Corporate Planners, Inc. and a member of the Special Events Commission. The park district and service clubs have equally agreed to share any losses.

Trustee Streit wanted to waive all fees immediately and voted against postponement until Tuesday. He was the only one.

In 1996, only four of the six service clubs will work the fest. They will be under Park District Sponsorship and are Oak Lawn Athletic, rotary, and police department clubs, and Sertoma.

Next Tuesday's meeting will be interesting and all are concerned about the outcome.

Call your trustee with any comments you may have or Mayor Kolb at the Village Hall.

Residents sign petition opposing shopping center

By Carlene E. O'Connor

Evergreen Park Village Board meeting was attended by all trustees, the mayor and clerk. The following items were discussed:

Village Treasurers Report;
$600,000 - Vendors and Payroll
$29,021.89 - Disbursements
$1,912,203.47 - Cash Investments
$1,150,252.79 - Sewer and Water

The following items were approved:
Month of May, 1996 - Motorcycle Awareness Month
Household Bank Garage Sale - May 10 & 11 at their storage building 9 a.m. - 5 p.m.

Residents are taking action, Father Burn of Holy Redeemer is involved and 5,100 signatures were collected opposing the shopping center at 87th and Kedzie. Residents can contact the Village Hall to sign a petition or Helen Cuprisin of R.O.D.D. (residents opposed to detrimental development.)

Frederick Shannon of the Planning Commission spoke about his long term plan for the village. He plans on having professional development workshop for members. Shannon is also trying to attract new members. His total budget is $6,100.

Trustee Bosch says "Go to the meetings so you can see what is going on."

In other business a variation at 3542 w. 98th Street for a second garage was approved. There is a "Neighborhood Watch" and block captains can come in to pick up materials. If residents wish to become involved contact the Police Department.

Oak Lawn trustees concerned with handicap parking

By Carlene E. O'Connor

Oak Lawn village trustees had a long night of discussion Tuesday, April 23. Through the efforts of long debate and cross talk many good things came out the meeting for Oak Lawn.

The following patrol officers Lawrence O'Brien, Frank Raglione, and Roger Pawlowski were given the oath of office to become police sergeants. Four new patrol officers were added Roberta Kramarski, James Hacker, James Cummings and Daniel Miller.

Appeal of Planning and Development Commission Denials:

a.)Pet.#95-15 Request for rezoning from R-2 to R-3 at 9436 S. Kolmar, Robert Hugelet, Jr. attorney for George Georgaklis was approved.

b.) Request for satellite dish variation at 9435 S. Kenton Avenue. Maher Ismail was denied.

New Business:

Trustee Keane said, "I have an environmental concern, the tree cutting policy. I would like the environmental people to get Nelson Tree Service and committee to comply with this. I think they are taking far more off then they have to. People have shade trees that they have grown accustomed to and can set guidelines which are user friendly."

Trustee Stancik stated, "I have heard allegations being made against Costellos and have a citizen who would like to testify."

Trustee Streit advised, "Impact fees would be revisited and placed on next agenda of legal and ordinance."

Trustee Holesha alleged, "There has been so much misuse of handicap parking. I have not seen increases posted anywhere. Code Enforcement officer doesn't know what to write the ticket for."

Attorney Bayer said, "You cannot ticket someone for parking there without the proper sign being posted."

This was brought up to the clerk who said, "That all notices have been sent everywhere and it's up to the business owners to change the signs. Trustee Holesha concluded by saying, "If you cannot implement an ordinance then it's not worth the paper it's written on."

The Chamber Olympics held at Palos Olympic Club on Sunday, April 28 was attended by six south community Chambers of Commerce and celebrities and local politicians such as former Chicago Bear Dennis McKinnon, State representative Anne Zickus (48th district) and Mayor Jerry Bennett, Palos Hills.

This was all started when the chamber decided about a year ago to raise money for scholarships. Bob Diamond, owner of Palos Olympic, brainstormed the idea and his wife Shari fullfilled the task of uniting the chambers.

Shari Diamond says, "we had the place. It was just using the stuff we had".

The $30 per individual participation fee included entry to unlimited events, raffle tickets, food and beverages, T- shirt and team picture.

The Oak Lawn team was headed by Joan Kennedy, a Chamber Executive Director, Annette Dixon, Publisher of Village View Newspaper and Southside chef oversees the 95th

by Annette Dixon

Southsiders need to look at their own when looking for an excellent chef in an elegant restaurant. Who is our contact at The Signature Room in the Hancock Building? Non other than Celine McKenna, a hot Beverly lady who currently lives in Blue Island.

Celine's father is from County Cavan, located in central Ireland near the border of Northern Ireland." You know I had to learn to cook for the family," said Celine, " in fact it was my aunt who was instrumental in helping me learn to appreciate cooking. My aunt was the cook at St. Barnabas until just recently when she retired."

In 1987, Celine graduated from Washburn Trade School in the culinary arts program. She started working immediately at 95th Restaurant as a salad chef and within the past eight years, this 28 year old became the Executive Sous Chef, a position that is second in command in the kitchen.

Celine's job description for an Executive Sous Chef is to oversee the kitchen, production, scheduling, quality control. She oversees the soup, stocks, and prepares and creates specialties. Expediting, which means getting the food hot and promptly to the table is just another job of hers. Celine also oversees the pastry department, which by the way, has their own pastry chef.

Celine loves to create a special look for the usual meat and potato entree. She said, "regarding specialties, let's not be so traditional. Let"s go another way by just not preparing only an American Cuisine, but by looking into the season and preparing for them."

"In preparing a special menu, you look into the season, for example, soft shell crabs, you have to know the season food. This job is definitely long hours and a six day week and you have to love what you're doing. I even order my produce by personally visiting South Water Market once a week."

Scotty Pippin, Chicago Bulls, comes in often and asks for his special dish, said Celine. (Editor's note) She told me what it is but you'll have to ask her or me. This editor's favorite appetizer is roasted portabella mushroom, glazed with goat cheese, sundried tomatoes and black olives; basil pesto sauce.

The Signature Room at the 95th is ready for their Mother's day brunch selection. You can make reservations by calling (312) 787-9596.

Everyone was pumped up and competed in the football throw in which the Oak Lawn Chamber won a gold medal and in the pitch and putt Oak Lawn Chamber won a silver Olympic medal. Oak Lawn's bronze medal was competing in Trivia pursuit..

Dave Rompala, Sertoma Center along with Mary and Dan Gallagher acted as volunteers by keeping score on the events, taking in money, selling tickets and providing support.

The event made $7,000 gross. "The goal was $10,000, but there is always next year," according to Bob Diamond. Oak Lawn Chamber received 12% of the net profit, which will benefit the youth enrichment program of their choice.

The Diamonds were pleased with their first event. They thanked all the volunteers, participants, and people who came out to cheer.

Marquette opens OL branch

Laura Shallow introduced community leaders attending the ribbon cutting ceremony at Marquette branch in Oak Lawn on Monday, May 6th. Included in the welcoming was John Thompson, Stephen L. Rulo, newly appointed vice president to head commercial banking, State Rep. Maureen Murphy (R-38), Oak Lawn Mayor Ernie Kolb and Park Commissioner Patrick Sullivan, plus media.

My Mother

My mother does not just cook and clean
My mother is my one special thing
When something is wrong my mother is there
Sometimes she's the one that only seems to care.
Mothers are made from the stars of night
Hug your mother and hug her tight
'cause you never know when they'll take flight.

No, sir, my mother does not just cook and clean
My mother is my one special thing.

Theatre Alive

By Georgean Fitzgerald

Sparkling entertainment has long been a special ingredient at The Sabre Room in Hickory Hills, and "Guys and Dolls" is just another example. Based on a story and characters by Damon Runyon, this production moves along at rapid-fire speed. Set against the color of New York City's high lights and low life, it is a fable of love, marriage, and temperance on Broadway. With music and lyrics by Frank Loesser and book by Abe Burrows, the synopsis goes like this: Nathan Detroit (John Boss), operator of a legendary floating crap game, evades marriage to Miss Adelaide (Mary Lou Ahlenious) his chorus girl fiancee of fourteen years, as high rolling Sky Masterson (Michael D. Walker) revels in his reputation as a notorious gambler and womanizer. But when Nathan bets Sky that he can't sweep Miss Sarah Brown (Catherine C. Statice) the prim mission doll off to Havana, everyone gets more than they gambled for. The provocative gamblers 'Nicely, Nicely Johnson,' 'Harry the Horse', 'Angie the Ox', Big Julie', and the "Hot Box Girls" chorus make "Guys and Dolls" the funniest and melodious show ever.

It received the Best musical, Best Score and Lyrics Tony Awards when it first appeared on Broadway over forty years ago. Which is why it is still a perennial favorite and drawing audiences. Musical numbers you don't want to miss include "A Bushel and a Peck", I've Never Been in Love Before", "Luck Be a Lady" and "Sit Down, You're Rockin' the Boat".

Catherine Productions of Berwyn will also present "Barefoot in the Park", another all-time classic, beginning July 19, and running through August 17.

Casting call for "Alice in Wonderland"

Auditions for "Alice in Wonderland" will be held Monday, May 13 from 4 p.m. to 6 p.m. in the Copley Theatre of the North Island Centre, 8 E. Galena Blvd., Aurora.

"Alice in Wonderland" recounts the magical adventures of Alice and the White Rabbit in this enchanting musical based on the Lewis Carroll classics Alice's Adventures in Wonderland and Through the Looking Glass. Among the roles to be cast are three Alices of varying size, the Mad Hatter, the march hare, the King of Hearts, the Cheshire Cat, Tweedledum and Tweedledee, the Flower Band, Cards, and Lobsters. The characters of Margaret and the Queen of Hearts will be played by Jill M. McCauley and the character of the White Rabbit will be played by Gregory Boris. Both are professional actors/directors.

Students aged five to 17 are encouraged to audition. No advance preparation is necessary. Assistant Directors will also be cast to aid in rehearsals throughout the week and to take on essential backstage responsibilities.

If cast, the young actors will be required to stay immediately after the audition for a rehearsal. Intensive rehearsals will be held May 13-16 from 4 p.m. to 9 p.m. Although most children will not have to attend all of the rehearsals they must be available for those sessions.

Performances will be Friday, May 17 at 9:45 a.m., 12:30 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. All of those cast must be able to attend all scheduled performances.

Montefiori features elegant dinner for Mother's Day

Montefiori, a beautiful country house surrounded by acres of gardens, will offer a five-course Sunday dinner on Mother's Day, Sunday, May 12, from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. Montefiori, located 28 miles southwest of Chicago near the historic village of Lemont, is a 35-minute drive from Chicago's Loop.

"Although weekends are booked well in advance and are at a premium during the short summer season, we have set aside Mother's Day and the following Sunday, May 19, to present a preview of The Montefiori Collection, a catalogue of garden ornaments and hardy perennials cultivated at Montefiori for many years," said Stefano Marchetti, who with his brother Paul will continue to conduct business at Montefiori as they have since 1982.

The Mother's Day "pranzo" will begin with an antipasto course passed on trays and presented in a spectacular display. the five-course dinner at $40 per person, offers a choice of roast tenderloin of beef alla Toscana or roast rock Cornish game hen, each served with buttered broccoli and broiled tomatoes, preceded by a salad of wild greens and hot herbed bread, then pasta al pesto accompanied by red or white table wine poured freely throughout.

The distinctly Tuscan dessert course will feature a semi-soft cheese and chilled fruit, along with Italian cookies and strong coffee.

Mother's Day reservations will be limited to 250 guests seated at tables of 6, 8 or 10 in a brand-new, state-of-the-art 60 foot by 90-foot tent, a billowing white pavilion of translucent weatherproof vinyl, or at tables of two to five set on the lawn surrounding the bocci court.

Each Mother will receive a souvenir from the Montefiori for the past 30 years in his very distinct style.

Simple Device Keeps Closet Doors On Track

(NU)—Ever experience the frustration—usually when you're rushed in the morning—of not being able to get to your clothes quickly because the closet door sticks when you try to open it?

Homeowners, renters, carpenters and builders will welcome with open arms (and closets) the invention of an easily mountable floor guide that keeps sliding doors from running off track.

Unlike conventional door guides that require the preparation of shims and sometimes wood blocks, and take up to an hour to install properly, E-Z Nail-On Door Guide requires only a hammer and 3–5 minutes to install. The guide, produced by Schneider Enterprises, can be mounted over carpet, hardwood, cement, ceramic tile and linoleum.

The door guide kit consists of three chrome-finished steel pins, three plastic caps (in white, birch and walnut colors) that lock into place over the pins and three plastic anchors for use on concrete or tile floors, which also require a drill to make the holes for the pins. The product is adjustable to varying door heights, works on all door widths from ⅞ inch, and is easily removed and replaced during room remodeling or repainting.

"Your E-Z Nail guide should last a lifetime," says company sales manager Bob Schneider.

To order the E-Z Nail-On Door Guide, send $3.50 per kit to Schneider Enterprises, 1876 Fireside Drive, Cincinnati, OH 45255. For more information, call 1-513-474-0203.

Window painting made easy

Of all the woodwork in the home, windows suffer the most stress. Constant exposure to temperature changes and condensation means that windows often need to be painted more frequently than doors, moldings and trim.

Unfortunately, the process involved in painting windows can be confusing. To simplify things, the Rohm and Haas Paint Quality Institute offers some window painting guidelines that can save you time, money and aggravation.

Start by gathering the right tools for window painting:

–a 1½" or 2" quality brush (use synthetic bristles if you are painting with one of the popular latex interior paints);
–a cutting-in brush for precision work;
–a paint shield or masking tape;
–a screwdriver;
–enough top quality paint to complete the job.

Remove locks, curtain hooks and other hardware from the windows. This will speed your work and produce a better-looking paint job.

Double-hung windows

For double-hung windows, follow this six-step procedure:

1. Raise the bottom sash and lower the top sash most of the way, so that there is a 6" overlap. Paint the bottom horizontal section of the top sash, then the accessible vertical members. Use care to keep paint from getting in between sash and frame — which can "glue" the window in place.
2. Nearly close the upper and lower sashes, then finish painting the rest of the top sash.
3. Paint the entire bottom sash.
4. After allowing the sashes to dry, paint the window frame.
5. Close the windows and paint the exposed parts of the runners. If your windows have sash cords, avoid getting paint on them.
6. Paint the window sill and apron.

Regardless of the type of windows you are painting, if you have a steady hand, you can keep paint on the frame and off the glass by using the cutting-in brush. But be sure to overlap the paint onto the glass slightly to help seal off moisture and drafts.

There are two other techniques for keeping paint off of the window panes: holding up a paint shield as you work or applying masking tape to the glass.

When using tape, press it firmly to the glass to keep excess paint from creeping beneath it. (If stray specks of paint get onto the glass, simply remove them with a razor blade.) Remove the tape before the paint dries to a hard film.

Some final tips from the experts at the Paint Quality Institute:

- Before starting to paint, repair any damage to the window and properly prepare the surface. This can be done by scraping off old paint, then sanding, and priming any spots where bare wood shows. (Get more advice on surface preparation at your local paint retailer, hardware store or decorating center.)
- Paint windows early in the day so that they have enough time to dry before you close them in the evening.
- Finish painting each piece in the direction of the wood grain. 5534407

Reroof before it's too late

Some people think the time to reroof is when it starts to leak. That's a mistake because leaks can damage the roof deck, the rafters and seep down into walls. Another reason not to wait so long is that once leaks develop, the roof has to be replaced immediately.

A roof of standard shingles that is more than 15 years old is ready for reroofing. If you can't determine the age of your roof look for cracked, curled missing shingles. To ascertain the condition of the roof, take a walk around the house looking for signs of aging.

Should you determine that reroofing is in order, call in a professional roofing contractor who will conduct a thorough on-the-roof inspection. He will be able to advise you on the cost of reroofing and the material in use.

To estimate the cost of a new roof, add the cost of materials and labor, and divide the total by the number of years the shingle is designed to last. It may turn out that the costlier shingle is less expensive because the cost of materials and labor is amortized over a longer period.

PRIMER ON PRIMERS

SURFACE	RECOMMENDATIONS
New Wood	Prime with quality acrylic or oil primer; use stain-resistant primer for cedar, redwood, mahogany or other staining woods; oil-based primers better for severe staining.
Repaint	Primer not normally required unless paint is very chalky (use oil primer) or bare wood is exposed; glossy surfaces should be sanded and dusted off before applying the topcoat.
Weathered Wood	Thoroughly sand weathered wood or wood exposed by scraping old paint off; dust off the surface to remove weathered fibers; then apply a quality latex or oil-based stain.
Masonry	Apply masonry sealer first if surface is very porous; otherwise not necessary. In repaint situation, use sealer if old paint is partly or all removed by scraping or wire brush.
Ferrous Metals	Apply acrylic latex or oil-based corrosion resistant primer (two coats is better) before topcoating.
Aluminum, Galvanized Steel	Primer is not necessary unless galvanized surface shows sign of rust -- then follow recommendations for "ferrous metals" above; remove any white, powery oxide on aluminum surfaces with coarse steel wool, then dust off before applying the paint.

Easy-to-use, economical insulating foam helps reduce summertime cooling costs

With warmer temperatures and increased daylight hours signaling winter's departure, Americans across the country are undertaking the now-traditional rites of spring cleaning and home improvement. Typical projects range from reorganizing closets, to washing winter grime from windows, to landscaping the front lawn.

Installing insulation has long been associated with "winterizing" the home. However, protecting against drafts and air leaks is equally valuable now, because proper insulation reduces cooling costs in the summer, just as it reduces heating costs in the winter. And, with Touch 'n Foam® Instant Insulation®, the process is easier and more economical than ever.

Helps prevent energy loss

Unlike caulking material or other sealants which are solid, heavy and non-insulating, Touch 'n Foam® Instant Insulation® expands to form an outer skin, and the closed air cells within the foam provide the most effective barrier against energy loss. (Foam insulation material carries a higher "R" factor per square inch than any other material available.)

Because Touch 'n Foam® Instant Insulation® is non-solvent, it will never shrink, dry or harden and, because it will never pull away from the material to which it is bonded, it offers long-lasting protection against moisture and air infiltration.

The two primary sources of air infiltration are furnace draft, which creates a vacuum in the home, pulling cold air through improperly insulated openings in winter, and wind force, which combines with this suction to force even more cold air through exposed areas.

Renders openings air-tight

In warmer weather, the already cooled air inside the house is allowed to escape through these same sites of air movement. Touch 'n Foam® Instant Insulation® is designed to fill these openings, making them air-tight and draft free.

All around the house (it can be used in exterior as well as interior applications), Touch 'n Foam® Instant Insulation® has a multitude of uses, including sealing:

- Under thresholds;
- Around vents, chimneys and exhaust ducts;
- Around utility lines, antennas, electrical "feed-through" and air conditioners;
- In small holes and cracks.

Packaged in a unique pressurized container, Touch 'n Foam® Instant Insulation® is easily applied with just the touch of a finger. The dispenser delivers the correct amount of insulation for each individual job, and the extension adapter allows application in areas that cannot be reached with other insulating products.

As economical as it is easy to apply, one 12-ounce can of Touch 'n Foam® Instant Insulation® yields up to two and a half gallons of cured foam, providing more sealing power than 25 tubes of caulk.

Build your own sun deck

Spring is the time when families want to get outside to enjoy the improving weather, but the grass and garden can still be damp.

Thoughts may then turn to building a patio---somewhere reliable sound underfoot and lending itself to decorative tubs, boxes and hanging baskets.

Most people extend out a paved area from the back of the house, but if sunshine is the main reason for building a patio, you need to work out the site more carefully. Ideally, the patio should face south or west to get the best of the sun's warmth and light. If not, then consider building it at the side of the house or even at the bottom of the garden.

A "sun deck" away from the house could actually be a lot quieter as well and there's no need to feel cut off if the phone rings. Invest in a cordless phone to take with you while sunbathing. If you want to make the patio secluded by building trellises or fencing, you should also ensure that you don't block out sunshine as well as prying eyes.

Another point in finalizing plans is the view from you patio. Keep in mind any particular views you should also screen out any views you want to hide.

The choice of a patio floor is another matter to consider. Concrete will last longer, but slabs tend to look neater and more attractive. Both could be messy if placed to close to a leaf or berry-shedding tree.

You do have the option to use the patio for entertaining and barbecues. This project is a great way to get back into the great outdoors earlier than usual.

Tips to lessen dangers in home

By Jeff Keller

(NU)—Do you know someone who has fallen from a ladder? Slipped in the shower? Closed a door on a finger? Bumped their head against an overhang?

Chances are you know people who have done all these things and have received other injuries in their homes. The majority of accidents happen in the home.

Here are some tips to lessen the dangers:

- Keep hallways and stairs well lighted and clear of objects. If stairs have carpet, make sure it is secure. Every stairway should have at least one continuous railing. Remove throw rugs from landings.
- Doors should open, close and lock properly. Windows and screens also need to be checked.
- When working from a ladder, avoid overreaching. Keep your hips within the vertical rails of the ladder.
- Install night lights in bedrooms. Don't pile laundry in an area where people frequently walk.
- In the bathroom, never operate electrical gadgets near water. In the tub, use a mat or install a durable anti-slip material to keep your balance. 3M's Safety Walk treads and strips come in clear and white. Other kinds are available for stairs, ladders and even to place beneath your shoes.
- Scalding water can cause serious burns. Check the water temperature and lower it to 120 degrees F. Never leave children unattended in a tub or pool.
- Open buckets of water and liquid/semi-paste building materials should not be left unattended. Young children are curious, and they can fall in head first.

Experts share tips on medicare

As Congress muddles ways to cut the $178 billion Medicare spends each year, seniors who depend on the federal program struggle with their own puzzle: how to be certain they receive appropriate benefits, and at the same time, avoid overpayments caused by paperwork glitches.

To help traverse the medicare and insurance maze, Adele Ballis and Judy Pearl, principals in Senior Service Systems, a Chicago-based company that helps seniors and their adult children file medical insurance claims, pay bills, and reconcile bank statements, offer these valuable tips:

1.) Ask your doctor if he or she accepts Medicare assignment.

2.) Understand the benefits your are entitled to from Medicare and any supplemental insurance policy.

3.) If you're being wooed by an HMO, prepare a list of questions before making a final decision.

4.) Keep insurance policy numbers on hand at all times.

5.) Make a list of all medical bills, then prepare a form to track payments made to your physician or hospital by Medicare or your supplemental insurance.

6.) If Medicare denies a claim, don't give up.

7.) Reduce your out-of-pocket prescription expenses.

8.) Get on a first-name basis with your doctor's receptionist.

"It's ironic that one of the most confusing procedures we encounter is one reserved for our older years," says Pearl. "Medicare and insurance forms are particularly perplexing because seniors may be sick or disabled, grieving for a lost spouse, or understandable confused about the whole procedure. Additionally, adult children may be too busy to step in, equally in the dark on Medicare, or hesitant to handle the conflict that often erupts when discussing financial matters with a parent."

Senior Service Systems is located at 4170 N. Marine Dr., Suite 13L, Chicago, IL 60613. Phone (312) 975-1313.

Dr. John Baron

Dr. Baron returns to Little Company's staff

Little Company of Mary Hospital and Health Care Centers is proud to announce the return of Dr. John W. Baron to its department of Medicine. Dr. Baron, who has been on Little Company's Medical Staff since 1965, took a hiatus from private practice to pursue a law degree while also serving as the Hospital's Vice President of Medical Affairs. Most recently, Dr. Baron was Medical Director for a large physician group practice in the south Chicagoland area. Dr. Baron's new private practice of general Internal Medicine is located in the Mary Potter Physician Pavilion, 2850 W. 95th Street, Suite 210, Evergreen Park, and can be reached at (708) 422-0091.

A graduate of Loyola's Stritch School of Medicine, Dr. Baron advocates preventive health care and screenings, and believes patients should participate with their physician in directing their care.

Dr. Baron utilizes his twenty years experience in treating cancer patients to make his patients feel comfortable and at ease.

In addition to his role as a Board Certified Internist, Dr. Baron is a licensed member of the Illinois Bar Association. His expertise in law specifically concentrates on health issues, such as living wills, durable power of attorney, and patient rights.

Dr. Baron welcomes new and former patients. He can be reached by calling his office/ 24 hour answering service at (708) 422-0091.

Little Company's Home Care moves off site

Little Company of Mary Hospital and Health Care Centers announces the relocation of its Home Based Services to 9800 Southwest Highway, Oak Lawn, IL.

"Over the past four years, home Based Services has experienced an increase in patients. We've added IV therapy services and psychiatric care services, which add to out continuum of care in the home," said Peg Radakovitz, R.N., Director of Little Company's Home Based Services.

Little Company's Home Based Services will also continue to provide personalized home care in the following: skilled nursing, hospice, speech therapy, occupational therapy, physical therapy, medical social workers, home health aides, and homemaker services. The staff includes 35 registered nurses and 100 certified nurses aides, plus 50 therapists who work with the team.

Hand held computers are also a new service which will go on-line this summer to ensure quality of care for Little Company's home care patients. Staff nurses will clinically document the patient's demographics electronically, making it readily available to other medical staff members, including the patient's physician.

Our home care intake nurses will remain on-site at the hospital to ensure a smooth transition for patients from the hospital into home care. For more information, please call (708) 229-HOME.

Students help needy people

Nine students and two staff members of Saint Xavier University headed to Nazareth Farm of the Appalachian Mountains over spring break this past March as part of a volunteer effort to provide service to the poor families of the West Virginia mountains. Students helped with house construction and repair, painting and carpentry.

The main goals of the one-week journey were twofold: The rural poor of Appalachia benefited from the assistance in improving their everyday living situations; and students obtained a truly unique experience by volunteering to service the less fortunate.

Nazareth Farm is a small Christian community in West Virginia. They have committed themselves to one another and have dedicated their lives to assist the rural poor of the Appalachia. Since 1979, they invited people to take part in their community.

Inside or Outside?

Trustees discuss renewing baseball clubs lease

By Carlene O' Connor

Inside or outside? That was the question about the Oak Lawn Baseball Association display of advertisement. The signs posted at the 99th Street and Central Avenue were asked by the board, "If they could be more sightly for neighboring resident."

Action was postponed for one month until the June 20 meeting. Trustees will decide then if they are going to renew the baseball clubs lease on the property.

Baseball leaders secure these signs from area businessmen to sponsor youth teams they object that the signs face inward toward the fields.

Members of the baseball league said, "it will mean a $20,000 year loss to the club if they must face inward."

Trustee Striet (District 3) said, "We really don't view them as advertising. We view them as contributions to Oak Lawn baseball. But, we must be sensitive to everyone's needs."

Trying to compromise, Trustee Holesha suggested, making all signs a uniform size.

Trustee Stancik brought up the White Sox and said, "Make it like a baseball diamond as they do with the former players.

All input is invited at the June 11 meeting at 8 p.m. at the village hall.

Board approves renovation of Cook School

By Carlene O'Connor

Oak Lawn Village Board gave $350,000 to the park district, May 14, towards the renovation of Cook School.

The projects total cost is $2,336,400 and the remainder $1,986,400 must be paid by the park district.

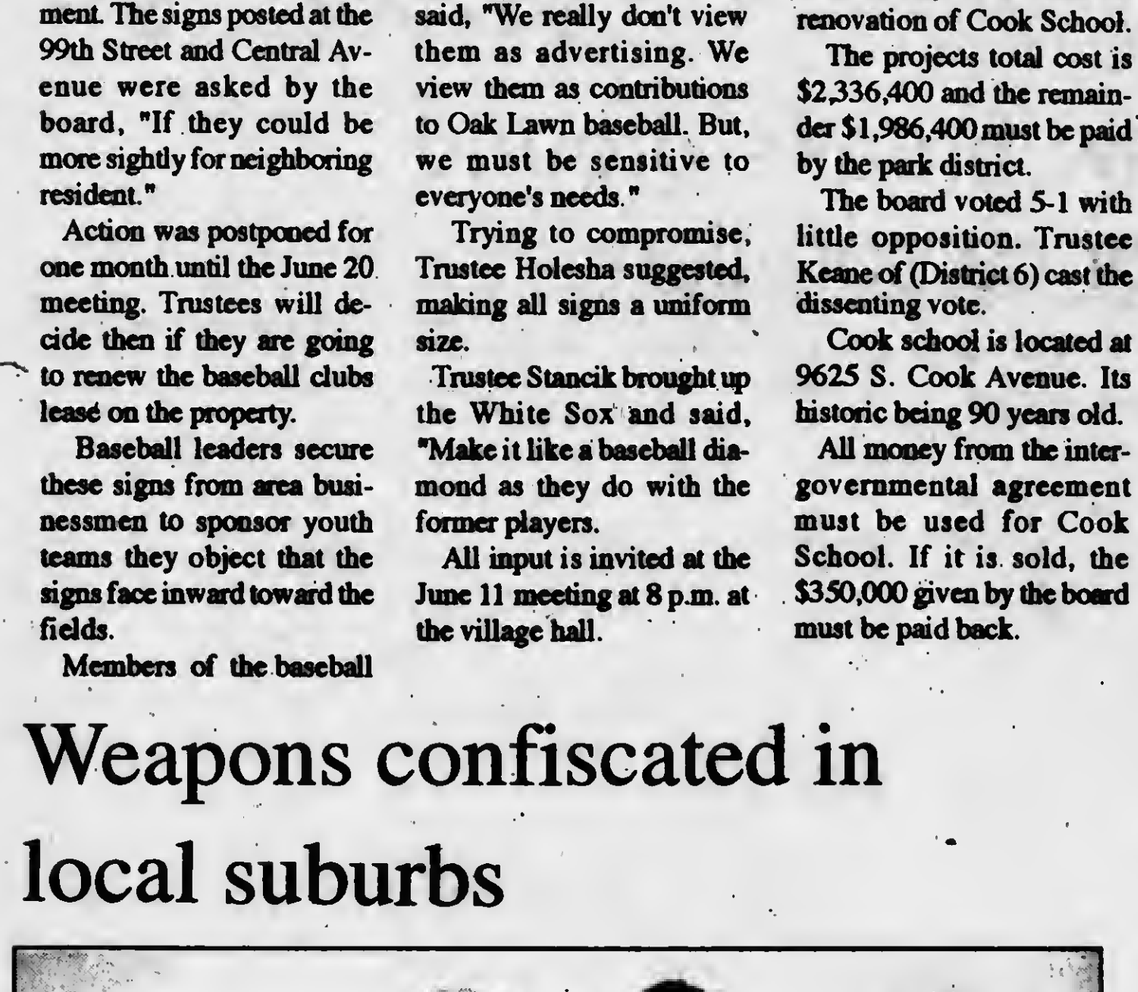
The board voted 5-1 with little opposition. Trustee Keane of (District 6) cast the dissenting vote.

Cook school is located at 9625 S. Cook Avenue. Its historic being 90 years old.

All money from the intergovernmental agreement must be used for Cook School. If it is sold, the $350,000 given by the board must be paid back.

The United Homeowners/Good Government Party of Evergreen Park had a fundraiser for Protect Land and Nature (P.L.A.N.) on May 19, 1996. Many people were there including Jim Sexton P.L.A.N. Chairman, Village Clerk; Jeff Layhe, President of the Good Government Party; Mayor Anthony Vacco, State Representative Maureen Murphy and Senator Patrick O'Malley.

Weapons confiscated in local suburbs



Cook County Sheriff Michael F. Sheahan and Sheriff's Police Chief William Burke examine a sawed-off shot gun that was confiscated during a recent Sheriff's Police operation that targeted drug sales in the south and southwest suburbs. The undercover operation resulted in the arrest of 37 suspects who were caught selling and purchasing drugs in nine different suburban taverns.

Evergreen Park goes to court against Centrum

By Carlene O'Connor

On Monday, May 6, Evergreen Park Attorney Vincent Cainkar reported that they will go to court against Centrum Properties. The dispute is over the proposed shopping center being built on Evergreen Cemetery.

Judge Ried will hold court on November 12-15.

Centrum filed a lawsuit after they were denied their request to rezone 30 acres of the cemetery at 87th Street and Kedzie Avenue. They wanted to build a shopping center anchored by a Target and a Menard's.

At the residents request, Ross and Hardies a Chicago based law firm will be assisting the village's defense.

Pretrial discovery date is October 21.

International Latin stars perform in Chicago

WTAQ "La Mexicana" 1300AM in conjunction with the Mayor's Office of Special Events, is proud to sponsor Viva Chicago '96, one of the largest free Latin Music Festivals in the midwest.

Viva Chicago celebrates Latino's rich heritage and contributions in arts, music politics and education. This special event is sure to gather more than 100,000 people that will experience the uniqueness of the Latin culture.

Participants can enjoy a two-day music extravaganza featuring popular Latin performers such as: Mestizzo, Grupo Modelo, Maria Jose, Oscar D'Leon, La Gran Familia, Tito Puente and Ana Barbara among others. Families can also enjoy rides, games, food and visit promotional booths.

Viva Chicago will run from May 25th through May 26 at Chicago's lakefront.

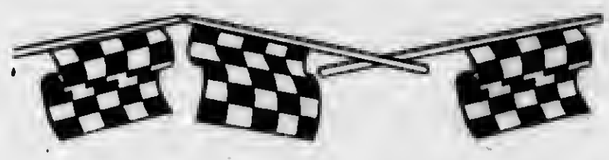
Cook County Sheriff Michael F. Sheahan (right) recently announced the appointment of 35 sergeants in the Sheriff's Court Services Department. Among those promoted were Sergeant Josephine Vogwill Oak Lawn.



Bridgeview breaks ground for 50 year celebration

The Village of Bridgeview will remember their past heroes and embrace their future on Monday, May 27, with a memorial remembrance and ground breaking celebration to kickoff Bridgeview's golden anniversary of incorporation that begins in January 1997. The ceremony will start at 1 p.m. at the grounds of the future festival site, 103rd Street at 76th Avenue in Bridgeview.

It is our pleasure to salute Village veterans, who through their heroic service have earned for us this great country we call home. Every Village Veteran who signs in before the service, will be recognized and honored at our ceremony. Sign-in sheets will be available at the entranceway. Every veteran that attends will be honored by name and will receive a memento of thanks.

The coming events highlighting Bridgeview's 50 years of Progress will be listed in detail as they become available. our present list includes a four to six-day festival featuring a circus, entertainment, beer garden, food gallery, carnival, craft show, automobile speciality show, several card shows, and fire works' extravaganza, to be scheduled in the summer of 1997. The celebration of 50 years of progress will begin in January, and continue with many activites throughout the year.

Mayor Oremus invites everyone to the Memorial Day celebration Monday, May 27, 1996.

It starts at 11 a.m. at the future celebration site on the corner of 103rd Street and 76th Avenue.

News from the police department which is actually old news, but something to look out for is cars parked on the street between the hours of 2 a.m. and 6 a.m. will be ticketed. Violations will result in a $15 fine which goes up to $30 after 10 days.

The park district is in the planning stage of the "Wetlands." Steve Landek referred to the site of the 11 acres of land north of Bridgeview Court Shopping Center. A court settlement with Melvin Simon and Associates yielded Bridgeview residents 33 acres which will be developed for Park District use.

Questions and comments are welcome. If you would like to express your views the mayor's office can be contacted at 458-5405.

1996 Memorial Day Concert

(NAPS)—A poignant look at the wartime contribution of women on the homefront is a special focus of this year's National Memorial Day Concert, consistently rated one of PBS's top performance programs. The annual 90-minute broadcast event, which airs live from the west lawn of the U.S. Capitol in Washington, D.C., will also pay special tribute to the many disabled veterans who have made great sacrifices in the service of their country.

The unique holiday concert blends live musical performances and dramatic readings with archival footage to create a stirring multi-dimensional television event.

"The ever-increasing heartfelt responses we receive from veterans and viewers across the country each year is testament to the broadcast's ability—with the help of an outstanding collection of musical and dramatic talent—to honor the memory and the legacy of every person who has put his or her life on the line for freedom."

The holiday special airs on Sunday, May 26, at 8.00 PM. (Check your local listings.)

Volunteer applications now being accepted for U.S. Senior Open

The Chicagoland area has a rich golf history. In addition to dozens of country clubs and beautiful golf courses, Chicagoans each year have the opportunity to be a spectator at annual stops on the PGA and USGA tour. But in 1997, golf fans will have a unique opportunity to be part of the first major golf championship in Chicago in seven years--by volunteering at the 18th United States Senior Open Championship.

Organizers of the 1997 U.S. Senior Open are now accepting applications for volunteers for the event, which will run from June 23-29 at Olympia Fields Country Club in south suburban Chicago. The Championship is seeking 2,500 volunteers many of whom will have the opportunity to work inside the ropes and close to the players.

From the practice range to the 18th hole, there are 43 different committees which require volunteer assistance. In some cases, people can use their expertise in a volunteer capacity such as staffing the medical tent, constructing various components of the Championship or performing office duties. Other committees are seeking golf fans who can assist with players' and caddies' needs, admissions, scoring and hospitality.

Each volunteer is required to work a minimum of 16 hours during the tournament and purchase a volunteer package. The package (which costs $125) includes two logoed shirts (which are offered exclusively to volunteers), a straw hat, a sweater or a jacket, admission to the Championship all week, volunteer parking and meals during work shifts.

Volunteer applications can be obtained by calling the Championship office at (708) 748-6322 or by writing to:

POWERFUL PRAYER TO THE HOLY SPIRIT

Holy Spirit, You Who solves all problems. Who lights all roads so that I can attain my goal. You Who gives me the divine gift to forgive and to forget all evil against me and that in all instances of my life You are with me. I want in this short prayer to thank You for all things and to confirm once again that I never want to be separated from You even and in spite of all material illusion. I wish to be with You in eternal glory. Thank You for Your mercy toward me and mine.

The person must say this prayer for 3 consecutive days. After 3 days the favor requested will be granted even if it may appear difficult. This prayer must be published immediately after the favor is granted without mentioning the favor. only your initials should appear at the bottom.

McAuley music teacher to attend workshop in Austria

Phyllis Karge of the Mother McAuley Music Department, is the 1996 recipient of the Mother McAuley High School Board of Trustees Professional Development Award. The award will enable her to attend the International String Workshop in Graz, Austria this summer. The workshop offers a wide variety of classes that include teaching skills, principles of ensembles, Beethoven seminars, Dounis diagnostics, computer-mini keyboard technology, orchestra bowing and tuning, Mozart concertos, Jazz improv and cello choir.

The city of Graz is, and always has been noted for its classical music. Visitors to churches, cathedrals and concert halls experience the same atmosphere in which some of our greatest composers performed their most famous works. Of her award, Mrs. Karge commented, "Going to Graz is a dream come true. Just as painters want to go to France, musicians want to go to the 'cradle' of music, and Austria is one of the 'cradles'."

Mrs. Karge, a 17 year veteran at McAuley, instructs students in Beginning Strings, Chamber Ensemble, Instrumental Techniques, Advanced String Ensemble, and is the Assistant Director of the Orchestra. She has been a violinist with the Southwest Symphony for more than 20 years and is currently section leader. In addition, she plays with the Northwest Indiana Symphony, and performs in many other large and small ensembles. Mrs. Karge holds an Associate Arts Degree from Moraine Valley, a Bachelor of Music in Education from Roosevelt University.

Isreal - Jordan: Access easier than ever

The opening of the border between Israel and its peace partner, Jordan, continues to result in travel developments unthinkable only a few years ago. The latest are four new developments in transportation between the neighboring countries, making the crossing a breeze for travelers and residents.

- Israelis can now drive their own cars into Jordan - via the Arava Terminal in southern Israel and Jordan, near to Eilat and Aqaba. There are no traffic jams yet due to the whopping $200 fee levied to cover various insurance and government-required documents.
- Royal Jordanian Airlines flies into Tel Aviv twice a week.
- El Al Israel Airlines has direct flights to Amman, Jordan and will make the 20-minute flight from Tel Aviv five times a week.
- Regular bus service will start between Eilat and Aqaba for a mere $1.50.

FOOD FOR 'SECONDS'

Would-be-engineer crafts his culinary art

By Anita Anderson

Preparing culinary works of art that cater to the taste buds as well as the eye can't be compared to the artistic isolationism of Vincent Van Gogh.

Chef Thomas Kaminski of Chicago's artistic new restaurant, Palette's* at 1030 North State Street in Chicago once had to deal with a 50-pound sack of flour that spilled all over his kitchen just before the dinner crowd. And once he ordered a grand sampling of the finest, freshest fish in Houston, Texas when he was a chef at the Omni Houston. The order only arrived minutes before the party began.

We took it all in our stride," Kaminski said. "We even got the fish cleaned and prepped and served on time."

Kaminski has been the chef at Palette's for about one year. He's been a chef for 12 years. In Houston he pondered a career as a mechanical engineer and was two semesters away from his engineering degree. The culinary arts won and today, Thomas is happy with his decision.

"Julia Child made all of us aware of good food and the importance of using the fresh produce and herbs at hand," the chef said. "I try to intensify natural flavors. Most of our veggies except for carrots which we boil, ever see water. I roast most of the vegetables and incorporate olive oil, shallots and herbs (thyme is my favorite) in their preparation," he added.

Palette's most popular entre according to...is paella.

As for dessert the double-chocolate bread pudding is a big favorite. Kaminski has daily specials and on the day we spoke he offered diners a fresh halibut with citrus butter and soft shelled crabs. His potato crab cakes appetizers get raves.

Even chefs must take time to dream. Kaminski's dream? A 75-seat restaurant somewhere, maybe Texas, where he will rule supreme in the kitchen and let his culinary imagination take flight.

Following are the recipes for the bread pudding, an easy appetizer using tomato and fresh mozzarella and a lamb entre.

Palette's by the way appeals to the romantics out there. Jazz pianist Don Drumm entertains evenings. The walls at the restaurant are covered with the most interesting of art works which makes for visually as well as sensual dining.

Dave Green, a classic standard jazz pianist performs Wednesday through Saturday.

As usual prices at this unique restaurant are affordable and well worth a trip for suburbanites into the city. Parking is available in a garage inside the building which houses Palette's.

Call Heinz Kern for reservations at 312-440-5200.

Double Chocolate Bread and Butter Pudding

3 qts.	whole milk
3	whole eggs
4	egg yolks
8 oz.	sugar
1 lb.	semisweet dark chocolate (chopped)
1 lb.	white chocolate (chopped)
1 tbsp.	vanilla

Toasted French Bread - the bread should be 1/2" cube toss with melted butter and toasted golden brown and cooled.

Bring milk to a boil. Combine eggs, egg yolks and sugar. Temper egg mixture with hot milk. Add vanilla and cool down mixture in a ice water bath.

Place toasted bread and both chocolates in a mixing bowl and pour egg mixture over and let soak about 10 minutes or until bread is soft. First place meatball recipe wins creator a dinner for 50

Debra Ramsay of Northbrook was among the 1,300 contestants that submitted meatball recipes to the Maggiano's Little Italy Third Annual "Mother's Day Meatball Contest." Her recipe "blossomed" with two heads of roasted garlic and sun dried tomatoes. A panel of judges awarded Ramsay the exciting first prize, a dinner for 50 companions at any of Maggiano's Little Italy Restaurants in Chicago at 516 N. Clark St., 240 Oak Brook Center in Oakbrook or The Eatery in Skokie at 175 Old Orchard Center.

Only original meatball recipes were accepted. Executive chef, Jonathan Fox reviewed all recipes and selected ten semifinalists from each area. Judges selected nine original recipes at the Clark Street Maggiano's on April 27. Following are the top meatball winners.

Debra Ramsay. Executive Chef Jonathan Fox.

FIRST PLACE Sun-Dries Tomato, Provolone Cheese, Roasted Garlic Meatballs

Source: Debra Ramsay

INGREDIENTS FOR 4 SERVINGS:

2 heads	roasted garlic
1/2 tsp.	salt
1 lb.	ground chuck
3/4 cup	grated provolone
1/2 oz.	chopped, fresh basil
3 tbsp..	finely chopped sun-dried tomatoes packed in oil, blotted with paper towels
1/2 cup	cubed, day old Italian bread, crust removed, soaked in milk, squeezed and firmly packed

INSTRUCTIONS:

375•, roast garlic. Slice tops off garlic heads, drizzle with olive oil. Roast for about an hour.

Mash roasted garlic cloves with 1/2 tsp. salt to form a paste.

Mix all ingredients well and form into meatballs.

Cook meatballs in enough tomato sauce to cover for about 1 1/2 hours.

SECOND PLACE Corpulent Capones

Source: Sonya Miller

2 tbsp.	unsalted butter
1-2 cloves	garlic, minced
1 lb.	ground veal
1/2 lb.	hot or mild Italian sausage - removed from casing
1/2 lb.	ricotta cheese
1/4 lb.	marscapone
1/4-1/3 cup	parmesan reggiano or imported romano cheese grated
1/2 tsp.	ground nutmeg
1 1/2-2 cups	fresh bread crumbs
2 large	eggs
1-10 ox.	bag fresh spinach trimmed and washed
salt and pepper	to taste
6 cups	beef stock
4-6 tbsp.	olive oil

Saute onions and garlic in 1 tbsp. olive oil and 2 tbsp. of melted butter at medium heat until transparent. While onions saute, place rinsed spinach in pot with only the water clinging to the leaves.

Cover and cook over medium heat turning twice to promote wilting. Remove as soon as spinach wilts and run under cold water. Drain and wring out spinach well. Chop to medium coarse.

Combine the two meats and pulse 3-4 times, add onion mix, and spinach and pulse to combine. transfer to a bowl and add in the next six ingredients. Salt and pepper to taste. Blend well

Wet your hands slightly to facilitate molding meat into balls. Refrigerate for about 30 minutes. Bring the stock to a boil. Heat the olive oil to 325-350•. Drop 6-8 meatballs in the stock and cook until they rise to the surface. Drain and place in the hot olive oil and brown on all sides. Repeat with remaining meatballs.

Serve with your favorite marinara and garlic bread.

I am pleased to congratulate all of those who helped obtain the stop and go light at 113th and Western Avenue. The support of the petition drive and efforts of all concerned have achieved safe passage across a dangerous and deadly crossing, "for all ages."

"Angel's Crossing" is a fine example of a community working together for the common good. The spirit of cooperation is alive and well in Mt. Greenwood.

Mayor Richard M. Daley and Alderman Ginger Rugai announce a special 19th ward City Services "Blitz" May 28-31st with a bulk pick-up on June 1st.

City Services Blitz will include: Graffiti removal, abandoned car towing, street lighting, rodent control services and street sweeping.

To make these services as effective as possible, residents should report any service needs immediately so the work can be scheduled in advance.

If you know of a specific need for any of these services, please call 744-5000, as soon as possible.

The Mt. Greenwood Salvation Army will hold its third annual Rummage Sale, Car Wash, Aluminum Can and Newspaper Drive on Saturday, May 25 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. There will be baked goods and a hot dog lunch available along with some crafts. The proceeds from this day will go towards summer camp fees for a group attending camp in Norway.

If you have rummage to donate drop it off in the office, 11355 S. Central Park Avenue.

For more information, call 445-4377.

Alderman Ginger Rugais office has announced that the railroad crossing on the 3000 block of west 111th Street will be closed for construction.

The closure will occur between Monday, May 13 and May 24th. An alternative route of 103rd Street or 115th Street is recommended.

For information call 238-8766.

License plate bill funds fire fighter memorial

A memorial honoring Illinois Fire Fighters is one step closer to reality with the passage of Senate Bill 817, creating a Fire Fighter Memorial License Plate, according to House sponsor State representative Anne Zickus (R-48, Palos Hills).

During House debate, Rep. Zickus stated the memorial would honor all who have so valiantly served our state. "This memorial is to honor all fire fighters who have made the extreme sacrifice and were killed in the line of duty," said Zickus. They risk their lives on a daily basis to protect ours. This memorial will ensure their sacrifices will not be forgotten and is dedicated to their memory."

The money raised by the Illinois Fire Fighter Memorial License Plates will provide the funding for the Fire Fighters Memorial to be erected in an area already designated on the Capitol grounds.

Theatre Alive

By Georgean Fitzgerald

The hit musical comedy, FOREVER PLAID, has entered its second year of performance at Chicago's Royal George Cabaret Theater at 1641 N. Halsted Street. It was merely a coincidence that we were in the audience to see this most entertaining review and to celebrate the beginning of a second year's run. Under the direction of its original creator, Stuart Ross, FOREVER PLAID is a tribute to the "guy groups" of the 40's and 50's that transports the audience through time. It brings music of beautifully sung hits, nostalgic and warmhearted but hilarious comedy from a forties-fifties quartet to the 90's The musical continuity, and the vocal and instrumental arrangement was created by the late James Raitt.

It follows the journey of a semiprofessional harmony group, "The Four Plaids", who were cut short by an unfortunate accident of the night of its first "gig" in 1964. En route to pick up their custom-made plaid tuxedos, they were slammed broadside by a bus. No, they are not caught in a 'time-warp', but these "teen angels" are allowed one night to do the show they never got to do in life.

This was a period when four-part guy groups harmonized their way across the airwaves, jukeboxes, and hi-fi's across the country. Throughout the land they would stand at a quartet of microphones, crooning a multitude of chaperoned promgoers into dreamy romance. They wore dinner jackets and bow ties, or perhaps cardigans and white bucks, as in the Four Lads, The Four Aces, The Four Freshman, The Hi-lo's, and the Crew Cuts.

Featuring such classic pop hits as "Three Coins in the Fountain," "Love is a Many Splendored Thing," "Undecided", and "Day-O", they alternate solos such songs as "Heart and Soul", "Anniversary Song", "Temptation," and "Dream Along With Me" with chorus numbers "Gotta Be This or That", "Perfidia", "Matilda", and "Lady of Spain", to mention a few and all designed and choreographed to enhance the show successfully.

While the "Plaids" perform admirably, they also are top-notch actors, and superb comedians. Their comedic timing is tremendous, and the bits of business harkens back to some of the dialog and humorous sequences of past comedy teams like Olson and Johnson, Jack Benny and Mary, George Burns and Gracie Allen, and even Laurel and Hardy! For example, the audience comes to expect the bass singer not to be in "sync" after raising the wrong hand or moving in the opposite direction from the other three "plaids" several times. This same 'shtick' is repeated enough here and there so that the audience comes to expect it, and begin laughing as the action builds. Oh, yes, the audience is 'with' this group from the "git-go".

Starring in this all-Chicago cast are Scot Fedderly as "Jinx", Fred Goudy as "Smudge," "Sparky" played by Sean Krill and "Frankie" played by Greg Walter. This glorious blend or gorgeous singing, and goofy comedy plays for one hour and forty minutes... No intermission.

Beginning its second year at the Royal George Theater, FOREVER PLAID, first opened Off-Broadway in May of 1990, and has been selling out all over the world ever since.

For tickets, call the box office: 312-988-9000, and at all Ticketmaster locations. Parking is one door north of the theater.

Starring in this all-Chicago cast are Scot Fedderly as "Jinx", Fred Goudy as "Smudge," "Sparky" played by Sean Krill and "Frankie" played by Greg Walter.

Bridgeview officials honor soldiers

By Carlene O'Connor

On Memorial Day Bridgeview officials, residents, and visitors celebrated their heroes in a ceremony at 103rd Street and 76th Avenue.

It was rainy and cold but, this did not dampen anyone's spirit.

Every village resident who signed on the veteran's sheet was honored. They received applause of gratitude by the village and were given a memento of thanks.

It was a special day. Remember in your heart:

"It was the soldier not the reporter who has given us freedom of the press. It is the soldier, not the poet who has given us freedom of speech. It is the soldier, who salutes the flag who serves beneath the flag who allows the protest to burn the flag."

Anonymous

Keep this in mind when looking at the flag. Bridgeview welcomes you to all future activities celebrating their 50 years of progress.

Oak Lawn Police adds Canine Patrol

By Carlene O'Connor

Oak Lawn will add a canine patrol to its police department this summer. This will assist officers in finding missing persons as well as drug evidence.

No tax money was spent for the new patrol. Funds from narcotics raids that were confiscated will pay for the project.

The cost of the dog and to train its master is $4,536. A new squad car, a Ford Crown Victoria will be necessary at an additional cost of $19,800.

At the meeting on Tuesday, May 28, Mayor Kolb said that they have received a $450,000 state grant to build a gun range in the basement of police headquarters.

Attention residents of Oak Lawn

All are invited to attend a meeting discussing the future of Polaris School on June 4 at 7:30 in the school's cafeteria. All input is welcome about the future of this property.

Village buys more real estate in TIF district

By Carlene O'Connor

Oak Lawn decided in executive session Tuesday to buy all of the 2.9 acre triangle of land that was remaining at 95th Street and 52nd Avenue. The property is the site of a future Harris Bank and retail stores.

Trustees voted 5-1 to pay $500,000 for a Shell Gas Station at 5101 W. 95th Street. Trustee Streit cast the only opposition vote.

The village is in the process of finalizing deals where they paid $800,000. These were the Safeman Store 5163 W. 95th and the building at 5165-67 which is Ready to Mix Furniture and a Remax Realty.

The project for construction of Harris Bank is set for Spring of '97. Costs for the real estate project are out of revenues generated by the site's tax increment financing district.

Kolb thanked State Senators Patrick O'Malley, Robert Raica and State Representatives Maureen Murphy and Anne Zickus for their hard work in securing the money for the project.

GOP in Evergreen open new headquarter

Republican committeeman for Worth Township, Honorable Maureen Murphy opened by thanking those present and acknowledging the candidates for the November election.

Honorable Murphy also acknowledge her husband Jack Murphy, trustee of Evergreen Park and said, "I want to thank my husband and best friend."

Village of Evergreen plans mission

By Carlene O'Connor

Fred Shannon, Evergreen Park Planning Commission Chairman gave the commission's vision statement to the board at the Monday Village meeting.

The following points were outlined by Shannon:

1.) Economic development to attract new business, help existing ones to stay, and attract more commerce.

2.) Resident participation.

3.) Education about the schools and how tax dollars go to pay for them.

4). Preservation of green space and ways to use undeveloped land.

5.) Housing.

6.) Image, showing the advantages of the village

7.) Parking - Providing enough for businesses without hurting the residents.

8.) Services and facilities which are public will be advertised and made available.

9.) Safety especially for emergencies.

10.) Revenues including long term planning.

11.) Transportation - Keeping traffic steady without infringing on the residents.

All are invited to the next workshop, June 23, at Mary Potter Pavilion at Little Company of Mary Hospital. Dr. Charles Shanabuick from St. Xavier will speak and be on hand from 9 a.m. - 2 p.m.

The commission is relatively new and invites input of long term community development.

OL boasts access to capital

Oak Lawn Village Mayor Ernest Kolb announced that the Village of Oak Lawn Load Programs are highly successful. The combined total of approved loans topped $2,000,000. "The Revolving Loan Program has made $1,000,000 in loads available to Oak Lawn businesses in the past year", stated Mayor Kolb.

The Revolving Loan Program is geared to Oak Lawn business capital development. In addition to the Revolving Loan program Oak Lawn also offers Business Development Loans through local participating banks.

This program offers loans from $20,000 to $250,000 for Capital Development projects.

Mayor Kolb credits much of the success of the programs to the local commercial banks for their leadership and performance in the Business Loan Program. "The partnership between Oak Lawn, local business and financial institutions is another indication of the solid growth of our business community." Mayor Kolb added.

For more information contact James Webb, at 708-499-7821.

Notice to all Bridgeview residents

Youth Federation for World Peace

By Annette Dixon

Recently, representatives of the Unification Church from 164 countries gathered in Washington, D.C. to meet for the second World Congress. Fifty-five countries of Africa, plus countries within South America, North America and Europe were represented!

Reverend and Mrs. Sun Myung Moon both gave a speech which encouraged the representatives to bring the knowledge of how to encourage youth to "Work toward realizing world peace and unity based upon love and Godism and to work to assure the prosperity and happiness of all humanity."

The president of the University of Bridgeport, Connecticut was introduced to the attendees who is Dr. Richard Rubenstein. He stated that in 1992 the University had a debt, but in 1995 thanks to Rev. Moon that debt was corrected. Rev. Moon owns The Washington Times and 26 South American newspapers, also Atlantic Video.

Rev. Moon was concerned about Washington's only liberal press and therefore spent over 2 billion dollars by purchasing and developing the conservative Washington Times. The next time you are in Washington take a tour at the Times Complex and you'll be surprised at its size.

The Times situated on 26.5 acres of land and built next to the Arboretum holds the attention of its workers and gives them a scenic view!

George Bush was introduced by Cong. Tom Davis (R-VA). Bush stated, "Strange things happen when voting in the presidential years, I am unemployed and also a past president."

It was interesting watching organized religion with their representatives receiving accolades from Rev. Moon and the Unification Church.

Also included as a representative in the Youth Federation was a representative from the Vatican! A good example of educated and religious individuals are the representatives of the Unification Church. Over six million people will go to New York for the blessing (renewing of vows or getting married in 1997).These individuals will accept the teaching of Rev. Moon and will accept their new spouse. Being matched is not the same as days past! One may take a spouse by meeting or being introduced years before and thereby get to know one another before the blessing occurs.

All wear a silver ring with an emblem on it. They wear the ring on their 2nd finger on the right hand in order to indicate their acceptance to this religion. The ring is usually worn at special events.

Rev. Moon is to be credited for starting a religion which is only 40 years old and has a following of millions in which he originally started spreading his word in the countries of South Korea, North Korea, the USA and all 164 countries.

Library board elects new officers

In its annual election of officers, May 21, the Oak Lawn Public Library board elected Robert Honkisz, president; Marian Sullivan, vice president; Lee Stein, secretary; and Patricia Roberts, treasurer. Shirley Barrett, Joan Buschbach and Lois Gasteyer are trustees.

The board set 7:30 p.m. the third Tuesday of each month as its regular meeting day and time. The board meets in the Oak Lawn Rotary Room, lower level of the library, 5300 W. 95th St.

The board approved Friday, Dec. 6, as an inservice training time for staff. The library will be closed all day. For the past several years, a library staff committee has planned an implemented complete programs based on staff issues and needs to better serve patrons. Key lecturers and instructors have been featured, along with basic instruction, new techniques and general service. The board approved a contract for $5,000 with architect, Gilfillan and Callahan for the development of decorating and color coordination for library furnishings at the time the remodeling is completed and the building ready for new furniture and carpet.

In regular business, the board approved payment of $45,368 for library materials; $35,261 for general operating expenses; and $130,697 for personnel.

Circulation statistics for the month of April indicated that circulation was down only slightly due to Village Green construction. The grand total for the year to date (January-April) still is up by about 2,000 circulation over 1995.

Board meetings are open to the public.

McAuley Alumne Volleyball League

For years, the Mother McAuley Volleyball Varsity team at Mother McAuley High School has set one record after another. Ten state Volleyball Championship trophies dominate the athletic trophy case at the school. In March, alumnae were invited back to retest their skills with the Alumnae Volleyball League. Returning from a variety of graduation years and backgrounds, alums compete in the new state of the art gymnasium to spike, dig and kill - the ball that is. Some returned with daughter in tow. All had an enjoyable time.

Letters to the Editor

At first glance, the flat tax looks like a great idea, but the more I think about it, the more I wonder if it really is good for middle-class Americans.

There is one good thing about our tax code that should remain a part of any new tax system: it gives incentives for individuals to take personal responsibility for themselves and their families in planning for premature death and retirement.

Tax rules that encourage people to take advantage of Individual Retirement Accounts (IRAs), annuities, life insurance and private pension plans help workers---and their employers---provide for family protection and retirement savings. Where there are rules to encourage people to help themselves, rather than rely on government programs, those rules should be preserved or strengthened.

But the flat tax either reduces or eliminates the incentives for retirement planning and family protection. I fear that without real encouragement to save for the future, families struggling from paycheck to paycheck won't save enough for their retirement, and employers will lose their ability to help their workers through pension plans. It will also strain Social Security and other public programs.

It's ironic that while our leaders tell us that government must shrink, those same leaders tout a tax idea that will probably led to more, not less, reliance on government. I think the flat-tax idea needs to be reexamined. At the very least, it should be reshaped to stimulate long-term savings for retirement and family protection.

Registration open for Career and Job Workshop

Registrations are available for an All Day Career and Job Workshop at the Oak Lawn Public Library, 5300 W. 95th St. The programs is scheduled for 9 a.m. - 3:15 p.m. Saturday, June 22. The day-long session will include three career consultants discussing a variety of job-related topics. This is a new concept presenting a full-day of concentration based on techniques and opportunities for jobs and careers.

First presenter will be Librarian Patti Palmer, former head of the Library's Comprehensive Career Center. Her topic is "Job Search Tips from the Pros." Her section will cover information from the conference of the National Association for Job Search Training. The conference attendees and presenters were career counselors, job search trainers, executive recruiters, authors of career books, etc. Her subjects will include downsizing; networking; looking for a job; Internet sources; marketing yourself; salary negotiations; resources at the Oak Lawn Library.

The second speaker is Bruce Bloom, career advisor who has presented several programs at the library and throughout the area. He will introduce the subject "Writing Effective Electronic Resumes." This is a new area that needs to be explored by career and job seekers. Bloom will include information about using key words and phrases which are often "scanned" when resumes are reviewed by employers. Appropriate formats and other essential basics will be discussed.

Final speaker of the day is Patricia Bach, another career counselor who is popular at libraries throughout the area. Her area of expertise will be "Interviewing Skills."

Cost of the all day session is $10 per person which includes lunch, breaks and all workshop materials. The session is limited to 30 participants. Registration forms are available at the library's General Information Booth on May 28.

Additional information is available from Mary Nelson, public relations and development officer, 708-422-4990.

Zickus' Bill protects child athletes

Legislation was sent to Governor Edgar this week creating the offense of drug induced infliction of aggravated battery of a child athlete. The measure, sponsored by State Representative Anne Zickus (R-48-Palos Hills), was introduced after an incident involving a child athlete, who was encouraged to take a quick weight-loss drug, in order to participate on a local youth football team.

"Currently, it is a violation of the law to give another person a controlled substance, but the law is silent regarding giving or encouraging children to consume non-controlled substances for quick weight loss or gain," said Rep. Zickus. "That is a silence our children can not afford. The law needed to be changed to reflect the new and unfortunate realities of competitive child sports."

The incident that spurred this legislation involved the prescription drug known as Lasix, a strong diuretic drug used mostly by heart patients and race horse owners. House Bill 3617 states that any person, other than a physician, who encourages the ingestion of any drug by a person under the age of 18 or for the purpose of quick weight loss or gain for athletic competition is guilty of a Class A misdemeanor. Any subsequent offenses are Class 4 felonies.

"Organized sports for children are supposed to be character building experienees, not potentially life threatening ones," said Rep. Zickus. "Drugs have no place in children sports."

The measure unanimously passed both chambers of the Illinois General Assembly and is awaiting the Governor's signature.

Oak Lawn Public Library News

Books-on-Tape Discussion Group Open to Public - A group of fans have held several discussion meetings at the Oak Lawn Library, 5300 W. 95th St. focusing on narrators of the tapes rather than stories, plots or characters. Participants have been very enthusiastic and are offering to stage an open meeting at 7 p.m. Thursday, June 13.

The meeting will be held in the library's lower level conference room. Preregistration is not required. Contact Susan Baird for additional information, 708-422-4990.

Friends Host Annual Dinner Meeting - Friends of the Oak Lawn Library are hosting its annual dinner, 6:30 p.m. Thursday, June 6, Old Barn Restaurant, Central Ave., and State Road, Burbank. In addition to a delicious meal, the dinner includes a short business meeting, election of officers, a book raffle and a brief program describing the latest in group discussions based on books on tape.

Cost of the dinner is $12 per person with a choice of entrees: chicken, fish or beef. Those who attend the dinner do not have to be members of the Friends; however, most library lovers want to join to ensure that their memberships will be used for needed library equipment, supplies, programs, services and much more.

FOOD FOR 'SECONDS'

Americans are tired of 'Don't Eat ' messages

By: Anita Anderson

One loud and clear message coming through at the 1996 International Supermarket Industry Convention and Educational Exposition attracting 35,000 people involved in the food business to McCormick Place in early May in Chicago was that customers are tired of "Don't Eat" messages.

The Dietary Guidelines Alliance was formed as a partnership to help consumers better understand how to apply food, nutrition and physical activity in a positive way to their daily lives.

The Alliance will soon publish a handbook with messages and tips for health professionals and nutrition communicators in public and private settings.

Its theme is "It's All About You" and some suggestions to improve your health include: being realistic and only making small changes over time in what you eat and the amount of activity you do. Be adventurous and expand your tastes with new food.

Be flexible. Balance what you eat and the physical activity you take part in over several days and, above all, be sensible, enjoy all food. Just don't overdue. Its last tip: Be active. Walk the dog, don't just watch the dog walk.

Lynn Dornblaser, publisher of New Product News and Bruce Pivarunas, senior vice president of Analytic Consulting Group Information Resources, Inc., teamed up to present "The Hot, The Hip and The Has Beens" for an editors briefing on new hot products in the food industry at one of the Food Marketing Industry seminars.

It came as no surprise when their statistics showed that indulgence. Ben & Jerry's ice cream products answered that need with its frozen yogurt containing three fat grams and ice cream with 16 fat grams.

Findings show that 34% of us are obese, up 25% in ten years and the average adult has gained eight pounds yearly in the last ten years. Also, 40% of adults live a completely sedentary life-style. Dornblaser added, "So much for our health-crazed society."

The top ten largest new food products of '94-'95 (it's too early for 1996) include Frito-Lay Tostitis Salsas, and its Wavy Lays and baked tostitos; Nabisco's Snackwell's Snack Bars; Nestle's Sweet Success Diet Aids; Budweiser Ice Draft; Orville Redenbacher's Reden*Budders; Miller Lite Ice; Nabisco's Chunky Chips Ahoy and Ragu Hearty Spaghetti Sauce.

A total of 16,863 new food products were introduced last year with the largest amount in the condiments followed by new beverages.

Consumers now have about 19,000 products to choose from in the large supermarkets. Low-fat products are at an all-time high in candy bars, Italian meats, ice cream, cookies, dressings, crackers, chips, salty snacks and new variations from Weight Watchers and Lean Cuisine.

Organic products continue to grow in popularity. Salads in a bag are big and getting bigger as are cooked, seasoned poultry cuts for stir frys and salads from Perdue and yogurt drinks in containers shaped to fit car cup holders from Yonique.

Hand-held dough-encased sandwiches such as hot pockets, croissant pockets and Healthy Choice Hearty Handfuls are also big.

Dornblaser and Pivarunas also see coming on strong are products packaged for aging consumers and more variety in beers.

Success is particularly difficult for "new" names in the food business, they noted. The most active benefit areas in terms of new food products activity in the food retailing business were products "better for you" and low in fat and "food on the go", for increased convenience.

Out-of-home food spending is outpacing "at home" and there is a clear trend toward "meals on the go." As home food spending continues to slip in relative importance according to the survey presented by Dornblaser and her associate.

A disturbing statistic cited the fact that only one-third of our public schools have physical activity and 4.7 million American youths, ages 6-17, are severely overweight.

The bottom line and two food forecasts by Dornblaser and Pivarunas were that consumers will be on the lookout for creative convenience-oriented packaging and low-fat indulgence for adults and kids.

Acclaimed chef/author joins the Big Bowl

Bruce Cost

Recognized expert on Asian cuisine and ingredients, author, teacher and restaurateur, Bruce Cost has joined Lettuce Entertain You's Big Bowl, 159 1/2 W. Erie, as culinary guide and partner.

As new partner, Bruce Cost will be involved in many aspects of Big Bowl including, first and foremost, sharing his knowledge and respect for Asian cuisine and its heritage. Acting as an overall positive influence at Big Bowl, his expertise is evident in food presentations, new purveyors, kitchen design and working with Big Bowl Executive Chef Matt McMillin to create new recipes.

Working with Chef McMillin, Cost has created a new menu at Big Bowl, using the cooking techniques, selection of ingredients, presentation concepts and tastes that have brought him national attention and acclaim. Among the new dishes on the new Big Bowl menu are: Dumplings, Soft Shrimp Summer Roll, Glazed Japanese Baby Eggplant and Thai-Herb Golden Calamari. Highlighting the menu are Cost's fresh signature specialty noodles, a variety of Asian noodles introduced by Cost, unique to Chicago. Big Bowl Noodle dishes include Big Rice Noodles with Ginger Garlic Beef, Wok Seared Chicken or Shrimp Chow Fun; Hand-cut Shanghai Wheat Noodles with Seared Shrimp or Asian Vegetables; and Fresh Chinese Egg Noodles ("lo mein") with Crunchy Sesame Chicken or Siam Fire Shrimp Curry.

Big Bowl's menu also includes Asian influenced Salads, Noodles in Broth, Stir-fry Bar, Rice Dishes and various specialty drinks such as Homemade Ginger Ale, Flavored Ice Teas, Organic Juices, Tropical Cocktails, Asian Beers and traditional Chinese Teas.

Devoted to learning, cooking and teaching Asian food for over 25 years, Cost studied Chinese cooking in the early 70s with the legendary teacher and author Virginia Lee. Cost is the chef/partner of two highly regarded restaurants, Ginger Island in Berkeley, California and Ginger Club in Palo Alto. And, he is currently appearing on Television's Greatest Chef's/Great Cities series cooking at Ginger Island.

In addition to being chef/restaurateur. Cost is also an author, writer and teacher of Asian cooking. He has authored two books: Bruce Cost's Asian Ingredients and Ginger East to West.

Big Bowl, is open for lunch and dinner Monday through Saturday. Hours are Monday-Thursday 11:30 a.m. - 10 p.m., Friday and Saturday 11:30 a.m. - 11 p.m., and Sunday 4 p.m. - 9 p.m. Carryout is available.

Big Bowl is a Lettuce Entertain You Enterprises, Inc. restaurant based in Chicago

Veal gives pizza pizzazz

VEAL & ROASTED VEGETABLE PIZZA

8 oz.	veal leg cutlets, cut 1/8 to 1/4" thick
1 tsp.	olive oil
1/2 cup	pizza or spaghetti sauce
1	pre-baked pizza crust or thin Italian bread shell (12-inch)
3/4 cup	shredded fontina cheese
	Fresh basil, chopped
VEGETABLE TOPPING:
1	baby or Japanese eggplant, cut into 1/2-inch thick slices (approx. 1 cup)
1	small zucchini, cut into 1/2-inch thick slices (approx. 1 cup)
1	cup red bell pepper strips (1/2-inch strips)
1	small onion, cut into 1/2-inch thick wedges
1 tbsp.	olive oil
1 tsp.	dried oregano
1/2 tsp.	salt
1/2 tsp.	cracked black pepper
1	small head garlic

1. Heat oven to 450°. Place vegetables in 15 x 10" jelly roll pan. Drizzle with oil; sprinkle with oregano, salt and pepper, tossing to coat. Cut off top of garlic to expose cloves; wrap tightly in aluminum foil. Place on pan with vegetables. Roast in 450° oven 20 to 25 minutes or until vegetables are tender, stirring once. Check garlic; if not tender, continue roasting 5 to 10 minutes. Cool garlic slightly. When cool enough to handle, squeeze garlic out of skins; toss garlic with roasted vegetables.

2. Meanwhile pound veal cutlets to 1/8" thickness, if necessary. In large skillet, heat 1 teaspoon oil over medium-high heat until hot. Add veal and cook approx. 1 minute, or until veal is no longer pink outside, but is still pink inside. Remove from skillet; season with salt and pepper, as desired. Cut veal into 1 x 2" strips.

3. Spread pizza sauce evenly over crust. Arrange roasted vegetables and veal over sauce; sprinkle with cheese. Bake in 450° oven 10 to 12 minutes or until crust is browned and cheese is melted. Sprinkle with basil

To say that "Brigadoon" captures the imagination and leaves you in a most pleasant and satisfying mood is putting it mildly. Brigadoon tells the story of two Americans on a hunting trip in Scotland who have lost their way. As they climb a hill so they can get a better look at the country that lies below, a sudden swirling mist of clouds part revealing a village that wasn't there a moment ago. These two cynical modern men have accidentally stumbled onto a mysterious place that belongs to another time.

So begins the fairy-tale story of Brigadoon, the enchanting musical with book and lyrics by Alan Jay Lerner, and music by Frederick Loewe. Though this show is almost 60 years old, it seems to fill the void in our day as it did when it first opened on Broadway in 1946.

An engaging escape from tumultuous car-chases, blaring noise and dysfunctional life-styles, "Brigadoon" lures us into its magical fantasy world when the two sophisticated New Yorkers, Tommy Albright (James Rank) and Jeff Douglas (Randy Steinmeyer) stumble onto this small village of Brigadoon.

Located in a masterful setting of a wild countryside with gnarled branches, granite cliffs and heather-lined hills created by scenic designer Bill Bartelt, strange things begin to happen. Tommy falls in love with Scottish lass Fiona MacLaren (Kathy Voytko) and Jeff has a fling with Meg Brockie (Cory Goodrich). Things begin to get complicated, however, when Tommy accidentally discovers that the village is bewitched and comes back to life once every hundred years on one day only.

Since Tommy isn't sure of the reality of what he feels for Fiona, Jeff, who believes their entire experience in Brigadoon has been a dream, convinces Tommy to return with him to New York. The plot does not end here as Tommy discovers that he has fallen in love with Fiona and returns to Brigadoon.

While Brigadoon delivers an entrancing tale enriched by Lerner and Loewe songs that include spine-tingling melodies, "Come to Me, Bend to Me", "Almost Like Being in Love", "Heather on the Hill", and the rousing "I'll Go Home With Bonnie Jean," the ensemble of talented performers also helps make this show something special.

Velvety-voiced James Rank delivers a convincing and appealing portrayal of Tommy, who comes to understand that what you believe in is often more real than what you can touch, taste and feel. Kathy Voytko, a golden-tones soprano with a lyrical Scottish accent plays charming Fiona. Randy Steinmeyer does a funny turn as Tommy's jaded, cynical friend Jeff, and Cory Goodrich adds her bit of humor as an aggressive man chaser.

The ballet dances created originally by Agnes DeMille were remarkably reproduced by choreographer Gordon Pierce Schmidt in the limited space of the Candlelight stage. The outstanding ballet numbers presented by Sarah Filmanowicz Smith were stunning along with Caryn Weglarz's imaginative tartan kilt costumes to lend credence to the Scottish atmosphere.

Brigadoon, a show-stopper and one that you can bring your best girl to is under the superb direction and creative staging of David Berkovich. This Brigadoon is one of the most outstanding contributions to Chicago theatre and should be considered for a Tony Award.

Currently appearing at the Candlelight-Dinner Playhouse, Summit, through July 21, tickets may be obtained by calling the box office (708) 496-3000. SEE IT!

Camelot opening at Pheasant Run

Rockton Productions and Director Diana L. Martinez proudly announce the cast for the much anticipated production of "Camelot" at Pheasant Run Resort's Theatre this summer. Opening June 7, Lerner & Loewe's timeless tragedy of love and legend in the fabled land of "Camelot" transforms an exquisite ensemble of 23 performers into: knights of the round table, lords and ladies, villains, sorcerers and the most famous royal couple in musical history.

Fulfilling the vocally demanding leading roles of King Arthur and Queen Guenevere, two Pheasant Run veterans meet the challenge. In the royal roles of King Arthur, baritone Steve Calzaretta of Arlington Heights masterfully fills the crown. Having appeared at Pheasant Run Theatre as Tony in West Side Story, Mr. Calzaretta finds himself again in the predicament of defending his love and his kingdom against outside forces. As King Arthur's regal and beautiful bride, soprano Gwen Eagleton of Northbrook portray Queen Guenevere, torn between her duty between the crown and her love for Sir Lancelot. Known for portraying ingenues in unrequited love, Ms. Eagleton also played Marion Paroo in the "Music Man" and Laurey Williams in "Oklahoma!" both at Pheasant Run. Most recently she appeared as Julie Jordan in "Carousel" at Candlelight Dinner Playhouse. Baritone William Schumacher of Chicago suits up his armor to portray Sir Lancelot, a knight of pure intentions force to decide upon which side of the throne his loyalty lies. Although a newcomer to Pheasant Run Resort's Theatre, Mr. Schumacher's musical talent and experience make him a suitable match for his veteran co-stars, having been a 1995 finalist for the palm Beach and Metropolitan Opera competitions.

Other featured performers include Louis Miller of Chicago as the King's advisor and most memorable magic man, Merlyn. Most recently seen as the Diction Coach in Pheasant Runs "Singin' in the Rain," Mr. Miller will also revive roles as a featured dancer and dance/fight captain. After getting his feet wet as Don Lockwood in Pheasant Run's "Singin' the Rain", Joe Garbe of Lisle becomes the King's most trusted confidante, Pellinore. Challenging leadership of the crown are newcomers Brian J. Hamman of Naperville as the King's evil adversary Mordred, and Joy Richards of Mokena as the enchanted sorceress Morgan LeFay, who assists Mordred in his sinister plot to succeed the King's reign as ruler of "Camelot". Another Arthur adversary is the fiendish fairy Nimue, who tries to lock Merlyn in a cave for all eternity, played by Candace Thomas of Batavia.

CD Review

Stone Temple Pilots
Tiny Music...Songs From The Vatican Gift Shop
(Atlantic)

By Kevin Bastian

Undeservedly dubbed as Pearl Jam sound-a-likes since their 1992 debut, (Core), Stone Temple Pilots have finally made a name for themselves. Although STP sound nothing like the Seattle-based mega-band, their recording styles have seemed to mirror those of Pearl Jam. In their three albums apiece, both have gone from overmixed to radio-friendly, and now with STP's latest, (Tiny Music...Songs From The Vatican Gift Shop), raw.

Despite lead singer, Weiland's side projects which include smorgasbord band, The Magnificent Bastards, and a serious drug problem, STP somehow managed to put together an accomplished, listenable album. (Tiny Music) explores unchartered territory for the band as they experiment with various musical styles and instruments.

"And So I Know" sets the quartet in a ski lounge, "Press Play" and "Daisy" are catchy for instrumental and "Adhesive" gets a lift from an unexpected trumpet.

Besides these novelties, (Tiny Music) churns and flows like you'd expect a superstars' album to, opening with three stripped-down rockers. First single "Big Bang Baby" may sound cheese at first but grows on the listener after constant exposure. Melodious offerings are supplied courtesy of the destined-for-radio "Lady Picture Show" and the second single and best song, "Trippin' On A Hole In A Paper Heart."

Pearl Jam's fourth album is due out this summer, so expect STP to follow it up next year sometime. That is, if Weiland checks out of rehab by then.

Senator O'Malley secures funds for various projects

It's rare these days to find a pure person with no vices. In a press conference Friday, Senator Patrick O'Malley stated, "I do not drink or smoke and I go to church three times a week."

It's not only his unique character but his accomplishments as Senator for the last three 1/2 years which make him remarkable.

Having survived heart (bypass) surgery, he was back in the saddle again helping to do such things as repeal the incinerator law. He claims, "This will save taxpayers billions of dollars and Maureen Murphy efforts were greatly appreciated."

Residents who travel Cicero Avenue especially 127th Street, know that congestion is intolerable at times. O'Malley says, "Funding is being made and IDOT supports the proposal to relieve this problem. We have allowed seven million to let the process begin. The project will cost 55-60 million dollars in total."

There is a public meeting at the village hall of Alsip. Input from the public about repair of Route 83 Cicero Avenue to 127th will be discussed. Call the village hall 385-6902 for details.

On matters of a third airport, O'Malley says, "Senator Walter Dudycz (R) toned down anti-Chicago. Midway Airport must be guaranteed existence. It's a vital economic engine. With appropriate safeguards for Midway, I do support another airport", emphatically stated O'Malley when asked the question.

For the Oak Lawn area O'Malley said, "I will work to find replacement parking for the businesses along 95th Street. I will look to do so without hurting the residential area." On the purchase of Cook School, O'Malley said, "I encourage the village to seek funding from the state. Park district needs to focus on what they want before we can get a firm plan."

Mayor Vacco will be happy to hear that O'Malley attended the Homeowners rally against development of the cemetery at Burke's Grill in May. O'Malley commented, "There were 500 people there. The reaction of the community is near volcanic when that many people show up with a Bulls game on and no TV around, you know they are sincere."

To combat Centrum Development O'Malley says, "We are pushing for a back tax to be rendered going as far as three years if the cemetery is sold to a private party."

All are invited June 11 for a meeting with the newly formed Southwest Alliance of Government. There are many leaders in the health, education and business fields meeting with the Senator and other government and local residents. It will be held at St. Xavier in the board room. O'Malley says, "It's the steering committee that sets our goals for this organization." For information call 312-298-3000.

Redrawing school district boundaries to keep Oak Lawn students in Oak Lawn

by Carlene E. O'Connor

Residents and students alike are all concerned about the fate of Polaris school, destined to close in three years.

Trustee Keane at the village board meeting, Tuesday asked the attorney to redraw school district boundaries so that all students who live in Oak Lawn could go to district 123 and 129.

To avoid overcrowding is the thinking that Polaris may be a good grammar school?

Keane suggested that he does and strongly feels, "Oak Lawn students should go to Oak Lawn schools."

Trustee Joy to further stress education at the meeting wants to have "teens in government" "Teen 'peer' group to review teens in trouble" and more programs for Oak Lawn teens.

Trustee Streit concerned about the environment wants "an ordinance stating that all vendors dealing with Oak Lawn use recycled products if cost effective "

Fun for Evergreen Park residents

by Carlene E. O'Connor

The following events will be occurring in Evergreen Park this summer.

All are invited to come out for a "Day in the Park, " Saturday, June 29th. It is going to be held at the Community Center and Klein Park at 97th and Homan Avenue. There will be music, food vendors and a beer garden.

Included within the activities this year is a 5K run- 2 Mile Walk and 1/4 mile Jr. run. Registration starts at 7:30 a.m. and the race begins at 8:30 a.m.

Wednesday, July 3rd, the 28th annual Independence Day Parade sponsored by the Evergreen Park Chamber of Commerce and the Village of Evergreen Park delights the residence and visitors because after an outstanding parade a sprinkle of the lights occurs, the magnificent fire works display is one of the most outstanding displays among the villages.

Sunday, August 4th between the hours of 5:00 p.m. and 7:00 p.m., Klein Park, 97th and Homan, City Lights Orchestra directed by Rich Daniels, will present music from classical to contemporary. Bring your lawn chairs, blankets, etc. Free admission In case of rain, call (708) 229-3373.

Business meeting held for Metro Southwest Alliance

by Annette Dixon

The newly formed Metro Southwest Alliance had its first business meeting, June 11th.

A steering committee headed by state Senator Patrick O'Malley, (R-Palos Park) stated as its mission: "We aggressively represent the community and economic development needs of the metro southwest region by pursuing meaningful employment opportunities, legislative initiatives, and all significant opportunities to ensure a viable economic future and enhance the quality of life in our region."

The primary goal of the Metro Southwest Alliance is to provide value to its supporting member in three priority areas: Image and Identity; Economic Development; and Regional Infrastructure.

While there are many tasks to accomplish and issues to address, five action areas emerged time and again as we look to the year 2000, stated O'Malley. These areas include:Economic Vitality; responsive government; business competitiveness in a global economy' world class work force' strategic information.

The volunteer can accomplish these activities by establishing a organizational structure, with bylaws, policies and procedures for coordinating volunteers and programs of work; involving dedicated leaders that are well informed and are willing to use their time and talent to accomplish meaningful activities; identifying informed, interested and willing members to work on committees, to carry out programs of work and to provide necessary financing; and also by providing financial resources to undertake programs of work and to assign administrative responsibilities.

Neighborhood bank offers new generation the fundamentals of banking

A new generation of banking customers is learning to parlay allowance into a nest egg through the Future Savers program, offered since September by Mount Greenwood Bank, Chicago and Oak Lawn.

Coordinated by Theresa Kapala, Operations Officer, the program involves students at St. Christina School in Mount Greenwood and St. Linus School in Oak Lawn in regular presentations which teach the fundamentals of banking.

The purpose of the program, according to Kapala, is to "start children off at an early age with a basic understand of banking/". As the children mature, so will their savvy as knowledgeable bank customers.

Kapala along with Assistant Vice President Collette Vojtech visit St. Christina School 6th Graders for future savers sessions every other week. Visits to St. Linus School offer 7th and 8th graders monthly banking insights and 5th and 6th graders quarterly classes. "The response has been wonderful," Kapala reports. "The students are enthusiastic and so are their teachers and parents."

Kapala and Vojtech work to make the program fun as well as meaningful for students. Hands-on activities give students a chance to write checks (non-negotiable) and learn to work an ATM machine. Informational sessions are geared to kid-friendly ideas, such as "The treasures of a safety deposit box," which describes how these mini-vaults are used, and "would your class lend you money in which students actually fill out loan applications and are put to the test for approval from their peers.

Student participants are given a chance to apply their newly acquired banking skills through a special Mount Greenwood Bank Future Savers account.

The success of the Mount Greenwood Bank Future Savers program has prompted Kapala to consider expanding the sessions to include other schools in the bank's service area. In the meantime, the next time you're standing in line behind a pint-sized bank customer, you might want to eavesdrop on what he's telling his banker--it could be very useful information.

Museum is going Hollywood

Chicago's Museum of Science and Industry is "going Hollywood" blockbuster summer, "Movie Magic and Monsters." The summer spectacular also includes "Special Effect 2," a behind the scenes tour of the special effect industry. Both interactive exhibitions will continue through September 2.

"The Dinosaurs of Jurassic Park," a 7,500 square foot exhibition, has set attendance records in science museums nationwide. It combines the models and props used in Steven Spielberg's film with actual dinosaur fossils and video clips from the film. In the Jungle section, the first of three main areas, visitors will be transported to Jurassic Park itself, and come face to face with the film's threatening velociraptors, venom spitting dilophosaurus, ailing triceratops and all of their prehistoric friends, including a 20 foot tall Tyrannosaurus rex.

"Special Effects 2" showcases how science and artistry are paired to create the breath taking special effects audiences see on the movie screen. Visitors see how special cinematic effects were created for such films as The Return of the Jedi, The Fly, The Empire Strikes Back, Mrs. Doubtfire, Batman Returns, The Wizard of Oz and Honey, I Shrunk the Kids.

In addition to the regular Museum hours, visitors will also be able to view the two new exhibitions during an early morning "Breakfast with the Dinosaurs" program. Beginning May 31, and continuing Fridays thru Monday's through September 2, Museum visitors will be able to enjoy a breakfast buffet in the Museum's Cafe Spectrum or Century Room beginning at 8:00 a.m. Following the breakfast, visitors will be granted admission to both exhibitions. The cost is $10 per person, and includes general admission to all Museum exhibits, excluding the Henry Crown Space Center Omnimax Theater. Reservations are required; tickets are limited, and can be purchased by calling the Museum at (312) 684-1414. "Breakfast with the Dinosaurs" is sponsored by Jewel-Osco.

During the construction of a new underground parking garage, the Museum created temporary parking lost on its northeast, east and southeast grounds, accommodating nearly 1,000 autos. To access the new parking lot, the Museum has created a new temporary road, "Science Drive," located one block south of 57th Street at Lake Shore Drive. Visitors will be able to enter and exit the Museum grounds and Henry Crown Space Center at this new intersection from southbound Lake Shore Drive. In addition a right turn only entrance/exit will be established at 57th and South Everett Drive, located on the north side of the Museum grounds. During construction of the underground parking the Museum will remain open.

Located at 57th Street and Lake Shore Drive, the Museum of Science and Industry attracts over two million visitors annually, and is open every day of the year except Christmas. For more information, please call (312) 684-1414.

Boosting a community through Oak Lawn economic development loan program

Mount Greenwood bank of Chicago and Oak Lawn has the scoop on boosting neighborhood business. Just ask Dennis Lewandowski, the proud owner of the new Jupitor Ice Cream & Yogurt Shop at 10632 South Cicero in Oak Lawn.

Lewandowski is not new to the business strip. For seven years he has owned and operated the Avenue Flower Shop in the store which now houses Jupitor, as well as the spot next door. The flower shop was consolidated into one storefront, leaving the other open for a new venture. Lewandowski thought long and hard about what would be the best business to establish at the available location.

"The area didn't have an ice cream parlor, and Mr. Lewandowski thought it would be a profitable business, as well as an asset to the neighborhood," said Jack Lester, Mount Greenwood Bank Vice President and Senior Lending Officer. Lester assisted Lewandowski in financing the new business.

In order to create an old fashioned ice cream palor from a flower shop, Lewandowski needed $25,000 for remodeling and improvements. "Looked into the Oak Lawn Economic Development Loan Program and was referred to Mount Greenwood Bank as a participating lender." Lester said. "His was the first Mount Greenwood Bank loan made through Oak Lawn's new program."

With Lester's help, Lewandowski's loan application and approval went smoothly. Remodeling went well and the grand opening ribbon cutting was an even wort celebrating. In fact Mount Greenwood Bank President Helen Socha, Vice President Leroy Corradino, Oak Lawn Mayor Ernest Kolb and Village Clerk Jayne Powers, Joining the day's celebration. "I wouldn't have missed it, Socha said.

Everyone involved in this three-way commercial opportunity is happy with the outcome. Lewandowski is pleased with the services as well as the discounted interest rates offered by Mount Greenwood Bank. Jupitor Ice Cream opened in April, just in time to welcome spring and summer customers looking for ice cold refreshment in a pleasant, family setting.

Mount Greenwood Bank is pleased that Mr. Lewandowski, already operating a successful business, was planning to branch into a new field, enhancing the Commercial area and offering customers a desirable new store to patronize. Backing business is an important part of Mount Greenwood Bank's commitment to the community.

The Village of Oak Lawn is pleased to welcome a new business, the neighborhood's latest success story through the new Economic Development Program.

The St. Albert Phoenix Group for Separated and Divorced individuals will host a judge from the Circuit Court of Cook County who will speak on domestic violence. The meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. on Tuesday, June 25th, in the Alberts room, 5555 State Rd., Burbank. Further information can be obtained by calling Deacon Ken at (708) 458-8923.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

There is a small revolution going on within the ranks of the AFL-CIO as rank and file members express their concern about the way union officials are using their union dues for political purposes.

The present furor is a result of the AFL-CIO's announced plan to spend $35 million in dues dollars to defeat Republican members of Congress. About $26 million of this amount is being financed by an additional 15 cents per member per month assessment.

Rank and file union members are increasingly upset about this because a substantial minority--about 40 percent-- voted for Republicans in 1994.

There is increasing evidence that national union officials are using heavy handed tactics to keep local union members in line. Several local union officials have complained that national union officials have prohibited them from endorsing or supporting Republican candidates.

I am collecting information about this sort of activity involving both local union activity and individual union members. If anyone has information about this that they can share with me, I'd appreciate it if they would either call or write.

Under the U.S. Supreme Court's decision in the Beck Case, union members have the right to refuse to pay for union political activity. Unfortunately, according to a recent public opinion survey very few union members know about their right to refuse to finance their union officials' political agenda. What is worse, individual union members usually don't have the knowledge of the law to assert and protect these rights.

There is an organization dedicated to assisting workers in this way. The National Right to Work Legal Defense Foundation has been doing an excellent job in this area for almost thirty years. It is the organization that fought for and won the Beck decision. Any union member who wants to get more information about his or her rights or assistance in protecting those rights can reach the Right to Work Foundation by calling 1-800-336-3600.

Signed: David Denholm

Democratic cries foul

The General Assembly adjourned a session that avoided tacking major issues and the highlight was its early departure from Springfield according Mike Schadt, the Democratic candidate for State Representative in the 48th District.

The policies and a budget adopted by this year's legislature was composed of patchwork election year solution coupled with catering to special interest," Schadt stated. "The agenda set forth by the wealthy special interests enjoyed success while working families were ignored."

While Congress voted to reduce taxes on gasoline the Illinois lawmakers voted M.y 16 to increase the fuel tax by $322 million. In addition, the Republican Party's refusal to enact federally mandated motor voter prevented thousand from voting in the Illinois primary and has cost taxpayers thousand of dollars in legal fees defending the state's inaction

"The legislature set about attacking the rights and benefits afforded to and earned by working men and women," the 25 year union member Schadt said, The Republicans have supported repealing the Scaffolding Act and the Structural Work Act, restricted collective bargaining, decimated the current workers' compensation system and denied workers their right to overtime pay."

"The General Assembly has to shift its priorities to working families and have the courage to face the difficult tasks before them," Schadt concluded.

Volunteers needed at Christ

Looking for something to do Christ Hospital and Medical Center is currently seeking new members for its Volunteer department. Volunteers are needed specifically for Monday through Friday, 7:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Volunteers donate service in more than 80 patient and non-patient areas. There are volunteer opportunities in a variety of area's including ambulatory care, clerical help, emergency room, nursing administration, patient care, pediatrics, religion and health, security and social services. Volunteers are also needed for special events blood drives and internittent meetings.

For more information call (708) 346-5248.

Lipinski's bill will keep jobs at home

U.S. Rep. Bill Lipinski (IL-3rd) has added his support to a bill to reduce corporate welfare, make companies less eager to move American jobs overseas and encourage job creation in the United States.

"This bill not only preserves American jobs by closing two corporate tax loopholes, but has the potential to create jobs right here through a tax credit for employers who hire new U.S. workers," Cong. Lipinski said.

H.R. 3252, "The American Jobs Act of 1996," would address the imported property income and foreign tax credit that American companies take advantage of to ship jobs overseers. Closing these two loopholes would protect American jobs and instill some fairness in the tax code.

More importantly, H.R. 3252 includes a provision to create a new, refundable income tax credit for companies that hire employees here.

"At time when American workers are concerned about job losses and corporate down sizing, corporations should be rewarded for increasing the size of heir U.S. work force," Cong. Lipinski said. "Companies that send our jobs to foreign countries should not be rewarded with generous tax breaks."

Jim Brosnahan, candidate for 36th District State Representative, attended a recent gang awareness seminar hosted by Cook County Sheriff Michael F. Sheahan. The discussion centered on warning signs and pro-active measures the community can take in identifying and stopping gangs.

"As a prosecutor in the Gang Crimes Unit of the Cook County State's Attorney's Office. I know how drugs and gans can literally ruin families and a community. Brosnahan stated, "We need to work together and take a more agressive approach towards combating crime and I applaud Sheriff Sheahan for hosting this seminar and raising the community's awareness."

Moraine Valley receives grant from Barbara Bush Foundation for Family Literacy

Moraine Valley Community College recently received a $45,000 grant from the Barbara Bush Foundation for Family Literacy. Moraine Valley was one of 14 organizations from across the country to receive a grant from the 449 proposals received by the Foundation.

Proposals were submitted by a wide variety of non-profit , private, and public organizations with family literacy programs that provide instruction for parents and primary care-givers, pre-reading programs for their children, and time for the parents and children to read together. The Foundation awarded a total of $500,000 this year, with grants ranging i size from $10,000 to $50,000. It has awarded more than $3 million since its inception in 1989.

Moraine Valley will use the grant money to expand its Family Reading Program. The program assists Posen-Robbins School District 143-1/2 first and second grade students and their parents with personal and academic growth. The program is designed to improve students' academic skills and encourage positive attitudes toward school while providing parents with parenting and personal development classes. The program also provides bonding opportunities for the students and their parents and fosters better relationships between the parents and the schools.

The group completed a 12-week session in December of last year. The grant money will be used to run the program throughout the school year in three consecutive eight-week session. They also hope to bring in guest speakers and take educational field trips.

The three-hour sessions, which take place twice a week, start with separate workshops for the children and adults. Students are provided with reading and writing activities while their parents are given information, guidance, and support on parenting issues and goal-setting.

Academic sessions are also conducted for the adults, and needs such as reading comprehension, vocabulary, and writing skills are addressed. The program hopes to add job skill training to the agenda as well.

After the teachers finish working with the students and parents separately, an intergenerational session is held. This portion of the meeting begins with a nutrition session, which not only provides participants with a break, but a transition into working together with family members. The parents and children make nutritious snacks for immediate consumption by following a recipe, which also provides them with samples of healthy snack foods.

The nutrition break is followed by a one-hour learning/study support session in which the students and parents are assigned specific reading or writing exercises to work on together. This increases the parents' awareness of how their children learn, as well as reinforces the parenting skills that they have learned.

Moraine Valley's Family Literacy Program was started in the summer of 1994 as a demonstration project by the Illinois State Board of Education. The Robbins area was chosen because of its high unemployment rate (20.3 percent) and poverty level (30 percent), as well as the fact that more than 46 percent of the area's adults over age 25 had not completed 12 years of education. The four-week pilot program took place at Bernice Childs School and the response was so positive that the program was expanded to include Delia M. Turner School and lengthened to a 16-week program.

FOOD FOR'SECONDS'

Just in thyme for summer

Add flavor and beauty to life the healthy way this summer at Mity Nice Grill's "Summer Festival of Herbs," from the first day of summer, to Sunday, July 28. In celebration of the tastes and health benefits offered by adding more herbs to foods, Mity Nice will offer a special herb menu. In addition, herb expert arLene Shannon of Greenfield Herb Garden, located in Shipshewana, Indiana, will joint Mity Nice Chef Al Gracia in their tribute to the diversity of herbs at a "cooking with herbs" food demonstration and lecture at Mity Nice on Sat., June 22 at 11:00 a.m. to noon, which is free and open to the public.

Herbs are the fragrant leaves of specific annual and perennial plants that grow in temperate zones and do not have a woody stem. Herbs, available in both fresh and dried widely used in cooking, decoration, beverages and or the body. Benefits, of herbs are almost unlimited. Providing everything from color and fragrance in foods and in the garden, they also provide beauty and decoration in homes. Throughout the centuries the medicinal and therapeutic qualities of herbs have been believed to help the spirit and the body.

From the common parsley, dill and basil to the more adventurous marjoram, savory, cilantro, dandelion, saffron and rosemary, herbs are used in food to add flavor and spice while reducing the need for added fats. These tasty seasonings follow Mity Nice's health conscious guidelines as they can provide valuable nutrients to the diet. Utilizing a variety of fresh and dried herbs.

Mity Nice chef Al Gracia will create the special summer herb menu items offering everything from soups to desserts, complementing Mity Nice's already diverse array of food choices.

The special menu items include such dishes as Fettuccine with Chicken Sausage and Sweet Marjoram Tomato Sauce; Thyme-Caraway Leaf and Smoked Chicken Salad served with a Lemon Dill Vinaigrette; Multi-herb Crusted Fresh Fish; Pineapple Sage Roasted Chicken; and for dessert, Lemon Verbena Sorbet and Lavender Ice Cream.

On Saturday, June 22, from 11 a.m. to 12 noon, Mity Nice will offer a Special "cooking with herbs" demonstration/lecture with herb expert arLene Shannon featuring recipes and tips for herb gardening at home. In addition, guests can purchase herbs from Mity Nice's summer herb market.

MIty Nice Grill is a Lettuce Entertain You Enterprises, Inc. (LEYE) restaurant. Based in Chicago, LEYE is one of the nation's leading independent restaurant groups, owning and licensing more than 40 establishments in Illinois, Arizona, Minnesota, Washington and Japan. The establishments range from the casual styles and cuisines of the original restaurant, R.J. Grunts to the formal elegance of Ambria and Everest.

BASILS

*AFRICAN BLUE

BASIL-Is gorgeous is the garden with dark green leaves and purple veining, purple flower spikes and reaches about 3' at maturity. It has a spicy fragrance with unusual depth.

MINT

•HILLARY'S LEMON MINT-Developed from a cross between apple and lime mint. Has a sweet fruity aroma.

•LAVENDER MINT-Has dark green leaves with purple edges. A very handsome plant. A hint of lavender blends with overtones of floral notes. Great as a summer drink garnish or with cold fruit dishes.

THYME

•CARAWAY THYME- Strong flavor of caraway enhances this culinary thyme. Was traditionally used to flavor barrons of beef during the Middle Ages.

•COCONUT THYME-Thyme flavored with a hint of coconut. A beautiful plant with deep pink edible flowers.

The Family Dinner Is Alive And Well!

(NAPS)—With Little League and soccer in full gear and the end of the school year just around the comer, families are busier than ever. The good news is, if you're like 70 percent of all Midwestern families, your family eats dinner together at least four times a week. According to a recent KRAFT SIMPLE ANSWERS™/Midwest Living* Magazine Family Supper Survey, the family dinner is alive and well! Not only is the family dinner important to most—old-fashioned rules are still top priority to parents in the Midwest:

• Whether it's baseball in the park or hide-and-go-seek at neighbors, eight out of ten parents say it's important children "find" their way home and be on time for dinner. Dinner typically starts between 5:00 and 7:00 P.M.

• Even with new innovations like call-waiting, the telephone is definitely a turn-off during dinner—75 percent of parents surveyed say phone calls are not allowed!

• Manners are key, as 62 percent expect the younger generation to politely "excuse" themselves before leaving the table.

• When it's time for dinner, Moms appreciate a little help in the kitchen, as 60 percent prefer their youngsters to set the table.

Although Mom decides what's for dinner in 66 percent of Midwestern households, today's busy mom has more on her plate than ever before. She's looking for convenient, great-tasting meals for family dinners.

That's why Kraft Foods, Inc. developed KRAFT SIMPLE ANSWERS dinner ideas—easy, delicious meals that require less than 30 minutes to prepare and use a handful of common ingredients. These dinner ideas, created by Kraft Creative Kitchens, have been taste-tested and approved by families in the Midwest.

According to Carol Blindauer, manager of Kraft Creative Kitchens in Glenview, IL, "We've listened to families and developed quick and easy dinner ideas they tell us they need. We call them dinner ideas because they're so easy to remember most people don't even have to write them down. And, we've asked Midwest-area families to prepare and eat the meals at home to make sure they meet the taste, time and convenience needs of 'real' families."

For a free set of KRAFT SIMPLE ANSWERS dinner ideas call 1-800-521-4403.

Oven Tender Chicken™ is a great-tasting meal that's easy as one-two-three. One: place chicken into baking pan; two: pour a bottle of KRAFT Original Barbecue Sauce over the chicken; three: bake for an hour. With just one pan, clean up couldn't be easier!

Theatre Alive with Georgean Fitzgerald

The kick off production for the Theatre at the Center for Visual and Performing Arts in Munster, Indiana was Funny Girl. It introduces the first of the Center's 1996 summer theatre schedule featuring "Ladies of the Summer", which, besides Funny Girl, include Sweet Charity, Annie, My Fair Lady, and Plaza Suite,

Gary Giacomo, the artistic director and director-choreographer for Funny Girl, has a host of credits which include a Joseph Jefferson Award for Best Choreography for his production of "West Side Story" and in the same year a Jeff nomination as Best Actor in "I Do, I Do!" He has had wide experience across the country as resident director/choreographer. He recently appeared in "Crazy For you" at Candlelight Dinner-Playhouse in Summit.

While the entire cast of Funny Girl can take a bow, Mary Robin Roth deserves resounding applause for the strenuous and energetic principal role of Fannie Brice. For those who don't remember..Fanny Brice was not a pretty woman, but she was a great comedian and had a great voice. Mary Robin Roth, while pretty, also has great timing and an extremely powerful voice.

Funny Girl is a biographical musical based on the life of Fanny Brice, a very popular and celebrated actor of the World War * era. The theme describes the struggle and determination of Fanny Brice as she rose to fame and success.

As she sits at her dressing table backstage in the New Amsterdam Theatre, Fanny Brice, the reigning Ziegfield star, is thinking about something more important than the show. Her husband, Nick Arnstein will be returning home after service a prison sentence. As she ponders her problem with regard to making a decision about their future, the sights and sounds of her past come back to her.

She remembers herself as a stage struck teenager--awkward, unattractive, but fiercely determined to get ahead in the theatre. At first, she is turned down at auditions, but with her iron will and lot of hard work with Eddie, a vaudeville hoofer, Fanny succeeds in getting cast, and wows the audience. Fanny's mother, Mrs. Brice, is small influence in shaping her with advice. In, "If a Girl isn't Pretty", Mrs. Brice delivers her message 'full steam'.

Funny Girl is the story of a stage struck girl with a lot of talent, who finally achieves her dream: Showbiz on Broadway! In her personal life she finds marriage with Nick Arnstein, an elegant gambler, and Fanny immediately falls in love with him. Fanny and Nick are married and move into a mansion on Long Island. Fanny continues her career as a starring entertainer. But Nick is not so lucky. He is gambling the money away on various failed ventures, including a shady bond deal, and finally is arrested for embezzlement.

At this point in the production, we are returned to the dressing room where we saw Fanny in the first scene. Nick who has been released from prison enters, and while they still love each other, they realize that their marriage can only bring unhappiness to them and their child. Reluctantly they part as Fanny resolves to pick up her life again.

With a score by Jule Styne and Bob Merrill that includes, "You are Woman, I Am Man", "People," and "Don't Rain on My Parade", Funny Girl is a poignant story of one of the great entertainers of vaudeville history in America.

Sweet Charity opens June 20 and runs to July 14, followed by Annie, opening on July 18. For all performances at Theatre at the Center, The Center for Visual and Performing Arts, 1040 Ridge Road, Munster, Indiana, phone 219-836-3255 for tickets. Plays run on successive weekends according to the following schedule: Thursday, 2 p.m., Fridays, 8 p.m. Saturday, 8 p.m. Sundays 2 p.m. Treat yourself to a fun visit with the ladies!

Taste of Chicago celebrates 16th year

The City of Chicago and Sears will present the 16th annual Taste of Chicago June 28th through July 7th in Grant Park with a mixture of familiar favorites and new attractions, announced James E. Sheahan, Executive Director of the Mayors' Office of Special Events.

The most exciting addition to event is the DiGiorno Sports Pavilion located on the South end of the Taste site. Offering a 'Taste of the Games', he area will boast an impressive range of spectator and interactive events for Taste patrons to enjoy for a $2 admission fee. Inside the Pavilion, a velodrome arena equipped with 1,000 seats will stage world-class cycling and in-line competitions.

The 'Sweet 16' celebration continues with the new Dinosaur Land for kids of all ages. Featuring the Universal Studios Hollywood 'Jurassic Park-The Ride' Preview Exhibit, the display includes a life-sized Velociraptor dinosaur photos and models from the film and a outrageous monster truck. 'Dino Island', the AT&T action adventure simulator, will provide a hair raising adventure to prehistoric past. Dinosaur Land also includes a Jumping Jack every day a K'Nex tent for kids, June 28-30.

The sample size 'Taste of' portions, a popular concept available on a limited basis in 1995, will now be available all day. The Art Fair has been expanded to include additional artists and the Nabisco Chef Demo Tent will be open every day of the festival.

Seniors are invited to visit an improved Senior Pavilion and enjoy Senior Day on Monday, July 1st, with special programming at the Taste Stage and Grandparents Day celebrated at the Sears Family Village.

This year's Taste of Chicago brochure cover was designed by Chicago student Nicole Artiola of Resurrection H.S. As the first place winner of the art work contest, her design will be used on nearly 1,000,000 Taste brochure covers, the United Airlines in flight promotional menus and as the official post

Nova's special effects explores the magical world of movies

Movie special effects come alive as never before on the giant Omnimax screen in the dazzling new film "Special Effects," opening July 5 in the Henry Crown Space Center Omnimax Theater at the Museum of Science and Industry.

"Special Effects," produced by NOVA/WGBH Boston, features eye popping visual effects from four recent motion pictures using state of the art filmmaking techniques, including Star Wars Trilogy Special Edition, Independence Day, Jumanji, and Kazaam. Audiences will also see King Kong's final battle as well as starship chase scenes choreographed with original Star Wars models, newly reshot in the awe some OMNIMAX format at spectacular scale and resolution.

NOVA, the popular PBS science series and producer of giant screen format films, was given exclusive large format access to major film and special effects studios to produce this behind the scenes look at how movie makers achieve startling and utterly convincing visual effects.

The film follows the special effects wizardry that goes into blockbuster movies, including backstage glimpses of Industrial Light & Magic (ILM) at work on Lucasfilm Ltd.'s upcoming Star Wars Trilogy Special Edition, scheduled for a 1997 release to coincide with the 20th anniversary of the original Star Wars. Distributed by Twentieth Century Fox, Star Wars Trilogy Special Edition will feature newly enhanced footage, new digital special effects and a digitally remastered soundtract.

"Special Effects" will be shown daily starting July 5, every 50 minutes from 10 a.m. through 4 p.m. It can also be seen on Thursday Friday and Saturday evenings at 5:30, 6:20, 7:10 and 8:00 p.m. and Sunday evenings at 5:30 and 6:20 p.m. The current Omnimax film, "Destiny in Space" can be seen during the Museum's regular daytime schedule through July 4. General admission for the Museum is $6 for adults. $5 for seniors (65 and over) and $2.50 for children ages 5-12. Children under 5 are admitted free. On Thursday, general museum admission is free to all.

Mount Greenwood Log

Summer '96, has begun! Bring with it memories of Summers past, "The lake..., the pool..., the hill...the playground...those years...(early 70's) tonight return...like it was yesterday." (D. Monn.) And, of course, hopeful dreams of the future. Here are just a few local events to get you started!

Don't forget the Summer Reading programs at you local branch library.

The Beat meeting for 2211 Beat will be held at Mt. Greenwood Park on June 20th at 7 p.m.

"The National Galley of Art is continually exploring ways to develop awareness in the visual arts and make its collections accessible to everyone, no matter how far away from the Gallery they may live. Through the extension programs described in this catalogue, the gallery provides slide programs, teaching packets, films, videocassettes and video disc to millions of viewers each year in thousands of communities across the land."

Because Kennedy Park Library has now become an affiliate organization of the National Galley of Art, Washington, D.C., the Library will soon be able to make programs available to the community as a free-loan extension from the National Gallery of Art. As librarian of the Kennedy Park Library, I hope to provide a number of programs to local schools, as well as the community as a whole.

The National Gallery has made a catalog of materials available to me, and I hope to present these programs in the coming months. Because of cutback in Art programs in Illinois, I hope that these materials will be used by and enjoyed by people of all ages. Everyone is welcome.

As stated in the catalogue and I quote, "although we recognize there is no substitute for direct experience of an original work of art, we hope that our extension programs will excite both the mind and the eye and provide a source for deeper understanding of the arts."

It is my hope that you will participate in these FREE programs, and I am encouraging all area schools, church groups, seniors, and individuals interested in the Arts to please contact the Kennedy Park Library, 11320 South Western Ave. or call (312) 747-6198 for more information.(Please leave a message and I will get back to you) Thank you.

New local book nominated for award

The Sesqui-Squirrel, History of Oak Lawn, Illinois by local artist/author Robert Workman has been accepted as an entry for the 1997 Newbery Award.

The book, the first book exclusively on the history of Oak Lawn, was created in 1996, as a exclusive limited edition and is the tenth book in the Sesqui-Squirrel series. (All Sesqui-Squirrel books can be found in public library/museum collections.)

The Newbery Award was established in 1921 to honor English writer/printer John Newbery. Mr. Newbery published the first low cost and attractive books for children. The Newbery Award is granted each year to the author of the best children's book published in the United States. Selections are made by the American Library Association. A copy of The Sesqui-Squirrel History of Oak Lawn, Illinois can be found in the Oak Lawn Public Library, 9444 S. Cook.

The Japanese Chamber of Commerce and Industry of Chicago will celebrate its 30th anniversary with a special Japan Festival from Thursday, June 27, to Sunday, June 30, at The Field Museum, Roosevelt Road and Lake Shore Drive, Chicago. The festival will feature a variety of cultural events, including music, dance and art exhibitions. Mayor Richard M. Daley is honorary chairman of the festival.

The festival begins with an opening-night, gala dinner at 6 p.m., Thursday, June 27, in Stanley Field Hall.

Tickets for the dinner are $150. Reservations can be made by calling the Japan America Society at 312-263-3049.

Entertainment at the dinner will feature a variety of traditional Japanese performing arts, including Taiko Drums; Koto and Shyakuhachi, traditional Japanese music; and Wakayagi-ryu, traditional dance.

The festival will feature a number of performances and exhibitions by some of the top professional performers and artists in Japan. The following is a schedule of events:

- A special selection of Japanese films for children will be shown from 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., Friday, June 28, and Sat., June 29. The films will be shown in conjunction with Kid's Corner, featuring special events for children. Kid's Corner also will be open from 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., Sunday, June 30.
- Osaka Mikoshi, a popular Japanese group from Osaka, Japan, will stage street performances with a 450-pound Mikoshi, a Japanese portable shrine at the museum at 10:30 a.m. and 2 p.m., Friday, Saturday and Sunday.
- Osaka Mikoshi and the Kapport Dancers will offer a special, one-day class from 1:30 p.m. to 4:30 p.m., Thursday, at the Field Museum to anyone interested in learning modern street dances popular at Japanese Festivals. To sign up for the class, please telephone Rebecca Nakamura at the JCCC at 312-332-6199.
- Kappore Dancers, a 10-member dance troupe, will perform Minato Kapore and Kappore Reggae, modern street dances that are featured at Japanese festivals. Performances are 10:50 a.m. and 2:20 p.m. Friday, Saturday and Sunday at the museum.
- Kanazawa yuzen Hana Taiko, a group of five women, will play the Taido, or traditional Japanese drum, at 10 a.m. and 1 p.m., Friday, Saturday and Sunday, in Stanley Field Hall at the museum.
- The Tokyo Koto Ensemble Special, an ensemble of three Koto, or Japanese harps, and Shyakuhachi, a Japanese flute, will perform traditional Japanese music at 11:40 a.m. and 2:40 p.m. on Friday, Saturday and Sunday at the museum.
- The Wakayagi School Dancers will perform traditional Japanese dances at 12:10 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday at the museum.

The Japanese Chamber of Commerce and Industry of Chicago foundation (JCCC), dedicated to being a good corporate citizen and helping the people of Chicago, has donated more than $680,000 to various educational, civic and cultural institutions in Chicago.

POWERFUL PRAYER TO THE HOLY SPIRIT

Holy Spirit, You Who solves all problems. Who lights all roads so that I can attain my goal. You Who gives me the divine gift to, forgive and to forget all evil against me and that in all instances of my life You are with me. I want in this short prayer to thank You for all things and to confirm once again that I never want to be separated from You even and in spite of all material illusion. I wish to be with You in eternal glory. Thank You for Your mercy toward me and mine.

The person must say this prayer for 3 consecutive days. After 3 days: the favor requested will be granted even if it may appear difficult. This prayer must be published immediately after the favor is granted without mentioning the favor. only your initials should appear at the bottom.

Nalepa urges quick passage of health care reforms

Third District Congressional candidate Jim Nalepa urged the U.S. Congress to "bury the political hatchet" and pass the Health Coverage Availability and Affordability Act as soon as possible. The bill would allow employees to take their health insurance with them when they change jobs, and improve access for people with preexisting conditions.

In addition to allowing employees to retain their insurance when changing jobs, the Act also makes it easier for people with preexisting conditions to get and keep health insurance, and for small companies to pool together to purchase insurance for their employees. The legislation is currently at a standstill in Washington due to partisan disagreements over some of its provisions. U.S. Rep. Bill Lipinski voted against the legislation when it came before the House in March.

"This is an important piece of legislation for the working families in America," Nalepa said. "I hope that leaders on both sides of the aisle can sit down and hammer out their differences before another person needlessly goes through what my friend went through."

McNamara to challenge Kolb in April 1997

By Annette Dixon

John McNamara, Democratic Committeeman and former State Representative (27th) announced he would compete against five-term incumbent Mayor Ernie Kolb.

McNamara plans to form a full slate of candidates to run for the April 1997 election! He declined to name the candidates stating "We are still meeting with several candidates and will make a public announcement soon."

Some of John McNamara's past accomplishments locally are in 1971-77 he served as Park District Commissioner, therefore was picked as Park Board President three of the six years. After serving for 6 years as Park Com misioner, he was elected as Worth Township trustee for the years 1977-81. Prior to being appointed as State Representative by the State Representative Harry "Bus" Yourell, John served as treasurer of the Oak Lawn Village!

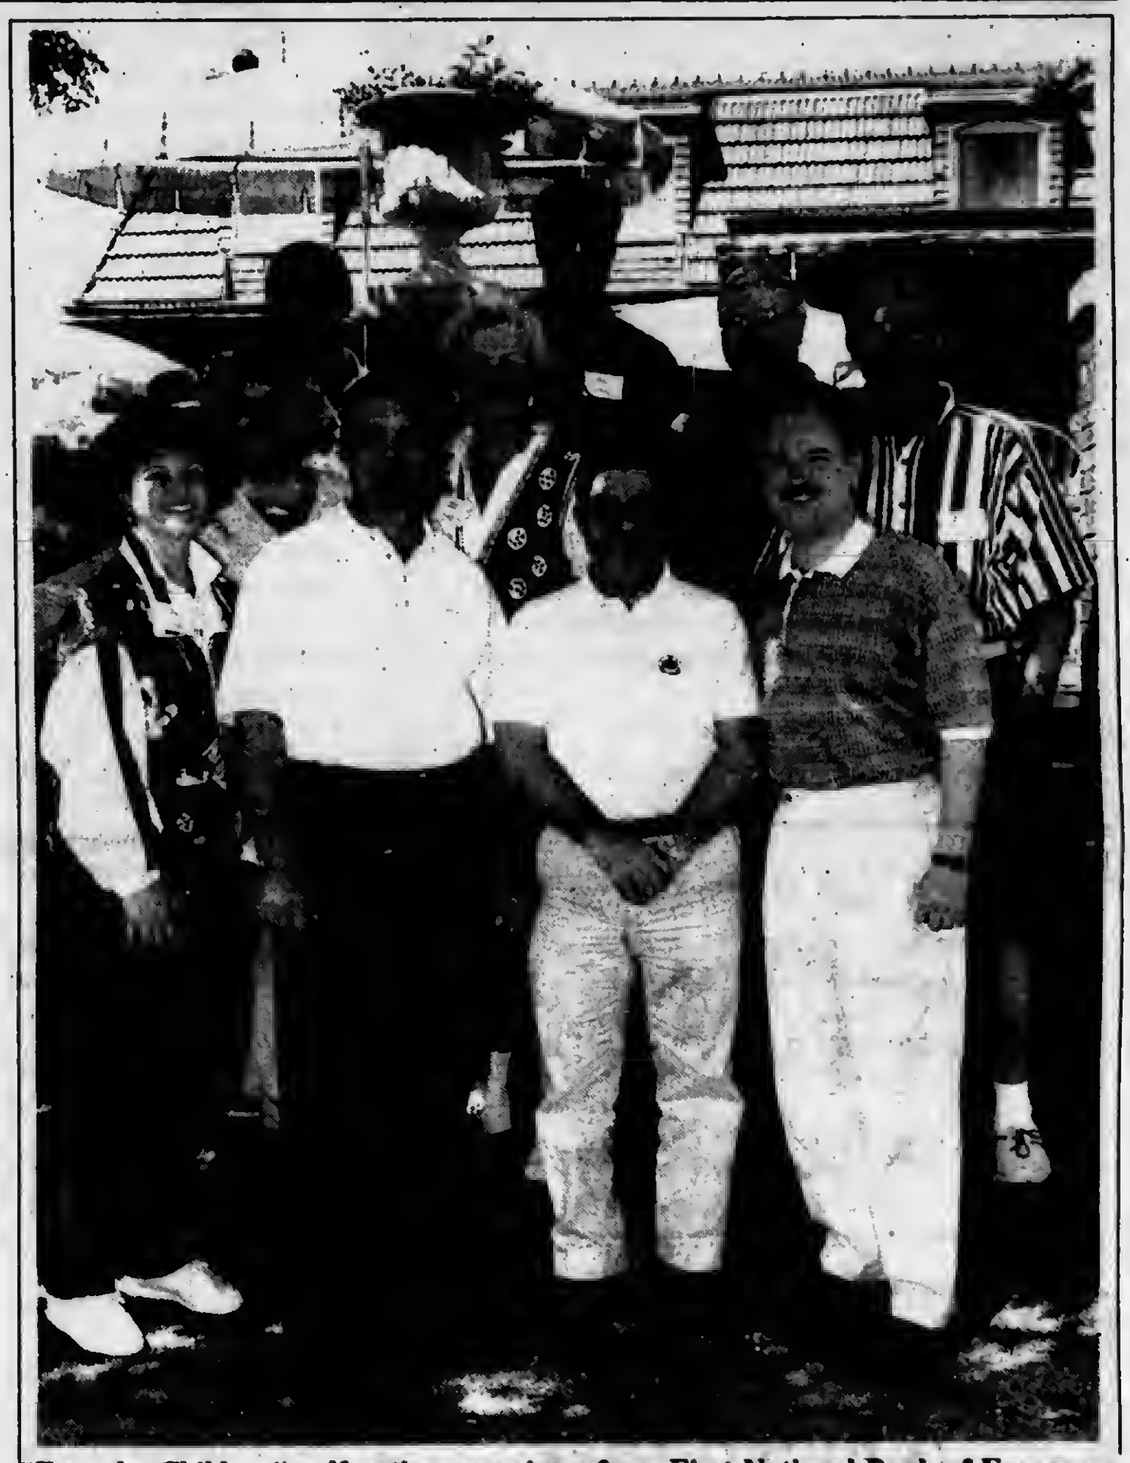
After John's initial appointment he succeeded in getting elected to 4 terms as a State Legislator.

In 1992, he lost a bid for the 18th District State Senate seat, which was won by Republican Pat O'Malley. In 1993, the redistricting of the 27th district allowed Maureen Murphy (R-38) to defeat Andy McGann, John McNamara's candidate. John won his last race against John Houlihan who was supported by Mayor Kolb and other members of the coalition.

To date, there are two candidates for mayor, John McNamara and Ernie Kolb. Formal announcements will be printed at a later date with a full slate of candidates including Village Clerk and three trustees.



"Fore the Children" golf outing organizers from First National Bank of Evergreen Park and others gather before tee-off at the event benefiting Christ Hospital's new Hope Children's Hospital. They are, from left, (front) Kathleen Mahoney, Ken Ozinga, Rabi Sulayman, M.D., and Mark Wojack; (center) Roberta Bauer-Micetic, Noreen Mikols and Bob Mayo; and (back) Gaines Wilson, Shawn Feeley and Bill McKnight.

Evergreen Bank golf outing benefits Christ Hospital's Hope Children's Hospital

About 200 business professionals and community members played golf "Fore the Children" May 31. The benefit golf outing at Cog Hill Country Club raised more than $53,000 to benefit the new Hope Children's Hospital at Christ Hospital and Medical Center, Oak Lawn. Proceeds from the outing, which was sponsored by First National Bank of Evergreen Park, will help offset costs of the new hospital, currently under construction on the main hospital campus in Oak Lawn. The four-story, 60 bed children's hospital is designed to address the special needs of critically and chronically ill children. Construction, to be complete in the fall, will cost $25 million with $10 million coming from philanthropic gifts.

Fundraiser raises large sum for law suit

By Carlene O'Connor

On June 17th, village trustees of Evergreen Park voted unanimously to grant licenses to the following businesses:

Bit of Bread
3140 W. 92nd
Specialty Bread
Harris Bank
9950 S. Kedzie
Banking Facility
Baines Builders
3550 W. 95th
Builders and Developers
Technique
Evergreen Plaza
Men's clothing

In other events the United Homeowners Party President Jeff Layhe, Treasurer Bill Gasselin and Recording Secretary, Laura Shallou presented the Mayor with a large cardboard check for $13,500. The money was collected at the May 19th fund raising rally. Proceeds are to benefit the village's legal fees in the fight against the cemetery development at 87th Street and Kedzie Avenue. The developer Centrum sued the village after being denied a request to rezone the property last October

On the day of a Bulls game, 450 people paid $25 each at Burkes Restaurant to enjoy music, food, and speeches. Hundreds of other people, unable to go, sent donations for the cause.

Mayor Vacco said, "To raise this kind of money is fantastic. The people of Evergreen Park have again showed their support for the village. This money is going to come in pretty handy."

In another money matter, after next election, raises take effect for the mayor and village clerk. The mayor's salary will be raised to $50,245 and the clerk will receive $36,455. The board voted unanimously to grant these raises of 5 percent.

Both mayor and clerk are up for election in April, 1997. Vacco has been mayor since 1968 and Sexton has been clerk since last November.

At the age of 71, is Mayor Vacco running again? All he said at the meeting was, "I'm sure the mayor ,whoever that may be, will thank you for the increase. If it is me, I'll thank you."

The next village board meeting is Monday, July 1. at 7:30 in the Village Hall.

Dr. Casey reports lower circulation for May

Village construction and inclement weather possibly contributed to Oak Lawn Library lower circulation figures for May according to James B. Casey, library director. In his report to the library board at its regular meeting June 18th, Dr. Casey indicated that overall circulation declined by three percent. However, audiovisual circulation, which includes TV and audio tapes, increased by five and a half percent.

Dr. Casey also reported that the construction and reorganization of administrative offices will be completed in June. Work has begun on a building a local history work room and a meeting room/ classroom. These rooms and the new offices are located in the lower level area formerly housing the reference service of the Suburban Library System (SLS). SLS moved reference to the Oak Park Library three years ago which made space available for the changes.

In regular business, the board approved payment of $46,268 for library materials; $24,857 for general operating expenses; and $131,341 for personnel. In an annual review of policies, the board approved the Freedom of Information Act, Software Policy and Orientation of New Board Members.

The boards approved the Application for Per Capita Grant and the Illinois Public Library Annual Report. These documents are submitted annually to the State of Illinois as required for consideration for state funds.

Board meetings are held at 7:30 p.m. the third Tuesday of each month in the library's lower level Oak Lawn Rotary Room. Meetings are open to the public. The library is located at 5300 W. 95th St.

Marathon race benefits Garden Center

RUN FOR YOUR LIFE!... was the theme of a recent fund-raiser sponsored by a fine group of independent reliv distributors to benefit Garden Center for the Handicapped in Burbank, IL. The marathon race began in Zion and finished in Ravina. The eager runners raised needed funds for Garden Center and hope to triple their efforts next year! Garden Center for the Handicapped acknowledges with gratitude the efforts of the reliv runners.

St. Laurence's student newspaper recognized as "Outstanding"

The St. Laurence HELM recently received notification from the American Scholastic Press Association that it has been recognized with a FIRST PLACE WITH SPECIAL MERIT award. The HELM received 940 points out of a possible 1000 in a variety of journalistic categories, and was judged to be "an Outstanding overall example of a scholastic publication in format, content, and presentation."

Areas specifically rated as outstanding included content coverage, page design, editing, graphics, display advertising and creativity.

Over 500 high schools and colleges from across the United States submitted their school's newspaper to the American Scholastic Press Association for review and evaluation.

Two juniors serve as Co-Editors-in-Chief of the HELM, Dave Pfeiffer (Oak Lawn-St. Gerald) and Ed Rybka (Oak Lawn-St. Gerald). They assign stories to the writers, oversee the layout of each page decide what photos will be used, supervise the sale of advertisements, and serve as the copy editors. Pfeiffer and Rybka typically contribute a column or article to each edition as well. Pfeiffer was surprised when asked about the HELM's extraordinary achievement.

This summer Pfeiffer and Rybyka, along with staff writers Joe Mara and Eric Fitzpatrick, have been selected to attend a summer journalism workshop at Ball State University in Muncie, Indiana. All four students have been awarded full stipends covering their tuition and housing costs while attending the week long workshop.

Renowned scientist visits McAuley chemistry class

A simple request to a famous person resulted in an exciting reply as Mother McAuley High School student Katie Drozdek recently found out. At the suggestion of her teacher, she wrote a short letter to Dr. Donald L. Showalter of the University of Wisconsin at Steven Point requesting he visit her chemistry class. The renowned scientist, professor and author responded positively and enthusiastically. On May 20, the Mother McAuley High School chemistry students were pleasantly surprised and delighted when Dr. Donald L. Showalter arrived at the school to demonstrate some interesting and memorable science experiments. The students witnessed chemical changes, transformations and some explosive reactions during a one and a half hour display of chemical wonders. The session ended with a standing ovation for Dr Showalter.

Dr. Showalter is currently a Professor of Chemistry and is nationally recognized as the television demonstrator for the "World of Chemistry" video series. He has received many awards including the UWSP Outstanding Teaching Award in 1980. He is the first Director of UWSP's Center for Faculty Development, and frequently serves as Teaching Consultant for University faculty. In 1994, he received the University of Wisconsin Board of Regents Excellence in Teaching Award. Dr. Showalter's research interests lie in the area of radiochemistry and its application to the analysis of environment samples. He serves as a consultant to the Radiation Protection Group at the State of Laboratory of Hygiene in Madison, Wisconsin

Restoration ensures Israel's history in Mediterranean Akko

Akko, situated on the Mediterranean just north of Haifa and west of the Sea of Galilee, has a rich history that spans the centuries, a history currently being highlighted and counterpointed by a tasteful, ecologically-balanced yet ambitious program call the AKKO PROJECT. Akko has been a village, a fishing hamlet, a city, a pilgrims' port, a fortress and a prison. The Assyrians were here. So were Macedonia's Alexander the Great, and Egypt's Ptolemy. And the Saracens, Crusader, Mamelukes and Ottomans. Napoleon wanted to get to AKKO too, but was defeated by the moat his Crusader ancestors had built six centuries earlier.

The AKKO PROJECT, begun in 1994, that is designed to bring Akko into the 21st century, at the same time preserving its intricacy, majesty and charm, not to mention the souvenirs left by the parade of civilizations.

Akko is a living encyclopedia. It's mentioned in the Old Testament book of Judges Tel Akko, a layered archeological mound, attests to Akko's origins as a Canaanite city.

Today, Akko is a town of some 60,000 inhabitants, the majority of whom live north and east of the old town in the adjoining "new city" of Akko, built since Israel's independence in 1948.

But the old City is where the charm resides. The market that laces its way through the center of Akko is one of Israel's most attractive, retaining a uniquely Middle Eastern character.

Travelers shouldn't miss the ominous Citadel, built by the Crusaders and fortified by the Turks to withstand napoleon's onslaught. In the 1940's this was a British jail, where Jewish underground fighters were imprisoned and executed in the years between the holocaust and Israel's independence.

The AKKO PROJECT will restore and preserve all of these elements, at the same time improving the lot of the residents of the old city.

For more information on visiting Akko, call the Israel Government Tourist Office at 800-596-1199.

Naples beach Hotel & Golf Club offers 50th anniversary rate

The Naples Beach Hotel & Golf Club is celebrating its 50th anniversary with a rate of $50 per person, per night based on double occupancy and availability--through Sept. 30--with up to two children under 18 staying free.

Owned and operated since 1946 by the Watkins family, the 316 room hotel is located at the western edge of the Everglades national Park on the Gulf of Mexico, 40 minutes south of Southwest Florida International Airport in Ft. Myers.

The 125 acre resort provides guests a relaxing paradise with pristine beaches, tropical gardens, an 18 hole, par 72 championship golf course, golf school, four Har-Tru tennis courts, an oversized swimming pool, regional cuisine in three restaurants, two bars, evening entertainment, complimentary "Beach Klub for Kids," world-class shopping in Naples, sailing and windsurfing.

Within the hotel's six residential buildings are rooms ranging from deluxe guest rooms to one and two bedroom suite arrangements overlooking either the Gulf of Mexico or the golf course. Recently the hotel completed a $10 million refurbishment in anticipation of its 50th anniversary.

For reservations, call the Naples Beach Hotel & Golf Club at (800) 237-7600 or via the Internet at http://www.naplesbeachhotel.com.

'Let the Games Begin' with Brasstown Valley Summer Adventure Packages

Not all the games will be in Atlanta this summer. In fact, "the games"--not to be confused with the Olympic games--are already underway in Georgia's Blue Ridge Mountains with Brasstown Valley Resort's "Family Mountain Adventure" and "Mountain Golf" packages.

The "Family Mountain Adventure" package, available June 9 through Aug. 29, includes mountain lodge room for four, a hearty breakfast buffet, two-for-one admission to "Kids Club," two hours daily tennis court use and use of the Health and Fitness Center. The package is $169 per night, exclusive of taxes and gratuities.

Through Nov. 16, the resort offers golfers the chance to learn why "Golf Digest" named Brasstown's 7,100 yard, par 72 course one of the 10 best places to play golf in Georgia. The "Mountain Golf" package includes deluxe accommodations in the resort's 102 room mountain lodge, daily breakfast, unlimited golf, cart usage for 18 holes, unlimited use of driving range and complimentary use of the Health and Fitness Center. The package is $129 per person, per night, exclusive of taxes and gratuities.

Located 100 miles north of Atlanta, within a 503 acre protected forest overlooking Three Sisters Mountain, Brasstown Valley Resort features health and fitness center with steam room, sauna, whirlpool and massage; miles of hiking trails, lighted tennis courts, indoor-outdoor swimming pool, restaurant and lounges, country crafts shop and golf and tennis pro shop. Near the property and coordinated by the resort are white water rafting, mountain biking, horseback riding, boating and rock climbing. Additionally, Brasstown Creek is a source for the prime ingredient of Georgia's best trout dinners.

For package information and reservations please call (800) 201-3205.

Cruises at North Pier down the Chicago River and Lake Michigan

By Annette Dixon

A cool way to enjoy yourself for 90 minutes is to take a trip on the Chicago River!

The cruises at North Pier are not only architectural but historical. Aboard the vessel you'll witness the story of how Chicago emerged and grew. You'll view the magnificent skyline of Chicago, the culmination of centuries of progress and a profile recognized around the world. From Marquette and Joliet exploration to the securing of Ft. Dearborn, you will learn the history along seeing the sites of Chicago! Jo Anne, the tour guide and architectural expert, is not only knowledgeable but theatrical in her performance.

There are two separate tours. The alternate times are 9-11 a.m., 1 and 3 p.m. for a historical tour and 10-12 a.m., 2 and 4 p.m. for architectural tour.

North Pier is located at 465 East Illinois and for advance purchases, call 312-527-1977. Prices are $18 for adults, $16 for Senior citizens, $12 for ages 7-18. It is open 7 days a week through September.

Drury Lane Oakbrook presents "Seven Brides for Seven Brothers"

Drury Lane Oakbrook will present the ever popular musical SEVEN BRIDES FOR SEVEN BROTHERS scheduled to open on Sunday, July 7 at 7 p.m., Artistic Director Gary Griffin has announced. Directed and choreographed by Marc Robin, SEVEN BRIDES FOR SEVEN BROTHERS begin preview performances on Wednesday, July 3, and is scheduled to run through Sunday, August 18, at the Drury Lane, 100 Drury Lane in Oakbrook Terrace.

Set in the Oregon territory in the 1850's, Adam, the oldest of the Pontabee brothers, decides to find a bride. In town he meets Milly, a waitress, and woos, marries and takes her back to his homestead, which is considerably less civilized than she'd expected. Soon Adam's brothers decide they, too, would like some female company. When they kidnap some local beauties one winter evening, an avalanche prevents the townspeople from rescuing the girls.

Tickets for SEVEN BRIDES FOR SEVEN BROTHERS are available at the Drury Lane Oakbrook Terrace box office or by calling the box office at (708) 530-0111. Tickets are also available at all Ticketmaster outlets or by calling Ticketmaster at (312) 902-1500.

Theatre Alive

By Georgean Fitzgerald

If you like the Three Stooges with their slapstick comedy style or the antics of comic Jerry Lewis, then you'll love the production of THE NERD by Larry Shue. It was the first great success of Larry Shue, the Illinois-raised Milwaukee based playwright. His blooming career ended sadly with his death at age 39 in a plane crash. Shue had written three full-length plays from 1981 to 1984 when he was a playwright-in-residence at the Milwaukee Repertory Theater: "The Nerd"," The Foreigner", and "Wenceslas Square". THE NERD was a smash hit in London where it played in 1985, becoming the highest grossing American comedy in the West End. When the Milwaukee Repertory Theater brought it back for an encore this year, it broke more box office records. The scenario is this: On the evening of his birthday party, Willum Cubbert played by Rick Grubbs receives a phone call from Rick Steadman, the nerd (Randall Newsome). He is the man who saved Willum Cubbert's life in Vietnam, but whom Willum has never met. Rick Steadman, the nerd, exclaims that he is on his way to visit, and planning to spend a few days there with him

Upon hearing that a party is in progress, he succeeds in frightening Thor Waldgrave (Michael Musser) the son of party guests Warnock and Celia Waldgrave (Dale Benson and Mary Zentmyer), which is just a taste for everyone of what is to come.

Our nerdy hero (Randy Newsome) turns his architect buddy's (Rick Grubbs) life into total chaos in Larry Shue's hit comedy THE NERD, playing at Candlelight's Forum Theatre through August 25. Call 708/496-3000 for tickets

Through various and contrived manipulations The nerd is able to create bedlam and havoc. The nerd is even able to maneuver the guests through hilarious and precarious actions. For example to save the party from totally disintegrating, he manages to get the guest to agree to playing a game which requires them to remove their shoes and socks, and wearing a brown paper bag over their heads He turns Willum's birthday party into shambles. His constant presence in Willum's home creates a very negative environment in which Willum loses autonomy and the nerd runs the show! De je vous! Help from Willum's friends with possible ploys to get him to leave are unsuccessful.

A last ditch effort is surprising, and a bit jarring to the audience who have enjoyed several hours laughing their heads off! The nerdy hero of this comedy works in a chalk factory, wears a snap-on tie, and enjoys playing a tambourine version of the National Anthem He is successfully disruptive and turns his host's life into an unbearable mess.

Director Larry Wyatt has done a commendable job of staging and getting all of the countless action and nuances delivered. Perhaps some business might have been cut and shortened, but for the most part THE NERD moved right along. Lindley Curry is Willum's pretty girl friend who wants him to be more aggressive and Michael Weber, the couple's self-centered friend, contributes most of the play's wit and the surprise ending.

The audience never stopped laughing,which is a good indication they enjoyed the show.

Former All American to direct Peace Volleyball Program

Queen of Peace High School is proud to welcome Peggy Van Waard-Meyer as the new Varsity Volleyball Coach. In this capacity, Van Waard-Meyer will coach the varsity team, and direct a volleyball program which has established itself as one of the best in the state. Last year's Peace athletes distinguished themselves with a fourth place state final.

Van Waard-Meyer, who has been playing volleyball for twenty-five years, was one of the first women to receive a full athletic scholarship to Pepperdine University. As a member of the Pepperdine team, Van Waard-Meyer enjoyed playing in the National Championships, and earned distinction as a recipient of the All-American Award.

She has served as the Assistant Coach at the University of California at Santa Barbara, and instructed at the California Style Volleyball Camps for the West Coast and Southeast states.

Moraine Valley Procurement Center helps area business

Some local businesses are thriving thanks to Moraine Valley Community College's Procurement Assistance Center.

The center, which assists small businesses in accessing government markets, has been in existence for more than seven years. It serves more than 100 clients, and has helped them receive more than $24 million in contracts during this fiscal year alone.

The center's most recent success story is Nav-Aids USA, an Orland Park company that is the country's primary distributor of adaptors, kits, and peripheral equipment used to test aircraft Pitot and static pressure systems while planes are still on the ground. Since becoming a client of the center, the company has been awarded more than $500,000 in government contracts.

The Procurement Assistance Center provides small businesses with access to bid information for government agencies and assistance with the paperwork needed to obtain those contracts. There are 14 such centers in Illinois; Moraine Valley's serves many of Chicago's south and west suburbs. The program assists all types of small businesses ranging from construction companies to computer consultants.

Interested clients begin by filling out a small business profile form, which helps the center determine how to best help the company. Sometimes a visit to the company is also needed.

Clients are then assisted with the paperwork involved in pre-qualifying with the government for bidding opportunities. Pre-qualifying lets businesses know how high they can bid on certain projects. These limits can be renegotiated after time. After pre-qualification, businesses are given access to electronic bid leads through the federal Acquisition Computer Network. These are updated every day, and most companies receive five to 10 per week.

In addition to the bid leads, clients are given access to a wide variety of small business expos and educational opportunities, as well as a monthly newsletter and calendar of events.

For more information call Montrey Balmer at (708) 974-5469.

New Lincoln sculpture donated to State Historical Library

A new sculpture of Abraham Lincoln by noted Des Plaines artist George E. Hall has been donated to the Henry Horner Lincoln Collection at the Illinois State Historical Library in Springfield.

Hall worked with 28th District State Senator Marty Butler (R-Des Plaines) to find an appropriate and permanent place for its display. Butler suggested the Illinois State Historical Library, which contains the nation's largest collection of pre-Presidential Lincoln material. The Hall piece can now be viewed Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the State Historical Library, which is located beneath the Old State Capitol State Historic Site in downtown Springfield.

Little Company receives J. C. Penny Donation

Little Company of Mary Hospital and Health Care Centers was the recipient of a $1,000 donation from J. C. Penny's, thanks to the efforts of a local high school student.

Shivendu Parikh, a graduating senior from Reavis High School who is going on to Purdue University, was recently awarded the J. C. Penny Golden Rule Award. This award is presented to volunteers throughout the city in recognition of their hard work and dedication. He received a plaque and a crystal flame trophy. Little Company was presented with the check as part of Shivendu's award.

Shivendu is a volunteer in his community, and has donated over 500 hours to Little Company as a Junior Volunteer throughout his high school career.

Little Company Junior Volunteer Shivendu Parikh shows Sister Kathleen McIntyre, L.C.M., Little Company President, the plaque and trophy he received as a J.C. Penny Golden Rule Award winner. He presented Sister Kathleen with a check for $1,000 from J. C. Penny.

Shivendu's story goes beyond the award. He alerted the Volunteer Department of the existence of the Golden Rule Award, and asked to be nominated. His goal was to get the cash prize for Little Company. The check was presented at the recent end-of-school party for all of Little Company's Junior Volunteers, a group made up of high school students from throughout the Southside who donate their free time to Little Company.

The July meeting for the H.O.P.E. Group of St. Linus (a support group for those who have lost a loved one) will have an Annual Picnic on Sunday, July 21st. It will be held at Wolfe Wildlife Park, 4935 W. 109th St. at 1 p.m. Please bring a folding chair and finger food for six servings.

Little Company celebrates life

Nearly 200 community members celebrated Cancer Survivors Day with Little Company of Mary Hospital and Health Care Centers on Sunday, June 2.

The day started with Mass in the Hospital Chapel, which was filled to capacity. All of the cancer survivors who attended were honored and special devotions were said for those who help with encouragement, health care and research.

After the mass, participants enjoyed a light complimentary brunch in the hospital. All participants received a special gift -- a sandwich saver. Cancer survivors were also given hats with a sunburst symbolizing life and their victory over, or day-to-day victories over cancer.

Water Tower brings dinosaurs to Michigan Avenue

Chicago's world-renowned shopping center, Water Tower Place at 835 N. Michigan Ave. and the Museum of Science and Industry have joined forces for "The Dinosaurs of Jurassic Park" exhibition, through July 31. Water Tower Place shoppers will be able to catch a glimpse of the Museum of Science and Industry's "The Dinosaurs of Jurassic Park" exhibition, part of the Museum's summer spectacular, "Move Magic and Monsters," right on the Magnificent Mile.

As Water Tower Place shoppers ascent the Michigan Avenue entrance escalators, nine swooping pterosaurs will lead them into the atrium area, where they will be greeted by a 57-foot (five story) dinosaur image. Shoppers wanting to experience "The Dinosaurs of Jurassic Park" exhibition at the Museum of Science and Industry can obtain a VIP voucher at the Jurassic Information Center which is located on the seventh level of Water Tower Place. The VIP voucher allows express entry access for up to four people into "The Dinosaurs of Jurassic Park" exhibition with the purchase of Museum general admission tickets. The vouchers are valid for one visit during regular Museum hours for a seven day period from the date of issue.

In addition, visitors to the Museum of Science and Industry through July 31, 1996, will receive a VIP savings card when presenting their Museum ticket stub at any Water Tower Place Information Center. The VIP savings card can be used for special savings and offers at participating Water Tower Place shops and restaurants. The VIP savings card is valid for one week after date of issue.

"The Dinosaurs of Jurassic Park," a 7,500-square-foot exhibition that has successfully toured science museums nationwide, will be at the Museum of Science and Industry through September

The exhibition combines the models and props used in Steven Spielberg's film, with actual dinosaur fossils and video clips from the film.

In "The Jungle" section, visitors will be transported to Jurassic Park itself and come face-to-face with the film's threatening velociraptors, venom-spitting dilophosaurus, ailing triceratops and all of their prehistoric friends, including a 40-foot-long/ 20-foot-tall Tyrannosaurus rex.

The Props section allows visitors to see some of the actual props used in the filming of Jurassic Park. The Scientific Evidence section provides insight into the science behind the study of dinosaurs and allows visitors to examine real dinosaur fossils.

Fireside Theatre presents "The Will Rogers Follies"

Danny Pickett stars as Will Rogers with Michelle Smith as Betty Blake, Parisa Ross as Ziegfeld's Favorite, Jeff Wolf as Clem Rogers, and a supporting cast of 12 dancers selected from The Fireside's New York auditions.

The Fireside Restaurant and Playhouse in Fort Atkinson is currently featuring one of its most lavish musical productions ever. The funny and richly produced WILL ROGERS FOLLIES enjoyed a three year run on Broadway and won six Tony Awards including Best Musical.

Enlightening as well as entertaining. The WILL ROGERS FOLLIES features Will Rogers recounting the story of his life through poignant flashbacks, toe-tapping melodies, and his own wry and witty observations of life set between a series of spectacular Ziegfeld Follies production numbers. As beautiful Ziegfeld girls harden to a show biz era gone by, the captivating musical score and timely humor cleverly bring the show roaring into the 90's.

THE WILL ROGERS FOLLIES will run through August 4th with nine performances weekly Wednesday through Sunday. Discounts are available for the July 4th holiday week on all performances from July 3-7. The Fireside is located on Business 26 on the south side of Fort Atkinson. For tickets or additional information, call 800-477-9505.

Eight tips for spotting telemarketing scams

You can't be conned when you know what to watch for

Phone fraud and telemarketing scams cost businesses and consumers more than $2 billion each year. According to AT & T, you can avoid becoming a victim by watching for certain warning signals.

Be suspicious if. .

1. The company has a name that is intended to sound like a government agency or a well-known business.
2. You must act on the offer the same day.
3. The telemarketer acts like he or she has done business with you before.
4. The company is unwilling to send you written information on the offer or give you references.
5. The caller asks for a credit card or purchase order number as identification.
6. The caller claims you've won a prize....and you haven't entered a contest.
7. You're asked to provide a credit card number in order to qualify for a prize.
8. You have to pay a fee before you receive complimentary goods or services.

Remember, no legitimate company will ever call you to ask for credit card numbers or purchase order information unless you actually initiated the sales transaction.

St. Fabian holds garage sale

The St. Fabian Phoenix Group will hold its annual garage sale on Saturday, June 29th at 8 a.m. until 12:30 p.m. (rain or shine). The sale will take place in the parish parking lot at 8300 South Oketo Avenue, Bridgeview. In case of rain, it will be held indoors in Kash Hall.

Donated household items will be accepted and may be dropped off at the Parish Center. Please no clothing or shoes.

Further information can be obtained by calling (708) 458-8923.

Oak Lawn Park District receives Bureau Local Grant

The Oak Lawn Park District was one of nine municipalities/organizations to receive a Local Grant Award from the Board of Directors of the Chicago Southland Convention and Visitors Bureau for the first 1997 grant period.

The Oak Lawn Park District received a $1,020 grant to promote the Southland Senior Games. The Southland Senior Games is a first time event taking place August 15-22,1996. This event is for seniors and their families in Illinois, Indiana, Michigan and Wisconsin and features approximately 13 different venues with over 50 different events. The Oak Lawn Park District will use the $1,020 to print registration brochures, signs and flyers.

The intent of the Local Grant Program is to increase visitors travel into and throughout the Chicago Southland region and to increase hotel/motel tax occupancy, thereby positively affecting the economic vibrancy of the Chicago Southland.

St. Laurence student receives Chick Evans Scholarship

Everyone has heard somewhere along their high school or college career, "You out to make the most out of your years here." Pat Kennedy, a 1996 graduate of St. Laurence High School, is the epitome of that statement. His hard work and dedication in and out of school culminated recently when he was presented with the Chick Evans Scholarship.

Pat graduated 5th in the senior class, carried a 4.34 G.P.A., and was involved with every activity under the sun at Saint Laurence. With all the responsibility he took upon himself, it boggles the mind how he can still find the time to be so attentive and friendly to everyone he comes in contact with.

Aside from being one of the top five students in the senior class, Kennedy has a multitude of side interests. Pat played tennis all four years, and he was the captain during his sophomore and senior seasons. This past season Kennedy and his partner finished third in first doubles in the Catholic League and were named to the all-Catholic team. He also had served as a manager for the basketball team during his last three years at St. Laurence. While juggling a full course load, this would seem like enough for anyone, yet there is more still.

Kennedy had been a computer lab assistant and helped network the computer system in the library.

Pat was a member of the Math team and the Junior Engineering and Technical Society.

Earning the scholarship was not a minor accomplishment. First, he had to qualify for it by proving a solid caddie record (at Beverly Country Club) and academic excellence.

Kennedy, a Bridgeview resident and graduate of St. Bede's Grammar School, also received favorable recommendations from prestigious members at the Country Club. This process was followed by two rounds of interviews, conducted by executive members of the Western Golf Association.

Kennedy will be attending Northwestern in the fall.

While strolling downtown recently along Wacker and Michigan, I was diligently observing the no walking sign at the stop light.

Standing at the curbside waiting for the light to change two handsome, young, white males between the ages of 28-35, well dressed in business attire approached me, and one of the men a handsome black hair, blue eye gentlemen said, "I have a very personal question to ask you. We are doing a research on weight management." Then we exchanged business cards. I knew at that moment I should have said back off, I don't answer personal questions. But being as polite as I am, I just couldn't do that to these magnificent looking men.

Therefore, I answered a simple question. The question was, "Out of fifty people that I know, do I know anyone trying to lose weight; and if so how many times have these people tried to lose weight." I answered, "I know only three people trying to lose weight, others just are opting to remain fat!" Next question, which I knew was coming." Do you have high cholesterol or high blood pressure!"

Well, I'm sure these two good looking guys were very observant for I know my face was beet red! "Yes, I nodded and also voiced sheepishly." That did it, they were going to introduce me to Fibrenet a product that was guaranteed to help me.

I'm sure that I was the first person they approached for their writing tablet was blank and their delivery was staggered. Now I was fine until I got home and told my husband about the incident! "Rich," I asked, "do I look that bad that I could become approachable for this type of harassment?" Well you know what husbands usually say, "No, Honey, you look all right to me."

After about a week, I concluded that with my gullible, sincere, lovable face and being that I had that beautiful clean, suburban look, I was very approachable. Also, I realize they didn't want a consumer of products, they wanted an independent distribution for their network marketing company. Well, not this girl, I've had it with health products. My allergies can't take it!

This column was dedicated to one of the young men that approached me:

Letter to the Editor

The Hon. Kirk Brown
Secretary
Illinois Department of Transportation
2300 S. Dirksen Parkway
Springfield, Illinois 62764

Dear Secretary Brown:

I am writing to you to voice my support of the Cook County Highway Department's plan to connect Central Avenue and the Tri-State Tollway with an interchange and bridge spanning the Calumet Sag Channel in Alsip.

I believe this is plan that all area municipalities and government officials should support as a way to alleviate the dangerous congestion at 127th Street and Cicero Avenue. As you well know, that intersection has had more traffic accidents than any other since 1988 and it is imperative that we move as quickly as possible to improve this situation.

As Congressman for this area and a member of the House Committee on Infrastructure and Transportation, I pledge to do all I can to help bring this project to fruition.

Sincerely,

William O. Lipinski, M.C.
Third District - Illinois

Senator O'Malley to address Oak Lawn Rotary

Illinois State Senator Patrick J. O'Malley, of the 18th District, will speak before the Oak Lawn Rotary,, Monday, July 22, following a 12:15 luncheon, at the Oak Lawn Holiday Inn, 4140 W. 95th Street, Oak Lawn.

Stan Dawson, Coordinator, announced that the senator will be speaking on the current legislation affecting the southwest area of Cook County.

Senator O'Malley is the majority whip. He is also an attorney and received his law degree from The John Marshall Law School. Senator James "Pate" Philip, President of the Illinois State Senate, has stated, "Senator O'Malley is a sponsor of the most comprehensive legislative effort against gangs and drug dealers in two decades."

Library distribution of community flyers and publications

Flyers, newsletters and other publications which community groups or organizations would like displayed at the Oak Lawn Public Library, 5300 W. 95th Street must be pre-approved before placement. Don't forget Mayor Daley's Senior Picnic, July 16th at Kennedy Park.

Battle of the bulge

By Dr. Ted Christou
Board Certified Internist with a clinical interest in Geriatrics and Preventive Medicine.

As summer approaches and we put away the bulky sweaters and warm clothes many of us will uncover a few extra pounds or inches that have somehow invaded our waistline. Is this just a little winter weight or is it obesity? The answer will take a pencil and paper.

- Men: Add 106 lbs. plus 6 lbs. for every inch of your height over 60 inches (5 feet).
- Women: To 100 lbs. add 5 lbs. for every inch over 60 inches
- To this base number you can add 10% if you have a large frame.
- If you are under five feet tall, subtract 3 lbs. for every inch under 5 feet.
- This number is your Ideal Body Weight or IBW.
- Take 20% of this number by multiplying it by .2 and add it to your IBW.

If your weight is 20% over this Ideal Body Weight you may be classified as obese. Obesity is a chronic disease for which there is no cure or magic pill. There is treatment, however. Obese people are more likely to have problems with arthritis, hypertension, circulation, gallbladder stones, breathing, diabetes, cholesterol or fats in the bloodstream. You can be obese and still be in good cardiovascular shape if you exercise. Aerobic exercise, such as biking or walking 20 minutes daily, is an ideal way to improve overall cardiovascular fitness, increase the use of fatty acids by muscle, slow down bone loss which prevents osteoporosis, reduce body fat sores, and even reduce appetite. Combining exercise with healthy eating often leads to weight loss.

Trying to follow a temporary detailed eating plan will allow you to lose weight. But it is better to change your eating habits instead of dieting. Otherwise the weight you lose will find its way back faster than it left - just about as soon as you leave the plan. Try a change in tactics. A healthy approach is to eat 3-4 times per day, limit fat intake, and aim to consume about 10 to 15 calories for each pound of your ideal body weight. In addition to exercise and diet, it important to modify the social or circumstantial behaviors related to eating. About 40% of those who seek diet help are binge-eaters. There are many emotional and social pressures involved in binging and over-eating. Keep a food diary and record what you eat, and what you were feeling at the time you were eating or overeating. Have a designated eating place. Always eat in the same place while sitting at a table where you do nothing else but eat. By eliminating eating in bed, on the couch, while watching TV, or reading the newspaper, you are less likely to have these objects and places stimulate your appetite.

In your war against the invading fat, the combination of a sound and healthy diet, behavior modification, exercise, and medication will help you shed those unwanted pounds or inches.

La Festa del Giglio at Montefiori to feature Daylily Hybrids

Montefiori, a unique 40-acre garden and dining facility located just 28 miles southwest of Chicago at 11250 S. Archer Ave., in Lemont, will present La Festa del Giglio ("Festival of the Flowers") on Sunday, July 21, from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m.

The special event will include a presentation of day lilies by the Fields of Canton Farm, a premiere grower of hybrid daylilies.

In addition, La Festa del Giglio's 'Pranzo al Fresco' will include a spectacular five-course dinner, beginning with an antipasto course presented in a beautiful display and passed on trays. The buffet dinner will feature a choice of roast tenderloin of beef Arrosto Misto Alla Toscana--roast tenderloin of beef, pork and game hen, served with roasted potatoes and steamed broccoli. A salad of wild greens and a pasta primavera will be included. Dessert will include chilled fresh fruit, Italian cookies, and rich coffee. Red and white table wine will be poured throughout the dinner.

Live musical entertainment, bocce and croquet, as well as tours of the lush, ever-evolving gardens will be provided.

Valet parking is available. Cost is $40 for adults, $25 for children under 12, tax included. Reservations are required. Send a self-addressed stamped envelope with a check payable to Montefiori, Ltd., to Montefiori, Ltd., 11250 S. Archer Avenue, Lemont, IL 60439, or call (708) 257-7283.

Showboat now playing at the Auditorium Theatre

By Annette Dixon

SHOW BOAT the extravaganza that Chicago will hope to see again. Some 170 people are responsible for each performance of SHOW BOAT. This story is almost like a modern day story for it takes place on the muddy Mississippi River. The barge (Molly Able) measures 4' wide by 20' long. It tows the Cotton Blossom which is a "floating palace", which measure 25' tall, 5' wide and 48' long.

Livent Inc.'s new $9 million Chicago production of SHOW BOAT, the Jerome Kern and Oscar Hammerstein II landmark musical saga directed by Harold Prince, is now on stage at the Auditorium Theatre, 312-922-2110. Tickets are $13 to $70 and available through Ticketmaster at 312-902-1500.

The production features a star-studded cast including leads from the original Broadway cast John McMartin, Mark Jacoby and Michel Bell-- joined by Broadway legend Dorothy Loudon and eight-time Grammy Award-winning recording artist Marilyn McCoo. Other principal roles are performed by Gay Willis, Clare Leach and Jo Ann Hawkins White (all of whom also performed in SHOW BOAT in New York) plus Broadway performers Eddie Korbich, Todd Noel and Joanne McHugh. The majestic production calls for a cast of 71 classically trained and Broadway singers; 33 company members and five children are from the Chicagoland area.

The story line does not lack interest, for observing the audience they are literally intense listening to the show tunes of Jerome Kern's and Oscar Hammerstein II's. It becomes magic listening to Michel Bell (Joe) sing "Ol' Man River", Marilyn McCoo, is a great asset to SHOW BOAT. Marilyn as Julie not only tears at the heart but perks up the ears! Can't Help Lovin' Dat Man" and "Bill" become tunes that are romantic.

The question Harold Prince has been asked frequently is why he would be interested, after all the years of directing new musicals mounting a revival called SHOW BOAT. The following information is from Harold Prince and his creative team:

Well, SHOW BOAT is not just another American musical. This version of SHOW BOAT is culled from the original 1927 production, the subsequent London script, the 1946 Broadway revival and the 1936 film.

SHOW BOAT is essentially a celebration of the family (the nuclear family, yes, but also the extended family) and it is a love affair with theatre people.

Earlier SHOW BOAT's have been hampered by limitations imposed by stagecraft. In this version the designer, Eugene Lee, and I have taken advantage of modern techniques to create montages which integrate a leap of years, restore serious incidents and clarify plot and character motivations.

We have chosen to replace the conventional and irrelevant second-act opener at the Chicago World's Fair, returning instead to our principal story.

Prior to SHOW BOAT's opening in Toronto in the autumn of 1993, a minority within the city's black community expressed concern about a revival of SHOW BOAT on the basis of alleged racism.

Throughout pre-production and rehearsal, I was logue which may seem "Uncle Tom" today. However, I was determined not to re-written history.

committed to eliminate any inadvertent stereotype in the original material, dia-

Once our production was premiered in Toronto, the protesters' allegations were proven to be unfounded and the protests ended. I hope it becomes clear that SHOW BOAT's creators, cast and creative team share the deepest solidarity with those who have been victims of racism.

Illinois RiverWatch Network has successful first year

Lieutenant Governor Bob Kustra released the first annual report of RiverWatch Network, and lauded the operation for showing a positive start in creating a network of "Citizen Scientists" to monitor and protect the state's 32,190 miles of Illinois rivers and streams.

"After just one year of actual operation, the Illinois RiverWatch Network has hundreds of volunteers known as 'citizen scientists' who monitor and protect the state's rivers and streams," said Kustra. "These volunteers are trained to conduct biological stream monitoring, collect stream habitat data, clean up stream corridors and engage in a variety of other stream protection activities."

Illinois Natural Resources Department Director Brent Manning noted the report was being released during Rivers Appreciation Month and said Illinoisans are becoming increasingly aware of the important role rivers provide as habitat for plants and animals, for clean drinking water and for recreation.

In May, the RiverWatch Network joined forces with the private sector as Kustra and Motorola CEO Gary Tooker announced that Motorola became the first corporate sponsor of the network. Motorola will organize its employees to participate in RiverWatch activities in their home communities and will provide needed equipment and other resources.

In 1995, more than 500 Citizen Scientists collected data from 97 streams at 108 monitoring sites. Volunteers also participated in river and stream cleanups, removing more than 20 tons of garbage during the year.

The 1996 budget for the RiverWatch program totals $469,182, which includes $346,245 from AmeriCorps and $122,937 from the state. There are 18 full-time and 12 part-time AmeriCorps workers. RiverWatch has joined with the Rivers Project Curriculum at Southern Illinois University to work directly with teachers from schools around the state to integrate stream ecology into high school academic programs. The Department, in cooperation with the Illinois State Board of Education, is developing a high school science curriculum which integrates IDNR's scientific data and experience into high school academic programs. At least 150 high schools already have committed to the project and will conduct monitoring during the upcoming school year.

Additional information about the RiverWatch program can be obtained by contacting the Illinois Department of Natural Resources, Office of Realty and Environmental Planning, RiverWatch Network, 524 South Second Street, Springfield, IL 62701-1787, or call its 24-hour telephone number, 217/785-3415. ENTERTAINING IDEAS

Use Flowers To Set The Mood

(NAPS)—You don't have to be a blooming genius to come up with quick and colorful ways to make your next get-together memorable for its beauty and graciousness. Just follow this fresh idea from the experts at the California Cut Flower Commission: Go floral!

Here are hints on how:

Flowers can contribute to the mood of an evening. A loose bouquet of garden flowers strikes a casual note for a good time with good friends. A lavish display of such flowers as gladioli, peonies and roses can be a sophisticated touch for a larger party.

A summer barbecue can benefit from cut flowers placed in vases and set in pots about the patio. You may also consider it a bright idea to try sunflowers, stems cut to four inches, in small glass jars along the table.

A dinner party on a hot night can feel cooler when accompanied by flowers.

Flowers can play many roles: greet guests in the foyer, beautify a buffet, or highlight the special meaning of an event. For example, decorate an anniversary party with the flowers the bride carried on her wedding day. Decorate a birthday party with the month's own flowers. A baby shower can be decorated with baby's breath and tiny rosebuds; a wedding shower with bachelor's buttons.

Through the ages, successful hosts and hostesses have treated their guests to the luxury of fresh flowers. In fact, legend has it Cleopatra once had a whole lake scattered with rose petals to impress the people who came to call upon her.

Combine flowers with seasonal items: fruits, vegetables, flags for the Fourth of July or an Olympics-watching party. Add small sea shells to the bottom of a clear vase for a beach party look.

For bursts of color, combine bright colored flowers in glass vases of contrasting colors—a red vase with orange tulips, a blue vase with yellow roses. Coordinate with multi-colored napkins.

Your choice of containers can enhance the effect. Old glass jars, watering cans, baskets and jugs work for casual occasions; crystal, porcelain and silver for elegant events. For an afternoon gathering, put a tea cup with two or three flowers at each guest's place.

For a bouquet of mixed colors, a container of one color is best. For a monochromatic, or one color bouquet, you can use a more decorative container.

Be sure the arrangement fits its surroundings. It should be in proportion to the size and shape of the table. Guests should be able to see each other across the centerpiece and flowers should not droop over dinner plates. Avoid heavy scented flowers where people are eating.

Flowers can even adorn food: try a carnation on the bread plate, nasturtiums on a salad or a chrysanthemum floating in chilled soup. Decorate the top of a cake with real roses and pansies and wind a tendril of ivy around the base for something that looks like much more than just dessert.

Flowers really go well with candles. Place one or two stems of flowers in small crystal vases and alternate them with candles in crystal holders down the length of the table.

Here's a lovely and gracious way to end the evening: Give each guest a flower to take home.

Use these tips to turn over a new leaf when it comes to party decor and you may find having a fine time can be more like a bed of roses.

Tips On Barbecuing: Weather Or Not

(NAPS)—All around the country, Americans are anxious to fire up their outdoor barbecue grills. Apartment and condominium dwellers who dream of barbecuing a thick, juicy steak on their balcony can also get into the act—with an electric grill. Perfect for condo and apartment complexes where charcoal and gas grills may be prohibited, electric grills offer safe grilling and great taste to those formerly relegated to away-from-home cookouts.

Perfect for condo and apartment complexes, electric grills offer safe grilling and great taste.

According to the Barbecue Industry Association, although only four percent of grills owned are electric, the styles of grills now available are becoming bigger and better. Some of the newest models provide the conveniences of gas and the authentic smoky flavor of charcoal.

Sunbeam® Outdoor Products Company has introduced the Electric Café, the largest electric grill on the market today. It has 350 square inches of cooking area—which means lots of space for cooking whole meals on the grill. The grill also has a special cooking grid and smoker tray features that provide barbecue lovers with the flavor of charcoal grilled foods. It even has a smoker box that holds wood chips to create a more intense smoky taste.

Best of all, use and care of the grill is a cinch. Its non-stick SilverStone® cooking grids clean up with hot soapy water and a non-metallic cleaning pad. The inside shell of the grill and the exterior can be cleaned with a damp cloth and a mild detergent. The grease cup should be checked and drained before each use.

The power cord is the final thing to keep in mind with an electric grill. The longer the cord, the more flexibility you'll have with where to place the grill. Extension cords should be avoided, as they will reduce the amount of electricity the grill receives—which means food will cook more slowly. Be sure it is out of the way so guests won't trip over it.

If gas or charcoal grills are not allowed where you live, an electric grill is the way to get tastebud-tempting barbecued foods!

Gas prices finally on decline

After four solid months of skyrocketing increases, gasoline prices in Illinois and Northern Indiana have begun to drop, according to the AAA-Chicago Motor Club's July Fuel Gauge Survey.

In Chicago and Cook County, average self-serve gasoline prices dipped 4.4 cents since last month. After reaching an all-time high in June, the average cost of self-serve unleaded regular gasoline is $1.423 a gallon, off 4.7 cents since June.

In Illinois outside of Cook County, average self-serve gas prices dropped 4.1 cents during the past month, rebounding from the highest average June prices since 1981. A gallon of self-serve unleaded regular averages $1.310, down 4.1 cents from last month.

In Norther Indiana, average self-serve pump prices dropped 4.4 cents per gallon since last month. A gallon of self-serve unleaded regular now averages $118.0, 4.6 cents lover than one month ago.

As July 3, 1996, the national average for a gallon of self-serve unleaded regular was $1.306, 1.6 cents lower than one month ago.

Despite the recent price relief, average gasoline prices in Chicago and Cook County and Illinois outside of Cook County remain at all-time summer highs, while Northern Indiana prices are at their highest summer levels since 1982.

Gasoline reserves seem to be catching up with the increased summer demand which is reflected in the lower prices, says Computer Petroleum Corp. (CPC), provider of data for AAA-CMC's Fuel Gauge Survey.

Women's Business and Buyers Mart to be held at Navy Pier

Helping plan the Women's Business and Buyers Mart to be held at Chicago's Navy Pier, 600 E. Grand, during the tenth anniversary Entrepreneurial Woman's Conference presented by the Women's Business Development Center (WBDC) on Thursday, Sept. 12, are (standing, from left) Diane Doers, area external program manager, IBM; Judith Phillips, senior vice president, Harris Trust & Savings Bank; Paul Cohen, minority/female business coordinator, ComEd; Patti Dudek, manager of community and client services, Chicago Sun-Times; Levy Moore, assistant director, Illinois Department of Commerce and Community Affairs (DCCA); Sandra Rand, minority business program manager, United Airlines; and Tim Cawley, president, Small Business Services Ameritech and chairperson of the Mart. Seated are WBDC co-founders and directors (from left) Hedy Ratner and Carol Dougal.

Saint Xavier and the Chicago Department of Health to offer immunizations

A community immunization Fair will take place from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Wednesday, July 17 in the Nursing Center of Saint Xavier University, located at 3700 W. 103rd Street in Chicago. The Fair offers people of all ages an opportunity to obtain MMR (Measles, mumps, rubella), polio, DPT and other vaccinations. Hepatitis B immunizations are only available for infants due to Department of Health policy. Free lead screening will also be available on this day only.

The program is a joint effort of the Saint Xavier University School of Nursing and the Chicago Department of Health. A donation of $10 per family is requested to help offset program costs, however, no one will be denied services.

A number of Saint Xavier nursing faculty will assist area families by providing the immunizations. Parents must accompany their children and bring immunization records. If these records are unavailable, please contact your physician for a copy.

No appointments are necessary. For more information on the Immunization Fair, call the Saint Xavier University School of Nursing at (312) 298-3731.

The Saint Xavier School of Nursing, founded in 1935, is one of the oldest baccalaureate programs in Illinois. Currently, over 600 students are enrolled in the National League of Nursing accredited bachelor and master of science nursing programs. The forty-member faculty team, one third of which are doctorally prepared, have implemented flexible programs of study including an RN/MS option, a partnership for learning with students, and an expansion of graduate programs. Recent initiatives include a nurse-managed center, a federally funded Family Nurse Practitioner program, and an option for practicing nurses (LPN's) to earn a bachelor's degree in nursing.

Clouds

I gazed into the clouded skies;
I swore I saw some angels there,
reclining on fluffy couches of white,
gathered round their holy mentor,
God, sitting on his golden throne.
Were they resting there in Heaven,
awaiting calls from troubled mortals?
Could one have been my own protector?
All too soon, the clouds the winds dispersed.
As I watched them fade away,
I wondered if they would reappear
on another windy cloudy day.

Hints For Sizzling Summer Fun

(NAPS)—According to the Barbecue Industry Association, the majority of today's backyard chefs rely on propane gas grills because they are easier to use, better for the environment and cost less to operate than their charcoal counterparts.

To enjoy a season filled with mouth-watering barbecues, the experts at the National Propane Gas Association suggest outdoor cooks begin by thoroughly cleaning the grill to remove any grease or grime left from previous cookouts, as well as checking to see if all the grill's components are working properly.

According to the NPGA, the proper steps to clean and check the grill are:

Step 1. Clean the burner and tubes. Greasy food drippings and hibernating insects can clog the burner's gas ports and short out the igniter's flame, making the grill difficult to start and causing an uneven flame.

• Before cleaning the burner and tubes, make sure the gas is turned off at the tank. Remove the briquettes and cooking grid and set them aside.

• Following the instructions in the owner's manual, unfasten the burner, slip the venturi tubes off the gas lines, and remove the unit as a whole.

• Remove any dirt or grease accumulation by using a soft cloth and soapy water.

• Towel dry, and clean out each burner with a toothpick.

• Clean out the venturi tubes with a non-metallic bottle brush, and set the entire assembly aside.

Step 2. Clean the grill housing. In order to prevent grease buildup and rust, clean both the inside and the outside of the grill.

• When cleaning, cover the gas orifices beneath the control panel with aluminum foil to keep water from causing corrosion.

• Scrub the grill's inner and outer surfaces with a brass-bristle brush and soapy water.

• Rinse the grill thoroughly with a garden hose and towel dry.

• Remove the aluminum foil.

• Inspect paint for chips or scrapes. Most grills are made of cast aluminum and won't rust, but moisture can corrode them if paint chips aren't repaired.

• Sand scrapes or chips until the metal beneath is white and shiny.

• Prime and touch up

Before firing up your grill for barbecue season, clean it and make sure it is in proper working order.

with paint especially made for high heat applications. Always do these touch-ups when the grill is cold. Once the paint is dry, reattach the burner, venturi tubes and igniter.

Step 3. Check the fuel supply system.

• Check the grill's gas line, line connections and propane tank before restarting the grill. Although propane tanks should last as long as the grill, dented or seriously rusted tanks must be replaced immediately. Minor corrosion can be fixed the same way as the grill housing.

• Reconnect the propane cylinder to the grill. (Refer to the grill manufacturer's instructions.)

• Test the connections for leaks by brushing soapy water on them and turning on the gas. If bubbles appear, or you smell the distinctive "rotten egg" odor of propane gas, shut off the tank and tighten the connections. Run the test again. If bubbles persist, shut off gas and call a local propane dealer.

Step 4. Clean the briquettes and cooking grids.

• Simply flip briquettes so that greasy sides face the burner and slide cooking grids into place.

• Light the grill, close the lid, and set the flame on "High" for 15 minutes to burn the grease off the briquettes and grids.

• Once the grill is cool, remove grids and briquettes. Using the brass-bristle brush and some soapy water, scrub grids, rinse and towel dry. To prevent corrosion, coat the grids with liquid cooking oil (not an aerosol spray).

For more information about your propane gas grill or propane "The Energy That Saves," contact your local propane supplier or call the NPGA at 1-800-4LP-GAS2. The NPGA can also be reached via e-mail at npga@propanegas.com or their web site at http://www.propanegas.com.

Tips From The Photography Information Council

(NAPS)—As the warm weather beckons us outside, and to vacation destinations near and far, we find ourselves unwinding and rewinding—even our film cameras. Here are some tips on capturing the best of the best this summer.

1. Be Prepared: Spontaneous events, such as grandpa on in-line skates, or your daughter's award-winning sandcastle are the everyday summer activities that become cherished memories when captured on film. Keep a camera with fresh batteries and film handy, or pick up single-use cameras so you won't have to say, "I wish I had my camera."

2. Get Close: If your subject is your child, and the first fish he or she ever caught, make them the focus. Frame the subject(s) in the lens so that there's just hint of the background or foreground—perhaps part of a boat or water. Draw the attention to the subject: the proud young fisher and the catch of the day.

3. Flash Away: Using a flash on a bright sunny day may not seem to make sense, but it actually helps to eliminate shadows or dark subjects caused by backlighting.

4. Different Strokes for Different Folks: Try turning your camera vertically when shooting people that are standing. It will look more flattering and avoid awkward cutoffs. When photographing children, get down to their level; the results will be more natural and children will respond better to being photographed.

For natural and spontaneous photographs of children, get down to their level. Make the child and his or her activity the focus of the picture.

5. Keep it Moving: Shooting in the summer months means there's a lot of activity, so try to capture subjects in action. Stopping the action makes people look too posed or stiff. Take lots of shots of action sequences—you'll find you'll capture a "story" on film. The more photos you take, the better your chance of getting outstanding, once-in-a-lifetime results.

Brussels—Belgium's Capital Right In The Heart Of Europe

(NAPS)—Brussels, Belgium's cosmopolitan capital, is a bustling city where many languages and cultures come together. The center of Brussels is the Grand'Place, whose gilt-emblazoned facades put it among Europe's most beautiful public squares and best-known sights. It has been called a "living theater" and is indeed the setting for pageantry, the Sunday morning bird and flower markets and for people watching.

Guild Houses on the Grand'Place.

Among the city's most famous landmarks are the Town Hall, the Royal Palace, St. Michael's Cathedral, Palace of Justice, Parliament Buildings, the Arch of the Cinquantenaire with its wonderful museums, and the Modern and Fine Arts Museums. And not to forget, Manneken-Pis, Brussels' oldest citizen and most cherished patrimony.

A state-of-the art airport and connections by TGV to Paris and London in a mere three hours make Brussels a destination of choice.

Brussels is, after all, headquarters to the European Union, NATO and more than 1,000 American companies.

With close to 2,000 restaurants in Brussels, you can savor the finest cuisine in Europe. Taste mussels, prepared in every imaginable way. Drink one of the great beers in a cozy café on the Grand'Place, and stock up on fresh chocolates to take home.

There's no lack of entertainment and night-life. Ballet, opera and classical concerts, jazz, rock, disco and avant-garde performances abound.

The area around Brussels also has many attractions: the house where Erasmus lived in Anderlecht; the Park and Museum of Central Africa at Tervuren; the Atomium and Bruparck at Heysel; the Botanical Garden and Victorian Greenhouses in Meise and the lovely forest of Soignes, southeast of the city.

Besides these well-known attractions, the cities of Antwerp, Ghent, Bruges, Liege, Namur and the lush Ardennes are less than one hour away by train or car.

OLYMPIC GAMES NEWS & NOTES

First Truly Wireless Games In Atlanta

(NAPS)—For the first time in history, wireless communications will be a pervasive element in the 1996 Olympic Games in Atlanta.

To meet the anticipated demand, BellSouth is expanding the capacity of its cellular system in some areas of Atlanta by more than 800 percent to handle expected call volume. Some of this capacity will be redeployed after the Games to other BellSouth locations throughout the region. But the legacy left in 22,000 sq. miles of North Georgia will be twice the current capacity, meeting customer needs in the area for years to come.

BellSouth is making sure that every call at an Olympic venue is completed. Here are some other things that BellSouth is doing at this wireless Olympics:

- 18 COWS (Cells on Wheels) or COLTS (Cells on Light Trucks) will be used to handle heavy call volume at venues, airports, hotels, highways, and within the subway system.
- An estimated one million additional minutes of cellular airtime will be used each day.
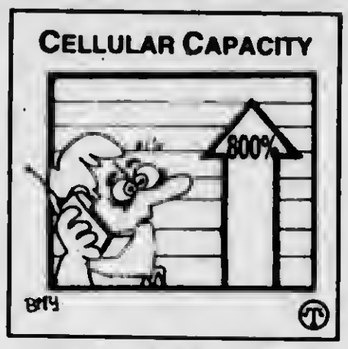
- Digital service will provide additional capacity for customers throughout the Olympic Ring and airport and in Athens, Georgia, home of the soccer venue, among other events.
- TeleMobility will become the telecommuting standard for mobile business people; working anyway, anytime—wirelessly.
- The Atlanta cellular network will have the highest concentration of voice channel capacity ever for any Olympic Games.

Let the Games Begin!!!



The increase in cellular phone traffic is being met by increasing the cellular capacity in Atlanta by 800 percent!

Telecommunications-Most advanced on earth for the 1996 Olympic Games

(NAPS)—Here are some surprising facts about the ways we'll be getting information from the 1996 Summer Olympics that should ring a bell with telecommunications fans all over the world.

There will be enough fiber optic cable at the 1996 Summer Olympics to span the globe 19 times over, more than 450,000 miles of it. It is so technologically advanced that if there is a glitch in the system it can be rerouted within 1/20th of a second, one-quarter the time it takes to blink!

* * *

The backbone of BellSouth technology makes it possible to transmit CD-quality voice, broadcast quality video and data simultaneously at the speed of light. While this technology is new to the Olympic Movement, BellSouth customers throughout the southeast are using the same leading edge technology today. Twenty-six venues in nine cities will be linked through the network, making it among the largest telecommunications networks ever created.

Toll-free number available for Arizona fire restriction information

With forest and grass fires occurring throughout the Southwest this summer, a group of agencies throughout Arizona and New Mexico is offering a toll-free number to inform visitors of public land restrictions.

The toll-free number is 1-888-SW-FIRES (888-793-4737).

When a caller reaches the toll-free number, he or she will be connected with the office that can best answer questions about restrictions or closures in specific area in New Mexico or Arizona.

The agencies providing their most current information through the toll-free number service are the national Forest Service, National Park Service, Arizona State Land Department, Bureau of Land Management and Indian Reservation lands.

Are Your Kids "In-line"?

Sport can offer safety and value

(NAPS)—There's no circling the issue. In-line skating is the fastest growing sport in the country over the past six years. Today, there are nearly 23 million skaters. Whether kids skate for fun or exercise, once they start in-line skating, they're not likely to quit. In fact, kids 12 and under represent the largest group of skaters (38 percent) and they skate most frequently.

Landon Prairie, 12 years old, is a member of Team Blade Runner™, and has some tips on how to get your child started and what to look for when buying equipment. Team Blade Runner is a group of professional skaters, ages three to 12, who tour the U.S. performing funky in-line skating routines and promoting Blade Runner skates and protective gear by Rollerblade, Inc.

Outfit your child for less than $100. "My skates and all my protective gear, from Blade Runner by Rollerblade, sell for under $100 total," says Landon. When buying skates there are a few things to look for. You'll want a sturdy skate that provides plenty of support, one that's easy to get on and off so it's not frustrating for parent or child and, most importantly, one that fits well. "My skate has a Power Buckle™ so I can put it on with a quick snap," says Landon.

How and where can your child get started? It's usually best to rent equipment the first time out and take a lesson. Most sporting goods stores that rent in-line skates also offer lessons. Landon says: "When kids first try skating, they should be on a flat surface away from any hills and traffic so they can practice stopping and turning."

Knowing the rules of safety is important. As with any action sport, there is a risk of injury, but you can reduce the risk of injury by wearing full protective gear. "I never skate without my helmet, knee and elbow pads, and wrist guards," says Landon.

An in-line skating safety program called Asphalt Bites has been developed by Rollerblade, Inc., and is designed to educate kids about the importance of protective gear and skating safety. Parents or kids can get a free safety brochure, Asphalt Bites skate/ helmet sticker and answers to questions about in-line skating by calling Rollerblade's consumer hotline at 800-232-ROLL (7655).

Oak Lawn's first canine patrol

By Annette Dixon

Many residents have been looking forward to the assistance of combating crime in their neighborhood. Oak Lawn's Canine Patrol can help Oak Lawn and neighboring suburbs with just that problem.

Officer Joseph Stubbs, resident of Oak Lawn and officer with the Oak Lawn Police Department, requested the assignment of Canine Patrol. After spending 10 days with the dog being trained and the dog going for two months training at TASK Canine Agency in Austin, Texas, Officer Joe knew who was his best friend!

An instantaneous love relationship was formed between man and dog. At the press conference, Balt showed us his dedication to his friend by not letting Officer Stubbs out of eye's view. He halted until Officer Stubbs was out of sight, then moved forward to find him.

Balt also showed his alertness for possible danger to Officer Stubbs by barking and going for attack when a plain clothes detective was acting weird. Balt did not know it was a joke and reacted well. Officer Stubbs relaxed Balt first by giving him a command to relax. Although Balt stayed on alert for several minutes he was very relaxed and back to social behavior once again.

Balt knows the difference between social time and work time. Social time is playing with Officer Stubb's four children and the family beagle and labrador mix pet. It is also allowing people to come up and pet him and tell him how great and cute he is. This dog appears to be very friendly when in a social mode!

"Dogs should be approachable," says Officer Stubbs, "Balt should not be some mean vicious thing that will bark and growl at everybody. He should be approachable and people should be able to come up and pet the dog. He is a resource for us to use and also a tool for public relations."

"I cover the whole town from 6 p.m. until 2 a.m. I can assist whenever I can, I have back up guys also. My German Shepherd is small over 70 lbs. and 2 1/2 years old, but 99% of the time people will back off if there is a disturbance, because of the dog.

When Balt is in a work mode, he is very successful. Recently Balt's nose got carried away by searching trace amounts of cocaine in a plastic baggie and hit on some residue of marijuana.

On July 25 at 1 a.m., there was a rooftop burglary at Swaparama and Alsip police asked for assistance in apprehending a suspect. Balt found the man with dark clothing hiding in a tree. Searching is not Balt's' strong point, but in this case, he was very successful.

"Balt is most useful for narcotic search in vehicles and does not search people, first of all it is illegal and invasion of civil rights. In order to hit, Balt bites, barks and scratches. I don't think we would want that to happen to people" says Officer Stubbs.

"We'll be at Family Days says Balt and Joe, we are the team and the Oak Lawn Canine Patrol. Cook County Canine dogs may be out there and you can tell the difference. Cook County Canine has search and attack dogs, we have a dog who is gentle and you can come up and pet Balt.", says Officer Stubbs.

"I would like to give credit to Police Chief James P. Houk, Village Administration, Board of Trustees and Mayor Kolb for choosing to have a Canine Patrol for the Village of Oak Lawn," stated Officer Joseph Stubbs. "This dog; the cost of training, my equipment and vehicle was under $10,000 and paid for by the money from seized assets and the Oak Lawn Police Department Club."

Ouchies do hurt many people

On Thursday, July 25th at 5:15 p.m., the intersection of 91st Street and Central Avenue in Oak Lawn looked like a traffic jam on the expressway during rush hour. Due to the fender benders, traffic on 91st Street was diverted. Nobody was seriously injured.

Flooding, sewers, cable all discussed at Oak Lawn village board meeting

By Annette Dixon

Special recognition to Veronica Craig, Richard Maguire, Robert Klein, Bart Kostrubala, Patti Corcoran, Lorey O'Grady, and Lawrence Harrisof the Youth Commission.

Trustee Joy held a meeting recently with 150 members of Oakdale Community in Oak Lawn. Residents along with public works, police and fire department were there to work out a plan to help prevent this area from flooding. Mr. Patzelt, a volunteer retired engineer, has worked with the Corp. of Engineers to come up with a solution.

Flooding does still exist. Due to the rowdiness of the Oakdale meeting and the criticisms Mr. Patzelt endured, Trustee Joy asked if Mr. Patzelt would continue to volunteer his time and knowledge, he accepted.

Trustee Streit stated that the residents wanted immediate results and services, for their basements where flooding and the losses accumulating. Trustee Streit suggested emergency short term needs for residents.

"Emergency needs of Oakdale residents were not being addressed," Streit stated.

Trustee Stancik addressed the issue of sewers in a wide area of Oak Lawn. The sewer system is not built for heavy rains such as the 100 year rain which occurred at least 10 times within 100 years..

Trustee Streit stated, "millions of dollars have already been spent on sewers." Two decades have past and the Oakdale residents are still expressing their needs due to flood waters."

A disruptive meeting took place under new business. It was brought up by Trustee Streit regarding the decision of cable T.V. and whether there would be a cost for a videotaping the village board meetings for future recommendation!

The attorney stated there will not be a cost for videotaping; although a figure of $67,000 was mentioned. The cable committee due to the cost did not recommend it to the board.

Childish antics were displayed by Trustee Streit thereby giving Mayor Kolb the edge by stating, "Would you want the public to see you carrying on this way!"

Five leaks were found in the water system and repaired; 64,000 gallons of water are now saved which costed us over $65,00 per year. Our leak detection system will continue with a cost not to exceed $12,000. Motion made by Trustee Joy and seconded by Trustee Stancik.

Oak Lawn Library circulation up

Despite the shutdown of the Cook Ave. entrance throughout the month of June, grand total circulation of materials at the Oak Lawn Public Library increased by three percent over June, 1995, according to the report given to the library board director Dr. James B. Casey at its regular meeting, July 16. Audiovisual circulation increased by more than seven percent over last June. With the children's summer reading program in full swing, circulation in the Youth Services department increased by more than 1 percent. Enrollment figures in the young people's summer reading program show that participation is up by ten percent this summer.

In other business, the board approved closing of the library on Sept. 14 in observance of the dedication of the Veterans Memorial and the Village Green project. Library staff will have an opportunity to join other community members in the activities which are planned for the day. Regular library hours will resume on Sunday, Sept. 15.

The board approved payment of $32,432 for library materials; $46,659 for general operating expenses; and $132,606 for personnel.

The board reviewed and approved the following policies as part of its annual schedule: Purchasing; Use of Signature Plate; Capital Items; Trustee Borrowing and Services Privileges; and Purchase of Certificates of Deposit.

The board holds regular meetings at 7:30 p.m. on the third Tuesday of each month. Meetings are open to the public. Board members are Robert Honkisz, president; Marian Sullivan, vice president; Lee Stein, secretary; Patricia Roberts, treasurer; Joann Buschbach, Lois Gasteyer and Shirley Barrett, trustees.

Nalepa takes time out from campaign helps Red Cross aid flood victims

Third District Republican Congressional Candidate Jim Nalepa and his staff took time out from campaigning this weekend to help the American Red Cross aid homeowners ravaged by the past week's torrential flooding.

Nalepa, whose six-year experience as an Army officer recommended him to the Red Cross, helped relief workers assess flood damage as a first step toward obtaining federal assistance and interest-free loans for stricken residents.

"This is terrible," Nalepa said, looking out at a street filled with wrecked furniture, carpets and toys. "Most of the people here don't have any flood insurance. But the families here are strong. I can't tell you how many people have said to me, 'We didn't expect this, but we're all safe, and we'll get by'."

The villages of Hickory Hills, Bridgeview, and Burbank all suffered serious flooding along 87th Street, and several residents of Tinley Park had everything they own destroyed. Red Cross relief efforts began after Governor Edgar declared the entire northern part of Illinois a disaster area.

"I just couldn't go about my business knowing that neighbors of mine had lost everything," said Nalepa as he helped people sort out their belongings in flood-ravaged basements. "Leadership should mean more than talking about crises and disasters; it has to mean actually going out and helping people when you know you can make a difference."

Polivka appointed Stickney Assessor

The appointment of Kenneth E. Polivka, of 4303 Maple Ave., Stickney, as Stickney Township Assessor, was approved by the township's Board of Trustees on Monday July 8th.

Polivka, who has been a township trustee for 7 1/2 years, replaces Robert J. Morgan, who resigned July 1.

At the same time Supervisor Louis S. Viverito invited persons seeking replacement to Polivka's seat as trustee to submit resumes to him at the township office, 5635 State Road, Burbank. Both terms expire next April.

Polivka, a Stickney resident for 37 years, is the owner of K.E.P. Industrial Sales Co., which deals in steel products. Polivka attended DePaul University and has taken additional training in real estate and assessment procedures and is a certified Illinois assessment officer.

He is a member of St. Pius Church, Stickney; Berwyn Knights of Columbus #4200; Knights of Columbus 4th Degree Group; Stickney Police Association and Stickney Regular Democratic Organization, of which he is vice president. He and his wife, Camille, have a son, William and a daughter, Patricia Erce, and two grandchildren, Andrea and Bryan.

Toxic chemical releases decline in Illinois

Illinois industries released fewer toxic chemicals to the environment from 1988 through 1994. Improved management of toxic chemicals in Illinois is revealed in a report published by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA).

Illinois EPA Director Mary A. Gade said: "Illinois manufacturers reduced toxic chemical releases by 31 percent during this period of increased industrial activity, and have done so largely through voluntary efforts that include recycling and pollution prevention. I commend Illinois industries for their efforts to improve the state's environment, and I encourage them to continue their progress through innovative partnerships with federal, state and local governments.

U.S. EPA data, based on reports required by the federal Toxic Release Inventory (TRI) program, reveal significant progress made by Illinois industry in controlling toxic chemicals. During the period studied, Illinois facilities made:

- 80 percent fewer releases to surface waters;
- 44 percent fewer releases to the air;
- 45 percent fewer transfers to waste treatment and disposal facilities;
- 23 percent fewer transfers to sewage treatment plants.

Additionally, Illinois facilities reporting under TRI indicated they recycled 67 percent more toxic chemical from 1991 through 1994. "This increased recycling effort provides another indication of their serious commitment to reduce toxic chemical releases," Gade said

Burbank Titans is looking for cheerleaders and football players

The Burbank Titans Youth Football Organization is still looking for boys and girls to play football and for cheerleading. They will accept kids from surrounding areas. Ages ranging from 7 to 14 years of age (2nd thru 8th grade). Practice starts July 22nd. Registration will be accepted until teams are full.

For more information or to register call Mark or Karen at (708)430-0792.

Area libraries sponsor college planning seminars

Starting on Thursday, August 8th, at 7:30 p.m., the Beverly Library (2121 W. 95th Street) will sponsor a free College Planning Seminar for all parents of local high school students. Guest speaker Steve McCormick, a college planning specialist with the Wilmarc Financial Group, will present this timely and very important seminar.

The title of this seminar, how to Maximize Your Opportunity for Financial Aid, will be for all parents who are concerned about paying the ever-increasing cost of a college education.

With college tuition at most major universities rising at a rate of 7% annually, outpacing inflation, obtaining Financial Aid from any school is now critical. This workshop will inform parents about what they need to know before applying for Aid, and how to position themselves to qualify for the maximum amount.

A College Planning seminar is also scheduled for Tuesday, August 13th (7:30 p.m.) at the Mount Greenwood Library, 110th & Kedzie Ave.

The Walker Branch (11071 S. Hoyne Ave.) will host two more seminars on Tuesday, August 20th (7:30 p.m.) and Saturday, August 24th (11a.m. - 12 noon).

For more information and reservations about these seminars, please call Nancy Bryne at (312) 747-9673 or Steve McCormick at (708) 361-1810, ext. 109.

Adopt-A-Highway Program is expanding in Illinois

The Adopt-A-Highway Program in Illinois has been expanded to include state highways, except interstates, along with municipal, county and township roads according to Jim Easterly, district engineer at the Illinois Department of Transportation's Springfield district office

"The Adopt-A-Highway Program is a litter pickup program performed by volunteer groups who adopt up to a two mile section of highway and clean up four times a year," said Easterly.

A similar program has been in place in Illinois since 1992 but allowed for only municipal, county and township roads to be adopted. The new bill, signed by Governor Edgar, provides for adoption of state highways. Municipalities that have programs in place may continue.

Safety to volunteers and the motoring public is of primary importance. Safety instruction must be given to each volunteer group before clean up activity may begin. The Department will erect permanent signs identifying the adopting group and its clean up boundaries. Safety vests, trash bags and the removal of bags following clean up will be provided by the Department. Temporary warning signs will be installed to alert motorists during clean up times.

"Illinois residents have pride of ownership in their state highway," said Easterly. "By working together we can keep our roadways clean."

Volunteer groups should contact District coordinator, Bud Hall at 217-524-6363 for more information.

Southwest sider goes to Olympics

By Rick Techman

A southwest side resident who has won more than 20 wrestling championships, including three international champions, served as an alternate to the U. S. Olympic Wrestling Team at the Olympics in Atlanta.

A lifetime resident of the southwest side, Kevin Bracken, a graduate of Illinois State University in Normal with a Bachelor of Science in Physical Education, 1995, earned a post as an alternate on the U.S. Olympic Wrestling Team's Greco-Roman wrestlers by loosing with one point in overtime to a competitor who is scheduled to wrestle this week.

Bracken's victories range from the Silver Medal in the U.S. Junior National Championships in 1989 to the Bronze Medal in the U.S. Greco-Roman Nationals this year and his position as a U.S. Olympic Team alternate.

Brackens accomplishments out of the ring are just as impressive as his accomplishments in the ring. Conscious of his keen ability to overpower his adversaries, Bracken has used his great talent in defense of a number of passengers on an international flight from London to Minneapolis recently.

Bracken was traveling to the U. S. with two fellow Olympic hopefuls when, somewhere over the Atlantic, some British and Irish tourists began pelting each other with bread and bananas. Eventually some of the kids in the group began stealing miniatures from the liquor cart while some adults went from food fighting to fist fighting.

Finally, the most belligerent tourist, 130-pound Michael Purcell, became so rowdy the captain of the aircraft left the cabin to address the disturbances. At this point Bracken and his two associates, Brian Keck and David Surofchek entered the fray.

Bracken, who wrestles at 136.5 pounds, locked Purcell in an "arm-bar" securing one of Purcell's arms behind his back. Surofchek (198) barred the other arm while Keck (heavyweight) applied a choke hold.

As the food fighters quickly calmed down and the flight attendants cheered, the wrestlers held Purcell at the front of the cabin until he broke free and bolted back to his seat.

Bracken, seeing Purcell continue to disrupt the flight, grabbed him around the waist from behind, hoisted him into the air and tossed him onto some seats, ending the fight.

Once the flight landed in Minnesota, Purcell was arrested and 17 of his companions were deported.

Bracken will be looking for a position as a wrestling coach once he returns from the Olympics this fall. It is expected Bracken will try out for the U.S. Olympic Wrestling Team in four years and will continue to rack up first, second and third place postings in regional, national and international competitions.

U.S. Olympic Wrestling Team alternate Kevin Bracken stands outside the Olympic Village in Atlanta. This fall Kevin will be seeking a position as a wrestling coach in Chicago.

EDITORS NOTE:

WRESTLING: Four of the five Americans were prelims Greco-Roman winners. Gordy Morgan was a 10-0 winner over Rudolfo Hernandez of Mexico at 163 pounds. Brandon Paulson pinned Joel Bassidon of Peru in 1:38 at 114½ pounds. David Zuniga, a 136½-pounder, won 3-2 over Ainsley Robinson of Canada. Super heavyweight Matt Ghaffari defeated Shermukhammad Kudiyev of Uzbekistan 7-1. Derrick Waldroup fell into the losers' bracket with a 3-0 loss to Alexander Sidorenko of Belarus.

Women's Health Center to present program on freezing and canning garden vegetables

Food prices are climbing, so now's a good time to learn how to make the most of summer gardens by freezing and canning garden vegetables. The Women's Health Center of Christ Hospital and Medical Center, Tinley Park, will present "Making the Most of Your Garden Vegetables" from 7 to 9 p.m. on Wednesday, August 7.

Registered dietitian Anne O'Malley will present step-by-step instructions and demonstrations in both the freezing and canning processes and provide information about proper equipment. "The program is designed to help people extend the use of their gardens and make use of all the vegetables they grow," says O'Malley. "By canning and freezing extra vegetables that can't be used during the summer months, nothing is wasted and people can enjoy the products of their labors all year."

The $15 fee for "Making the Most of Your Garden" will include a cookbook. Registration is required for the program, which will be presented at the Women's Health Center of Christ Hospital and Medical Center, 16750 S. 80th Ave., Tinley Park. For more information or to register, call Christ Hospital's HealthAdvisor, 1-800-3-ADVOCATE (1-800-323-8622).

Picturesque Montefiori now offering garden walks and picnic lunches

The acres of lush gardens and sweeping lawns surrounding the Montefiori country home in south suburban Lemont are now open to the public every Tuesday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. through mid-October.

Each Tuesday, guests are welcome to stroll around the grounds, located at 11250 S. Archer Ave., and enjoy the naturalized gardens which have been 30 years in the making. A team of full-time gardeners, under the direction of co-owner Paul Marchetti, oversee the gardens on a daily basis.

Guests can also order ahead and will have a picnic lunch or dinner awaiting their arrival. The picnic features roast chicken or game hen, blanched vegetables of the season and a choice of grapes with Bel Paese cheese or whole fresh strawberries with chocolate chunks.

Also included is a bottle of Italian red or white wine, Coffee and biscotti, are available in the Courtyard Cafe throughout the day. The picnic costs $25 per person and should be ordered 24 hours in advance.

For further information, call (708) 257-6576.

St. Maarten: A tale of 2 nations, 3 cultures, 1 island

On this lush Caribbean isle of two passports, three cultures and 77 nationalities, of ten casinos, 300 restaurants and 37 bedazzling beaches, everyone seems to agree on at least one thing.

Tourism is the precious gold that will lure a new generation of Columbuses from near and far, to catch their breaths at the sight of this island rising green from the coral-blue sea. Tourism, in other words, is the future.

After growing pains in the 1960's and 1970's, when the hotel inventory shot up on the Dutch side alone from 200 rooms to its present 4,000-plus, the island is settling in to do what it does best.

MAJOR ENHANCEMENTS

Dutch government projects look to expanding Princess Juliana International Airport improving the port's docking and other services for a growing collection of cruise ships, and putting finishing touches on the best freeport shopping in the Caribbean.

Perhaps most importantly, these projects include hotel-restaurant training for the people of St. Maarten themselves--training for the role that Mother Nature and the confrontation of empires conspired over centuries to ordain.

"Travel agents find it easy to sell St. Maarten because of its cosmopolitan nature," observes island Tourism Commissioner Theo Heyliger. "The combination of shopping, cuisine and the number of day-trips people can make to nearby islands from here is quite appealing."

St. Maarten may well find new ways of enjoying and exploiting its single most unusual selling point. Its combined 37 square miles of Dutch and French turf make it the only island in the Caribbean shared not by a succession of great powers but by two at the same time. And this arrangement has flourished for nearly 350 years!

ONE ISLAND, MANY FACES

The sides of the island are as different as north and south, perhaps as night and day. The Dutch side is a tribute to a global empire few in this hemisphere even recall: the adventurers who left the Netherlands to tame not only the Caribbean but also lands as distant as Indonesia.

Their trade was among the world's most sophisticated, a legacy experienced both in the shops along the capital city of Philipsburg's Front Street and in the dizzying tangle of cuisines served in its restaurants.

The French side is French-squared, from the "bleu, blanc et rouge" of the flags billowing on every terrace to the gendarmes imported from Paris. Yet for all these differences, there is nary a border between the two--just a sign on a mountain road that curves above a sun-struck bay.

Encountering the Dutch and French cultures side by side, along with a third culture they helped form over the decades--Afro-Caribbean--makes St. Maarten an unmatched destination for drinking in subtleties of history, conquest and human frailty behind the shimmering vision of tropical paradise

MUCH-BLESS LAND

Dutch St. Maarten and French St. Martin are both, of course, the legacy of a single piece of much-blessed land The island was inhabited, before the eyes of Europe fell upon it, by a succession of Indians from South America. First came the peaceful Arawaks, then the cruel and cannibalistic Caribs.

According to the island's unusual mix of history, legend and lore, Columbus spotted its green wonder-ment on Nov. 11, 1493-- the feast day of Spain's beloved St. Martin of Tours. St. Martin (or perhaps San Martino, in the mother tongue of the Genovese admiral) the island became.

In the years since the 1648 Dutch-French accord that halved the island, it has been the pleasure of succeeding waves of visitors and exploiters to revel in St. Maarten's beauty. In recent years, the reveling has steadily grown, with the Dutch side to the south growing first, followed by the French to the north.

Add to this growth the fact that St. Maarten is also the busy air and sea hub for a host of nearby islands--French St. Bart's, Dutch Saba and St. Eustatius, British Anguilla and St. Kitts/Nevis

The end result is an excitable, varied and rich experience of St. Maarten past, present and to come. Its beaches, led off by glorious Mullet Bay, Cupecoy and Dawn, remain uncrowded nearly any month of the year. That's an advantage of having so many exquisite stretches of sand.

St. Maarten's casinos are unobtrusive in the European mold, offering gaming fun to those who wish it without imposing it in any way on those who don't.

ENVY OF THE CARIBBEAN

Shopping, traditionally concentrated along Front Street, is the envy of the Caribbean. Jewelry, electronics and fine linens are the big-savings items, along with a colorful collection of island arts and crafts.

It is worth noting that prices are that St. Maarten has become a shopping mall for islanders across the Caribbean. They join the usual array of sun-red cruise passengers and hotel guests hunting for and finally striking a bargain. Shops are open daily, except on Christmas and Good Friday.

One additional tribute to St. Maarten's pride of place is the growth of classy boutique strips in other sections of the Dutch side. Into the night, long after Front Street's Amsterdam-style arcades have shut down, commerce continues on the island's southwest corner in stylish spaces such as Maho, surrounded by what must be the Caribbean's most cosmopolitan melange of hotels, condos, restaurants, cafes, casinos and clubs.

Dining on St. Maarten increasingly justifies the island's claim to being the Caribbean's culinary capital. In addition to the explosion of nouvelle French cuisine, there are hotel and freestanding dining rooms to satisfy every taste. Some hotels, in fact, are the culinary equal of any independent operation.

Philipsburg serves up the best cuisine from all over the world with a variety of restaurants serving French, Italian, Chinese, Indian and Indonesian fare. Even American brand-name pizza, burgers and chicken have put in a recent appearance, especially popular among cruise passengers made desperate by day after day of gourmet gorging.

SIMPSON BAY

Simpson Bay near the airport is one of many dining hot spots with recent restaurant additions offering patrons gracefully presented continental cuisine, family-style Italian dishes and fresh visions of the island's native cuisine, from snapper and funchi (an island corn product) with Creole sauce to the more exotic stewed goat.

With the growth of these hotel, dining and shopping zones, new nightlife opportunities have opened as well. Two of the most popular are Cheri's Cafe at Maho, a kind of boisterous sidewalk show-and-tell, and the News Cafe at Simpson Bay. This last is a '60s-nostalgia club resembling that other household work with electric guitars and rock legends all over the walls. After midnight, the News Music Cafe is the place, for visitors and islanders alike. Other popular night clubs include Ragtime, Cafe Grand Europe and Pub 1950's, featuring live music on Friday and Saturday nights.

In every corner of St. Maarten today, the favorite word is "infrastructure" and the feeling is cautious optimism. Like operators of any successful business that has experienced rapid growth, the government and all segments of the tourism community are looking to consolidate gains, improve physical plants and upgrade services.

UNIQUE ISLAND

With more than one million visitors each year--and plenty of room, at long last, for that number to grow--St. Maarten is anxious to share its many attractions with both first-timers and old friends from the far-flung corners of the earth. Still, the island looks with special fondness to its best friend for more than two centuries, the United States.

Theatre Alive

with Georgean Fitzgerald

It was a superb late afternoon when the summer sun was low in the sky, and still shining over a broad area. It had been a beautiful day in Oakbrook. As we approached the Drury Lane Terrace, we noticed many finely dressed people, including women in full-length black gowns. For a moment I wished I had worn black, too, for this opening-night performance of SEVEN BRIDES FOR SEVEN BROTHERS. Upon entering we discovered that the people in black were guests about to attend a wedding reception in the Grand Ballroom. But black attire is often the choice for guests to wear when attending the opening of a show. As soon as the colorful crowd were seated the bright red curtain parted and SEVEN BRIDES FOR SEVEN BROTHERS began.

Set in the Oregon territory in the 1850's, Adam (LARRY ADAMS), oldest of the Pontipee Brothers, is lurking about in the town square looking for a bride to keep the house clean, to cook, and wash their clothes. He sings "Bless Your Beautiful Hide (and not too wide)" Milly (SUSAN MONIZ) is smitten by his good looks and swoons when she sees him, and agrees to marry him, without knowing his real intentions.

Upon arrival at the house on the prairie, Milly soon discovered that he has six brothers who live with him, and that his real intention was not a love match. She sings "One Man", followed by "When You're In Love", and she decides to stay but only on her terms. Milly begins to civilize his brothers, who also want to be married. Milly teaches them the social graces, and amenities needed to woo a wife. Unfortunately the brothers kidnap the six local beauties they have met (caveman style). An avalanche prevents the townspeople from rescuing the girls. During the long winter they, in turn, fall in love with the six brothers.

Act two opens with macho man Adam singing "A Woman Ought to Know Her Place". The seven brothers, all named by their father, beginning with the letter "A" for Adam, are followed by Benjamin, (RICHARD KLANN), Caleb (CURT DALE CLARK), Daniel (JAMES ZAGER), Ephraim (JONATHON STAHL) Frank (DAN COLLINS) and Gideon (KEVIN BURTHEL) do not agree with Adam, and side with Milly. Whereupon Adam leaves.

When spring arrives the "brides" have returned to the town, Milly has a baby, and Adam and Milly sing "Love Never Goes Away", and the six brothers marry the six brides played by TRACY FLEMING, MARCI CALIENDO (who grew up in Evergreen Park and appeared in "42nd Street" at Drury Lane besides choreographing 99th Summer Theater's productions of "The King and I" and "Company") KELLY PRYBYCIEN, ARIANE DOLAN, TAIT RUNNFELDT, AND ANNETTE THURMAN.

Artistic Director Gary Griffin chose the perfect vehicle for summer enjoyment and Marc Robin was a fine director and choreographer. The music is by Gene de Paul with lyrics by Johnny Mercer. It is filled with rollicking songs such as "Goin' Courting", "Wonderful, Wonderful Day", "I'm Glad You Were Born" and "Spring Dance". Set Coordination with several interesting drops feature the farm house interior, exterior, and the tree-filled forest which lend credence to this sweet tale of love and discovery. They were executed by Chris Phillips and the costume coordination was by Caryn Weglarz with Thomas Murray as music director. While the scenario included numerous humorous situations and dialog, one of the memorable moments featured the brother Ephraim, who supports Milly as a woman, and when Adam claims that "a woman should stand behind her man", he disagrees with Adam, saying "No, a woman should stand next to her husband". This got one of the largest responses from the audience when a woman exclaimed "yeah" as if on cue. Applause and laughter emanated from the happy audience. The show was originally a 1954 MGM movie musical, and like its predecessors, it mines its comedy from the backwoods encounters between two-ill-matched septets.

SEVEN BRIDES FOR SEVEN BROTHERS will run for the rest of July, and into August with a final performance on Sunday, August 18. You may call the Drury Lane Oakbrook box office at 708-530-0111, or Ticketmaster at 312-902-1500. For groups, call 708-530-8300.

One hundred and fifty years ago an English Scientist named James Smithson left a fortune of more than $500,000 to the United States to be used to "increase and spread knowledge among men." It took seventeen years but in 1846 the Smithsonian Institution was founded.

This great anniversary seems to have gotten lost amid the centennial olympic games and so many other events this year. But locally Kennedy Park Library will be working with the National Gallery of Art to bring a small part of this institution's great collection to our area.

Coming this fall the library hopes to have materials available to the general public including a copy of The Sesqui Squirrel: History of the Smithsonian Institution 1846-1996. (A limited edition book on the basic history of the Smithsonian.)

Teachers, schools and groups are encouraged to contact Kennedy Park Librarian Robert P. Workman at the park. (please write a note if I am not available) for information on this NEW program

Other local events coming soon include:

On August 12, The 28th District Youth and Community Services Organization, 10231 S. Western Ave. will hold it's second Safe Kids, Safe Neighborhoods Conference at Ada Park, 11250 S. Ada from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

The conference will incorporate the efforts of private agencies. Experts from Columbia University in New York City will discuss their successful children at Risk program, which now serves as the standard for federally funded juvenile delinquency prevention programs.

The 28th District Youth and Community Services Organization is now working with children at risk for juvenile deliquency offering recreational and vocational programs. Your donations are essential for the organization's success.

The 28th District Youth and Community Services Organization urges you to help by purchasing an advertisement in thier upcoming ad book. This donation to the nonprofit organization is tax-deductible and would benefit ALL residents of the 28th district. Please call 881-9090 for information on patron ads.

The Beverly Premier Club will introduce their new tour for 1997 on August 22nd at 6:30 p.m. The New Tour of Italy will feature Rome, Venice, Florence, Milan, Sorrento and Pisa from March 10th to 22nd, 1997.The tour will be previewed at the Beverly Bank in Oak Lawn, 10312 S. Cicero.

Oak Lawn Garden Club holds annual walk

Ms. Julie Barker, resident of Oak Lawn, recently was asked by the Oak Lawn Garden Club to volunteer home and yard as a refreshment stop for their annual garden walk.

More than 100 people participated in the annual walk and had the opportunity to relax and enjoy the beautifully landscaped and floral arrangements on the grounds of the Barker residence.

The home and yard walk is an annual benefit for the Oak Lawn Garden Club and usually occurs on the second Sunday in July.

Cameron System produces National Champions

Three students from the Cameron System Martial Arts Program located in the Palos Olympic Health Club competed in the National Championships in Springfield, Illinois.

They came home with two silver medals and one bronze medal. Alexis Cameron (Burbank) and Joseph Crement (Evergreen Park) both competed in the sparring portion of the competition and won silver medals.

Monica Russell (Bridgeview) competed in forms and brought home a bronze medal. Two students also successfully tested for their black belts, Jill Osterman (Chicago) and J.R. Gename (Orland Hills) received their black belts in Tai Quan Do.

This makes 32 students that have become national champions under the direction of Master Tom Cameron. Starting in the fall, group classes will be offered at Southwest School in Evergreen Park.

For further information and location, please contact Tom Cameron at 708-430-0130.

Democratic Candidate for Illinois State Senate has lots of charisma

By Annette Dixon

Young, attractive, charismatic usually is not a description for a state candidate or is it?

Dennis Kibby, raised in Alsip, currently living in Oak Lawn, eleeted to run as candidate against State Senator Patrick O'Malley.

Candidate Kibby is also an attorney and is on good terms with Senator O'Malley. Even though they may be friends, in a political runoff the race will get heated up

The intention here is to introduce Democratic Candidate Kibby as a candidate and give our readership a basic biographic view of Dennis Kibby.

Dennis Kibby; Candidate for Illinois State Senator

Dennis Kibby, age 31, will have a birthday August 29. He is a member of St. Terrence's Parish in Alsip. His father was a sergeant in the army, therefore he followed in his fathers footsteps as a military man by attending the United States Military Academy, West Point and becoming an officer at Ft. Bliss, Texas.

He served as a platoon leader in West Germany and was commander in the Crete Missile Detachment.

day or on a state or national holiday.

All premises in the Village are designated by a number and must have that number displayed and clearly visible from the curb line of the street.

Lawn and garden sprinkling is restricted from May 15th through September 15th of each year to the hours of 7 a.m. to 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. to 11 p.m. Automatic Sprinkler Systems are restricted to use between the hours of 12 a.m: to 5 a.m.

No commercial vehicles or boats (except in preparation for or return from a trip) may stand on any residential street or alley between the hours of 10 p.m. and 7 a.m.

It is illegal to keep any disabled, wrecked or abandoned vehicles, or parts thereof, on your property, village streets, alleys or parkways.

Parents or guardians are responsible for ensuring that minor children under the age of 18 years are not out in the Village after the hour of 11 p.m., except Friday and Saturday when the hour shall be after 12:01 a.m. and before 6 a.m.

PERMITS ARE REQUIRED for the installation or addition of a(n) home improvement, alarm, garage, driveway, fence, garage and rummage sale, satellite dish, sign, and swimming pool. This list is not all inclusive-when in doubt call the Village Hall.

The Village participates in a curbside collection recycling program which accepts glass, plastic bottles and jars, newspapers, cardboard boxes and food and beverage cans. Grass clippings and other yard waste is collected weekly from April 1 through the end of November and must be placed in a separate container with a yard waste sticker affixed. Further information and stickers are available at the Village Hall - Public Works Department.

Garage or refuse containers may not be left on any street, alley or public way, except for the purpose of pickup, and then only between the hours of 5 p.m. the day before pickup and 9 p.m. the day or pickup. Containers must be of a noncorrodible material, rodent proof, watertight, of a suitable durability, and of a capacity of not less than 10 gallons and not to exceed 30 gallons.

Vehicles may not be parked on or over a sidewalk, in front of a public or private driveway, or on a public parkway.

The fine for illegally parking in a handicapped parking space is $150.00.

Democrats hold annual raffle

The Worth Township Democrats looking to hit the jackpot in the November elections began their annual raffle drive, with $5,000 in cash ready to be distributed to the lucky first place prize winner at their regular monthly meeting on Monday, August 12

And, if that isn't enough, more than $3,000 in second and third place prizes will be awarded.

"The bottom line is, we want the odds at winning to be in your favor and by limiting the number of tickets sold to 200, we have done just that," Committeeman John J. McNamara said. "With these odds, I'm betting that the raffle will be huge success."

The organization's raffle committee--Lucy Griffin, Oak Lawn; Anne Baxter, Oak Lawn; Joan Scott, Hometown; Sheila Fahey-Wallenius, Oak Lawn; and Marty Kierzak, Oak Lawn, began selling tickets in June, walking door-to-door, neighbor-to-neighbor, and business-to-business throughout the township. They continue to sell tickets, and because of their efforts, less than half the tickets remain.

This year, the committee agreed to an added incentive; that is, anyone who sells the winning first place prize ticket will receive fifty dollars. Raffle tickets cost $100, and shares of a ticket can be bought, thus splitting the cost and the prize money with family, friends, and colleagues.

To purchase tickets, contact the Worth Township Democrats, 10621 S. Ridgeland, Chicago Ridge, Il. 60415 or phone (708) 424-3335.

Pilgrim Faith Church presents "Voices"

Pilgrim Faith Players will present the one act play VOICES during the 10 a.m. worship service on August 4 at Pilgrim Faith United Church of Christ in Oak Lawn. Written by Pilgrim Faith's pastor, Rev. Peggy McClanahan, VOICES portrays a group of young adults responding to the competing messages they hear about what will make them happy. The cast includes: Keith Pacourek, Cindy Aitken, Stacy Pacourek, Jim Woods and Charlene Wagner. The play is directed by Jean Whitney, with props and technical support provided by Julie Deplaris.

The church is at 9411 S. 51st Ave. in Oak Lawn. Child care and children's activities are provided during the service.

Montefiori has 40 acres of timeless beauty

Marchetti brothers open Montefiori FREE to the public every Tuesday from 10 a.m to 5 p.m. After a stroll on the "Gran Prato" visit the meadow flowers and reminisce the days of yesteryear in the peaceful surroundings of their beautiful 40 acre gardens.

by Annette Dixon

Paul Marchetti, co-owner of the Montefiori estate introduced us to the beautiful grounds within 40 acres. on an extremely hot day.

After viewing the garden's center and seeing old Cosimo de Medici, we knew we would have a peaceful morning. There are two pools of colorful Koi and 15 foot flowering vines near the garden's center.

The spring of the black swan has become a symbol for Montefiori. There is a great variety of plants, roses, and wild flowers. Caged parrots and Macaws enhance the colors of the gardens.

A logged wall built by Paul Marchetti is a reminder of how his family grew up in the town of Luca, Italy. Luca is a walled city, one of the oldest in Tuscany. The Montefiori logged wall is located behind the pool of the black swan. Don't miss the wall! It's approximately 200 plus feet long and 7 to 8 feet high.

The gardens are free to the public only on Tuesdays and you can call 708-257-6576.

Bridgeview holds 2nd annual Treasure Days

During the weekends of September 14-15 and 21-22 Bridgeview will host their 2nd Annual Treasure Days Celebration. During this period, Bridgeview residents and businesses will join in a fair-like atmosphere, and present their arts, crafts and household treasures to an appreciative audience. All permit fees have been waived for this event, with the request that those participating sign up at the Bridgeview Village Hall, 7500 S. Oketo Ave., to receive a Hot Pink Treasure Days poster. This poster is to be displayed on the residents mailbox, the day they participate. In addition to the poster, Treasure Days T-Shirts are for sale at the clerks office (at cost) to anyone wishing to get in the spirit of the hunt. The hot pink shirts will go on sale during the sign up period in early August for $6.00 each.

The business community is encouraged to participate by sponsoring a sidewalk sale or other promotion that would tie-in with the Treasure Days theme. "To a creative mind, the possibilities are endless," says Trustee Norma Pinion, the chairman for this event. "This is the occasion for the residents of Bridgeview to display their beautifully made arts & crafts for all to appreciate. Hopefully, this fun event, will bring all of our community together to share in this Village-wide Treasure hunt. We welcome all our neighboring communities to come and purchase Bridgeview Treasures," says Trustee Pinion.

This year Treasure days has been fine tuned to allow each resident two days in each area to sell and purchase treasures. The Treasure hunting will begin on Saturday, September 14, and continue on Sunday, September 15 in all of Bridgeview that is North of 79th Street from 8 a.m. until 3 p.m. The next weekend Treasure Days continues Saturday, September 21 and Sunday, September 22 to all parts of the Village that are South of 79th Street. The times of the hunt, 8 a.m. until 3 p.m. remain the same.

This, our 2nd Annual Treasure Days Celebration will be advertised by flyers, banners and posters, in the local papers and through the cable community calendars to reach the broadest possible audience. Bridgeview residents welcome treasure hunters from every port of call searching for treasures as yet not found.

Bidding on investment property

Thirty investment-quality residential and commercial properties, including two commercial properties owned by Republic Bank and the former Tivoli II Restaurant/Banquet Facility in Country Club Hills, are being offered for sale at public auction, Thursday September 19, at 7:30 p.m. at the Sheraton Gateway Suites at 6501 N. Mannheim Rd. in Rosemont. The properties are part of Sheldon Good & Company's 43rd Chicagoland Real Estate Public Auction Series.

According to Steven Good, president of Sheldon Good & Company, "We have selected a wide variety of exceptional properties for this auction, many of which will be sold without reserve, subject to low minimum bids. The auction method allows buyers to purchase these properties at well below their projected market value."

Two commercial properties, owned by Republic Bank, include: 425 Engle in Dolton. Subject to a minimum bid of $75,000, this 18000 sq. ft. manufacturing building is in close proximity to I94. It is open for inspection August 15, 27, and September 10 from 3:00 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. Seller financing is available with 30 percent down.

139 Kildare in Crestwood. New I 294, this 100 percent leased industrial incubator building containing three tenants was built in 1989-1990 and has a net operating income of $80,000. The suggested opening bid is $225,000. The 19,000 sq. ft. building will e open for inspection August 15,17, and September 10 from 1:00 p.m. 2:30 p.m. Seller financing is available with 20 percent down.

Also being auctioned is the former Tivoli II Restaurant/ Banquet Facility in Country Club Hills, a 7,500 sq. ft. masonry building. The former Tivoli II is fully equipped but is also suitable for any commercial or retail use due to its high visibility and parking for 130 cars. Inspection dates are 11:00 a.m. to 1:00 p.m. Thursdays August 22 and 29th and September 12.

Sheldon Good & Company, which has sold at auction more than $6 billion of residential and commercial real estate, has permanent offices in 10 U.S. cities and Canada. The firm was founded in 1965.

For bidder information kits for the properties listed above, cont. Sheldon Good & Company at (312) 630-0915.

Bring in the bucks

by Carlene E. O'Connor

At the August 4th meeting, Mayor Vacco announced that Evergreen Park will be receiving a new senior bus and police car computers.

The new bus cost $28,000 and was paid for by the state. The grant was achieved with the support of Rep. Maureen Murphy and Senator Patrick O'Malley.

The police department receive $144,868 from the COPS MORE program. The funds are being used for squad car computers.

This will enable police to spend more time on the streets and relieve some of the calling traffic to the dispatch system.

Evergreen Park conducts village board meeting

by Carlene E. O'Connor

Evergreen Residents who go on vacation can have their homes monitored by the police. They are advised to let the department know of the time they are away and officers will check on their homes three times a day until they return.

Residents planning to leave town can reach the headquarters at 422-2142.

The board adopted two proclamations.

a. To proclaims the week of August 25-31, 1996 as "School's open safety week" in Evergreen Park.

b. To proclaim Friday, August 16, 1996 as "Lions Protect Yours Hearing Day."

Ordinance #15-1996, an ordinance approving the Zachary re-subdivision for the property at 9246 St. Louis Avenue was approved by all members of the board.

Other business included requests from the Southwest Council of Mayors for $900 and Police Chief Tom Evoy to attend the F.B.I. Law Executive Development Seminar in Quantico, Virginia was approved.

A request which brought about debate was from the Chicago Southland Chamber to support construction of the South Suburban Airport. It was denied by the board and Mayor Vacco said, "we want Midway and want it to remain vital".

In conclusion of the meeting, Holy Redeemer Parish can use Duffy Park to hold their annual mass in conjunction with the Martin B. Duffy 7th annual football game at 11:15 Sunday, September 1, 1996.The meeting will be held August 19, 1996.

Cooking by Nancy

by Annette Dixon

"Working in the fast food restaurants half of my life and bartender for the Johnson Phelps VFW 5220 for 14 years," says Nancy Micknius, "I decided to try my hand in the kitchen."

Nancy Micknius took over the kitchen for bingo every Wed. since Jan. 1996. Through word of mouth, Wed. meals became a highlight at the VFW lounge and bingo players.

After serving her first menu of hot dogs, Italian beef, spaghetti, tamales, chili, Nancy took on an extensive menu by serving sandwiches, homemade soup, meatloaf, turkey dinners, spaghetti, raviola, grilled chicken and her famous steak sandwiches on garlic bread.

The kitchen is open every Wed. 12:00 noon to 9:00 p.m. for carry out or you may sit in the lounge. Her son, Kevin will take your order at the counter or at the bar. Each Wed. the dinner menu changes, you can try your luck or go for the sure thing, home made vegetable soup and basil soup, no grease is popular for $1.50, we go through 3-4 gallons every Wed., homemade chili is also popular

. We only use ground round or chopped sirloin for our hamburgers, or hand cut steak sandwiches with all the fat trimmed. It is served with potato chips and potato salad or cole slaw for only $3.75.

Wed. kitchen is becoming so popular, we may plan for three days a week in the fall.

Check our sign outside the VFW Hall at 9514 South 52nd Ave. or call at 7-8-423-5220.

Nancy Micknius, resident of Oak Lawn for 22 years, shops at Oak Lawn Farmer's Market every Wednesday for vegetables for her Kitchen at the VFW on Wednesdays.

Governor announces $170 million plan to improve airport facilities and safety

Gov. Jim Edgar announced a nearly $170 million program to rehabilitate airports throughout the state during Fiscal Year 1997 as a part of the state's effort to improve infrastructure that is vital to Illinois' economic development.

"Airports in Illinois are an important element in our overall transportation system. That network is a key factor in preserving businesses and creating jobs as well as attracting new businesses," the Governor said.

"Nearly 79 million passengers use our state's airports, and Illinois' key geographic location in the country ensures a continued air passenger growth. We must continue to invest in our system of airports to ensure Illinois remains a major air service hub.

Edgar urged the federal government to maintain funding for airport improvements as a priority and announced he has increased state funding for projects for which federal funding is not available.

"Because of the importance of airports to the nation as well as the state, it is critical that the federal government continue a strong funding commitment to capital improvements to expand and modernize the nation's airports. Often the smaller airports tend to be overlooked in the larger picture, even though they are very important to the region they serve. I have increased the state-local program by 50 percent to assist local communities with airport improvements for which federal funds are not available."

The program unveiled by the Governor is part of a five-year, $650 million effort to improve all types of airports in Illinois.

Airports at which some of the major improvements for fiscal 1997 are scheduled include Champaign, Peoria, Moline, Carbondale and St. Clair County.

Airport improvements are funded with a combination of federal, state and local moneys with the exception of O'Hare International. Projects at O'Hare are financed with federal and local funds.

Funding for the Fiscal Year 1997 program is comprised of $88.8 million in federal funds, $12.3 million in state funds from bonds earmarked for airport improvements and $67.5 million in local funds.

Chicago-area businesses recognized for clean air efforts

Members of Chicago's voluntary clean air coalition, Partners for Clean Air, were recognized by Illinois Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) Director Mary A. Gade for their efforts to improve Chicagoland's air through their support of last summer's Ozone Action Days program.

At the First Annual Partners Recognition Luncheon held in Chicago, five Chicago businesses and organizations were also given special recognition by Gade for their extraordinary efforts as Partners for Clean Air: ComEd, Gutmann Leather, Illinois Golf Center, the University of Illinois at Chicago and the Chicago Area Transportation Study Council of Mayors.

"In only one year, these Partners for Clean Air have joined together in impressive numbers to demonstrate to Chicago that everyone shares responsibility for helping clean up our air," Gade said. "All 240 Illinois members and 50 Indiana members are being recognized for their efforts to contribute to a healthier Chicago."

Under the Ozone Action Days program initiated last summer, businesses and organizations created a plan to implement when the weather was forecast to be conducive to ozone (smog) formation. On those days--Ozone Action Days--these Partners set their plans into action and successfully helped reduce emissions that cause ozone. Some plans included limiting employees' travel, educating employees about ozone, or revising production schedules to limit emissions.

Partners for Clean Air also issued Ozone Action Day alerts to the Chicago news media to help inform the general public about simple actions everyone can take to help prevent smog. These actions include limiting driving, limiting the use of gasoline-powered lawn and garden equipment and recreational equipment, using an electric starter or charcoal chimney when barbecuing, and limiting the use of household products that cause fumes.

Project Directory available for volunteer workers

The Illinois Department of Natural Resources has published its first "Volunteer Project Directory" listing projects where citizens can donate their time and effort to assist DNR staff to manage and protect our natural and recreational resources.

"There are many volunteer opportunities at state parks and recreation areas, state forests and fishland wildlife areas," said DNR Director Brent Manning. "These opportunities are not limited to adults. They are available to families, scout troops, school and church groups and to anyone who is willing to donate their time, hard work and life experience to benefit our natural resources."

The directory is the product of a volunteer network established within the Department to recruit and sustain volunteers for parks and conservation areas and to coordinate volunteer projects and program goals with constituent groups. A computer database will help place volunteers in specific projects based on their expertise, availability and location.

Volunteer positions offered through DNR include:

1. Site associates who assist DNR staff in maintaining trails, improving wildlife habitat, prairie restoration, painting, litter control and repairing park facilities.
2. Site interpreters who present educational programs, lead nature hikes, prepare exhibits and staff interpretive centers.
3. Campground hosts who greet campers, collect fees and report any illegal activities or dangerous conditions to site staff.
4. Resource watch volunteers who assist law enforcement to protect our natural resources, lands and water.
5. Wildlife volunteers who assist biologists to preserve and maintain wildlife habitat.
6. Natural heritage volunteers who work in state-owned natural areas and nature preserves.
7. Fisheries volunteers who assist Department personnel with various fish habitat projects.
8. Forestry volunteers who work with Department foresters to collect seeds and plant trees.

To receive an application to be a DNR volunteer or to obtain a copy of the Volunteer Project Directory which lists volunteer opportunities at more than 80 state parks, contact Jay Johnson or Noel Laurent at the Illinois Department of natural Resources, Division of Constituency Services, 524 South Second St. Room 500 Springfield, IL 62701-1781 or call 217-785-8285

Life can be happier visiting Cunis

By Annette Dixon

A new found chocolate factory is not Willie Wonka, but Cunis homemade candy. When is the last time you had homemade, hand-dipped chocolate candies? I have heard of hand-dipped chocolates, but it is rare to find homemade toffee, caramel and creams that is in the center of Cunis delicious, melt in your mouth chocolate candy.

Over 63 years, two families of Joseph Kubiak of Cunis Candies in South Holland have used the exact recipes for chocolate candies. They are treasured recipes and they are not for sale.

It started with great uncle, George Askounis, when he opened his candy shop and ice cream parlor in 1933, at 2544 E. 79th Street in South Shore. Mr. Askounis, now deceased, moved his business in 1972 to South Holland at 1030 East 162nd which Joe now owns.

Joseph Kubiak stated, "I never leave an empty tray in the display cabinets, I'm always in the back room mixing and making more candy. Our whole cherries in our cherry chocolate candy is creamier when it sits at least two weeks. It is dipped twice in chocolate. We use fresh cherries, dates and our candy is always made fresh daily."

Joe knows what he is talking about, after working for his uncle and taking over the business, he spent his whole life in making chocolate candies and making ice cream! Joe's homemade ice cream with bananas is really scrumptious.

Work ethics is not dead, Joe puts in an average of 50 hours per week, and has 12-14 part-time employees that help him. He makes his own toffee, the English toffee and plain thick toffee called,creamy toffee. Joe also makes the caramel and rolls it daily for the (turtles) his chocolate caramel pecans are his #1 seller.

Of course, you can tell each piece of candy is unique by its different diameter. They look the same but they have slight weight difference, therefore when collected and weighed together a pound is always a pound.

The observance of Cunis Candies in South Holland reminds me of a retreat from the hustle, bustle, stressed society we live in and brings us back to the past in which we reminisce. A comment from a customer in the store was "He and his wife dated at Cunis in South Shore forty plus years ago. They travel to South Holland because the taste remained the same from years ago whether it was ice cream or candy."

Therese Kubiak, mother of Joseph Kubiak

Joe Kubiak sells candy all over the United States and it is shipped UPS daily. His mailing list of past customers are from over 63 years of service.

Joe also sells custom corporate chocolate bars in a variety of sizes. He sells business card size chocolate bars of 3 oz., 6 oz. and 8 oz.

Cunis candies and homemade ice cream and yogurt, have the finest sugar free homemade candies, hand dipped chocolates and is ALL homemade daily!

To visit the successful candy factory and ice cream parlor, Cunis is open Monday through Saturday 11 a.m. to 11 p.m. in Pacesetter Plaza at 1030 East 162nd Street in South Holland, just two blocks west of Hwy 94. You may charge your order by calling (708) 596-2440 for they accept Visa and MasterCard.

Moraine Valley Board of Trustees extend president's contract

The Moraine Valley Community College Board of Trustees voted unanimously to extend the three-year contract of President Dr. Vernon O. Crawley to 1999. The Board approved Crawley's contract at the regular meeting of the Board held on Wednesday, July 17.

"Moraine Valley must continually strive to develop new programs and services to meet the growing needs of the community," Crawley said. "We are committed to quality education, and as we prepare for the future, we need to reexamine the needs of our students and community members, and implement changes to meet those needs," he added.

During the past year, a number of new initiatives have been achieved at Moraine Valley, including the following:

• The Center for Advanced Studies will open on campus in the fall of 1996.

• To reach adult learners, the college developed a new program called MVIP.

• A new academic review system called Program Accountability Standards Systems went into effect this year.

• Moraine College implemented three-week short courses in art appreciation, communications, history, psychology, sociology, and speech.

• The college completed a review and update of approximately 900 college-credit courses, and developed a model syllabus for all college-credit and noncredit classes.

• The college made several curriculum modifications, including new Associate in Applied Science degrees in computer and local area networks, and computer and electronic controls. The college also added computer technician, electronic controls technology, electronics technician, and local area network technician certificate programs.

• A $75,000 Workforce Special Initiative grant will allow Moraine Valley to work with College of DuPage.

• The Illinois State Board of Education recognized Moraine Valley as a national state pilot site for the National Manufacturing Standards Pilot Project.

• The Saturn automobile company selected Moraine Valley as a training site for its new certified used car program.

• The National Science Foundation awarded the college more than $219,000 for a three-year project to prepare and distribute manufacturing curriculums and teaching materials.

• In cooperation with South Suburban College, Moraine Valley conducted a Work Keys assessment for the Foster Wheeler facility in Robbins.

• The college has formed new partnerships, such as a new training and education agreement between the college's Criminal Justice Program and the Northeast Multi-Regional Training branch of the Illinois Police Training Board.

• Moraine Valley, in cooperation with the Economic Development Council for the Southwest Suburbs, established the Education to Careers Regional Council.

• The college collaborated with 13 area high schools to offer its first Career Information Night.

• The college commemorated Veterans Day by holding a special ceremony honoring all military veterans and installing a plaque on campus in remembrance of the Vietnam Veterans Memorial Moving Wall which was on campus in 1994.

• The college's Learning Resources Center established partners to help improve services and resource materials it offers to the college community.

• The college initiated and implemented several improvements to facilities.

• A new community service/volunteer program was established.

• A new course, College 101: Challenges, Choices, and Changes, will be offered to help students pursue self-development, identify their strengths, and provide resource for a successful college experience.

• The college received three grants totaling $35,000 from the National Coalition of Advanced Technology Centers.

• The college established a distance learning site at Christ Hospital and Medical Center.

In addition to these accomplishments, a number of other new initiatives were completed during the past year under Crawley's leadership.

Crawley was appointed as the fourth president of Moraine Valley in May 1991 and began as president in July of 1991.

The Male Experience - The two-credit hour class will meet on Monday evenings from 6:30 p.m. to 8:45 p.m. beginning Sept. 9 and ending Dec. 2. It will take place in the College Center, Room 209, on the campus. Tuition is $42 per credit hour plus fees.

The Male Experience is for men 25 years of age and older wishing to explore their lives and relationships in a suportive environment. Participants will explore personal goals and values, communication styles and their impact, and the role of men in today's society. The class format consists of lectures, group discussions, and experimental activities.

For more information, call George Ortenzo at (708) 974-5722. To register, call the College Service Center at (708) 974-2110.

Changes, Challenges, and Choices - This one-credit hour course, which will be offered for the first time beginning in the fall, will assist new students in making the transition to college life. Designed to be taken within the first year of classes, the class will benefit students entering college directly from high school as well as returning adult students.

Topics covered during the 17-week class include the time demands of college, making learning adjustments in college, learning styles and listening, thinking and learning in college, personal system of values, self-awareness, interpersonal relationships, appreciating diversity, and planning for the future.

This fall, 14 different sections of the class will be offered, including two evening times. The class will transfer to a variety of colleges and universities.

For more information, contact the Counseling and Career Development Center at (708)974-5722.

The Returning Woman Program - This program offers educational experiences to challenge women to grow personally, socially, and academically. It is designed to meet the special needs of the adult woman student and help students improve writing skills and develop self-confidence as well as self-direction through a series of courses taken with other women who are returning to college.

In the Returning Woman Program, special section of Composition I, Introduction to Sociology, and Human Potentials are offered Monday, Wednesday, and Friday, from 9 a.m. to noon. Some evening classes are also available. The courses can be used to fulfill basic requirements for many programs of study.

Fall semester classes begin Monday, Aug. 26. For more information about the program, call the college at (708) 974-5722. To register for classes, call (708) 974-2110.

Theatre Alive

with Georgean Fitzgerald

'Leapin Lizards', " Never in my born days have I seen an audience go as wild with joy as the one that greeted the musical "ANNIE" reported Liz Smith of the New York Daily News on April 21, 1977." But before it got to Broadway it had to have a beginning.

Its creation began when Martin Charmin was browsing in a midtown Manhattan bookstore. Looking for a gift, his eyes chanced to fall upon a comic strip collection entitled "Little Orphan Annie, Her Life and Hard Times". Charmin, who had written lyrics for several Broadway musicals, had been searching for an idea for a new musical. This is it, he thought. He called Thomas Meehan, who had written several stories for other musicals, to ask him to write the book. They didn't want a comic strip musical, but one just based on one. They began to create a realistic character, a child of indomitable spirit. One who was lost and wandering, who would stand as a metaphor for courage, morality, innocence, and optimism in the face of cynicism and pessimism. While it appeals to children, of course, it does not exclude adults. A comic strip is an ideal basis for a musical comedy because they are similar forms of popular American culture. And, so with their own indomitable spirit, ANNIE, the real life story was born.

The action takes place at the height of the depression in 1933. Eleven year old Annie (Jessica Blair) lives in an orphanage where her parents left her when an infant.

Under the rough care of Miss Hannigan (Dee Thomas life is tough. Annie tries to escape in a laundry cart, but is discovered and returned to the orphanage. Miss Hannigan threatens Annie by telling her she will never ever leave.

'Leapin' lizards,' as luck would have it, Annie is chosen by Grace Farrell, Warbuck's secretary, (Mary Lynn Saks) to spend the Christmas holidays at his mansion. Though Hannigan doesn't want to let her go, Grace insists that she is the one and only one. Annie endears herself to Warbucks (Michael Hamilton) and he decides to help find her parents. 'Daddy' Warbucks enlists the aid of the F.B.I. to find them.

Some exciting moments occur when Annie meets the President of the United States Franklin D. Roosevelt and his cabinet. Always hopeful and optimistic that she will find her parents, she sings "Tomorrow" throughout the various scenes. Suspense is heightened when the last couple present themselves as Annie's true parents.

The orphans capture the hearts of the audiences as they sing "it's a Hard-Knock Life" which they perform as they scrub the floors of the NYC Municipal Orphanage at four a.m. and "You're Never Fully Dressed Without a Smile". Other notable tunes that add gusto to this fast-paced musical are "We'd Like to Thank you", "NYC" and "I Don't Need Anything But You,"

The audience is totally mesmerized when Hannigan, Rooster and Lily give their rendition of "EasyStreet", and when 'Hannigan belts out her own lament as she sings "Little Girls".

Toward the end of Act I, Daddy Warbucks tells Annie that he wants to tell her a story, whereupon she asks: "does it have a happy ending?" "Yes, he replies, "or at least I thing so. "This star-studded production directed by Gary Giacomo is worthy of a standing ovation for the entire cast, and it does have a happy ending. Final note: Hallmark to a champion: Died, Sandy 16, the mutt turned superstar who for six years delighted audiences; of old age (he was 80 in human years). A mix of Airedale terrier and Irish setter, he was bought from a humane society for $8. As the pooch who run. Annie played through August 11 at the Center in Munster, Ind. NOW PLAYING as of Augst 15 thru September 8th is My Fair Lady. The Center if just a half hour away from southwest Chicago via the Calumet Expressway. You may call the box office at 1-219-836-3255 for tickets.

"My Fair Lady" is another great hit with the audience. You'll enjoy the professionalism of the cast, director, musical direcetor, lighting and stage crew at The Center for Visual and Performing Arts in Munster, Indiana.

Doo Wop Shoo Bop a hit

By Annette Dixon

Mercury Theater, 3745 N. Southport an Uptown area with a lot of class presents Doo Wop Shoo Bop, written and directed by Jackie Taylor.

Doo Wop Shoo Bop appeared locally at Chicago's Black Ensemble Theatre on Beacon Street in 1995, followed by Ivanhoe Theatre for one month, and in June 1995 at the Skyline Stage at Chicago's Navy Pier. In 1996, it returned to the Ivanhoe Theatre where it appeared for 16 weeks.

It is understandable how such a dynamic show can make runs such as these. After attending the performance on Friday, July 19, my interest in Doo Wop Shoo Bop groups from Chicago became more evident. I had forgotten how many groups actually came from Chicago!

The highlights of the show are in Act 1 only because we once heard the sounds of the Platters, Laverne Baker, the Mills Brothers, Ruth Brown, and Dinah Washington and are familiar with them.

Act Two was long and drawn out . We heard sounds of The Spaniels, The Moonglows, The Eldorados, and The Flamingos.

JOHN STEVEN CROWLEY was superb in everything he sang, but as lead singer in the quartet I actually thought he was one of the Platters.

RANDI SHINE sang her heart out as Lavern Baker. PHYLIS OVERSTREET'S sound surely captured my attention. KELLI RICH did a great job as Dinah Washington, and of course, there's only one Dinah.

For that Doo Wop Shoo Bop music and great narration with information, plan now to have dinner and theatre by calling the Mercury Theater box office at (312) 325-1700.

The Reynolds of Derwood Bed & Breakfast overflows with hospitality and comfort

By Michel Rose

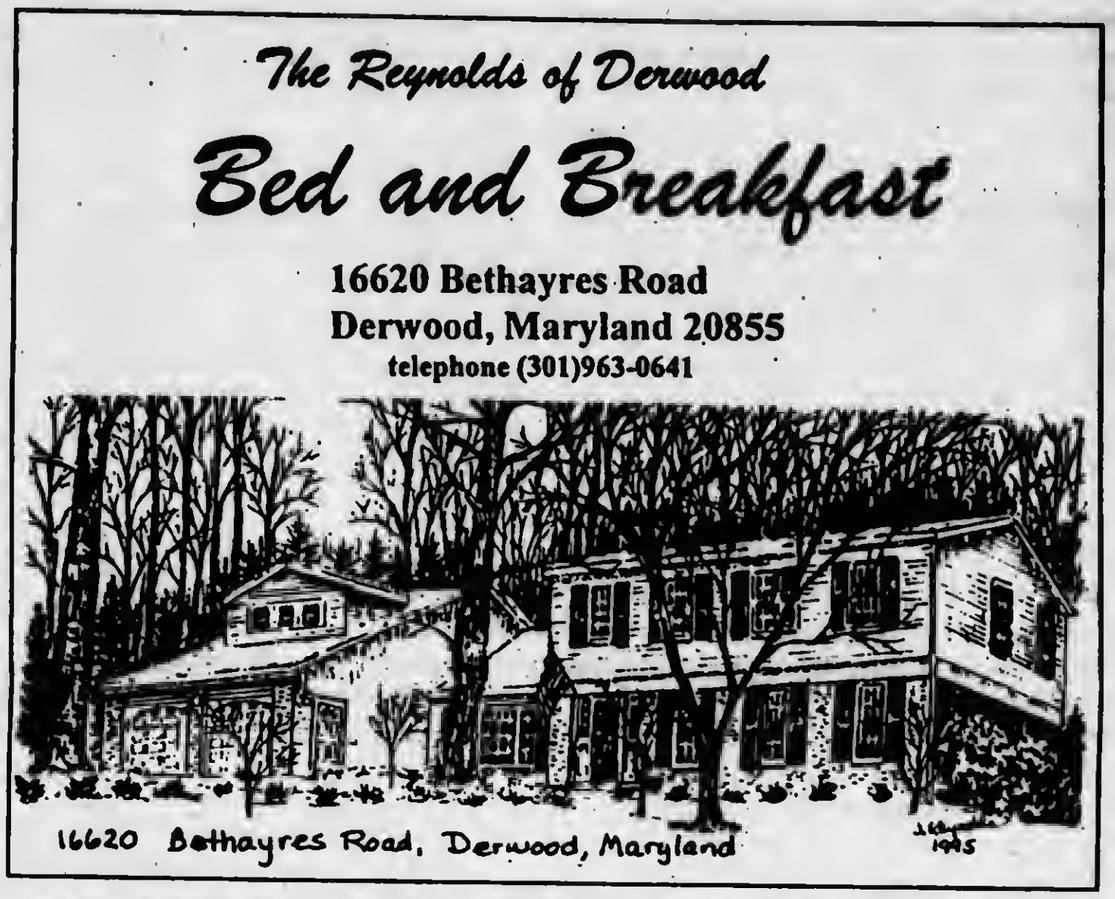
The Reynolds of Derwood is a new B & B that just opened in Rockville, Maryland this summer. The gracious hosts, Homer and Joan Reynolds, will help make your stay in the Washington DC metropolitan area a memorable an comfortable one. They are located only two minutes from the Shady Grove Metro Station, which connects even the novice traveler with Washington DC, Virginia, and other parts of Maryland simply and easily. The three airports, Washington National, Dulles, and Baltimore (BWI) are all within 45 minutes.

Their home is nested in a patch of trees on a lovely corner in a serene section of Rockville known as Parkside Estates. There are two rooms available, along with a sunroom, and private patio. The Williamsburg Room is a first floor wheel chair accessible colonial motif bedroom with a queen size bed. It is located in the private wing of the home. Windows overlook woods, rock garden hill of azaleas, and holly trees. Private bathroom is wheel chair accessible with a whirlpool bathtub and shower. Cable TV/VCR is available in the bedroom. Also, private microwave and refrigerator available at the entrance.

The Presidents Room is a second floor bedroom in the main house, and has twin beds and an adjacent private full bath with a lovely window view of the yard. Two paintings hand in this room given to the family by President Lyndon B. Johnson. There are also numerous photographs of Pres. John F. Kennedy and family during his White House years, and copies of Kennedy's last speeches.

A bright and cheerful sunroom is adjacent to the Williamsburg Room for quiet conversations and to enjoy your continental breakfast. This sunroom has a private patio right outside the door with comfortable chairs and a table. Both the patio and sunroom overlook the rock garden hill and wooded area lighted for viewing in the evening.

Blueberry Hill Park is across the street where you can enjoy lighted tennis courts, basketball, sheltered picnic tables, children's play equipment, and two ball fields available for jogging. Needwood Public golf course is 3 minutes away with an 18 hole championship course and a 9 hole executive course. Needwood Park is 5 minutes away with hiking trails, biking trails, lake fishing, archery, sheltered picnic areas and rental of canoes/rowboats/pedal boats.



An artist is in residence for you to enjoy her art studio where you can take art lessons. She sells her own watercolors, pen and ink prints, and stationery of historic places in Maryland, Virginia and Pennsylvania.

The rooms rent for $70 and $85. This B & B is a wonderful alternative to high priced hotels in Washington DC. Transportation is easy, and the hosts are overflowing with refreshing hospitality. Call (301) 963-0641 to make reservations or for more information.

Chicago Southland Chamber of Commerce Businesswoman to speak at International Convention

Mary Beth Prosapio, B.A., A.C.H.I., spoke as a faculty member and presenter at the 1996 International Convention of the prestigious National Guild of Hypnotist (NGH), in Nashua, New Hampshire. The conference was held on August 9th through the 11th, 1996, at the Sheraton Tara. The topics of her presentations this year was: 1. Recognizing and Treating Co-Dependency; Hypnosis and The 12-Step Concept, and 2.) A workshop entitled: Hypnosis & The Cross-Dresser. Nineteen ninety-six marks the third consecutive year that Prosapio has been a distinguished presenter for the NGH.

The National Guild of Hypnotists is the oldest and largest organization in the world for certified hypnotherapists. Her achievement will earn her the honor of being published yet again in the NGH's annual convention archives. During the course of her distinguished career Prosapio also has been recognized in the records of the United States Congress.

Among her other professional achievements, Prosapio appeared as a guest in a December 1994 nationally broadcast TV edition of THE SUSAN POWTER SHOW, as well as local cable TV show and the EYEWITNESS NEWS, on Channel 9 (Chicago).

Prosapio has been a family therapist for more than a decade. Her post graduate training and expertise in the field of hypnosis continues to focus on its therapeutic applications. Of particular interest to Prosapio is the mind and body connection, as it relates to healing--both emotionally and physically.

In addition to her own, as well as her clients' experiences with healing, research studies also show that self-hypnosis (Prosapio points out that all hypnosis is self-hypnosis) can be an effective treatment for many ailments in which stress and anxiety are factors. Problems she addresses include: stress

Adler Planetarium Programs

Autumn Sun Fest: "The Cosmos of the Native American" - On Sunday, September 22, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., the Autumnal Equinox Sun Fest will be celebrated at the Adler Planetarium and Astronomy Museum, rain or shine. The theme is "The Cosmos of the Native American." Special attraction include family activities woven around the day's theme, celestial crafts, sky stories, and a High Noon Countdown (true noon, not 12:00 noon) to when the Sun creates a unique "signature" on our replica of an Anasazi Sun spiral. SUNDAY, SEPTEMBER 22, 10 A.M. TO 4 P.M.

Total Eclipse of the Harvest Moon - On Thursday, September 26, the Harvest Moon will be totally immersed in the Earth's shadow from 9:19 p.m. until 10:29 p.m. This is the last total lunar eclipse visible from North America until January 21, 2000. Saturn moves into its closest position to Earth during the eclipse, and will be positioned about 3 degrees below the Moon, adding a second feature to the stellar show. Rain or shine, the public is invited to take part in eclipse activities at the Adler Planetarium. In Adler's Sky Theater, visitors can view recreations of a lunar eclipse in the sky show "The Sky Tonight." THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 26, UNTIL 11:30 P.M "THE SKY TONIGHT" WILL BE SHOWN AT 6,7,8,9, AND 10 P.M.

The Dog Days of August - The constellation Canis Major (the Big Dog) barks overhead in August. Hear stories of this celestial pup in the Mini-Dome and make a glow-in-the-dark puppet that features the brightest star in the northern sky as the big dog's nose. SATURDAYS, AUGUST 17, 24 AND 31, AT 11:15 A.M. AND 2:15 P.M. ON EACH DAY.

SKY SHOWS

Comets Are Coming! - Experience what it would be like to see a large, bright comet light up the sky with its brilliant tail, and learn more about the mystery and fascination behind these traveling balls of ice, gas, and dust. David Levy, codiscoverer of Comet Shoemaker Levy 9 that crashed into Jupiter in 1994, penned the script for Adler's newest sky show production which also prepares viewers for the coming of a comet that will pass through the evening sky in spring of 1997. The introductory program provides an "Update On The Universe," and highlights upcoming celestial events as well as the Galileo mission and the latest from Hubble Space Telescope. OPEN RUN.

Through the Eyes of Hubble - Since its successful repair in 1993, the Hubble Space Telescope has proved to be the single most important tool astronomers have for exploring the Universe. This show displays some of Hubble's greatest hits: colorful, close-up views of objects and events including Comet Shoemaker-Levy 9's crash into Jupiter; atmospheric storms on Saturn; nurseries in space were new stars are being born; galaxies of different ages and evidence of a black hole at the center of a galaxy. OPEN RUN.

Doane Observatory - Every Thursday and Friday Adler Planetarium stays open until 9 p.m., and following the 8 p.m. sky show, weather permitting visitors inside the theater can see live images of planets, moons, stars and galaxies from Adler's Doane Observatory telescope. After this live show, 50 of the sky show viewers can visit the Doane and actually look through the telescope themselves. Also, Monday through Friday 20 visitors at a time can take a guided tour of the observatory to see the telescope and learn how it works. Tours of the observatory are free with museum admission. MONDAY THROUGH FRIDAY AFTERNOONS, CHECK AT BOX OFFICE FOR TOUR TIMES; THURSDAYS AND FRIDAYS AT 6:30 AND 7:30 P.M.

PLEASE NOTE NEW FEE STRUCTURE AND BUILDING HOURS

Admission to the museum is $3 for adults, $2 for children ages 4 -17 and $2 for senior citizens; children ages 3 and under are free. Sky show tickets are an additional $2 for all ages per show. From June 1 to Labor Day, building hours are 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday through Wednesday, and 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. on Thursdays and Fridays. Phone (312) 922-STAR for more information.

Tony Danza brings musical stage show to the Drury Lane

Television's TONY DANZA will bring his musical stage show to the Drury Lane Oakbrook Terrace for five performances opening Friday, August 23 at 8:30 p.m. The engagement marks the performer's only Midwest appearance on his summer US tour.

In the tradition of show biz's greatest variety shows, TONY DANZA'S stage extravaganza is 90 entertaining minutes of singing, dancing, storytelling and much more. Danza debuted his stage show last August in Atlantic City to sold-out audiences. He has since appeared on the legendary Las Vegas Strip and returned to Atlantic City for an encore performance.

One of America's most popular performers, TONY DANZA has many credits including a five year run on the critically acclaimed series "Taxi" and eight seasons on Who's the Boss?" Dana most recently starred in and executive produced "Hudson Street" for ABC. Danza recently entered into an exclusive deal with NBC, for which he will produce and star in a new series for the fall of 1997. A veteran stage, screen and television star, Danza is also a respected producer, with the highly rated ABC specials "Before They Were Stars" and many other television projects to his credit.

The performance schedule for TONY DANZA at the Drury Lane Oakbrook Terrace is Friday, Aug. 23 at 8:30 p.m.; Sat., Aug. 24, at 5:30 p.m. and 9 p.m.: and Sunday, Aug. 25, at 2:30 p.m. and 7 p.m. Tickets range in price from $25 to $30 each; dinner / theatre packages range from $38.75 to $42. For tickets, call (708) 530-0111 (special group rates available).

History and Jazz masters at the Chicago Jazz Festival

The 18th annual Chicago Jazz Festival presented by the City of Chicago and Philip Morris Companies Inc. in Grant Park, will salute jazz masters and celebrate American music history on August 30 through September 1.

The following acts will perform at the Petrillo Music Shell:

History abounds during the 18th annual Chicago Jazz Festival with "Groovin High," a musical tribute commemorating the 50th anniversary of Dizzy's Big Band on Friday evening from 8:55 - 10 p.m. The recreation of Dizzy Gillespie's Big Band will feature an 18 piece orchestra led by Gillespie protege, Jon Faddis who currently directs Carnegie Hall's Jazz Orchestra. The band will also include such original Gillespie sidemen as Milt Jackson (vibes), James Moody (tenor saxophone) and Cecil Payne (baritone saxophone). feature musicians from Robert Altman's movie "Kansas City" and the Verve CD of the sound track. Featured musicians will include Nicholas Payton (trumpet), David Murray (saxophone), David "Fathead" Newman (saxophone), Cyrus Chestnut (piano) and Victor Lewis (drums).

The innovative sounds of the Roy Haynes Quintet will also be featured on Sunday. Roy Haynes, who is considered to be a working piece of jazz history, has played with swing master, Lester Young; bee bop great Charlie Parker and free-jazz icon John Coltrane.

The Carla Bley Big Band will be an additional Sunday treat from 7:50-8:50 p.m. As one of the few women to lead a big band, Bley delivers innovative compositions that are recognized worldwide.

The following are also appearing at the Jazz Festival at other stages:

Rialto Square Theatre presents "The Best of Barbershop - Sweet Adelines Champions"

"The Best of Barbershop - Sweet Adelines Champions" will be presented on Saturday, August 24, 1996 at 8 p.m. at the Rialto Square Theatre, 102 N. Chicago Street, Joliet, Illinois.

This cavalcade of Sweet Adeline talent is sponsored by Lake Michigan Region #3, Sweet Adelines International, to benefit the region and the champions who will represent it at International Competition in Ft. Lauderdale, October 1996.

All seating is reserved. Ticket prices are $18.00 for main floor and first balcony and $15.00 for balconies two and three. Social Security trust funds growing; long-term problems remain

By Rosalie Thompson: Social Security District Mgr. in Evergreen Park

The Social Security trust funds are solvent for more than three decades into the future, according to the 1996 Annual Board of Trustees Report.

The Board of Trustees is required by law to report annually to Congress on the current and estimated future financial condition of the Old Age and Survivors Insurance (OASI) and Disability Insurance (DI) Trust Funds. The report uses annually updated economic and demographic assumptions, reflecting the nation's most recent experience and best available research. The 1996 report reflects little change from the Board of Trustees reports for the past two years.

The 1996 report shows that income to the combined retirement, survivors, and disability trust funds amounted to $400 billion in calendar year 1995, and expenditures were $340 billion. The combined trust fund assets thus increased by $60 billion, and at the end of December stood at $500 billion.

The report also states that the combined trust funds are expected to grow until 2019, and then to decline until they would be exhausted in 2029. Both of these dates are one year sooner than estimated in the 1995 Annual Report of the Board of Trustees.

Commissioner Chater has noted, however, that contrary to what many people believe, Social Security would not be "broke" in 2029. The Social Security system will continue to receive payroll taxes--enough to cover 77 percent of the full benefit costs at that time.

"While there are long-range financing problems for Social Security," Commissioner Chater said, "there is also ample time to discuss alternatives and to find a resolution that has the full support of the American people."

The 1996 trustees report on the status of the Medicare trust funds was less favorable. The estimated depletion of the Hospital Insurance (HI) trust fund will occur in the year 2001, based on the most probable economic and demographic assumptions. This is one year earlier than had been forecast by the trustees last year.

To address the short-term financial problems facing the HI trust fund, the trustees recommended the earliest possible enactment of legislation to reduce growth in HI program costs and to extend the date of exhaustion of the HI trust fund.

For longer-term Medicare financing problems, the trustees recommended the establishment of a national advisory group on Medicare reform to develop proposals.

Six people serve on the Social Security and Medicare Board of trustees: the Secretary of the treasury, Robert Rubin; the Secretary of Labor, Robert Reich; the secretary of Health and Human Services, Donna Shalala; the Commissioner of Social Security, Shirley Chater; and two members appointed by the President and confirmed by the Senate to represent the public, Stephen Kellison and Marilyn Moon.

Brother Rice student receives Evans Scholarship

Brother Rice High School senior Derek Wasilevich of Evergreen Park receives a plaque announcing his Evans Scholarship from Rice vice principal Br. C. J. Gattone (right) as principal Br. Daniel Casey looks on.

Wasilevich is one of 225 scholarship winners this year.

The Evans Scholarship Program, administered by

The scholarship is awarded to caddies and covers tuition and housing for up to four years. To be eligible, candidates must meet four requirements: high scholastic achievement, a strong caddie record, demonstrated financial need and outstanding character. Wasilevich caddied at Beverly Country Club and will attend Northern Illinois University. The total value of an Evans Scholarship at a state university such as NIU is $20,000 to $25,000.

The Western Golf Association, is the nation's largest individually funded scholarship program. Currently, there are 849 Evans Scholars in college. Most of them attend one of the 14 universities where the foundation maintains a chapter house.

More than 100,000 golfers across the country contribute annually to the scholarship program. Major sources of revenue include the WGA Par Club, Evans Scholars Alumni and proceeds from the Motorola Western Open, which was recently held at Cog Hill Golf Club in Lemont.

Entrepreneurial Woman's Conference in Chicago set for September 12

The Women's Business Development Center (WBDC) in Chicago, a non-profit organization that assists women entrepreneurs in growing their business, will hold its tenth anniversary Entrepreneurial Woman's Conference, themed "Women Succeeding in Business," on Thursday, Sept. 12, from 7:30 a.m. to 6:30 p.m., at Chicago's Navy Pier, 600 E. Grand Ave.

Highlights include a Women's Business and Buyers Mart for women business owners wanting to sell their product or service to corporate and government buyer/exhibitors. The annual Hall of Fame Awards Breakfast and a luncheon forum featuring prominent nationally-recognized successful women entrepreneurs will be moderated by Terry Savage, financial analyst and author. Forum participants will include Lindsey Johnson, CEO, Women Incorporated; Ruth Owades, president, Calyx & Corolla; Ginger Lew, deputy administrator designate of the Small Business Administration (SBA)' and Paige Simpson, producer of the film "Leaving Las Vegas." Business owners who attend will also be offered a variety of business development panel discussions led by local women entrepreneurs.

Longtime partner of the Entrepreneurial Woman's Conference with the WBDC is the Chicago Sun-Times and continuing conference sponsor is Harris Trust & Savings Bank. Ameritech will once again sponsor the Women's Business and Buyer's Mart and sponsoring the Hall of Fame Awards Breakfast is Quaker Oats. Sponsoring the networking reception is IBM. Continuing benefactors include ComEd, the United States Department of Energy, the Illinois Department of Commerce & Community Affairs, and Women Incorporated. Media sponsors are WBBM-TV (CBS, Chicago) WBBM-AM Newsradio 78, and Working Woman magazine. United Airlines is the official carrier. Workshop hosts are Avon, Arrow Messenger Service, MCI, Illinois Department of Commerce and Community Affairs, Illinois Women's Business Ownership Council, Goldberg, Kohn, Bell, Black, Rosenbloom and Moritz, and Sonnenschein, Nath & Rosenthal.

Award winners to be featured at the Hall of Fame Awards breakfast will be announced at a reception in August at the Harris Bank.

The Conference, which is expected to attract more than 2,000 women, has grown into "one of the leading events nationwide for women who want to start a business, women who are ready to expand a business, women entrepreneurs seeking financing, and women who want to do business with government agencies and corporations," said Helen Brown, Conference co-chairperson.

Registration for the full Conference is $110 before Sept. 1, 1996, and $150 thereafter. Luncheon forum tickets alone are $80, and Hall of Fame Awards Breakfast is $35 per person. Discounted registration is available for members of the National Association of Women Business Owners and Women Incorporated.

Founded in 1986, WBDC provides women entrepreneurs with entrepreneurial training, individualized consulting, financial counseling and assistance, business and strategic plan development, and WBE certification and procurement opportunities. For further information, call (312) 853-3477, ext. 45.

Flying with Angels

By Nina A. Marshall

As my Florida bound plane soared into the vast sea of clouds,
I gazed out of my window and wondered aloud
"Am I flying with angels?"
Tho' none were in sight
I felt they were there,
protecting my flight.
Then, as we landed safely
I thanked them in a prayer, to those Guardian Angels
I flew with up there.

Citizens form Committee

Oak Lawn Board Meeting

By Carlene O'Connor

Can it be saved? The quest of whether or not to save Cook School from demolition is being tossed around by the Oak Lawn Village Board and the Park District. Some trustees on the board would like to save the building.

Possible funding ideas were given by Trustee Streit of the 3rd district. He spoke with Rep. Maureen Murphy about obtaining grant money to renovate the building.

Another monetary suggestion was given by Mary Grana, a member of the "Save Cook School Committee". She contacted Congressman Bill Lipinski for a possible $500,000 grant.

Ideas on possible uses for the building are a youth center, children's theater and a visual arts program for adults.

Trustee Streit said, "I'm glad that people want to save Cook School. The estimate of 2.4 million to renovate the building was greatly exaggerated. I have heard from another architect, Charles Shegerson, that they could do historic preservation at $120 a square foot. This would come to about $1.5 to $1.8 million to save the school."

Other trustees gave comments. Trustee Walsh said, "Estimate of $2.4 million is overpriced. I believe we can get it done for $120 a square foot."

Another supporter, Trustee Joy said, "I am committed to Cook School and we must be so fiscally."

Trustee Stancik who is in great support of the school said, "We must keep open minds. I like the opportunity to chair a committee not only to save the school but come up with some 1996 productive use for the school."

The two other trustees on the board gave these views. Trustee Keane said, "If a committee is to be formed it should be by the owner of the building. It's up to the Park District." Trustee Holesha said, "If we are going to make a decision maybe it should be a referendum."

Time is drawing near to D-Date. The park district plans to demolish the building in October.

Residents who would like to serve on the "Save Cook School Committee" should contact the Village Hall.

From the Office of the Mayor: Blood donors needed

Rick Herpich, an energetic young man from our community, is facing a serious health condition which requires a major surgical procedure. He is very active in the many service organizations serving the Village of Oak Lawn. As a member and the current President of the Oak Lawn Jaycess, he continues to work to help others less fortunate than himself. Now it is time for all of us to help one of our own.

Rick's surgery will require blood transfusions to aid in his recovery. His friends at the Jaycess are sponsoring a blood drive to help Rick and other people in the on-going need for blood. At tis time, I would like to encourage everyone who is an eligible blood donor to participate in this worthwile effort. This is an opportunity to thank this active young man for the countless hours of time he has donated to help others. Please take some time and stop by the Oak Lawn Elks Lodge, 10720 S. Central, on Sept. 10th from 3 to 7 p.m.

Congressman Lipinski urges creation of clearinghouse on corporate responsibility

U.S. Rep. Bill Lipinski (IL-3rd) has joined an effort to persuade the Commerce Department to provide an information clearinghouse on responsible corporate practices for U.S. businesses with operations abroad.

"We need to encourage U.S. companies to be good corporate citizens when they operate in other countries," Congressman Lipinski said. "The Commerce Department could provide the ideal environment for supporting better global corporate practices."

In a recent letter to Commerce Secretary Mickey Kantor, Congressman Lipinski and other Members of Congress asked that the clearinghouse be set up to:

* Disseminate information of ethical corporate practices;
* Provide lists of "approved suppliers" in prospective markets;
* Supply firms with case studies of exemplary corporate practices;
* Notify companies about workshops, conferences and other resources that teach firms about how to implement ethical practices into their international operations.

"By providing U.S. firms with an information clearinghouse on responsible corporate practices, we can ensure that our global trade and investment practices foster responsible corporate practices at home and abroad."

Oak Lawn dedication set for September 14th

The Oak Lawn Veterans Memorial will become a reality on Saturday, September 14, beginning at 9:30 a.m. at the east entrance of the new Village Green. A most impressive program is being planned. The Oak Lawn Community High School Band, dressed in their colorful uniforms, will start the program with a medley of musical selections and the Oak Lawn Bible Church's Choir will sing a stirring mixture of patriotic songs. Capt. Harold A. Fritz, U. S. Army (ret.) was awarded the Congressional Medal of Honor for heroism while serving in Vietnam will be the guest speaker.

The 30-foot long, jet black, polished granite monument is engraved with the insignias of the five branches of Service. It rests on a gray base on a circular floor of brilliant white concrete. Three flag poles will fly the U.S. Flag, the State of Illinois, and the Village of Oak Lawn flags, along with the POW/MIA banner. The 6 x 4 foot stone tablets are engraved on the backside with the names of Oak Lawn's fifty-two servicemen killed in action since the Civil War while serving in the military. Also engraved thereon is an awe-inspiring lone sentinel figure keeping a silent watch over the Gold Star Roll of Honor. This etching is remindful of the lone sentry at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier in Arlington National Cemetery.

At noon, Oak Lawn will dedicate and celebrate the Grand Opening of their new Village Green, with various planned festivities. The Southwest Symphony Orchestra will begin the afternoon ceremonies, in concert, performing patriotic selections. Food and refreshments will be sold. A new "Tot Lot" playground for children will keep the "Tots" busy and happy for hours. An Arts & Crafts show will display exhibitors wares. Several instrument groups will perform and entertain throughout the day and evening from the attractive new Gazebo. A raffle for a new television set will make somebody happy. Bring your family and friends. Admission & parking is free.

Phoenix Group features speech on stress management

St. Albert Phoenix Group will feature Mr. Spencer Booth, pre-doctorate intern from the family care network of Christ Hospital. Mr. Booth will speak on "Stress-Making it Manageable" at 7:30 p.m. on Tuesday, September 10th in the Alberts Room, 5555 State Road, Burbank. Everyone is welcome.

Further information can be obtained by calling Deacon Ken at (708) 458-8923.

Commissioner Meany to be Honored

Commisioner Kathleen Therese Meany,Vice President of the Metropolitan Water Reclamation District

Commissioner Kathleen Therese Meany, Vice President of the Metropolitan Water Reclamation District of Greater Chicago, will be honored at a cocktail reception. The affair will be held Thursday, September 5, at the Partheon Restaurant, 314 S. Halsted, from 5-7 p.m. For further information you may contact Claire White, 312-233-5373.

Golfers with Physical Disabilities "Back in the Swing"

Oak Lawn Park District's Stony Creek Golf Course, 5850 W. 103rd Street, has recently purchased a golf cart that will help enable individuals with physical disabilities to enjoy the game of golf. The single person cart is designed to facilitate golfers who have difficulty getting in and out of a typical golf cart or who are unable to walk the course. It is ideal for individuals with heart problems, walking difficulties and other physical limitations. The main feature that separates this cart from others is the rotating seat that allows golfers the option to stay in the seated position while hitting the golf ball. The seat is equipped with seat belts to ensure the golfer's safety and is height adjustable to fit every size player. The cart is also equipped with easy "one-hand" controls, a front mount golf bag carrier for easy access to clubs, parking brake, crutch/cane/walker holder and even a place for a cold beverage.

"We are thrilled to be the first golf course in the Southland area to offer a special golf cart designed for patrons who are physically challenged, said Lynn Parfitt, Oak Lawn Park District Special Recreation Manager. We are especially excited about the opportunity to welcome first-time golfers who have been unable to enjoy the sport due to physical restrictions."

The golf cart is available now for the same cost as a regular cart and golfers must be at least 18 years of age to rent it. Golfers are asked to call ahead to check availability. For additional information, please call Stoney Creek Golf Course at (708) 857-2433.

Video and Photography classes being offered at Moraine Valley

Moraine Valley Community College will offer non-credit video production and photography classes this fall.

Two sessions of Beginning Photography will be offered. The first will meet on Thursdays from 7 to 9:30 p.m. beginning Sept. 5. It will take place in Room 240 of the Fine and Performing Arts Center, on the campus, 10900 S. 88th Ave., Palos Hills. The second session will meet on Wednesdays from 7 to 9:30 p.m. beginning Sept. 11. It will take place in Room 325 of Victor J. Andrew High School, 171st Street and 90th Avenue in Tinley Park.

The cost of these three-week classes is $26. Students will learn about different types of film, exposure, and composition. Beginning Photography is a good class for those who have recently purchased a 35mm camera. It is not an in-depth study of photography.

Video Production I will meet on Mondays from 7 to 9 p.m. beginning Sept. 9. The five-week class will take place in Room 226 of the Fine and Performing Arts Center. The cost is $35.

Video Production I is a nontechnical, hands-on class for those who wish to learn the basics of video camera operation, audio, lighting, and editing. Participants must have their own video camera.

For more information, call Continuing Education and Alternative Learning at (708) 974-5745. To register, call the College Service Center at (708) 974-2110 (TTY/TDD for the hearing impaired (708) 974-9556).

Little Company assists Neighborhood Courage Program

Multitudes of newborn baby gifts filled Little Company's Cafe 95 in support of the Courage program on Thursday, August 1.

This special baby shower was arranged and made possible by the Mission Committee of Little Company of Mary Hospital and Health Care Centers in support of the Courage program. This program assists young and unwed mothers who are pregnant.

The gifts included cases of diapers, powder, lotion, clothing, blankets, rattles, dolls and stuffed animals. These gifts were donated by community members Hospital volunteers, auxiliary and employees.

The Courage program not only helps pregnant teenage girls with childbirth but also any mother in need through the age of thirty-four. Courage helps the mothers find jobs, residence and financial assistance as well as providing emotional and spiritual support.

Maureen Shields, Founder and Director of Courage, stated that any community member who wishes to complete their high school diploma can do so through the GED program run by Courage.

If you would like to find out more about the Courage program contact Maureen Shields at (708) 636-5437 or (708) 636-5060 (9 a.m. - 4 p.m.)

Christ Hospital trauma surgeon Richard Gonzalez, M.D. (left), and radiology technician Bernie Whitaker sharpen their rib-cooking skills in preparation for Hope Children's Hospital Ribfest at Oak Forest's Gaelic Park on Saturday, August 24. The public was invited to the employee-sponsored fund-raising event that benefited the new children's hospital. Ribfest featured ribs plus nonstop live entertainment from noon to midnight.

Christ Hospital employees hosted Ribfest fundraiser for Hope Children's Hospital

Chefs' hats instead of hospital garb was the uniform of the day for the Christ Hospital and Medical Center employees and physicians who hosted Hope Children's Hospital Ribfest on Saturday, August 24, at Oak Forest's Gaelic Park. The community fund-raiser helped offset construction costs for the new $25 million children's hospital currently being built on the hospital's Oak Lawn campus.

Food and entertainment continued from noon to midnight at Gaelic Park, located at 6119 W. 147th Street. Family activities included games, clowns, sports celebrities and nonstop live musical entertainment. Musicians Anna Stange, Brian Ralph, Sharon Quigley, Devlin Dietel, Ken Qualter and Jim Kerrigan offered something for every interest, including children's songs, Irish music, blues, folk, pop and rock.

The evening hours featured an adult venue, with beer and wine and entertainment by I Me Me Mime (formerly American English) and the Dashboard Saints. Raffle tickets for a 1996 Chevrolet Geo Metro was also sold.

Hope Children's Hospital cost $25 million, $10 million is being sought through philanthropic support.

The Hospital is scheduled to open in November 1996.

Mitzi Hamilton choreographs and co-directs "A Chorus Line" at Drury Lane Oakbrook

A CHORUS LINE, the Tony Award-winning musical and longest-running show on Broadway, currently marking its 20th anniversary, will open on Wed., Sept. 4, at 8 p.m., at Drury Lane Oakbrook, Artist Director Gary Griffin announced. Stage veteran Mitzi Hamilton, who played Val in the original London and Broadway productions of A CHORUS LINE, will choreograph and co-direct with Griffin. A CHORUS LINE begins preview performances on Wednesday, August 28 and is scheduled to run through Sunday, October 13, at the Drury Lane, 100 Drury Lane in Oakbrook Terrace.

The character of Val in A CHORUS LINE was created from taped sessions Hamilton did with director-choreographer Michael Bennet. She performed the role in the original London production and later for a number of years on Broadway. For the past three years, she has directed and restaged the choreography for three different European tours of the show. Hamilton was in the original casts of Ron Field's KING OF HEARTS and APPLAUSE, Michael Bennett's SEESAW, Bob Fosse's PIPPIN and Hal Prince's CABARET.

In television, Hamilton worked on "Dames at Sea" with Ann-Margret, "Once Upon a Mattress" with Carol Burnett and the Tony and Academy Awards. Most recently, she has been associated with Betty Buckley on the "A Call for Bread" benefit.

Written by James Kirkwood and Nicholas Dante with music by Marvin Hamlisch and lyrics by Edward Kleban, A CHORUS LINE is filled with many memorable songs such as "One," "At the Ballet," "Nothing," "I Hope I Get It," "The Music and the Mirror" and "What I Did for Love".

Preview performances for A CHORUS LINE are scheduled Wednesday, August 28 through Sunday, Sept. 1. A CHORUS LINE opens on Wednesday, Sept. 4, at 8 p.m. The performance schedule for A CHORUS LINE preview week and thereafter is: Wed. at 8 p.m.; Thurs. at 2 p.m. and 8 p.m.; Fri. at 8:30 p.m.; Sat. at 5:30 p.m. and 9 p.m.; and Sun. at 2:30 p.m. and 7 p.m.

Individual ticket prices range from $18 to $25 and Dinner/Theatre packages range from $29.50 to $38.75. Tickets for A CHORUS LINE are available at the Drury Lane Oakbrook Terrace box office or by calling the box office at (708) 530-0111. Tickets are also available at all Ticketmaster outlets or by calling Ticketmaster at (312) 902-1500. For Group Sales call (708) 530-8300.

Theatre Alive

with Georgean Fitzgerald

Art Kassul (Pickering), Cory Goodrich (Eliza Doolittle) and Lee Pelty (Henry Higgins) star in Theatre at The Center's production of "My Fair Lady" playing at The Center for Visual and Performing Arts, Munster, Indiana, August 15 through September 8.

"The Ladies of the Summer" reaches its conclusion at the Theatre at the Center in Munster, Indiana, with the fairest of them all: "My Fair Lady", starring Lee Pelty, who played the critically acclaimed lead role of Tevye in "Fiddler on the Roof" as Henry Higgins, Art Kassul as Colonel Pickering, and Cory Goodrich as Eliza Doolittle. This 'fair lady', I must say was more than "fair"--she was superb!

The Alan Jay Lerner and Frederick Loewe musical, adapted from Bernard Shaw's straight comedy "Pygmalion" about a gutter-snipe who was turned into a lady by a haughty phonetics professor to win a bet, achieved the most striking popularity of any stage attraction of the mid-twentieth century The musical version of Shaw's story came into existence, quite literally, over Shaw's dead body. During his lifetime, he firmly opposed such a project. But his story turned into a gold mine for the estate--it profited in excess of $2 million. Professor Higgins, played by Pelty, is the short-tempered, self centered bachelor professor, who sings of his passion for women in two songs: "I'm an Ordinary Man" and "Why Can't a Woman Be More Like a Man?" To him also falls another famous hit song, the grudging surrender to romantic feelings, the tuneful "I've Grown Accustomed to Her Face." Cory Goodrich who has the part of the cold-hearted professor's guinea pig plays Eliza Doolittle.

In this Cinderella-like role she sings such notable songs as "The Rain in Spain" and the exhilarating "I Could Have Danced all Night". She also gets to bite out the acidulous "Just You Wait" and the imperious "Show Me".

It's certain you will remember her father, Alfred P. Doolittle, a low-lifer, who sings "Get me to the Church on Time" with the ensemble backing him up.

Kudos to John Librizzi for his energetic portrayal. Other outstanding performances were Mrs. Higgins played by veteran actress Lolly Trauscht and Mrs. Pierce played by Deb Thomas, who was an outstanding Miss Hannigan in Annie, the prior show.

The supporting cast of fine singers, dancers and actors contributes to a  show. Directing the rollicking scenes and choreography of the buoyabt ballet is Gary Giacomo, Artistic Director/ Choreographer. A lovely, lively 'Fair Lady' to be sure!

Tickets are available at all Ticketmaster outlets, with lunch and theatre available on Thursdays prior to the 2 p.m. performance, and dinner on Fridays prior to the 8 p.m. performance. Before the 2 p.m. Sunday matinee, a gourmet brunch with both breakfast and dinner selections including crepes, assorted salads, appetizers, shrimp, ham and roast beef and chicken, champagne, o.j. and an outstanding desert table, against the pleasant sounds of a grand piano being played in the corner of the expansive room. My Fair Lady will continue through September 8 at Theatre at the Park, 907 Ridge Road, Munster, IN.

For more information, call the box office (219) 836-3255.

"Man of La Mancha," starring Robert Goulet opens October 8, at the Rosemont Theatre

Man of La Mancha, the powerful, multi-award winning classic musical and one of the all-time great successes of American stage history, opens on Tuesday, Oct. 8, at 7:30 p.m. at the Rosemont Theatre, located at 5400 N. River Road, across from the Rosemont Convention Center. Starring stage, motion picture and television legend Robert Goulet in the title role, Man of La Mancha is scheduled for eight performances through Sunday, Oct. 13.

Tickets range in price from $19.50 to $49.50, are available at the Rosemont Theatre box office, all Ticketmaster outlets or charge by phone at 312-902-1500.

Man of La Mancha features one of the most dramatic and powerful opening scenes in all of American Theatre. A dungeon is slowly revealed, where political prisoners, including Cervantes, have been sent to await the Inquisition's verdict. To amuse themselves, the prisoners stage a mock trial and when Cervantes is accused of some trivial misdeed, he defends himself by acting out his famous character, Don Quixote and his faithful servant, Sancho Panza. A tilt with a windmill follows and in summation, the glorious and inspirational melody "The Impossible Dream" or "The Quest," when Quixote declares his intention to travel the world righting all wrongs. The melodies of La Mancha have been sung all over the world: "The Impossible Dream," "Dulcinea," "I, Don Quixote" and "Little Bird" have become musical standards of our time.

Written by Dale Wasserman, based on one of the great masterpieces of world literature, Don Quixote by Miguel de Cervantes, Man of La Mancha captures the bold spirit and gallant absurdity of the hero, on Quixote. Man of La Mancha opened on Broadway in 1965, winning every major theatre award the season, including five coveted Tony Awards, and played in New York for an unprecedented seven capacity years. Since ending its premiere run in New York, it has gone on to become one of the highest grossing touring musicals on the circuit. Man of La Mancha features music by Mitch Leigh and lyrics by Joe Darion.

The performance schedule for Man of La Mancha at the Rosemont Theatre is Tuesday through Thursday at 7:30 p.m.; Friday and Saturday at 8 p.m.; matinees on Saturday and Sunday at 2 p.m.; and Sunday evening at 7 p.m.

Discount tickets are available for groups of 20 or more at selected performances. For group information, call 847-518-9012.

Rosemary Clooney

Jazz Idiom Ltd., a Chicago-based not-for-profit organization, presents Something to Live For: A Tribute to Billy Strayhorn in honor of one of America's most prolific, though unrecognized, composers and Dude Ellington's chief arranger and co-writer for 28 years before his untimely death from cancer in 1967 at the age of 51.

The tribute will take place on Sunday, September 15, 1996 at 5 p.m. at the beautiful 1,888 seat Paramount Arts Centre in Aurora, Illinois.

Guests artists scheduled to appear gratis include longtime friends of Strayhorn: vocalist Rosemary Clooney, pianist Fred Hersch, and musician/comedian Pete Barbutti. Also, the 17 piece Jazz Idiom Orchestra under the direction Gene Esposito will perform newly discovered works of Billy Strayhorn. Jazz historian and PBS dee jay Phil Schaap will emcee the event.

Honorary Chair of the Tribute Committee is Lena Horne, one of Staryhorn's dearest friends. Also on the honorary committee are Senator Carol Mosley-Braun, Studs Terkel, Marian McPartland, Joe Segal, William Russo, Louis Bellson, Mercedes Ellington, Dick Lapalm, Ramsey Lewis, Staryhorn biographer David Hajdu and Executor, Estate of Billy Strayhorn Gregory Morris.

Proceeds from the concert will go to establish a scholarship fund in Strayhorn's name for current and/or prospecture music majors who exhibit outstanding talent in jazz performance and/or composition. Funds will also support continued development of the Billy Staryhorn Project, an undertaking initiated by Jazz Idiom Ltd. to present a multimedia stage presentation of Strayhorn's life and music.

For further information, call the Tribute hotline at 312-404-9316 or 1-888-833-6462. For tickets call Paramount Box Office Information at 630-896-6666 or Ticketmaster 312-902-1500, group sales at 312-404-9316.

The Joseph "Dreamcoat" choral challenge is launched

Livent Inc. announced that it is seeking children's choirs to perform live, on stage, in its new production of Andrew Lloyd Webber's smash hit musical, JOSEPH AND THE AMAZING TECHNICOLOR® DREAMCOAT, starring Donny Osmond, which returns to Chicago for an unprecedented "three-peat" engagement at The Chicago Theatre, 175 North State Street, with performances beginning October 23.

Four different children's choirs will be selected for the JOSEPH engagement in Chicago. To qualify, children must be between the ages of nine and fifteen. Each choir should have twenty-three members; either all boys or all girls, or an approximate 50/50 split of male and female voices.

Each choir chosen will be required to perform four shows each week for the length of the engagement. Two choirs (forty-six singers) will perform in rotation in each of the eight weekly shows. There will be four-week rehearsal period preceding the first performance.

Livent will provide each child with an allowance to help defray out-of-pocket expenses. As well, Livent will arrange transportation to and from all rehearsals and performances and will supply professional chaperons to ensure the children's welfare at all times. In addition, Livent will make a donation to the schools or organizations chosen.

All entrant will be required to provide the following information and materials:

1. An eight to ten minute Dolby cassette of the children's choir singing a selection of its own choice, accompanied by piano or guitar only, not, by an orchestra.
2. A group photograph of the choir (8" x 10").
3. A brief background history/resume of the choir.
4. A completed application and parental consent form.

Application forms and addition information on the competition may be obtained by calling (800)522-5450 or by FAXing (416) 324-5468.

Complete details will be provided with the application form. All entries must be mailed or delivered to arrive not later than August 23, 1996.

The performance schedule for JOSEPH is Wednesdays at 7:30 p.m.; Thursdays at 2:00 and 7:30 p.m.; Fridays at 8:00 p.m.; Saturdays at 2:00 and 8:00 p.m.; and Sundays at 1:00 and 5:30 p.m. There are no performances on Monday or Tuesday nights or Wednesday matinees. Tickets for this limited engagement range in price from $37.00 to $67.50, and can be purchased at The Chicago Theatre Box Office; at all Ticketmaster outlets; or by calling (312) 902-1500.

Timed ticket policy aids visitors

Chicago's Museum of Science and Industry is "going HoHywood" this summer with "The Dinosaurs of Jurassic Park," part of the Museum's blockbuster summer, "Movie Magic and Monsters." The summer spectacular also includes "Special Effects 2," a behind-the-scenes tour of the special effects industry. Both interactive exhibitions will continue through September 2, 1996.

"The Dinosaurs of Jurassic Park," a 7,500 square foot exhibition, has set attendance records in science museums nationwide. It combines the models and props used in Steven Spielberg's film with actual dinosaur fossils and video clips from the film. In the Jungle section, the first of three main areas, visitors will be transported to Jurassic Part itself, and come face-to-face with the film's threatening velociraptors, venom-spitting dilophosaurus, ailing triceratops and all of their prehistoric friends, including a 20-foot-tall Tyrannosaurus rex. Video clips from the movie will also entertain visitors along this journey. The Prop section allows visitors to see some of the actual props used in the filming Jurassic Park. The Scientific Evidence section provides insight into the science behind the study of dinosaurs and allows visitors to examine

The Fireside Theatre presents "Seven Brides for Seven Brothers"

The Fireside Restaurant and Playhouse in Fort Atkinson is proud to present the exciting stage version of what many consider to be the greatest MGM movie musical of all time-SEVEN BRIDES FOR SEVEN BROTHERS.

With its high-stepping athletic dancing, its exuberant high spirits, its side-splitting good humor, and its sweeping romantic escapades, SEVEN BRIDES FOR SEVEN BROTHERS is as joyous a musical as you'll see anywhere. It is the story of mountain man Adam Pontipee and his six unruly brothers, who decide that what they lack in life are wives. The topsy-turvy course of their romantic pursuits sets the stage for a rollicking musical comedy adventure.

The production is being directed by Ed Flesch with musical direction by Patti A. Garwood and choreography by Marc Robin. George Dudley and Susan Pfau will star in the roles of Adam and Millie. The supporting cast of 20 singer/dancers was selected from The Fireside's New York and other regional auditions. Settings were designed by Gregory Hill, Costumes by Scott Alan Lane and the Lighting Design is by Jim Fulton.

SEVEN BRIDES FOR SEVEN BROTHERS will run August 8th through October 20th with nine performances weekly Wednesday through Sunday. Dinner is served prior to each performance with a variety of menus available.

It is located on Business Hwy. 26 on the south side of Fort Atkinson

The word "Wyoming" comes from a Delaware Indian word meaning "upon the great plain.

Kids use to fly from Meigs Field

By Annette Dixon

Since the summer of 1994, the Chicago "DoDo" Chapter of the Tuskegee Airmen, Inc., cosponsored the Young Eagles program in Chicago.

The Young Eagles program developed by the Experimental Aircraft Association (EAA) encourages EAA pilots to volunteer their time, aircraft and fuel to give free introductions to aeronautics for the children ages 7 through 17.

Many children who receive Young Eagles flights across the country are suburban or small town kids who live near an airport, yet in the past we have been blessed with Meigs Field.

Children will no longer be able to use Meigs Field which was accessible to both north and southsiders. Meigs Field was primarily a general airport with no commercial traffic on weekends.

EAA, based in Oshkosh, Wisconsin had a goal of one million children introduced to aviation by the year 2003.

Without Meigs Field many children within the north and south suburbs will be deprived participation within the program.

Children who are participating in youth groups, organizations and school extracurricular activity will still be able to participate by being bussed. If your child is interested in aviation and interested in learning aeronautics, contact the Tuskegee Airmen Young Eagles Hotline at 312-409-5621.

The history of Sun City and The Lost City

Sun City is southern Africa's most luxurious and best-known resort; indeed its very name has become synonymous with good living, excitement and live entertainment. Situated some 187 kilometers west of Johannesburg, Sun City has four fine hotels and a wide variety of sport, recreation, live entertainment and gaming. It is one of the few resorts in the world with two 18-hole championship golf courses. The resort also boasts southern Africa's finest convention facilities. The Lost City at Sun City is an African fantasy world featuring a man-made forest and massive wavepool The Palace of the Lost City is one of the finest hotels in the world.

Sun City was founded by South African leisure tycoon Sol Kerzner. In the mid-1970's he had the idea of building a luxury casino resort in the heart of the African bush.

Adjoining Sun City is the Pilanesberg National Park, a 55,000 hectare game reserve which opened a day after the resort welcomed its first visitors One week later the curtain went up at the Extravaganza Theatre and southern Africa was introduced to fast-paced show-girl musicals.

Sun City was such an overwhelming success that expansion was immediate. Exactly a year after Sun City opened, the 284-room Sun City Cabanas were offering family-oriented accommodation.

Since Sun City's inception, major sporting events have been regularly staged there. Perhaps the most famous is the Nedbank Million Dollar Golf Challenge which was founded in 1980. It is the world's richest and most exclusive event. Specially-invited top golfers compete for a first prize of $1 million.

In 1992, Sun City acquired an Entertainment Centre. Under a single vast roof were restaurants, cinemas, gaming floors, conference rooms and a 6,000 seat Superbowl with a state-of-the-art sound system. Frank Sinatra opened the Superbowl on July 24, 1981. Superstars such as Rod Stewart, Elton John, Joe Cocker have performed there and several world boxing titles have been won in The Superbowl.

In 1992, the former Entertainment Centre doubled in size with the addition of The Hall of Treasures, which is part of The Lost City. The exterior seems as if it has been sculpted from living rock, covered in carvings of African animals. Dominating the exterior of the building is a huge sphinx-like carved leopard. The Hall of Treasures features state-of-the-art gaming machines and the most modern video games and simulators, along with fun-fair style sideshows offering high quality prizes.

There is also an enticing array of cinemas, restaurants and shops, both in the Hall of Treasures and in the original Entertainment Centre, now redesigned and renamed The Jungle Casino.

The Cascades, a luxury 242 room hotel, is set in four hectares of lush tropical gardens. There are 7,740 square meters of water features, including 12 waterfalls and cataracts. The abundance of bird life in the gardens has become one of Sun City's leading attractions.

Sun City is famous for the huge jackpots paid out by its slot machines. The highest paying jackpot is the Grand Slam. There are 24 Grand Slam machines at various locations on the Sun City complex.

In 1990, construction began on the most ambitious endeavor in Sun City's history-the Lost City. This African fantasy world is based on the theme of a lost civilization rediscovered in the densely jungled Valley of Waves. As visitors wander through the jungle they discover remnants of an ancient city and a wealth of leisure activities. The jungle is the largest ever made by man, consisting of more then 1.2 million trees and plants. At its heart is a man-made rain forest. Watercourses thread through the jungle, ranging from gentle streams to rushing torrents.

The Valley of Waves is the world's most advanced water park, with restaurants, bars, pools, flume rides and The Roaring Lagoon, where surfers ride two-meter breakers.

The dramatic fantasy architecture of The Palace, a 338-room hotel, is decorated with wildlife sculptures. Each room is a spacious and individually furnished to the very highest standards. Service and facilities match the quality of the building.

The Lost City Golf Course is a 18-hole, par 72 course utilizes the natural beauty of the Pilanesberg mountains surrounding Sun City. Crocodiles watch players from a pool on the 13th hole. Gary Player who designed the course said: "No other 18 holes in the world surpass the Lost City course for sheer variety".

Since the opening of The Lost City in 1992, visitors have been streaming to Sun City at a rate of nearly three million a year.

"Special Effects 2" showcases how science and artistry are paired to create the breathtaking special effects audiences see on the movie screen. Visitors see how special cinematic effects were created for such films as The Return of the Jedi, The Fly, The Empire Stricks Back, Mrs. Doubtfire, Batman Returns, The Wizard of Oz and Honey, I Shrunk the Kids.

For the convenience of visitors, and in anticipation of record-breaking attendance, the Museum will institute a new, "timed" ticket policy for the two exhibitions. Although admission is free for the two exhibitions with Museum paid general admission, it is also necessary for visitors to receive a ticket specifying the time period during which they will be able to view the two new exhibitions. Patrons are encouraged to make reservations in advance by calling the Museum at 312/684-1414 or 1-800-GO-TO-MSI, as capacity is limited.

In addition to the regular general admission to all Museum exhibits, excluding the Henry Crown Space Center Omnimax Theater. Reservations are required; tickets are limited, and can be purchased by calling the Museum at (312) 684-1414. "Breakfast with the Dinosaurs" is sponsored by Jewel-Osco.

Museum members enjoy free unlimited access to the Museum. Members also enjoy express entry into both new exhibitions via a special Museum hours, visitors will also be able to view the two new exhibitions during an early morning "Breakfast with the Dinosaurs" program, Fridays through Mondays through September 2. Museum visitors will be able to enjoy a breakfast buffet in the Museum's Cafe Spectrum or Century Room beginning at 8:00 a.m. Following the breakfast, visitors will be granted admission to both exhibitions. The cost is $10 per person, and includes member's entrance. For more information on membership to the Museum, please call (312) 684-1414, ext. 2256.

General admission to the Museum is $6.00 for adults, $5.00 for seniors (65 and over) and $2.50 for children ages 5-12. Children under 5 are admitted free. Combination general admission and Omnimax Theater is $10.00 for adults, $8.00 for seniors and $5.50 for children 5-12. Children under 5 are admitted free. On Thursday, general admission is free for all, excluding Omnimax admission.

Located at 57th Street and Lake Shore Drive, the Museum of Science and Industry attracts over two million visitors annually. For more information, please call (312) 684-1414.

Little Company Cares for health of older adults

Moraine Valley announces 1996-97 Theater Season

The Moraine Valley Community College Theater has announced the 1996-97 season, which consists of three productions: "Brighton Beach Memoirs," "Fiddler on the Roof," and "Steel Magnolias."

"Brighton Beach Memoirs" will be held Friday and Saturday, October 25 and 26, at 8 p.m. and Sunday, October 27, at 2 p.m. in the Dorothy Menker Theater. This is a Neil Simon's autobiographical memory play, a portrait of the winter as a Brooklyn teenager in 1937. This production is Simon's mix of both wit and human drama.

"Fiddler on the Roof" will be held on Friday and Saturday, March 21 and 22, at 8 p.m. and Sunday, March 23, at 2 p.m. in the Dorothy Mender Theater. Set in turn-of-the-century Russia, this popular favorite tells the story of Tevye; his wife, Golda; and their five daughters as they face a changing world.

"Steel Magnolias" will be held on Friday and Saturday, April 25 and 26, at 8 p.m. and Sunday, April 27, at 2 p.m. in the John and Angeline Oremus Theater.

This skillfully crafted play by Robert Harding is set in a small-town beauty parlor where all the ladies who are "anybody" come to have their hair done. Deeply revealing of the strength and purposefulness of the characters.

Individual tickets for the productions are $8.25 for adults, and $6.25 for seniors and students. Subscription prices are $22 for adults, and $15 for seniors and students.

For tickets or more information, call the Fine and Performing Arts Center Box Office at (708) 974-5500.

Casting Call at Moraine Valley Theater

The Moraine Valley Community College Theater will hold auditions for "Brighton Beach Memoirs" on Tuesday, September 3, and Wednesday, September 4, at 4 p.m. The auditions will be held in the Dorothy Menker Theater located in the college's Fine and Performing Arts Center on the campus, 10900 S. 88th Ave.

All types of individuals are needed for the production. For more information, call (708) 974-5350 from Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The Moraine Valley Community College Professional Children's Theater is holding audition for an adaptation of Victor Herbert's operetta, "Babies in Toyland," directed by Michael Weber. This production will be held December 3 to 6 and Dec. 10 to 14.

This is paid, daytime work. Those interested should send a headshot and resume to Laura Jansen, Moraine Valley Community College, 10900 S. 88th Ave., Palos Hills, IL 60465.

Mt. Greenwood Log

All community groups in the Mt. Greenwood area should be interested in the Oak Lawn Public Library's Speakers Bureau Service. Mary Nelson Public Relations and Development officer of the Oak Lawn Public Library has put together a wonderful list of Speaker Resources available to speak to all community groups.

The library compiles the list but does not act as an agent for any of the participants (any financial arrangements are between the speaker and the group.)

As a participant in the Speakers Bureau myself, I can say that the list of speakers covers a wide range; from Seminars on Estate Planning, to Vampires: The Creatures of the Night. (A slide lecture.) Even the Sheriff's Speakers Bureau is part of this great neighborhood service. For myself I've found a lot of interest in my topics of creating children's books and lectures on art history and art related subjects, and I've been contacted by several groups. (I originally became part of the Speakers Bureau in February of 1994 after answering an ad placed by the Oak Lawn Public Library.)

Mary Nelson tells me that The Speakers Bureau is even looking for more interesting individuals to speak. All groups and individuals can contact Mary Nelson, Public Relations and Development Officer, Oak Lawn Public Library, 9427 South Raymond Avenue, Oak Lawn, Illinois 60453, or call 708-422-4990.

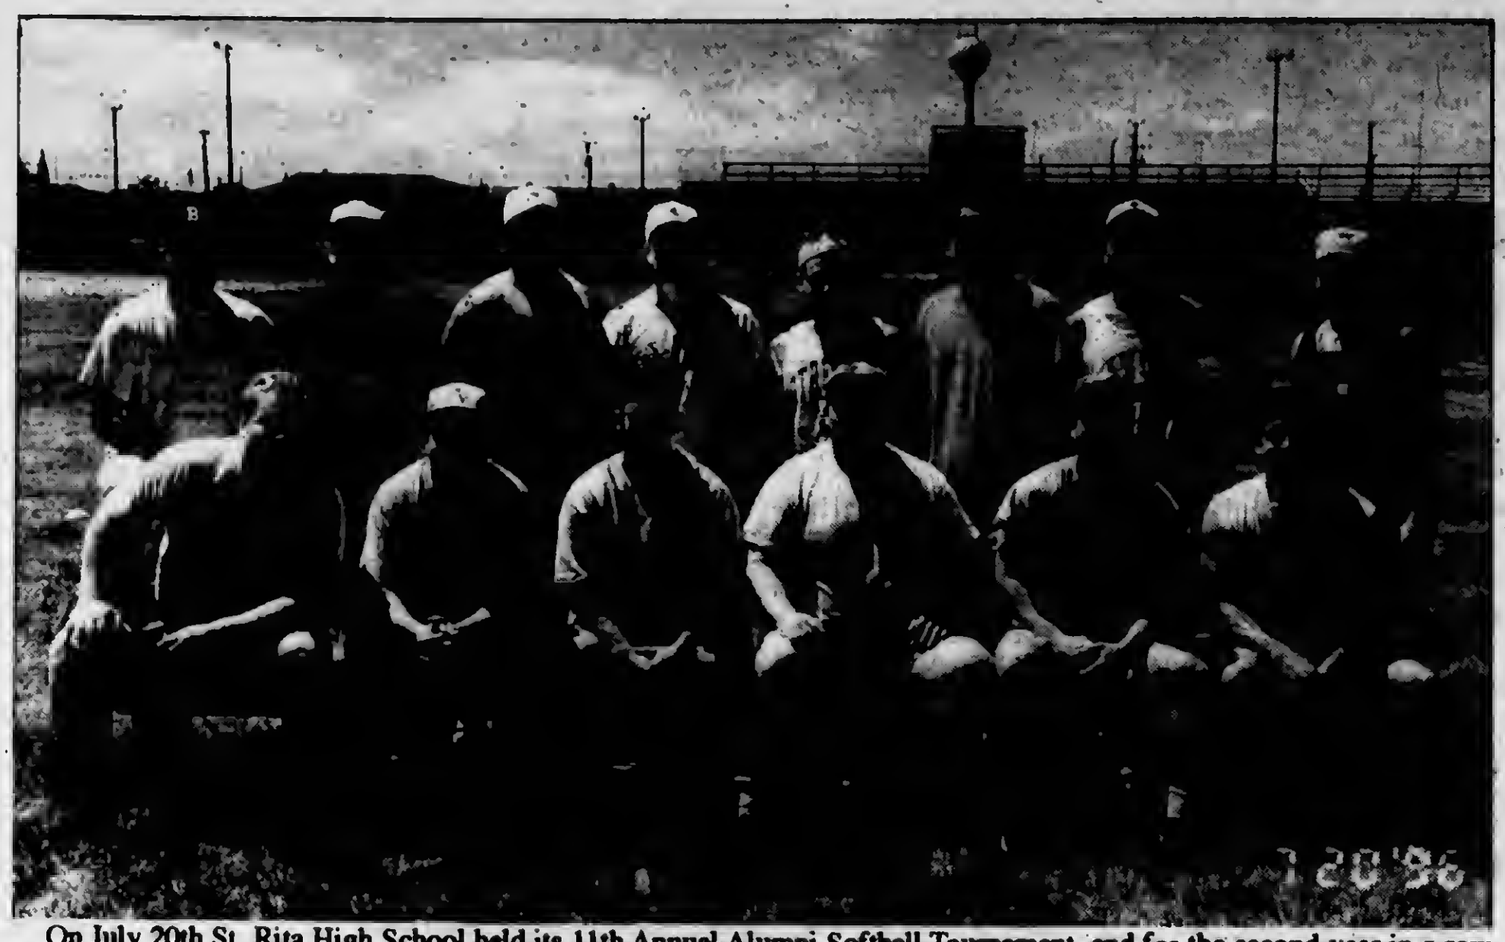
I know that I've enjoyed being a member of the Bureau and will soon be updating and expanding my topics and background information.

A special report from Mr. Corby Smith, roving reporter, at the Atlanta site of the 1996 Olympic Games said, "I've never seen so many people gathered in one place. The crowds were tremendous but for the most part everyone was cordial and in a festive mood. We've seen Volleyball, Beach Volleyball and Track and Field events. All in all, we're having a good time."

(Special thanks to Mr. Smith for his fine report.)

Be sure to look for special reports/coverage in this column and this newspaper on the 1996 Democratic Convention. continue to page 11

St. Rita Alumni Softball Tournament winners for second year running



On July 20th St. Rita High School held its 11th Annual Alumni Softball Tournament, and for the second year in a row "Insley's Idiots" captured the crown. On a beautiful Saturday afternoon teams spanning thirty years of alumni and family gathered on the grounds of St. Rita's campus for a day of softball, friends, family and refreshment.

The competition was tough but as always, when the St. Rita community gets together there were many memories retold and shared. Amidst the reunion was quality softball, fast and furious. It took a double elimination championship game to determine the Alumni Softball Champions, but when the fans came up for air it was "Insley's Idiots" beating the "Aces" for the second year in a row.

Letter to the editor

On July 2, 1996, Robert L. Ulatoski wrote a letter to Mayor Kolb and the Village Trustees urging them to change the amount of people killed in the Korean War on the new Veterans Memorial.

He explained how he approached Eugene Gallagher about the discrepancies and gave him information confirming his figures.

Robert Ulatoski stated the Veterans Memorial listed only 33,629 killed when the National Monument in Washington, D.C. listed 54,246 killed and 8,177 missing.

The following is a letter explaining his response he received from the village administration to correct this error on the Veterans Memorial:

On July 23, 1996, I went to the Village Board meeting and approached Mayor Ernest F. Kolb about the status of my letter. We talked about the Korean War Memorial in Washington D.C. that lists 54,246 killed and 8,177 as missing. He advised me that Eugene F. Gallagher and others from the Veterans Memorial Committee were approached and they advised the mayor in writing that the figure will remain at 33,629 killed in the Korean War. He also told me many of the committee members were mad at me for bringing this matter to public awarene As an Oak Lawn resident

The veteran memorial is scheduled to be dedicated on September 14, 1996 and I advised the mayor that the veterans memorial should only have names of veterans killed in defending our country. The memorial on the upper left hand lists Mayor F. Kolb, village manager Joseph J. Faber, Eugene F. Gallagher, names of others on the committee and also the names of veteran organizations in Oak Lawn. I advised him that all these names should be removed, but listing them on a plaque would be appropriate. It was also mentioned to him, that a veteran memorial covering all wars never lists numbers killed in wars, to avoid controversy.

Another emotional fear entered my mind, the other nine wars totals may also be incorrect. I immediately went to the new Oak Lawn Veterans Memorial and my fears became a reality. The Oak Lawn Veterans Memorial shows only 653,039 killed in the ten wars and erroneously omitted an additional 656,635 killed plus 8,177 missing. The actual total in all ten wars is 1,309,694 killed.

for 68 years and a Korean hold both the Veterans Memorial committee and the village administration responsible for errors on the monuments, since both monuments were erected on village property. Korean War Veterans and I am sure all other veterans, have the highest respect for all who were killed or missing in wars. Veterans of all wars cannot accept this memorial as presently engraved. It is the responsibility of all resident to demand proper working on the monument.

My struggle will never stop until all who were killed and missing are properly recognized and I encourage all to join me in this struggle.

Robert L. Ulatoski

Oak Lawn Village Happenings

By Carlene O'Connor

The Police Chief of Oak Lawn, James Houk, opened the discussion with the idea of "Peer Jury" before the board. An offender would have the choice between going before a juvenile court or a jury of his peers. The offender already pleads guilty if he decides to go before his peers and must perform community service at a hospital, nursing home, or the village.

Crimes that would qualify are the first time offense of the possession of pot, graffiti, petty theft and other nonviolent crime.

. Chief Houk said, "There are 4,000 kids between the ages of 12-17 that would qualify for jury duty. If approved a possible location for the courtroom would be Oak Lawn High School.

Trustee Joy said, "I am enthusiastic about the program. It saves the parents an expense of a lawyer."

Mayor Kolb said, "It is just another step to involve people in the police department. I would like to get closer to young people. It is the right thing to do."

Trustee Walsh added, "Kids are generally tougher on the offender than the court system. It is a great idea and I hope we can move forward with it."

Special recognition was given to Paralympic participant Ella Chaffee.

Ella Chaffee is a lifelong resident of Oak Lawn who contracted polio as a young child. Chaffee overcame many obstacles by winning over 100 national and international gold and silver medals in track and field. She is a national record holder in the 50-yard backstroke, 800 meter dash, and 1,500 meter run. Her accomplishments include two world records in swimming, a national slalom champion more often than any other wheelchair athlete, male or female, and by participating in international competitions including three Paralympics.

Mayor Kolb designated August 27, 1996 Ella Chaffee Day in Oak Lawn.

NEW BUSINESS

Trustee Joy stated that when Congressman Lipinski visited Oak Dale he stated that residents with structural damage may qualify for a reduction in taxes.

Trustee Keane said, "Real estate signs make us look like we have a continuous garage sale. I would like real estate signs to be on the homeowners property with streamers and banners "one day only" on the day of the open house."

Trustee Streit said, "We must look at political signs too, and the sign ordinance."

Trustee Walsh said, "Many of the sign are illegal under the existing code. We can keep this to a minimum.

EXECUTIVE SESSION

Oak Lawn trustees with the exception of Trustee Robert Streit voted to purchase the parcels of 5163-67 W. 95th Street.

The total cost of the project was $1.5 million. Plans are being made to redevelop the land next spring after it is sold to Harris Bank.

"Harris and village officials are negotiating a purchase contract which could be ready by the September 10th meeting," Village Manager Joe Faber said.

The Harris Bank plan calls for a 4,000 square foot single story bank, 11,500 square feet of retail space, and five parking spaces.

Mary Ellen Dennehy, resident of Beverly, greets honored speaker at the United Center.

English wins in Evergreen Park

In the meeting of August 19th, village officials of Evergreen Park declared English as the official language of the village.

Trustees and Mayor Vacco support English as the official language of Illinois and the United States.

The resolution was adopted last month by Crestwood at the request of Mayor Stranczek. Evergreen Park followed their lead and made their own version.

Mayor Stranczek sent copies of the resolution to the suburbs along with a letter asking them to adopt it. Mailings were also given to the state and federal government.

The resolution says, "English is the key to full participation in the opportunities of American life and persons who do not speak English cannot take advantage of the economic opportunities in the United States and are underemployeed in the work force because of their lack of communication skills."

Money is a factor and the resolution states, "the cost of providing multi-language government services to accommodate the more than 327 languages is a burden upon the public and taxpayers...and English as a common language, is one of the strongest ties that binds us together as Americans."

Evergreen Park does not print any of its documents in other languages.

Chicago hosts the 1996 Democratic convention

by Annette Dixon

Chicago, the town that hosted the controversial 1968 Democratic convention now hosted the 1996 Democratic convention. Twenty-eights years went by without Chicago gaining extra revenue from the tourism.

Many delegates who would never of had the opportunity nor desire to visit Chicago, did so because of the 1996 Democratic Convention in Chicago. This reporter does not have the facts but the daily press is compiling an analysis regarding how effective was the convention here in Chicago.

The two days in which this reporter covered the convention gave me the safety and security I needed and gave me the excitement of being part of history.

A Louisiana and Georgia delegate, both women, spoke to me on the VIP bus from the Marriot Hotel to the United Center. Both delegates were staying in Chicago with a friend in the Marina Towers until Saturday, therefore allowing them extra cash to spend on sightseeing, restaurants and shopping.

Outside the United Center, going through the security station only took three minutes, even my bags were searched, not bad.

Wednesday, August, 28th, thousands of red, white and blue balloons were held secured high up in the ceiling of the United Center. One of the thousand of volunteers, helping to tie strings around thousands of balloons was Joyce Murray, a Mount Greenwood resident. Without such fine volunteers, this convention would not have been as successful. The pleasant, helpful approach of each volunteer made the visit worth while.

People like Carlos Montoya, Chairman of the board for Republic Bank and guests of Vice President Gore made my seating arrangements much more pleasant. Just sitting four rows beneath me were Former Governor Dukakis and Former Governor McGovern.

Hearing Billy Ray Cyrus singing along with the speakers who headlined prime time made my attendance a real pleasure.

Thursday, President Clinton's speech along with a full house made me realize how fortunate I was to be a part of history and knowing that I participated in the Chicago convention that was organized as well as attended by friendly and sometimes not so friendly media, regardless of the words, liberal or conservative.

George Washington Savings Bank sponsored Oak Lawn's Farmer's Market on August 28, 1996 and it was there that over 200 people approached the staff members inquiring about the facility at 103rd and Cicero Avenue. "It was great fun," says Paul and Ann for they won a Woody Woodpecker stuffed doll along with a gourmet coffee and candy basket donated by George Washington Savings Bank of Oak Lawn.

Meigs Field Terminal is located directly east of Soldiers Field which uses the same road to Burnham Harbor. Originally called Northerly Island, Meigs juts out into the lake just south of the Planetarium 1300 S. Lake Shore Drive and was designated for a park by Daniel Burnham, the city's premier urban planner between 1906 and 1908.

It wasn't until 1946 that construction started and completed in 1948. About 20 % of the peninsula was landfill added for the purpose of an airport. The runway was lengthened in the 50's and the present terminal dedicated in 1961.

Steven Whitney, President of Friends of Meigs Field stated over fifty percent of the flights coming in and out are from pilots out of state. Three-fourths of traffic is business related and eleven percent of flights are convention related and the state comprises two percent of the business.

Although the terminal is small but not in comparison to Ketchikan Airport, Alaska or Great Lakes Waterfront Airports in Toronto, Ontario or Cleveland, Ohio.

Meigs could be a vital airport if dollars were directly funneled for the use of Meigs Field rather than being deposited in the universal pot for Midway and O'Hare. FAA funding which are enplanement dollars which are funds from passengers and flights from Midway, O'Hare and Meigs fields.

The funds could help support a more modern airport by installing a computerized instrument approach system, also by allowing the terminal to be opened longer hours, will allow Great Lakes more daily flights between Springfield and Chicago. The lowering of landing fees can help keep Meigs Field open and more pilots using the field, says Eric Walker, operator of Chicago by Air.

Along with the FAA funds, allocated for airports including Meigs Field can help encourage business leaders across the country, the access to downtown corporate headquarters.

All money from conventions and FAA, therefore, can be used for improvements along Lake Shore, including Meigs Field, the parks along the shorelines and also help fund Chicago Park District, clean up the parks and help the erosion of the shoreline.

With 500 additional police officers, the Clinton Administration promises for the city of Chicago, this would be instrumental for patrolling the parks such as Hayes Park, Jackson Park, the nearby beaches, traveling south on Hwy. 41, which includes 55th street beach, 63rd street beach, South Shore, south to 67th and the golf course and east and west wide of Hwy. 41 from 67th to 74th street beach are in need of repairs.

Rainbow beach, 79th street is not like is was 30 plus years ago. The beach is no longer a sandy beach and there is not fishing or swimming in the area. Repair can continue south from 74th to 99th street by extending the road along the lake front. What can be more beautiful than Chicago's lake front. This time the lake front can be enhanced because of the status of keeping the airport at Meigs Field and adding a park by following the dreams of Daniel Burnham and keeping our history of Chicago's lake front airport.

THE CASE FOR MEIGS FIELD-EXECUTIVE SUMMARY GIVEN BY FRIENDS OF MEIGS FIELD.

SUMMARY OF RECOMMENDATIONS:
The Friends of Meigs Field recommend that the City Department of Aviation undertake a four-phase strategy to bring Meigs Field to a state-of the art business jet/ commuter airline/general aviation facility of which Chicago can be proud. The main goals of the strategy should be twofold:

1. Increase public access, use and enjoyment of Chicago's lake front airport..
2. Preserve and promote general aviation in Chicago and its resulting economic benefits to the City of Chicago, especially its downtown business district.

For further information contact Friends of Meigs Field: Steve Whitney, president, 847-470-9300, FAX 847-966-6168 and locally Garfield Ridge Civic League: Scotty Gallagher, airport noise committee chair, 312-585-4420.

Five Zickus bills signed by governor

State Representative Anne Ziekus (R-48, Palos Hills) has announced that Governor Edgar has signed five pieces of Zickus legislation this month. The five bills touch on issues that range from new license plates to the distribution of nonprescription drugs and providing help to dependents of police officers

Two pieces of legislation sponsored by Rep. Zickus create new license plates, one for Drug Abuse Resistance Education (DARE) and the other to honor fire fighters. House Bill 2916 establishes the DARE license plate and designates additional registration fees to state, counties and municipalities for drug education programs for children in grades K-12. Senate Bill 817 creates the Illinois Fire Fighters Memorial License Plate and will help support the construction of a fire fighter memorial on the grounds of the capitol building.

"I sponsored these bills because these issues are near and dear to my heart," said Zickus. "The DARE plate will provide more publicity and funding to a program which has educated children about the risks of drugs and has helped prevent future drug abuse in ways that are immeasurable. The Fire Fighter Memorial would honor all fire fighters who have so valiantly served our state," said Rep. Zickus.

House Bill 3617 is in response to public outcry. The incident that spurred this legislation involved the prescription drug known as Lasix, a strong diuretic drug used mostly by heart patients and race horse owners. This bill states that any person, other than a physician, who encourages the ingestion of any drug by a person under the age of 18 or for the purpose of quick weight loss or gain for athletic competition is guilty of a Class A misdemeanor. Any subsequent offenses are Class 4 felonies.

"Organized sports for children are supposed to be character building experiences, not potentially life threatening ones," said Rep. Zickus. "Drugs have no place in children's sports."

Senate Bill 1327 stems from a heat-related tragedy which struck Cook County last summer. This legislation amends the Emergency Medical Services (EMS) act and specifically requires each EMS System to submit an internal disaster plan to the Department of Public Health. The plan is required to contain a contingency plan for the transfer of patients to other facilities in the event of a catastrophe.

The Department of Public Health would also be required to investigate the circumstances that caused a hospital to go on bypass status and impose sanctions upon any hospital that it determined, designed this status improperly.

Senate Bill 1456 amends the pension code to allow dependent parents of a Chicago police officer to receive benefits if there is no surviving spouse or children. The monthly benefit will be 18 percent of the current annual salary held by the police officer at the time of death, or withdrawal from service, for each eligible surviving parent.

St. Xavier celebrates anniversary with Academic Convocation

Founded in 1846 by the Sisters of Mercy, Saint Xavier University, Chicago's first college, is about to celebrate its 150th anniversary. The Sesquicentennial year will begin (today) Tuesday, September 3 at 1 p.m., with an Academic Convention in Queen of Martyrs Church at 103rd Street and Central Park Before the Convocation, there will be a formal procession of faculty and staff from the main campus to the Church. Following the ceremony, a reception will be held in Saint Xavier's new Andrew Conference Center.

The Convocation will also serve as the launch of a major theme for the year: the well-being of children. Sister Mary Brian Costello R.S.M., Chief of Staff, Office of the Archbishop, Archdiocese of Chicago, will give the keynote address: "Sesquicentennial Remembrances: The Gift and Challenge of Children Today". Four members of the Saint Xavier University faculty--one representing each of the schools of Arts & Sciences, Education, Management and Nursing--will respond to Sister Brian's address.

Attending the Convocation will be religious, civic, business and educational leaders from Chicago and the region. The Most Reverend John A. Gorman, the Auxiliary Bishop of Chicago, and Sister Lucille McKillop, R. S. M., President of the Sisters of Mercy of the Americas, will be present.

At the reception afterwards, Rebeca Rios-Kohn, a guest from UNICEF (United Nations Children's Fund) will speak. The yearlong initiative will culminate in a major national academic conference "Children in the World: Exploring the Rights of the Child", to be held on Saint Xavier's main campus, March 20-23, 1997. The Children in the World initiative is intended both to celebrate the University's past and to chart a distinctive course into the future.

Opponents of the Electoral College system point out that it has already allowed three candidates to become president, whose closest opponent received more popular votes. The three were: John Quincy Adams in 1824, Rutherford B. Hayes in 1876, and Benjamin Harrison in 1888.

Commissioner Majewski to be honored

Com. Gloria Alitto Majewski, Finance Chairman of the Metropolitan Water Reclamation District, will be honored at a cocktail reception. The affair will be held Wed., Sept. 11, at the Como Inn, 546 N. Milwaukee, from 5:30-7:30 p.m. For more information call her office, 312-741-5665.

McAuley alumnae sponsors golf outing

The Alumnae Board of Mother McAuley High School will sponsor their Third Annual Golf Outing for alumnae and friends on Saturday, September 14. The outing will be held at Palos Country Club in Palos Park.

The event will include lunch, nine holes of golf and a social gathering afterward. Lunch will be served at 11:30 a.m. and tee off times will begin at 12:30 p.m.

Last year a best ball format was followed and is planned again for this year. "Everyone from the beginner to the avid golfer has fun playing," comments Nancy Schwaller Bernard. Prizes for the longest drive, closest to the pin and team with the best low gross score will be awarded.

For more information about the golf outing, sponsoring a hole, or to make reservations, please call the Alumnae Office at (312) 881-6565.

The Southside Business Network announces Judith Higgins Gilbert will be the featured speaker for their Annual Business Breakfast, Friday, October 18, 7:30 a.m., at The Delphian House, 7825 West 95th Street, Hickory Hills.

Gilbert's presentation will focus on "Customer Retention - How to Keep the Customers You Have." She will challenge you to ask the question, "Are you missing out on business you could have had?" Most business owners worry about bringing in new business while ignoring or neglecting their most lucrative source of additional business- their current customers.

She will give explanations why it is more profitable to focus on generating more business from existing customer base. She will also show you several easy ways how to increase business from your current customers.

Judith Higgins Gilbert started her own company, The Gilbert group, to help small business owners realize their dreams. As a Small Business Success! Coach, Judith provides analysis, feedback, inspiration and focus to small business owners while helping them achieve their personal and professional goals. She fulfills the role of an objective, informed advisor keeping her clients focused on management, marketing and finances.

Cost of the Annual Business Breakfast is $12.00 per person. Networking starts at 7:30 a.m., breakfast and program at 8 a.m. For information on reservations and tickets, contact Helen Makina, of American Speedy Printing Centers at (708) 598-2260.

Chicagoland Tour of Famine "Sliding Coffin" Cross Exhibit

The great hunger in Ireland in the 1840's took more than one million lives. At the height of the famine, "hinged coffins" were used to commit victims to unmarked, mass graves, allowing the use of a single coffin for thousands of burials.

That inhuman machine, the "sliding" coffin, was devised because so many people were dying within short tie periods that it was impossible to build coffins for all of the dead. Wood was scarce, people were too weak from starvation or disease to build the number of coffins needed or to dig individual graves, and peasants had no money to buy coffins or timber. As a result, a single coffin was used over and over again.

Doctor Thomas Willis of Bantry crafted a cross from the wood of one such hinged coffin. The coffin which was the source of this cross was used several hundred times. The deceased would be cloaked in a cloth or straw, placed in the coffin, transported to an unmarked mass grave or pit, the hinge on the bottom of the coffin released, the body dropped through the bottom of the coffin into the pit and the coffin reset for another burial.

The cross which was made approximately 150 years ago, is now in the care of the Presentation Sisters of Maynooth, Co. Kildare, Ireland who have graciously loaned it to the Ancient Order of Hibernians for a tour of the United States this summer. In conjunction with the Archdiocese of Chicago and the Ancient Order of Hibernians, the An Gorta Mor Commemoration Committee presents an exhibit consisting of the Cross and a series of six descriptive panels prepared by the National Museum of Ireland.

The cross will be available for viewing at four locations in the Chicagoland area as follows: Old St. Patrick's Church, 122 South Des Plaines Street, Chicago, Illinois, Friday, September 6 with a reception and exhibit from 5 p.m. to 8 p.m. and Sunday, September 8 exhibit viewing from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. and a Memorial Mass at 11 a.m. Fox Valley Irish Festival, St. Catherine of Sienna Church, Routes 31 and 72, West Dundee, Illinois, Saturday, September 7 exhibit viewing. Irish American Heritage Center, 4626 North Knox, Chicago, Monday, September 9 reception and exhibit from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. Tuesday, exhibit viewing 5 p.m. to 9 p.m. with a Memorial Mass at 7:30 p.m. Chicago Gaelic Park, 6119 West 147th Street, Oak Forest, Wednesday, September 11, reception and exhibit from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. and Thursday, September 12 exhibit viewing from 5 p.m. to 9 p.m. with a Memorial Mass at 7:30 p.m. Professor Michael Quigley of Action Grosse Ile, Toronto, Canada will be the guest speaker.

Donations which will be given to Catholic Relief Services and the Presentation Sisters of Maynooth, Co. Kildare, Ireland will be accepted at each venue. For further information call, John Morrison (312) 763-7635; Chicago Gaelic Park (708) 687-9323; or Irish American Heritage Center (312) 282-7035.

Moraine Valley Community College is presenting a faculty art exhibit through Monday, September 16 and oil on canvas art exhibit from Saturday, September 21 through Saturday, October 19, in the Robert F. De Caprio Art Gallery, located in the Fine and performing Arts Center on the campus, 10900 S. 88th Ave.

Participating artist are George Deeks Carroll, Mokena, ceramics; Dan Eichmeier, Forest Park, photography; Dennis Glenn, Chicago, photography and design; Phyllis Kozlowski, Burr Ridge, water color; Aviva Kramer, Chicago, art appreciation; Ed Krantz, Carpentersville, photography; Tom McDonald, Berwyn, drawing; Doug McBain, Mokena, computer imaging; Robert Meier, Chicago, photography; Mary Ellen Ponsford, Countryside, painting; Kathy Schonauer, Bridgeview, arts and crafts; and Chris Tedin, Lockport, ceramics.

Oil on canvas features works from Constance Jeanné Ehrlich and Elisabeth Condon

Ehrlich, received a master of Fine Arts degree in painting from the University of Kansas in 1993. She has exhibited her work in Kansas, Missouri, and Illinois in one-person, two-person and group exhibitions.

In an artist's statement, Ehrlich said, "My paintings and drawings consist of representational images which are rooted in the traditions of the past. I combine disparate, mundane objects to create autobiographical artwork that goes beyond ordinary still life and portrait."

Condon received a Master of Fine Arts degree from the School of the Art Institute of Chicago in 1988. She has exhibited her work in Iowa, Illinois, New York, and California in one-person and group exhibitions.

Condon, in an artist's statement, said, "I have collected 120 dolls over the past six years, and each one of them is very much alive. Portraiture is the means by which I honor my dolls. I paint them observation and create their personal environments as the paintings demand."

Dennis Twomey name Scholar of the Year

Dennis M. Twomey, 20, of Chicago was named 1996 Scholar of the Year by the trustees of the Evans Scholars Foundation.

The Scholar of the Year is one of two top awards given each year in the Evans Scholars Program. These awards recognize outstanding achievement in the areas of scholarship, leadership, and contribution to the university community.

Twomey is a senior at the University of Illinois, majoring in engineering. He has been named to the Dean's List every semester and has a straight "A" average in four of his six semesters. Twomey currently has a 3.93 cumulative grade point average on a 4.00 scale. A 1993 graduate of Chicago's Marist High School, Twomey received the Mitchell S. Levey Award prior to his freshman year at Illinois. He has received the Carleton Blunt Award from the Evans Scholars Program and in 1996 was named a Henry E. Norton Scholar

In addition to his academic achievements, Twomey was elected President of the 90-member Evans Scholar Chapter at the University of Illinois as a sophomore and next year will serve as a member of the Judicial Board. He is also a member of Gamma Epsilor. Twomey has caddied at Beverly Country Club in Chicago for the past nine years, and in July he caddied for former Western Open winner Jim Benepe in the Motorola Western Open.

'Five a Day' health plan

You've heard that saying, "An apple a day keeps the doctor away."

Add to that a new slogan: "5 a Day Keeps the Doctor Away." And it might help prevent cancer.

Five what, you ask? Five or more servings of fruits and vegetables.

Its part of a national prommotion that will be featured of September Township Public Health District during the month of September. National "5 A Day" week is September 8-14. During the diabetic hypertension clinic at the North Clinic a licensed nutrition counselor will be available for general nutrition information and "5 A Day" recipe books will be handed out.

"Eating 5 A Day is easier than many people think," according to Lynn M. Smith, Stickney health educator.

"You can have a six-ounce glass of 100 percent juice and a medium pieee of fruit in the morning and you have already enjoyed two servings at the very beginning of your day. Follow that with carrot or celery sticks at lunch, a vegetable and salad at dinner, and you've made '5 A Day' happen in your life. It's easy, it's delicious."

Dr Peter Greenwald, director of prevention and control of the National Cancer Institute, one of the sponsors of the program, reports that 35 percent of all cancer deaths in the United States may be related to diet. That figure, he suggests, should be an added inducement to do something that is easy to do, and tastes good.

For more information call Ms. Smith at 708-424-9200.

Queen of Peace teacher scores for College Board

Mrs. Maureen Laude of Queen of Peace H. S., was selected to participate in the annual reading and scoring of the College Board's Advanced Placement Examinations in Mathematics.

Bulls/Gatorade host basketball clinic at Marist

On Thursday, July 11, 1996 over 1000 neighborhood boys and girls and their parents, packed the Marist High School gymnasium to see members of the Chicago Bulls organization, Jason Caffey, Power Forward and Tex Winter, Offensive Coach, at the Bulls/Gatorade Summer Basketball Clinic.

A roaring crowd greeted the player and coach as they arrived on the scene. Coach Tex Winter explained the Bulls philosophy and proceeded to lead Caffey in a demonstration of the professional drills that the Bulls run at their own practice sessions.

Names were then called for the audience participation segment of the clinic. Caffey demonstrated the basics of basketball: passing, dribbling, running and shooting. He then assisted the youngsters as they ran through a series of each of these drills.

Every boy and girl at the clinic received a complimentary Bulls Championship cap as a souvenir of their day with the Bulls.

Drury Lane Oakbrook Terrace presents "A Flea in Her Ear"

A FLEA IN HER EAR, Georges Feydeau's light French comedy has been scheduled as the final production of the Drury Lane Oakbrook Terrace's 1996-97 season, Artistic Director Gary Griffin has announced. Directed by Griffin, A FLEA IN HER EAR will begin previews on Wednesday, January 8, 1997 production is scheduled to run through Sunday, January 12 at 7 p.m. This production is scheduled to run through Sunday, February 23, 1997.

This masterpiece of a farce is one of the funniest plays written. A jealous wife sends her husband a note inviting him for a hotel rendezvous with an imaginary admirer which touches off a dizzy string of madcap events. This play according to Variety is "pure cotton candy--lighter than air."

"We are considering a number of nationally-known celebrities to play the dual leading roles in this show," said Griffin. "We will announce our star and other casting news in the near future."

Tickets for A FLEA IN HER EAR is the fifth production presented during the Drury Lane's 1996-97 season. Other productions previously presented were the critically-acclaimed 42ND STREET and SEVEN BRIDES FOR SEVEN BROTHERS. Remaining shows scheduled are A CHORUS LINE, August 28 through October 13 and OKLAHOMA!, October 23 through December 31.

"Travel the Reading Highway" program reached success

Preliminary reports about "Travel the Reading Highway," the Oak Lawn Public Library summer reading program for young people, indicate that the program was an overwhelming success. A total of 1,637 young people joined including 708 new members.

The main display wall in the Youth Service Department became a Reading Highway. As more participants read, their books were recorded and they had an opportunity to watch "Gopher" travel down the road, fueled by their reading activity. In addition, each Oak Lawn school was represented by a signpost at the side of the highway. Participants names were added to the signpost, and the names of those who reached their reading goals were added to cars which traveled down the highway with "Gopher."

Schools that participated were Columbus Manor, Covington, Dearborn Heights, Hannum, Kolmar, Lieb, McGugan, St. Catherine, St. Gerald, St. Germaine, St. Linus, St. Louis deMontfort, St. Paul Lutheran, Simmons, South Side Baptist, Southwest Christian and Sward.

Prizes were awarded for various achievements. "Travel the Reading Highway" pencils, bags and shoelaces were augmented by support from various local merchants and others. These included Arby's, Burger King, Haunted Trails, Hollywood Park, Jr's Hot Dogs, McDonald's, Oak Lawn Park District, Pizza Hut, Premo's, Tenth Planet, Wendy's and William Buick. Their contributions are gratefully acknowledged as a vital part of the program's success.

Special activities for all age groups were conducted throughout the program including storyhours, Hop on the Magic School Bus, In All Directions, To Infinity and Beyond, Name the Gopher Contest, Lost in Space, Map of Your Neighborhood, Time Capsule 2001, Crafts Cruise and Games to Go.

The program ran from June 3 to Aug. 9. Chairman of this year's committee was Judity McMahon, head of Oak Lawn Library's Youth Services Department.

Craftspeople take note: One pound of wax will make eight eight-inch candles.

Library reference gives the answers

More than 55,000 questions from the public were directed to the Reference Department of the Oak Lawn Public Library during the period from August 1995, to July 1996. The information was part of the statistics compiled for the department's annual report to the library's board of trustees at its regular meeting, Aug. 20. According to William Goodfellow, reference services department head, 42,828 reference questions were asked in person and 12,666 were asked on the phone. Directional questions totaled 37,885. The average number of reference questions handled per day, including four-four days, was 163. The average number of directional questions per day was 110.

Goodfellow indicated that other accomplishments of the department during the year included providing three additional CD-ROM workstations with several new products, upgraded the word processing computers for public use and added new software programs including WordPerfect for Windows, Microsoft Word, Resume Writer and Lotus 1-2-3.

Library director Dr. James B. Casey reported that July circulation was almost three percent higher than July of last year in spite of the inconvenience of Village of Oak Lawn construction around the library. Circulation of Youth Services materials increased by more than five percent over the first seven months of 1995. During the rainy month of July, circulation was up by more than ten percent over 1995.

The board of trustees approved Saturday, Nov. 23, for holding an all-day retreat for the board. Arrangements for facilities will be made and shared with the board by the next board meeting.

The board approved holding regular board meetings at 7:30 p.m. on the third Tuesday of each month. This is the same schedule which has been in effect for the past several years. Meetings are open to the public and are held in the Rotary Room, lower level of the library.

Queen of Peace High School begins 35th year

As members of the Class of 2000 begin their high school journey, Queen of Peace High School celebrates two significant historical milestones---Queen of Peace's 35th Anniversary and the Sesquicentennial of the Sinsinawa Dominicans--sponsors of Queen of Peace High School.

Exciting anniversary plans are underway, including a special family prayer service on September 5, as well as the gala March 1 Auction-Dinner which will welcome back Bishop William McManus who helped to lay the cornerstone in 1962.

As Queen of Peace celebrates 35 years of educating women of Peace, members of the Peace Community will be invited to focus on the Sinsinawa Dominican values of partnership and relationship.

Beginning this school year, a new partnership is forming as four Deans of Women begin to oversee the academic and disciplinary needs of Peace students. Working together with guidance counselors, curriculum coordinators and class moderators, the deans will provide an additional avenue of service and supervision for students at their level. Counselors, along with a new College Counselor, will continue to assist with college and career planning, as well as tutoring and other special needs. This team of professionals at each level will work together to identify and respond to the needs of every student. This new structure, designed to strengthen relationships, will provide Peace students with another caring resource.

As Peace moves toward the 21st Century, each Peace student will also benefit by many technological resources which include four computer labs equipped with Pentium computers fully equipped with 75MHz of power, 16 MB of RAM, quad speed CD-ROM drives and external Altec speakers. This cutting edge technology accommodates the latest in educational programs including advanced software in chemistry and biology. The installation of Microsoft Office Professional now enables Peace students to work with Microsoft Word, PowerPoint, Access and Excel. This enhanced technology provides the tools for students to refine compositions, solve math problems, conduct science experiments, practice foreign language drills and organize social studies data.

Providing young women with the skills they need to succeed in an ever changing society has been the commitment of the Peace Community for the past 35 years to over 10,000 young women.

During the 60 years Ellis Island was open, more than 12 million immigrants were examined there.

League helps young golfers enjoy game

Stony Creek Golf Course in Oak Lawn recently concluded a Summer-long Junior Golf League that welcomed over 116 young golfers every Thursday morning for over eight weeks. The league, sponsored by the Oak Lawn Park District, was designed in an effort to teach young players ages 8-14 the game of golf and to also help them have a fun and active summer. The league included golf lessons, time at the driving range, a complimentary pair of golf shoes and trophies at the conclusion of the league.

"The response to our Junior Golf League was incredible, said Tim Scott, Superintendent of the course. We had over one-hundred golfers here every week, each one very excited about learning the game of golf and having fun while doing it. My favorite part of the league was watching the young players improve from week to week. We look forward to welcoming them back next summer and we hope to make the league even bigger."

The following is a list of this year's overall winners in the Stony Creek Golf Course Junior League. Winners are listed from first to third place according to division. Mandy Brown, Christine Lundy and Patti Higgins from the 14 year-old girls division, Mary Murphy, Terri Fox and Amanda Grunauer from the 11-12 year-old girls division; Jaequeline Gallagher, Mary Gallagher and Becky Klups from the 8-9 year-old girls division, David Berryman, Bob Potsic and Matt Gallagher from the 12-13 year-old boys division; Jim Pisczor, Pearce McPartlin and Michael Troy from the 10-11 year old boys division; Kyle Matkaitis, Matt Harrigan and Ray Lunz from the 7-9 year-old boys division.

Brother Rice says farewell to "original" volleyball players

In March of 1993 when Br. Ickes first posted notice that Br. Rice would begin playing volleyball, 80 students tried out for 30 open positions on the varsity and junior varsity teams. Wojcik, Reitz and Stefanko were among those students. The program struggled at first, finishing under the .500 level overall in its first two seasons. Last year, the varsity turned the corner, finished fourth in the Chicago Catholic League with Br Ickes and then-senior George Tadros winning the Tony Lawless Award as conference coach and player of the year, respectively.

This year, Br. Ickes again won the Lawless Award. Along with his senior leaders, Ickes helped guide Rice to a 17-12 record and a second place finish in the Catholic League. Equally important, in September the varsity team won the American Volleyball Coaches Association (AVCA) Team Academic Award for the second straight year.

The award was based on the team's 1994-95 cumulative 3.8 G.P.A. on a 4.0 scale.

Brother Rice was one of only 58 high school teams from across the country and one of five from Illinois to receive the award. It is an award Br. Ickes would like to repeat next year. "Our team cumulative G.P.A. has increased each year while our program has won more matches. We feel we have found the right recipe for success--that the hard work that is put in will pay off in all areas of your life," he said.

Wozcik, an Illinois State Scholar, will be attending West Point in the fall. Reitz and Stefanko will attend Moraine Valley Community College.

Crime prevention program beginning September 17th

The Office of Citizens' Services, in conjunction with the Evergreen Park Police Department, presents their second crime prevention/informational program for the senior citizen. The 12-week program "Senior Citizen Police Academy" will be held at the J. B. Maher Community Center, 3450 W. 97th St., Evergreen Park, meeting each Tuesday, from 1-3 p.m. beginning Tuesday, September 17, with the last class being graduation on Tuesday, December 3. Those completing the course will receive a certificate. There is no fee--just "sign up" in Room 107 at the Community Center. We hope village senior residents (age 50+) will take advantage of this program.

The "Senior Citizen Police Academy" is designed to meet the interests of the senior citizen. In addition to covering a wide variety of topics including crime prevention and safety, it also provides education about law enforcement and how police departments accomplish policing the community. Participants gain an understanding of police procedures that is more reflective of everyday police work than what is portrayed by the television media.

Oak Lawn Public Library News

A one-day Friends Paperback Book Sale is scheduled for 9 a.m - 3 p.m. Saturday, September 7, at the Oak Lawn Public Library, 5300 W. 95th St. The sale will feature a "bag of books for a buck" throughout the day. Plastic shopping bags used by large local grocers will be used. Patrons are encouraged to bring their own. Bag donations in advance would be appreciated.

This sale provides an opportunity for all community readers to stock up on reading fare for the winter--and perhaps beyond. No limit will be placed on the number of bags a customer may purchase at this very low price.

Questions about the sale should be directed to Dorothy LaBianca at 708-423-7147.

Detailed instructions for operating the Oak Lawn Public Library computer catalog are given at 9:30 a.m. each Saturday at the fiction desk, first floor, 5300 W. 95th St.

Those who attend should plan to spend an hour. The class includes all the capabilities of the CD-ROM's for fiction, periodicals and Books-in-Print. Preregistration is not required.

For those who are interested in basic instruction only, staff members at the interlibrary loan or fiction desks are available at any time on request.

Christ Hospital seeks volunteers

Volunteers are needed to deliver meals for Christ Hospital's Home Delivered Meals Program. Meals are delivered to shut-ins in Oak Lawn, Evergreen Park, and Burbank.

Cardinal Bernardin honors Jubilarians

By Anette Dixon

On September 8th, 1996 the largest group of Jubilarians, 750 couples celebrated with mass at Holy Name Cathedral.

Cardinal Bernardin honored the couples with a beautiful homily stating, "How after 50 years, these couples have had happiness, love and sorrows and still remain together!" He stated, "He will be unable to celebrate his 50th anniversary and doubts if he will be with Jubilarians next year."

The interviewed honored guests were John and Rose Stella of Evergreen Park and James and Lorraine Gallagher of Tinley Park. John and Rose came in from Fort Atkinson, Wisconsin to be a part of the celebration. Rose said, "She wouldn't have missed the celebration and is thankful Cardinal Bernadin was able to say Mass."

James Gallagher was thankful for being there because he is also celebrating a birthday, Monday, September 9th, James will be 80. James Gallagher, Jr. states, "It is wonderful that there are so many people celebrating 50 years and can live that long together considering the divorce rate."

Mr. and Mrs. James Gallagher, Sr. was excited when they saw their grandson Sean Haneberg volunteer to be an altar server. Sean is a 7th grader in Ms. Talchik's at St. Damien, Oak Forest.

Director, Frank P. Hannigan apologized to over 500 guests for the inconvenience of the closed circuit T.V. "It hasn't been down in over 20 years but I'm sorry to say we're trying a new projector and I hope we will have closed circuit T.V. soon." We were not able to attend Mass but received communion.

Some guests were able to hear the Cardinal give his homily, others were able to attend Mass in the church. Only about 200 plus guests remained in the courtyard and auditorium for there was no room in the church. The pleasure of all in attendance was seeing the well dressed couples, the jubilation of 750 couples greeting one another, and happiness and love from their families.

Fun for Oak Lawn on the Village Green

By Annette Dixon

Oak Lawn Park Foundation along with the Village of Oak Lawn christened the newly landscaped Village Green, Saturday, September 14, 1996.

The event began with the Memorial Dedication Service commemorating the fifty-two Oak Lawn residents who have lost their lives due to the war. The first event of the day was a dedication of a 30 foot long, six foot high ebony veterans memorial. One side of the wall depicts the 52 names and the war in which the person had served. The other side has the insignias of five branches of service.

Wagon rides from Becky and Jim's Horse and Carriage attracted lines of people all day.

Mayor Ernie Kolb and Trustee Cy Holesha enjoyed listening to the Outcast Jazz Band.

Children enjoyed playing in the new tot lot funded by Saturn Dealership in Oak Lawn.

Pictured are: Ed and Donna Tropp, Donna an Oak Lawn resident of 29 years takes time from a days work as a vendor of My Serving Room, 8817 S. Moody, to talk about her son, Jim Hood, who happens to be lead guitarist and vocalist for The Dancing Noodles.. Donna is currently with the Sweet Adelines and took pride in mentioning all three of her children. They are Jan, Joe and Jim Hood.

Request from the residents of the 9400 block of South Turner Ave. to designate this block "Local Traffic Only" and also permit parking only.

Request from the residents of the 9900 block of South Central Park for permit parking only.

Price of garbage collection per house is $10.50 a month. Blue bags are complimentary and can be picked up at the village hall office during business hours. Proof of residency may be required.

Mayor Vacco will now receive $10,000 for being liquor commissioner and a village collector will be appointed at $18,000 per year.

Request from Ann Dykstra for herself and Jolene Churak to attend the Illinois Dept. on Aging Health & Aging Conference.

The following is being considered:

Residents of 9500 and 9600 of south Troy Avenue and Kedzie Ave. must pay for the alley, and bids are being taken.

In other matters, the 95th Street light project will be completed by the Spring of '97.

For all residents a hearing on September 17th is being held about the development of the cemetery. The board is going to acquire the southwest corner of 87th and Kedzie Avenue thru legal proceedings of "Eminent Domain."

The mayor is very happy about this and directed village attorney Vincent Cainkar to "Go in and take it." For more information contact the Mayor's office.

Parking? Who Is To Park?

By Carlene O'Connor

Last Tuesday night, September 10, Village Board Trustees voted 4-2 to restrict parking on both sides of 94th and 95th Streets to residential permit parking between the hours of 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. The board meeting was short and there was little debate amongst trustees.

"Residential Permit Parking Only" signs on the east and west sides of Parkside, between 94th St. and alley north of 95th st. between the hours of 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. excluding Saturdays, Sundays, and Holidays.

Another parking problem was addressed and action postponed until the September 24th meeting. The traffic review committee recommended parking by permit only between the hours of 2 a.m. and 5 a.m. at the lot located between Cook and 53rd Avenues south of 95th St.

Trustees Michael Walsh and William Keane voted against the Parkside restriction. Trustee Cyril Holesha a strong supporter voted against postponement.

The following was approved:

Sgts. Thomas M. Padula and Peter P. Dubiel were promoted to the ranks of Police Lieutenant.

Keith Giles was promoted to the rant of Firefighter.

Waste Systems Inc. 13701 S. Kostner requested scavenger license.

An ordinance granting a fence height variation (10140 S. Buell Ct..)

An ordiance approving an amendment to the revised site plan attached to ordinance number 95-22-94 to allow for a fence extension.

A resolution approving and authorizing the execution of subrecipient agreements between the village of Oak Lawn and Plows Council on Aging, Homelessness to Housing, Inc., and South Suburban Pads. RE: the use of CDBG Funds for the shared housing, homelessness housing and homeless counseling and assistance programs of said subrecipients.

Request for promotions and replacement personnel in the Police Dept.

Disb. Res. #96-17D: approval of semimonthly disbursements.

Leaf Bag Bid was awarded to Resourceful Bag and Tag in the amount of $27,350.00.

A parade permit was given to St. Gerald Parish.

Last day to register to vote in the Presidential election is October 8th.

Request to upgrade a Class F (beer and wine) liquor license to Class H (restaurant, with full liquor but no bar) for Jalapenos of Oak Lawn, 9600 S. Pulaski Rd.

An ordinance granting an increase in a parking variation (5265 W. 95th St.)

Trustee Joy invites all to attend the Education Forum, September 30, 7:30 p.m. at Oak Lawn High School. Meeting will discuss how to enhance school funding.

Next regular meeting is September 24, at the Village Hall. All are invited.

Radogno announces opening of campaign office

Volunteers for Christinge Radogno (R-24th District) are actively working on her campaign for State Senate.

Radogno said anyone interested in helping the campaign will be welcome at either Citizens for Radogno location: 7279 West 87th Street in Bridgeview or 539 South LaGrange Road in LaGrange.

"Since I began my campaign to become Senator for the communities for this area, I have received a warm reception and support from families throughout the district," said Radogno. "The two campaign offices will make it easier for our grass roots volunteers."

"It's important to remember that this campaign is about more than politics," said Radogno. "It's about better schools and effective tools to combat gang crime and drugs in our communities.

"It's about building an economy that creates more jobs for Illinois workers. It's about building an economy that creates more jobs for Illinois workers. it's about giving our children a state with a clean, healthy environment.

It's about safe schools and neighborhoods. Most of all, it's about our families, our future and the kind of place we want Illinois to be," said Radogno.

Anyone interested in volunteering for Citizens for Radogno is encouraged to call (708) 599-1996.

Pilots of Meigs: Past and Present

Featuring Evelyn Martin resident of Oak Lawn

By Annette Dixon

Meigs Field was used in the past as a field for Sky Shows, Derby Flights and just bringing the family out for a day watching the planes. Each year approximately 51,000 takeoffs and landings are completed, some business related, others commercially connected and still others were general aircraft.

The city of London, England felt in 1994 they needed an airport to support business clientele so they built one on the River Thames. Yet in Chicago the city is willing to bulldoze a beautiful landstrip on our city's skyline.

This story is about an Oak Lawn resident namely, Evelyn Martin, who was an accomplished pilot. In the year of 1950, Mayor Martin H. Kennelly and members of the City Council of the City of Chicago invited Evelyn Martin to the Merril C. Meigs Field dedication.

In 1938, Evelyn Martin started to learn navigation and by 1950 had solo flown twice around the world.

Evelyn, a drafting engineer for Howard Hughes and Fermi had the opportunity to fly to assigned parts of the world to entertain, visit and prepare for business for her employer. A not so politically correct topic is the Spruce Goose, split atoms at the University of Chicago in the 40's and designed Hughes Aircraft.

Evelyn was born in New Mexico in 1911, as Evelyn Roberts and raised in California, Evelyn had the opportunity to attend college and prepare herself as an artist, draft person and lab technician. Evelyn Roberts Martin's mother was related to the Hunt family and her roots were traced to the pilgrims on the Mayflower

Mrs. Evelyn Martin, 8739 Melvina ave., Oak Lawn, is shown examining one of the five trophies she won recently in competition sponsored by the International Organization of Women Pilots at the Chicago-Hammond airport in Hammond. Mrs. Martin, who has been flying her own plane for five years, won trophies for cross country efficiency racing, spot-landing, bomb dropping, outstanding private pilot and finally received the organization's perpetual trophy. When not up in the air Mrs. Martin is a partner with her father in the Southwest Suburban Builders association.

OCS Mini Bus makes life easier to get around

Did you know that the Office of Citizens' Services is one of three Village of Evergreen Park Departments located at the H. B. Maher Community Center? Did you know that this department has been serving the community since 1974? Did you know that one of the outstanding services provided by the Office of Citizens' Services is its Mini-Bus transportation? In no way is the service provided "MINI"! It is dependable, economical, and a safe form of transportation whether or not you require the use of its hydraulic wheel chair life. For 50 cents a ride, and at least 24 hours notice, the OCS bus drivers will pick clients up at their home and deliver them to their appointments.

The OCS Mini Bus operates Tuesday-Friday from 9 a.m. - 3:30 p.m. transporting clients to medical appointments within a five mile radius, and business appointments to Village merchants. Medical appointments take priority. Service includes I:P banks, barber and beauty shops, library, OCS activities at the Community Center, plaza, post office, village hall and Friday morning shopping at Menu Mart.

The bus averages 1,000 miles per month. The current bus has been serving the village for 10 years and is about to be replaced. The new bus should arrive soon and will be equipped to handle two wheel chairs.

Call OCS (708) 422-8776 to make your bus appointments.

New time-released medication helps hypertension

A brand-new controlled release medication called Covera-HS can treat both hypertension and the chest pains known as angina. The difference in this medication is that it not only releases medicine at a specific time, but varies the rate of release. You take the pill at night, and it doesn't begin releasing medicine for four to five hours. It provides the most medicine when you need it the most---early in the morning, when blood pressure and heart rate are surging---and lesser amounts later in the day. It continues to release medicine for about 18 hours.

Heart attacks also occur more frequently in the morning. A recent study done in Lexington, Kentucky showed that most heart attacks occur between 6:00 a.m. and noon, and three times as many people have heart attacks at 9:00 a.m. than at 11:00 p.m. The increase in heart attacks occurs during a period of increased heart rate and blood pressure and when certain steroid levels in the blood change.

These fluctuations in blood pressure may trigger stroke and heart attack. And some researchers suspect that the sudden pressure increase can cause plaque in an artery to break off, which can cause a clot to block blood flow to the heart. Heart rate also increases in the early morning, and combined with the increase in blood pressure, the energy demand on the heart intensifies.

This is how the new medication helps. It blunts the rate of rise of blood pressure in the early morning hours, hopefully reducing the risk and incidence of stroke and heart attack.

It is a good idea to monitor your blood pressure at home to help determine how effective your current medication is. While your blood-pressure reading at the doctor's office in the afternoon may be normal, your early-morning levels could be high. Keep track of your readings and report them to your doctor.

You should never change the timing of your medication without consulting your doctor. Taking your conventional blood-pressure medications at night instead of during the day, may lower your blood pressure too much at night, with not enough medication left for the daytime.

Preventive measures to fight osteoporosis

Experts estimate that as many as 20 million women have osteoporosis or are at risk for it. By age 50, your odds are almost one-in-two of breaking a bone due to osteoporosis.

Of course, osteoporosis doesn't develop overnight. The deterioration of bone happens slowly and quietly, without your knowing it. Over time, mocrofractures of the spinal vertebrae can steal inches from a woman's height and collapse her posture. Eventually, this damage manifests as the deformity known as dowager's hump. At age 45, a woman with low bone density may break a wrist and recover; at 75, she may not get off so easily. As many as one-quarter of those who sustain a hip fracture over age 50 die within the year.

Tragically, in the majority of cases, osteoporosis is not diagnosed until someone suffers her first fracture. By then, the damage is done.

Before you have that fracture you should have a simple bone-density test. In fact, a done-density test is the only way to find out how your bones are doing in time to prevent a fracture.

Bone-mass measurement has come a long way. With today's newest technology, called Dual Energy X-ray Absorptiometry (shortened to DXA or DEXA), you can get a measurement that is extremely reliable and uses very little radiation. The test is simple, comfortable and quick. Yet, surprisingly, few doctors refer their patients to get one.

Bone-density test could serve as a critical wake-up call for millions of women. There's a lot you can do with the information you get from a bone measurement.

There's encouraging research on lifestyle therapy, for example. New studies show calcium and vitamin D supplementation, regular weight-bearing exercise and resistance training can hold the line and, in some cases, modestly increase bone mass, even among the eldest. When lifestyle changes alone aren't enough, there's hormone-replacement therapy. And now there are new treatments, two of which have recently received the Food and Drug Administrations stamp of approval: nasal-spray calcitonin (Miacalcin), which was previously available only in an injectable form, and alendronate (Fosamax), which can rebuild bone (both available by prescription). A third treatment, slow-release sodium fluoride, is awaiting final FDA approval.

PROBLEMS WITH GETTING A GOOD READING

First, DEXA, the best test, isn't universally available. There are only about 800 DEXA machines available to the public in the United States. If there's not a DEXA facility near you, there are other good bone-testing alternatives available such as: Dual Photon Absorptiometry, Quantitative Computed Tomography, Peripheral QCT, Radiographic Absorptiometry, Single Energy X-ray Absorptiometry, and Single Photon Absorptiometry.

To help find a bone-testing facility near you, contact the National Osteoporosis Foundation. Their toll-free information hotline number is 1-800-464-6700.

The second problem is sometimes bone-density measurements are inadequately corrected for body size. For example, therapeutic measures with a smaller woman whose lower bone mass might suggest osteoporosis in someone else but is normal for her.

To be reasonably assured that your test results are interpreted correctly, get tested at a major medical center or teaching hospital. It's more likely you'll find a bone center there that's staffed with well-trained specialists who do lots of bone tests.

DEXA measurements can be done at the spine, hip or wrist. While some researchers say it's enough to measure one site, other experts contend that seveal locations should be examined. Because each site is prone to bone loss at different rates.

In women under 65, it's easier to see changes in the bone of the spine. As people age, however, calcifications or fractures in the spine can obscure this view. That's why the hip is a critical site in seniors.

To be on the safe side, have at least two sites measured---perferably the spine and hip---regardles of your age.

Food for One

ZESTY HAM SANDWICH

- 1 submarine roll (6 to 7 inches)
- 2 to 3 thin slices fully cooked ham
- 3 to 4 slices mozzarella cheese
- 1 small tomato, thinly sliced
- 4 sprigs fresh parsley, chopped
- 4 fresh basil leaves, chopped or 1/2 teaspoon dried basil
- 1 tablespoon prepared Italian or Caesar salad dressing

Split roll enough to open (don't cut all the way through); place open-faced on a baking sheet. Layer remaining ingredients in order listed over roll. Bake at 350° for 10 minutes or until the cheese is melted and sandwich is warm. Fold top of roll over and serve immediately.

TURKEY REUBEN

- 1 slice white bread, toasted
- 1 teaspoon prepared mustard
- 2 ounces thinly sliced cooked turkey breast
- 1/8 teaspoon caraway seed
- 1/2 cup sauerkraut
- 1 slice Swiss cheese

Green pepper rings, optional

Place the toast on an ungreased baking sheet; spread the top with mustard. Arrange turkey over mustard. Sprinkle with caraway seed; top with the

CHICKEN MONTEREY

- 1 boneless skinless chicken breast half

Dash salt and pepper

- 1/2 teaspoon chopped fresh parsley
- 1/8 teaspoon dried tarragon
- 1 ounce Monterey Jack or Cheddar cheese (cut into a 2 1/2 x 1/2" stick)
- 2 tablespoons all-purpose flour
- 1 egg, beaten
- 2 tablespoons seasoned or plain dry bread crumbs
- 1 tablespoon butter or margarine
- 1 tablespoon cooking oil

Pound chicken to 1/4 in. thickness. Season the inside with salt, pepper, parsley and tarragon. Place cheese in the center and fold chicken around it. Roll in flour; dip into egg, then roll in crumbs. Place chicken, seam side down, on a plate; refrigerate for 30 minutes. In a skillet, saute chicken in butter and oil until golden. Place in a small shallow baking dish. Bake, uncovered, at 375° for 15 minutes.

Theatre Alive

With Georgean Fitzgerald

You won't need a master's degree or even a bachelor's in business to learn 'how to succeed in business without really trying.' Just go to the Marriott's Lincolnshire Theater in Lincolnshire, IL, where this Pulitzer Prize winning musical is currently being presented. One of Broadway's longest running and most glittering successes, it opened to a rousing guest-press audience.

In this you'll meet J. Pierpont Finch (SAM SAMUELSON) who zooms up the corporate ladder, with more than a little help from his handy self-help book to success provided by his mentor. His mentor, who quite adroitly puts him onto this guide is non other then the "real" voice of Paul Harvey: the radio personality the Paul Harvey of "and that's the rest of the story" fame. Whenever our struggling Finch hits a glitch, he freezes (in theatre parlance), the stage lights dim, with only a spot on him, creating an illusion that he has a 'hotline' to heaven.

Today he's a window washer who rises from the mail room to Chairman of the World Wide Wicket Company. In this hysterically funny Pulitzer Prize winning musical by Frank Loesser (of 'Guys & Dolls' fame). This zanny comedy pokes outrageous fun at Corporate America of the sixties...when romance bloomed around the water cooler and a key to the executive washroom was the ultimate goal.

"How to Succeed" is based on a lighthearted and satirical guidebook to corporate happiness written by advertising executive Stephard Mead, a successful advertising agency executive. He penned the little guide with tongue firmly implanted in cheek after observing the prevalent throat cutting office politics. The book became a best seller.

Sam Samuelson and Kelly Anne Clark

Broadway writers Abe Burrows and Jack Weinstock and Willie Gilbert, Frank Loesser (Music and Lyric) turned "How to Succeed" into an award-winning musical.

In this revival, Director Dyanne Earley did a more than adequate directing job when you consider the space involved to mount this show, and the movement of desks and chairs and other set pieces that had to be moved on and off the arena stage via inclined aisles...by the cast, no less!!

Marc Robin's snappy choreography adds a great dimension to the various production numbers very neatly in the round staging including "Coffee Break" and "Brotherhood of Man". Musical direction by Terry James and a full orchestra conducted by Patti Garwood made the audience feel as if they were really in a larger venue. Other memorable musical numbers include "Rosemary" ,"A Secretary is Not A Toy", "Been a Long Day", and "Grand Old Ivy". The finely tuned and talented cast including KELLY ANN CLARK as Rosemary, DON FORSTAN as J. B. Biggley, and PAUL SLADE SMITH as Bud Frump and a host of others who round out the talented cast.

Plenty of time to succeed here as the production runs through October 20. Performances are at 2 p.m. and 8 p.m. on Wednesdays, and * Thursdays and Fridays at 8 p.m., 3:30 and 9 p.m. and Saturdays, 2:30 p.m. and 7 p.m. on Sundays. Reservations can be made by calling the Marriott's Lincolnshire Theatre Box Office at (847) 634-0200.

FOOD FOR 'SECONDS'

Sizzlin' recipe garners $3,000

Spicy-sweet, fuss-free to fix, and bright as a new bandanna, San Antonio Sweet and Sour Chicken has taken top honors--and the $3,000 grand prize--in the 1996 Pace® Picante Sauce "Pick Up The Pace" Recipe Contest. Created by Doranne Candelaria, a Santa Fe, New Mexico cooking hobbyist and first-time recipe contest entrant, the dish dazzled the judges with its sizzling East-meets-Texas taste and super-easy preparation.

Ready to serve in half an hour, the prize-winning recipe begins with the essential ingredients found in classic sweet and sour chicken--chicken, pineapple and bell peppers--then adds fresh appeal with the fresh jalapeños and bold Texas Taste of Pace® Picante Sauce. The inspiration for the best-of-contest recipe came from a sweet and sour sauce the grand prize winner's mother used to make for ham. When Ms. Candelaria, 63, noted that Pace® Picante Sauce contained several of the ingredients included in her mother's recipe, "plus the zing of (fresh jalapeño) peppers," the idea for the recipe was born.

Prepare San Antonio Sweet and Sour Chicken with mild, medium or hot picante sauce for just the desired degree of zesty jalapeño heat, or use extra mild for fabulous heat-free flavor.

Recipes entered in this year's "Pick Up The Pace" Recipe Contest mirrored the way many Americans are cooking today. Ground beef, previously tied with chicken for most-frequent main dish mainstay, moved out in front by several percentage points. When other beef cuts were added in, beef became the number one dinner starter--except in the 30-Minute Main Dishes category, where a slightly larger percentage of folks flocked to chicken. Pasta and shellfish entries increased by more than 50 percent, while fish was found in fewer than four percent. One trend noted across several contest categories was the increased incidence of fruit as an ingredient, with pineapple leading the pack. Recipes for stuffed peppers, pasta shells, cabbage leaves and tortillas, abounded. Since these recipes tend to require more involved preparation, they point to the possibility that time may not always be the chief consideration when it's time for dinner.

San Antonio Sweet and Sour Chicken

Prep Time: 10 minutes Cook time: 20 minutes

1 can (20 ounces) pineapple chunks in heavy syrup
2 tablespoons cornstarch
2 tablespoons soy sauce
2 tablespoons vegetable oil
1 pound skinless, boneless chicken breasts, cut into strips
2 medium green or red peppers, cut into 1 -inch pieces (about 2 cups)
1 1/2 cups Pace® Picante Sauce .
4 cups hot cooked rice

1. Drain pineapple, reserving syrup.
2. In cup mix cornstarch, syrup and soy until smooth. Set aside.
3. In medium skillet over medium-high heat, heat half the oil. Add chicken in 2 batches and cook until browned, stirring often. Set chicken aside.
4. Reduce heat to medium. Add remaining oil. Add peppers and cook until tender-crisp. Add picante sauce and pine apple. Stir cornstarch mixture and add. Cook until mix ture boils and thickens, stirring constantly. Return chicken to pan and heat through. Serve over rice. Serves 4.

Little Bucharest's 6th annual Taste of Romania Festival

If the Mayor's not tongue-tied after the Democratic convention, he'll certainly be hog-tied with the delivery of a fire-roasted pig from Branko Podrumedic, owner of Little Bucharest, 3001 N. Ashland Ave. The pig arrives at the Mayor's Office, September 20, 121 N. La Salle, 5th floor. The gesture marks the kick off The Sixth Annual Taste of Romania, 11 a.m. - 11 p.m., Sept. 21 and 22.

Because of the growing popularity of this celebrated Chicago festival, the city is closing Ashland Ave. between the 2900-3000 block for the festival.

The highlight of the event is the traditional grape stomp. Daring festival-goers kick-off their shoes and make wine the old-fashioned-way celebrating the Romanian grape harvest. Visitors will also enjoy and participate in a hog calling contest, traditional Romanian arts and crafts, folk music and entertainment as well as regional dancing from Bulgaria, Russia, Poland, Germany and Greece. Folk art lovers will want to check out the Romanian Peasant Museum booth displaying and selling a collection of beautifully crafted art objects.

The Taste of Romania is known for its outrageous selection of hearty food including spit-roasted-pig, lamb, ox, and gallons of freshly squeezed grape juice. Among the bevy of savory cuisines offered are Little Bucharest's skinless homemade sausage and stuffed cabbage.

The tent covered event will be held rain or shine. Admission is free. A donation at the door is requested to benefit 100 year old St. Alphonsus Elementary School, 1439 W. Wellington. For more information call 312-944-6444.

Italian chefs cooking across U.S.C.

President Clinton is not the only one traveling by train to spread a message. "La Cucina Italiana Coast-to-Coast"--a group of Italian food professionals cooking their way across the U. S. by Amtrak train. They will stop in Chicago on Tuesday, Set. 24, at the CHIC Cafe, located at the Cooking and Hospitality Institute of Chicago, 361 West Chestnut.

International food and travel consultant Gisella Isidori and some Italian chefs will prepare a bountiful lunch featuring authentic Italian products. For reservations to the $15, four-course meal served with wine, call 312-944-0882.

The menu consists of antipasti of crostino Toscano, polenta al gorgonzola, several cheeses and pizza Napoletana. Following is primi piatti of tagliolini in lemon cream sauce, orrecchiette with brocoli rape and risotta with vegetables and sausage. The secondi piatti will be sea bass with grilled Mediterranean vegetables. Licorice semmifreddo and olive oil cake, coffee and limoncello will cap off the meal.

"This is a rare opportunity to experience a very special and reasonably priced meal as well as visit with the Italian cooking team members," according CHIC president Linda Calafiore.

The CHIC Cafe is open for lunch Monday through Friday, brunch on Sunday and dinner Saturday night. Diners are encouraged to bring their own wine or beer.

Local residents top finishers

The results are in and the American Lung Association of Metropolitan Chicago's Twentieth Annual Chicago Distance Classic was a great success.

"The Chicago Distance Classic participants are all winners as far as the lung association is concerned," says John Kirkwood, the association's executive director. "Their contributions benefit our lung disease research, education, and legislative programs, especially our camp for asthmatic children. They're helping all of us breathe a little easier."

The following are local residents who were among the top finishers in their age divisions:

Tony Deangelis, of Oak Lawn, won 3rd place in the 5K male 35-39 category.
Joe Karasek, of Oak Lawn, won 1st place in the 5K male 65-69 category.
Chuck Hinde, of Oak Lawn, won 1st place in the 20K male 70 and over.
Wileen Gausman, of Oak Lawn, won 1st place in the 20K female overall.

Leadership training at Oak Lawn High School

Oak Lawn students build and develop leadership skills before beginning the new school year.

Thirty Oak Lawn Community High School students recently attended a summer Leadership Training on August 13, 1996. Student officers from various clubs and activities were invited to build and develop leadership skills before beginning the new school year. The morning's activities focused on leadership skill development through group initiatives. Students had to share stepping stones to cross a "piranha-filled river," "move a bomb before it detonated," "climb aboard a spaceship," "escape from an electrified fence" and "walk together with other members of the group on a ski-like apparatus."

Although the scenarios were make-believe, the physical activites were real and designed to challenge the students to develop teamwork and cooperation, build communication skills, focus on leadership strengths and weaknesses, and to resolve conflicts. Students discussed what they learned and talked about putting concepts into action with the help of adult staff from Oak Lawn Community High School, the Oak Lawn Youth Commission and the Cook County Sheriff's Youth Services.

The afternoon session was led by speaker Michael Bruni. Mike further challenged students to put into action the skills learned in the morning program. Students defined a successful leader by contrasting attitudes and skills of popular or well known leaders. Students concluded the day by thinking about their own leadership attitudes and skills and how to apply these skills to their clubs.

Saint Xavier opens film series

Saint Xavier opens up the 1996/97 film series with The Brother McMullen, on Friday, September 20 and Saturday, September 21 at 7:30 p.m. in McGuire Hall of the University's main campus located at 3700 West 103rd Street in Chicago. Admission is $3. Discussion will follow the friday night show.

The Brother McMullen, was the surprise hit of the 1995 Sundance Film Festival, writer-director-producer-actor Ed Burn's sentimental comedy focuses on three Irish - American brothers brought together by the death of their father. This loss inspires an examination of their Catholicism, their fear of commitment, and the deeply felt bonds of family.

For further information on the Film Series, call Saint Xavier University at (312) 298-3231.

Mount Greenwood Log

By Robert Workman

On a beautiful, August morning I started out on my long journey to the heart of our great city of Chicago. The sun was bright and warming, the morning breeze was cool and it was a perfect cloudless day. But I was not traveling downtown for the Air and Water Show like so many of my fellow travelers, I was on my way to the Chicago Marriott Hotel for the first official event of the 1996 Democratic National Convention, the distribution of the media credentials to the world press. Months before I had filed for these credentials on behalf of myself and Village View. And months before in January '96, I had received the phone call from Washington, D.C. telling me that I had "cleared" the background check and that the paper would get these credentials.

In July, the newspaper was sent the official letter of approval and now I found myself after a long train and bus trips surrounded by foreign correspondents from every part of the world gathered within the Chicago Marriott Hotel to collect the credentials that would allow us not only access to the facilities of the convention but access to the process of an American Presidential Election (history in the making.) I joined a large group of my fellow journalists and we crowded in to the elevator. When the doors opened we were all greeted with a large banner that read "Chicago welcomes the media of the world". It wasn't hard to tell that my fellow journalists were as impressed as I was with our welcome and surroundings. (The Chicago Marriott Hotel is really beautiful.) For the next hour or so I was checked through, given press kits, information booklets, maps of the United Center, etc. then finally the credentials themselves. First, I was given the green seat pass/hall pass, (the seat ticket assigned which allowed access to the press seating area in the convention hall and access to the rotating floor pass line to the work space area) then the yellow arena passes which in my case I was told would "get me into any area of the convention, press lounge, VIP areas, etc." These tickets "could also allow me access to any convention session." But I would need the seating ticket to sit in the assigned press area. The security (paper work) being over. I once again joined another group of my a colleagues as we now went downstairs to pickup our gift bags!!! The bags contained such items as a copy of Chicago magazine, RTA map, free passes, a reporters notebook (The official notebook we were asked to use while at the convention) and other goodies designed to be helpful and make the Foreign Press feel at home in Chicago! Coming out of the hotel fully equipped and credentialed.

I was quickly reminded that this was not the only event going on in the city. Waiting for the Michigan Avenue bus, I watched the Jets dart in and out between buildings all around me. In fact as my train pulled out of the station the Blue Angels flew directly over head in formation as I watched in wonder. (As someone sitting behind me on the train said "Hey, this is better than being at the lake front.)

The 1996 Democratic Convention is now history, a part of Chicago history and certainly a part of our nation's history. I would like to congratulate everyone connected with this historic event and I would also like to thank the Executive Committee of Correspondents for the opportunity.

I WOULD LIKE TO WISH MY MOTHER A VERY HAPPY BIRTHDAY.

Davis Staffing, Inc. new branch opening

In October, Davis will be opening their fifth office in Oak Lawn at 9605 Southwest Highway. According to Debbie Davis, Vice President, "This will allow us to better serve our clients in Oak Lawn and neighboring communities."

Davis Staffing, Inc. is the largest independently owned and operated staffing service in the south suburban area. Davis currently has offices located in Olympia Fields, Chicago Heights, Munster, Indiana and Merrillville, Indiana. Each office provides a wide range of services and employs people in clerical and light industrial positions.

"We strongly believe in employee retention, and have computer training for our employees on the latest software programs. In addition, we offer vacation pay, holiday pay, competitive salaries, monthly contests, and annual college scholarships to give an added incentive for employees that stay with us," said Ms. Davis.

Davis Staffing not only serves as an aid to employers, but also employees by providing jobs to thousands of local residents each year. Ms. Davis states, "We believe our growth is due primarily to referrals from both satisfied clients and employees. We keep our clients happy by hiring employees who meet or exceed their dedicated staff who work closely with our clients to determine the experience and abilities needed for each job. Our clients appreciate this honest approach and our employees have the confidence that comes from knowing that they will never find themselves in a job they can't handle."

"At Davis, we have always been involved in the communities we serve, and we look forward to serving Oak Lawn and the neighboring communities," according to the Vice President.

Tax increase expected for Oak Lawn

The village board of Oak Lawn is expected to vote on a tax levy at the October 8 meeting. The Finance Committee agreed 4-1 to present a plan which would increase taxes about 2.59% at their meeting Tuesday, September 24.

Trustee Stancik was not present at the meeting and Trustee Streit cast the sole no vote.

The reason for the increase is the rise in the police and fire pension funds.

Trustee Walsh suggested public hearings for tax increases and Trustee Streit agreed. Tax increases would be reflected on resident's property tax bill. All interested parties are encouraged to attend the village board meeting October 8 at 8 p.m. Public input is invited and all comments will be heard.

At the board meeting the following was discussed:

A special request to temporarily place a 34 foot trailer on the property located at 8744 S. Oak Park Ave. has been approved.

In new business, Trustee Keane said that, "I would like to see enforcement of handicapped parking. It is for the person who is handicapped and not other people driving the car. The police department should pay close attention and enforce the law." He also stated that unfunded mandates should be brought up at the Education Forum held at Oak Lawn High School.

Evergreen Park Trustees votes unanimously on tax hike

Evergreen Park Village trustees voted unanimously to approve a sales tax of 8 1/4 % (up .0050) from the present 7 3/4%, this will take effect January 1, 1997.

Officials named a decrease in sales revenue from tax receipts as the reason for the tax hike. This is due mainly to businesses moving out of town. The increase will effect all retail purchases except for food, medicine, and automobiles. Service industries such as beauty salons and doctors are not taxed.

Letter to the Editor

The Federal Communications Commission and the Federal-State Joint Board will soon make decisions that will effect all citizens. These two groups are charged with implementing the provisions of the Telecommunications in order to stimulate private investment, promote competition, protect diverse views and voices among the media, provide families with technologies to help them control the kinds of television programs that come into their homes and strengthen and improve universal service so that all Americans can have access to the benefits of the information superhighway.

In passing this landmark legislation, Congress acknowledged the importance of technology in the economic future of this nation. Furthermore, the Act recognizes the important link between schools' access to technology and their ability to prepare future workers for a competitive global economy. The Act makes it possible for educational institutions, libraries, hospitals, and clinics to have access to advanced telecommunication services at an "affordable rate."

However, the Act fails to specifically mention colleges and universities as eligible for these affordable rates. Instead, the Act defines "educational institutions" as K-12 entities. The FCC has the power to expand this definition to include institutions of higher education, and I strongly encourage them to do so.

To adequately train and prepare this nation's future workforce, institutions of higher education, such as Moraine Valley Community College, must have access to telecommunications services at a discounted rate. Ensuring affordability of telecommunications is essential for this college and the community it serves. Currently, Moraine Valley is integrating the Internet into its academic curriculum. In addition, the college has established numerous distance learning sites with area colleges and hospitals. It is our intention to continue these endeavors as a means to provide more citizens with a quality education that is both accessible and affordable. However, if the FCC fails to grant colleges and universities access to the "affordable rates" mentioned in the Act, we would be forced to discontinue many, if not all, of these services.

As a community college, Moraine Valley has a tremendous impact in our district. We are often called upon to retrain workers who have either lost their jobs or whose skills have become obsolete. Affordable access to technology is an essential component of these programs as well as others services provided by the college.

I encourage the FCC to expand the definition of "educational institutions" to include colleges and universities. In doing so, they will assure that our nation's citizens will have the training and education necessary to compete in an increasingly competitive global economy.

Library board approves roof repair

The Oak Lawn Public Library board of trustees, at its regular meeting, September 17, accepted a quote of $9,265 from LaCross Roofing Inc. to repair the leaks in the library roof. During one of the storms and heavy rain of late summer, several major leaks were discovered in the Reference Department, second floor. Due to the vigilance and volunteer efforts of staff members, very little damage was done to library materials.

Dr. James B. Casey, library director, submitted a proposal of major building and infrastructure projects that should be considered for implementation in the next few years. He asked the board to assign priorities to the projects for budget and funding purposes. Included are carpeting, meeting room replacement, lighting replacement, remodeling of the staff lounge and Youth Services offices.

Grand total circulation during August, 1996, was almost ten percent lower than that for the same period last year. According to Casey, construction around the library and fall back from the unusually high levels in June and July may have contributed to this result.

In regular business, the board approved payment of $48,068 from the library materials fund; $20,240 from the general operating fund; and $126,044 from the personnel fund.

The board meets at 7:30 p.m the third Tuesday of each month in the lower level Oak Lawn Rotary Room. Meetings are open to the public.

Board members are Robert Honkisz, president; Marian Sullivan, vice president; Lee Stein, secretary; Patricia Roberts, treasurer; Shirley Barrett, Joann Buschbach and Lois Gasteyer, trustees.

Chamber sponsors candidates forum

Oak Lawn Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring a Candidates Forum at a continental breakfast meeting, 7:30 a.m. Thursday, October 17, Oak Lawn Hilton Hotel, 9400 South Cicero Ave. Cost of the breakfast is $10.00 per person. Seating is limited. Deadline for reservations is October 10 or until filled, whichever comes first.

All local candidates who are running for congress, state representative and state senate have been invited to participate. Also expected to attend are local mayors and representatives of local Chambers of Commerce.

The public is welcome and urged to call the Oak Lawn Chamber of Commerce office as soon as possible for reservations, 708-424-8300.

Mary Nolan appointed to state committee

Mary Nolan, a member of the Moraine Valley Community College Board of Trustees, has been appointed vice chair of the Illinois Community College Trustees Association's Public Relations Committee. Her one-year term will expire on July 1, 1997.

The committee's initiatives for the coming year include completing an orientation video for new trustees, and discussion of ICCTA's annual alumni awards.

Nolan was elected to the Moraine Valley Board of trustees in November 1995. A resident of Oak Lawn, Nolan is currently chairman of the Board's Public Relations Committee and is a member of the Board's Academic and Finance committees.

Nolan has been an active member of the ICCTA Public Relations Committee since January, and she currently serves on a subcommittee to revise the association's trustee orientation video. As a member of the committee, she helped the group select the group select ICCTA's annual essay contest winner and alumni award recipients.

ICCTA's Public Relations Committee is responsible for promoting the Illinois community college system to legislators, higher education officials, and other key decision-makers. The committee's activities include sponsoring the Paul Simon Student Essay Contest and an alumni recognition program.

Irish artist Val McGann to hold benefit art sale at Gaelic Park

Val McGann, Ireland's foremost marine painter, will have a special fund-raising art exhibition and sale of his paintings of Ireland and his seascapes on Sunday, October 13, 1996 from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. in the Celtic Room, Chicago Gaelic Park, 6119 W. 147th Street, Oak Forest, Illinois. The exhibit is sponsored by An Gorta Mor (The Great Hunger) 150th Anniversary Commemoration Committee. A commission from the sale will benefit CONCERN (in Ireland). The art sale is open to the public. All are welcome and admission is free.

Val McGann has a distinguished background as an artist and athlete. A native of Ballinasloe, Co. Galway, Ireland, he was an Irish pole vault and decathlon champion for many years. He is listed in the WHO'S WHO of the Irish in America. His gallery is now located on Ocean Avenue in Kennebunkport, Maine.

In addition to his Irish landscapes and paintings of the sea, McGann will be exhibiting still life and florals. The prices of the paintings are affordable, ranging from $60 to $500. For further information call Gaelic Park at (708) 687-9323.

"Brighton Beach Memoirs" coming to Moraine Valley

Moraine Valley Community College's production of "Brighton Beach Memoirs" will take place Friday, Saturday, and Sunday, October 25 through 27 in the Dorothy Menker Theater, located in the Fine and Performing Arts Center on the campus, 10900 S. 88th Ave., Palos Hills.

John J. Daley has been re-elected vice chair

John J. Daley, a member of the Moraine Valley Community College Board of Trustees, has been reelected vice chair of the Illinois Community College Trustees Association's South Suburban Region. He has served as vice-chair of the group for the past year, and his second one-year term will expire on July 1, 1997.

According to Daley, initiatives for the coming year include increased enrollment at the individual colleges, curriculum revisions to meet the needs of the community and the students, more partnerships with four-year colleges and universities, and working with ICCTA to coordinate issues of interest to the group.

Mother McAuley Fathers Club upcoming fall events

Mother McAuley Fathers Club is dedicated to fostering good relations between dads and their daughters through activities of a social and spiritual nature. Meetings are held at 7 p.m. in the student lounge the first Monday of each month at the high school, 3737 W. 99th Street. Annual dues are $7. Many interesting activities are planned for this fall. Several speakers will be featured at the meetings. Beginning at the meeting on October 7, Fred Mitchell, a sports columnist with the Chicago Tribune, will be the guest speaker. Mike Flannery, the political analyst for WBBM-TV, will be the guest speaker at the December 2 meeting.

Fathers and daughters will have the opportunity to spend some quality time together on the links at the Father/Daughter Gold Outing scheduled for October 13, 11 a.m.-1 p.m. at the Fountain Hills Golf Club, 12601 S. Kedzie. The cost is $17.50 per person with an optional $12 cart fee. Pizza and pop will be served in the school cafeteria after the outing. Interested fathers should contact Rich Ryan, by October 4, at 708-388-2983.

Through other social events the Fathers Club contribute financial support to the school. "An Evening with Ronnie Rice" will be held November 30 at the high school. This event includes a silent auction, dinner and refreshments, and entertainment by Ronnie Rice, former lead singer for the popular 1960's group, the New Colony Six. All proceeds go toward the endowment fund for student financial aid. Tickets are $35. Seating is limited and tables of eight are available.

The 1996 Tuition/Cash Raffle, in its second year, provides an opportunity to win one year's free tuition at McAuley, or $3,600 cash. Until November 30 a drawing will occur after every 130 raffle tickets sold. To donate items for the silent auction, travel packages, sports tickets or memorabilia, or gifts and services contact Larry Harris at 708-423-2532 or the Mother McAuley Development Office at 312*-881-6558 (773* area code after 10/12/96.)

Park District offers Fest" at Hades Haunted House

This all night "lock-in" will feature horror movies, access to the haunted house & carnival, a horror make up artist, a behind the scenes glimpse at the haunted house, a D.J. and Karaoke contest. Buses will depart from the Oak Lawn Park District Community Pavilion, 9401 S. Oak Park Ave., at 10 p.m. The cost of the trip is $28.50 and dinner and breakfast are included.

Registration will be taken through October 4th at the Oak Lawn Park District Oakview Center, 4625 W. 110th Street. For more information, please call Irene at 708-857-2200.

Sheriff sponsors Safety Awareness Day

The Cook County Sheriff's Office will host the "Sheriff's Safety Awareness Day" Saturday, October 19th, at the Ford City Shopping Center in Chicago, beginning at 10:00 a.m. and run to 3:00 p.m. Representatives will be present to provide information on various services.

Free fingerprinting will be available for children and medical information cards will be provided to senior citizens. Sheriff's Office personnel will offer safety and crime prevention tips and a collection of weapons confiscated from Cook County courthouses will be one of the many displays.

The event will be held in the Center Court section of the shopping center.

"Safety Information Day not only provides the residents of Cook County with valuable advice on crime prevention," Sheahan said. "It also gives representatives from the Sheriff's Office a change to meet with the citizens they serve and receive input from them."

CRIS Radio comes to Moraine Valley

Moraine Valley Community College student Eric Melander and his dog, Ensign, take a break between classes. Eric is listening to the CRIS Radion available in the college's Learning Resources Center

Imagine not being able to read the news, sports, comics, or classifieds in your local newspaper. For many blind and visually impaired people, this existence is a reality.

To assist them, Moraine Valley Community College has obtained a service which provides the written word in an audio format without the purchase of expensive equipment or the assistance of a caregiver.

The Chicagoland Radio Information Service, Inc., known as CRIS Radio, broadcasts the verbatim reading of several local daily newspapers, including the Chicago Tribune, Chicago Sun-Times, and Daily Southtown, as well as several smaller community newspapers and monthly magazines. The station also airs some educational and special interest programs.

"CRIS Radio will benefit our students by providing them with another form of information," said Mary Schafer, director of Student Support Services. "It will also open up another door of accessibility to the community."

CRIS Radio is not just for the blind and visually impaired. It is also for those who have trouble reading traditional print or difficulty with the simple task of turning a page. The service can be beneficial to those with severe arthritis, learning disabilities, or those who have suffered a stroke or neuromuscular disease.

CRIS Radio broadcasts 24 hours a day, seven days a week, including holidays, over the sub-carrier of WBEZ (91.5 FM). Due to the low frequency of the station, the signal can only be picked up on a special radio receiver. These receivers are provided on loan for free to people and institutions for as long as they wish to keep the service. Maintenance is also provided at no cost by CRIS.

CRIS Radio is the largest independent nonprofit radio reading service in the nation, serving approximately 30,000 blind and disabled persons in a 55-mile radius of Chicago. There are more than 3,000 receivers in private homes, and more than 100 in area hospitals and institutions, including libraries, retirement and nursing centers, and classrooms. More than 500 volunteers assist with the on-air reading of local newspapers and monthly magazines in their entirety.

CRIS Radio was founded in 1980 by the Chicago Central Lions Club. The club, which raised more than $200,000 to start the program, continues to provide operating support, financial donations, and underwriting of local newspapers.

The service also serves as a model for the 120 other radio reading services throughout the United States, and provides programming material to the 10 smaller services in the state of Illinois.

Halloween fun at Park Lawn's Jamboree

Where can you go for exciting Halloween fun this year? Park Lawn's Halloween Jamboree! Trick or treaters of all ages will enjoy our Halloween pumpkin sale, bake sale, petting zoo, scary story time, children's games, craft sale and more! Come to the jamboree on Sat. and Sun., Oct. 19-20, 10 a.m to 5 p.m., 5040 W. 111th St., Oak Lawn. Proceeds will benefit Park Lawn's programs. For information, call 708-425-6867.

Peace Walkathon...It begins at the Totem Pole

Scenes from last year's Queen of Peace Walkathon.

Nearly fifteen hundred Queen of Peace students, along with teachers and administrators, gather each year at the Totem Pole to begin their Annual Walkathon along the lakefront. This year's walk will take place on October 11, and everyone is optimistic that the $135,000 fund raising goal will once again be met or exceeded.

The 10K walk will step off near the Totem Pole and conclude at the Planetarium where everyone will enjoy a picnic lunch before boarding buses to return to Queen of Peace High School.

Student incentives, which add plenty of excitement, include "out of uniform" days. Some ambitious students even earn a tuition reduction or level prizes which include bikes, stereos, televisions and C.D. players.

New season for Theology South

The sixteenth season of Theology South will open October 3rd with a lecture by Bishop George V. Murry, S. J., Auxiliary Bishop of Chicago and the highest ranking Afro-American priest in the Archdiocese. The title of his talk is "Preaching the Gospel: Sharing the Light," emphasizing how reflections from this Light will affect the future of Christian thought.

This year's subjects includes: "To forgive and not to Forgive," a joint presentation by Avis Clendenin and Troy Martin of St. Xavier; "How Faith Empowers Us," by the Honorable Sheila Murphy; "Healing Broken Youth," by Maureen S. Meter of Mercy Home for Boys and Girls; Father Gil Ostdiek, O.F.M., of Catholic Theological Union on "Shaping Theological Space;" with the final lecture by Father Raymond Tillrock posing the question, "Are We Better or Worse Catholics Since Vatican II?"

Israel Travelog at Library

Israel in the Spring, a one-hour travelog, is scheduled for 7 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 9, at the Oak Lawn Public Library, 5300 W. 95th St. Presenter is Oak Lawn resident, Betty Kapella.

Seating will be on a first-come, first-seated basis. The program is open to the public without charge.

Questions about adult programs at the library should be addressed to Mary Nelson, public relations and development officer, 708-422-4990.

Kim Prusa won a Murray mountain bike.

Peace student wins bike

Queen of Peace student, Kim Prusa a resident of Burbank, is able to give her brother a special birthday gift this year thanks to Coca-Cola and Queen of Peace High School. Kim, a senior, entered a raffle in the cafeteria sponsored by Coca-Cola, and won a Murray mountain bike. She never expected to win, and was surprised to hear her name called the day of the drawing. "I'm actually a little embarrassed," said Kim, "but I'm looking forward to surprising my little brother for his birthday."

Freida D'Amore, the Cafeteria Manager, said, "This was a lot of fun. The girls enjoyed the raffle, and it was a nice way to start the school year."

Oak Lawn teacher chosen to attend institute

Oak Lawn Community High School Chemistry teacher Carol Colby was honored this past summer by being selected for Northwestern University's Material World Module Summer Institute.

The Oak Lawn Community is proud of and energized by Miss Colby's commitment to its Mission Statement and to the improvement in student learning. It is teacher's such as Miss Colby that provide Oak Lawn Community High School students a quality learning environment.

Theatre Alive

with Georgean Fitzgerald

Now appearing in the Chicago area are two of Neil Simon's best-loved, most successful and funny plays, and that is one huge effort when you consider the length of the list of Simon successes. "The Odd Couple" at the Forum Theatre in Summit and "Plaza Suite" at Theatre at the Center in Munster, IN. Having seen both of these comedies several times over the years and to see them once again and enjoy them within a two-week period was sheer bliss.

First, "The Odd Couple" at the Candlelight-Forum, tells the story of Oscar Madison, a divorced slob, and Felix Unger, a compulsive housekeeper recently separated from his wife. When these two buddies decide to be roommates everything proceeds to go outrageously and uproariously wrong! This incompatible odd couple features Vince Viverito as Oscar, the divorced slob, and Larry Wyatt as Felix Unger, the compulsive housekeeper. They are supported by a top-notch cast including all of the other poker-playing buddies Dale Benson as Vinnie, Michael Weber as Speed, Dale Morgan as Roy, John Powers as Murray, the Pigeon sisters played by Heidi Mokrycki and Shannon Morris.

This is a speedy show with snappy dialog and action wrapped up in three acts as it used to be in the old days. In each a poker game is in progress or about to begin. Bits of 'business' and typically male behavior keep the audience hanging on every line as the odd couple and friends run its gamut. There is every reason to understand why this play has been running somewhere for over thirty-one years. Directed by William Pullinsi, it will run through November 26, so if you have never seen "The Odd Couple", do yourself a favor... you'll laugh yourself all the way home.

"Plaza Suite" is composed of three vignettes, each with different circumstances, but all set in the same suite at New York's Plaza Hotel. The common thread is that human nature can cause torrents of laughter by searching out some bleak truths about modern male-female relationships. The first act called "Visitor for Mamaroneck" features a mature housewife as she attempts to rekindle the flame of a wedding night spent in the same suite 22 years earlier. In "Visitor from Hollywood", act two, the pace accelerates. A celebrated movie producer decides to bring about a bit of seduction with an old flame from his old hometown of Tenafly, N.J. She is now a proper Tenafly housewife, but the producer furthers his cause by providing all the inside Hollywood gossip, as well as a few cocktails. The last of the one acts is called "Visitor from Forest Hills". In this scene every parent's nightmare is enacted as the guests are downstairs for THE WEDDING OF THE YEAR and the bride has locked herself in the bathroom, unsure that she wants to venture into wedded bliss. The father can only see dollar signs as the guests eat and drink, while the mother is worried that this is the worst day of her life as friends will talk about the family. The parents' pleas fail to make the daughter come out no matter what they say or do. The principal actors are the same in each of the stories. John LiBrizzi appears as husband, Hollywood director, and husband in the three acts, while Iris Lieberman creates the triple roles of the wife, the former flame, and mother of the bride. A local actress originally from the Beverly area of Chicago appears as the secretary and the bride who locks herself in the bathroom. Directed by Gary Giacomo, Plaza Suite will run through October 6,1996. Just be prepared to enjoy yourself and laugh alot.

Neil Simon is one of the quintessential playwrights of modern times. An author since 1960, there was not a Broadway season without a Neil Simon comedy or musical. During the 1966-1967 season, Barefoot in the Park, The Odd Couple, Sweet Charity and The Star-Spangled Girl were all running simultaneously. In the 1970-71 season theatre goers had their choice of Plaza Suite, Last of the Red Hot Lovers, and Promises, Promises.

Next came The Gingerbread Lady, The Prisoner of Second Avenue, The Sunshine Boys, The Good Doctor, God's Favorite, California Suite, Chapter Two, They're Playing Our Song, I Ought To Be In Pictures, Fools, Brighton Beach Memoirs, Biloxi Blues, Broadway Bound and Rumors.

Prolific Neil Simon began his writing career in television, working for "The Phil Silvers Show", and "Sid Caesar's Show of Shows." He also wrote adaptations of his own work for the screen. Soon to come will be his television adaptation of "The Sunshine Boys" and "The Heartbreak Kid."

I say see these comedies--and Simon says, yes!

The Seven Wonders of the Ancient World are: the Pyramids of Egypt at Giza; the Hanging Gardens of Babylon (Iraq); the Temple of Artemis at Ephesus (Turkey); the Statue of Zeus at Olympia, Greece; the Mausoleum at Halicarnassus (Turkey); the Colossus of Rhodes (an island in the Aegean Sea); and the Lighthouse of Alexandria.

FOOD FOR 'SECONDS'

Dining at The Cucina Bella is a trip to Tuscanny

By Anita Anderson

There aren't too many restaurants that have the ambiance and Italian charm of Cucina Bella at 543 W. Diversey Parkway in Chicago. It's owned by a former Southside, Mark Donaway, also the chef, originally from Harvey.

He's a graduate of Thornton High School and did his share of socializing the South Suburbs.

My dining partner said, "This is just like walking through a small Italian town in the Tuscanny region of Italy and coming across an eatery that's just like a typical dining room you might find in an Italian home."

And so it is. Food at Cucina Bella comes under the category of the owner's philosophy. Less is more. Dishes are simple and laced with herbs grown in the chef's garden. Sweet smelling, fresh basil hits your taste buds gently as you savor the Ceasar salad.

I am sticking to pure, hearty and authentic homestyle Italian dishes," Donaway said.

For example, his signature Portabello Mushroom Lasagna made only on Friday and Saturday is a "hard-to-get-special". Customers often will call up and pre-order a slice.

Peasant pasta is another popular dish (recipe follows) and glows with fresh basil, sweet peas, corn and ham. Donaway also offers a Spinach Fettucini Pescatore, Trota Puttanesac, (brook trout filet with tomato, olives, caper chiles, garlic and lemon) or the Chicken Cacciatore with its mushrooms, olives, tomatoes, onion and garlic. Prices range from $3.95 appetizers like Insalata Ciao Bella or hand-rubbed garlic bread and olive oil for $1.95 to Fried Calamari for $5.50.

Entree prices begin at $5.95 for the Rigatoni Marinara (meatballs are $3 extra) to the Seafood Stew for $13.95.

The chef offers 23 homemade desserts including the famous Grandma Nonni Minaudo's Bread Pudding, recipe also follows.

The outdoor beer garden welcomes canine friends and Mark offers the dogs ceramic crockery designed especially for them. Special water bowls are refilled regularly. If you plan to leave "Rover" home, the indoor dining room seats 80 and the new chef's kitchen table in back seats from two to six people.

The main stage kitchen table, a vintage 1940's eight-seat kitchen set seats special parties from four to 10 people. Call for reservations. Guests can watch the chefs cook while being surrounded by pots and pans, imported olive oils and fresh herbs in the back of the restaurant. Price for this dinner is $35 a person. Wine, tax and tip are extra.

On October 16, Donaway and Chef Susan Shafer will celebrate the release of a cookbook, celebrating their second anniversary at Cucina Bella.

The book contains more than 100 back-to-basics recipes with 70 color photos and sketches. It sells for $45 Call 312-868-1119 for reservations or the special $25 dinner to be served on October 16 at the anniversary.

Not to be bypassed are the servers. Ours was a redhead waitress named Dixie. She was so informed about the food and ingfedients that went into the dishes we thought she was an owner. What a server she was as were all of the others as we took note of the other diners and what they were ordering.

Victor Latino is a general manager and he to reflects the warmth of Cucina Bella, a little gem of a restaurant.

It's worth the 20 minute drive from the places like Oak Lawn.

GRANDMA NONNI MINAUDO'S BREAD PUDDING

The bread pudding of Cucina Bella is hands own the most popular and most requested recipe. Chef Charlie Socher was instrumental in its progression. Please enjoy.

- 3 oz. sugar
- 1 1/2 tablespoons almond liqueur
- 3 eggs
- 6 oz. buttermilk
- dash of cinnamon

Mark Donaway

- 8 oz. heavy cream (scalded)
- 1/8 loaf Italian bread (cubed, no crust)

Mix sugar, eggs, almond liqueur, buttermilk and dash of cinnamon in a large mixing bowl. Add heavy cream and bread cubes. Carefully portion 5-4 oz. servings into small bowls. Place in water bath and bake at 350 degrees for 22-25 minutes. Garnish with caramel or bourbon sauce. Finish with fresh fruit, mint and confectioners sugar garnish.

Serves 5 individual or 1 large.

PEASANTS PASTA

Chocolate-Chocolate Chip Cookies

Laura L. Clontz
Las Vegas, Nevada

- 1 3/4 cups four
- 1/4 teaspoon baking soda
- 1 cup butter or margarine, softened
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 1 cup sugar
- 1/2 cup packed dark brown sugar
- 1 egg
- 1/3 cup unsweetened cocoa
- 2 tablespoons milk
- 1 cup chopped pecan or walnuts
- 6 ounces semi-sweet chocolate chips

Stir together flour and baking soda. Set aside.

Using an electric mixer, cream butter. Add vanilla and sugars and beat until fluffy. Beat in egg.

At low speed, beat in cocoa, then milk. With a wooden spoon mix in flour just until blended. Stir in nuts and chocolate chips.

Drop by rounded teaspoonfuls onto nonstick or foil lined cookie sheets. Bake in preheated 350• oven for 12 to 13 minutes.

Remove from oven and cool slightly before removing from cookie sheet.

Recipe makes three dozen.

Incredible Peanut Butter Brownies

- 3 cups all-purpose flour
- 1 1/2 teaspoons CALUMET® Baking Powder
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 cup chunky peanut butter
- 1/2 cup (1 stick) butter or margarine
- 1 1/2 cups firmly packed brown sugar
- 2 eggs
- 1/2 cup milk
- 2 teaspoons vanilla
- 1 pkg. (10 ounces) BAKER'S® Big Chips-Semi-Sweet Chocolate

Mix flour with baking powder and salt. Beat peanut butter and butter until light and fluffy. Gradually beat is sugar. Mix in eggs, milk and vanilla. Stir in flour mixture until well blended. Stir in 1 cup of the chips.

Spread in greased 13 x 9 inch pan. Sprinkle evenly with remaining chips. Bake at 375• for 18 minutes or until golden brown. Cool 10 minutes; then cut into bars or squares.

Makes about 2 1/2 dozen brownies.

• Thoroughly combine dry ingredients in one bowl and liquid ingredients in a separate bowl. Add liquids all at once to dry ingredients and stir just until dry ingredients are evenly moist. Over mixing can make lower-fat muffins tough and rubbery.

• Fill muffin cups almost full and bake in a preheated oven just until a wooden pick inserted in the center comes out with a few moist crumbs

Oak Lawn High School student volunteers at Spiders exhibit

Ray Metzger, Oak Lawn Community High School Sophomore, spent past summer as a volunteer at The Field Museum's Spider exhibit Driven by his interest in a wide range of scientific topics, Oak Lawn Community High School sophomore, Ray Metzger, spent this past summer as a volunteer at the Field Museum's Spiders exhibit.

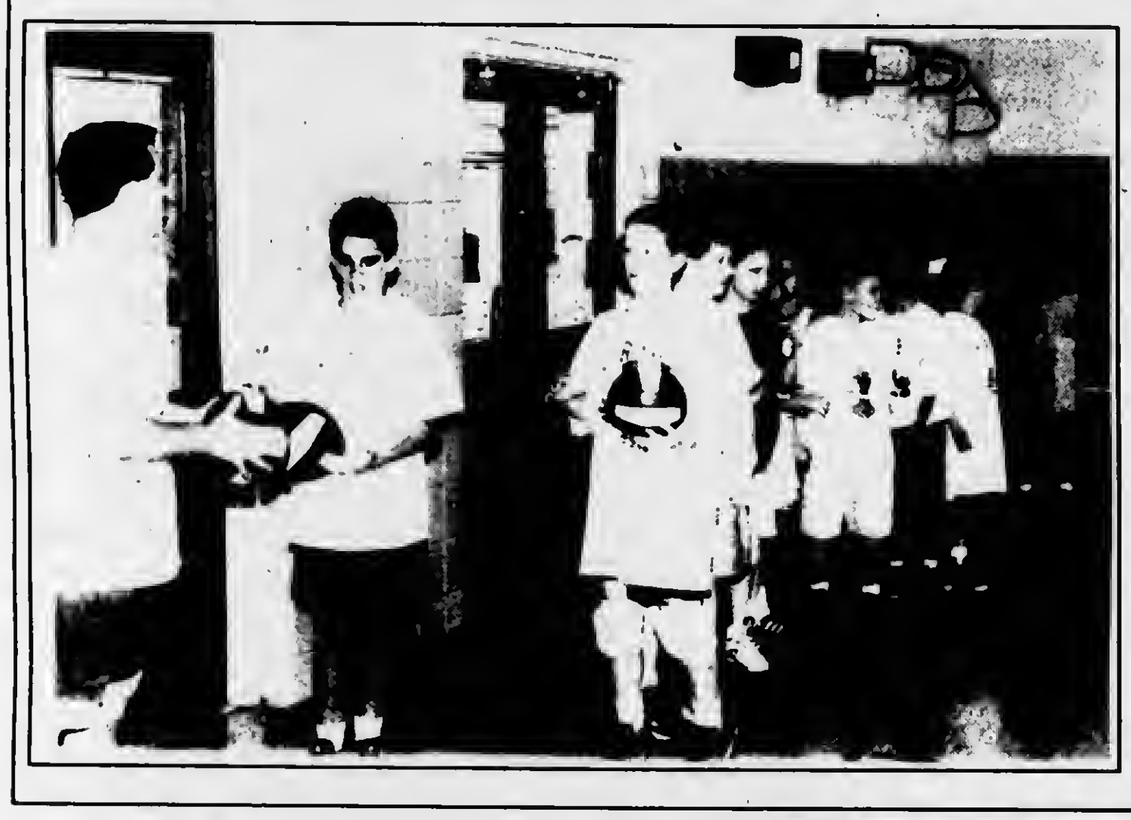
Upon completion of thirty-six hours of training, Metzger spent two months as a tour guide at different stations of the Spiders exhibit. Varying from question-and-and-answer booths to a storytelling role in which Ray had to dress up in a spider costume, the various stops of the tour were a source of enjoyment since the young scientist said, "I really learned a great deal about spiders and it was really cool when people asked me questions and I knew more than they did!"

A special treat for Metzger was his access to the behind the scene rooms at the Field. "Being able to go in the back rooms was interesting since I had a chance to see bones being prepared for display and I got to see hissing cockroaches. They were loud and big!"

Metzger looks forward to next summer at the Field as he will be working the "Baby Dinosaurs" exhibit. However, he will no longer be volunteering his time due to the fact that he was one of five volunteers this summer that will be occupying a paid position next summer.

Brother RiceVolleyball Camp nets positive results



Brother Rice High School assistant volleyball coach Dan Dwyer of Oak Lawn runs a drill for grade school boys during the school's annual summer volleyball camp. The camp, which was held August 5-9 for boys in grades 5-8, was run by members of the Brother Rice volleyball staff and current players under the direction of head volleyball coach Br. Paul Ickes. Campers were instructed in volleyball techniques such as setting, serving and spiking, and working in a team environment.

Little Company offers depression screening

Mental health professional from Little Company of Mary Hospital and Health Care Centers will offer local residents the opportunity to learn about the signs and symptoms of depression, and to participate in a free screening as a part of National Depression Screening Day. The free program will be held in the Mary Potter Physicians Pavilion Lower Level Meeting Rooms, 2850 W. 95th Street, Evergreen Park, on the Hospital's main campus. There will be two sessions on October 10, one from 9 to 11 a.m., and a second from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. Refreshments will be served, and attendees only need to attend one session.

Participants at the screening will hear a brief talk on the causes, symptoms and treatments of depression, followed by a short audio visual presentation. They will then complete an anonymous written screening test for depression, and have the opportunity to discuss the results with a mental health professional.

This program is being offered by Little Company as a service to the community and so attendees can identify if those who attend, or someone important to them may be suffering from symptoms that may indicate they are experiencing depression. Referrals to Little Company physicians will be available for those guests who need further help. While the target audience for the day is adults, information on childhood and adolescent depression will be available.

Those who attend can also participate in a follow-up study to determine the results of the screening day. If guests wish to participate, they will be asked to leave their first name and a phone number for a follow-up interview.

All portion of this program are confidential. Unless you are referred to a physician, anonymity will be maintained.

Reservations are required. Please call 708-229-6114 for more information.

Mt. Greenwood Log

By Robert Workman

Fall has come again to Mt. Greenwood this time along with the changing leaves we'll have a new sewer construction project. The department of sewers will begin a new sewer construction project, with new sewers being installed on 111th Street from Washtenaw Avenue to Campbell Avenue. Two thousand feet of sewer will be replaced and construction should be completed by December 9, 1996. During the construction portions of 111th Street may be closed? Watch for detours and alternative bus stops to be posted. Also please note that construction equipment and materials may be left on the street during the project so please be careful driving and walking in the area. This project should bring better drainage to our area and prevent flooding during heavy rains. For additional information please call 747-7050.

The Maplewood Bowl, 2545 W. 111th Street is currently up for sale and is seeking a local owner who will continue the tradition.

The former L and G Family Restaurant is also up for rental on 110th and Western (Formerly Carson's Restaurant.)

Any and all libraries, schools, etc. who would like to have their Halloween parties and events listed in this column please send in your information. (Deadline is Oct. 9th for publication.)

The Oak Lawn Park District, in cooperation with the historic Mt. Greenwood Cemetery, is offering "A Walk in the Past" Historical Cemetery Walks to be held on Saturday, October 19 & Saturday, October 26 from 9:30 - 11 a.m. at the Mt. Greenwood Cemetery, 111th & California.

In the early 1800's the area that is now Beverly and Mt. greenwood was considered a "Utopia" for artists, writers, poets, musicians and other settlers that were looking for a peaceful haven for educated minds. An "open air museum," Mt. Greenwood Cemetery is host to 80 acres of gravestones from the 1800's, including the Barnards and other families that helped make the history of the south side so rich with character. It is also home to over 30 species of trees all in their glorious fall colors.

Registration is being taken at Oakview Center, 4625 W. 110th Street in Oak Lawn. The cost is $3 per participant or $8.00 per family. For more information, please call the Park District at 708-857-2200.

Degas beyond impressionism

By Robert P. Workman; Art Critic

The Art Institute of Chicago has opened the first exhibition to focus on the powerful, beautiful and little known works of Edgar Degas, created in the later years artists in the impressionist of the master's life. Co-organized by the Art Institute and the National Gallery of Art London, England, Degas: Beyond Impressionism this artists great works than is open in it's only U.S. showing through January 5, 1997.

The Art Institute expects a half-million people to view this major exhibition (made possible by J. P. Morgan and Co, Inc.) The exhibition enjoyed extraordinary success in London this summer and should be seen by everyone in the U.S. Hilaire-Germain-Edgar Degas (1834-1917) is of course known as one of the leading movement of the 1870's and early 1880's. But beyond his historic contribution to art is the inspiration found in his work. The Art Institute's Degas Collection, numbering 91 works, ranks third in the world behind the Louvre and the Metropolitan Museum of Art. So while we in Chicago have been lucky to be able to view more of most of the world this exhibition is an even greater chance to view the artist's work over his lifetime, his experimentation with color and textures even as his eyes became weaker and eventually deteriorated into total blindness. (Yet it was only when totally blind that he stopped working.) This later work is not widely known and is therefore a must for any true art lover.

I would like to congratulate the Art Institute of Chicago on another fine exhibition.

Special dated and timed tickets are required for the exhibition. Ticket prices are $8 Monday through Thursday and $10 Friday through Sunday. For telephone ticket orders call 1-800-929-5800.

POWERFUL PRAYER TO THE HOLY SPIRIT

Holy Spirit, You Who solves all problems. Who lights all roads so that I can attain my goal. You Who gives me the divine gift to forgive and to forget all evil against me and that in all instances of my life You are with me. I want in this short prayer to thank You for all things and to confirm once again that I never want to be separated from You even and in spite of all material illusion. I wish to be with You in eternal glory. Thank You for Your mercy toward me and mine.

The person must say this prayer for 3 consecutive days. After 3 days, the favor requested will be granted even if it may appear difficult. This prayer must be published immediately after the favor is granted without mentioning the favor, only your initials should appear at the bottom.

Ryan announces winners of auto meet

A 1949 Hudson Coupe owned by Gene Davis of Charleston won the top award at the 45th annual Secretary of State's Antique Auto and Sports Car Meet on September 7th in Springfield. Davis received the Illinois State Champion award for having the best overall vehicle at the meet.

"This year's meet featured many unique and high quality vehicles, including antique motorcycles and motor scooters for the first time, that made judging for top awards difficult," Ryan said. "As a result, it was a great show for everyone."

A 1907 Cadillac Runabout owned by Edward J. Knight of Peoria received the special Marquis award as the best Cadillac in the show. The Marquis award honors a different automobile manufacturer each year.

A special award for originality was presented to Pete Bollenbach of Dundee for his unrestored 1912 Harley-Davidson.

Ryan said 194 antique vehicles, sports cars and motorcycles were entered in this year's meet. First place winners in 46 classifications received "State Champion in Class" awards, and second and third place winners also received awards.

Criminals beware in Oak Lawn

By Carlene O'Connor

The village's police department now has a new fingerprinting system through the Cook County Sheriff's Department.

The new system eliminates the use of ink thus no smudging for fingerprints and saves 500 hours of man time to book suspects. "The system will allow for officers to process prisoners much quicker and return to the street," said Police Chief Houk.

The new system will include a Livescan device, a digital mug shot, and an immediate identification system.

Congressman Lipinski endorsed by NAPO

U. S. Rep. Bill Lipinski (IL-3rd) has received the endorsement of one of the nation's largest law enforcement organization's--the National Association of Police Organizations, (NAPO) Inc.,--which represents more than 185,000 sworn officers.

"As someone who is proud of supporting police officers, whether in voting to ban assault weapons or to expand the federal death penalty, I am very honored to receive the endorsement of this fine organization in my reelection bid," said Congressman Lipinski.

NAPO's primary role is to provide legislative representation for all sworn law enforcement officers on federal legislation that impacts their profession. Local organizations affiliated with NAPO include the Illinois Police Association and the Policeman's Beneveloent and Protective Association of Illinois.

Maddie Kelly voted as new park district director

The Oak Lawn Park District Commissioners unanimously voted for Maddie Kelly as new park district director after interviewing four candidates for the $65,000-a-year position.

Kelly worked at the park district for seven years and was acting park district director when Ernie Nance retired in April.

Tom Cameron ranks Master Instructor

On Sunday, September 15, Burbank resident H. Tom Cameron successfully tested for his 5th degree black belt in Tae Kwon Do.

This rank bestowed upon Mr. Cameron the title of "Master Instructor".

Tom began studying nearly 24 years ago while still in college. He currently teaches at Palos Olympic Health Club, Evergreen Park District, and soon at the Wimbleton Tennis Club in Palos Hills.

He and his students just recently returned from the National Tae Kwon Do Championships where three of his students won, bringing his total of national champions up to thirty-six.

Dr. AJ Anglin inaugurates as sixth president of TCC

Dr. AJ Anglin was inaugurated as sixth president of Trinity Christian College in Palos Heights,on Sept. 27.

William Weidenaar, representing the Board of Trustees, gave the investiture and presentation of the presidential medallion to Dr. Anglin. Dr. Anglin's family--wife, Florence, and sons AJ and Scott--joined him on the podium for a moment of celebration. Dr. Anglin was then commissioned through a laying on of hands by a combination of founding fathers, former presidents, and trustees of the College; and Dr. Engstrom, personal mentor of the new president.

A luminary walk across Trinity's campus led the way to a reception in the Jennie Huizenga Memorial Library after the ceremony. The Student Association sponsored their own inaugural "ball," and Dr. Anglin finished his evening celebrating with the students.

Pump Boys & Dinettes

It was the dream come true. The debut of the brightest new professional playhouse in the southern suburbs, the DREAMSTREET THEATER, at 12952 South Western Avenue in historic Blue Island.

The DREAMSTREET THEATRE is the creation envisioned by the enterprise known as Glenbardan, Inc., founded by three gentlemen, Dr. Barry M. Wolk of Orland Park, Daniel E. Griffin, a Blue Island contractor, and Glenn Z. Hering, a loop attorney, who resides in Chicago.

Their dream was to provide a venue in the southern area of Chicago, which had no such theater.

The old, but closed Lyric film theater in Blue Island was chosen. After a total remodeling of the interior, a musical was selected for the opening: 'PUMP BOYS AND DINETTES'.

It is a triumph of ensemble playing. Featured as the Pump Boys are Omar Brancato, who will be portraying Peter Cratchit in "A Christmas Carol" at the Goodman Theatre this year; Jesse Kazemek, recently cast as "MO" in the film, "Vivid", Chad Stewart who comes from the south, where he received his BFA in Theater at the University of Mississippi. Buddy Goettsch, who is making his professional debut with this show, but has been seen in numerous musicals locally.

The Dinettes are Sarah Pace, a recent graduate of the University of Illinois. Previous appearances include Lady Macduff in "Macbeth", and Isabella in "Measure for Measure". Shéree Wheeler has performed in three other productions of PUMP BOYS.

Directed by Errol McLendon who comes to us from Texas, Therese M. Lenz, music director is a Beverly resident, with superior credentials, and Charles Misovye adds considerable choreographic experience.

PUMP BOYS & DINETTES is a musical comedy about the shenanigans going on at the Pump Boys Filling Station and the Double Cupp Diner on Highway 57 in Frog Level, North Carolina. Reminiscent of the past Prairie Farmer-WLS radio and Saturday night live performances at the Eighth Street Theater of the forties, with a cast consisting of Lulabelle & Scotty, Rex Allen, Gene Autry, and Pat Buttram until they went to Nashville or Hollywood.

The musical numbers have themes and focus to fit the show. Some memorable ones include Highway 57, Pump Boys, No Holds Barred, and the double entendre "Tips", which some gents in the audience gladly getting involved.

Pump Boys runs through October 20 at the NEW DREAMSTREET THEATER on Western Avenue in Blue Island, (Easy to get to with plenty of parking.)

Performances are every Thursday, Friday, Saturday, and Sunday evenings with a Sunday matinee. As Time Magazine stated "It tickles the funnybone and makes everybody feel just like a good old boy or girl."

"The 1940's Radio Hour" follows, opening on November 29. Call the box office for tix and mo[illegible]formation at 708-371-5151.

Five holiday entertainment shows at Candlelight & Forum

Opportunities abound for family entertainment this holiday season at the Candlelight Dinner Playhouse and Forum Theatre. Five special shows with seasonal themes will open in the next few months, including:

A WONDERFUL LIFE - at the Candlelight Dinner Playhouse - October 24, 1996 - January 19, 1997 - This is the Chicago premiere of the beloved American fable turned into a vibrant new musical with book and lyrics by Sheldon Harnick (Fiddler On The Roof) and music by Joe Raposo (Sesame Street). The holiday favorite tells the story of George Bailey who discovers a reason for being alive when Clarence, George's guardian angel, shows George what the world would have been like had he not bee born.

A MUSICAL CHRISTMAS CAROL - at the Candlelight Dinner Playhouse - November 22 - December 30 - The musical version of the holiday classic features both traditional and classic carols from the Dickens period, intertwined with the familiar story of Ebenezer Scrooge. Performances are scheduled weekdays at 10 a.m.; Mondays and Tuesdays, 7:45 p.m; Saturdays 10 a.m. and noon. Breakfast, lunch and dinner available for select performances.

HOLIDAY MAGIC - at the Forum Theatre - Friday, November 29 - A spine-tingling medley of magic will appear for one day only. Dinner at the BRAVO! Restaurant will also be available for a 6 p.m. seating. The audience will be greeted in the lobby by Bill Goldman, a magician that will astound the arriving crowd with close-up tricks. The stage show will feature unbelievable acts including comedic juggler Paul Buchman; mentalist Al James; the fantastic Chezaday, who amazes with grand-scale illusions; and the master of ceremonies, Jeff Bibik, a sleight-of-hand comedian.

IRISH CHRISTMAS - at the Forum Theatre - Sunday, December 1 - The musical trio Aengus combines the talents of Robbie O'Connell, a guitarist/vocalist who tours frequently with the famous Clancy Brothers; Jimmy Keane, a title-winning virtuosos of the accordion; and Kathleen Keane, a remarkable fiddle player and member of the Irish rock group the Drovers. Aengus will weave a stirring musical tapestry with songs of the season. Their celebration of the holidays has a distinct Celtic flavor, as they explore both the Christian and Pagan traditions surrounding the Winter solstice in a mixture of songs and instrumental pieces. Joining Aengus will be members of the famous Trinity Irish Dancers, performing traditional Irish dances. The program will begin at 3 p.m., with dinner available at 1 p.m. and 5 p.m.

SEASON'S GREETINGS -at the Forum Theatre - December 4, 1996 - February 23, 1997 - Playwright Alan Ayckbourn, dubbed the "English Neil Simon," has created a fast-paced farce with unexpected sight gags, wickedly funny sexual capers and superb ensemble playing. Friends and relatives are celebrating Christmas with Neville and Belinda, and the hilarious chaos that ensues includes petty squabbles, an accidental shooting, a puppet show, a midnight love scene, and usual din and mayhem of the holidays.

FOOD FOR 'SECONDS'

Feast on fall flavors in a muffin

Stop by your favorite bakery and you're sure to find two fall flavors---pumpkin and apple---in all kinds of indulgent delights. You can savor these flavors at home and enjoy the benefits of whole grain oatmeal by baking a batch of moist and tender muffins that are lower in fat than traditional muffins.

Pumpkin and apple muffins are perfect candidates for trimming the fat because pumpkin purée and applesauce add moisture and keep baked goods tender. In some recipes, the oil or margarine can be reduced to as little as two to three tablespoons with good results.

To pump up the goodness when baking lower-fat muffins, don't overlook whole grain oats. For generations, savvy bakers have been substituting oats for some of the flour to give their muffins a wholesome flavor and texture.

APPLESAUCE OATMEAL MUFFINS

TOPPING:

- 1/4 cup Quaker oats (quick or old fashioned, uncooked)
- 1 tablespoon firmly packed brown sugar
- 1/8 teaspoon ground cinnamon

MUFFINS:

- 1 1/2 cups Quaker oats (quick or old fashioned, uncooked)
- 1 1/4 cups all-purpose flour
- 1/2 cup firmly packed brown sugar
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- 3/4 teaspoon ground cinnamon
- 1 cup applesauce, any type
- 1/2 cup skim milk
- 2 tablespoons vegetable oil
- 1 egg white, lightly beaten

Heat oven to 400°. Line 12 medium cups with paper baking cups or spray bottoms only with vegetable cooking spray. For topping, combine all ingredients; set aside. For muffins, combine dry ingredients; mix well. Combine applesauce, milk, oil and egg white; mix well. Add to dry ingredients; mix just until dry ingredients are moistened. (Do not over mix.) Fill muffin cups almost full; sprinkle evenly with topping. Bake 20 to 24 minutes or until golden brown. Cool muffins 5 minutes in pan on wire rack; remove from pan. Serve warm.

HARVEST PUMPKIN MUFFINS

TOPPING:

- 1/4 cup Quaker oats (quick or old fashioned, uncooked)
- 1 tablespoon firmly packed brown sugar
- 1/8 teaspoon pumpkin pie spice

MUFFINS:

- 1 1/2 cups all-purpose flour
- 1 cup Quaker oats (quick or old fashioned, uncooked)
- 3/4 cup firmly packed brown sugar
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- 1 1/2 teaspoons pumpkin pie spice
- 1/2 teaspoon baking soda
- 1/2 teaspoon salt (optional)
- 1/4 cup chopped pecans (optional)
- 1 cup canned pumpkin
- 3/4 cup skim milk
- 3 tablespoons vegetable oil
- 2 egg whites, lightly beaten

Heat oven to 400°. Line 12 medium muffin cups with paper baking cups or spray bottoms only with vegetable cooking spray. For topping, combine all ingredients; set aside. For muffins, combine dry ingredients; mix well. Combine pumpkin, milk, oil and egg whites; mix well. Add to dry ingredients; mix just until dry ingredients are moistened. (Do not over mix.) Fill muffin cups almost full; sprinkle evenly with topping. Bake 22 to 25 minutes or until a wooden pick inserted in center comes out with a few moist crumbs clinging to it. Cool muffins 5 minutes in pan on wire rack remove from pan. Serve warm.

Bring cookbooks for new library

"Bring Your Own Books", specifically cookbooks, requests The Cooking and Hospitality Institute of Chicago, 361 W. Chestnut. During October, CHIC will trade one book for one dollar off the price of lunches, brunches and dinners. CHIC seeks new and old, used or untouched cookbooks to stock a student cookbook library at the Institute.

The abundant three-course lunches and brunches, priced at $12, and elegant four-course, candlelight Saturday night dinner, priced at $28, showcase the talents of graduating students. Popular and critical acclaimed, the CHIC Cafe encourages diners to bring their own wine or beer. For information and reservations, call 312-944-0882.

"Our goal is to acquire 5,000 cookbooks by the end of October," predicts Linda Calafiore, CHIC's founder and president. "Books amateur and professional chefs consider a waste of space, and haven't or won't use, would be invaluable resources to our students."

It's time to consider the oyster

By Anita Anderson

Nero may not have eaten oysters while he fiddled as Rome burned to the ground but it's certain you will feel deep emotions if you sample just a few of the elegant seafood dishes this month when oysters are fresh and available.

To develop just one oyster takes eons of time as the little creature searches for the right rock on which to attach itself.

Through Oct. 25 Shaw's Crab House at 21 East Hubbard St., in Chicago presents its annual "Royster with the Oyster" festival. Events just too numerous to mention include a week-long festival with oyster specials daily, live bands, an autumn oyster and beer dinner and a daily oyster slurping contest ending with the championship on Oct. 25. A large tent will also be erected for oyster dining and fun Oct. 25 from 5-10 p.m. Call 312-527-2722.

Chef Colin Turner of Chicago's Western Suburbs along with executive chef, Yves Roubaud have created an oyster bisque (recipe follows) and other delicacies.

The bisque is one of the best soups I have ever eaten and this compliment was noted by other diners.

"The best oysters are the ones that are spawned in the summer and eaten in the fall," said Chef Turner who also noted that he prefers eating his oysters raw.

The chef has spent time cooking in France as part of his culinary education and said he has even created dishes from the lowly barnacle (it tastes like salmon the chef said) and even sea urchins.

"There are many seafoods that are still obscure to the public. I would advise prospective diners who enjoy seafood to frequent a restaurant that specializes in very fresh fish which when served, will speak for itself," Turner added.

Some of the oysters now available at Shaw's include Malpeque oysters from Canada; Tenass Pass from Alaska and Umpqua from Oregon. Recipes follow.

OYSTER BISQUE

Make a roux of butter and flour. Add a large onion finely chopped and brown the mixture. Then add a quart of boiling water, 4 dozen oysters and their liquor, a generous square of butter, bay leaf, thyme and salt and pepper. Boil this soup for 20 minutes, then remove 2 dozen of the oysters and chop them finely. Then pass the soup and the rest of the oysters through a sieve, mashing the oysters.

Now add the chopped oysters and 4 springs of parsley. Serve Steaming.

- 1 quart of oysters
- 1 pint of cream
- 1 pint of milk
- 1 cup of whipped cream
- 1/2 cup of cracker crumbs
- onion
- salt and pepper
- mace

Put the oysters over to heat in a dish by themselves.

Put the pint of milk and the pint of cream in a double boiler, with a sprig of mace, and half a sweet onion. Remove the onion and mace when their first flavor is imparted.

When the oysters, and the milk and cream are hot, strain out the oysters, and out the liquor into the hot milk. Throw the oysters into cold water. Skim off any froth that rises to the top of the mixture on the double boiler. Add pepper and salt to taste, 1/2 cup of cracker crumbs, and 1 tablespoon of sweet butter. Let all cook together for a few minutes until the soup is well blended.

Strain the water off the oysters. Dry them on a clean piece of cheesecloth. Put them into the soup and serve at once, with a tablespoon of whipped cream on each cup.

Commonly Asked Kitchen Faucet Questions

(NAPS)—So readers can get a handle on kitchen faucets, here are some commonly asked questions about the different models answered by experts at Moen, a company whose name has stood for quality for over 50 years.

Q. Can I replace a two-handle faucet with a single-handle model? Do all models fit all kitchen sinks?

A. In most cases, yes. Standard-size sink openings and faucet dimensions are used throughout the plumbing industry. Generally, the standard distance between hot and cold inlets or the mounting hardware for both single- and two-handle kitchen model faucets is eight inches. However, since there are a few exceptions it's a good idea to check sizes first.

Will a new faucet fit your kitchen sink? The answer is probably yes, because standard-size sink openings are used throughout the plumbing industry.

Cook School's future looks brighter

Seven architectural firms were asked to submit proposals by October 28th for the Cook School in Oak Lawn. The proposals must include one or combine three plans: restore the school to its original condition, rehabilitate the school for use as a multipurpose center or demolish and rebuild the school.

The village agreed in April to contribute $350,000 to restore Cook School but the park district architect estimated that it would cost $2.3 million to renovate the school.

For the last seven years the Save Cook School committee which consists of village trustees, park district commissioners, and residents has been trying to preserve the historic building. They decided to consider other proposals with architects that will work within a budget of $1.85 million.

In July, Cook School's future looked bleak. The Park District commissioners voted to demolish the building if a tenant could not be found, but in September they agreed to delay the decision until January.

In November the committee will review the architect's proposals and select finalists. The report will then be submitted to the village board and park board in December.

Mt. Greenwood's new Keller school opens in '97

Paul Vallas, Chief Executive Officer of Chicago's Public Schools, announced demolishment would start on Keller Gifted Center in March. The new building, at the location of 3020 West 108th Street, Mount Greenwood, will be ready for the 1997-98 school year.

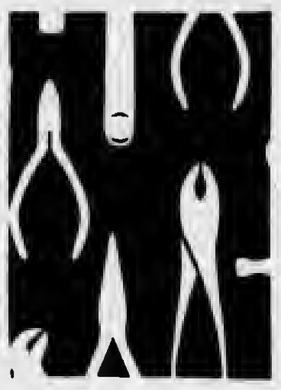
The new building will consists of 8 to 10 classrooms, a lunchroom, computer room, library and gym. The cost will be $3 million.

Original plans for an addition on the playground was scrapped because architects found asbestos in the current building. The removal of asbestos and the addition, was found more costly then erecting a new building.

Added space was needed for seventh and eighth grade students. These student transfer to other magnet schools or gifted programs because Keller only has enough room for the first through sixth grades.

Keller students will attend classes at Sheldon School until the new building is finished. Sheldon is now vacant but will be renovated before the students attend there in January or February.

Area residents are thrilled to keep their playground. The Keller playground is the only one in the area.



Rosary Hill celebrated its 60th anniversary

The Rosary Hill Home located at 9000 W. 81st Street, in Justice, celebrated its 60th anniversary last week with over 300 guest at an 11 a.m. Mass.

The head of the entire community of Dominican sisters, Dominican Mother General Barbara Pawelczyk from Poland was present.

The nursing home is known as one of the oldest in the area. Starting as a farmhouse in the year 1936 it evolved into a two-story building housing close to 50 people.

The home was founded by a group of Dominican nuns from Poland , who wanted to open a small convalescent home.

Currently the home (ran by Sister Natalie Pekala) houses women but there are no restriction against men.

Funds needed to expand library's meeting room

Oak Lawn Public Library Director James Casey is seeking $80,000 from the Illinois State Library Construction Grant to consolidate the two meeting rooms downstairs into one.

By consolidating the room, it can accommodate more than 200 people. The grant money will also provide better lighting and air conditioning.

There were other renovations done recently. The size of the children's storytime room was doubled, the roof was repaired, the audiovisual department expanded making the video selections one of the largest in the southwest suburbs. The library is also expanding its technology with a home page on the Internet. To log on type: HTTP://www.lib.oaklawn.il.us on your home computers.

Director Casey said he isn't sure the library will receive the grant for the expanded meeting room. The library has acquire $119,921. The construction grant is a 40-60 matching grant. Casey will not know if they receive the grant until July '97.

Helpful Ideas

(NAPS)—Home & Garden Television can help make your home beautiful and keep it that way with tips from America's best home builders, decorators, gardeners and craft experts.

Quick Garlic Fix: To get rid of garlic odor left on your hands after cooking, rub a stainless steel teaspoon over your fingers with your hands under running water.

Carefree Freezer: Hate the labor involved in hacking off ice chunks every time you defrost? When your freezer's clean and defrosted, coat the surface that becomes icy with a nonstick cooking spray. Defrosting will be a lot easier next time.

Stubborn Stickers: If you've ever been frustrated when trying to remove a price sticker, remember this tip: Rub cooking oil or peanut butter onto the sticker, let the item sit for a few minutes, and peel or rub off the tag.

A Slick Dustpan Trick: Before sweeping up, spray your dustpan with furniture wax and rub dry with a paper towel. Then when you dump the contents, the dirt will slide right off.

Hints from HGTV experts help you speed through household tasks efficiently.

HINTS FOR HOMEOWNERS

Changing Your Clock Means It's Time To De-Mouse Your House

(NAPS)—When late October rolls around, its time to reset the clock and de-mouse your house. Shorter days go hand-in-hand with colder weather, forcing pesky rodents to move indoors to seek food and shelter in an estimated 21 million homes across the country.

A timely solution for controlling an infestation of freeloading furballs in your home is to link the ritual of changing the clocks from Daylight Savings Time to the habit of setting traps and bait around the house. October, which has been designated National Rodent Prevention Month by the makers of d-CON® rodenticides, marks the beginning of peak rodent season, the perfect time to begin your rodent prevention routine. So, when setting the clocks, set out bait and traps as well so those pesky rodents don't make your home their home.

Aside from being annoying nuisances, rodents can carry numerous diseases, including salmonella, trichinosis, leptospirosis, the plague and the deadly hantavirus disease.

The best way to protect your home from damage and your family from diseases caused by rodents is to de-mouse your house regularly. d-CON offers the following prevention tips:

- Seal up potential entrances to your home that are larger than one-quarter inch in diameter. Mice can squeeze through spaces as small as a nickel!
- Use rodenticides regularly and properly to stop a small problem from becoming a big one. Be forewarned: if one mouse is seen in the daytime, chances are there may be as many as 20 to 40 more nearby!
- Use EPA-registered baits in lower traffic areas, such as behind the kitchen stove and refrigerator, in cupboards, and in attics, garages, and basements. Baits are an ideal way to avoid contact with rodents. Be sure to check the baits every few days to replace what was consumed or to discard any that is wet, dirty or contaminated.
- Use traps in higher traffic areas, such as the floors of kitchens and family rooms. Check traps frequently for disposal or rebaiting. Remember to always keep baits and traps out of the reach of children and pets.
- Use the proper disposal methods for rodents and their droppings as outlined by the U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC). Always wear rubber gloves and spray dead rodents, traps and droppings with a general household disinfectant until thoroughly wet before removal and disposal. NEVER sweep or vacuum them, as these activities may put virus-laden dust into the air. Disinfect the area and your rubber gloves before removal. Wash hands thoroughly with soap and water.

So remember, coordinate Daylight Savings Time changes with your rodent prevention routine—in fall and spring—to ensure safety in the home. For a free brochure on rodent prevention and elimination, send a self-addressed and stamped envelope to: d-CON Consumer Brochure, P.O. Box 8737, Young America, MN 55551.

FIRE SAFETY QUIZ

(NAPS)—Would you know how to survive a fire in your home? Take this quick quiz and find out.

1. When going through a smoky area, you should a) crawl on the floor b) crouch c) run standing up?

2. Once you have left a burning building, the only reason to return is a) for valuable documents b) for pets c) there is no reason that justifies returning.

3. How long should you try fighting a fire before you leave the building a) not at all b) five minutes c) ten minutes?

4. Important documents can be protected from fire in a) a filing cabinet b) a freezer c) UL-rated fire resistant safe or chest?

1. a) Smoke and heated gases tend to rise, and so they will be thinnest near the floor: 2. c) Do not return to the building for any reason. After you have escaped, call the fire department and wait for them to perform any necessary rescues. 3. a) Unless the fire is confined to a small area, such as a stove-top fire or trash basket fire, don't try to fight it. 4. c) Metal boxes and filing cabinets incinerate documents during a fire. Store precious belongings in a UL-rated fire-resistant safe or chest, such as those made by Sentry. For a free brochure on Fire Safety Tips, call Sentry at 1 (800) 828-1438.

Nancy Church joins Little Company's Obstetrics & Gynecology Department

Little Company of Mary Hospital and Health Care Centers is pleased to announce the appointment of Nancy R. G. Church, M.D., to its Department of Obstetrics & Gynecology. Dr. Church is joining another well known physician, Dr. Mary Blanks, in her practice at 10725 S. Western Ave., Chicago, IL, 60643 and can be reached at (312) 233-6500.

The hallmarks of Dr. Church's treatment philosophy are the satisfaction she receives from working with her patients and her genuine enjoyment of people. "I love working with the female patient population," Dr. Church said. "Women are very responsive and very aware of what is going on with their bodies...they enjoy being educated and actually become partners in their own health care. My approach to care is to use my medical expertise to give patients the information they need to make informed decisions about their care. Women want to know what will happen with their bodies and they are ready to listen to their doctor; they don't want to be 'told' what their treatment will be, they want to be partners in their own health care," she said.

Dr. Church completed her pre-med studies at Fairleigh Dickenson University, Teaneck, NJ, and received her Medical Degree from the University of Health Sciences at the Chicago Medical School. She performed her internship and residency at Rush-Presbyterian St. Luke's Medical Center in Chicago. Dr. Church comes to Little Company from Columbus Hospital, located in Chicago's Lincoln Park neighborhood, where she was director of the Women's Center and practiced at Lakeshore Physicians for Women.

An advocate for women's health issues, Dr. Church is active in a number of professional societies, including the American Medical Women's Association (AMWA), the North American Menopause Society, the American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists, and the American Society for Colposcopy and Cervical Pathology. A member of the board of directors of the AMWA, Dr. Church has participated in AMWA committees dealing with reproductive health, access to health care, and chaired a national subcommittee on smoking cessation. "This is a very exciting time to be involved with women's health care," Dr. Church pointed out. "We are on the forefront of addressing the specific health needs of women and of arranging appropriate health care. Women themselves are very interested in speaking out about their own health care."

Dr. Church was attracted to the southside because of the diversity of its populace. "The Beverly/Morgan Park and south suburban areas offer a nice mix in career women, homemakers, and active women past child bearing, allowing a practice mix of obstetrics and gynecology. Many practice locations do not afford this balance for the doctor," Dr. Church said. Another enticement was her new partner, Dr. Mary Blanks. "Dr. Blanks is an excellent physician committed to this community and is also a wonderful person," she said.

Dr. Church and Dr. Blanks offer convenient hours, including evenings and weekends, and accept a wide variety of insurance plans. To make an appointment, call their office at (312) 233-6500.

Dr. Nancy Church, who is the new partner of Dr. Mary Blanks, has just joined Little Company's Department of Obstetrics & Gynecology. Both doctors can be reached by calling their office at (312) 233-6500.

Mount Greenwood Log

By Robert Workman

A cold October night, dry leaves blow down the street between the ghosts and ghouls that have once again invaded our peaceful neighborhood. But judging by the careful decoration of the majority of homes, this invasion has once again been carefully planned and speaking of plans maybe you'd like to make a few using these idea's!

HAVE A SAFE AND HAPPY HALLOWEEN EVERYONE!

Beverly Branch Library, 2121 W. 95th Street, will present the Halloween posters of Artist Robert Workman on display from October 4th thru October 31st, Halloween! (The 6th Annual Exhibition.) Also, Beverly and Mount Greenwood Branch, libraries will host "Ghosts in the Graveyard" readings of ghost stories in the Mount Greenwood Cemetery, Tuesday, October 29th at 7 p.m. Gates open at 6:30, tickets are free but has to be picked up at Beverly or Mount Greenwood Libraries before the event (and only those with tickets will be allowed in!)

On Wednesday, October 30th, Beverly Library will host an after school program titled "Spooky Science" for Ages 5 and up!

And for Halloween Day itself Beverly Library will be transformed into a Haunted House!

For more information on events at Beverly Branch Library, please call 747-9673.

In addition to these events don't forget that Mount Greenwood Library will hold a Halloween Crafts Night, Monday, October 28, from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. for ages 6 to 12. Call 747-2805 for information. Mount Greenwood Library is located at 11010 S. Kedzie Ave.

State representative Tom Dart and the 28th District Youth and Community Services Organization will hold a "Halloween Day in my Neighborhood" coloring contest for the children of the 28th District. First, second and third prizes will be awarded and every child entering will be given free tickets to the 5th Annual Holiday Party. Deadline for entries is November 4, 1996. For more information call 429-0622 and Kennedy Park Library, 11320 S. Western will feature a selection of Halloween favorites for everyone's reading enjoyment. The Library is open during normal park hours.

Celebrate Halloween safely at MSI's Boo Fest

Visitors will have a ghoulish good time at the Museum of Science and Industry's first-ever "BOO Fest! The Haunted Halls of MSI." On Saturday, October 26, from 6:30 p.m. to 10 p.m., the Museum will transformed into a bobgoblin hangout, alive with the sights and sounds of Halloween.

Education and entertainment go hand-in-hand at the event, with programming that includes live demonstrations, make-and-take activities, a costume parade, haunted tours of some of the Museum's favorite exhibits, and plenty of trick-or-treating, so don't forget your bag for treat collecting!

The "hands-on" educational areas will feature:

- Creating "slime" and "dinosaur skin" from everyday ingredients.
- A challenging journey through our unique, "science maze."
- The use of makeup to create body "special effects".
- A Museum-wide "ghostly inventors'" treasure hunt for families.
- Spectacular storytelling includes "The Tell-Tale Heart" at our giant Heart exhibit.

Admission to the event is $8 per person. Tickets can be purchased in advance by calling the Museum's BOO! Line at (312) 947-4161. Tickets will also be available at the door the evening of the event.

Oak Lawn Church sponsors costume party

Children are invited to a Halloween Costume Party at the Oak Lawn Community Church on Saturday, October 26 from 1 p.m. - 3 p.m. There will be games, treats and costume competition. This event is sponsored by the Oak Lawn Community Church Credit Union. For more information call 708-430-4301.

Halloween fun in Bridgeview

The Bridgeview Park District Booster Club is hosting their 19th Annual Haunted House located at 87th and Harlem in the Southfield Shopping Center. The cost is $4.00 per person for all ages 6 and up. Children five and under are free. This year the haunted House will be open from Friday, October 18 to Halloween. The hours are from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. weekdays and from 7 p.m. to 11 p.m. on Fridays and Saturdays.

The Sports Complex at 8100 S. Beloit is having a Costume Judging Contest, Pumpkin Judging Contest and Great Pumpkin Hunt on Halloween beginning at 6:30 p.m.

Program Supervisor Mike Price encourages all the youth interested in the Costume and Pumpkin judging contests to register by October 28. Preregistration is not necessary for the Pumpkin Hunt.

For more information call 594-1818.

Holiday parade seeks participants and volunteers

The Oak Lawn annual holiday parade committee is seeking parade participants and volunteers for Sunday, Nov. 24. In honor of the 50th anniversary of the Oak Lawn Chamber, the parade theme is "Golden Holiday Spirits."

Businesses, service and civic organizations are urged to participate as an exceptional way to promote their businesses or services.

Those wishing to enter the parade with a float, band sponsorship, self-decorated unit or a walking contingent should call the Chamber office, 708-857-7536.

Artists who paint outdoors should assume that a dramatic effect rarely lasts more than one hour.

Evergreen Park awarded funds for parking

By Carlene O'Connor

In the Village Engineer's Report, Robert Boehm stated the pumps at the lift station at 91st and Richmond will be delivered next week and the project will be started Nov. 1.

The Mayor was also happy to announce the $490,000 was awarded from Springfield for the development of parking and lighting facilities along 95th Street. He was presented with an oversized check signed by Senator Patrick O'Malley, State Representative Maureen Murphy and Governor Jim Edgar.

The next board meeting will be held the first Monday in November the 4th at 7:30 in the Village Hall. All residents of Evergreen Park are invited to attend.

Mayor Vacco announces village meeting

Mayor Anthony Vacco announced that the village will set a special meeting for Monday, November 25, at 7:30 p.m. for the purpose of conducting a public hearing on the settlement of the litigation involving the Evergreen Cemetery property. For many years this property was zoned residential until 1994 when the present Village Board of Trustees rezoned the property to permit only cemetery uses. In October, 1995, the Village was sued by SCI Illinois Services, Inc., a developer who proposed to construct a large shopping center on the 30 acres of vacant cemetery property on Kedzie Avenue from 87th Street to 90th Street.

The village has fought the proposed intensive commercial development, and recently passed an ordinance authorizing the acquisition of the property for cemetery purposes. Mayor Vacco said that "Although the final language of the settlement between the parties has not been agreed upon, and is subject to the public hearing, substantial agreement has been reached such that the Village will purchase all of the property proposed for the commercial development and another 2 acres at the northwest corner of 91st Street and Kedzie Avenue for a price of $100,000 per acre.

Mayor Vacco stated that no other information would be released until such time as the final documents are agreed to by the attorneys for the parties at which time they will be made available for public inspection. "The Village Board is very pleased that it will be able to control the destiny of this property and that we have been able to stop the over commercialization of Kedzie Avenue. The Centrum Shopping Center will not be built and the village will be acquiring the property at a price much less than the developer was paying", said Mayor Vacco. We would like to thank all of the residents of the village who have supported our efforts to keep this unnecessary and unwanted commercial development out of the Village.

Breakfast with Norm Van Lier

The Argo-Summit, Bridgeview Hickory Hills, Palos Hills and Palos Heights Chamber of Commerce, along with the Bedford Park Clearing Industrial Association and the Chicago Ridge Worth Business Association are inviting their members to have BREAKFAST WITH NORM VAN LIER, on Thursday, November 14th at the Camelot Restaurant, 8624 W. 95th Street in Hickory Hills. Breakfast will be served at 7:30 a.m.

This meeting is sponsored by the Southwest Suburban Business-Education Alliance and Partnership (SSBEAP), a student-centered coalition of educators and business leaders whose purpose is to foster a greater sense of community through mutually beneficial programs and experiences for the students, teachers, and the business community. Tickets are $10.00, and can be purchased from any of the above named organizations. For more information, call Rita McGovern at the Bridgeview Chamber of Commerce, 708-496-2700.

OCS schedules second bus to Santa Ben

Because of the overwhelming response to the Santa Ben trip, and so as not to disappoint anyone, OCS has scheduled a second bus. Unfortunately, it cannot be scheduled the same day. The second bus is scheduled to depart from the Community Center, 3450 W. 97th St., Evergreen Park, at 4 p.m. on Thursday, December 19.

This is a fantasy trip to see the downtown sparkling lights and north and west suburban area's breathtaking holiday light displays. We will enjoy a complete dinner at the Old Warsaw Inn. What better way to enjoy the beauty of the decorations as Santa leads the way, allowing us to fully appreciate the magic of the holiday season.

Tickets are on sale now at $31 each and will be going quickly because of the popularity of this trip.

Business loan helps Oak Lawn dentists with "The Ultimate Smile"

This year Dr. Terrence L. Bartolini, D.D.S. and Carol Braun, D.D.S. relocated their dental office from 10448 S. Pulaski in Oak Lawn to 4445 West 95th Street in Oak Lawn. No only did their location change but they changed their name to "The Ultimate Smile". Through the Oak Lawn Business Load Program, George Washington Savings Bank provided the financing and helped make this move and change possible.

Dr. Bartolini's and Dr. Braun's new office features a waiting room set up like a living room featuring Nintendo and children's videos, a LEGO table with hand puppets and a variety of children's books. For the adults, coffee and an array of snacks ranging from breakfast and granola bars to crackers, pretzels and cookies are served. A cordless phone is also available.

The treatment rooms have an intraoral camera so that pictures can be taken to help the patient better understand the treatment being provided. Each room has been equipped with the most modern technology available to prevent cross-contamination.

Dr. Bartoloini and Dr. Braun welcome old and new patients with an Ultimate Smile. Give them a call at 708-425-7474.

Japan travelog at Library

Japan: It's Incredible, a 65 minute travelog, is scheduled at the Oak Lawn Public Library, 5300 W. 95th Street 7 p.m. Wed., Nov. 6. Paula and Stanley Sims will make the presentation.

Additional information is available form Mary Nelson, at 708-422-4990.

Madeline Singler-Kelly; Director of Parks and Recreation

Oak Lawn Park District appoints director

The Oak Lawn Park District Board of Commissioners recently announced the appointment of Mrs. Madeline Singler-Kelly to the position of Director of Parks and Recreation. Kelly began work with the Oak Lawn Park District as Community Pavilion Manager in 1990. Within one year Kelly was appointed to the position of Superintendent of Recreation. Upon the retirement of the former Director of Parks and Recreation, Kelly was appointed as Interim Director. Nearly a year later, after an involved interviewing process, the Board of Commissioners appointed Kelly as Director.

Kelly received her Undergraduate degree in Recreation Administration from the University of Illinois and her Graduate degree in Leisure Studies from Michigan State University. She has also received her Leisure Professional Certification from the Illinois Parks and Recreation Association. Kelly has been active in the recreation field for nearly twenty years. She has worked for University of Oregon, Michigan State University, the Park District of Highland Park and Daley College. Kelly and her husband Mike reside in Oak Lawn with their two children, Jandi and Tommy.

"Our responsibility as a park district is to provide the entire Oak Lawn community with the opportunity to enjoy affordable, quality leisure experiences," said Kelly. "That is what we continue to improve upon at the Oak Lawn Park District and I am proud to be a part of that."

Mt. Greenwood Log

By Robert P. Workman

The fall colors will soon once again give way to the first signs of winter, as nature begins her sleep. Throughout the season's a small building stands silent and alone in the middle of our community. It was the Edwin Holmes Sheldon Elementary School across from Kennedy Park by the railroad tracks at 113th Street. Built to take the overflow from the area schools, it has been all but forgotten.

Some time ago I offered a plan for a Nature Center and Library Combination to be housed in this building. The nature center and library would feature an indoor (year round) garden room to be maintained by area residents (much as area gardens are now). A small indoor fish pond, which would maintain itself in an ecological balance and would be a living science project for "kids" of all ages. This pond could be home to several small creatures including fish, frogs, snails and other small life forms.

The library would feature reading rooms and classroom space for all community programs and as a warming center, etc.

The nature and library center would also serve the community by promoting reading/literacy for all ages, as well as interest in science, nature and the environment/ ecology.

The cost of all of this could be very reasonable (rehab of the building being the biggest cost.) If the garden materials could be donated as well as the basic materials for the fish pond by pet shops, florists, etc. The library would be built by community donations, etc. as Kennedy Park Library has been.

The city of Chicago claims only one nature center, the Chicago Dept. of Environment, North Park Village Nature Center, 5801 N. Pulaski Road.

If this building is saved in time it can still be a useful asset to community rather than a potential eyesore and danger.

Sketches for this proposed nature center and library were well received as my entry to the Royal Academy of Arts in London, England Summer Exhibition. And I am once again proposing the idea. This time to the community as a whole.

Let me know what you think! By writing: Robert P. Workman, c/o Village View Newspaper, 9720 S. Parkside, Oak Lawn, IL 60453

SXU Gallery

The SXU Gallery will exhibit "Somewhere In-Between": computer drawings by Chicago artist Chris S. Johnson, from Oct. 30 - Nov. 20 in the University's gallery located at 3700 W. 103rd Street in Chicago. Admission is free and the gallery is open to the public from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Mon.- Fri.; Saturdays 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Johnson uses a Macintosh and pressure sensitive pen to create his drawings. His work has been exhibited in numerous galleries and museums throughout the United States. In addition, Johnson's work has been published in various publications and has won numerous awards.

For more information on "Somewhere In-Between", please call the Art Department of Saint Xavier University at (312) 298-3081.

Library audiovisual circulation up

Although overall circulation for September at the Oak Lawn Public Library was down almost three percent compared to last September, audiovisual circulation increased by more than four percent over the previous year. According to statistical reports submitted to the Library Board at its regular meeting, October 15, the various departments answered 13,346 reference and directional questions during the month for a year-to-date total of 96,508. Total year-to-date circulation is 255,089 for adults, 161,418 for youth services and 92,591 for audiovisual.

In regular business, the board reviewed and approved the library Selection Policy and the Unattended Children's Policy. After review of audit proposals, a three-year contract for Duffner and Company as library auditor was approved at an annual fee of $5,300. Duffner has served as auditor for the past three years.

Monthly expenditures were approved for $32,582 for library materials; $48,103 for operating expenses; and $126,877 for personnel.

Moraine offers self-employment training program

Moraine Valley Community College's Small Business Development Center will offer a Self-Employment Training program in November for small business owners and those interested in starting a small business.

The five-session program will provide an overview of small business issues. Each of the five sessions will cover a different topic.

The first session will be Business Basics. It will be held on Tuesday, Nov. 5, and will be an overview of business topics, including legal issues, financing, business plans, and resources available to small business owners. The fee is $20.

The second session will focus on Small Business Marketing and how to keep a business healthy and growing by using various marketing principles. Also discussed will be how to develop a marketing strategy to reach a target market and turn prospects into clients. This program will be held on Wednesday, Nov. 6. The fee is $30.

The next session's topic will be Business Financing on Thursday, Nov. 7. In this session, participants will learn how to have a business adequately insured from risk and how to make sure that the proper provisions for the succession of a business and retirement have been made. The fee is $25.

Small Business Legal Issues will be held on Tuesday, Nov. 12. Participants will learn about the small business legal issues that they will encounter as a small business owner, including business registration, incorporation, licensure, and business succession. The fee is $25.

The final session will be Accounting and Bookkeeping, designed for the business owner who wants to know what accounting is without becoming an accountant. Topics include general ledgers, trial balances, financial statements, and chart of accounts. Accounting and Bookkeeping Basics will be held on Wednesday, Nov. 13. The fee is $25.

Participants can register for all of the sessions for $95, or for individual sessions. Each session will be held from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. on the campus, 10900 S. 88th Ave., in the Gerald R. Fogelson Family Technology Theater, located in the Center for Contemporary Technology. Each participant who completes the program will receive a certificate.

To register, call the College Service Center at (708) 974-2110. For more information, call the Small Business Development Center at (708) 974-5413.

Crazy For You opens at Beverly Art Center

The Beverly Theatre Guild will begin it's 34th consecutive season of southside community theatre with the new Gershwin musical comedy, Crazy For You.

Directed by guild member, Glenn Hering of Beverly with the assistance of Bonnie Ryniec of Chicago, the production appears at the Beverly Art Center, 2153 W. 111th Street, Chicago, on Friday, November 1st and Saturday, November 2nd at 8 p.m. and concluding on Sunday, November 3rd at 2 p.m.

Dick Seaman, Melissa McGuire, Deanna Heffron of Evergreen park and Julie Currister of Oak lawn are among the cast in, Crazy For You.

This particular production, which can be enjoyed by both young and old, features many familiar Gershwin musical numbers such as "But Not For Me", "Embraceable You" and Ethel Merman's signature tune, "I Got Rhythm." Anita Greenberg of Chicago musically directs while Tom Fagan of Blue Island choreographs.

Crazy For You was written by Ken Ludwig, music by George Gershwin and lyrics by Ira Gershwin. Ludwig wrote this Broadway musical using scores from previous shows and other sources. The story of a spoiled New York playboy, Bobby (played by Wayne Wendell of Beverly), going out West and falling in love with a local girl, Polly (Played by Eileen Cosgrove of Beverly), was retained. Instead of saving a college, as in the original(s), the hero and heroine rescue an old theatre. Crazy For You is really a distillation of elements from movie musicals of the '30s and '40s using the old familiar "Let's put on a show" theme made popular by Mickey Rooney and Judy Garland.

In addition to great Gershwin music, this production includes the "Zangler Girls" (Mary Ann Boyd, Julie Kolenda and Ginny Theole of Chicago, Julie Gurrister of Oak Lawn, Cindy Pervan of Orland Park and Jacqueline Dimpsey of Roselle) in a variety of tap and jazz dance numbers wearing flashy, showgirl costumes, as well as a large ensemble cast. And, of course, the age-old tale of boy meets girl, boy gets girl. The show is produced by Kim Simari of Mokena, Marty Donovan of Orland Park and Jacques Hawkins of Calumet City.

Phone (312) 409-2705 for tickets, which are $15 per adults, $11 per senior citizen/student. Group rates are available, all seats are reserved.

St. Laurence to conduct Open House

On Thursday, November 7, St. Laurence High School will hold its annual Open House from 4 p.m. until 9 p.m. The school is located at 77th Street and Central Avenue. All 7th and 8th grade boys and their parents are invited to attend.

Tours of the school will begin with a performance by the award-winning St. Laurence marching Gold 100 Band. All tours will feature St. Laurence's four computer labs, including the Main Center, and the brand-new Computer Instruction Center. Demonstrations by St. Laurence students in the Biology, Chemistry, Physics, and Physical Science labs will enhance the evening. Exhibits will serve as visual aids in the Drafting/Architectural Design lab and visitors may watch as St. Laurence students construct various drawings.

The Grunhard Fitness Center will be unveiled publicly for the first time along with the Computer Instruction Center, which marks over $300,000 in improvements in campus facilities since last year.

Following the tours, refreshments will be served in the cafeteria where each athletic program and activity will have tables manned with student-athletes and coaches and activity moderators will be on hand to give more information and answer questions. Transportation and financial aid information will also be available.

More information is available by calling Mr. Kurzawski during school hours. The phone number is (708) 458-6900.

Operation Blessing will hold annual Pancake Brunch

Operation Blessing of Southwest Chicagoland will be holding it's annual PANCAKE BRUNCH on Saturday, November 9, at Calvary memorial Church located at 111th and Roberts Road in Palos Hills. Hours for the event are from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m. Pancakes and sausage are "ALL YOU CAN EAT", along with fresh fruit, coffee, juice and milk. No tickets are necessary, suggested donation at the door is $2.50 for individuals and $6.00 for a family.

All proceeds from this fund raiser will be used to support Operation Blessing, which helps needy families in the south suburban area with food, clothing, and household goods free of charge. They also provide telephone prayer counseling to any who request it. They are located at 4330 Midlothian Turnpike, Crestwood.

For further information, call Operation Blessing (708) 597-6326.

Moraine Valley student Kim Campbell assists a senior at one of the craft tables at the senior Octoberfest event held at the college on October 9.

Moraine Valley students conduct senior event

Moraine Valley Community College students enrolled in the college's Recreational Activities for the Elderly course recently conducted a special event for area seniors as part of the class curriculum.

Senior Octoberfest, which took place Oct. 9 in the college's gym, drew about 100 area seniors from several local senior facilities.

Participants visited several different activity stations, including the "strudel walk," which was similar to a cake walk; the "bean bag challenge," in which participants tossed bean bags into pumpkin-shaped buckets; and two craft stations, where they made turkeys out of pine cones and fall picture frames, complete with Polaroid snapshots of themselves.

The 22 students in part-time instructor Marsha Amrae's class were required to plan, implement, and evaluate a senior special event. The course is required for all students pursuing Associate of Applied Science degrees in Therapeutic Recreation and Recreation Program Leadership, or certificates in Health Fitness.

Bengtson Farm offers Halloween frights

By Cheryl Sheridan

Why buy a pumpkin from the grocery store when you can select your pumpkin from tens of thousands in every shape and size in the pumpkin patch. The hayride takes you through acres of pumpkins so you could pick your favorite orange colored fruit and bring it home to carve and decorate.

If you enjoy a scare, walk through Bengtson's Haunted Barn. It can make you jump when you see the completely animated scenes equipped with strobe lights and angled floorboards.

The younger children love the pony rides, farm animals, pig races, Fun Barn, and Scarecrow Maze.

Admission is free for children 2 years old or less; kids 3-11 pay $4.95; 12 and over $5.95. Bengtson's will be open daily from 10 a.m. - 8 p.m. until October 30.

O'Malley declared "Clear Choice" candidate

State Senator Patrick O'Malley, R-Palos Park, has been endorsed by the Alliance Political Action Committee (PAC) for his commitment to improving public education. Ron Yates, Chairman of the Alliance PAC said, "We feel that Patrick is the candidate in this race that will work the hardest for better schools and increased opportunities for our kids."

Yates said the Alliance views 1997 as the year that the General Assembly could address the issue of school finance reform, and O'Malley shares the PAC's belief that a more equitable funding mechanism is needed, as well as fewer state mandates.

The Senator was also endorsed by the Greater South Suburban Taxpayer's Association for his antitax stance on issues affecting the tax burden of Illinois citizens. The President of the Association, Brent Woods, stated, "State Senator Patrick O'Malley has proven to the taxpayer's of the 18th Legislative District that he is an antitax conservative legislator by... standing up for the rights of all taxpayers in the State of Illinois."

A musical celebration of Rock 'n' Roll at the Shubert Theatre

What do "Hound Dog," "Love Potion #9", "Stand By Me," "Yakety Yak," "There Goes My Baby," "On Broadway" and "Jailhouse Rock" have in common. They provided the soundtrack to the lives of a generation of Americans. What's more, they were all the work of a single song-writing team, Jerry Leiber and Mike Stoller. The list goes on: "Charlie Brown," "Loving You," "Treat Me Nice," "Kansas City" and many more--an unprecedented string of hits that defined the 50s and early 60s. The Coasters, The Drifter, Peggy Lee and Elvis all had their biggest hits with Leiber/Stoller songs. Find out at the Shubert Theater, 22 West Monroe Street until November 3.

Winner of the 1995 Grammy Award for Best Musical and nominated for seven Tony Awards, SMOKEY JOE'S CAFE: THE SONGS OF LEIBER AND STOLLER celebrates the world of first kisses and last dances, hot summer nights and cool midnight struts, blue-light diners and red-hot rock 'n' roll. Directed by four-time Tony Award-winner Jerry Zaks, the show captures and celebrates the contagious spirit of the music of Leiber and Stoller. Musical staging is by Joey McKneely.

Benefit needed for children's tuition

James O'Shea, 47, a resident of Oak Lawn, father of six children, a coach and chairman of St. Germaine's athletic committee and electrician for the CTA, was diagnosed with glioblastoma multiforme, an inoperable brain cancer.

After many years of helping the community, the O'Shea family and friends are asking help from the community with a benefit at Brother Rice High School on November 17.

For the last three months, O'Shea has undergone surgery, chemotherapy and radiation which left him unable to work. His wife, Carol, took leave from her job to care for him.

Although the family has medical insurance, the benefit will help the family with other expenses such as tuition to help five of their children ages 9 through 21 stay in school. Their oldest child graduated from Northern Illinois University.

Community members hope the benefit will raise $75,000 for the family.

The event takes place November 17 at 2 to 6 p.m. at Brother Rice-High School, 10001 S. Pulaski Road. Ticket can be purchased at the door for $25 per person. The evening consists of a buffet, entertainment, open bar, silent auction and a grand prize of $1,000 from raffle tickets that will be sold at the benefit for $10 each, or three for $25.

If you are unable to go to the benefit, donations can be sent to: The O'Shea Family Benefit, care of the St. Germaine Rectory, 4240 W. 98th Street, Oak Lawn, IL 60453.

Sertoma offers speechreading class

An introductory course in speechreading (lipreading) will be offered by the Sertoma Center beginning Wednesday, November 6th.

The class will meet for 4 to 5 weeks, from 6 p.m. to 7:30 p.m. at the Center's office, located at 10409 S. Roberts Road in Palos Hills, and will be taught by the Center's licensed audiologists. The course is designed to show individuals with hearing impairment—even those with hearing aids—how to use visual cues to improve communication skills.

Office of Citizens' Services

It's not too late to join the newly-formed OCS Bridge Group at the Community Center, 3450 W. 97th Street, Evergreen Park. Bridge is scheduled from 1 - 3 p.m., Thursdays in Room 111.

Gen Kondracke is the volunteer leader for bridge. Card players are rotated after each game. Four hands are played. House rules apply based on the New International Laws of Contract Bridge.

For the price of $1, refreshments are served and prizes are awarded.

Filing deadline for the Circuit Breaker/Pharmaceutical Program/Reduced License Plate Fee is December 31. Forms are available at the OCS Office, Room 107, 3450 W. 97th Street.

To receive this assistance you must file yearly. To be eligible you must be 65 years of age prior to January 1, 1996, totally disabled or widowed, and have an income of less than $14,000. For more information phone OCS (422-8776).

The Tuesday afternoon card players are looking for more participants. Room 111 (Community Center, 3450 W. 97th) has enough space to accommodate many more players. Whether or not you have your own partner, you are encouraged to join. This is a free program set aside to give people a time and place to play the card game of their choice. The group is scheduled to meet at 1 p.m.; however, they usually gather at 12:30.

State Senator
Patrick O'Malley

59

Re-Elect
AN EXPERIENCED & EFFECTIVE LEADER WHO GETS THE JOB DONE!

- Endorsed by the 14 suburban mayors of the communities in the 18th District.
- Won national recognition for his strong stand against the spread of gangs and drugs into our neighborhoods.
- Passed the first major reforms of the Cook County property assessment process in a generation to achieve meaningful and much needed property tax relief.
- Worked with labor and business leaders to find common solutions that mean better jobs for Illinois workers.
- Ended taxpayer-supported corporate welfare for companies that build garbage incinerators saving Illinois taxpayers over $7 billion.
- Spearheaded the formation of the Metro Southwest Alliance to promote economic development and enhance the quality of life in the Southwest metropolitan area of Chicago.
- Reformed bureaucracy-bound Chicago school system and set the stage to return a fair share of state education dollars to our local schools.
- Earned 1996 "Legislator of the Year" honors from the Suburban Area Agency on Aging for his many efforts on behalf of Senior Citizens.

Make your vote count on November 5th...Elect a State Senator we can be proud of!

Davis Staffing on the leading edge in the employment industry

"There is a simple reason that Davis Staffing, Inc. is a leader in the staffing industry. For over 36 years, we have provided local businesses with highly qualified individuals for their clerical, light industrial and technical needs. We have made a pledge to provide the best service possible to the most important people in our business—the client and the employee. Davis also provides an array of customized staffing alternatives and services designed to improve our clients' productivity in a cost-effective manner. This not only serves as an aid to employers, but also to employees by providing jobs to thousands of local residents each year," said Deborah Davis, Vice President.

Davis adds, "To accomplish our pledge, Davis Staffing always meets the needs of our clients in the ever changing environment. Our clients receive service beyond expectations with personalized attention. With our customized computer program in combination with a personalized Style Analysis, our professional staff matches client needs with the best qualified employee. Our Style Analysis indicates to us how an employee may behave on the job, and is a tool we use to help find the best employee for the job.

"We offer our employees many benefits, personalized attention to their career goals gainful employment opportunities with competitive salary, personal growth and development through computer software training, plus a variety of work environments. Davis also provides vacation and holiday pay, annual college scholarships, monthly contests, and other incentive programs," adds Ms. Davis.

With the opening of its Oak Lawn office in October, Davis has five offices located in the Chicago Southland and Northwest Indiana. This has enabled Davis Staffing to respond more quickly to changes in the employment needs of its clients and employees. The new Oak Lawn Office is at 9605 Southwest Highway. Davis Staffing, Inc. supports each local area community it serves and is active in business and charitable organizations.

Sheriff Sheahan's "Posse" offers free graffiti removal

Cook County Sheriff Michael F. Sheahan is issuing a reminder to communities that his "Graffiti Posse" is available free of charge to all property owners in suburban and unincorporated Cook County.

In June, Sheahan announced a major expansion of the county's anti-graffiti effort, including removal of graffiti from private property through the Cook County Sheriff's Office.

Graffiti is a serious problem that is growing faster than many communities have the resources to keep up with," Sheahan said. "By offering graffiti removal to all residents of suburban and unincorporated areas, I hope the program will significantly reduce the amount of graffiti in our county."

To obtain this service, property owners victimized by graffiti need to sign a permission waiver and return it to the Sheriff's Office. An assessment will be made of the property and the "Posse" will be scheduled to remove the graffiti, when the property owner is present.

Anyone wishing to receive a waiver or ask any questions about Sheahan's "Graffiti Posse" should call the Sheriff's Anti-Graffiti Hotline at 1-708-974-6042.

Oak Lawn resident receives "Certificate of Achievement"

Fourth from left: Marge Schadt, an Oak Lawn resident, received a "Certificate of Achievement" from the Immigration and Naturalization Services of the U.S. Justice Department for providing assistance to the federal agency in deporting illegal immigrants with criminal felony convictions. Schadt is currently an employee of the Criminal Division at 26th and California for Cook County Circuit Court Clerk Aurelia Pucinski. (Pictured with Schadt left to right: Thomas Farris, INS' Assistant Director for Special Investigations; Brian Perryman, INS' Acting District Director in Chicago; Colleague Bobbie Reynolds; Schadt; Clerk Aurelia Pucinski and Robert Doherty, an Investigative Assistant to Perryman.)

O'Malley will receive "Legislator of the Year" award

The Suburban Area agency on Aging will present State Senator Patrick O'Malley (R-18 Palos Park) with its "1996 Legislator of the Year" award at the Senior Advocate Program Volunteer Recognition Luncheon, November 1, at the William Tell Restaurant in Countryside.

The 18th District Senator is being honored for his legislative efforts on behalf of senior citizens. During state budget negotiations, O'Malley secured $82,000 to help the Suburban Area Agency on Aging avoid a disruption in its services resulting from a court ruling on a new law to help senior citizens cut through the bureaucratic red tape that prevents them from accessing programs available to them.

Thomas Curin, President of the Suburban Area Agency on Aging, wrote in a letter to O'Malley, "During the past session of the Illinois General Assembly, you demonstrated extraordinary leadership on behalf of suburban Cook County and Illinois senior citizens. We are honored to call you a friend."

State Senator Patrick O'Malley (R-18)

Burbank resident wins contest

A Burbank resident celebrated Halloween by having their home pictured in Village View Newspaper and by receiving a certificate for two to the Candlelight Theatre to see IT'S A WONDERFUL LIFE. Ms. Michael Ambre decorated the yard, while Michael and their son, Kenny helped by keeping the display neat. Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Ambre 8638 S. Massasoit, Burbank for being this year's winner in the Halloween Decorating Contest.

Family physician joins Little Company

Little Company of Mary Hospital and Health Care Centers is pleased to announce the appointment of Kathleen Casper, D.O., to its Department of Family Practice. Practicing in Olympia Fields since 1983, Dr. Casper's new office location is at 3235 W. 111th Street, Chicago.

As a Board Certified Family Practitioner, Dr. Casper is qualified to treat patients of all ages. Additionally, she has a special interest in treating older adults and recently achieved Certification in Geriatric Medicine, meaning that she has undergone and successfully completed extensive additional training and examinations in gerontology (the medical discipline of caring for older adults).

Dr. Casper received her training at the Chicago College of Osteopathic Medicine where she received her Doctor of Osteopathy (D.O.) Degree in 1982.

Dr. Casper has reached out to seniors through the implementation of the Senior Mutual Support Group, which also grew out of her experience at the Adler School. This program, which offers seniors resources and support for each other, has won numerous awards and is recognized as a ground breaking program in senior services. Although Dr. Casper founded the program, her busy schedule no longer allows her to be directly involved in it.

Dr. Casper is currently accepting new patients, including families and children in addition to seniors, and can be reached at 773-445-1683.

The National Taxpayers Union slams Lipinski record

To hear him talk, one would think incumbent Congressman Bill Lipinski is a fiscal Conservative. However, the nonpartisan National Taxpayer's Union (NTU) has brought Lipinski out of the "Tax and Spend Closet" revealing his true voting record. The organization graded Lipinski's record a "D". However, it is only fair to note that Lipinski's thriftiness has actually improved this year. Three out of the past six years, the National Tax Payer's Union has graded Lipinski's record a down right "F" for failure.

Jim Nalepa, the Republican Candidate in IL-03, reiterated the points made by NTU. "Bill Lipinski can talk all he wants about being a fiscal conservative, but words are not enough to prove that they are responsible for spending the taxpayer's of Cook County's money wisely. When a nonpartisan organization such as the National Taxpayer's Union is attacking Bill Lipinski's record as a big time tax and spender, I think it's time for his constituents to take a second look at what type of representation they are receiving in Washington."

Nalepa continued, "Lipinski's record speaks for itself. He has continued to lead us down the tax and spend road that has led to $5 trillion federal deft. His reckless votes and shortsightedness are putting the future of our children and grandchildren at risk. I believe we can balance the budget and cut taxes at the same time. But then again, unlike Bill Lipinski, I am a true Fiscal Conservative."

The NTU analyzes the budget impact of all votes taken by each Member of Congress over the course of the year. For a complete copy of the report, contact the National Taxpayer's Union at 703-683-5700.

American Cancer Society honors physician

Oak Lawn unit board member Noreen Mikois, chairman of the recognition dinner committee; Sharad Salvi, M.D., honoree; Roxanne Murtaugh, board chairman, Oak Lawn unit; and Ernest Kolb, Oak Lawn Mayor and board member, Oak lawn Unit.

The Oak Lawn Unit of the American Cancer Society held its annual recognition dinner recently to honor Sharad Salvi, M.D., a pediatric oncologist on staff at Christ Hospital and Medical Center. Over 200 people attended the event to recognize Dr. Salvi for his extraordinary efforts in caring for young cancer patients. A member of Christ Hospital's medical staff for 10 years, Dr. Salvi serves as director of the pediatric hematology-oncology section. The program, which he initiated, has become one of the largest pediatric subspecialty clinics in the southwest suburbs.

National Republican Congressional Committee commit late money to Nalepa

With several polls showing the Third Congressional District "too close to call" and large number of undecided voters shifting towards Republican Candidate Jim Nalepa, the National Republican Congressional Committee made the maximum allowed direct contribution to the Nalepa campaign.

In a move reminiscent of two years ago when the NRCC infused late money into Michael Flanagan's upset campaign of Dan Rostenkowski, the committee is hoping to add to Nalepa's late momentum by giving his campaign a large financial boost to keep the momentum rolling.

Nalepa said, "This extra money will ensure that we will continue to get our message out the final weekend."

Veteran Day commemoration at Village Green

The American Legion Green Oak Post #757 and the V.F.W. Johnson-Phelps Post #5220 will conduct a commemorative ceremony on Monday, November 11 at 11 a.m. at the Oak lawn Veteran Memorial on the Village Green.

This is to remind all Americans of the sacrifices the veterans of this nation have made in protecting its liberties and its freedoms.

Military News

Monette J. Madayag will report to Fort Jackson, S.C., for military basic training.

She is the daughter of Lovejoy A. and Dulce S. Madayag of Burbank.

Damien M. Rodriguez will report to Fort Sill, Lawton, Okla., for military basic training.

He is the son of Diane Allison of Oak Lawn.

Navy Petty Officer 1st Class Keith R. Barrett, son of Richard and Shirley Barrett of Oak Lawn, recently reported for duty at Naval Air Station North Island, San Diego.

He joined the Navy in October 1981.

Letter to the editor

Less than a year before the village elections in Oak lawn, the Coalition Party led by Ernie Kolb has begun making improvements to the community, once again misleading the residents to believe that they have been working for the last four years.

In the last few weeks alone, street repairs, sidewalk paving and other visible improvements have been evident throughout the village. All these improvement projects could and should have been completed sooner. It doesn't take a village to see that the only improvements made are those done right before an election.

If these improvement projects had been done on a continuing basis, there could have been lower costs and more progress.

Basically, it is the same pattern that they have used in prior elections.

Residents should expect, at the minimum, better planning out of their public officials. Maybe, the Coalition Party has been in there for too long.

St. Laurence sophomore captures championship

The 1996 St. Laurence Sophomore Cross Country team captured the Chicago Catholic League sophomore championship at the league meet which was held on October 19th at Schiller Woods. The championship marks the second consecutive year that the sophomore harriers have won the Catholic League title.

The Vikings won the meet with a total of only 22 points as five St. Laurence harriers placed in the top nine in the 3-mile race. Leading the way for St. Laurence was sophomore Brian O'Farrell who finished third with a time of 17:09. O'Farrell is a graduate of St. Jane de Chantal and resides in Chicago's Garfield Ridge community.

Sophomore Dan Lahart was 4th with a time of 17:10; sophomore Scott Soprych was 5th with a time of 17:21; freshman Ben Lopez was 6th with a time of 17:41 and freshman Dan LaDuca was 9th with a time of 17:58.

Oak Lawn awarded grant for tree care

Gov. Jim Edgar awarded Oak Lawn $10,000 to implement a tree care ordinance, conduct a street tree inventory, develop a management plan, train municipal employees, conduct public education and hire interns.

"A landscape filled with trees is an important component in the quality of life in urban areas throughout Illinois," the Governor said.

Gov. Edgar awarded a total of $187,255 in grant to 29 communities to provide technical assistance for urban forestry programs.

Authorized through the Urban Forestry Assistance Act, the grants provide 50/50 cost-share reimbursement. The Department of Natural Resources' Division of Forest Resources administers the grants in cooperation with the U.S. Department of Agriculture Forest Service.

Congressman Lipinski receives endorsements

U.S. Rep. Bill Lipinski (IL-3rd) has received the endorsement of the Trucking Industry Political Action Committee, The National Association of Police Organizations, Chicago Fraternal Order of Police and has received praise from an organization of Illinois Baptist churches for his opposition to partial-birth abortions, including his vote to override the President's veto of a ban on the procedure.

Moraine Valley professor conducts Audubon project at Silver Lake

When the Silver Lake Country Club in Orland Park needed assistance with their Audubon Cooperative Sanctuary System recognition, it looked to Moraine Valley Community College for help.

Silver Lake was interested in completing the requirements for a certificate in water quality management in order to earn national recognition by the Audobon Cooperative Sanctuary System. In order to do so, it needed to conduct a water survey.

The golf course originally contacted the Environmental Science Department at Moraine Valley in search of names of area agencies that might be able to do the testing. Herb Mathwig, a Natural Science professor at the college, decided to volunteer for the task.

Since the survey fit the curriculum of the college's Environmental Science I class, Mathwig decided to ask the students in his summer class to help. Nine students volunteered for the project, working approximately four hours each day after class for two days. They were Mark Eleveld of Oak Lawn, John Evans of Oak Forest, Heather Greves of Crestwood, Ralph Kriho of Willow Springs, Sanjay Patel of Tinley Park, Amy Picket of Orland Park, Kimberly Rauter of Lockport, Sara Ross of Palos Park and Louie Torres of Summit.

The group tested four sites at Silver Lake on July 10, then analyzed their findings the next day. The information they obtained will be used as baseline data when analyzing information from future surveys. Mathwig will retest two of the sites twice a year for the next three years to monitor the changes in the course's water.

Devine assails O'Malley for failure to fight gangs

Dick Devine, Democratic candidate for Cook County State's Attorney said, "As State's Attorney I will go to Springfield and fight to change the law to make all gang activity illegal."

Citing increases in gang violence and the spread of gang activity throughout Cook County, Dick Devine criticized Jack O'Malley's failure to address the growing gang problem.

"My top priority as State's Attorney will be convicting gang leaders and drug dealers," said Devine. "When I served as First Assistant for State's Attorney Richard Daley we created the Gang Crimes Unit. We targeted gang leaders and worked effectively with law enforcement throughout the county."

Dick Devine is proposing a six point plan. "At the top of my plan is a proposal to introduce legislation in the Illinois General Assembly to enact a law designed to make all gang activity illegal." said Devine.

In addition, Devine proposed five other anti-gang initiatives.

- Expanding the Gang Crime Unit to include misdemeanor prosecutions.
- Appoint a juvenile gang crime team of prosecutors and investigators.
- Promote closer cooperation between the State's Attorney's Office and the Sheriff's Gang Crime Unit.
- Appoint a gang prosecutions specialist to serve full-time at each of the suburban courthouses.
- Work with both the juvenile and adult probation departments to enact programs to divert convicted gang members from participation in gangs after conviction.

"As State's Attorney, I will lead the fight against gangs wherever they are--in the streets, in the parks, in the city, in the suburbs, and in the jails and prisons," said Devine.

Time to get out and vote

Christine Radogno, candidate for State Senate like her opponent is from LaGrange. The difference lies in Christine is Republican and Nancy Kenney is a Democrat. Both have excellent credentials.

At the present time the media, the political strategist, and some leaders within our state are trying to control the votes and voters by predicting the turnout of the election.

We can fool them by coming out in masses to vote. I always think of the Movie NETWORK whenever I hear the forecasts of the elections..

Theatre Alive

With Georgean Fitzgerald

OUI, OUI, Paree! Steve Martin's award winning comedy PICASSO AT THE LAPIN AGILE made its triumphal return to the Briar Street Theatre on Halsted in Chicago.

It is 1904, the great artist Pablo Picasso is 23, and it is three years before he is to paint his epoch shaping LES DEMOISELLES D'AVIGNON. The great scientist Albert Einstein is 25, and it is one year before he is to publish his Special Theory of Relativity.

By chance, the two geniuses wander into Lapin Agile, a small bar in Paris, and le tres beau setting this encounter. They spar with each other as they exchange deep thoughts, quick one-liners and repartee on the future of the 20th century. They are joined by a melange of bar patrons including a visitor from the future who also will help shape the vision of man.

PICASSO AT THE LAPIN AGILE stars Jim Ortleib as Einstein and Robert Kahn as Picasso. The production features Del Close as Sogol, shrewd art dealer, Ian Barford as Freddy, the bar's owner, Joan Schwenk, as the waitress Germaine and Freddy's worldly wise girlfriend. Jim Mohr is Gaston, the dapper older man with a penchant for sex and art, Frank Dominelli as Charles Schmendiman, an inventor and forgotten genius, and Chad Suitts as a blue suede shoed visitor from the future.

A delightfully artistic moment in theater, actually runs ninety minutes with no intermission, written by celebrity Steve Martin, comedian, film star, and play wright.

Picasso at the Lapin Agile debuted here several years ago at the Steppenwolf Studio Theatre and on other stages in Los Angles, New York and San Francisco. It was awarded the 1995 New York Outer Critics Circle Award for Best Play and Best Playwright.

Some of the philosophy is tedious and there are broad spaces with nothing really solved but it is all worth it due to a talented cast that works well together.

The main character, Picasso and Einstein, never miss a beat, with bombastic, egoistic Picasso and a charming, comedic and wise Einstein lending much humor to the scenario.

Steve Martin has written screenplays for ROXANNE for which he received a Writers Guild Award, L. A. STORY and A SIMPLE TWIST OF FATE, and also wrote screen plays for THE JERK, THREE AMIGOS and several other films, and has published a collection of short stories, CRUEL SHOES.

Tickets may be purchased through the Briar Street Theatre box office at 312-348-4000, or through any Ticketmaster location, or by phone: 312-902-1500.

FOOD FOR 'SECONDS'

Favorite cookie recipes collected through the years

By Anita Anderson

Recipes may come and go as you fill your recipe file with recipes you'll never make. Instead, like my recipe file, those that are weathered with age and possibly sprinkled with a dab of flour or cocoa remain the one's we most enjoy baking for family and friends. In my case baking as a way to relax to break the stress cycle.

Pat's Cookie came from a friend of my daughter and I usually bake them for the Christmas holidays. They keep well. The Oatmeal Cookies are from an old Pennsylvania Cookbook I received as a gift and now, after trial and error, this recipe creates a crisp, good cookie. Using the called-for-nuts is optional.

Chocolate Chocolate Chip Cookies come from a recipe I received from Vegas and the creator received one thousand dollars for the recipe. The Hershey Bar Cookie recipes is my mother's and before she died my kids loved eating grandma's cookies when they vacationed with her in Northern Minnesota. Somehow, I can't make them as well as she did.

Also, the Chocolossal Chip and Incredible Peanut Butter Brownies are another pair of favorites for the holidays I've had for ages. The brownies might be nice for those special Halloween trick or treaters.

As I said before some recipes may come and go while others rate "your dough".

Chocolate-Chocolate Chip Cookies

Laura L. Clontz
Las Vegas, Nevada

- 1 3/4 cups flour
- 1/4 teaspoon baking soda
- 1 cup butter or margarine, softened
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 1 cup sugar
- 1/2 cup packed dark brown sugar
- 1 egg
- 1/3 cup unsweetened cocoa
- 2 tablespoons milk
- 1 cup chopped pecans or wainuts
- 6 ounces semisweet chocolate chips

Stir together flour and baking soda. Set aside.

Using an electric mixer, cream butter. Add vanilla and sugars and beat until fluffy. Beat in egg.

At low speed, beat in cocoa, then milk. With a wooden spoon mix in flour just until blended. Stir in nuts and chocolate chips.

Drop by rounded teaspoonfuls onto nonstick or foil lined cookie sheets. Bake in preheated 350° oven for 12 to 13 minutes.

Remove from oven and cool slightly before removing from cookie sheet.

Recipe makes 3 dozen.

Oatmeal Cookies

- 1 tsp. baking soda
- 3 cups oatmeal
- 2 cups flour
- 1/2 cup raisins
- 1/2 cup nuts
- 1 tsp. cinnamon
- 2 cups sugar
- 1 cup melted margarine
- 2 eggs
- 5 tble. milk

Mix all above ingredients well.

Bake at 350° for 10 minutes.

Pat's Cookies

- 1 ib. Imperial margarine (don't substitute)
- 4 cups unsifted all-purpose flour
- 1 tsp. vanilla
- 8 tble. sugar
- 2 tble. heavy cream
- 1 cup coconut

i. Grease cookie sheets
2. Mix above ingredients well.
3. Roll into balls and press thumb print into each ball of dough. Fill with jam of your choice or Solo filling.
4. Bake at 350° until light brown (5 minutes or less).
5. Cool and sprinkle with powder sugar.

Hershey Bar Cookies

- 3/4 cup flour
- 1/2 teaspoon soda
- 1/2 cup brown sugar
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1/2 cup shortening
- 1 egg
- 1 tsp. vanilla
- 1 1/2 cup oatmeal

Mix all ingredients well.

Bake at 350° for 10 minutes or until brown.

Place Hershey square on top after cookies are baked.

Chocolossal Chip Cookies

- 2 cups all-purpose flour
- 1 teaspoon CALUMET® Baking Powder or baking soda
- 1 tsp. salt
- 1 cup (2 sticks) butter or other shortening
- 1 cup firmly packed brown sugar
- 1/2 cup granulated sugar
- 2 eggs
- 2 teaspoons vanilla
- 1 pkg. (10 oz.) BAKER'S® Big Chips - Semi-Sweet Chocolate
- i cup chopped nuts (optional)

Mix flour with baking powder and salt. Beat butter until light and fluffy. Gradually beat in sugars. Mix in eggs and vanilla. Stir in flour mixture until well blended. Stir in chips and nuts.

Drop by rounded teaspoonfuls onto ungreased baking sheets, placing cookies about 2 inches apart. Bake at 375° for 8 minutes or until lightly browned.

Makes about 3 1/2 dozen cookies.

Incredible Peanut Butter Brownies

- 3 cups all-purpose flour
- 1 1/2 teaspoons CALUMET® Baking Powder
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 cup chunky peanut butter
- 1/2 cup (1 stick) butter or margarine
- 1 1/2 cups firmly packed brown sugar
- 2 eggs
- 1/3 cup milk
- 2 teaspoons vanilla
- 1 package (10 oz.) BAKER'S® Big Chips-Semi-Sweet Chocolate

Mix flour with baking powder and salt. Beat peanut butter and butter until light and fluffy. Gradually beat in sugar. Mix in eggs, milk and vanilla. Stir in flour mixture until well blended. Stir in 1 cup of the chips.

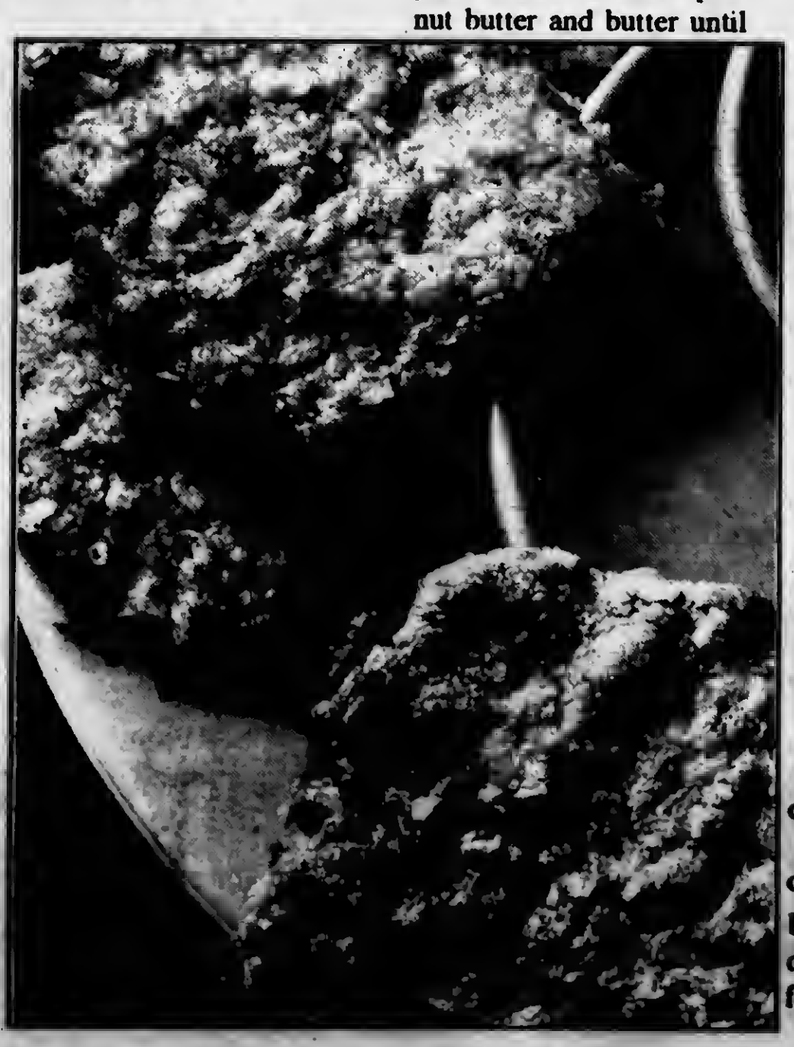
Spread in greased 13 x 9 inch pan. Sprinkle evenly with remaining chips. Bake at 375° for 18 minutes or until golden brown. Cool 10 minutes; then cut into bars or squares.

Makes about 2 1/2 dozen brownies.



Parmesan Chicken

- 1 cup MIRACLE WHIP or MIRACLE WHIP LIGHT dressing
- 1/4 cup (2 oz.) KRAFT 100% Grated Parmesan Cheese
- 1 tsp. dried oregano leaves
- 1 tsp. garlic powder
- 1 broiler-fryer chicken, cut up (3 to 3 1/2 lb.)

Mix dressing, cheese, oregano and garlic powder. Spoon dressing mixture over chicken in 13 x 9 inch baking dish. Place baking dish on oven rack in second from top position.

Bake at 350° for 45 minutes or until chicken is cooked through. Sprinkle with paprika if desired.

CRANBERRY OAT BREAD

- 3/4 cup honey
- 1/3 cup vegetable oil
- 2 eggs
- 1/2 cup milk
- 2 ½ cup all-purpose flour
- 1 cup quick-cooking rolled oats
- 1 teaspoon baking soda
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon ground cinnamon
- 2 cups fresh or frozen cranberries
- 1 cup chopped nuts

Combine honey, oil, eggs and milk in large bowl; mix well. Combine flour, oats, baking soda, baking powder, salt and cinnamon in medium bowl; mix well. Stir into honey mixture. Fold in cranberries and nuts. Spoon into two 8-1/2 x 4-1/2 x 2-1/2-inch greased and floured loaf pans.

Bake in preheated 350°F oven 40 to 45 minutes or until wooden toothpick inserted near center comes out clean. Cool in pans on wire racks 15 minutes. Remove from pans; cool completely on wire racks.

Disney's "Beauty and the Beast" roars into the windy city

With technical wizardry and imaginative design, Disney's "Beauty and the Beast" is transferred from screen to stage enhancing the elements that made the animated film a world favorite at the Chicago Theatre, 175 North State Street, for a limited 19-week engagement.

"Beauty and the Beast" features the animated film's Academy Award® winning score with music by Alan Menken and lyrics by the late Howard Ashman, plus an additional song by Ashman and Menken, "Human Again," not heard in the film, The play also includes seven brand new songs with music by Alan Menken and lyrics by Tim Rice.

"Beauty and the Beast" is the classic story of Belle, a young woman in a provincial town, and the Beast, who is really a young prince trapped in a spell placed by an evil enchantress. If the Beast can learn to love and be loved, the curse will end and he will be transformed to his former self. Time is running out. If the Beast does not learn his lesson soon, he and his household will be doomed for all eternity.

Hair-raising fete a dangling adventure

By Anita Anderson

Hanging by your long hair from a height of 30 feet in the air with no net or protective barrier to block your fall is commonplace activity for 26-year old Marguerite Michelle of Sarasota, Florida.

She's a performer with Ringling Bros. Barnum & Bailey Circus. Michelle braided a special rope with a steel buckle into her waist-length hair before each performance. A steel cable is then attached to the braided bun atop her head and she is hoisted 30 feet above the arena floor for an incredible display of aerial acrobatics for two and one-half minutes.

The performer called me from a supermarket in Cleveland at a pay phone where she was shopping for groceries. Michelle and her husband, Angel Quiros, a high-wire performer, travel in their own RV and do some meal preparation. Cleveland was the last city for the circus performances prior to its Chicago opening November 6.

She is from several generations of circus performers from Mexico and learned the art of hanging by one's hair from her mother, Marguerite Ayala.

"Mom was in the circus all of her life and now lives in the U.S. Dad was an acrobat and one of my three sisters will be in the circus doing what I am doing," Michelle added.

She went into training at the age of 11 and began by hanging from her hair for a few seconds, gradually building up her tolerance and scalp strength. Her type of skill originated in China and requires time and patience.

In 1982, Michelle's mother fell 30 feet to the arena when a cable broke. She broke no bones but remained in a coma for several days. It took three years for her to resume performing.

The young circus performer says being in the circus is like being part of a huge family. Fast friendships are formed and people learn to live together.

As if being surrounded with exotic animals weren't enough stimulation, Marguerite and her husband have four small dogs that travel with them.

"Between the constant packing and traveling and caring for the pets, it adds up to work," she said.

As far as the monetary benefits one gets as a circus performer Michelle says the money is very good but their expenses are also high.

"We pay for all of our expenses on the road with our RV, our costumes and other related expenses so these things add up," she continued.

"But I love seeing other cities and shopping and museums, and performing different audiences," she was quick to add.

As for the future Marguerite and her husband have talked of retiring to a typical United States suburb and raising children.

"I can see myself in a house with a picket fence and my kids attending on school," she said.

But in the meantime, at least for a few years, marguerite can look down on her audiences from a height of 30 feet as she dangles by her hair. She knows of many of those in the audiences are living her dream. White house, picket fence, kids and a dog.....

Ringling Bros. Barnum & Bailey Circus opens at the Rosemont Horizon on Wed., Nov. 6 through Sun., Nov. 17. Call 847-635-6601 and at Chicago's United Center from Nov. 19 through Dec. 1. Call 312-455-4500.

By Her Hair Alone - Hair hanging artist marguerite Michelle bedecked as a rain forest butterfly is suspended midair by only the silken strength of her hair in Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey, opening November 6-17 at the Rosemont Horizon, then moving to Chicago's United Center, November 19-December 1.

Free concert given by accomplished musicians

A concert is being given by the Christian Fellowship Concert Band at the Elim Baptist Church, 10835 S. Pulaski, on Sunday, Nov. 10 at 10:45 a.m.

The fellowship band consists of 40 accomplished musicians from all walks of life. They perform a variety of music such as old fashioned spirituals, hand clapping marches, soothing classical numbers, sacred hymns, and patriotic pieces.

No ticket is needed, but a freewill offering will be taken.

Holiday house decorating on Bridgeview agenda

Bridgeview Park District residents are invited to register for the Park District's Annual Holiday House Decorating Contest by calling the Sports Complex at (708) 594-1818.

There are three categories in which to enter including more than 50% use of homemade props, less than 50% use of homemade props, and a mobile home decorating category.

On the evening of Tuesday, Dec. 17th beginning at 6:30 p.m., judges from the Park District will view all of the registered homes. Judging will be based on originality, light arrangements and use of props.

This contest is free and open to all Park District residents. The registration deadline is December 14.

For more information regarding The Bridgeview Park District Holiday House Decorating Contest, call (708) 594-1818.

Chicago Park District opens Olympic ice rink

By Robert Workman

Mount Greenwood Park, 3721 W. 111th Street, hosted a Ribbon Cutting Ceremony Reception and Skating on Wednesday, November 27, to officially open it's new Olympic ice rink to the public. The rink will be open to children (free) after school weekdays, may be rented out for special events and is open to adults for a fee according to the mayors office. Interested persons should contact the park office at 747-6564 for more information, on fees and times available. This Olympic sized ice skating rink is refrigerated so that the ice will stay solid all winter along---even on warm days according to the city. The rink will be open officially from Thanksgiving to St. Patrick's Day so enjoy and Happy Holidays!

What the use - Village of Evergreen Park Cemetery

By Carlene O'Connor

In a crowded village hall filled to capacity some residents of Evergreen Park had various comments to make concerning purchase of cemetery property. The focus of the meeting was supposed to be on the purchase of the land but, the audience gave proposed uses.

Some examples are: Donald Scare, 2752 W. 90th, "I agree with the purchase and think we should have a sports field for our softball and soccer teams."

Marge Muld, 2751 W. 98th Place, "Many changes have been made since the original agreement. What can be done with the property?"

Lou Basel, 9144 Springfield, Chairman of Park Board, "We need parks and we need them bad. I hope you consider this."

Joe O'Shea, 10107 Turner, "I agree with the board for purchase of the property. I like to see us make it as Lake Katherine in Palos Heights. Something that can be used by all the children in the community. Either a wetlands or walking path."

Helen Cooperson, Evergreen Park, "My dream is to see a living laboratory."

In response, Attorney Canicar said, "Before the year 2001 the property can only be used as a park or cemetery. We will hold more meetings for the public before we decide on its usage."

Canicar also read at the beginning of the meeting from a green flyer distributed to the audience, on restrictions on use of the property. It states as follows:

RESTRICTIONS ON USE OF PROPERTY

The agreement restricts the use of the property being purchased. As the property is zoned "I" Cemetery District, it can only be used for cemetery purposes until such time as the Village conducts a public hear and changes the zoning. The agreement provides that the property must be used only for municipal purposes until May 1, 2001, except for the southerly two acres which can be sold to the St. Nicholas Greek Orthodox Church for cemetery purposes.

After May 1, 2001 the property can be used for any use allowed under the applicable zoning, but it can never be used for any of the following:

1. Any use which is a public or private nuisance.
2. Any use which produces noise or sound that is objectionable due to intermittence, high frequency, shrillness or loudness, which noise or sound affects the Evergreen Cemetery.
3. Any use which produces obnoxious odors which affect the Evergreen Cemetery.
4. Any use which produces noxious, toxic, caustic or corrosive fuel or gas.
5. Any use which produces dust, dirt or fly ash in excessive quantities.
6. Any use which produces fire, explosion or other damaging or dangerous hazard (including the storage, display or sale of explosives or fireworks).
7. Any truck terminal, any towing area and any storage area for non-operating vehicles.
8. Any heavy manufacturing, industrial, distilling, refining, smelting, agricultural (except for raising crops) or mining operation.
9. Living quarters, sleeping apartment, lodging rooms or any residential dwelling unit.
10. Any establishment selling or exhibiting pornographic materials.
11. A massage parlor, or the business of "adult" materials, including, without limitation, magazines, books, movies, videos, and photographs.

The village can sell the property to another entity for development as a cemetery, but in such event SCI has the right of first refusal to repurchase the property for the price being paid by the other entity.

PROPOSED AND CONTEMPLATED USES OF THE PROPERTY

The village has no intention of using the property for anything other than vacant property at this time. Because SCI is leasing the northerly portion of the property for two years, no development would be feasible. Nothing can be developed on this property other than a cemetery without public hearings and a zoning change. Nothing can be developed in violation of the prohibitions in the agreement.

Many people have proposed uses such as a public park, cemetery, bicycle trail, prairie, historical museum, veteran's memorial, industrial park, office park, auto dealership, bank, and small commercial buildings. The village has not contacted any person with regard to any potential use as nothing can be done with the property (other than cemetery or municipal uses) until May 1, 2001. The present Mayor and Trustees have committed that nothing will be constructed without public hearings and further input from the public.

"Christmas Around the World" at Moraine Valley

Students from 16 elementary and junior high schools in the Moraine Valley Community College district will visit the college during this holiday season to decorate evergreen trees as part of the college's fifth annual "Christmas Around the World" project.

Students from the schools made ornaments representing different countries, including Germany, Mexico, Ireland, Lithuania, Holland, Scandinavia, Africa, Egypt, Brazil, and the United States.

In addition to the groups visiting the campus, two additional schools made ornaments, but will not visit the campus. Schools participating in the project are AERO Center, Burbank; AERO Simmons Middle School, Oak Lawn; Central Junior High School, Evergreen Park; Hannum Elementary School, Oak Lawn; Park Lawn School, Oak Lawn; Southwest Christian School, Oak Lawn; Southwest School, Evergreen Park.

The decorated trees are located on the north side of Building L, and between the College Center and Building B, on the campus, 10900 S. 88th Ave., Palos Hills.

Library Special: The Weeks Before Christmas

The Weeks Before Christmas, a special program at the Oak Lawn Public Library, is set for 2 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 8, in the lower level meeting room, 5300 W. 95th St. Those who have found themselves caught up in the Christmas frenzy should plan to attend this charming and interesting performance.

Professional performers Doris Craig Norris and Anna Helen Reuter will have the audience laughing as they depict Christmas shopping, Christmas cards and Christmas fruit cakes.

A rehearsal of the church Christmas pageant brings its usual pitfalls such as the meanest kids in town getting the leads, a rendition based on Barbara Robinson's book "The Best Christmas Pageant Ever."

Hank Schumacher's music and sound effects add to the program's overall entertainment.

The program is cosponsored by the library's Patron Services department and Public Relations. For additional information contact Mary Nelson, 708-422-4990.

Most Holy Redeemer students wish Br. Rice Pilgrims good luck

Brother Rice High School principal Br. Daniel Casey (left) and senior Kevin Carter of Evergreen Park stand in front of some of the cards the school received from Most Holy Redeemer students. The cards, from Mrs. Margaret Zack's fourth grade class at the Evergreen Park school, were a student project to congratulate Brother Rice on the beatification of the school's namesake and founder of the Congregation of Christian Brothers, Brother Edmund Ignatius Rice.

The students also wished good luck to the many pilgrims from Brother Rice who made the trip to Rome for the beatification by Pope John Paul II and the first Mass of Edmund Rice. Br. Casey, who grew up in Most Holy Redeemer Parish, and Carter, who lives there now, were especially grateful for the kind works and good feelings of the children.

Stone Church presents "A Time For Christmas"

By popular demand, the Music and Drama Ministries of the Stone Church will reprise "A Time For Christmas," a Broadway-style musical. Five performances will be presented Dec. 14-16. Curtain times for Saturday and Sunday will be 4 and 7 p.m. Monday's production begins at 7:30 p.m. To assure adequate seating for everyone, advance tickets are required. Donation is $3 each and they are now available at the church office, 6330 W. 127th Street, Palos Heights.

"A Time For Christmas" tells the story of Bill--a man who is too busy for Christmas--and his encounter with a mysterious stranger named Bartholomew who reveals the "spirit in the hearts of Christmases past." Together, they take a musical journey to the shepherds, a medieval castle filled with mosques and madrigals, a church during the Cromwell period when Christmas was outlawed, and a Dickensian orphanage. In the moving conclusion, they return to the present where Bill comes face-to-face with his own hard-heartedness. Audiences will experience music and drama that capture the wonder of Christmas--and how a personal encounter with Jesus Christ is the only way to bring true joy to Christmas today.

"A Time For Christmas" is produced and directed by Minister of Music, Tom Salagaj with Lana Janel and Leisa McNamara as drama coordinators. The Stone Church Adult and Children's Choirs and remaining drama troupe members will pass through several scene and costume changes as this unique story is told through music, drama, and special effects.

"We call ourselves Legionnaires"

An Open Letter To Oak Lawn Area Veterans

We call ourselves Legionnaires because we are part of that great unbroken line of citizen--soldiers who returned from military service to do battle on the home front for the preservation of a great America. We're just everyday people from all walks of life who share the common bond of having served our country in uniform during war time.

Legionnaires can be found in the forefront when it comes to improving or reforming the VA Health Care System. They ensure that veterans and their families affected by Agent Orange receive adequate medical care and attention resulting from the toxic herbicides used in today by the Persian Gulf Syndrome, a mysterious disabling illness reported by thousands of veterans who served in the Desert Storm War.

The Legion donates more blood than any other organization in the country. Legionnaires gave more than $31 million to children and youth programs; they gave more than $9 million to charitable organizations like the United Way and Red Cross. Last year Legionnaires gave nearly 2.8 million hours in volunteer service to their communities.

For 77 years, Legionnaires have fought for veterans benefits. We've fought for a strong military force. In past years we have fought and defended the American Flag around the world to keep the peace. Today, we are fighting for a constitutional amendment to protect the flag from physical desecration... protection from social misfits who feel it's OK to walk on, spit on, urinate on, or burn our flag.

If you would like to become a Legionnaire in the largest and fastest growing wartime veterans group, or need additional information for membership, please call me, Jack Sawin, (708) 425-6734 or (708) 424-2733. Don't put off until tomorrow what you can do today.

Yours in comradeship,

Jack Sawin,

Peace students plan for college

Mr. Rodriguez, of University of Illinois-Chicago, is pictured discussing college options with junior and senior students at Queen of Peace High School. "We invited Mr. Rodriguez to Peace so he could explain the college admission process with our junior and senior students," said Ms. Ag Dwyer, College Counselor. "Approximately 96% of our students continue their education after graduation. We want each Peace student to be familiar with the procedures for applying to the colleges of her choice."

Mr. Rodriguez conducted formal presentations, followed by a question-answer period which allowed Peace students to discuss specific concerns.

Illinois Prudential settlement amended

Illinois Insurance Director Mark Boozell has issued an amended stipulation and consent order to Prudential Insurance Company of America, giving Illinois policyholders the opportunity to share in a proposed federal class-action settlement that enhances an earlier national remediation plan.

Prudential signed a consent agreement with Illinois and various other insurance regulators in July as part of a multi-state restitution program for Prudential policyholders with sales-related complaints. The remediation program set an October 5 deadline for Prudential to mail information on filing claims to clients who purchased over 10.7 million permanent whole life policies between January 1, 1982 and December 31, 1995.

State insurance regulators extended that deadline following a September 24 announcement that the company and plaintiffs' attorneys had reached a tentative settlement in a putative class-action lawsuit pending in U.S. District Court in Newark, NJ. The delay enabled state officials to determine how policyholders could benefit from a single program incorporating the terms of the court settlement with the multi-state remediation program.

Prudential began mailing details of the amended restitution plan, instructions for filing claims, and information on the class-action suit to policyholders on November 4. The actual claims review process will begin no later than Feb. 1, 1997.

The amended plan offers a more liberal claims review process and such restitution options as full premium refunds, continued coverage with no additional premiums due and partial premium refunds. In addition, if the federal settlement is approved, Prudential has agreed to spend a minimum $410 million to settle claims and to pay punitive damages. A hearing on the class-action settlement is scheduled for January 21, 1997.

"Throughout this entire process our chief concern has been to protect the estimated 749,000 Illinois policyholders who may have been financially harmed by Prudential's sale practices," Boozell said. "The amended agreement retains the safeguards outlined in the multi-state restitution plan, while offering enhancements included in the proposed federal class-action settlement. We believe the revised agreement offers Illinoisans the best opportunity for maximum restitution," he said.

"Policyholders who wish to be excluded from the class-action suit must notify the federal court by December 19," Boozell said. "Those consumers preserve the right to file their own lawsuits, but cannot share in the class-action settlement."

"Policyholders who wish to participate are not required to take any action at present. If the court approves the class-action settlement, they will receive a second mailing with another claim form and instructions for filing claims."

Illinois policyholders are encouraged to carefully read all information they receive. Questions are being referred to 1-800-736-8913, a toll-free number staffed by an independent entity hired by Prudential and monitored by state regulators and attorneys for the class-action plaintiffs.

Attend Salome with Moraine Valley

Moraine Valley Community College will sponsor a trip to see Salome at the Lyric Opera House in Chicago on Friday, Dec. 13.

The bus will leave from the College Center, on the campus, 10900 S. 88th Ave., Palos Hills, at 6 p.m., and return at approximately 11:30 p.m. The cost of the trip is $68 per person, and includes ticket and transportation.

Catherine Malfitano stars as Salome, the temptress who will stop at nothing to make John the Baptist her own in this hypnotic masterpiece by Richard Strauss. The opera will be in German, with English projected titles.

For more information, call Workforce Development and Community Services at (708) 974-5745. To register, call the College Service Center at (708) 974-2110.

Library computer terminals popular research tool

Although circulation figures for Oct. showed the biggest monthly drop in 1996, all of the Oak Lawn Public Library public service areas have high activity levels on the computer terminals. In his monthly report to the library board on Nov. 19, Director James Casey indicated that there is the possibility of patrons seeking and securing information by way of printouts from CD-ROM tools and other databases. He said that the need to check out books may be declining as the proportion of accessible information in electronic form expands. Grand total circulation in Oct. was down more than five and a half percent. However, audiovisual circulation increased by more than four percent.

Oak Lawn Public Library will have outside Christmas decorations on the Raymond Ave. side this year for the first time. The Village of Oak Lawn has offered to furnish the lights; the library will supply the power.

In regular business, the board approved payment of $55,698 for library materials: $23,058 for general operating expenses; and $119,153 for library personnel. Policies that were given an annual review were Library Service Fees Policy and Fines and Fees Policy.

The library will be closed all day Friday, December 6, for a Staff Inservice Training Day.

Gaelic Park present Mary McSweeney's exhibition of paintings

Mary McSweeney will present an exhibition of her original oil paintings and limited edition prints of her native Ireland at Gaelic Park, 6119 W. 147th Street, Oak Forest, on Saturday, Dec. 7 from 3 p.m. to 9 p.m. and Sunday, Dec. 8 from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m.

Mary McSweeney was born in Killarney, Ireland and has been illustrating the Irish landscape, its people and traditions since her childhood. She has studied art in Ireland and England and presently resides in the Chicagoland area.

McSweeney's art is readily recognized. Her unique realistic style is a combination of fine detail and her own individuality. She has exhibited her work in many group and solo exhibitions in Ireland, the United States and Canada. One of her major works, a 3 1/2 foot by 7 1/2 foot painting of Achill Island, County Mayo, is permanently on display in the lobby of Gaelic Park.

For further information, call Mary McSweeney at (708) 223-6159 or Gaelic Park, (708) 687-9323.

Theatre Alive

By Georgean Fitzgerald

Executive Producer John R. Lazarra's ambitious endeavor to produce PHANTOM now appearing at the Drury Lane Theatre in Evergreen Park is a monumental mounting effort of great proportions. This is a revival of the Arthur Kopit/Maury Yeston version based on the novel "The Phantom of the Opera" by Gaston Leroux and not to be confused with PHANTOM OF THE OPERA produced by Cameron Macintosh and the Really Useful Theatre Company LTD. in which those familiar and memorable musical numbers such as The Music of the Night and I Remember were so poignant and not to be forgotten. The mounting of a production of this magnitude in an arena space is very ambitious and challenging. Some seating space is lost and some sight lines are brokered in the effort to get this show "up." The basic theme of the original novel upon which both PHANTOM and THE PHANTOM OF THE OPERA are written is essentially the same. The Phantom has lived below the Paris Opera House for most of his life.

Wishing to protect him from the jeers and cruel jests by the citizens of Paris his mother has placed him there because of a hideous face from birth. He grows up in this environment listening to the activities that go on above. The Paris Opera House survives in much the same form described in the novel. It occupies a three acre site and some idea of the labrynthian nature of the building can be appreciated if one considers that the auditorium accounts for less than one fifth of the total space. There are over seventeen stories, seven of which are below the stage level. More important there really is a lake underneath the building. It is an integral part of the design, and the water level acts as ballast, raised and lowered depending on the weight on the stage seven stories above it.

Phantom, known as Erik, played by Larry Adams completely wins the sympathy of the audience due to sensitive and loving attitude, as Christine, (Pamela Harden) the love he seeks is agreeably received by the audience especially with the catchy theme song "Melodie de Paris". Carlotta, the comical no-talent chanteuse is superbly portrayed by Catherine Ford and David Girolmo as a sensitive and loving Phantom's father and Gary Giocomo (Alain Cholet) companion to the chanteuse Carlotta were exceedingly outstanding. Gary begins his fifth year as artistic director/director/choreographer at the Theatre at the Center in Munster, IN. The remainder of the large cast was excellent, but somehow the production itself is abit lackluster. The staging of this production in this particular enclave was most difficult, but you can overlook that as you depart. For while the ending was sad, the overall story was portrayed in such a way that Gaston Leroux would have approved.

For tickets, call 708-422-0404, this Phantom appears through December 31. Happy New Year!

Posing for a daguerre-o-type on the set of the stage of the Paris Opera House is the cast of "Phantom" now playing at Drury Lane Theatre, Evergreen Park. The show, produced by John Lazzara is by Arthur Kopit and Maury Yeston and adapted from Gaston Leroux's turn of the century novel.

FOOD FOR 'SECONDS'

Make Santa's snack extra-special

In many families, after the stockings have been hung it's time to fix Santa a snack. Cookies top the jolly man's list of favorite treats, so why not really wow him this Christmas Eve with an extra-special cookie that's been baked just for him?!

Although we don't know exactly when the custom of leaving cookies for Santa began, we do know that similar customs have European origins. In fact, Dutch boys and girls still fill their wooden shoes with hay for St. Nicholas' horse, and Scandinavian children leave porridge for the Yule men, the Scandinavian equivalent of Santa's elves. While giving Santa cookies and milk is uniquely American, it most likely evolved from these and other European traditions, perhaps as a gentle reminder about giving to others.

Kids love to bake, and creating a really special cookie to give to Santa can provide hours of family fun as well as a holiday memory that can be passed on from one generation to the next. This year, the elves in the Quaker Oatmeal Kitchens have come up with two terrific oatmeal cookies your kids--or grandkids--will love to bake and nibble.

Standing a full ten inches high and chock-full of wholesome whole grain oats, a Snowman Oatmeal Cookie will keep Santa energized for the long night ahead! The classic oatmeal cookie dough is quick and easy to mix, and little hands can easily pat the dough into snowman shapes right on the cookie sheet. After cooling, the real fun begins as the kids use icing and candy to give the snowman a smile and then dress him warmly with a hat, scarf and mittens. There's even room to write Santa's name.

Santa Sandwich Cookies stacked on a plate and accompanied by nutmeg-sprinkled eggnog will please Santa, too. In between two buttery, tender-crisp oatmeal cookies is a layer of creamy frosting. The dough uses on-hand ingredients

SANTA COOKIES

- 1 cup (2 sticks) butter or margarine, softened
- 1 cup sugar
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 1 3/4 cups all-purpose flour
- 1 cup Quaker oats (quick or old fashioned, uncooked)
- 1/4 teaspoon salt (optional)
- One 16-ounce container ready-to-spread vanilla-flavored frosting
- Green or red food coloring (optional)
- Colored sugars and holiday sprinkles

Beat butter, sugar and vanilla until creamy. In separate bowl, combine flour, oats and salt; mix well. Add to butter mixture; mix well. Divide dough in half. Shape each half into a 2-inch diameter roll (approximately 5 inches long). Wrap in plastic wrap; chill about 3 hours or longer.

Heat over to 350°. Unwrap one roll of dough and cut into 1/4 inch slices. Places about 1 inch apart on ungreased cookie sheets. Repeat with remaining rolls. Bake 12 to 14 minutes or until edges are light golden brown. Cool 1 minute on cookie sheet; remove to wire rack. Cool completely. Tint frosting with food coloring, if desired. Spread frosting on bottom of one cooled cookie; top with second cookie. Roll edge of frosting in decorations. Repeat with remaining cookies. Store tightly covered.

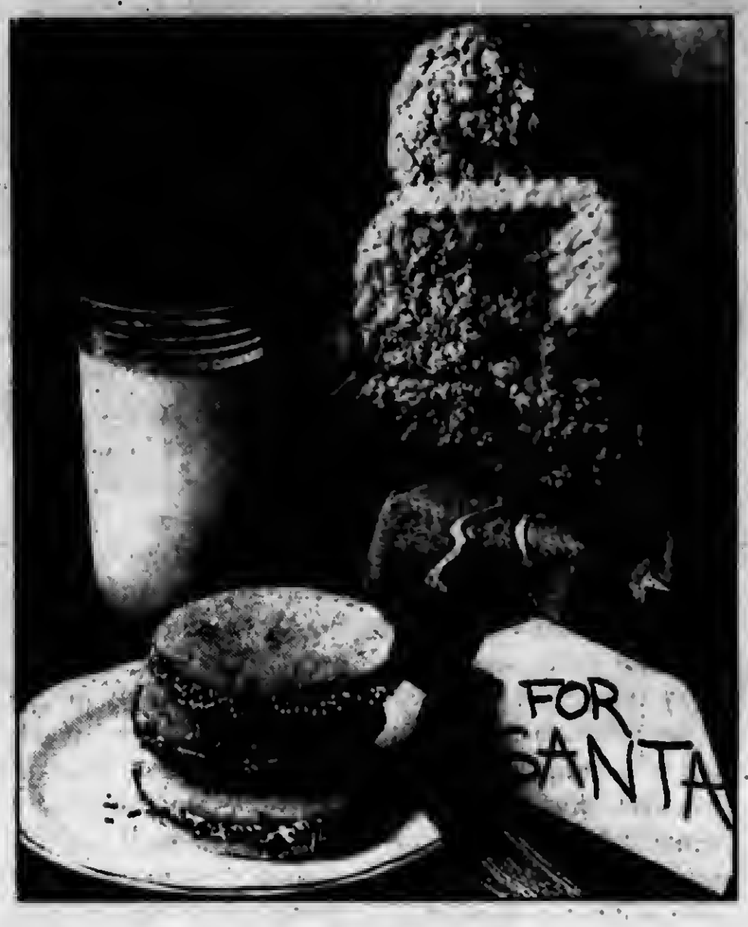
ABOUT 2 DOZEN

SNOWMAN COOKIES

- 1/2 cup (1 stick) butter or margarine, softened
- 2/3 cup firmly packed brown sugar
- 1/4 cup granulated sugar
- 1 egg
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 3/4 cup flour
- 1/2 teaspoon baking soda
- 2 1/2 cups Quaker oats (quick or old fashioned, uncooked)
- Icing in tubes
- Candy sprinkles and small candies

Heat oven to 350°. Lightly grease two cookie sheets. Beat butter and sugars until creamy. Add egg and vanilla; beat well. In separate bowl, combine flour and baking soda; mix well. Add to butter mixture; mix well. Stir in oats; mix well. Divide dough into 4 equal portions. Using hands pat each portion of dough into a 1/4 inch thick snowman on cookie sheet. Bake 12 to 14 minutes or until edges are light golden brown. Cool 2 minutes on cookie sheets; carefully remove to wire rack. Cool completely. Decorate as desired. Store tightly covered.

4 JUMBO COOKIES



Holiday Magic

The Drake Hotel, Chicago, has on display in the main lobby, a winter wonderland of sweets with double tiered electric trains chugging a course through tunnels and bridges of Royal Icing, Gingerbread, Marzipan and candies.

Over the past 10 years, this holiday tradition in The Drake has grown from a small village of 4 feet, to a large village of 16 feet long, by 8 feet wide, by 6 ft. tall. More than 30 gingerbread houses, an intricately created church, spruce trees, tiny street lamps, and mountains and tunnels of snowy white Royal Icing comprise this beautiful winter setting for the electric trains. Created by The Drake's master pastry chef, Raul Cuevas, he used over 200 lbs. of Royal Icing, 300 lbs. of gingerbread, and 50 lbs. of candy, with more than a full week of labor.

Corner Bakery announces special throughout holiday offer

Lettuce Entertain You's Corner Bakery, the contemporary authority on breads, plans to offer a number of special offerings throughout the holiday season. Now with nine locations in the Chicagoland area, the Corner Bakery offers a variety of freshly prepared meals throughout the day such as hearth-baked breads and pizzas, homestyle sweets, great sandwiches, soups and pastas.

For catering, please call (312) 527-1956. A bakery recipe specialty follows.

Try this recipe with a loaf of Corner Bakery fig anise bread for a tasty hors d'oeuvres great for serving at holiday parties.

The Corner Bakery will also offer large pumpkin pies and blueberry & apple rustic tarts

FIG ANISE CRISP

- 1 loaf fig anise bread
- 1 lb. goat cheese
- 1 tablespoon honey
- 1 ounce chopped toasted walnuts
- 1/4 teaspoon chopped rosemary
- salt and pepper

Slice bread 1/8 inch thick (or ask our stores for extra thin slice). Cut each slice in half on an angle. Lay bread evenly in a single layer on a cookie or sheet tray. Toast in over at 350° for approximately 10 minutes or until golden brown in color (may need to flip half way through). Allow to cool.

Prepare goat cheese: soften goat cheese in a food processor. Transfer to a mixing bowl, fold in honey, walnuts and rosemary. Season to taste with salt and pepper.

To prepare hors d'oeuvres, spread a generous tablespoon of honeyed walnut goat cheese on a crisp, and serve. Makes 35-40 hors d'oeuvres.

"Runaways" provides funds for senior members of Richards' Drama Club

"Runaways," a drama, opens Friday and Saturday, December 6th and 7th at 7 p.m. in the Harold L. Richards High School's Little Theatre. This winter play is sponsored by the HLR Drama Club and serves as a major fund-raiser for the club. Profits from the play will provide funds for educational field trips and scholarships for the top two senior members of the International Thespian Society.

"Runaways" takes place at Runaway House and various locations in the city. Runaway House is a haven for young people in distress and it is the setting for this play that deals dramatically and constructively with the growing problem of runaways. It is also the story of Bill and Linda, two young social workers, who work in the program. For them, Runaway House provides a common purpose in life which strengthens the deepening bond between them. The audience will be exposed to both worlds---the anguish of the social workers trying to communicate with their young changes, and the runaways, rejected, unable to go home but afraid to be alone. Both worlds collide almost tragically when Linda learns that her own sister has run away from home.

"Runaways" is directed by Charles Palia and assisted by Nancy Frothingham and intern teacher Frosini Spanos. Palia states that, "With high school theatre, it is very difficult to find new and exciting works that are suitable for high school performances. I try to mix-up the drama season to give the students a variety of theatre experiences. We recently performed "Peter Pan" to sold out houses, and it was fun for the cast and audience as well. But we also need to do something that provides the students with a dramatic theme and a chance to really develop a character. "Runaways" seems to fit this criteria and is providing the students with an enjoyable experience with characters they are able to understand since the show is based on teen and parent relationships."

Oak Lawn Library offers Speakers Bureau Service

The listing for the Oak Lawn Public Library's Speakers Bureau Service currently is being reviewed and updated. Speakers who are listed have requested that their names be included on the Resource List. Now is the time for new speakers to send in their information if they are interested in appearing before local community groups. This should include the speaker's topics for the list and a brief professional or biographical sketch for verification.

Resource speakers may or may not have a fee. That is not a part of the listing. However, direct contact with the speakers will furnish that information for program planners.

Community groups may request a list of speakers to use in their program planning. The updated list will be ready for distribution after the first of the year. Contact Mary Nelson, public relations and development officer, 708-422-4990.

Sertoma provides therapy for stuttering and dialect concerns

For those individuals with stuttering or dialect/accent concerns, the Sertoma Speech and Hearing Center in Palos Hills offers a full range of individual and/or group therapy.

For stuttering, speech language pathologists can provide individual therapy that focuses on reducing the speaking rate, and identifying and modifying the dysfluencies that cause the problem. Most clients who complete the program show significant improvement. Progress depends upon motivational level, and ability to follow through on instructions involving modification techniques.

Individuals wishing to reduce dialects or accents can improve their speech, for both professional and social reasons. Accent reduction programs and therapy help modify an accent regardless of the speaker's language background. Special strategies help the speaker to continue carrying the newly learned speech into daily social and business settings.

Center staff members who conduct the programs are licensed speech/language pathologists. In addition to group therapy, individual therapy hours are flexible to accommodate the needs and time constraints of the clients. As is the case for all Center services, scaled fees may be available on proof of need.

For information, please contact the Center's Palos Hills office at (708) 599-9500.

Choose your fresh Christmas tree at tree farms

Tired of your artificial Christmas tree, and not sure of the freshness of those real trees being sold on the vacant lot on the corner? Why not plan a family outing to one of the many Christmas tree farms located throughout Illinois? Trees you cut yourself last much longer than those being sold on the corner.

A listing of Illinois Christmas tree farms is available free of charge by calling 217-782-2361 or 312-814-2070.

Don't rain on my parade

by Annette Dixon

On Sunday, November 24th, Oak Lawn had a rainy parade, but the spirit of the community brought sunshine into the hearts of adults and children.

Featured were a host of floats, a high school band, and the tree lighting ceremony.

The Legend Of St. Lucia

It is December 13th in Sweden. Outside, dawn is breaking. In each Home, the eldest daughter walks from room to room, serving coffee and cakes to her family. She is dressed in a long white robe on her head is a halo of lighted candles. She represents Saint Lucia, a maiden of the Roman Empire who was martyred for helping the early Christians. Because Lucia gave her dowry to poor Christians on her wedding day, she was condemned to be burned at the stake. But the flames did not harm her and her executioners finally killed her with a sword.

The people of Sweden made her their heroine and it is St. Lucia's Day that begins their Christmas season.

Treasurer Topinka's Bank At School numbers adding up

Illinois State Treasurer Judy Baar Topinka's Bank goal for 1996. Since Treasurer Topinka's administration began in 1995, the number of students enrolled in the BAS program have increased from 38,000 to more than 50,000 students. This is an overall increase of 32 percent. In addition, the program has expanded to cover half of Illinois counties. Currently, 51 counties are utilizing the BAS curriculum which is an increase of 22 counties or 56 percent.

"The Bank At School program puts all the participants into a winning situation," Teasurer Topinka said. "Bank At School fills the needs of students, educators and financial institutions. Students learn financial survival skills for their future, educators are given a ready-made curriculum that works and financial institutions have a proven community service program."

Bank At School, which is administered by Treasurer Topinka, links financial institutions and schools to the curriculum which is designed to teach children the fundamentals of money management and help build financial skills. The program is extremely successful throughout the state, with schools and financial institutions signing up daily.

Teachers, administrators and students from across the state have commended the program and the many benefits it brings. Just this year, Illinois State Board of Education Superintendent Joseph Spagnolo and Chicago Public School CEO Paul Vallas endorsed the Treasurer's BAS curriculum. Spagnolo commended Treasurer Topinka's program and said it brings "practical living skills into the classroom."

For more information on the Treasurer's Bank At School program and how to get started, contact the Treasurer's Office in either Chicago at (312) 814-1700 or Springfield at (217) 782-2211 and ask to speak with a Bank At School coordinator.

Red ribbons remind motorists to drive sober

The Illinois Department of Natural Resources is joining Mothers Against Drunk Driving (MADD) and local, state, and national organizations in urging motorists to display red ribbons on their vehicles between Thanksgiving and New Year's Day as a reminder to drive sober during the holidays and throughout the year.

"Again this year, Mothers Against Drunk Driving is asking motorists to 'Tie One on For Safety' to send a clear and resounding message that drunken driving has not gave away," said DNR Director Brent Manning.

The Department of Natural Resources is supporting this national public awareness campaign by making red ribbons available to motorists and asking them to promote safety by tying the ribbon to their vehicle's outside rearview mirror, antenna or other visible location.

"MADD is focused on saving lives and preventing injuries," said Cheryl Beard, president of the Sangamon County MADD Chapter. "This program will help increase awareness during the holiday season by changing the meaning of the 'tie one on.'"

The Department's Conservation Police will have the ribbons tied to their vehicles throughout December and will promote Friday Dec. 20 as "Lights On For Life Day." On this day, motorists are asked to drive with their vehicle lights on to show support for keeping alcohol and drug impaired drivers off the road.

According to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration 17,274 alcohol-related deaths were reported nationwide last year compared to 16,600 in 1994. In Illinois, 681 alcohol-related fatalities were reported last year, 25 more than the previous year's total.

Alcohol and drugs also are a major factor contributing to boating and snowmobile fatalities in Illinois. During 1995, nine of 15 boating fatalities and two of four snowmobile fatalities involved the use of drugs or alcohol.

The Department of Natural Resources will use a $123,300 state grant to combat boating and motor vehicle DUI's. Conservation Police will increase law enforcement efforts to interdict alcohol-impaired drivers at boat launch ramps and on Department-owned lands. The grant is provided to the Department of Natural Resources by the Illinois Department of Transportation, Division of Traffic Safety.

Individuals who want a red ribbon to display on their vehicle can obtain one by calling the MADD state office 312/782-6266.

Motorists, who are unable to obtain a specially printed MADD ribbon, can participate by tying red gift ribbon to their vehicle.

The Grand Opening of the "Idea Factory" highlights list of January 1997 happenings

"Idea Factory" is now open! The newest permanent exhibit at the Museum, "Idea Factory," is the centerpiece of the Museum's new Imagination Station learning zone. "Idea Factory" is a learning-through-play environment that provides unique opportunities for children to discover scientific principles for themselves. It is the centerpiece of the new Imagination Station, a themed area of exhibits designed specifically for children aged 0-10 and their families. "Idea Factory" is separated into three age-appropriate activity areas, 0-36 months, 3-5 years and 6-10 years, to provide the optimal learning experience for each age group.

Holiday celebrations come to a close. "Christmas Around the World" and "Holidays of Light" explore the various ethnic traditions celebrated throughout the world with ornately decorated Christmas trees, breathtaking displays of Hanukkah, Kwanzaa, Chinese New Year and many others. Live performances contribute to the festive feeling! Both festivals continue through January 5.

Earth 2U, Exploring Geography" ends. Blending education and entertainment, this exhibition makes connections between people, places, and the environment, helping children to understand the world's ever-changing nature. Highlights include a walk-in glove, giant maps of all sizes, interactives that will allow visitors to "create" floods and tornadoes, a giant population clock and an interactive kitchen. Continues through January 5.

Come explore with "K'NEXploration." Beginning January 17, visitors can explore the interactive building exhibition that combines a spectacular visual display with a hands-on, educational activity area. Four dioramas are filled with K'NEX creatures and constructions, and 1 interactive workstations enable visitors to build K'NEX models from instruction or imagination. Continues through May 13.

Medicines: The Inside Story" opens January 31. This exhibition explores how medicines operate in the body, and examines questions ranging from how we define "Medicine" to how medicines are approved and where research will lead doctors next. Through June 1.

For more information, call (773) 684-1414, or outside the Chicago area, 1-800-GO TO MSI (1-800-468-6674). Hearing-impaired visitors can call the TDD number at (773) 684-3323.

One month memorial of Chicago Ridge's first lady

By Annette Dixon

Chicago Ridge first lady passed away Wednesday, November 20, 1996, after a brief illness.

Virginia Siegel, wife of Chicago Ridge Mayor Eugene Siegel has been a regular at many fund raisers, parties, etc.

This reporter has been acquainted with Virg for many years. The first impression of Virg is the closeness she had with her husband. She worked closely with Gene for years. In fact, Gene stated, "I don't know what I'll do without her, we went and did everything together!"

This beautiful lady was always friendly, personal and informative to me. If memorials are sent please send them to your favorite charity in the name of Virginia L. Siegel. The Siegel family thanks all who had paid the respects.

Medicare pays for flu shots

Because statistics show that older people are twice as likely as younger people to get pneumonia or flu, the Public Health Service recommends an annual flu shot for people over age 65, even if they are generally healthy. The cost of both pneumonia vaccinations and flu shots are covered by Medicare Part B (medical insurance) for those age 65 or older.

Evergreen Park Village Pantry appreciates support

"Thank You!" to all those who contributed---school children who had food drives; senior citizens who gave food and donations from their treasury; churches that had collections of food and money; also individuals and businesses making contributions. Because of you the Village Pantry Coalition had a very successful Food Drive and was able to share with those in the Village who were in need.

During the month of December the Pantry Volunteers will be putting together food baskets for Christmas for many less fortunate people in the community. Donations would be greatly appreciated.

In Denmark, Norway and Sweden, Christmas dinner includes rice pudding which has a single almond in it. Whoever gets the almond will have good luck throughout the year, people believe.

Ryan announces $1.5 million in library grants

Secretary of State George H. Ryan announce that more than $1.5 million in federal grants are being awarded to 25 technology projects at libraries across Illinois to enhance the reach of computer-based resources for all ages.

"These grants will help libraries throughout Illinois build upon the technology they already have in place to better serve the public's needs," said Ryan, who is also State Librarian. "Libraries are entry ports to the information age and we need to do everything we can to increase the capabilities of libraries."

The grants, totaling $1,536,750 are divided into three categories: funds to help build community and regional information networks, grants to launch new and innovative public library service and money for resource libraries in major urban areas.

The Chicago Public Library will receive $327,056 in grant funds from M.U.R.L. The grant funds will be used to enhance the reference collections at all branches of the Chicago Public Library. Funds will be used to purchase electron reference tools for the Library's on-line public catalog, based upon the results of a comprehensive survey of both children and adult user needs.

Woman Foundation offers gift idea to help women and children in crisis

Holiday gift-givers can now make a donation to many of Chicago's less visible non-profit organizations that asist women and children in crisis situations, through the Today's Chicago Woman Foundation. The donation can be made in an individual's name in lieu of a Christmas card or gift. Recipients will receive a certificate from the Foundation stating that a contribution has been made in their name.

Those interested in contributing should send a check as well as the names and addresses of the recipients to:Today's Chicago Woman Foundation, 150 E. Huron St., Suite 1225, Chicago, IL 60611; or eall (312) 951-7600, ext. 102.

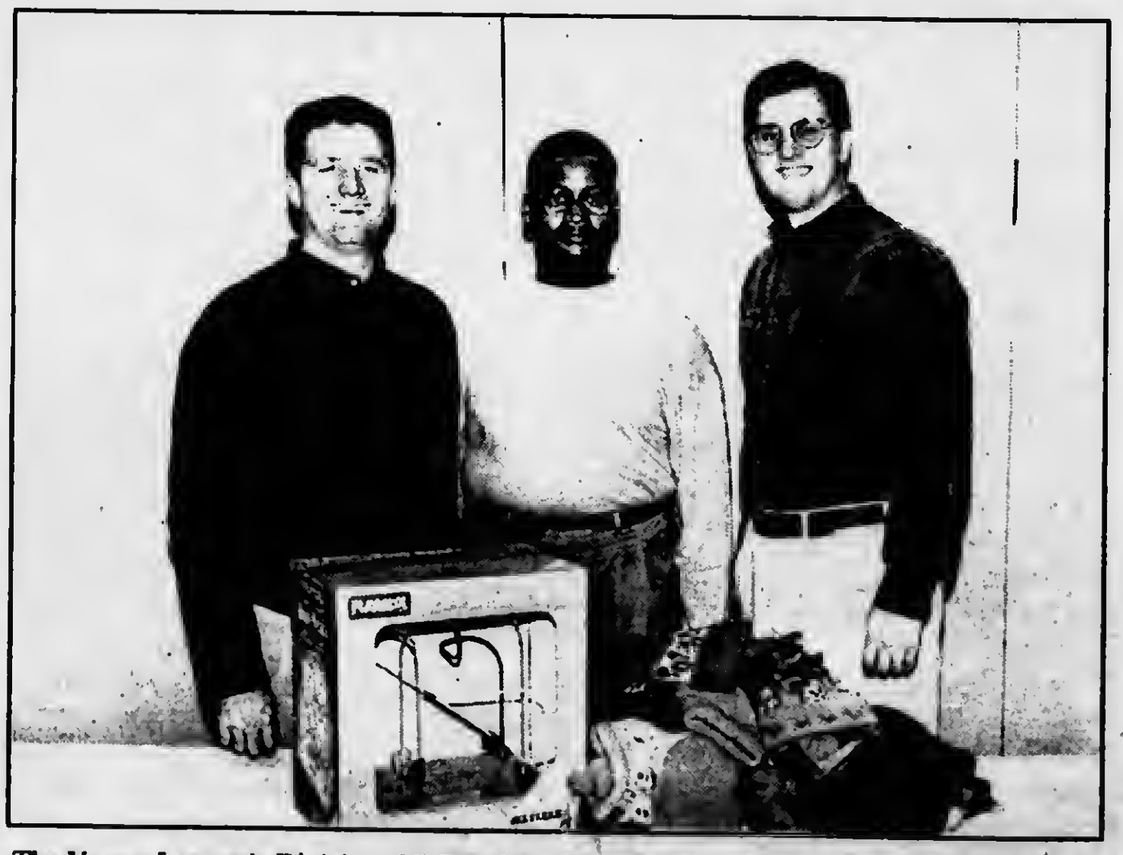
Young lawyers help kids who await foster placement

The Young Lawyer's Division (YLD) of the Illinois State Bar Association, for the second consecutive year, collected for abused and neglected children who spend time in Juvenile Court awaiting foster home or shelter placement.

The collection drive took place at the ISBA Mid-Year Meeting on Dec. 14, at the Sheraton Chicago Hotel Towers, 301 E. North Water, Chicago.

"These children end up in Juvenile Court through no fault of their own," said attorney Shawn Kasserman, chairman of the ISBA Young Lawyer's Division. "Many of them have been suddenly taken from abusive parents and arrive at court with inadequate clothing and nothing to keep them occupied during their court visit, which can stretch up to ten hours."

Attorneys and the public who wish to donate money, clothing, toys or other items can make contribution by mail to the ISBA office at 424 S. Second St., Springfield, IL 62701. Checks are welcome and should be made payable to "LEARN Foundation-YLD's Children's Assistance."



The Young Lawyer's Division (YLD) of the Illinois State Bar Association collected toys, books and warm clothing for children who, through no fault of their own, must spend time at Juvenile Court, waiting during proceedings that may affect their future. Helping plan the drive are YLD members (from left) Randall Rings, Rafael Taylor and Michael J. Scotti, III.

Senator Simon caps congressional career

Stepping down after 22 years in Congress, Sen. Paul Simon, D-IL., leaves a legislative legacy of accomplishments that have helped people from the South Side of Chicago to Southern Illinois to South Africa.

On the home front, Simon had a hand in shaping policies affecting education, social security, welfare, television violence, immigration, gambling, gun control, privacy, budget matters, transportation, housing, and workplace safety.

Education is perhaps the field where Simon left his most important mark. Among his many initiatives, he played a leading role in improving educational opportunities for children with disabilities.

An outspoken defender of civil rights, Simon worked to eliminate discrimination against minorities and women.

As a member of the Senate Judiciary Committee, Simon's workload involved the Constitution, courts and crime-fighting laws. He chaired hearings that led to passage of the Brady Bill.

As chairman of the subcommittee that considers amendments to the Constitution, Simon blocked several proposals to alter the Bill of Rights, but he persistently pursued one proposal to change the charter.

Sometimes described by opponents as "a tax and spend liberal," Simon authored an amendment in his House years that resulted in a change in the Consumer Price Index that has saved billions of dollars each year.

The Senator saw the potential for the use of DNA as a crime-solving tool and promoted research into the now widely-used forensic method called genetic fingerprinting. Simon passed the Missing Childrens' Act. The law authorized an expanded use of the FBI's crime information computer and established a Missing Childrens' Center. Simon introduced legislation that led to the designation of five high-speed rail corridors. The last Simon-sponsored bill that was signed by President Clinton authorized $55 million for research into reducing the cost of desalination.

Among the final pieces of legislation that he steered to passage was a bill that created a federal commission to examine the rapid expansion of legal gambling.

On foreign affairs, Simon sought improved relations with what was the Soviet Union and worked to establish scientific and cultural contacts that contributed to the peaceful conclusion to the Cold War. He later took the lead in designing a bill to provide financial aid to emerging democracies in Eastern Europe. He also was a leading advocate for Israel and the peace process in the Middle East. He played a key role in securing a U.S. response to the 1992 Somalia crisis. He also helped keep U.S. economic pressure on the apartheid government of South Africa until it made a peaceful transition to a full-fledge democracy.

He voted against tax cuts that worsened the deficit and drove up the hidden tax on increased interest rates. During his last reelection campaign, he urged the University of Illinois to drop Chief Illiniwek because the mascot was offensive to Native America. A longtime supporter of the United Nations, Simon the sole senator to voice public opposition to the embarrassing attempt by the United States to deny a second term to Secretary-General Boutros Boutros-Ghali. On the last roll call of his career, Simon was one of only two senators who voted against legislation because it included provision that was unfair to workers. The anti-union provision had been grafted onto an unrelated bill at the behest of a corporation's lobbyists in a way that Simon said symbolized the corruption of the federal campaign financing system that he had fought to reform.

Among his other accomplishments were:

• Nongovernmental monitoring of entertainment television to reduce violence, and a resultant significant reduction in broadcast television violence, and slight reductions in cable television violence.

•Savings to governments in Illinois, including everything from a $106 million rescue for Chicago public schools to $11 million for Illinois libraries.

• Action to improve air traffic safety in the Chicago area.

• Leadership on local projects, including everything from saving the Joliet Arsenal Land for the public to efforts to save the East St. Louis waterfront for significant public development.

• Aid to Illinois businesses, from assistance on Export-Import Bank loans to patent protection.

• Assistance in saving the Job Corps when its existence was threatened.

• Assistance to Puerto Rico on a number of fronts.

Now making the transition from a senator to a Saluki, Simon in January plans to join the faculty of Southern Illinois University at Carbondale. He will teach, write and run a newly-formed think tank named for him.

Skate on State opened until March 2

Sears Skate on State, Chicago's most popular outdoor ice-skating rink located at State and Randolph, is opened daily (except Christmas Day) from 9 a.m. until 7:15 p.m. through March 2. Admission is free and skate rental is $3 for adult and $2 for children under 12.

St. Rita honors 5th year teacher

St. Rita High School proudly recognizes the efforts of 5th year teacher Mr. Jay Standring. Although Standring has been on the faculty of St. Rita High School for five years his career in education spans over 20 years.

For 22 years Standring taught at Leo High School, he then joined the Theology department at St. Rita High School and has been more than happy ever since.

Standring is teaching in the St. Rita theology department and coaching football and baseball. Standring's approach to teaching and coaching is simple but with profound effects. Walking by a Standring classroom or watching him on the sporting field shows Standring as a colorful character with a lot of animated emotion.

"I teach a wonderful genre of material and bring realistic terms and communication", notes Standring. "The kids respond to the truth and I just try and be myself at all times, a real and whole person who acknowledges the reality of life".

St. Xavier appoints Director of Sponsored Programs and Research

Elizabeth A. DeRenzo, a resident of Oak Lawn, has been appointed as the new Director of Sponsored Programs and Research at Saint Xavier University. In the four years that she has been at Saint Xavier University, DeRenzo has held positions in the Institutional Advancement Office as Grant Writer, Sponsored Programs and most recently as Associate Director of Development, Corporate and Foundation Relations.

In this new position at the University, DeRenzo will facilitate the pursuit and procurement of resources for faculty research and development, and lead the University's search for government grants.

According to DeRenzo, her top priorities are to build a strong grants office, to be both an advocate and a coach to faculty and university departments in obtaining research and program funds.

Prior to her arrival at the university, DeRenzo was Assistant to the Associate Vice Chancellor for Academic Affairs at the University of Illinois at Chicago; Coordinator of Extramural Programs (UIC); and Coordinator of Services, Sites and Registration Information at Richard J. Daley College.

Christmas in Frankfort not complete without horse-drawn carriage ride

Holiday visitors to Frankfort who want to experience the joys of an old-fashioned Christmas now have another adventure awaiting them in "the town with 1890's charm;" the horse-drawn carriage ride.

Long known for its yesteryear appeal--especially around the holidays--historic downtown Frankfort now boasts daytime and evening horse-drawn carriage rides. Featuring elegantly decorated carriages and experienced, top-hatted drivers, this unusual service promises to be the start of a new tradition for families who want to view the town's lighted trees, festooned windows and quaint shops from a new perspective.

To obtain a Holiday Season Schedule, phone Jim & Becky's & Carriage Service at 708-534-7600. Reservations are recommended and gift certificates are available.

The Frankfort carriage rides will continue through December, then resume in April 1997. Jim & Becky's Horse & Carriage Service also offers hayrides, sleigh rides, and carriage rides for weddings, proms, and business or family outings. Tickets for post-prom carriage rides go on sale Feb. 15.

Evergreen Park resident honored by Lincoln Academy

The Lincoln Academy of Illinois honored 51 of the state's top college seniors at the 22nd Annual Student Laureate Awards Ceremony on November 23 at the State Capitol's House of Representatives chamber in Springfield.

Each Student Laureate received the Student Laureate Medallion, a certificate of achievement and a $150 cash award presented by Governor and Mrs. Jim Edgar. A reception of the Illinois Executive Mansion, hosted by Governor and Mrs. Edgar, followed the ceremony.

Kurt E. Galbreath, of Evergreen Park, is a student of Illinois Wesleyan University received a Laureate Award.

The Lincoln Academy's Student Laureate Awards are presented for overall excellence in curricular and extra-curricular activities to seniors from the four-year, degree-granting colleges and universities in Illinois. Laureate nominations are submitted by each school and reviewed by the Lincoln Academy.

Grand Opening held for Little Company's Health Education Center

It was a special event for people of all ages when Little Company of Mary Hospital and Health Care Centers invited the community to the Grand Opening of its Health Education Center in Chicago Ridge Mall on Saturday, November 9. The center is located in the mall at 9500 S. Ridgeland Avenue in Chicago Ridge.

The younger guests at the opening met Marvel Comics' Spider-Man, who posed for photos, signed autographs, gave away comic books and offered tips on staying healthy, being safe and staying in school.

Adults were offered free 10 minute neck and shoulder massages as a break from shopping, or while their children met Spider-Man.

Both events were typical of the ongoing activities at the center. While there might not be regular visits from superheroes, kids will have the opportunity to learn first aid, baby sitting skills, being home alone, and eating well.

Massage therapy will be a mainstay of the center, with full body massages and the head and neck versions available at special times throughout the year, by appointment.

Adult health education will be a staple, with topics ranging from well baby care to osteoporosis, and from smoking cessation to diabetic control. Classes will be offered throughout the day and evening.

For more information about the Little Company of Mary Health Education Center, please call 708-423-5774.

Musical version of "A Christmas Carol" runs through December 10th at Candlelight

Ebenezer Scrooge (David Perkovich) learns the true meaning of Christmas from Tiny Tim (Daniel Soso) in "A Musical Christmas Carol." Candlelight Dinner Playhouse.

Candlelight's Arts Resource for Children presents a spectacular musical production of the holiday classic "A Musical Christmas Carol" through December 30.

"A Musical Christmas Carol" stars David Perkovich as Ebenezer Scrooge. Kent Lewis plays Bob Crachit, the loyal clerk who gets fired on Christmas eve. Tiny Tim, Crachit's lame, yet cheerful little boy, is played alternately by Adam Krupowicz and Daniel Soso. Scrooge's former partner, the late Jacob Marley is played by Craig Bennet, who also portrays the ghost of Christmas present. The other two significant spirit visitors are played by Frances Limoncelli as the ghost of Christmas past and Dan MacDonald as the ghost of Christmas future as well as Narrator of the production.

Performances are scheduled through December 30, weekdays at 10 a.m.; Mondays & Tuesdays, 7:45 p.m.; Saturdays, 10 a.m. & noon. Breakfast, lunch and dinner available for select performances. Prices are as follows: Adults, $17.50 show only, $24.50 with breakfast or lunch, $27.50 with dinner; Children under 14, $8.50 show only, $15.50 with breakfast or lunch, $18.50 with dinner. FOOD FOR 'SECONDS'

Beef pot roast-an American favorite

"When you think of American favorites, pot roasts immediately come to mind--they're a part of our culture, and everyone has a favorite version," says Betty Rosbottom, author of American Favorites (Chapters Publishing, 1996).

In creating Pot Roast with Rich Root Vegetable Sauce, Rosbottom wanted to preserve the traditional pot roast--gently simmering a beef round tip roast with aromatic vegetables, herbs and seasonings until the beef is fork-tender--but give it a contemporary twist. Instead of the four-thickened gravy that often accompanied Mom's pot roast, Rosbottom's features a savory sauce which is actually a purée of the vegetables and cooking liquid. This richly flavored sauce tastes delicious drizzled over slices of beef and mashed potatoes.

Beef pot roast has always been a comfort-style family meal for the Rosbottom family, but not that entertaining is often more casual, Rosbottom finds beef pot roast to be a perfect main course choice. Simple and satisfying home-cooked comfort food like pot roast always appeals to her guests. For Rosbottom, pot roast is a dish that represents our roots and preserves the tradition of the American kitchen.

A pot roast is easy to cook, too. Yes, it takes a while to simmer a pot roast to fork-tenderness, but it's unattended cooking for the most part, so Rosbottom uses this time to set the table and prepare side dishes and dessert. Remember, a pot roast is 1-2-3 easy--slowly and evenly brown the pot roast; add liquid; cover tightly and gently simmer (boiling only toughens the meat).

Rosbottom accompanies pot roast and potatoes with steamed green beans, hot cornbread and a dessert of pears baked with a hint of honey and ginger.

POT ROAST WITH RICH ROOT VEGETABLE SAUCE

Total preparation and cooking time: 3 1/2 hours

4 pound boneless beef round tip roast
2 tablespoons olive oil
3/4 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1 medium onion, coarsely chopped
4 medium ribs celery, cut into 1 inch pieces
3 medium carrots, cut into 1 inch pieces
1 teaspoon dried thyme leaves or 1 tablespoon fresh thyme
3 sprigs Italian parsley
2 bay leaves, broken in half
3 large cloves garlic, crushed
1 can (28 ounces) Italian-style tomatoes, drained, coarsely chopped
1 can (13 3/4 to 14 1/2 ounces) ready-to-serve beef broth
1 cup dry red wine

1. Heat oven to 350°. In 5-quart ovenproof Dutch oven, heat oil over medium-high heat until hot. Add beef roast; brown evenly. Remove roast; season with salt and pepper. Add onions, celery and carrots to same pan; cook and stir until onions are tender, about 5 minutes. Add thyme, parsley, bay leaves, garlic, tomatoes, beef broth and wine; stir to blend. Return roast to pan; bring to a boil.
2. Cover tightly; transfer pan to oven. Cook in 350° oven 3 hours or until beef is tender, turning roast over halfway through cooking.
3. Remove roast; keep warm. Strain cooking liquid; reserve. Remove and discard bay leaves from vegetables. Purée vegetables in blender or food processor fitted with a metal blade. Add 2 cups cooking liquid through feed tube with the motor running. (Sauce may be kept warm or reheated in a saucepan, over low heat.)
4. Carve roast into thin slices; serve with sauce.

Makes 6 to 8 servings (serving size: 1/6 or 1/8 of recipe.)

What's brewing in Oak Lawn

Longford Coffee, a new business in Oak Lawn, specializing in fine coffee, pastries and jams is offering tips on how to get the most out of your gourmet coffee dollar.

- Freshness is the key to a good cup of coffee and Longford helps by shipping the coffee beans just days after roasting. Ground coffee starts to loose its rich full flavor in about one week.
- Grinding the beans right before you need them releases the fullness of the bean and adds a distinct savory flavor to your coffee.
- Store your coffee in a dry airtight container in the refrigerator.
- Coffee beans can be stored in freezer for several months.

Longford also offers scones, from a recipe that has been in the family for generations... preserves, made fresh from New Zealand's finest produce... syrup, and from fruit grown right in the marker's yard. In addition, the catalog features fudge and biscotti that you simply can't get anywhere else.

Letter to the Editor

It is a privilege to serve in the Illinois General Assembly. I sincerely thank the voters of the 48th Representative District for their vote of confidence - allowing me the opportunity to continue to serve as their State Representative.

To all of my constituents, I give my heartfelt thanks for their support and my pledge to continue my commitment to good government.

To my friends and many volunteers who gave so unselfishly of their time, talent and efforts, again, my heartfelt thanks and appreciation. Without the endless hours and hard work they so enthusiastically put into the campaign, our victory would not have been possible. Each one will always have a special place in my heart.

To my opponent, please accept my wishes for your success in future endeavors.

Warm Regards,
Anne Zickus

Stone Church presents "Christmas Fantasia"

"Christmas Fantasia", a delightful tapestry of favorite Christmas carols and best-loved songs of the season, will be presented at 6 p.m. on Sunday, Dec. 22, at the Stone Church, 6330 W. 127th Street, Palos heights.

The presentation will feature the Adult Choir, Children's Choir, Men's Chorus, soloists, and a congregational "Sing-Along." There will be a special dramatic reading of the Biblical Christmas story by Pastor Epperson.

The Adult choir will close out the program with a stirring new arrangement of "The Hallelujah Chorus" from George Frideric Handel's "The Messiah".

No tickets will be necessary for this evening, although the audience is urged to arrive early for good seating.

There will be a Candlelight Christmas Eve service at 6 p.m. on Tuesday, Dec. 24, at the Stone Church, 6330 W. 127th St., Palos Heights. There will also be a one hour service at 10 a.m. on December 25, Christmas Day. All area residents are invited to attend these special worship services.

Special New Year's Eve activities are being planned for Tuesday evening, December 31. For the adults, the evening will begin at 9 p.m. with the showing of the film, "The Music Box." This will be followed by a live drama presented by Barry Gilbert. In "My Name Is Thomas," he portrays the life and character of Thomas the disciple. Afterward, there will be a time of food and fellowship in the Fellowship Hall at a cost of $3 per person. To take part in this, participants must sign up and pay at the church office by December 22.

Moraine Valley hosts Motor Activity Program

More than 70 participants competed in 19 events at the 13th annual Motor Activity Program at Moraine Valley Community College. The event was sponsored by the college's Therapeutic Recreation Program and the South Cook Area 20 Illinois Special Olympics.

The coaches cheered and clapped, prodded and encouraged. They even tickled their athletes to get them to perform better.

It was all part of the 13th annual Motor Activity Program, sponsored by the South Cook Area 20 Illinois Special Olympics and Moraine Valley Community College's Therapeutic Recreation Program.

More than 70 participants, ranging in age from 8 to 60, came to the college to compete on Nov. 20.

The event was created to provide the more physically and mentally challenged with an opportunity to compete in 19 different events in six categories, including strength, conditioning, dexterity, throwing, striking, and kicking. The day began with an opening torch ceremony, and ended with an awards ceremony.

Participants came from six different area agencies, including AERO Special Education Cooperative, Burbank, Bethshan, Palos Heights; Kennedy School for Exceptional Children, Palos Hills; Howe Development Center, Tinley Park; Park Lawn Residential Facility, Oak Lawn; and Speed Development Center, Chicago Heights.

Christmas rituals of immigrants affected by life in new country

For new immigrant families, Christmas in the United States often became a new holiday--a Christmas patchwork quilt of sorts, made of old, altered and newly invented customs.

So says Elizabeth Pleck, a professor of American history and of human development and family studies at the University of Illinois. Pleck, who is writing a book about the evolution of American family rituals, also has found that long-lost Christmas customs have been revived and refashioned by newcomers, and even borrowed from other cultures. Consider the case of immigrant Jews in America.

As early as 1900, some American rabbis began condoning the celebration of Christmas among Jews, arguing that it was a secular, rather than a sacred, holiday. However, in the 1920's, pressures from the marketplace, the child-centered Jewish culture, and the desire to provide a Jewish alternative to the Gentile holiday prompted the rediscovery of Hanukkah, the minor Jewish festival commemorating the victory of Jewish patriot Judas Maccabee over the Syrians. Pleck writes that various "champions of Hanukkah remade the festival to be a special holiday for children."

For Jews, Christmas in America has been a "battleground," Pleck said, "that has divided Jews from Christians, and caused a great deal of conflict even among Jews."

Many obscure or moribund Christmas customs were revived in America in the 1960's as part of the new interest in ethnic consciousness. One of them involved Santa Lucia. The festival for the martyred maiden who brought food to fellow Christians in the catacombs and who then was mutilated and murdered by the Romans, had been confined to western Sweden. It was a day devoted to drunkenness and revelry. Santa Lucia was rarely celebrated among Swedes in the United States until the 1960's, when, in the largely Swedish-American town of Lindsborg, Kansas, it became a way to boost Christmas business.

In 1962, Lindsborg began a public performance of Santa Lucia. Local girls, dressed in white robes and crowned with candle-lit evergreen wreaths, served cookies and coffee to holiday shoppers. With the addition of food and art sales, musicians and folk dances, the program attracted tourists and caught on in the Midwest, especially in Bishop Hill, IL, the Andersonville section of Chicago, and St. Paul, Minn.

Between 1900 and 1920, first-generation Polish immigrants, most of them working class celebrated Christmas--called Wigilia in the old country--not as they had in Poland, but as they wished they had. Now more affluent, they emulated the Christmas of wealthy urban Poles, and added various American customs--hanging stockings, sending greeting cards and gift-giving, which "was unheard of in Poland," Pleck said.

U of I honors students with Library Awards

A group of University of Illinois students has been honored with Dads Association Library Awards. Chosen from among students recently completing their sophomore year, the award winners were among the top three students in their respective colleges or had maintained a 4.0 grade-point average.

The Dads Association comprises fathers of U. of I. students and promotes parent involvement in university activities and fund raising for student programs. Founded in 1922, the association is believed to be the first organization of its kind in the nation.

The winners from our area is Mark Wojdelski, of Burbank and Stephan Smetana, of Oak Lawn

Fr. Michael O'Connor OSA congratulates new St. Rita faculty member Michelle Faust.

St. Rita announces new faculty member

Fr. Michael O'Connor OSA, President of St. Rita High School, has recently announced the addition of the newest member of the St. Rita family. Ms. Michelle Faust has joined the St. Rita science department after having served on the faculty of Thornton Fractional South.

Faust will be teaching the science department with Physical Science, Biology and Earth Science being her classes in particular. Her background in education and her personal educational passions have always been on the scientific side of the fence.

"I have always loved math and science" Faust remarks. "There are people who follow the word and there are people who follow the number, and I have always been one who loved the precision of science and mathematics."

Peace student named commended student by national merit

Queen of Peace Principal Patricia Nolan Fitzgerald (left) and Assistant Principal Donna Kiel (right) congratulate Jane Davenport for being recognized as a Commended Student in the National Merit Scholarship Program.

Principal Patricia Nolan-Fitzgerald of Queen of Peace High School extends congratulation to Jane Davenport who has been named a Commended Student in the 1997 National Merit Scholarship Program.

As a Commended Student, Jane is counted among the top 5% of more than a million students who entered the 1997 Merit Program by taking the 1995 Preliminary SAT-National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test.

A Merit Program spokesperson commented, "The young men and women named Commended Students have demonstrated outstanding academic potential by their high performance in the extremely competitive Merit Program. In a nation that values excellence, it is important to publicly recognize the attainments of our scholastically talented young people and to credit schools for the important part they play in their development."

Jane will certainly benefit by this recognition for exceptional academic promise as she considers college options Presently Jane has narrowed her choices to Loyola University, St. Mary's at Notre Dame or Monmouth College; and she would like to pursue her interest in education. "I've had some extraordinary teachers at Queen of Peace," says Jane. "I'd like to someday teach high school English." She was particularly influenced by English teachers Ms. Jane Coffey and Ms. Elaine Andrysiak. "Ms. Andrysiak is great," says Jane, "She is both unique and authentic."

Jane not only excels in the classroom. She has gifted the Peace Community as a member of National Honor Society, Peace Ambassadors, Peace Theatre Company, Liturgical Choir, Kairos, and as Editor in Chief of the Peace Literary Magazine, Inside Out.

Jane has also been playing a musical instrument since fourth grade. She currently plays the tuba for the Queen of Peace- St. Laurence Marching Band, and the trombone for the Symphonic Band.

Beyond Peace, Jane shares her talent with St. Symphorosa's Parish as a Cantor and Lector. She is also a volunteer for the religious education program.

St. Laurence names new fitness facility

St. Laurence High School, located at 5556 W. 77th Street in Burbank, has completed construction on a 2,200 square foot Fitness Center that will be available to the entire student body this school year. The addition is being named in memory of Mr. Charles Grunhard.

Mr. Grunhard was the father of Tim ('86) and Dan ('82), both graduates of St. Laurence. In conjunction with the Grunhard Family, St. Laurence will remember Charles by naming and dedicating the building in his honor. The Grunhard family made a lead gift to the school for the Fitness Center.

Like many South Siders of his era, Mr. Charles Grunhard grew up in the South Shore community and graduated from South Shore High School. His son Tim, now the starting center for the NFL's Kansas City Chiefs, apparently received his aptitude from his father. Mr. Grunhard was the quarterback on South Shore's football team. Upon graduating from high school, Charles received a football scholarship to Illinois State University in Normal, Illinois.

After college, Mr. Gurnard joined the Army. He served in the 101st Airborne and then in the Military Police. When his military service was complete, Charles decided to join the Chicago Police Department. Mr. Grunhard was a detective in the Area 2 Violent Crimes Unit while serving the CPD for thirty years.

In 1990, Charles and Charlotte sold their house in Chicago and bought a house on a lake in Arkansas.

Tom Ondrla, Principal of St. Laurence, commented, "The Grunhard's have a special concern for St. Laurence. They still believe in the school and for what it stands. This (the Fitness Center) was their way of outwardly demonstrating that belief and concern, while at the same time honoring Mr. Grunhard. We can't thank the Grunhard family enough."

The school is still accepting donations. Anyone wishing to make a contribution to the Charles Grunhard Center should mail their check to: Charles Grunhard Fitness Center, c/o St. Laurence High School, 5556 W. 77th Street, Burbank, IL. 60459.

Register now for Moraine Valley's Spring Semester

Now is the time to register for spring classes at Moraine Valley Community College. The 17-week semester begins Tuesday, Jan. 21 and ends May 24.

Registration will run through the first week of classes. Classes are $42 per credit hour, plus fees and books. Many noncredit classes will also be offered; fees may vary.

Moraine Valley offers classes for those interested in transferring to four-year colleges and universities, earning associate degrees or certificates then entering the workforce, or updating or learning new skills.

Some of the college's courses are offered in different formats such as directed study, telecourses, and Weekend College. In addition, classes are held at a variety of sites throughout the college district.

Student can register in person by visiting the Admissions and Registration Office, located at 10900 S. 88th Ave., Palos Hills or by calling (708) 974-2110. (TTY/TDD for the hearing impaired 708-974-9556).

Benefit Increase for 1997

Social Security and Supplemental Security Income (SSI) benefits will increase 2.9 percent, beginning with the payments that Social Security beneficiaries receive January 3 and SSI recipients receive on December 31. The automatic cost-of-living adjustment is made annually. For Social Security beneficiaries, the average monthly benefit amount for all retired workers will rise from $724 to $745. The maximum federal SSI monthly payments to an individual will rise from $470 to $484. For a couple, the maximum federal SSI payment will rise from $705 to $726.

Oak Lawn Hotelier receives top honors

by Annette Dixon

Joan Geary, daughter of a railroad CEO, wife of a former bank president, makes her mark as Hotelier of the Year by the Hotel-Motel Association of Illinois.

Joan, a general manager of the Hilton since 1983 made her mark in Oak Lawn many years ago. She has been well recognized within her field for many years, but this is the first time the Association of Illinois honored her.

In fact it is the first time a manager of the southwest suburbs received such an honor.

Before the hotel became a Hilton, the hotel went bankrupt twice under other large named corporations.

With the general partnership of John Geary, Joan's husband, the Oak Lawn Hilton became an Oak Lawn landmark for business.

Joan has stated many times, she is thankful for the support the hotel received from local suburbanites each year. The Hilton remains a classy hotel regardless of the renovation taking place. Everyone knows the results will be exquisite because of the superb management from Joan Geary.

Oak Lawn recognition awards

Employee seniority recognition awards were given to the following:
Kenneth Dangman Sr., Police Dept. - 30 yrs., Terrence Grant, 25 yrs., James Martin, 25 yrs.; Bonita Wisniewski, 15 yrs.; Gregory Doyle, 10 yrs.; Ronald Stoklosa, 10 yrs..;
Fire Department-Lawrence Peterson, 25 years; Richard Reno, 25 years; Michael Champion, 20 years;
Public Works: Glen Maki, 20 yrs.; Daniel Sharwarko, 20 yrs.; Richard Jones, 15 yrs.; Daniel Laudadio, 15 yrs.; Donald McKenna, 10 yrs.
Administration: Joseph Faber, 10 yrs.

Zickus legislation brings professionals into classroom

In an effort to bring successful professionals from a variety of fields into the teaching profession, the Illinois House of Representatives approved legislation, sponsored by State Representative Anne Zickus, that reforms teaching certificate requirements to allow professionals an opportunity to teach in Chicago's Public School system.

"This is exciting legislation that will bring a wide range of experience and expertise into Chicago's public schools, " said Rep. Zickus (R-48, Palos Hills), "Chicago schools have some of the brightest, most dedicated teachers in the state. This legislation will work to improve an already excellent staff."

The program is a joint venture between the Chicago Public School system, the Golden Apple Foundation, Northwestern University and the Inner-City Teaching Corps.

The legislation allows the State Board of Education and the State Teacher Certification Board to establish and implement an alternative certification program under which persons who meet the requirements of and successfully complete the program shall be issued an alternative teaching certificate for teaching in schools in the City of Chicago. Applicants for the alternative certification will be required to successfully complete a course of study offered on an intensive basis in education theory, instructional methods, and practice teaching. Following the successful completion of the course study, a professional teaching certificate good for only one year is issued. After teaching for one year, the applicant's performance is graded by school officials and partnership participants. This group may recommend the applicant receive an alternative teaching certificate, granting the applicant full privileges of a certified teacher.

"Many professionals would like a change in occupation and many have expressed interest in teaching, only to be deterred by the lengthy and time-consuming certification process," said Rep. Zickus. "This legislation ensures our students are being taught by able, well-educated professionals while infusing our public school system with teachers who have a broad range of experience."

Rep. Zickus added that this legislation limits the application process to no more than 260 people and that this program in no way affects the status of current Chicago Public School teachers.

Some relief for Oakdale Flooding

by Carlene E. O'Connor

The flood problem may come into order at least a little at Oakdale. Village trustees were in a tie over purchasing the flood damaged Konopko home at the 5100 block of Harnew Road.

Mayor Kolb broke the tie in favor of the purchase. He said, "the house is actually shifting off the foundation, and it is going to collapse. It is a "no win situation."

Trustee Streit, Stancik and Joy also voted in favor of the purchase.

Future plans include knocking down the house and creating a retention pond for area residents. The house will be purchased at fair market value.

Follow your dream

by Carlene E. O'Connor

Children sing their hearts out at Moraine Valley Choir under the direction of Karyn Carbray Wolcott. They not only perform locally, but professionally as well.

These kids have appeared in Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat.

The Village View was happy to interview one of the members, Oak Lawn resident Shannon Bracken, age 14.

Shannon Bracken began singing in the 4th grade at the St. Linus Choir. She liked it so much she began taking private lessons. Her private voice lesson teacher, Karyn Carbray Wolcott led her to the Moraine Valley Choir.

Wolcott heard of the tryouts for "Joseph" through a newspaper ad and enlisted her group. They won the spot and became part of the cast.

When asked, what is it like singing with a big star like Donny Osmond, Bracken replied, "He is very nice and does not act like a star at all."

Joseph is a popular production and if people are interested there are performances, through January 5th.

Bracken really enjoys "Joseph" and if she could play any part in the whole world, she said, "I like to play a good part like the Narrator in Joseph."

As with most people her age Bracken wants to continue in school and with singing. She plans on going to a large university like Northwestern to study music.

Her motto in life is, "Have a dream, if it doesn't hurt anybody. Follow it, if its what you really want to do."

Mount Greenwood Bank customers "Cash In" on anniversary celebration

More than 2,500 customers of Mount Greenwood Bank, 3052 W. 111th Street, Chicago, are richer thanks to an anniversary celebration that offered them a unique chance to cash in on customer appreciation.

Celebrating 45 years as a neighborhood bank, Mount Greenwood Bank recently planted a money tree in the lobby and gave customers a chance to pick a prize from the bountiful branches when they stopped in to make a transaction. Envelopes held treasures ranging from cash to merchandise. The raffle grand prize, a 46" color television, was won by Jim Voris, a Chicago Fire Department arson investigator, lifelong resident of the Beverly Hills/Morgan Park community, and eight-year customer of Mount Greenwood Bank.

In all, nearly $3,000 and more than 400 prizes were picked off the money tree at the bank, making customers feel quite---well, appreciated.

"Making our customers feel good about banking here is the most important part of our service," said Helen Socha, Mount Greenwood Bank President. "After all, without their longtime and loyal patronage, we wouldn't be celebrating this noteworthy anniversary!"

OLCHS technology in action

On November 8, 1996, six teachers from Oak Lawn Community High School presented project featuring the use of technology in their curriculums at the Illinois Computer Educators Conference held in Addison Trails.

Joyce Icenogle, Department Chairperson of Business and Home Economics, and Barbara Whiteaker, teacher in the English Department, presented "Jurassic Park - Through Powerpoint." Their program describes a cross-curricular project used in the English and Science classes to analyze the scientific possibilities as depicted in the novel Jurassic Park, using technology capabilities of the Powerpoint presentation system.

Amy Arneson, Home Economics Department and Jane Surma, Health Education/ English Departments, related their experiences with computerized dolls used in the "Baby Think It Over" project in their departments. This project enables students to get firsthand exposure to the many responsibilities that come with being a parent.

Science teachers Scott Atkins and Sandy Tadych presented "A Science Video Portfolio" which involved student projects in science that utilized video and editing techniques.

Oak Lawn Community High School continues to develop its all-school goal of integrating technology throughout the curriculum as a major initiation in school Improvement.

NAFTA brings dangerous trucks into our nation

By U.S. Rep. William O. Lipinski

Imagine you are taking your family on a cross-country car trip, stopping along the way to see such great American treasures as Mt. Rushmore, the Grand Canyon or Old Faithful. As you are heading west through a majestic mountain pass along one of the Interstates that cut through the Rockies, a truck with two trailers suddenly looms in the rearview mirror. The rig, laden with jet fuel, is traveling too fast for the winding mountain highway. It gains quickly, and as it starts to pull around to pass, the behemoth seems to miss your rear fender by inches, narrowly averting pushing you and your family over the guard rail and down the mountainside.

As the truck whips back in front of your car, you collect yourself long enough to get a look at its rear license plate. "D.F. Mex" it says in green letters. The truck and its driver are from Mexico City.

This scenario could have become all too real under the terms of the North American Trade Agreement. Only a last minute decision in late 1995 by U.S. Transportation Secretary Frederico Pena prevented Mexican trucks free access to our roads. The Secretary delayed implementation of this provision of NAFTA, arguing that Mexican trucks would pose a safety hazard on American roads. He confined the trucks to small commercial zones in California, Arizona, New Mexico and Texas, where they must unload their cargoes at warehouses where American trucks retrieve the goods and complete the deliveries.

Mr. Pena was quite correct in stopping these trucks from hitting our roads. Mexican trucks and drivers are on the whole are inferior to our own rigs and truckers.

Their trucks tend to be older than ours and often don't meet our high safety standards. For instance, Mexican trucks are not required to have front brakes. The General Accounting Office (GAO) recently reported that more than half of the 217 Mexican trucks its investigators observed failed to meet US. safety requirements. The problems included substandard tires, inoperable brakes, broken suspensions and unsecured loads of hazardous materials.

Mexican truck drivers earn less than half of their American counterparts. In addition, few are trained in handling hazardous cargo and they are not required to keep logbooks or undergo random drug testing as American drivers are.

The threat of Mexican trucks on our roads is just another one of the countless problems that have arisen from NAFTA. This particular threat combines two of the major downsides of the trade pact: it imperils good-paying American jobs and the safety of all Americans, at least those who drive. I supported Secretary Pena's decision a year ago, and I continue to support keeping Mexican trucks off of our roads today.

It is no secret I have been an opponent of NAFTA since I voted against its enactment in 1993. I will continue to fight it, whether in individual components, such as NAFTA allowing these road hazards into our country, or in its entirety.

Ryan announces 'Graduate To Safety' Plan

Citing statistics showing that teenagers are more likely to die in car crashes than any other age group, Secretary of State George H. Ryan recently called for creation of a graduated driver licensing system in Illinois.

Ryan said his "Graduate to Safety" plan is designed to reduce teen highway deaths, get poorly trained young drivers off the road and into remedial training; and involve more parents in preparing their teenagers to drive responsibly.

"This is not an attempt to raise the driving age. This is not an attempt to take away driving privileges from teens," Ryan said.

"The teens who drive safely and responsibly will never experience any of the sanctions I am proposing," he added. "But those who do will be getting an important wake-up call that could save them from even more serious consequences."

Ryan's legislative package is based primarily on recommendations of his 18-member Graduated Drive Licensing Task Force, created last spring by the General Assembly at Ryan's request.

The proposal already has the backing of about 50 traffic safety, law enforcement, public activist and business groups.

• Give parents a greater role in preparing teenagers to be drivers by requiring a parent to certify that their child has completed 25 hours of behind-the-wheel driving practice outside of drivers education classes.

• Allow young drivers to get more supervised driving experience by requiring them to hold a learner's permit for at least three months before a license could be granted.

Ryan also is seeking to raise the minimum age of anyone supervising a practicing driver from 17 to 21.

Eleven states already have a three-step graduated drive licensing system in place: Florida, Kentucky, Michigan, California, Colorado, Maryland, Massachusetts, New York, Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Wisconsin.

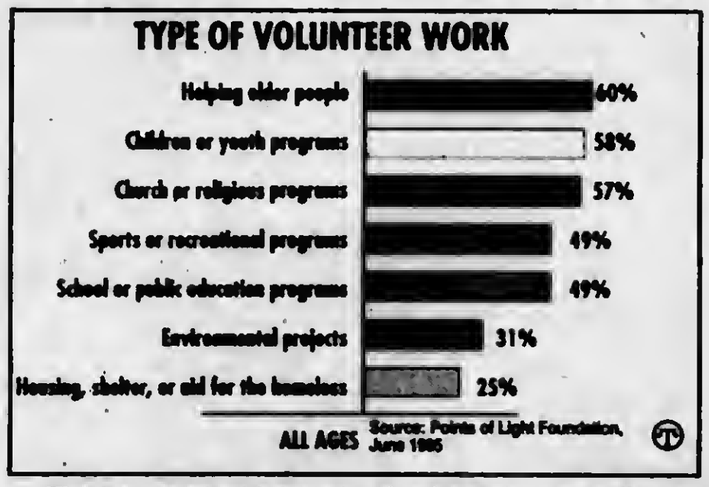
These systems have proven effective at reducing crash deaths and traffic convictions, with California reporting a 4 percent reduction in crashes and a 20 percent reduction in convictions.

Illinois is among four states--including New Jersey, Oregon and Vermont--that have two-step graduated systems, offering a learner's permit before full driving privileges are granted. Additionally, Illinois already has zero-tolerance and curfew laws for young drivers, which are typically key elements of a graduated driver licensing law.

Under Illinois law, drivers under age 18 cannot be licensed unless they have their parents' permission and have completed an approved drivers education course offering 30 hours of classroom instruction plus six hours of behind-the-wheel practice.

HOLIDAY HINTS

Helping Others And Helping Ourselves



The two greatest interests of volunteers, according to surveys seems to be working with the elderly and children.

Here are some suggestions to help you have a more rewarding family volunteering experience:

• Meet as a family and choose activities that interest everyone. For example, people who enjoy athletics can volunteer at a holiday bike race.

• Work with volunteering coordinators. They can help you find activities that fit in with the attention spans and abilities of younger and older family members.

• Know what to expect. That means everything from what to wear and how long you'll be there, to the type of environment you'll work in.

• Think and talk about the experience. You may even want to keep a family journal.

Volunteering can bring you closer to the community as well as to your family.

For more information on how to volunteer as a family, write to The Points of Light Foundation, 1737 H Street, NW, Washington, DC, 20006; or call The Points of Light Foundation at (202) 223-9186 ext. 209 or 110.

Peace teacher is "First Class"

The American Association of School Administrators recently recognized Queen of Peace teacher Michelle Drobitsch Henrichs for her excellent performance as a first-year teacher. Michelle received a Certificate of Commendation as the District Nominee in the Sallie Mae First Class Teacher Awards program. The award came as no surprise to Principal Nolan-Fitzgerald, who commented, "Queen of Peace students and faculty have been blessed to have Michelle Henrichs join our staff. She is an exceptionally talented young woman, a creative lesson designer, a skillful and enthusiastic instructor and a caring role model. We feel lucky to have her as a member of our Peace Community."

Queen of Peace Principal Nolan-Fitzgerald (left) gives teacher Michelle Henrichs a Certificate of Commendation from the Sallie Mae First Class Teacher Awards program.

Michelle, now in her second year at Queen of Peace, team teaches the interdisciplinary course Global Culture. This course is taught at the junior level, and combines the study of World History and Language Arts while emphasizing the interdependence of the varying cultures of our world.

"Queen of Peace provided me with an opportunity to learn and grow during the challenging first year of teaching," says Michelle. "This is a community where all ideas are welcome and appreciated, whether proposed by a veteran teacher or a novice. My colleagues supported me and encouraged me to take risks and try new strategies. Queen of Peace is a place where new ideas are encouraged while at the same time tradition is honored."

The Chicago Southland connects to the world

Now anyone anywhere in the world with a PC and a modem can see what the Chicago Southland area is all about. The Chicago Southland Convention and Visitors Bureau is now connected to the World Wide Web.

The World Wide Web site was created as part of the LincolnNet project. The LincolnNet is a comprehensive public information and communications network which serves the south suburbs of Chicago. The Chicago Southland homepage features 54 pages of information about the area and includes links for meeting planners, group tour planners and leisure visitors to explore the diversity of the Chicago Southland region.

In the meeting planners link, visitors can view area hotels and floor plans of various rooms within the hotel. The group tour link features special tour itineraries and maps of the area. The leisure visitor link features attractions, restaurants and other areas of interest to leisure travelers. The Chicago Southland CVB site also hyperlinks to some of the sites and attractions own home pages for even more in-depth information.

LincolnNet was created as a regional system to link residents, organizations, governments, libraries, schools and businesses together to share information and ideas. The project was in response to work done by the Regional Act Project/2000+, a grassroots process initiated by Governors State University and the South Suburban Mayors and Managers Association to identify critical social, economic and political issues facing the region and to establish a means to make progress on these issues.

The Chicago Southland Convention and Visitors Bureau is only one of several organizations and communities in the area associated with LincolnNet. The LincolnNet site includes homepages of local government, public and private schools and libraries as well as a regional calendar of events, a directory of web site links, area historical information and a forum for public interaction about current issues.

Visitors can access the Bureau's web page at http://www.LincolnNet.net/Chicago-Southland-CVB.

Why baby boomers can count on Social Security

By Rosalie Thompson, Social Security
District Manager in Evergreen Park

Are you a baby boomer? If you were born between 1946 and 1964, you are considered to be a member of the most written about age group in the history of the nation. It's a group whose huge size has stressed the social institutions of the country from kindergarten through college, the job market, and even the stock market.

Much has been written about how retiring baby boomers will cause the Social Security trust funds to run out of money, In 2008, 76 million baby boomers will start to retire. Right now the ratio of workers paying into the trust funds to beneficiaries drawing from the trust funds is three to one. Around the year 2030, it will be less than two to one. When the youngest boomers reach retirement age around 2029, the trust funds will need additional funding to pay benefits on time.

So if you are between 32 and 50 today and expect to retire sometime in the next century, should you include Social Security in your retirement plans? The answer is yes. There is widespread public support among Americans that Social Security must be preserved and protected for future generations, and the early warning provided by the Board of Trustees gives us time to make the adjustments necessary to assure the continuation of benefits.

Social Security Commissioner Shirley S. Chater makes a similar point in a recent speech:

"There is no crisis in Social Security. Many people don't believe in the future of Social Security because they think the program is going broke. That simply is not true.

In 1995, alone, the Old Age, Survivors and Disability Trust Fund took in $400 billion in income and paid out $340 billion. That added more than $60 billion to a trust fund balance that stood at nearly $500 billion at the end of the year.

By law, this money in the trust fund is invested in U.S. Treasury securities, the safest investment you can make. Just as you want your bank to invest your savings, Social Security invests its funds. In 1995, Social Security's investment in the United States securities earned $35 billion in interest alone. The trust funds are managed and accounted for by a Board of Trustees which provides an annual report to Congress. The Trustees, in their most recent report, said that the trust funds will continue to grow for the next 23 years, until 2019. At that point, we will have to begin drawing on trust fund assets. If there are no changes in the program whatsoever, in 2029, 33 years from now, there will no longer be assets remaining in the trust fund, so we will have to rely solely on income to pay benefits. At that point, we will still be able to fund about 77 percent of total expenditures.

This timetable tells us that, yes, we do have to take action to ensure our long-range solvency, but---with a current annual surplus in the tens of billions--no, we do not have an immediate crisis on our hands.

The real crisis will occur if we act in haste.

I cannot stress enough that we must not rush into debating these ideas without first putting into place a solid framework---Democratic and Republican, executive and legislative, that will be able to fairly represent all views and understand all concerns."

OUR NATURAL HERITAGE

By John Schwegman

Illinois' natural world is constantly changing as new species move in, some old ones die out and some animals change their habits. Of course massive human induced changes such as land clearing and draining and urban development are going on, but this column is about more subtle changes brought about by plants and animals themselves.

The most conspicuous changes going on are those involving natural vegetation where whole communities are taking on a different character.

Our oak woods are changing to sugar maple forests and our hill prairies are converting from prairie grasses to shrubs and trees due to a lack of fire. Widespread landscape fires that maintained these communities in the past are not compatible in much of our modern landscape.

Many bulrush and sedge marshes in northeastern Illinois are changing to cattail marshes because of increased nutrients and fertility in their water. Others are being invaded by the introduced exotic purple loosestrife plant and reed canary grass which replace the native sedges and flowers.

Whole forests are changing their character as their native wildflowers are replaced by exotic plants like garlic mustard and dame's rocket. Prairies are being overrun by the exotic sweet clover plant.

Conservation biologists are working to control these changes in managed natural areas, but the overall landscape continues its face change.

At the species level, exotic animals like the zebra mussel are changing the nature of our rivers and Lake Michigan a major way. Because of their massive numbers, they lower the oxygen levels in the water and their filter-feeding consumes much of the microscopic food needed by hatchling fishes and other creatures.

Brother Rice Alum returns to talk numbers

Anthony DiMiele (left) of Oak Lawn, a 1994 graduate of Brother Rice High School, addresses students in Rich Marfise's Honors Accounting class. DiMiele is a junior majoring in Accounting at Northern Illinois University, DeKalb. He is a member of the Beta Alpha Psi accounting fraternity at the school and is in Northern's Golden D National Honor Society. DiMiele returned to explain to the Brother Rice students the options they have with an accounting degree. He told the students about the various employment opportunities for accountants.

The lecture was part of a series of guest speakers brought in by Mr. Marfise to help students become more aware of their options in determining their employment future and in further understanding the business community as a whole. DiMiele gave the students helpful information regarding what they can expect in college and what courses will be most beneficial to them.

Norris Theatre presents family concert and a tribute to Harry Chapin

Enjoy a night of Chapin music with Tom Chapin and The Steve Chapin Band. Relive the '70s with the music of the late Harry Chapin as his brothers pay tribute with songs like "Cat's in the Cradle", "Taxi" and "Mr. Tanner"

The Norris Theatre, presents Chapin & Chapin with a Tribute to Harry on Friday, January 10, 1997, at 8 p.m.

Tom Chapin's adult concerts and recordings are sparked by strong, intelligent song writing with clear, engaging vocals and the intricate, melodic guitar work that has become his trademark. He has recorded three albums of adult-oriented material: Life is Like That (1976), In the City of Mercy (1982), Let Me Back Into Your Life (1986), and So Nice To Come Home (1994).

After years of writing and performing, Steve rocketed into the limelight when he joined his brother Harry as his "featured performer", music director, arranger and producer in the '70s. Always a favorite with audiences, Steve continues to recapture the legions of fans across the country. His songs "Let Time Go Lightly" and "Life Is The Game" are among the most requested songs.

After his brother Harry's untimely death, Steve turned his considerable talents to composing and arranging in film and theatre as well as continuing his endeavors as a record producer. He produced "Harry Chapin Tribute" (the live album of the historic Carnegie Hall concert commemorating the awarding of the Special Congressional Gold Medal to Harry featuring Bruce Springstein, Pat Benatar, Judy Collins and Steve among others on CBS's Relativity Records. Steve released his first solo album "Chapter 11 Rag", reunited the band, and began touring again to overwhelming response and critical acclaim.

Tickets are $17 for adults, $15 for children and seniors, and $14 for groups.

On Saturday, January 11, at 11 a.m., Tom Chapin will host a concert aimed at families.

Tom Chapin has gained widespread acclaim for his recordings aimed at 4 to 11 year-olds and their families. He combines well-known melodies with words that tickle kids' funny bones. The songs are full of ideas, yet while many impart a message, the overall tone remains light and fun. Teachers throughout North America have incorporated his songs into their curriculum, finding them accessible and adaptable to classroom study and interaction.

Tickets are $8 for adults, $7 for children and seniors and $6 for groups.

Both performances can be purchased by calling Norris Theatre Box Office at 630-584-7200.

Ear infections can result in hearing loss

This is the season for colds, flu and ear infections. For children such an illness can result in a hearing loss.

If a child's hearing loss goes undiagnosed and untreated, the problem usually doesn't end there. Long-term complications can include speech difficulties and a loss of learning capabilities.

The Sertoma Speech and Hearing Center specializes in the diagnosis and treatment of children with hearing and speech problems.

If you suspect a hearing loss, call 708-599-9500.

Spyro Gyra to perform at Moraine Valley

Contemporary jazz group Spyro Gyra will perform at Moraine Valley Community College on Friday, January 17.

The performance will take place at 8 p.m. in the Dorothy Menker Theater, in the Fine and Performing Arts Center, on the campus, 10900 S. 88th Ave., Palos Hills.

Spyro Gyra, a force in the creation of the smooth jazz that became popular in the 1980s and 90s, has influenced an entire generation of young contemporary jazz musicians.

Tickets are $21.25 for adults, and $19.25 for seniors, students, and alumni. To order tickets, call 708-974-5500, or visit Moraine Valley's Box Office.

"First Night" at Navy Pier rings in the New Year with family fun

"First Night Chicago '97" at Navy Pier rings in the New Year with a spirited, family-focused community celebration of the arts Tuesday, December 31, 1996. Chicago's number one visitor attraction offers "First Night Chicago '97" activities for families ranging from mask making to animation workshops, line dance instruction and performances by Chicago's top performing artists.

This New Year's celebration begins with a "First Night Procession" in Gateway Park at 5 p.m. and continues as guests walk along Dock Street to Festival Hall. Festivities will culminate at midnight with a musical countdown and choreographed fireworks show off of Dock Street.

All activities are open to anyone purchasing a "First Night" souvenir button for $10. Navy Pier's Grandroom also will be in full swing New Year's Eve with a special ticketed musical concert event.

For more information, please call 1-800-595-PIER.

Motorists reminded of December sticker deadline

Passenger car and B-truck owners who have license plates expiring in December can purchase renewal stickers with a touch tone telephone and a credit card, Secretary of State George H. Ryan said. "Touch-Tone Renewal" allows all motorists receiving preprinted renewals to order stickers conveniently, 24 hours a day, seven days a week. Look for instructions in the registration packet. If there are any questions, call 1-800-252-8980.

Ryan also said passenger car and B-truck owners can buy their December renewal stickers at one of 115 Secretary of State license facilities around the state or at a financial institution that sells stickers. It is now too late to mail applications and guarantee delivery of stickers before the Dec. 31 expiration date.

December 1997 stickers may be purchased at these facilities: Bridgeview, Ford City and Orland Park.

Stickers also may be purchased at 2,406 financial institutions statewide for a slight additional fee.

The new, white on green sticker is attached to the back of the ID card. To protect your sticker from theft, remove as many old stickers as possible before placing the new sticker on the rear plate.

Preprinted renewal applications have been mailed to 484,724 passenger car and B-truck owners who renew their registrations in December.

They're going home for the holidays

The Suburban Area Agency on Aging, Oak Park and Southwest Airlines are pleased to announce the winners of the Fifth Annual "Home for the Holidays" contest. Through the generosity of Southwest, ten lucky suburban Cook County senior citizens were selected by the Area Agency and awarded free round trip tickets to reunite with loved ones they haven't seen in years. Recently, at an awards ceremony in the Renaissance Court, City of Chicago Cultural Center, 78 E. Washington Boulevard, Chicago, Jonathan Lavin, Suburban Area Agency on Aging Executive Director, and Karen Frank, Area Agency Housing Specialist, were on hand to present the winners with their tickets.

One of the many happy winners is Grace M. Char of Oak Lawn. Grace went to Fort Lauderdale, Florida to visit her cousin, whom she hasn't seen in five years.

Mt. Greenwood Log

By Robert Workman

As the snow lightly falls outside my window tonight, I can see reflected in the flakes the multicolors of the holiday decorations of our community. And with Christmas only a few days away the snow fall only adds to the peaceful scene of decorations and holiday cheer, that can be found everywhere in Mt. Greenwood tonight. May this holiday be as bright and merry for all of my readers and may you all have a safe and happy New Year as well.

Viking lose second half, lose game

By Ed Kozak

December 10th turned out to be a mixed bag of weather; a nice, mild day followed by a cold, misty, windy night, and the St. Laurence Basketball Team performed similarly that evening, running hot and cold in their game against St. Francis De Sales. Played in the friendly confines of the Viking den.

In the first half, the Vikings came out prepared and ready. Running a clinic-like offense and sound fundamental defense, led by Joe Heenan's seven points, the Vikes eased out to a 18-12 end-of-the-first quarter lead. The second quarter saw more of the same as St. Laurence saw its lead swell to 30-17. High scorers at the break were Viking teammates Eddie Barrera and Jason Gustafson with 10 a piece, and the visitors from the southeast side looked out of sync playing without All-state candidate Sean Lampley who's out with a foot injury.

Alas, the 13-point halftime spread was as large a lead as the boys from Burbank could muster, as the Pioneers arsenal proved too loaded. The third quarter saw St. Laurence outscored 22-11. The visitors comeback was spurred on by an inspired Jimmy Mack, St. Francis' quick junior guard. An 18-6 run to begin 2nd half play all but erased the lead, and the Pioneers full court press proved more than the hosts could handle, causing many turnovers and a number of easy baskets.

The fourth period proved to be a tense, close affair, but when St. Francis went into a delay game with a 3-point lead with four minutes to go, it was lights out for Laurence, as the deficit for the black and gold ballooned to eleven points. When the final horn sounded the Vikings had been outscored 47-27 in the second half, and the final ledger read Pioneers 64, Vikings 57. High scorer for the Vikes was Barrera, who finished with 20.

When asked about his teams second-half turnaround, Coach Larry Moore of St. Francis said, "I asked them to step up their defense at halftime, and they responded. The players really fed off Jimmy Mack's intensity."

The loss pushed St. Laurence's record to 1-4, while De Sales improved to .500 at 3-3. St. Laurence now looks forward to its traditional holiday tourney - The Rich South Big Dipper Tournament. Its next home game is slated for January 7th vs. St. Martin De Porres.

WinterBreak Chicago Festival offers cabin fever relief

Daley.

Automobile enthusiasts will enjoy the unveiling of hot new cars at the 89th Annual Chicago Auto Show (Feb. 8-16) at McCormick Place, 2301 S. Lake Shore Dr.

Chicago's 4th annual WinterBreak Festival will begin on Thursday, Feb. 6 at 5:30 p.m. with the WinterBreak Opening Icebreaker at the Chicago Cultural Center in Preston Bradley Hall, 78 E. Washington Street. The WinterBreak Opening IceBreaker will celebrate Chicago's cultural diversity with an exciting mix of entertainment and live fashion presentation from the city's outstanding ethnic museum collections.

Kid's Day (Sat., Feb. 8) at Navy Pier will feature an "Imagination Celebration" with activities, workshops and entertainment for children of all ages. Other family attractions during WinterBreak will include a County Fair at Navy Pier (Feb. 14-23), "Celestial Sweethearts," an opportunity to create your own valentine with astronomy images at the Adler Planetarium (Feb. 8-9) and Walt Disney's World On Ice Presents "Toy Story" (Jan. 28-Feb. 9) at the United Center.

The popular WinterBreak Blues Weekend will return (Feb. 6-10) with an after work blues performance at the DePaul Center Music Mart (Thurs., Feb. 6) and a concert at the new House of Blues showcasing Chicago artists on Sun., Feb. 9.

Sporting events will include the WinterBreak Speed Skating Classic at Sears Skate on State (Sunday, February 16 at 10 a.m.); the Fast Break 3 on 3 Basketball Tournament at Navy Pier in Festival Hall (February 8-9) and the WinterBreak Co-ed Volleyball Tournament (February 15).

The WinterBreak Valentine's Weekend Jazz Concert (Friday, February 14) in the ballroom at Navy Pier and The Chicago Music Fanfare and Entertainment Expo will also take place at Navy Pier on February 14, noon - 8 p.m.

Call the Special Events Hot Line 312/744-3370 for a complete listing of WinterBreak attractions. For further information, call the Mayor's Office of Special Events at 312/744-3315, TT/TDD 312/744-2964. WinterBreak listings will also be available on the web at: www.ci.chi.il.us/WM/SpecialEvents.

Ride in style with the WinterBreak Trolley

The WinterBreak Trolley will provide visitors with free rides around the city during WinterBreak Chicago (Feb. 6-16), leaving them to explore the activities and events hosted by cultural institutions, hotels, retailers, restaurants, musical arenas and theatres.

The WinterBreak Trolley will operate during the two weekends of the festival, Sat., Feb. 8 and Sun., Feb. 9 and Sat., Feb. 15 and Sun., Feb. 16. There will be four routes making stops at key locations throughout the city.

The South Express/Auto Show Route will have trolleys departing from Union Station and McCormick Place, running every 25 minutes on Saturday from 10 a.m. - 11 p.m. and Sunday from noon - 10 p.m. Other stops include Northwestern Station, the Chicago Cultural Center, and the corner of Monroe and Michigan.

A trolley for the Cultural South Route will depart Sears Skate on State every hour on the hour on Sat. from 10 a.m. - 5 p.m. and Sun. from noon - 6 p.m. Other stops include the Art Institute of Chicago, Field Museum, Adler Planetarium, Shedd Aquarium, Museum of Science and Industry, Auto Show, University of Chicago and DuSable Museum of African American History.

The Cultural North Route trolley will depart Navy Pier every hour on the hour, then travel to McCormick Place and Sears Skate on State before returning to Navy Pier. This route will operate on Sat. from 10 a.m. - 11 p.m. and Sun. from noon - 10 p.m.

A special Shoppers' Route will also be featured this year. The shoppers trolley will depart Water Tower every hour on the hour, making stops at 900 North Michigan, Chicago Place, the corner of Michigan and Randolph (in front of the Cultural Center) before returning to Chicago Place and Water Tower. This route will operate on Sat. from 10 a.m. - 7 p.m. and Sun. from noon - 6 p.m.

For more information about the routes call the Mayor's Office of Special Events hot-line at (312) 744-3370. The TTY number is (312) 744-2964.

A Bullish Day for the Banner Auction

Mayor Daley's "Sharing It" Banner Auction series, held recently in Daley Plaza, raised more than $33,000 for the Chicago Anti-Hunger Federation, an organization dedicated to feeding Chicago's hungry. Bestselling banners included those honoring the Chicago Bulls 72 victories and their 1996 World Championship.

St. Rita hosts most exciting academic competition

Winners of the 12th Annual "It's Academic" competition were St. Gerald of Oak Lawn.

"What planet is best known as the Morning and Evening Star? What was the city of gold sought by Spanish Explorers?" These were just a couple of the hundreds of questions as St. Rita High School welcomed over 100 students representing some 22 grammar schools for its 12th Annual "It's Academic" competition.

The students were set in individual and team competition on the campus of St. Rita High School. For the individual events the teams were required to assign one of their four members to each discipline of individual testing: Math, Science, Social Studies and English. For team competition the announcers were brought in with a panel of judges and the games began with a bracket style tournament being drawn out of a hat to determine the order of team competition. With buzzers in hand the teams then went through an intense competition with St. Gerald coming out on top of Lenart Gifted Center in a thrilling double tie-breaker showdown.

When the smoke cleared in the team competition St. Gerald was on top with Lenart Gifted Center taking second and Queen of Martyrs capturing third place. Members of the winning teams were: In first place was St. Gerald with Kyle Altenberg, Dan Kirkpatrick, Kyle Shinnick, Ryan Sullivan. From Lenart Gifted Center who took second place had Brian Lipinski, Robert Cafarelli, Ifeanyi Aguanunu, Mike Conley. Claiming third place was Queen of Martyrs with team members Tony Murray, Steve Wolf, Bob Schmit and Pat Donovan.

Little Company receives approval for cancer care

Little Company of Mary Hospital's Regional Cancer Center just received four-year cancer program approval for its dedication to providing the best in diagnosis and treatment of cancer.

Established by the American College of Surgeons in 1932, the Approvals Program encourages participants to equip and staff themselves so that they are able to provide the best in diagnosis and treatment of cancer. Recognizing that cancer is a complex group of diseases, the program promotes consultation among surgeons, medical oncologists, radiation oncologists, diagnostic radiologists, pathologist, nurses, social workers, dietitians, therapists, and other cancer specialists. This multidisciplinary cooperation results in improved patient care.

"We have a proactive cancer team who work very hard to ensure the success of our cancer program. Without them, we would not have realized this goal. A successful cancer program takes many hours of planning, implementing and assessing all cancer activities to ensure that our patients receive the best of care," says Pat Murphy, RN, Little Company's Director of Oncology.

The American Cancer Society estimates that 1,359,150 cases of cancer will be diagnosed in the United States during 1996. Slightly more than one-fifth of the country's hospitals have approved cancer programs, and more than 80 percent of patients who are newly diagnosed with cancer are treated in these hospitals.

An integral part of a cancer program is the tumor registry. All patients who are diagnosed or treated for cancer are listed in the registry so that the institution can maintain contact with them and make sure that they receive continuing care and assistance with rehabilitation.

In addition, several Patient Care Evaluation (PCE) studies were designed and completed that used supplementary medical information gathered for evaluating special issues of cancer management concern for cancers of the cervix, colon and prostate.

The Commission is composed of Fellows of the College as well as other members representing 34 cancer-related organizations. It sets standard for approval of cancer programs and reviews these programs for conformity to these standards. Postgraduate courses, symposia, and programs about cancer are developed by the Commission.

The Commission also develops national patient care evaluation studies for specific cancer sites. Results of these studies are used by cancer committees to monitor patient care.

Marist takes second in Engineering Design Competition

Marist High School won first place in the Toothpick Bridge event and second place overall in the World Youth in Science and Engineering Design Competition recently held at the University of Illinois in Urbana-Champaign.

A team of Marist seniors, Bill Plummer, of Palos Heights, Brian Pokshiva, of Tinley Park, and Dave Price, of Oak Lawn, designed a 20-gram toothpick bridge which held 180 pounds and had a load efficiency of 4300, almost twice the amount of the second place bridge. The senior team also took third place in the Launch 'Em event in which students built a device that would launch tennis balls at a target 4 meters way; 4th place in the Tractor Pull event that required constructing a vehicle powered only by a mousetrap that would pull a variable mass; and 7th place in the Taxi Text in which students build a vehicle powered by propellers using rubber bands that had to traverse a 4-meter course in the fastest possible time.

A junior Marist team, Pat Burke, of Oak Lawn, and Phil Mazurek and Brandon Hartman, of Chicago, placed 4th in the Taxi Test.

Four-hundred high school students participated in the four-event contest hosted by Olivet Nazarene University in Kankakee. Seventeen Marist students entered the competition, coached by teacher Jim Johns.

They may kill out native mussels by attaching to them is such numbers that they smother them.

Newly introduced fish, like the round goby of Lake Michigan and the bighead carp in the Mississippi River, may eventually trigger big changes in these aquatic habitats. The 2-inch long Chinese mystery snail that has recently established itself in the Illinois River drainage and Lake Michigan is quite a change in nature just by its presence. Its impact on native snails may cause further changes.

That pink-tinged "sparrow" that shows up at your bird feeder now is the house finch of southwestern American deserts that has managed to get across the great plains and has now spread widely in the east.

The appearance of the striped mullet in the Mississippi and Ohio River waters of Illinois in the last seven years represents another change in range for a native species. Normally a fish of coastal salty waters, for some reason this fish has decided to more into fresh waters up the Mississippi Rive. Since it reaches 3 feet in length, it will obviously be a conspicuous addition to our fauna.

The changes in nature include behavior changes as well. One of the most noticeable of these is the foraging of gulls on parking lots in the last few years. Gulls have learned that discarded french fries and other food items can be found on these lots and now soar over them searching for food as they once searched our rivers and lakes.

Someone familiar with the natural scene in Illinois just 40 years ago would be amazed to see the changes that have occurred in nature since that time. Most of this change is due to human activities like the introduction of species, habitat alterations and possibly global warming. One thin seems sure; the changing face of nature will continue to change.

About 10 years ago, wild American holly trees began appearing in southern Illinois forests. While this native tree of the south had been cultivated in the area for probably a century, it has escaped to establish wild populations only in the past decade. Speculation would indicate that a warming climate might be the cause of this change.

Skate on State celebrates WinterBreak Festival

Sears Skate on State will host a multitude of unique programs and parties during the fourth annual WinterBreak Chicago Festival Feb. 6-16, 1997 announced James E. Sheahan, Executive Director of the Mayor's Office of Special Events.

"Sears Skate on State offers something for everyone - free-skating, daily performances by top local skaters, a Valentine's Day wedding, a singles party and much more!", said Sheahan.

The highlight of the winter fun is the fourth annual Valentine's Day Southwest Airlines Wedding on Ice at noon. One lucky couple from the Chicagoland area will receive a complete wedding and be married on Feb. 14th at the rink. Prizes include a reception and wedding suite at the Executive Plaza Hotel, tuxedos from Desmonds, rings from James & Sons, rehearsal dinner at Connie's Pizza, a wedding cake from the Palmer House, a photographer, music and much more. The highlight of the wedding is a honeymoon vacation to Orlando, Florida courtesy of Southwest Airlines and Thrifty Car Rental.

A Singles Skating Party is scheduled for Saturday, Feb. 8th from 7 until 9 p.m. The event will offer music, prizes and games.

Sears Skate on State will showcase some of Chicago's top skaters during its IceBreaker performances. Local soloists, pairs and precision teams will be highlighted everyday at 11:30 a.m.

Grab your skates and for the WinterBreak Speedskating Classic, a speedskating competition for novice skaters on Sunday, Feb. 16. The speed skating competition is open to anyone with skates. Skaters aged 5 to 70 years old invited to register for the event and enjoy two sprint races around the 111.12 meter track. Participants will be categorized according to age and experience level.

For more information on WinterBreak or Sears Skate on State, call the Mayor's Office of Special Events Hotline at 312/744-3370, TDD 312/744-3370. The Internet Access Code is http://www.ci.chi.il.us.

A "Circle of Friends" Skate on State opens its doors to the public

Formation State, a competitive ice-skating team of 6-9 year old girls, helped kickoff the opening of Sears Skate on State.

Sheriff Sheahan sponsors Senior Citizen Law Enforcement Academy

Cook County Sheriff Michael F. Sheahan invites Cook County senior citizens interested in lay enforcement and crime awareness issues to host a Senior Citizen Law Enforcement Academy for their senior citizen group or facility.

The Sheriff's Office is introducing the program in an attempt to bring senior citizens and law enforcement officials closer together. Participants will gain a better understanding of the responsibilities and duties of law enforcement officials as well as receive advice on personal safety and crime prevention.

Sheahan's top staff members will conduct the eight-session academy. Each speaker provides pertinent information on an array of topics, including law enforcement agency operations, crimes against seniors, and gang and drug awareness, understanding the criminal justice system and functions of the Cook County Jail and Courts.

The Senior Citizen Academy is offered free of charge to all Cook County senior citizens. Upon completion of this program, seniors may choose to organize advisory boards or participate in neighborhood watches within their neighborhood.

The Sheriff's Office is working with senior organizations throughout Cook County to offer this program to seniors in all communities. For further information, call the Sheriff's Office at 312/890-7725.

Responsible operation key to safe and enjoyable snowmobile season

With the arrival of winter weather in Illinois, Department of Natural Resources Director Brent Manning is reminding operators to use common sense when snowmobiling this season.

Last season, 36 snowmobile accidents resulted in 23 injuries and five fatalities in Illinois. Alcohol was a factor in two of the five snowmobile deaths. Other contributing factors were excessive speed and poor visibility. During the 1994-95 season, 52 snowmobile accidents and four fatalities were reported.

A new snowmobile DUI law now in effect follows testing and intoxication standard enforced for motorists and boaters. If stopped by a police officer, the law establishes "implied consent" by the snowmobile operator to submit to chemical testing to determine the presence of alcohol or drugs. Individuals refusing to submit to testing by an officer will have their operating privileges suspended for at least two years. Convictions can result in fines and jail time.

"The majority of snowmobile accidents are avoidable," said Tom Wakolbinger, Deputy Chief of the Illinois Conservation Police. "Operators should stay on marked trails, roads or areas open to snowmobiles and stay away from unfamiliar ground, especially at night."

Wakolbinger said the majority of accidents occur as the result of collisions with fixed objects such as trees, fences, stumps, rocks, logs and other objects hidden or obscured by the snow.

The Department of Natural Resources in cooperation with various snowmobile clubs, park districts, schools and other groups offers snowmobile safety education courses.

Safety courses are required of youths age 12-16 who want to operate a snowmobile alone. Children ages 10 and 11 may operate a snowmobile only if they are accompanied on the sled by an adult. Children under the age of 10 are prohibited from operating a snowmobile, even if under the direct supervision of an adult.

For information on safety education classes in your area, contact the DNR Safety Education Section Springfield Office 1/800-832-2599.

POWERFUL PRAYER TO THE HOLY SPIRIT
Holy Spirit, You Who solves all problems, Who lights all roads so that I can attain my goal. You Who gives me the divine gift to forgive and to forget all evil against me and that in all instances of my life You are with me. I want in this short prayer to thank You for all things and to confirm once again that I never want to be separated from You even and in spite of all material illusion. I wish to be with You in eternal glory. Thank You for Your mercy toward me and mine.
The person must say this prayer for 3 consecutive days. After 3 days the favor requested will be granted even if it may appear difficult. This prayer must be published immediately after the favor is granted without mentioning the favor, only your initials should appear at the bottom.
